> □bet□, but notice, that [e] in □bet□ is lax; whenever the tense [e] is > pronounced in English, it glides and sounds like [ei]). The same is true for > [o]: Avoid pronouncing it as [ow] (as in □rope□, □bone□); just stay with > [o], as in □awe□, □law□, etc., but make it a bit shorter (and don□t > open your mouth as much as is required by □awe□; that□s suitable for the > Classic omega; Modern Greek [o] is a bit more closed).

> 2. If you know Spanish, or Italian, or Japanese(7), there is a one-to-one > correspondence between the five vowel sounds in these languages and Greek. Trust > your knowledge then, and use it.
> 3. Greek words often end in [s] (sigma), and when English speakers hear > Greeks pronouncing such endings they think they hear [sh]. (For an explanation > read the comments of the letter sigma, in the table.) If you can□t reproduce > the Greek sigma exactly, simply approximate it with English □s□, as in > □boss□. Remember, there is no [sh] in Greek (except in the dialect of Crete, > to be accurate), and that□s why hearing [sh] sounds very foreign to the Greek > ear.
>
> So, sounds simple. Is there anything else about vowels?
>
> Not in pronunciation. In writing, however, there is. There are three so-called > □diphthongs□, which are not diphthongs anymore, but digraphs. (A diphthong > is a long vowel with more than one parts, each of which has a different quality, > such as the ou in □loud□, or the oy in □boy□; a digraph is two letters > which, when put together, are read as one unit, such as the th in □think□, > or the ph in □graph□.) Here are the Greek digraphs of vowels:
> Digraph Modern Greek pronunciation Classic Greek Pronunciation (Attic)
> Exactly like ε (epsilon, 5th letter, see above) [ai], as in □buy□.
> Evidence
> Exactly like ι (iota, 9th letter, see above) [ei], as in □bay□. Evidence > Exactly like ι (iota, 9th letter, see above) [oi], as in □boy□. Evidence > Exactly like ι (iota, 9th letter, see above; also read comment below) ~[yui].
> Evidence
> [u], already explained in a previous paragraph As in Modern Greek > [av] if the following sound is voiced, and [af] if the following sound is > unvoiced [au], as in □loud□. Evidence > [ev] if the following sound is voiced, and [ef] if the following sound is > unvoiced [eu]. Evidence > [iv] if the following sound is voiced, and [if] if the following sound is > unvoiced ~[e:u]. Evidence
>
> Thus, Archimedes□s famous □eureka!□ (εύρηκα) in Modern Greek is > pronounced as [evrika] (with the stress on epsilon); but in ancient Greek it > should be [eure:ka] (again with the stress on the first vowel of the diphthong, > i.e., the [e]). The digraph ηϽ (eta + upsilon) is extremely rare in Modern > Greek; it appears in three verb-forms only: εϽηύρα [efivra] (=□I > invented□), αϽηύδηϽα [apivthisa] (=□I got fed up□), and > αϽηύθϽνα [apifthina] (=□I directed my speech to sb.□); it was much > more common in ancient Greek, though. Also, the digraph Ͻι (upsilon + iota) > appears only in a very small number of Modern Greek words: ϽιϽϽ [ios] > (=□son□, but this form is obsolete; the modern one is γιοϽ), and its > derivatives: ϽιοθεϽϽ (=□adopt□), ϽιοθεϽία (=□adoption□), > ϽιικϽϽ (=□filial□) and a few rare ones, such as άρϽϽια (~a > mythological creature), καθεϽϽηκϽία (=□established, prevailing□ > [fem.]), etc.

>
> If you want to know the reason why these weird-looking combinations of letters > exist, once again, blame ancient Greek, in which these were true diphthongs.
> When later the vowel space was flattened to its present five members, and no > long vowels existed anymore, the diphthongs were transformed as the table above > shows.
>
> Does that mean that the sound [ai] (as in □buy□), for example, can never > occur in Modern Greek, because if written as αι it would be pronounced [e]?
>
> It is possible to have the letters alpha and iota next to each other and > producing the sound [ai], but then we need to show this in writing. We do this > by putting a pair of dots, the diaeresis, over the iota, like this: αϽ, as in > the word ϽαϽδάκι [paithaki] (=□rib steak□). It is even possible to > have the stress together with the diaeresis over the iota: Ͻαΐδι [paithi] > (=□rib□). The diaeresis can □dismiss□ any of the vowel-digraphs: αϽ, > εϽ, οϽ, ϽϽ, οϽ, αϽ, and εϽ (ηϽ does not occur in Modern Greek), in > which case the two constituent vowels are pronounced separately. More about the > diaeresis in my text on accent marks.
>
> What are those short straight lines placed over some vowels in Greek texts?
>
> That□s the stress. It shows which syllable should be pronounced slightly > higher in pitch than the rest. I suggest that you visit this page of mine to > learn all the details about how to place accent marks to show the stress in > Greek. But if you want only a brief description, perhaps the following two > paragraphs would suffice.
>
> * In Modern Greek, the accent mark is placed only in lowercase writing, and > only over the vowel of the stressed syllable. If the vowel is written with a > digraph (see above), the accent mark is placed over the second letter of the > pair. Monosyllabic words are not shown with stress, since the information would > be redundant. In Greek (of all times), only one of the last three syllables of a > word can be stressed. Native Greek speakers □internalize□ this rule (they > also learn it explicitly at school), and tend to apply it even to languages that > allow placement of stress on any syllable, such as English. (For example, the > word difficulty is often pronounced [dee-`fee-kal-tee] by Greeks who start > learning English as a second language.)
> * In Classic Greek there were no lowercase letters, only capitals. So there > were no accent marks over the letters. Later, during the Hellenistic times (last > three centuries BC) lowercase letters were introduced, and along with them, the > accent marks. However, the situation was quite complex, because there were three > marks for the stress, and two □aspiration marks□, placed over the initial > vowel of a word, if any. One of the latter two (the □rough breathing mark□, > written like a tiny □c□) stood in place of the by-then-obsolete initial > letter H, and was pronounced like English [h] (in Classic times this letter was > actually written). So, words like □history□, □hydrogen□, □hour□, > □Hellenic□, and many others, passed into English (filtered first through > Latin) with the initial □h□ written and pronounced, while the corresponding > Greek words were written with the rough breathing mark over the initial vowel.

> Later, even the pronunciation of this mark was dropped, so one had to learn what > breathing mark to put over the initial vowel without having any clue from > pronunciation. This situation lasted until fairly recently (as a child, I had to > learn those orthographic rules, too). In 1982 all breathing marks were > officially dropped, and the three types of stress marks were reduced to one and > even that one is used only on polysyllabic words.
>
> Do Greek letters have some inherent meaning?(8) What are the dictionary > definitions of words like □alpha□, □beta□, etc.?
>
> No, there is no meaning in Greek letters. You are probably thinking of Chinese > ideograms, or ancient Egyptian hieroglyphs, which are symbols with some > associated meaning. Alpha, beta, gamma, delta, etc., bear no more meaning in > Greek than a, bee, cee, dee, etc., bear in English. Their names are just a bit > longer, that□s all, that□s why they might look like meanigful words. Now, > there is an English letter the name of which can be said to have some meaning, > however trivial: it□s w, which we pronounce □double-u□. The name of this > letter is derived from ancient forms of it, when it was written as two U□s, > joined like this: UU. Similarly, there are a handful of Greek letters that can > be said to have such trivial meanings, associated always with their > pronunciation: epsilon (εϽιλον) is really e-psilon, meaning □light e□, > or □bare e□, or □mere e□, a name introduced in Byzantine times, to > distinguish it from the other [e], the digraph alpha-iota (see above). In > ancient (e.g., classical) times this distinction was unnecessary, because ε and > αι had completely different sounds, so the name of this letter was simply ε.
> Similarly, upsilon (ϽϽιλον) is really u-psilon, meaning □mere u□, > distinguishing it from the other two [i], ι and η; in ancient Greek its name > was Ͻ. Finally, omicron (ομικρον) is o-micron, or □little o□, to > distinguish it from o-mega (Ͻμεγα), or □great o□. Again, these names > were introduced in later times, when the pronunciations of the two letters had > become identical; in ancient times their names were simply o and Ͻ.
>
> That said, it should be mentioned that the origin of the Greek letters, which is > the ancient Phoenician alphabet, did assign meaning to each letter. For example, > the first letter of the Phoenician alphabet (a close cousin of the Hebrew > alphabet, the first three letters of which are aleph, beth, and gimel) was > written as an inverted A, a stylized depiction of the triangular head of an ox > with its horns. In Phoenician, the name of the letter was the word for □ox□.

> Similarly, the letter gamma (Hebrew gimel) is derived from the Phoenician word > for □camel□; and so on. But that all is not Greek, it is Semitic languages.
> In Greek the letters are just symbols, devoid of meaning.
>
> Footnotes (clicking on the footnote-number, on the left, brings back to the > text)
>
> (1). As I was informed recently by a Greek reader of this page, now they do > learn at school that the ancient pronunciation was different. Good, that□s > progress; in my high school years (late 70□s) we were left in the dark.
> However, I tested this reader□s information by asking a couple of young Greek > students (friends□ children), and found out that just about the only thing > they learn is that some vowels, such as the omega and eta, were pronounced > differently by the ancients; at least that□s what was registered in those > young students□ memory.
>
> (2). An earlier version of this page referred to the □Erasmian□ > pronunciation of Greek, after the Dutch scholar Desiderius Erasmus (1466?-1536), > who established a pronunciation system for ancient Greek that was geared towards > the phonological abilities of speakers of Dutch. Later, his system was adopted > by speakers of various other languages, who adjusted it slightly to their own > needs. Since today it is not known what exactly one refers to when one mentions > □the Erasmian system□, this page will refer to the □reconstructed□ > system of pronunciation, as shown on the rightmost column, □Classic Greek > Pronunciation (Attic)□, and as explained if you follow the links that say > □Evidence□.
>
> (3). Some readers (esp. fellow Greeks) took this comment to mean that I do not > believe the reconstructed pronunciation is right. Wrong! I do believe it is > right. However, what I believe or not is totally inconsequential. One should > believe their eyes (looking at data, that is) and that is why I have collected > the data (which is known to me) under those links that say □Evidence□ (last > column of the table; you know, those blue underlined things? Click on them!). I > made this comment to explain to non-Greeks what it feels to hear the > reconstructed pronunciation if you are a Greek, and if you have been educated > thinking that Pericles could have said to his wife, □ΠƐƐαƐία, Ɛι > γκανƐεμιά! ογƐ Ɛη ƐƐλλιάζομαι Ɛη δοƐλειά, > Ɛιρί-Ɛιρί Ɛο Ɛάνε να μαƐ Ɛην ƐέƐοƐν οι > οακεδαιμƐνιοι. ΠρέƐει να ƐοƐƐ ƐƐάƐοƐμε Ɛον > ƐƐαμƐοƐκά!□
>
> (4). Cratinus, in Dionysalexandros:
>
> the fool goes about like a sheep saying □ba ba□.
>
> (5). Not really all modern Indo-European languages, though; Serbo-Croatian, for > example, uses pitch. There are probably other I-E languages using pitch as well.

>
> (6). Korean and Thai are among the languages that include a letter for the sound > [ng], as readers kindly informed me.
>
> (7). Actually the Japanese [u] is unrounded, while Greek [u] is rounded.
>
> (8). Occasionally young people from the U.S.A. who want to establish a new > fraternity or sorority ask me this question, because they want to choose > □meaningful□ Greek letters for their organization. If you are one of those > people and are disappointed by the answer of this question, there is still hope.
> Select two or three English words that are meaningful to you, ask me what the > corresponding Greek words are, and choose the initial Greek letters for your > fraternity or sorority.
> ===
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
| 28499|2009-04-05 17:40:30|Mahari Mengistu|THE PROBLEM WITH CHRISTIANITY|
What has been happening with Christianity and Islam as well reminds me of this excerpt from the Prologue of Osman's Christianity an Ancient Egyptian Religion. It seems to have particular relevance to what has been occurring with American Christianity for the last 10-15, especially during the Bush administration with its supporters and their sometimes violent attack on science and the scientific.
The video highlighted some of this blind viciousness on the part of the fundamentalists - a crazy fear of science, fear for their emotional/"spiritual" safety - not much unlike the horrors described below:
=========
One day in A.D. 391, the Roman-appointed Bishop Theophilus marched from his headquarters in the Brucheion Royal quarter of Alexandria, at the head of a large howling mob, heading west for the Serepeum in the heart of the Egyptian quarter of Rhakotis. The Serapeum, which had been the center of Egyptian worship for seven centuries, was adorned with extensive columned halls, almost breathing statues, and a great number of other works of art, as well as being the house of the Great Alexandrian library. The frenzied people rushed through the streets along the Canopic way, turning into the short street that led to the temple-area of Serapis, meeting other crowds there, before climbing up the great flight of marble steps, led by Bishop Theophilus. They jumped across the stone platform and into the temple, where the events of the final tragedy took place.
In their agitated mood, the angry mob took little heed of the gold and silver ornaments, the precious jewels, the priceless bronze and marble statures, the rare murals and tapestries, the carved and painted pillars of granite and many marbles, the ebony and scented woods, the ivory and exotic furniture ? all were smashed to pieces with cries of pleasure But the was not all. Those shouting men, full demoniac delight, then turned to the library, where hundreds of thousands of papyrus tolls, and parchments, inscribed with ancient wisdom and knowledge, were taken off their shelves, torn to pieces and thrown on to bonfires.
A few years later the last of the Alexandrian scholars was torn to pieces by a gang of Christian monks. On a Lenten day in March of the year A.D. 415 they stopped the carriage of Hypatia, who had succeeded her father as Professor of Philosophy in Alexandria, stripped her naked, dragged her into a nearby church, killed her, cut most of her flesh from her body with sharp oyster shells and burned what remained of her in the street. The charge against Hypatia, who had taught the philosophy of Plato, was heresy.

As a result of this barbaric killing of Alexandrian scholars and destruction of its library, which contained texts in Greek of all aspects of ancient wisdom and knowledge, the true Egyptian roots of Christianity and of Western civilization have been obscured for nearly 16 centuries. ??..
We are going to show that the stories of both the Old and the New Testaments are firmly established on models of Ancient Egyptian historical facts. Not only that, but we will also show that the essential doctrines that Judaism and Christianity are credited with, in fact came out of Egypt. We are even going further to an area that will not be easy for the ordinary reader to accept, but that will become more convincing as the evidence of this book accumulates. All the central characters of both the Old Testament and the New Testament were actually real historical Egyptian figures, who lived in a different period than we have believed up till now.
===
HTP,
Mahari
| 28500|2009-04-05 18:21:19|Tafari khumbaka|Re: THE PROBLEM WITH CHRISTIANITY| great info

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Sun, 4/5/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] THE PROBLEM WITH CHRISTIANITY
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Sunday, April 5, 2009, 7:40 PM
>
> What has been happening with Christianity and Islam as well reminds me of this excerpt from the Prologue of Osman's Christianity an Ancient Egyptian Religion. It seems to have particular relevance to what has been occurring with American Christianity for the last 10-15, especially during the Bush administration with its supporters and their sometimes violent attack on science and the scientific.
> The video highlighted some of this blind viciousness on the part of the fundamentalists - a crazy fear of science, fear for their emotional/"spiritua l" safety - not much unlike the horrors described below:
> =========
> One day in A.D. 391, the Roman-appointed Bishop Theophilus marched from his headquarters in the Brucheion Royal quarter of Alexandria, at the head of a large howling mob, heading west for the Serepeum in the heart of the Egyptian quarter of Rhakotis. The Serapeum, which had been the center of Egyptian worship for seven centuries, was adorned with extensive columned halls, almost breathing statues, and a great number of other works of art, as well as being the house of the Great Alexandrian library. The frenzied people rushed through the streets along the Canopic way, turning into the short street that led to the temple-area of Serapis, meeting other crowds there, before climbing up the great flight of marble steps, led by Bishop Theophilus. They jumped across the stone platform and into the temple, where the events of the final tragedy took place.

In their agitated mood, the angry mob took little heed of the gold and silver ornaments, the precious jewels, the priceless bronze and marble statures, the rare murals and tapestries, the carved and painted pillars of granite and many marbles, the ebony and scented woods, the ivory and exotic furniture all were smashed to pieces with cries of pleasure But the was not all. Those shouting men, full demoniac delight, then turned to the library, where hundreds of thousands of papyrus tolls, and parchments, inscribed with ancient wisdom and knowledge, were taken off their shelves, torn to pieces and thrown on to bonfires.
A few years later the last of the Alexandrian scholars was torn to pieces by a gang of Christian monks. On a Lenten day in March of the year A.D. 415 they stopped the carriage of Hypatia, who had succeeded her father as Professor of Philosophy in Alexandria, stripped her naked, dragged her into a nearby church, killed her, cut most of her flesh from her body with sharp oyster shells and burned what remained of her in the street. The charge against Hypatia, who had taught the philosophy of Plato, was heresy.

As a result of this barbaric killing of Alexandrian scholars and destruction of its library, which contained texts in Greek of all aspects of ancient wisdom and knowledge, the true Egyptian roots of Christianity and of Western civilization have been obscured for nearly 16 centuries. ..
We are going to show that the stories of both the Old and the New Testaments are firmly established on models of Ancient Egyptian historical facts. Not only that, but we will also show that the essential doctrines that Judaism and Christianity are credited with, in fact came out of Egypt. We are even going further to an area that will not be easy for the ordinary reader to accept, but that will become more convincing as the evidence of this book accumulates. All the central characters of both the Old Testament and the New Testament were actually real historical Egyptian figures, who lived in a different period than we have believed up till now.
===
HTP,
Mahari

| 28501|2009-04-05 18:28:08|Ginger Daniels|FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months||
28502|2009-04-05 18:28:12|Ginger Daniels|FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months|
-----Original Message-----
From: Ginger Daniels <gingerd2007@hotmail.com>
Sent: 4/5/2009 9:50:20 PM
To: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com <pharoahisrael@yahoo.com>
Cc: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com <pharoahisrael@yahoo.com>

Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months

Thank u for this response and for bringing "intelligent balance" to this conversation. I especially like the "mechanically inclined" comment. It seems particularly relevant to this conversation. It is almost laughable to me that we the direct descendants of the creator are here arguing thus point. This theory of the white man is being regergitated instead of being highlighted as merely a theory, which it is.
U would swear by the responses here that these are proven facts. Which they are not. I hear these same things in school from my professors and they never answer the tough questions; this seems to be the case here as well. I notice there was no response to your email, only a video (from a white mans perspective of course) but no real fact finding agendas of our own. Just looking for ways to support their already established hypothesis.
So again my brotha thank you for bringing something more than a western learned point of view. The young people like myself who come to this site seeking the guidance of our elders need a perspective from our own people so that we can match it to what they teach in these institutions (killing fields for the black mind) so that we can find the truth.
-----Original Message-----
Date: Friday, April 03, 2009 9:15:26 am
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com;Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Cc: atenergy@hotmail.com
From: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months

Greetings again,
Mr. Gray and Group Members. The statement that you quote below is not so " unscientific " after all Mr. Gray. The statement appears to have been made by a Mr/Mrs Nix from what I can gather.

However let's get back to our main sticking point in the conversation between You and I.
In fact we have never gotten past it or even into it yet. Like some of my mechanically inclined brothers at Black Freethinkers Mr. Gray You appear to have once again confused Phenomena with Originations. Adaption and Origination are two different things altogether.
Origination itself is inherent with practical perfection. For instance animals are perfect in their order and natural state until some outside force intervenes in the organism's life. A dog or cat does not have to be taught how to bea dog or cat. It inherently and instinctively knows so. All that it will do from then on is to practice it's survival skills for offensive, defensive action and for prey. The predators" food
| 28503|2009-04-05 18:28:31|Shu Tefnut|AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE.|
HOTEP/ GREETINGS

BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:

AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE.

when: April 9th, 2009
where: The Mackey Group.
103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
in the basement,
Brooklyn, New York
time: 8pm. sharp
direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.

THIS WILL BE APOWERPOINTPRESENTATION.

LECTURE CONTENT:

1. Developmentof Paleolithic cultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will review Odawan, Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.

2. Pre-dynasticperiods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to give a chronological perspective of the art and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.

3. Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
The foundation of art and architecture that reached its zenith in Egypt. As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture of the Nubians who in fact established the canons of art and architecture for all world civilzations.

| 28504|2009-04-05 18:28:42|Ferg|Re: BANTU Apparel|
Hi.
Could you list the negative connotations?
Somo

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Marc Taylor
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Sent: Saturday, April 04, 2009 5:32 AM
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: BANTU Apparel
>
> I would like to read the essay, are you going to post it?
> as a tidbit... the name bakala has negative connotations in certain circles...
> I have always pondered a new name for african americans also, but only in case we exited america and created our own nation...

--- On Fri, 4/3/09, Asar Imhotep <asar_imhotep@ yahoo.com> wrote:
From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: BANTU Apparel
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, April 3, 2009, 2:46 PM

Peace brother Ferg

I have already renamed African-Americans the BAKALA of North America. I am also preparing an essay for that, which will be released before the AACP essay is released. You should already know where I'm going with BAKALA. I will simply be detailing how the term, in its many meanings, pertain to African-American history, philosophy, present experience and future goals. I hope to be finish by this weekend. Will keep the phamily updated.

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On W! ed, 4/1/ 09, Ferg wrote:
From: Ferg
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: BANTU Apparel
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 1, 2009, 8:24 AM

Asar.
Absolutely brilliant!
It's about time there was an establishedvoice representing anAfrican-American GrandUniversal Force Field of Culture. KAA!
Somo

| 28505|2009-04-05 19:59:37|Tafari khumbaka|punt|
http://exploring-africa.blogspot.com/2008/12/kmt-famed-pwnt-punt-exactly-where-was.html

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28506|2009-04-05 20:12:19|Asar Imhotep|Re: FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months|
Peace Ginger

It seems that a lot of African-Americans are falling into a cognitive trap that reached its height during the sixties. This line of thinking basically states that anything the "White" man says or does is to be written off as untrue and should be disregarded by the African community. Although the history of European based pedagogy in the United States warrants us to be extra critical of their scholarship, out right dismissal of all of their scholarship would render any African scholar intellectually handicapped in this day and age.

We want to honor our greats such as Dr. Diop and John Henrick Clarke, yet we don't want to follow their lead to get to the point that got them there. As Dr. Clarke noted:

> "Most of the old and new Black scholars asking for a total reconsideration of African history, in particular, and world history, in general, are using neglected documents by radical White Scholars who are generally neglected by the White academic community."

What he is pointing out is that the use of White scholarship has been an essential part of retelling our story, primarily because they have had the funding to go out and collect the necessary data. It was our job to reinterpret the data for a more refined analysis. Dr. Diop stressed that we create our own research teams, but never neglected information on science because a "White" man articulated in a book.

Now usually African-Americans who make such statements hinting at us abandoning theories JUST because a "White" man came up with them have little to no knowledge of how to critique information and find it easier to use the "White" man as a scapegoat for not taking the time to learn the field and how to properly challenge any opposing ideas they may have about a given concept.

In regards to evolution as articulated by Darwin, his concept is not new and is not anti-African. Africans who claim that it is have not read the evolutionary concepts, or sat and heard these concepts at the feet of African elders in wisdom centers of knowledge. I can tell you that evolution, as articulated by Darwin, is a part of the Dogon, Egyptian, Dagara and Zulu systems of thought. This was NOT knowledge introduced by the "White" man either.

Credo Mutwa in Indaba My Children (1964) tells us about the Zulu concept of evolution as such:

> "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

Those of us who are familar with African cosmologies can tell you that to the African there are not seperate souls: all souls are one. Mutwa (1964: 565) confirms this for us when he states, "Man does not possess a special soul, exclusive to himself. All souls are the same, and Man is but one of the many forms, or re-incarnations that a soul must pass through."

As we have stated in our discussions on the Ba and Ka(a), these are just perceived differentiations of the universal "soul" that is creation. And when you read the Egyptian texts and symbolism, they are articulating how this universal "soul" evolved to later become man. This line of thinking is in exact alignment as to what has been found in Astrophysics.

African spiritual traditions all say we came here from the stars. The Zulu, Egyptians and the Dogon say we came exactly from the star Sirius. Any astrophysist would tell you that the galaxy, the earth, water, the elements, fish, reptiles, mammals, humans, trees, etc., are all derived as the result of dying stars. Here is some proof of this statement:

We Are Made of Stardust
http://www.thegreatstory.org/Stardustbackground.html

We are made of star stuff
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=buhauZwOw7A

The Quest for Life
http://video.google.de/videoplay?docid=5766979965403704214

The Death Star
http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-41720681955951129

On page 590 (1964) Credo Mutwa informs us that in Zulu cosmology, the fundamental stages of man are 1) grass (plant), 2) Tree, 3) beast, 4) human, 5) Reptile, 6) bird 7) back to star phase. Although his account of evolution is different than modern biology or astrophysics, it none the less is a evolutionary theory which has humans deriving from animals.

Laird Scranton spends a lot of space on this topic in his work Sacred Symbols of the Dogon and is worth reading. Malidoma Some in his work The Healing Wisdom of Africa starting in Chapter 8 describes the creation of the universe in stark similitude to that of espoused by modern astrophysists. He takes it further by adding a "spiritual" dimension to it and arguing that our return to the stars is the last phase in our "human evolution." (pg 168).

Human evolution, as a small segment of biological evolution in general, is NOT a "White" man's concept. If you would have watched the documentary you would have heard the biologists state that life is like a tree and that tree shows our relationship and affinities to all that exist here on earth. Is that not an African concept of relatedness to everything in the universe? Is this not taught in our wisdom centers that we evolved from a singularity and humans are the last things to be evolve? This is basic African philosophical knowledge.

So instead of dismissing something because a "white" man said it, we should learn simply how to do a proper critique of the information and be prepared to scientifically counter it if we feel there is an error in analysis or experimentation. We can't claim that we invented the sciences and the scientific method and then abondon it all of sudden and say its the white mans. Theophile Obenga would definitely disagree with this kind of thinking as articulated in his work African Philosophy: The Pharaonic Period: 2780-330 BC.

The theory of evolution has not been falsified in 150 plus years of scrutiny. That should tell you something. If anything it should tell you that the ancestors were right.

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

> --- On Sun, 4/5/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:
> From: Ginger Daniels
> Subject: FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
> To: ""Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com" "
> Date: Sunday, April 5, 2009, 5:20 PM
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Ginger Daniels

Sent: 4/5/2009 9:50:20 PM
To: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
Cc: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months

Thank u for this response and for bringing "intelligent balance" to this conversation. I especially like the "mechanically inclined" comment. It seems particularly relevant to this conversation. It is almost laughable to me that we the direct descendants of the creator are here arguing thus point. This theory of the white man is being regergitated instead of being highlighted as merely a theory, which it is.
U would swear by the responses here that these are proven facts. Which they are not. I hear these same things in school from my professors and they never answer the tough questions; this seems to be the case here as well. I notice there was no response to your email, only a video (from a white mans perspective of course) but no real fact finding agendas of our own. Just looking for ways to support their already established hypothesis.
So again my brotha thank you for bringing something more than a western learned point of view. The young people like myself who come to this site seeking the guidance of our elders need a perspective from our own people so that we can match it to what they teach in these institutions (killing fields for the black mind) so that we can find the truth.
-----Original Message-----
Date: Friday, April 03, 2009 9:15:26 am
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com;Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Cc: atenergy@hotmail.com
From: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months

| 28507|2009-04-06 01:52:23|Obadele Kwame Kambon|Come join me at FREE Sankofa Journey Informational Session 4/12/09 6|

Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network
Listen. Learn. Liberate!

Obadele Kwame Kambon has invited you to the event 'FREE Sankofa Journey Informational Session 4/12/09 6:30PM EST' on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network!
FREE Sankofa Journey Informational Session 4/12/09 6:30PM EST at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

Obadele Kwame Kambon

April 12, 2009 from 6:30pm to 8pm

Time: April 12, 2009 from 6:30pm to 8pm
Location: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php
Organized By: Obadele Kwame Kambon

Event Description:
What: FREE Sankofa Journey informational session followed by Abibitumi Kasa Member Q & A session
Who: You Afrikan!
When: April 12, 2009 @ 6:30PM EST
Where: Abibitumi Kasa Member Classroom
How: Register at free forum at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php then click member classroom or on this link: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

This session is open to all Afrikans and will deal with a lot of relevant information for Afrikans interested in joining the Sankofa Journey (http://www.sankofajourney.org) this time around or in the future in particular, and those interested in visiting the continent or repatriation in general.

We will discuss the venues we travel to as well as the spiritual and emotional aspects of the journey. The Sankofa Journey is a longstanding tradition that has been influential on the lives of many. Others have even attempted to recreate versions of the Sankofa Journey, however the Original Sankofa Journey is singular and unique in the life changing and life saving experience that it provides to Afrikans in their reAfrikanization and dewhitenization processes.

Join us for the FREE informational session and for the Sankofa Journey.

See more details and RSVP on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network:
http://abibitumikasa.ning.com/events/event/show?id=2053441%3AEvent%3A22404&xgi=492XAxX

About Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network
Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Language and Liberation Institutes dewhitenize parts of the brain others can't reach.

350 members
494 photos
169 songs
66 videos
112 discussions
58 Events
50 blog posts

To control which emails you receive on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network, click here

| 28508|2009-04-06 04:50:21|Sptpy|King Tut Returns to San Francisco|

June 27, 2009 March 28, 2010

"More than 3,000 years after his reign, and 30 years after the original exhibition opened in San Francisco, Tutankhamun, ancient Egypts celebrated 'boy king', returns to the de Young Museum."

http://www.tutsanfrancisco.org/

Tyrone
| 28509|2009-04-06 06:42:09|SaNu Tepra|Re: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE.|
Sounds fascinating. Do you know if there will be a DVD of the lecture available? If so, please let us know.

--- On Sun, 4/5/09, Shu Tefnut wrote:
From: Shu Tefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE.
To: afrikanunity_ofharlem@yahoo.com, "HERU BENNU AMEN RA" , "Eugene Bennett" , bnyee@googlegroups.com, dr.garaia@africanidea.org, friends@templehealing.com, GatherTheFires@yahoogroups.com, happilynaturalday@yahoogroups.com, hndsupport@gmail.com, luv4self_network@yahoogroups.com, mwananchi@yahoogroups.com, NABSE@yahoogroups.com, nnabakyaala.afrika@gmail.com, openyourthirdeye@yahoo.com, smaitawi@yahoogroups.com, Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, thanubian2@yahoo.com, trueblackness@yahoogroups.com
Date: Sunday, April 5, 2009, 12:02 PM

HOTEP/ GREETINGS

BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:

AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE.

when: April 9th, 2009
where: The Mackey Group.
103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
in the basement,
Brooklyn, New York
time: 8pm. sharp
direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.

THIS WILL BE A POWERPOINT PRESENTATION.

LECTURE CONTENT:

1. Developmentof Paleolithic cultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will review Odawan, Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.

2. Pre-dynastic periods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to give a chronological perspective of the art
and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.

3. Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
The foundation of art and architecture that reached its zenith in Egypt. As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture
of the Nubians who in fact established the canons of art and architecture for all world civilzations.

| 28510|2009-04-06 14:04:04|Asar Imhotep|Cutting Edge Gender Research Grants for Junior Scholars|

Cutting Edge Gender Research Grants for Junior Scholars Program

Deadline to Apply: June 1, 2009

Dear Asar Imhotep,

Please see the information belowon a new grant NCBS is offering for Junior Scholars.

The National Council for Black Studies (NCBS) is pleased to announce that proposals are now being accepted under the Cutting Edge Gender Research Grants for Junior Scholars Program, made possible with funding from the Ford Foundation. Five (5) awards of $5,000 each are planned.

This program is designed to fund research by junior scholars whose research stretches the boundaries of the Africana Studies discipline with regard to gender and, thus, can be considered cutting-edge. Work may be new or in-progress. A junior scholar is defined as a person who is untenured but tenure-track and within the first 5 years or her or his academic career. Scholars who apply for this award must be current a member of NCBS.

Gender-related topics that might be considered cutting-edge include but are in not limited to Black women's activism, sexuality (including LGBTQIQ sexualities), Black women and HIV/AIDS, gender and environmental issues (including climate change, the green movement, and sustainable energy), women of African descent and technology, women of African descent and the new media, women of African descent and globalization, women and understudied Africana spiritualities, and Hip Hop studies. Even if their research is in-progress, applicants must be able to show how their proposed research represents a new area of inquiry and/or a new perspective within the field of Africana studies as it relates to women or gender.

Recipients of the Cutting Edge Gender Research Grant arerequired to present their research at the 2010 NCBS conference and to produce a publishable paper, book, or other scholarly product by June 2010. All awardees are required to submit an article based on their research to one of the two NCBS-sponsored journals - the International Journal of Africana Studies (IJAS) and Black Women, Gender and Families (BWGF) - regardless of the format of their ultimate product (e.g., book, book chapter, journal article, documentary, or creative project). The $5000 fellowship will be disbursed as follows: $3000 by July 1, 2009, $500 at the NCBS Conference Awards Banquet on March 20, 2010, and $1500 upon submission of a publishable article during by June 30, 2010.

Please clickApplication Procedure to go to our website for more details.

Sincerely,

Grant Committee
National Council for BlackStudies

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28511|2009-04-06 14:33:01|Michael Bayman|Re: [SOA] greetings amexum!(Am-Khem/House-of-Kem)|
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tU4G9fENk74
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Dm5S715tVqo
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jjvWR25ViQY

Amexem-Moor-Empire:

Imperial-Government: Briefing: 16: Ku-Mal: 301,614: A.M.C. of the presenting by the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Grand-Ambassador, Her-Grand-Excellency: Grand-Noble:

Zanora-Al-Zahra: El

Department For The Law And Justice

:

1) No-new: cases-criminal or civil-term have been brought before an: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Court, at-any-level, Empire-wide, in the last-6: Earthdays.

2) No-new: District-Prosecutors, were appointed, assigned, dispatched, et. al, Empire-wide, in the last-6: Earthdays.

3) There was an interjurisdictional-matter = a request for the engagement into a compact for the retention of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Department For The Law And Justice for the providing of the private-counsel unto a foreign-venue: business-concern in the exchange for the periodic-schedule: consideration of the aggregate-value (amount-data-withheld from the report-herein). For the record, compact-offer = recent-offer = not-yet on the agenda for the contemplation = not on the schedule for the presenting unto the Minister For The Law And Justice, Chief Of The Staff for the Sovereign-Crown, or for the presentation before Imperial-Council.

A) Imperial-Court-Service: Reports: no-new: case-filings: processed-or-assigned in the last 6: Earth-days.

B) Imperial-Investigation-Service: Reports: general-presentations and updates unto the Chief Of The Staff for the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Sovereign-Crown and Chief-Supervisor for the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Council.

C) Imperial-Special-Services-Agency: Reports: no-interjurisdicitional or internal-custody-transfers, special-investigations or findings of fact has occurred, Empire-wide in the last 6: Earth-days. There was a training-operation in the Agade-Medina.

Department For The Imperial-Affairs

: (See R.A.R.)- - - His-Imperial-Majesty's: Chief Of The Staff reports the Sovereign-Crown, did-not-convene the Majlis-Al-Shura on the behalf of the entire: Amexem-Moor-Empire: National-Family for the conducting of the Empire's: business. However, His-Imperial-Majesty, did-receive the several-briefs and the findings-of-fact, and preliminary-reports from the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Minister For The Interior on the new: foreign-venue: produce-market: location, Imperial-Water-Agency: Operations-Director on the previous: foreign-venue: produce-market, and Customs on the complications at the Ta-Memfis: overwatch-perimeter.

Department For The Ambassadors

: Ambassador-In-Charge: Distinguished-Noble: Min-Ibn-Hotep: Bey, reports:

1)No-new-Ambassadors have been appointed, commissioned, or assigned in the last-6:

Earth-days.

Department For The Protocols

: Reports the receiving of the invitation from the Umi: Gail herein the Agade-Medina for the participating in the forum on the evolutions in the systems for the instructing of the youth around the planet for their preparations in the dealing with the challenges of the global-economy. Forum-herein = a series that is ongoing. Grand-Ambassador has not made a decision on the matter however the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Constitutional-Monarch = aware of the invite and is on the record saying " participation is probable. If the Grand-Ambassador has no one to dispatch and is unable to attend, I shall look into going to give support unto the Oracle, Umi: Gail".

Department For The Foreign-Affairs

: Reports no interjusrisdictional-discourse has occurred in the last 6: Earth-days.

Department For The Treasury And Budget

: Reports:

data-witheld: additional-ounces of the silver in the coin-form = of the collecting did-occur within the last 6: Earth-days.

Imperial-Statistics-Weights And Measures-Agency

: Reports the Departmental-Requisition-Requests: In-Aggregate for the last-half of the fiscal-year: 301,613 = down: 25% over the previous-report which was down 60% over the previous-report. Economic-realities = leading-cause.

Department For The Interior

:

Emergency-status as imposed by H.I.M. continues Empire-wide. Grand-Noble:

Kedar-Al-Khabeer: Bey, commanding the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Department For The Interior, did-conference with the Sovereign-Crown and Staff through the several-calls and meetings in the last-6: Earth-days. His-Excellency briefed the Sovereign-Crown on the operations in the Port-Hannah-City.

Department For The Admissions:

Reports(See: Attachment) Data = 2: inquiries from the Fatima and 1 from the Ar-Rabati. Flyers-dispatched = 11 at least, data= incomplete. Report from the Ta-Memfis = late

Imperial-Power And Industry-Agency

: Reports the monitoring of the falling-demand for the petroleum-fuels as well as the forecast for the oil-production and refining with the including of the impact of the fuel-costs globally. Fake-currency-values regarding the oil-commodity = moderating

AmexemWear, reports-available from the propietor: (See: Distinguished-Noble: Eddin-Al-Bari: Bey at the 347 827 7340).

Jomotayo's: Health-Kitchen for the collodial-silver at the 267 516 1780

iwoherbs.com

Department For The Archives

: Reports 17: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Government: documents have been received in the last 6: Earth-days.

Department For The Copyright And Patent

: Reports no requests for sovereign-copyright/trademark or patents has been received, authorized or provided in the last 6: Earth-days.

Emergency-Services-Agency

: Reports: No injuries or deaths or need for any emergency-deployments as a result from the any-natural-disasters. Conditions in the Darfur: refugee-assistance-operations are in a highly-vulnerable-position resulting from the tactics from the corporate: [SUDAN] agents with arms.

Imperial-Library-Service

: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Library-Service: 16: Ku-Mal: 301,614: Report = a new-book: for-your: viewing and contemplation =

The Return of Depression Economics and the Crisis of [2008]

by Paul Krugman

Winner of the Nobel Prize in Economics

In 1999, in The Return of Depression Economics, Paul Krugman surveyed the economic crises that had swept across Asia and Latin America, and pointed out that those crises were a warning for all of us: like diseases that have become resistant to antibiotics, the economic maladies that caused the Great Depression were making a comeback. In the years that followed, as Wall Street boomed and financial wheeler-dealers made vast profits, the international crises of the 1990s faded from memory. But now depression economics has come to America: when the great housing bubble of the mid-2000s burst, the U.S. financial system proved as vulnerable as those of developing countries caught up in earlier crises and a replay of the 1930s seems all too possible.

In this new, greatly updated edition of The Return of Depression Economics, Krugman shows how the failure of regulation to keep pace with an increasingly out-of-control financial system set the United States, and the world as a whole, up for the greatest financial crisis since the 1930s. He also lays out the steps that must be taken to contain the crisis, and turn around a world economy sliding into a deep recession. Brilliantly crafted in Krugman's trademark stylelucid, lively, and supremely informedthis new edition of The Return of Depression Economics will become an instant cornerstone of the debate over how to respond to the crisis

Imperial-Weather-Observation-Agency

: Reports below: seasonal-temperatures, snow and rain across the lower: North-Amexem over the next: 72: standard: Eath-hours. The soaking of the Mu-Atlantis should subside however the rain in the drought-stricken: Ta-Merry: District is still needed.

Department For The Defense And Security

:

Is exempt from reporting including all of the Defense And Security: sub-departments.

Department For the Customs

: Reports no new trade-agreement-proposals have been received or proposed, no: new-special-investigations in the last 6: Earth-days however the staff is awaiting the details of the offer for a compact from the Law And Justice: Staff. Special-Investigations is looking at the date from the I.C.F: C.S.: 4 regarding the staging of the Addie-Hannah-River for the acquiring of the insight into the potential-effects on the commerce. Specifically, the central-focus of the investigation is the port-logistics: model for the barge-operations for the Addie-Hannah-River through the Ta-Memfis: Corridor into the Gulf Of The Amexem. Model = still in the preliminary-mock-up: phase. Prototype of the basing upon the mock-up = now on the schedule.

Imperial-Customs-Force

: Reports: H-I-M: C.S.: 4: Operations = Under-review. Complications with the proficiency and conduct at the command-level are of concern. Upgrade from the Station-operations unto the Base-operations = on hold as the Commanding-Officer, on-station has not passed the requirements for the promotion unto the rank = Commander = a requirement for the assuming of the command of the Base-Operations. C.S.: 4: Commanding-Officer = Lieutenant-Commander: Khufu-Alim-Muhammd: Bey faces possible reclassification unto the I.C.F.R. (Imperial-Customs-Force: Reserve) pending the outcome of the current-review, underway.

No-substance has been collected, tabulated, or-transferred into the Imperial-Treasury; no-other-substance, from-any-source with the including however not the limiting unt-any: tariffs, taxes, excise-taxes, levies, duties, or tonnage-duties. No: Intransitu-Compliance-Violations, have-occurred and no pattern or practice of a crime has been detected, Empire-wide in the last 6: Earth-days.

Department For The Communications

: Reports there have been no comm-net: disruptions, Empire-wide, in the last-6: Earthdays. No: broadcasts or transmissions in the video-format or webcasting or streaming in the last: 6: Earth-days. There was 1: online-radio-broadcast via the Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency.

Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency

: Reports:

Blogtalkradio: Channel: 1 = 1: broadcast-segment = 1: Standard-Earth-Hour = Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Government-Watch

Youtube-Channel: 1 = 34: videos-uploaded with the 64: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 2,189: times

channel-videos-viewed = 13,145: times.

Youtube-Channel: 2 = 17: videos-uploaded with the 75: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 1,813: times

channel-videos-viewed = 15,367: times.

Youtube-Channel: 3 = 17: videos-uploaded with the 42: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 1,609: times

channel-videos-viewed = 24,327: times.

Youtube-Channel: 4 = 16: videos-uploaded with the 21: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 885: times

channel-videos-viewed = 2,609: times.

Youtube-Channel: 5 = 14: videos-uploaded with the 22: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 738: times

channel-videos-viewed = 2,401: times.

Youtube-Channel: 6 = 12: videos-uploaded with the 9: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 346: times

channel-videos-viewed = 1,896: times.

Youtube-Channel: 7 = 10: videos-uploaded with the 9: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 340: times

channel-videos-viewed = 1,001: times.

Youtube-Channel: 8 = 15: videos-uploaded with the 6: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 335: times and channel-videos-viewed = 1,213: times.

Youtube-Channel: 9 = 11: videos-uploaded with the 17: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 483: times

channel-videos-viewed = 2,764: times.

Youtube-Channel: 10 = 12: videos-uploaded with the 9: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 220: times

channel-videos-viewed = 1,247: times.

Youtube-Channel: 11 = 8: videos-uploaded with the 9: subscribers with the channel-viewed = 202: times

channel-videos-viewed = 758: times.

Aggregate = 283: Subscribers, 100: more than the last-report; channels-viewed: 9,160: times, 2,159: more than the last-report. And the channel-videos-viewed = 66,728: times, 13,309: more than the last-report.

Imperial-News-Service

: Reports: No-dispatches.

General-Information-Agency

: Reports: A training-operation for the Internet-Operations-Unit, did-occur in the Port-Hannah-City. Agade-Medina, Mu-Atlantis, Ta-Memfis: Training-Operations = normal (Training-Class: 4-2 = last-class-schedule = scrubbed), Ar-Rabati (No-data on the Training-Class: 5-1).

Department For The General-Operations

: Reports:

Department For The Logistics

: Reports the receiving of the undisclosed-equipment for the Treasury And Budget: Operations. Clothing was received in the Agade-Medina for the Zakat. Status = being sorted, cleaned, and prepared for the dispatching unto the authorized-charities with the including of the [M.S.T.A: TEMPLE: 13] via the Noble: Saleem: Bey doing-buiness-as the [GRAND-SHEIK].

Imperial-Learning-Agency

: Reports (See-Ulema)

Imperial-Water-Agency

: Reports: All equipment on-station, in-all-areas = able-ready: in-all: command-areas. Emergency-Deployment-Drills for the portable-distiller-unit, did-occur in the Ta-Memfis and are on the schedule for the Ar-Rabati.

Department For The Health And Phytotherapy

: Reports: No-medical-emergencies or outbreaks, Empire-wide, in the last-6: Earthdays. Amexem-Moor-Empire: Minister For The Health And Phytotherapy = did provide the technical-assistance in the design of the soon-to-launch: Kumasi-Herbs: website.

Department For The Journey Travel And Transport

: Reports: Away-Team: 1-g, did engage in the authorized-navigation-schedule from the Agade-Medina into the Zagoramor-New-Jerusalem: area and is due-back: into the Agade-Medina within the next: 48: Standard-Earth-Hours.

Department For The Infrastructure

: Reports: the newly-proposed: produce-market: location-specs are on the record for the Agade-Medina. Awaiting the specs for the Mu-Atlantis, Ta-Memfis, and Fatima: locations. Ar-Rabati has not been proposed thus no specs are on the schedule for the Ar-Rabati. Umi: April was shown what the requirements are thus she shall make those specs available for the Ta-Memfis and shall report them unto the Infrastructre after reporting them unto the Agriculture-Command-Authority for the approval.

Department For The Land-Management

: Reports receiving the report from the H-I-M: C.S.: 4 regarding the update on the rising water levels and the effects on the land-development-possibilites, watersheds, underground-water-tables, et.al

Department For The Agriculture

: Spring = season for the consuming of the foods that strengthen the liver.

Imperial-Seismic-Anomaly-Observation-Agency

: Reports: No-data

Amexem-Moor-Empire: Sovereign-Copyright-Number: SC04052009CE010

From: shangos_child
To: SOA@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Sunday, April 5, 2009 9:11:10 PM
Subject: [SOA] greetings amexum!

you are RIGHT about that, we have to hold the black african amerikkkans responsible for the kidnapping of afrikan children, who knows madonna, which her name comes from ma ndonna, which means,the afrikan deity in kswahili, she probably uses the child or children for their sacrifice rituals, because they need melanin,at this point in time,nobody is ready to defend their families,let alone,the communities, there are too much organizations in amerikkka, nbpp,moorish this moorish that, zulu nation, NATION OF IMPOSTORS,AKA NATION OF ISLAMICIZED AND ARABINIZED NEGROES IN AMERIKKKA. WHAT ARE THEY FOR THE COMMUNITY,BESIDES HOLDING LECTURES,SEMINARS, ETC,ETC,people should be training in survival skills,because when shit hits the fan, no allah is gonna show dem where to find water,no jewsus christ will help them either,now there are pedophiles in senegal,pedophiles in south africa, nobody is doinga damn thing besides intellectual masturbation, siding by arab slave catchers and arab slave traders is not gonna help,as the saying goes" if u are not part of the solution,you are part of the problem"

| 28512|2009-04-06 14:33:28|odhiambo okecth|The buck stops with the President|
The buck stops with the President 6th April 2009

When the Coalition Partners retreated to Kilaguni for talks on how to strengthen their marriage, Kenyans were optimistic that at long last, the National Accord that ushered in the marriage was going to be put in its proper perspective and the bottlenecks addressed.

This was not to be. And Kenyans, least of all the clergy, came in to urge the Coalition Partners to keep engaging for the sake of Kenya . As usual, the clergy were being economical with the truth.

I am concerned about the process of national healing and reconciliation. How can we achieve this when we conveniently refuse to be truthful with the President? If the President is walking naked, why can we not gather the courage and tell him that he is naked? We will not be his enemies by pointing such things out to him.

It is doing Kenya a lot of injustice when the mistakes made by the President are manipulated to look like the Prime Minister is part and parcel of the same. Let us look at the following scenarios;

1] There is management problem at the Kenya Ports Authority and the Prime Minister steps in. He says that the port is a national institution whose leadership must be open to all Kenyans. The President keeps silent but in his silence, he engineers some people from the coast to insist that the MD at KPA must be a coastal.

2] Mau is a serious national disaster. The Prime Minister has been talking about the need to conserve Mau while the President has kept a studious silence. In his silence, he is scheming only of how to derail Raila with the Mau issue. To him, derailing Raila is more important than conserving the Mau.

3] Martha Karua sees the light at last and is almost repentant that she almost derailed Kenya by supporting the Judiciary and the nocturnal swearing in of Kibaki after he had lost the last elections. She says that there must be justice at the Judiciary. The same thing is said by the Law Society of Kenya who goes ahead to demand establishment of a Judicial Commission to investigate the conduct of the Chief Justice. The PM weighs in with his demand for a total overhaul of the Judiciary. But the President says he has all confidence in the Chief Justice then goes ahead to swear people without the knowledge of the Minister for Justice. Who is the problem here?

4] An audit report reveals that George Muhoho has not been accountable for Kshs 2.9 billion at Kenya Airports Authority and as such, he needs to be investigated. The PM says as much. Makwere as the substantive minister acknowledges and send Muhoho on compulsory leave pending his third retirement. The following day, Makwere reappoints him to the MDs position at KPA. Do not mind that Muhoho is even past the recommended Biblical age limit of 70. The Bible says that a man shall live for 70 years and a bonus after that. Again, the machinations are clear.

5] At Kenya Tourist Board, Mr. Achieng Ongonga is shown the door so swiftly for an alleged syndicate involving Kshs 35 million. At the same time, Mr. George Okungu, the MD at Kenya Pipeline is shown the door swiftly for theft of oil in a scum that does not involve him.

6] Migingo Islands are annexed by Museveni and the MPs make noise. The Ministers are up in arms. The PM adds his voice. But the Commander-in-Chief, who holds the sword of Kenya , is silent. Instead of having these invaders arrested, he sends the Police Commissioner, the man who says that if the times were rewinded, he would kill as many as he did last year, to go and negotiate with Museveni. And not a single word from the clergy.

7] President Kibaki has been to Kisii 6 times, Western Kenya , 5 times, Rift Valley, several times. If the President believes in national healing and reconciliation, what has stopped him from visiting Kisumu, Homa Bay , Siaya and Bondo in all this time? No. The President is busy scheming against his own people and he must be told as much.

To this extent, if the clergy are sincere about national healing and reconciliation in Kenya , they must confront the truth, for the truth shall set us free. The truth is that President Kibaki is not keen on national healing and reconciliation. He is keen on derailing Raila from ever being the President of Kenya.

That is his obsession. He thinks about Raila all the times to an extent that he must contradict all that Raila says regardless of the benefit of such things to the country.

The PNU side has put out a fully paid for advert in todays papers. I believe it has not been paid for by Alfred Mutua, he who speaks for the President. They asked a few questions worth responding to;

Do Kenyans want security organs and especially the military involved in politics?

This is a deliberate question to confuse our intelligence. All security organs at the top leadership are political. They are appointed by the President and they serve his interest. If that were the case, the Police Commissioner and the Head of the Armed Forces would have served the law when Kibaki lost in the last elections. Instead of serving the law, they were more than willing to kill Kenyans just to perpetuate one mans hold on to power. Kenyans want the security organs to pay allegiance to the law, and not to the executive.

Do Kenyans want the public service divided into two with Government officers reporting to political parties?

This is myopic. Who does not know that the Head of Public Service is a political appointee? And who does not know that the age limit in public service has been 55 years?

Do Kenyans want to go back to the past or to move forward towards national healing and reconciliation so as to facilitate development?

What national healing is the President advancing when he clearly segregates against a section of Kenya ? What national healing is the President advancing when he cannot implement to the letter the wordings of the National Accord that there shall be a 50/50 sharing of Government amongst the Coalition Partners? What national healing is the President advancing when he keeps silent and waits for the PM to make a move which he promptly contradicts?

Do Kenyans want their leaders to be engaged in endless political wrangling at the expense of undertaking development projects for which they were elected?

I would have wanted to listen to Mutula Kilonzo answer this on Citizen TV. I am happy that he chickened out because he is one of the people being used to advance this false belief.

Bottom Line; The clergy must come clean and point out the mistakes, rebuke the person who has made that mistake, and let the country move forward. Mass condemnation will not do. Point out the mistake and the person who has done that mistake.

Then wait for your day in heaven to tell the Lord that you did justice while you were shepherding his flock here on Planet Earth. Otherwise, you will burn in eternal fire just like all the sinners.

Odhiambo T Oketch

Komarock Nairobi.

| 28513|2009-04-06 17:06:23|Mahari Mengistu|Re: LUO ORIGIN OF CIVILISATION: TOWARDS A POSITIVE -|

Obama is from the Luo tribe in Kenya ? or at least, his father was.
His father like the Luo tradition was married to a number of women. Anecdotally, this supports a cultural connection to Kemet as well. Amenhotep 3, who I believe to be the biblical Solomon and the father of Akenaten, also married many women some of whom were foreign. In fact, according to legend he married 400. Obviously, he did not want for variety and made love instead of war.
Asar, the article mentions that the name for Egypt was not "Kemet". This, perhaps, support your belief that "Kemet" was used in a specifically "religious" way, if I have interpreted your theory correctly.
I guess one could say the "seed of Afraka will always rise to the top". The challenge is for us to help. Unfortunately, there are so many psychologically mutated and totally fup seeds that they can't seem to get rooted.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
>
> This is a very long paper. The full piece can be found at the web link > below.
>
> ============================
> Luo Origins and History
> [horn_1998_luo_oxford]
>
> The historical analysis in this paper is a contribution towards the > reclamation and linking of Luo and African history to that of ancient > Itiyopianu and Egypt . . . Attempts by some western historians, > Egyptologists and missionary scholars to conceal the Luo cradle-land, > distort the identities of some Luo groups of peoples and their migration > patterns, were part of a strategy calculated to rob not only the Luos, > but Africans of their historical heritage.
>
> Editor's Note: A great big thank you goes to Dr. Paito, who has > decided to share an outstanding article on Luo peoples.
> LUO ORIGIN OF CIVILISATION: TOWARDS A POSITIVE IDENTIFICATION OF THE > ANCIENT ITIYO-PI-ANU PEOPLES
> Dr. Terence Okello Paito - Abstract
>
> After the Second World War, Henri Frunkfort, an eminent Egyptologist, > suggested that there are distinct groups of Africans surviving today, > whose ancestors can be traced back to the ancient Egyptians. A couple of > decades later, at a symposium on the peopling of ancient Egypt and the > deciphering of the Meroitic script, C.A. Diop, resolved to carry out a > comparison of the languages of ancient Egypt and those of contemporary > Africa. Both Diop and Frunkfort believed that there are people alive > today in Africa who speak the very same language or one very close to > the language spoken in ancient Egypt. The identification of such a > people would add a linguistic dimension to the conventional study and > better understanding of ancient Egyptian history. This paper presents an > argument in support of the contention that the survivors of the ancient > Egyptian culture are the Nilotic people now commonly known as the Luo > (or Lwoo). It is suggested that the Luo were the founders of the ancient > Koch or Cushitic kingdom at Napata, which had expanded into Egypt. It > will be further argued that the Luo pledged collective loyalty to the > god Anu and were the very Itiyo-pi-anu peoples.

>
> Introduction
>
> The identities of the earliest settlers and builders of the great > ancient Itiyo-pi-an and Egyptian civilisations have been a subject of > protracted debate that has largely remained in abeyance for sometime. At > the height of the early 19th century Euro-imperialism and colonialism in > Africa, the `civilisation/barbarism' dichotomy was a construct > and an ideological tool to explain the justification for colonialism.
> Throughout the colonial and early post-independence period, the > imposition of a euro-centric curriculum plus western > anthropologists' sustained denigration of the African personality > and culture, deterred Africans from considering, `The African > Origin' of civilisation. Nevertheless, Henri Frunkfort (1948), one > of the Western scholars whose attention was drawn to the achievements of > the early Egyptians wrote, "?. There are alive today in Africa > groups of people who are the true survivors of that great East African > substratum out of which the Egyptian culture arose ?." (Henri > Frunkfort, 1948, p.6). Resistance to the contradictions inherent in > colonial policies, curricula and the distortion of African history, > later produced a generation of African scholars who were prepared to > examine facts on ancient Egyptian history. It was in that light that > C.A. Diop (1974), stood out and published `The African Origin of > Civilisation: Myth or Reality'. In the preface of that work, Diop > advocated a linguistic approach to link the history of black Africa to > that of ancient Egypt. Following the symposium on `The peopling of > Ancient Egypt and Deciphering of the Meroitic script', he repeated > the call for the application of the linguistic approach to analyse > ancient Egyptian history. So far, from the literature on ancient Egypt, > three main observations can be made. First and foremost, the literature > suggests that much ground has been covered towards the reclamation and > linking of ancient Egypt to African history thanks to the efforts of > African-American and other diasporan scholars. Secondly, despite the > great strides made, most of the diasporan scholars continue to confuse > ancient Itiyopianu with modern Ethiopia. Thirdly, and most importantly > for this paper, Diop's lead in which he identified Osiris race with > the Nilotic Luo has not been followed, despite Simon Simonse's

> (1992) assertion that Luo antecedents have relevance for the > reconstruction of the past. Similarly, J.B. Webster's (1979), call > for a linguistic approach to reconstruct and expand Crazzolara's > work on the Luo has been largely ignored.
>
> In this paper, we argue that the people referred to as the Luo were the > very builders of the ancient Itiyo-pi-anu civilisation known as Koch > (Cush, Kush). The Koch (Cush) kingdom expanded into Egypt, Arabia, > Mesopotamia and Phoenicia. The paper is divided into five sections. In > the second section, we review the attempts by some scholars to de-link > the Luo from ancient Egyptian civilisation; section three presents a > discussion on how the identification of Luo Cradle-land became such a > contentious issue in the historiography of the Great Lakes region. In > section four, the Luo will be identified as the ancient Itiyopianu > peoples. Luo presence in ancient Egypt is discussed in section five, > followed by conclusions.
>
> The Luo
>
> In the opening statement of his work `The Lwoo', Fr. J.P.
> Crazzolara (1950), wrote, "The Lwo racial group of people has had a > past so full of exciting adventures that their history - once it were > fairly completely written up - would read like an absorbing novel" > (Crazzolara, 1950,p.1). Fr. Crazzolara, an Italian Catholic Missionary, > linguist and historian had lived, worked and conducted field- work > amongst the Luos for over thirty years. Most importantly, he had access > to the Meroitic scripts. Apart from the three volumes on the Lwoo, > Crazzolara (1938) wrote `A Study of the Acooli Language'. For > the composition of the Luo racial group who are scattered across > thousands of miles in Eastern and Central Africa, Fr. Crazzolara, noted > that,
>
> "The tribe into which the original group of the Lwo divided after > leaving their country of origin, are as follows, 1. Boor, 2. Jo- Luuo, > (Thuri, Bwodho, Jur), 3. Collo (Shilluk), Anywaa, 5.Paari (Lokooro, Ber, > Nyorro), 6. Acholi, 7.Alur, 8. Jo-Pawir (Jur), 9. Lango, 10. Kumam, 11.
> Jo- Pa- Wiir alias Jo-Ka- Weer, 12. Jo-Pa- Adhola, 13. Jo-Lwo, 14.
> Barabaig". (Fr. J.P. Crazzolara, 1950: 5).
>
> Thus, the Luo group of peoples are found in the Sudan, Ethiopia, Uganda, > Kenya, Tanzania and the Congo. Though Crazzolara was ecstatic at the > prospect of reconstructing Luo history, he had underestimated the > opposition towards such an endeavour. Before looking at attempts by some > Africanist to de-link the Luo from ancient Itiyopia and Egypt, the > question that arises is, what is meant by the very term Luo or Lwoo?
>

> What is Luo or Lwoo?
>
> According to Nalder (1937), the word Luo derives from the evening fire > around which people sat. He suggested that, "A feature of the > village life is the `O', men's sitting ? place, rather > like a club ?." (Nalder, 1937, p.147). Nalder was particularly > aware that, amongst some Luo groups such as the Acholi, `Lu' is > a plural prefix (sing. `La') which means `those > who?.', and denotes a group in relation to some activities, > profession or general behaviour. On the other hand, the one letter word > `o' means the evening fire around which a family or friends sat > in an open court yard to chat, discuss, educate, gaze into the clear > sky, and enjoy the fresh evening air, before retiring to bed. By > combining `Lu' and `o', Nalder claimed to have explained > the identity of the Luo people.
>
> http://luounite.net/2009/04/03/luo-origins-and-history/
> <http://luounite.net/2009/04/03/luo-origins-and-history/>
>
> .....
>
> Conclusion
>
> The reclamation of African heritage from ancient Egyptian civilisation > has been a daunting endeavour. This has been due a great deception about > the identity of the ancient Egyptians and also to the obstacles placed > by some euro-centric scholars to deny Africans their historical heritage > portraying them as a people without history. From the advent of > colonialism till now, the history curriculum in most African education > institutions was based on the experiences of Europeans and their > world-view. The false perception of the colonialism as a civilising > mission led Africans to embrace a euro-centric curriculum. Though the > ancient Egyptians invented writing through which they documented their > history, the very loss by Africans, of Cush, Egypt, Akum, (Axum), and > Meroe culminated in migration and the gradual loss of their ancient art > of writing. The inability of Africans to read ancient scripts remains a > big obstacle in their quest to re-discover their past.
>
> The historical analysis in this paper is a contribution towards the > reclamation and linking of Luo and African history to that of ancient > Itiyopianu and Egypt. We have argued that the conception and development > of the `Hamitic theory' was undertaken to thwart such an effort.
> Attempts by some western historians, Egyptologists and missionary > scholars to conceal the Luo cradle-land, distort the identities of some > Luo groups of peoples and their migration patterns, were part of a > strategy calculated to rob not only the Luos, but Africans of their > historical heritage. Using linguistic, oral and written sources, we have > presented an argument to support the contention that the Itiyopianu > kingdom of Koch (Cush), which expanded into lower- Egypt, was indeed > founded by the Luos. From Napata, the people of Koch migrated and > settled in Arabia, Mesopotamia and Phoenicia. The Luo presence in those > areas will be a subject of future discussion.

>
> ===
>
> HTP,
>
> Mahari
>
| 28514|2009-04-07 10:24:25|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: hacker attacks !!!!|

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/7/09, Felicia Carroll wrote:
From: Felicia Carroll
Subject: Fw: hacker attacks !!!!
To: "Andre" , "Ausariankh" , "Bastet" , "cornelius bostick" , "Ardie Campbell" , "Enjl" , "James Ferguson" , "David J UTPWR Fitz" , "Derrick Harris" , "Mike Harris" , "Lieutenant Higgins" , "Garland Holmes" , "Kelvin Hopson" , "James" , "ERIC JENKINS" , "Tafari khumbaka" , "Letoya" , "Rod Lomax" , "Ronald Long" , "Chandra Murray" , ndaniels@selftucker.com, "'Alandas Dobbins Men Ra'" , "Romecus" , "Victoria Vaughn" , "virgil wadlington" , "Wayne"
Date: Tuesday, April 7, 2009, 11:45 AM

--- On Sat, 3/28/09, Nat Turner187 wrote:

From: Nat Turner187
Subject: hacker attacks !!!!
To:
Date: Saturday, March 28, 2009, 7:38 PM

Peace, krakkka hackers are sending out email as a youtube link "Obama shot". When you go t link it tells you you need a java update. DO NOT DO IT !!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Delete the email and for virus or malware. sybot, and other anti virus to scan your pc. There are several Black sites hit, so beware of all attachments and links

| 28515|2009-04-07 10:51:46|Shu Tefnut|AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE.|

HOTEP/ GREETINGS

BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:

AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE.

when: April 9th, 2009
where: The Mackey Group.
103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
in the basement,
Brooklyn, New York
time: 8pm. sharp
direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.

THIS WILL BE APOWERPOINTPRESENTATION.

LECTURE CONTENT:

1. Developmentof Paleolithic cultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will review Odawan, Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.

2. Pre-dynasticperiods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to give a chronological perspective of the art
and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.

3. Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
The foundation of art and architecture that reached its zenith in Egypt. As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture
of the Nubians who in fact established the canons of art and architecture for all world civilzations.

| 28516|2009-04-07 10:51:52|digital.princess|Re: Reflecting on the Cruelest Months|
On the recent shift in topic to evolution, please see this recent article:

http://johnhawks.net/weblog/topics/evolution/selection/acceleration/nei-2009-selected-substitutions-press-release.html

Food for thought.

-LP
| 28517|2009-04-07 11:33:19|cristofori whitakara|Re: Reflecting on the Cruelest Months|
"a massive acceleration over the long-term rate. "
the question that i have is that this statement makes it seem to me that there was some type of experimentation going on?
--- On Mon, 4/6/09, digital.princess wrote:
From: digital.princess Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Monday, April 6, 2009, 11:55 PM

On the recent shift in topic to evolution, please see this recent article:

http://johnhawks. net/weblog/ topics/evolution /selection/ acceleration/ nei-2009- selected-substitutions- press-release. html

Food for thought.

-LP

| 28518|2009-04-07 15:38:45|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: TAUI International Enterprises & Ausar Auset Event|

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Tue, 4/7/09, Ra Amen wrote:
>
> From: Ra Amen
> Subject: TAUI International Enterprises & Ausar Auset Event
> To: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
> Date: Tuesday, April 7, 2009, 4:31 PM

TAUI International Enterprises & Ausar Auset

April 7, 2009

Greetings!

You areinvited to our thursday, April the9th Webinar. 7:30pm-9pm. Hope you can attend.

How to get your share of the more than $143 Billion in School financial aid that is now available through the stimmulus plan.

Join us for a Webinar on April 9

Space is limited.
Reserve your Webinar seat now at:

https://www2.gotomeeting.com/register/203017251

Amidst the current economic meltdown, college prices are escalating. According to recently released reports from the College Board, most students and their families can expect to pay, on average, from $108 to $1,398 more than last year for this year's tuition and fees, depending on the type of college they choose.

But there is good news - More than $143 billion in financial aid is available. And, despite all of these college price increases, a college education remains an affordable choice for your family.

In Kamit Preparatory Institute's (Ausar Auset's School--K through 12)FINANCIAL AID:COLLEGE PLANNING WEBINAR you will learn: that most colleges are more affordable than you might think about financial aid myths how financial aid works and how it makes college affordable for you ten questions to ask your financial aid officer the answers to all your questions about FAFSA, EFC's, CSS, etc.
how to select and negotiate for the financial aid package that suits your pocket as well as the college that best fits your child's academic needs
how to explore sources ofloans, grants and scholarships about important dates and deadlines you must meet to secure the most financial aid

Title: How to get your share of the more than $143 Billion in School financian aid that is now available through the stimmulus plan.

Date: Thursday, April 9, 2009

Time: 7:30 PM - 9:00 PM EDT

After registering you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the Webinar.

System Requirements
PC-based attendees
Required: Windows 2000, XP Home, XP Pro, 2003 Server, Vista

Macintosh-based attendees
Required: Mac OS X 10.4 (Tiger) or newer

If this is your first time, or you have had sound problems in the past, please perform the suggested sound check for your equipment.

Thank youfor attendingour webinars. If this is your first time, we hope that you find the information useful. We appreciate your business. Please pass this advertisement to your friends and family. We can make a difference in the world.

Sincerely, Queen Mother Merisa Amen.

TAUI International
TAUI International Enterprises & Ausar Auset

Forward email

SafeUnsubscribe®
This email was sent to tafari_sudra@yahoo.com by ausarauset@nilevalley.com.
Update Profile/Email Address | Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribe | Privacy Policy.
TAUI International Enterprises & Ausar Auset | 1100 Albemarle Road | Brooklyn | NY | 11218

Email Marketing by Constant Contact
TRY IT FREE

| 28519|2009-04-08 04:12:32|Obadele (abibitumikasa.com)|Twi and Yoruba Classes this week!; 3 Hour Intensive Workshop: Unders|

> It's not too late to sign up for Yoruba and Twi classes online at Abibitumi Kasa.
>
> Classes start this week. If you've already submitted the info at > http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html > simply complete your registration at > http://www.abibitumikasa.com/payment.html
>
> Check our calendar for dates and times of classes:
> http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/calendar.php
>
> ++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++
>
> What: 3 Hour Intensive Workshop: Understanding the Yoruba Odu Ifa: A Story from Ogbe Wehin: Eni ti koi tii setan iku
> Who: You Afrikan!
> When: April 11, 2009 @ 6:30PM EST
> Where: Abibitumi Kasa Member Classroom

How much: 50 USD
How: Step 1: Register for the workshop at
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html

Step 2: Create an account at free forum at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php then at the time of class click member classroom or on this link:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

To set up audio and video and font for workshop view our instructional videos at:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

Eni ti koi tii setan iku is a very special Itan (history) from the Ese Ifa which explains the meaning of Orunmila. Additionally it is an inspiring story of one's unalterable destiny through trials and tribulations and how in the face of seemingly overwhelming odds, one can and will triumph with the help of Olodumare, the Orisa and one's own Ori.

In this workshop we will read directly from this Odu and story focusing on the following skills in Yoruba:

Pronunciation
Reading
Comprehension
Worldview

Abibitumi Kasa Staff and Family

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

What: FREE Sankofa Journey informational session followed by Abibitumi Kasa Member Q & A session
Who: You Afrikan!
When: April 12, 2009 @ 6:30PM EST
Where: Abibitumi Kasa Member Classroom
How: Register at free forum at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php then click member classroom or on this link:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

This session is open to all Afrikans and will deal with a lot of relevant information for Afrikans interested in joining the Sankofa Journey (http://www.sankofajourney.org) this time around or in the future in particular, and those interested in visiting the continent or repatriation in general.

We will discuss the venues we travel to as well as the spiritual and emotional aspects of the journey. The Sankofa Journey is a longstanding tradition that has been influential on the lives of many. Others have even attempted to recreate versions of the Sankofa Journey, however the Original Sankofa Journey is singular and unique in the life changing and life saving experience that it provides to Afrikans in their reAfrikanization and dewhitenization processes.

Join us for the FREE informational session and for the Sankofa Journey.
http://www.sankofajourney.org

Live Interactive Online and Accra, Ghana Afrikan Language Classes

Register for Free Afrikan Liberation Institute

Sign Up for AKALI Mailing List

Abibitumi Kasa Fundraiser

| 28520|2009-04-08 08:16:46|pharoahisrael|Re: FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months|
Greetings and Shalom,
Bro. Asar Imhotep. I agree with You wholeheartedly about the mis-direction of a lot of Afro-American minds disregarding the teachings of Europeans (The White Man) even if such teachings are true. I have dealt with a lot of Black Peoples like that myself. I have learned long ago at a early age to accept that which can be proved true by The Physical Senses no matter who brings it.
In so saying I wish to state that I am not calling all of Darwin's teachings wrong. He presents much facts. But those facts can be found anywhere else too if one cares to look and/or knows where to look. In addition Darwin did his work looking for answers that The European Physics and Spiritual Society had not given him and those Materialists that shared or supported his viewpoints. Darwin's work was a Work of The State, The State of The Art of The European World on Origins and developments. Due to the very nature of the times and the atmosphere that it took place in there was bound to be a lot of facts and truths that were discovered and then distorted by The European Establishment Itself.!

However Darwin's truths were not so new either. You state the Cosmology Systems of Indigenous Afro-Asiatic Peoples and the fact that they mention Transmigration Of The Souls, the Starry or Astral World Concept of Man/Woman's Origination and Development Through Matter, and Re-Incarnations.
Darwinism Never covered any of that as I am aware of.! His sole Thesis was to prove That Man Originated From Primates With Apes/Monkeys as a Common Ancestor.! It was a European Materialist way of saying that everything came from Africa but in The Form of an Ape-Man/Woman but Not a Black Man/Woman Human Being. European-Indian Darwinists have revised and refined darwinism to what it is now in lieu of new evidence but for almost a century or even more they thought that it was as far as " human sciences " could go.!

Again I state that Darwinism and Evolution (Human Evolution of Man/Woman as The Primary Human Life Form/Species on The Planet)
Are Two (2) Different Things Altogether.! The concepts of those African peoples that You have mentioned are still evolving too and The Concept of Star Origin can be seen in Ancient Nubia 48, 000 years ago with a Tablet of A Man/Woman worshipping The Stars (or Something taht made the stars too) . I will get You that Tablet info Soon. It was given to me by a Close European (White) companion who is also an Anthropologist from Washington State (USA).! Ironically this is what the Male/Female team of scientists said in the early seventies featured in National Geographic of which I cannot recall their actual names now but will find them too.

Darwinism, as I know, posits nothing of this type and The Animists
Scientists of Africa, Asia, America, Australia and elsewhere taught that WE as Man/Woman-Human Beings are The Products of The Five Great Elements called :

1. Ether, Plasma, Dark Matter
2. Fire - Nitrogen
3. Air - Oxygen
4. Water - Hydrogen
5. Earth - Carbon

There is No Science today anywhere that has disproved this concept and the various cosmologies among all indigenous peoples anywhere was founded on this one single truth.

Again, I accept all intelligence and truth from anyone but I will call Unfounded THEORIES such as Darwinism what they really are no matter the type of collateral education that came from educated individuals pursuing the lines of thought that it evoked and coming into some truth themselves about our position and reality as a life form here on this planet albeit ackwardly at that.

I state that there is a method and a way contained in the Ancestral Teachings that are Indispensable.

That is All. Thank You Also Sir.

Sincerely,

MLP.,
Moorish Federal Nationalists-AFN.

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> Peace Ginger
>
> It seems that a lot of African-Americans are falling into a cognitive trap that reached its height during the sixties. This line of thinking basically states that anything the "White" man says or does is to be written off as untrue and should be disregarded by the African community. Although the history of European based pedagogy in the United States warrants us to be extra critical of their scholarship, out right dismissal of all of their scholarship would render any African scholar intellectually handicapped in this day and age.
>
> We want to honor our greats such as Dr. Diop and John Henrick Clarke, yet we don't want to follow their lead to get to the point that got them there. As Dr. Clarke noted:
>
> "Most of the old and new Black scholars asking for a total reconsideration of African history, in particular, and world history, in general, are using neglected documents by radical White Scholars who are generally neglected by the White academic community."
>
> What he is pointing out is that the use of White scholarship has been an essential part of retelling our story, primarily because they have had the funding to go out and collect the necessary data. It was our job to reinterpret the data for a more refined analysis. Dr. Diop stressed that we create our own research teams, but never neglected information on science because a "White" man articulated in a book.
>
> Now usually African-Americans who make such statements hinting at us abandoning theories JUST because a "White" man came up with them have little to no knowledge of how to critique information and find it easier to use the "White" man as a scapegoat for not taking the time to learn the field and how to properly challenge any opposing ideas they may have about a given concept.
>
> In regards to evolution as articulated by Darwin, his concept is not new and is not anti-African. Africans who claim that it is have not read the evolutionary concepts, or sat and heard these concepts at the feet of African elders in wisdom centers of knowledge. I can tell you that evolution, as articulated by Darwin, is a part of the Dogon, Egyptian, Dagara and Zulu systems of thought. This was NOT knowledge introduced by the "White" man either.
>
> Credo Mutwa in Indaba My Children (1964) tells us about the Zulu concept of evolution as such:
>
> "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

>
> Those of us who are familar with African cosmologies can tell you that to the African there are not seperate souls: all souls are one. Mutwa (1964: 565) confirms this for us when he states, "Man does not possess a special soul, exclusive to himself. All souls are the same, and Man is but one of the many forms, or re-incarnations that a soul must pass through."
>
> As we have stated in our discussions on the Ba and Ka(a), these are just perceived differentiations of the universal "soul" that is creation. And when you read the Egyptian texts and symbolism, they are articulating how this universal "soul" evolved to later become man. This line of thinking is in exact alignment as to what has been found in Astrophysics.
>
> African spiritual traditions all say we came here from the stars. The Zulu, Egyptians and the Dogon say we came exactly from the star Sirius. Any astrophysist would tell you that the galaxy, the earth, water, the elements, fish, reptiles, mammals, humans, trees, etc., are all derived as the result of dying stars. Here is some proof of this statement:
>
> We Are Made of Stardust
> http://www.thegreatstory.org/Stardustbackground.html
>
> We are made of star stuff
> http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=buhauZwOw7A
>
> The Quest for Life
> http://video.google.de/videoplay?docid=5766979965403704214
>
> The Death Star
> http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-41720681955951129
>
>
> On page 590 (1964) Credo Mutwa informs us that in Zulu cosmology, the fundamental stages of man are 1) grass (plant), 2) Tree, 3) beast, 4) human, 5) Reptile, 6) bird 7) back to star phase. Although his account of evolution is different than modern biology or astrophysics, it none the less is a evolutionary theory which has humans deriving from animals.
>
> Laird Scranton spends a lot of space on this topic in his work Sacred Symbols of the Dogon and is worth reading. Malidoma Some in his work The Healing Wisdom of Africa starting in Chapter 8 describes the creation of the universe in stark similitude to that of espoused by modern astrophysists. He takes it further by adding a "spiritual" dimension to it and arguing that our return to the stars is the last phase in our "human evolution." (pg 168).
>
> Human evolution, as a small segment of biological evolution in general, is NOT a "White" man's concept. If you would have watched the documentary you would have heard the biologists state that life is like a tree and that tree shows our relationship and affinities to all that exist here on earth. Is that not an African concept of relatedness to everything in the universe? Is this not taught in our wisdom centers that we evolved from a singularity and humans are the last things to be evolve? This is basic African philosophical knowledge.

>
> So instead of dismissing something because a "white" man said it, we should learn simply how to do a proper critique of the information and be prepared to scientifically counter it if we feel there is an error in analysis or experimentation. We can't claim that we invented the sciences and the scientific method and then abondon it all of sudden and say its the white mans. Theophile Obenga would definitely disagree with this kind of thinking as articulated in his work African Philosophy: The Pharaonic Period: 2780-330 BC.
>
> The theory of evolution has not been falsified in 150 plus years of scrutiny. That should tell you something. If anything it should tell you that the ancestors were right.
>
> Ancestrally,
>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimhotep.com
>
>
>
> --- On Sun, 4/5/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:
> From: Ginger Daniels
> Subject: FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
> To: ""Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com" " <Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com>
> Date: Sunday, April 5, 2009, 5:20 PM
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Ginger Daniels
> Sent: 4/5/2009 9:50:20 PM
> To: pharoahisrael@...
> Cc: pharoahisrael@...
> Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
>
>
> Thank u for this response and for bringing "intelligent balance" to > this conversation. I especially like the "mechanically inclined"
> comment. It seems particularly relevant to this conversation. It is almost > laughable to me that we the direct descendants of the creator are here arguing > thus point. This theory of the white man is being regergitated instead of being > highlighted as merely a theory, which it is.
> U would swear by the responses here that these are proven facts. Which they are > not. I hear these same things in school from my professors and they never answer > the tough questions; this seems to be the case here as well. I notice there was > no response to your email, only a video (from a white mans perspective of > course) but no real fact finding agendas of our own. Just looking for ways to > support their already established hypothesis.

> So again my brotha thank you for bringing something more than a western learned > point of view. The young people like myself who come to this site seeking the > guidance of our elders need a perspective from our own people so that we can > match it to what they teach in these institutions (killing fields for the black > mind) so that we can find the truth.
> -----Original Message-----
> Date: Friday, April 03, 2009 9:15:26 am
> To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com;Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Cc: atenergy@...
> From: pharoahisrael@...
> Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
>

| 28521|2009-04-08 08:17:32|Michael Bayman|Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-News-Service: 17: Ku-Mal: 301,614|

Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-News-Service*
17: Ku-Mal: 301,614

- - -Agade-Medina
Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency: Staff did presentthe link (See-below) from the blogtalkradio:broadcast of the presenting by the"Brothas-Keepa" of the featuring of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Sector-Ambassador, His-Excellency: Grand-Noble: Cedric-Bey-Muhammad: El, commanding His-Imperial-Majesty's: Sector-Government-Operations herein the Sector-1/North-Amexem: portion of the Amexem-Moor-Empire. At the time of the broadcast of the presenting-herein, His-Excellency was serving as the Regional-Ambassador commanding the South-Central-Region of the North-Amexem.
http://www.blogtalkradio.com/nbbta/2009/03/11/Real-Talk-wBrothas-Keepa
Amexem-Moor-Empire: Sovereign-Copyright-Number: SC04062009CE008

| 28522|2009-04-08 08:18:20|Maurice Humphrey|Ancient city in Mali rivals Mesopotamia|
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=b9LkpJdll9A
The video above describes a site in ancient Mali that rivals Mesopotamia in terms of size. This site, according to a Yale University archaeologist, is at least 2,000 years old. In fact, the site is twice as large as ancient Timbuktu and Timbuktu itself was larger thanLondon at the time... Interesting. There is so muchto be done in terms of telling our story (history), but wemust tellOUR OWN story. We should be doing the excavating notthe enemy ofthe African state.

| 28523|2009-04-08 09:25:04|Mahari Mengistu|Israeli Jews bless the sun in rare 28-year prayer|

Here's another reason to suspect that Judaism/Christianity came out of Aigypt. This is highly reminiscent of the worship of the Akenaten's Aten who I believe was the true --- moses.

====

Israeli Jews bless the sun in rare 28-year prayer

AFP?Orthodox Jews pray during sunrise in the Judean Desert in the West Bank above the Dead Sea. Tens of thousands?
2hrs39minsago

JERUSALEM (AFP) ? Tens of thousands of Jewish faithful turned out before sunrise on Wednesday in front of the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem and elsewhere in the country to bless the sun in a prayer said once every 28 years.

Dressed in white prayer shawls, men and women, adults and children filled the plaza in front of the wall, Judaism's holiest site, and crowded onto nearby rooftops to catch a glimpse of the sun rising over the Holy City.

As the faithful swayed back and forth in prayer, the area filled with the din of the Birkat Hakhama prayer.

Elsewhere around Israel and the occupied West Bank, tens of thousands of observant Jews sought out hilltops and rooftops to catch the first rays of the sun to recite the prayer.

Birkat Hakhama is said as the sun comes up to mark what according to Jewish tradition is the sun's return to its position at the moment that the universe was created 5,769 years ago. It returns to the spot once every 28 years.

The prayer has special significance this year because it coincides with the start of the Passover holiday, one of Judaism's most important, at sundown on Wednesday.

The Wailing Wall, also called the Western Wall, sits below the Al-Aqsa Mosque compound, Islam's third-holiest place.

===

HTP,

Mahari

| 28524|2009-04-08 10:28:10|Mahari Mengistu|ETHIOPIA - BREAK IT DOWN|
Does anyone know Greek well enough to know how to break down Ethiopia (Aetiopia in Greek, I think) into its derivative parts to show that it does in fact means "burnt faces"?
The reason for questioning this is that I am wondering if perhaps these black/brown people were called that because it was, in fact, the name of the country and eventually came to mean "burnt faces" as a colloquial or simply as a sign of "barbaric" disrespect.

HTP,
Mahari
| 28525|2009-04-08 17:16:05|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|Fw: Spring 2009 Class Flyer|
Attachments :

> From: AAS Atlanta
> Subject: Spring 2009 Class Flyer
> To: "Ausar Auset Society Atlanta"
> Date: Tuesday, April 7, 2009, 10:43 AM
>
> Hetepu!
> (peace)
>
> # AUSAR AUSET SOCIETY Spring 2009 Classes & Workshops
>
> Begins Saturday, April 18, 2009
> CLASSES
> Maat: 11 Laws of God 11am 12pm This class will teach the Kamitic Philosophy of Self through the teachings of the 11 Laws of God. You will discover the 11 laws that govern the 11 urges of man and woman. And, if they are applied to your life, you can expect a lawfully successful life.
> Conversing with God through the I Ching 12pm 1pm Learn how to consult the I Ching, an ancient oracle system devised to gain insight into the spiritual significance of every aspect of your life. You will learn how to query the oracle, how to understand trigrams and hexagrams, and ultimately, how to be your own spiritual counselor. The I-Ching Counselor Workbook is required.

Classes are held every Saturday for 4 weeks

WORKSHOPS

Kamitic Spiritual Success

April 18th 1pm 2 pm This workshop will teach you all that you need to know to bring the power of your spirit to assist you in achieving your goals and to live a successful life. The workshop is based on Metu Neter, Vol. 3 by Ra Un Nefer Amen.

Mens Vitality April 25th 1pm 2pm This workshop will use ancient healing wisdom and modern nutritional science to give students a firm foundation in male virility and vitality concepts.

Spiritual Relationships May 2nd 1pm 2pm Learn how to develop and maintain meaningful relationships using the Kamitic Tree of Life. This workshop is based on the book, "Afrocentric Guide to a Spiritual Union" by Ra Un Nefer Amen.

Phenomenal Parenting May 9th 1pm 2pm Each child arrives as a gift from the universe and has a distinct purpose. The deepest nurturing you can give your child is spiritual nurturing. This workshop will provide direction and insight into guiding our children on their earthly journey and identify steps to help teach them values that focus on spiritual needs. The Ausar Auset Society is a pan-African religious organization dedicated to the spiritual development of people of African descent. Teachings are based on the ancient Kamitic (Egyptian) systems of spiritual cultivation. Spiritual Readings are available upon request.
For more information, call 678-701-8011 or email us at aasatlanta@gmail.com beginning April 18th: Cost is $49.00 for the entire 4-week session for all classes and workshops payable at the first class session. Otherwise, the cost is $10 per class or workshop.

Decatur Recreation Center 231 Sycamore Street in downtown Decatur (one block from the Decatur MARTA Station; free parking is available at the library parking deck)

The Ausar Auset Society is a pan-African religious organization dedicated to the spiritual development of people of African descent. Teachings are based on the ancient Kamitic (Egyptian) systems of spiritual cultivation. Spiritual Readings are available upon request.
For more information, call 678-701-8011 or email us at aasatlanta@gmail.com.
The Ausar Auset Society is a pan-African religious organization dedicated to the spiritual development of people of African descent. Teachings are based on the ancient Kamitic (Egyptian) systems of spiritual cultivation. Spiritual Readings are available upon request.
For more information, call 678-701-8011 or email us at aasatlanta@gmail.com.

also visit
www.metuneterworld.com

| 28526|2009-04-08 19:19:05|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: Check out YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a l|

there is a good book also called ancient kingdoms of the nile,by walter fairservis in the book are letters and treaties by arabs demanding slaves.
also there is another book i cannot recall about the arab salt mines and how blacks only lasted at most 3yrs due too the salt eroding their toes and feet,, and the slave would become useless to the arabs.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/8/09, AUSAR65@aol.com wrote:

From: AUSAR65@aol.com
Subject: Check out YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a longer period
To: Afrikannubian@aol.com, alandas@nsightmemphis.com, audreyd@greenwayllc.com, sdillon84@yahoo.com, godlyu.productions@yahoo.com, healingbynana@yahoo.com, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Date: Wednesday, April 8, 2009, 7:35 PM

YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a longer period of time /La traite n駱i骯 arabo-musulmane

---

Feeling the pinch at the grocery store? Make dinner for $10 or less.

| 28527|2009-04-08 20:55:50|shutefnut|Re: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE.|
Hotep
I'm sorry I did not make arrangements to have a DVD made for the lecture. Hopefully someone might take up that charge. Thanks for the inquiry, and if you can make it come on out it's going to a great lecture. Part I, of III. Thursday.

Heru Bennu Amen Ra

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, SaNu Tepra wrote:
>
> Sounds fascinating. Do you know if there will be a DVD of the lecture available? If so, please let us know.
>
> --- On Sun, 4/5/09, Shu Tefnut wrote:
>
> From: Shu Tefnut
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE.
> To: afrikanunity_ofharlem@..., "HERU BENNU AMEN RA" <afrikangodsoftherealm@yahoogroups.com>, "Eugene Bennett" , bnyee@googlegroups.com, dr.garaia@..., friends@..., GatherTheFires@yahoogroups.com, happilynaturalday@yahoogroups.com, hndsupport@..., luv4self_network@yahoogroups.com, mwananchi@yahoogroups.com, NABSE@yahoogroups.com, nnabakyaala.afrika@..., openyourthirdeye@..., smaitawi@yahoogroups.com, Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, thanubian2@..., trueblackness@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Sunday, April 5, 2009, 12:02 PM

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> HOTEP/ GREETINGS
>
>
> BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:
>
>
>
>
> AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE.
>
>
> when: April 9th, 2009
> where: The Mackey Group.
> 103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
> in the basement,
> Brooklyn, New York
> time: 8pm. sharp
> direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.
>
>
>
>
>
> THIS WILL BE APOWERPOINTPRESENTATION.
>
>
> LECTURE CONTENT:
>
>
> 1. Developmentof Paleolithic cultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will review Odawan, > Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.
>
>
> 2. Pre-dynastic periods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to give a chronological perspective of the art > and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.

>
>
> 3. Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
> The foundation of art and architecture that reached its zenith in Egypt. As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
> The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture > of the Nubians who in fact established the canons of art and architecture for all world civilzations.
>
| 28528|2009-04-08 20:56:49|Paul Kekai Manansala|Queen Sesheshet burial|
Mother complex
By Ran Shapira
http://www.haaretz.com/hasen/spages/1077147.html

The Egyptian researchers who, in early January, entered the burial room in the latest pyramid to be discovered in Saqqara, south of Cairo, labored for five hours before they could lift the lid of the sarcophagus within. Inside was a mummy wrapped in a flax shroud. In addition to pottery shards, gold wrappings were also found in the sarcophagus, which apparently were used to cover the fingers of the mummified body. Although no inscriptions were found in the tomb, the researchers assume, with a high level of probability, that it contains the body of the mother of the founder of the Egyptian Sixth Dynasty: Pharaoh Teti.

The pyramid in which the queen, Sesheshet, was buried, was discovered in November 2008 - it is the 118th found in Egypt. Its discovery in Teti's burial compound surprised the researchers to some extent, since the site had been thoroughly combed through over the past 150 years. In addition to the pyramid where the king himself was buried, two "satellite pyramids" were found, the tombs of his two principal wives: The one belonging to Iput I was discovered about 100 years ago; the second, of Khuit, was discovered in 1994.
Advertisement

Information about the queen herself is very meager.

In a papyrus document that includes medical prescriptions, her name is mentioned alongside a request for a preparation that was supposed to strengthen thin hair. Nevertheless, it is possible that the "pharmacists" used her name to lend a bit of prestige to the prescription, and did not necessarily prepare it for her. Another inscription mentions her as being the mother of the king, and in several reliefs of the same area the name "Sesheshet" appears. However, these do not contribute substantial information about the king's mother. Scholars believe she played a very important role in her son's ascent to the throne, thanks, among other things, to her success in mediating between two rival factions within the royal family.

Dr. Deborah Sweeney, an expert on ancient Egypt from the archaeology department of Tel Aviv University, says researchers assume that Sesheshet belonged to the close circle of the last king of the Fifth Dynasty, Unas. He had no sons to inherit the throne and Teti may have been his grandson. Since it is not known when she died, researchers can only guess that the pharaoh's mother was alive during almost 20 years of his reign, which extended from 2323 to 2291 B.C.E.

"Queens were identified with the goddesses that accompany the sun god, protect him and give him strength," Sweeney explains. "The king needed a queen at his side. There were periods when the queens played a political role, but that was an exception. There was a need for that, for example, when a king ascended to the throne as a child. Usually in those cases there was a queen mother, who took charge of governing until her son grew up."

Dr. Rachel Shlomi-Chen, of Hebrew University's department of Ancient Near Eastern history, says Manetho, a Greek historian from the 3rd century B.C.E., wrote about a conspiracy in Teti's court. Furthermore, archaeologists excavating the cemetery near Teti's pyramid in Saqqara have found evidence that may point to a plot: The inscriptions on the tombs of high-ranking officials in the court were damaged, in what does not seem to be a random way, scholars claim: It may have been deliberately done to the tombs of officials belonging to the conspiracy.

The queen mother may have helped Teti in his struggle against the conspirators, but in any case, according to Manetho, he was murdered by his bodyguards not long after she died. His dynasty, the Sixth, ruled Egypt until 2184 B.C.E., almost 1,000 years before the period of Rameses II, the king during whose reign the Exodus from Egypt took place.

Egyptian scholars, headed by Dr. Zahi Hawass, secretary general of the country's Supreme Council of Antiquities, stress that Sesheshet's pyramid is more impressive in terms of its dimensions than the structures usually built by ancient Egyptian rulers for their wives and mothers. Discovered beneath seven meters of sand, this pyramid in its prime was 14 meters high and the width of its square base was 22 meters.

There is no question that Teti wanted to express respect for his mother by building the structure, but this in itself was not so unusual, Shlomi-Chen emphasizes: In ancient Egypt, the royal family also played an important religious role, and its members were considered to be the earthly incarnations of gods. The pharaoh was identified with Horus, god of the sky and the sun. The queen was both the spouse of the most important god and the mother of the god-king who was to succeed him. She was also identified with the goddess Hathor, the mother of Horus and the wife of the sun god, Ra. One of Hathor's symbols was a noisemaker, which is called sistrum in Greek and sesheshet in Egyptian.

A step up

The transition between the Fifth and Sixth Dynasties was accompanied by significant changes in religion and ritual. Dr. Sweeney explains that the kings of the Fifth Dynasty built their pyramids at Abu Sir rather than Saqqara. Alongside their pyramids, in addition to pyramids for their wives and mothers, they also built a sun temple, symbolizing their belief in Ra. During the Fifth Dynasty, the cult of Ra constituted the state religion, but there were changes during the reign of the last two kings in the dynasty: Alongside the pyramids of Unas and his predecessor, there were no sun temples, nor were there any in the burial compound of Teti and his family.

"It is possible that Teti and Unas built huge temples in the capital city of Memphis, but nothing remains of them," Sweeney suggests.

Unas also built his pyramid in Saqqara, which shows that after living elsewhere, he returned to the ancient burial site where the most famous type of step pyramid, that of Djoser, was constructed. Another innovation relating to Unas' pyramid, according to Shlomi-Chen, is the fact that the walls bear inscriptions - spells designed to accompany the king in the Land of the Dead. In the inscriptions, Unas is identified for the first time with Osiris, king of the Land of the Dead, and not only with the sun god. The Osiris cult, which came to symbolize the resurrection of the dead and was identified with the cycles of nature, had been started two generations earlier by the nobility.

Teti ascended the throne on the backdrop of profound changes in Egyptian religion and culture, and became part of them. Further research into his mother's tomb will likely shed more light on him and on the events of that period of antiquity.
| 28529|2009-04-09 08:32:31|Obadele Kwame Kambon|Come join me at 3 Hour Intensive Workshop: Understanding the Yoruba |

Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network
Listen. Learn. Liberate!

Obadele Kwame Kambon

Obadele Kwame Kambon has invited you to the event '3 Hour Intensive Workshop: Understanding the Yoruba Odu Ifa 4/11/09 6:30PM EST" on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network!
3 Hour Intensive Workshop: Understanding the Yoruba Odu Ifa 4/11/09 6:30PM EST at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php
April 11, 2009 from 6:30pm to 9:30pm

Time: April 11, 2009 from 6:30pm to 9:30pm
Location: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php
Organized By: Obadele Kwame Kambon

Event Description:
What: 3 Hour Intensive Workshop: Understanding the Yoruba Odu Ifa: A Story from Ogbe Wehin: Eni ti koi tii setan iku
Who: You Afrikan!
When: April 11, 2009 @ 6:30PM EST
Where: Abibitumi Kasa Member Classroom
How much: 50 USD
How: Step 1: Register for the workshop at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html

Step 2: Create an account at free forum at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php then at the time of class click member classroom or on this link: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

To set up audio and video and font for workshop view our instructional videos at: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

Eni ti koi tii setan iku is a very special Itan (history) from the Ese Ifa which explains the meaning of Orunmila. Additionally it is an inspiring story of one's unalterable destiny through trials and tribulations and how in the face of seemingly overwhelming odds, one can and will triumph with the help of Olodumare, the Orisa and one's own Ori.

In this workshop we will read directly from this Odu and story focusing on the following skills in Yoruba:

Pronunciation
Reading
Comprehension
Worldview

Abibitumi Kasa Staff and Family

See more details and RSVP on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network:
http://abibitumikasa.ning.com/events/event/show?id=2053441%3AEvent%3A22551&xgi=4NmRxou

About Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network
Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Language and Liberation Institutes dewhitenize parts of the brain others can't reach.

353 members
494 photos
169 songs
66 videos
112 discussions
59 Events
50 blog posts

To control which emails you receive on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network, click here

.
| 28530|2009-04-09 11:22:35|SaNu Tepra|Re: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE.|
Actually I'm in Chicago, so that would be a little difficult.
Anyway, please consider doing so in the future. We need as much of this type material as is humanly possiblerecorded to mediafor distribution beyond the geographiclocale in which the lecture is given.That way you can reach a much broader audience (nationally and internationally) and hopefully make a little $$$ in the process.No need for fancy production facilities and associated high costs. Camcorders, video editing softwareand the ability to burn and duplicate DVD's are very cheap these days.
Let us know how it goes.

--- On Wed, 4/8/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE.
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 8, 2009, 2:32 PM

Hotep
I'm sorry I did not make arrangements to have a DVD made for the lecture. Hopefully someone might take up that charge. Thanks for the inquiry, and if you can make it come on out it's going to a great lecture. Part I, of III. Thursday.

Heru Bennu Amen Ra

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, SaNu Tepra wrote:
>
> Sounds fascinating. Do you know if there will be a DVD of the lecture available? If so, please let us know.
>
> --- On Sun, 4/5/09, Shu Tefnut wrote:
>
> From: Shu Tefnut
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE.
> To: afrikanunity_ ofharlem@ ..., "HERU BENNU AMEN RA" <afrikangodsoftherealm@yahoogroups. com>, "Eugene Bennett" , bnyee@googlegroups. com, dr.garaia@.., friends@..., GatherTheFires@ yahoogroups. com, happilynaturalday@ yahoogroups. com, hndsupport@. .., luv4self_network@ yahoogroups. com, mwananchi@yahoogroups.com, NABSE@yahoogroups. com, nnabakyaala. afrika@.. ., openyourthirdeye@ ..., smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, thanubian2@. .., trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Sunday, April 5, 2009, 12:02 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> HOTEP/ GREETINGS
>
>
> BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:
>
>
>
>
> AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE.
>
>
> when: April 9th, 2009
> where: The Mackey Group.
> 103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
> in the basement,
> Brooklyn, New York

> time: 8pm. sharp
> direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.
>
>
>
>
>
> THIS WILL BE APOWERPOINTPRESENTA TION.
>
>
> LECTURE CONTENT:
>
>
> 1. Developmentof Paleolithic cultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will review Odawan, > Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.
>
>
> 2. Pre-dynastic periods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to give a chronological perspective of the art > and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.
>
>
> 3. Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
> The foundation of art and architecture that reached its zenith in Egypt. As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
> The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture > of the Nubians who in fact established the canons of art and architecture for all world civilzations.
>

| 28531|2009-04-09 12:06:14|cristofori whitakara|Re: Fw: Check out YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on|
305.896 A
AUTHOR Anderson, S. E. (Sam E.)
TITLE The black holocaust : for beginners / by S.E. Anderson ;
illustrated by The Cro-maat Collective & Vanessa Holley.
PUBLISHER New York : Writers and Readers Publishing, c1995.

--- On Wed, 4/8/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka

Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fw: Check out YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a longer period
To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 8, 2009, 10:18 PM

there is a good book also called ancient kingdoms of the nile,by walter fairservis in the book are letters and treaties by arabs demanding slaves.
also there is another book i cannot recall about the arab salt mines and how blacks only lasted at most 3yrs due too the salt eroding their toes and feet,, and the slave would become useless to the arabs.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/8/09, AUSAR65@aol. com wrote:

From: AUSAR65@aol. com
Subject: Check out YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a longer period
To: Afrikannubian@ aol.com, alandas@nsightmemph is.com, audreyd@greenwayllc .com, sdillon84@yahoo. com, godlyu.productions@ yahoo.com, healingbynana@ yahoo.com, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Date: Wednesday, April 8, 2009, 7:35 PM

YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a longer period of time /La traite n駸i骯 arabo-musulmane

---

Feeling the pinch at the grocery store? Make dinner for $10 or less.

| 28532|2009-04-09 16:13:43|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Fw: Check out YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on| tua/thanx

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Thu, 4/9/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> From: cristofori whitakara
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Fw: Check out YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a longer period
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Thursday, April 9, 2009, 2:05 PM
>
> 305.896 A

AUTHOR Anderson, S. E. (Sam E.)
TITLE The black holocaust : for beginners / by S.E. Anderson ;
illustrated by The Cro-maat Collective & Vanessa Holley.
PUBLISHER New York : Writers and Readers Publishing, c1995.

--- On Wed, 4/8/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fw: Check out YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a longer period
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Wednesday, April 8, 2009, 10:18 PM
>
> there is a good book also called ancient kingdoms of the nile,by walter fairservis in the bo > letters and treaties by arabs demanding slaves.
> also there is another book i cannot recall about the arab salt mines and how blacks only las > most 3yrs due too the salt eroding their toes and feet,, and the slave would become useless > arabs.
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Wed, 4/8/09, AUSAR65@aol. com wrote:
>
> From: AUSAR65@aol. com
> Subject: Check out YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a longer period
> To: Afrikannubian@ aol.com, alandas@nsightmemph is.com, audreyd@greenwayllc .com > sdillon84@yahoo. com, godlyu.productions@ yahoo.com, healingbynana@ yahoo.com, > tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Date: Wednesday, April 8, 2009, 7:35 PM
>
> YouTube - Arabs enslaved black people first and on a longer period of time /La traite n駸i骯 arabo musulmane
>
> ---
>
> Feeling the pinch at the grocery store? Make dinner for $10 or less.

| 28533|2009-04-09 16:24:03|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: Check out YouTube - African Queens|

good info/presentation

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- > wrote:

From: AUSAR65
Subject: Check out YouTube - African Queens

Date: Wednesday, April 8, 2009, 6:24 PM

YouTube - African Queens

Feeling the pinch at the grocery store? Make dinner for $10 or less.

| 28534|2009-04-09 20:17:31|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: the drug war(on blacks)|

> http://drugwarfacts.org/cms/?q=node/64
>
> Alandas Dobbins
>
> alandas@nsightmemphis.com

| 28535|2009-04-10 07:09:44|odhiambo okecth|KCDN Girls receive a boost|
Yesterday, 8th March 2009, we were able to give some 35 girls who are of age sanitary towels at KCDN.

The towels were bought courtesy.....http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com

Odhiambo T Oketch,
CEO KCDN Nairobi.
Tel; 0735 529 126, 0724 365 557

| 28536|2009-04-10 07:09:45|Shu Tefnut|[BNYEE]--BUT WHERE IS THE AFRICAN DESCENDENTS SCHOLARSHIPS.|

As I read the article about thetwelve deserving students who are recipients of theNew York Timesscholarships, and as I read their names and places of birth,nine of the twelve were either immigrants or children of immigrants. The origins of the other three are not clear.

> In no way do I intend to denigrate the children of immigrants or their parents or imply their unworthiness of scholarships.Yet I do ask the important question "What about the children of African descendents born in the United States"? "What about the children whose ancestors built the US economy without compensation"?

I asked the same questions when theCity University of New Yorkannounced its Black Male Initiative. I wrote twice to CUNYChancellor Matthew Goldsteincommending the BMI but asking for disaggregation of the data distinguishing males born in the US,descendents of formerly enslaved Africans who built theNew Yorkand the US economy, from students who were immigrants or the children of immigrants. Dr. Goldstein and I know each other well. In fact when he was president ofBaruch College, he promoted me to Associate Provost when I chaired the Department of Education. Yet our relationship did notmerit a reply to either of my inquiries.

When I directed the study of the CUNY SEEK Program, I visited every CUNY senior college, and when I chaired the CUNYAfrican American Facultyand Staff Network I visited all of the senior colleges. It did not require much observational acuity to discern the virtual absence of Black males. Of the small number who were enrolled I wanted to find out the percentage ofdescendents of formerly enslaved Africans.

"The Schott Educational Inequity Index and other recent reports demonstrate that states can educate some children, but most do not educate the majority of their African-American boys." "Much of the problem is concentrated in a few large cities: New York City, Chicago,Detroitand Dade County(Miami)". InNew York City, for example, whose Black male enrollment is 174, 412, the 2003/04 graduation rate was 26%. New York State was only a little better at 38%. The data is not disaggregated. No comprehensive study is available for Black females, but it is unlikely that the data is much better.

The data provided by the Schott Foundation should be sounding a loud alarm bell. And if the composition of theNew York Timesscholarship recipients is any indication of which students are deemed worthy of help, which students are thought to be most valuable to the social order, which students are most acceptable, the danger to the future of BlackAmerican familiesis at a very high level. We must be alert that under the guise of diversity selective immigrants will be preferred.

The question we must ask in a loud, marching voice is "What about us"?

Donald H. Smith, Ph.D.

From:dohugh@aol.com
To: Dohugh@aol.com

| 28537|2009-04-10 07:10:20|Michael Bayman|What-It-Is: Like-To: Maintain The Sovereignty-Of-A-Nation, Of The Em|

From: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency: Staff
Unto: All-Moors (Declared/Undeclared)/Original-men and women: on-this-planet
Re: Latest-video from the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Government
I.S.L.A.M.:

On the behalf of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Constitutional-Monarch, His-Imperial-Majesty: Emperor: An-Anu-El: Bey and the-entire: Amexem-Moor-Empire: National-Collective , peace, good-health, and much-prosperity: be-upon-you.
For the record, please-find-below a link for the latest-video from the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency by the order from the Operations-Director : Distinguished-Noble: Seti-Hotep: Bey under the authority of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Minister For The Communications,
His-Excellency: Grand-Noble: Dan-El
For the record, we-request-that-you: share the link with brothers and sisters, in-your-cipher/circle, if-you-appreciate the information therein the video.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=y8tS1XCPxNs
>Of the dispatching by the Amexem-Moor-Empire:
Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency: Staff

| 28538|2009-04-10 07:10:23|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- But where are the African descendent scholarship recip|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: "Dohugh@aol.com"
To: Dohugh@aol.com
Sent: Wednesday, April 8, 2009 10:24:52 PM
Subject: [BNYEE]-- But where are the African descendent scholarship recipients born in the US?...

As I read the article about thetwelve deserving students who are recipients of the New York Times scholarships, and as I read their names and places of birth,nine of the twelve were either immigrants or children of immigrants. The origins of the other three are not clear.

> In no way do I intend to denigrate the children of immigrants or their parents or imply their unworthiness of scholarships.Yet I do ask the important question "What about the children of African descendents born in the United States"? "What about the children whose ancestors built the US economy without compensation"?

I asked the same questions when the City University of New York announced its Black Male Initiative. I wrote twice to CUNY Chancellor Matthew Goldstein commending the BMI but asking for disaggregation of the data distinguishing males born in the US,descendents of formerly enslaved Africans who built the New York and the US economy, from students who were immigrants or the children of immigrants. Dr. Goldstein and I know each other well. In fact when he was president of Baruch College, he promoted me to Associate Provost when I chaired the Department of Education. Yet our relationship did notmerit a reply to either of my inquiries. When I directed the study of the CUNY SEEK Program, I visited every CUNY senior college, and when I chaired the CUNY African American Faculty and Staff Network I visited all of the senior colleges. It did not require much observational acuity to discern the virtual absence of Black males. Of the small number who were enrolled I wanted to find out the percentage ofdescendents of formerly enslaved Africans.

"The Schott Educational Inequity Index and other recent reports demonstrate that states can educate some children, but most do not educate the majority of their African-American boys." "Much of the problem is concentrated in a few large cities: New York City, Chicago, Detroit and Dade County(Miami)". In New York

City, for example, whose Black male enrollment is 174, 412, the 2003/04 graduation rate was 26%. New York State was only a little better at 38%. The data is not disaggregated. No comprehensive study is available for Black females, but it is unlikely that the data is much better.

The data provided by the Schott Foundation should be sounding a loud alarm bell. And if the composition of the New York Times scholarship recipients is any indication of which students are deemed worthy of help, which students are thought to be most valuable to the social order, which students are most acceptable, the danger to the future of Black American families is at a very high level. We must be alert that under the guise of diversity selective immigrants will be preferred.

The question we must ask in a loud, marching voice is "What about us"?

Donald H. Smith, Ph.D.

From: dohugh@aol.com
To: Dohugh@aol.com
Sent: 4/8/2009 12:28:11 P.M. Eastern Daylight Time
Subj: NYTimes.com: Triumphing Over Long Odds to Succeed at School

The New York Times E-Mail This

This page was sent to you by: dohugh@aol.com

NEW YORK REGION | April 08, 2009

Triumphing Over Long Odds to Succeed at School

By SHARON OTTERMAN

A student with a monthly income of $560 and a rent payment of $550 is one of 12 recipients of a New York Times scholarship program.

Most E-Mailed

1. Op-Ed Columnist: The End of Philosophy
2. Mind: When All You Have Left Is Your Pride
3. Report Envisions Shortage of Teachers as Retirements Escalate
4. Gay Rights Groups Celebrate Victories in Marriage Push
5. DNA Test Outperforms Pap Smear

Go to Complete List

Advertisement

500 Days of Summer Premiered at Sundance, starring Joseph Gordon-Levitt and Zooey Deschanel. Coming This Summer
Watch the new trailer!
Click here to view trailer

Copyright 2009 The New York Times Company | Privacy Policy

New Deals on Dell Netbooks - Now starting at $299

New Deals on Dell Netbooks - Now starting at $299

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~

You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en

-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28539|2009-04-10 09:06:24|Mahari Mengistu|Re: [BNYEE]--BUT WHERE IS THE AFRICAN DESCENDENTS SCHOLARSHIPS.|

Among these questions and likely many others is this question:
How many of our kids drop out of school because they are tired of or are afraid to have to walk to school through GANG WAR ZONES EVERYDAY?
I come from a city ghetto but when I was in school gangs existed but not at this level and I never had to fear running into gangs who demand your membership or death! Imagine this. You want to go to school to learn but you have to deal with this DAILY. I beleive I would consider dropping out of school as well.

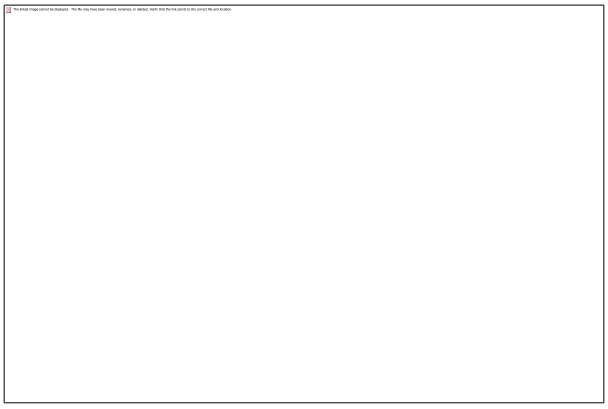
There is another question here: Why and how long do we allow this horrid situation to exist for our children? And what do they think of us for allowing them have to deal with this? And is this freedom really? I don't think so.
HTP,
Mahari



--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Shu Tefnut wrote:
>
> As I read the article about the twelve deserving students who are recipients of the New York Times scholarships, and as I read their names and places of birth, nine of the twelve were either immigrants or children of immigrants. The origins of the other three are not clear.
> In no way do I intend to denigrate the children of immigrants or their parents or imply their unworthiness of scholarships. Yet I do ask the important question "What about the children of African descendents born in the United States"? "What about the children whose ancestors built the US economy without compensation"?
> I asked the same questions when the City University of New York announced its Black Male Initiative. I wrote twice to CUNY Chancellor Matthew Goldsteincommending the BMI but asking for disaggregation of the data distinguishing males born in the US, descendents of formerly enslaved Africans who built the New York and the US economy, from students who were immigrants or the children of immigrants. Dr. Goldstein and I know each other well. In fact when he was president of Baruch College, he promoted me to Associate Provost when I chaired the Department of Education. Yet our relationship did not merit a reply to either of my inquiries.
>
> When I directed the study of the CUNY SEEK Program, I visited every CUNY senior college, and when I chaired the CUNY African American Faculty and Staff Network I visited all of the senior colleges. It did not require much observational acuity to discern the virtual absence of Black males. Of the small number who were enrolled I wanted to find out the percentage of descendents of formerly enslaved Africans.
>
> "The Schott Educational Inequity Index and other recent reports demonstrate that states can educate some children, but most do not educate the majority of their African-American boys." "Much of the problem is concentrated in a few large cities: New York City, Chicago, Detroit and Dade County(Miami)". In New York City, for example, whose Black male enrollment is 174, 412, the 2003/04 graduation rate was 26%. New York State was only a little better at 38%. The data is not disaggregated. No comprehensive study is available for Black females, but it is unlikely that the data is much better.
>
> The data provided by the Schott Foundation should be sounding a loud alarm bell. And if the composition of the New York Times scholarship recipients is any indication of which students are deemed worthy of help, which students are thought to be most valuable to the social order, which students are most acceptable, the danger to the future of BlackAmerican families is at a very high level. We must be alert that under the guise of diversity selective immigrants will be preferred.
> The question we must ask in a loud, marching voice is "What about us"?

> Donald H. Smith, Ph.D.
>
>
>
> _____
> From: dohugh@...
> To: Dohugh@...
>

| 28540|2009-04-10 09:40:08|Mahari Mengistu|Turkish Reporter Uses Blackface to Report on Obama|

Turkish Reporter Uses Blackface to Report on Obama

By Casey Gane-McCalla April 8, 2009 10:35 am

A Turkish reporter used blackface to report on Obama's recent trip there. We're not sure if they know the historical significance of blackface over there or are being stupid or insensitive. But here's the video.

VIDEO: Blackface Obama on Japanese TV Show

This is one of the replies to some of the tepid historically uninformed posters. I agree but it is too bad he cannot write in standard American English. .. not cool.

Did he drop out of school early?====

4-10-2009 11:04 am

the comments by many who r still afrakan by blood living amerika disturb me.

first if you dumb idiots took ur face out that arab quran and bible

u would know turkey is the baby of the once terrible ottoman turkish empire and muhammao ali was one of there genearals and he was so viscious in killking afrakan

women children men and babys

that even europeans portested.

my point

oursorically and historically

arabs/turks

have always hated afrakan people

obama is half afrakan.

also ur got dont exsist

no wonder afrakans even who were born in amerika and world wid get treated so bad u rather be a pussy andpush real life issues off on some deity u read about in a book instead of contibuting to the afrakan race

learn and afrakan

language

read our afrakan story

so then in 2009 u wont make such dumb ass comments like the turkish people r ignorant for

duhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh

mutha fukas

they once enslaved us afrakans

helll fuckinggggggggg looooooooo

i give up its time for me to go get somehead,sometimes u my own people disgust me for ur own ignoance

is embarrassing

| 28541|2009-04-10 09:53:49|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Turkish Reporter Uses Blackface to Report on Obama|

Watch out for this link. You will have to scroll down to find the Turkish video. BUT somehow there is a porn link that pops up. Be forewarned. I am sorry. It surprised me, too.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Turkish Reporter Uses Blackface to Report on Obama By Casey Gane-McCalla > <http://newsone.blackplanet.com/author/casey-gane-mccalla/> April 8, > 2009 10:35 am
>
> [http://cdn.newsone.blackplanet.com/wp-content/uploads/2009/04/picture-1\
> 95-300x199.jpg]
> <http://cdn.newsone.blackplanet.com/wp-content/uploads/2009/04/picture-1\ > 95.jpg>
>
>
>
> A Turkish reporter used blackface to report on Obama's recent trip > there. We're not sure if they know the historical significance of > blackface over there or are being stupid or insensitive. But here's > the video.
>
>
>
> VIDEO: Blackface Obama on Japanese TV Show > <http://newsone.blackplanet.com/obama/obama/video-blackface-obama-on-jap\ > anese-tv-show/>
>
> This is one of the replies to some of the tepid historically uninformed > posters. I agree but it is too bad he cannot write in standard American > English. .. not cool.
>
> Did he drop out of school early?====
>
> 4-10-2009 11:04 am
>
> the comments by many who r still afrakan by blood living amerika disturb > me.
>
> first if you dumb idiots took ur face out that arab quran and bible
>
> u would know turkey is the baby of the once terrible ottoman turkish > empire and muhammao ali was one of there genearals and he was so > viscious in killking afrakan
>
> women children men and babys

>
> that even europeans portested.
>
> my point
>
> oursorically and historically
>
> arabs/turks
>
> have always hated afrakan people
>
> obama is half afrakan.
>
> also ur got dont exsist
>
> no wonder afrakans even who were born in amerika and world wid get > treated so bad u rather be a pussy andpush real life issues off on some > deity u read about in a book instead of contibuting to the afrakan race
>
> learn and afrakan
>
> language
>
> read our afrakan story
>
> so then in 2009 u wont make such dumb ass comments like the turkish > people r ignorant for
>
> duhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh
>
> mutha fukas
>
> they once enslaved us afrakans
>
> helll fuckingggggggggg looooooooo
>
> i give up its time for me to go get somehead,sometimes u my own people > disgust me for ur own ignoance
>
> is embarrassing
>
| 28542|2009-04-10 15:21:54|Mahari Mengistu|TEACHING INDIA'S UNTOUCHABLES|
The audio says that the Dalits have the added stigma of being known for "hunting and eating rats".
Evil people can be so confounding - I suspect even to themselves. The Dalits are forced to do this and all manner of other things. So when they do what they must do to survive they are then maligned for having done what they were forced to do.

HTP,
Mahari
http://online.wsj.com/video/teaching-india-untouchables/C896D5C4-16B9-4B1C-9B13-35C61115D131.html
| 28543|2009-04-10 15:52:22|Paul Kekai Manansala|Epigenetics: The new frontier of biological racism|
Eugenicists, racial historians, racial anthopologists, etc. were betrayed by the field of genetics. Their many assumptions about race and genes in the form of DNA have been shown by countless recent studies to have no place in reality.

Not unpredictably, these race fanatics have been looking elsewhere to justify their preconceptions about race.

Epigenetics is the new field that we should look to for great new "discoveries" about race-based IQ and genetic or rather epigenetic factors in the (race-based) development of civilization.

The hard-core amateur racialists are already all over this new field based on "markers" that activate gene expression. One example:

http://www.prometheus6.org/node/18641

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28544|2009-04-10 17:29:22|Brian|Egyptian Mysteries Question|
Hi group!
I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God?
As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?

I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.

ABC
| 28545|2009-04-10 17:34:01|Lamar Perryman|Fw: [GlobalAfricanPresence] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found|

--- On Fri, 4/10/09, Kenneth King wrote:

From: Kenneth King
Subject: [GlobalAfricanPresence] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found
To: globalafricanpresence@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, April 10, 2009, 1:20 AM

Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found

Charles Wendo
3 April 2009

---------- --------- --------- --------- --------- --------- -

Kampala A SMALL fraction of Ugandans have been able to naturally knock off HIV from their body, a development that could lead to an HIV vaccine, scientists have said.

Dr. Pontiano Kaleebu, an immunologist heading the Basic Sciences Programme of the MRC/UVRI Uganda Research Unit on AIDS at the Uganda Virus Research Institute (UVRI), told Saturday Vision that an ongoing study and a previous one at the institute had unearthed signs that some Ugandans may be resistant to HIV.

They have special white blood cells that can only be produced when the virus attacks the body. However, even with the most sophisticated tests, HIV could not be found in these individuals, implying that the virus had tried to infect them but the immune system kicked it out.

"We are seeing some immune responses but it is still too early to see if there is a lot of meaning to these responses," said Kaleebu.

"Such people are of interest to many researchers worldwide."

At the AIDS Information Centre in Kampala, the UVRI scientists are studying 70 discordant couples to see if some of them are indeed resistant to HIV. These are couples that have had unprotected sex for more than a year, one partner has had HIV for long while the other has not become infected. "We have set up a clinic in Kampala where doctors and counsellors do a lot of counselling and give them condoms to reduce risky sexual behaviour," Kaleebu said.

Despite early signs of resistance to HIV, Kaleebu said meaningful results can only be released at the end of the study. The five-year research, expected to be completed in 2010, is sponsored by the US National Institutes of Health through the British Medical Research Council (MRC). It is part of a multi-country study coordinated by the US-based Center for HIV/AIDS Vaccine Immunology (CHAVI) and involving Oxford University of UK.

Prof. Heiner Grosskurth, the Director of the MRC/UVRI Uganda Research Unit on AIDS, said: "A lack of ability to becoming HIV infected is extremely rare, but there is evidence meanwhile that people who have this characteristic exist worldwide, although in very small numbers."

Although they are so few, he said, studying them could generate new knowledge that would enable scientists to develop a vaccine. "Such work is going on with a lot of speed and effort in many countries, but there is no breakthrough yet! I think it will still take years until we have good vaccine candidates."

Earlier in 2002, Prof. Andrew Mc Michael of the University of Oxford and the late Dr. Anthony Kebba of UVRI announced that they had identified some eight Ugandans in Kampala and Entebbe, who were exposed to HIV but remained uninfected. One fifth of the discordant couples they studied showed some signs of resistance to HIV, but this required further confirmation. Mc Michael is involved with Kaleebu in the new study. Similar studies are going on in Kenya and the Gambia.

Kaleebu cautioned that nearly all people are vulnerable to HIV and Ugandans should not relax simply because a few individuals seem to be resistant to the virus. "It has to be clear that this apparent resistance is not a common thing. If you are HIV negative and your partner is HIV positive we cannot say you are resistant and you cannot become infected. If you continue to have unprotected sex you might become infected in the long run," said Kaleebu.

Indeed, in the late 1990s some people in Rakai were reported to have become infected with HIV after being discordant for many years. On discovering that they were discordant, scientists had advised them to begin using condoms. Later, some of those who declined to use condoms became infected.

Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
Karen C. Aboiralor

| 28546|2009-04-11 06:07:41|Peter Gray|Re: Fw: [GlobalAfricanPresence] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found|
I seem to remember hearing about similar instances ofsmall populations of seemingly HIV-resistant prostitutes in Sierra Leone and Nairobi some years ago. I do believe there has to be some genetic (DNA) basis for the phenomenon.

Peter

To: SOA@yahoogroups.com; yoruba_spirituality@yahoogroups.com
CC: NewAfrikanIndependenceOnline@yahoogroups.com; abibitumikasa@yahoogroups.com; Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
Date: Fri, 10 Apr 2009 11:37:36 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fw: [GlobalAfricanPresence] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found

--- On Fri, 4/10/09, Kenneth King wrote:

From: Kenneth King
Subject: [GlobalAfricanPrese nce] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found
To: globalafricanpresen ce@yahoogroups. com
Date: Friday, April 10, 2009, 1:20 AM

Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found

Charles Wendo
3 April 2009

---------- --------- --------- --------- --------- --------- -

Kampala A SMALL fraction of Ugandans have been able to naturally knock off HIV from their body, a development that could lead to an HIV vaccine, scientists have said.

Dr. Pontiano Kaleebu, an immunologist heading the Basic Sciences Programme of the MRC/UVRI Uganda Research Unit on AIDS at the Uganda Virus Research Institute (UVRI), told Saturday Vision that an ongoing study and a previous one at the institute had unearthed signs that some Ugandans may be resistant to HIV.

They have special white blood cells that can only be produced when the virus attacks the body. However, even with the most sophisticated tests, HIV could not be found in these individuals, implying that the virus had tried to infect them but the immune system kicked it out.

"We are seeing some immune responses but it is still too early to see if there is a lot of meaning to these responses," said Kaleebu.

"Such people are of interest to many researchers worldwide."

At the AIDS Information Centre in Kampala, the UVRI scientists are studying 70 discordant couples to see if some of them are indeed resistant to HIV. These are couples that have had unprotected sex for more than a year, one partner has had HIV for long while the other has not become infected. "We have set up a clinic in Kampala where doctors and counsellors do a lot of counselling and give them condoms to reduce risky sexual behaviour," Kaleebu said.

Despite early signs of resistance to HIV, Kaleebu said meaningful results can only be released at the end of the study. The five-year research, expected to be completed in 2010, is sponsored by the US National Institutes of Health through the British Medical Research Council (MRC). It is part of a multi-country study coordinated by the US-based Center for HIV/AIDS Vaccine Immunology (CHAVI) and involving Oxford University of UK.

Prof. Heiner Grosskurth, the Director of the MRC/UVRI Uganda Research Unit on AIDS, said: "A lack of ability to becoming HIV infected is extremely rare, but there is evidence meanwhile that people who have this characteristic exist worldwide, although in very small numbers."

Although they are so few, he said, studying them could generate new knowledge that would enable scientists to develop a vaccine. "Such work is going on with a lot of speed and effort in many countries, but there is no breakthrough yet! I think it will still take years until we have good vaccine candidates."

Earlier in 2002, Prof. Andrew Mc Michael of the University of Oxford and the late Dr. Anthony Kebba of UVRI announced that they had identified some eight Ugandans in Kampala and Entebbe, who were exposed to HIV but remained uninfected. One fifth of the discordant couples they studied showed some signs of resistance to HIV, but this required further confirmation. Mc Michael is involved with Kaleebu in the new study. Similar studies are going on in Kenya and the Gambia.

Kaleebu cautioned that nearly all people are vulnerable to HIV and Ugandans should not relax simply because a few individuals seem to be resistant to the virus. "It has to be clear that this apparent resistance is not a common thing. If you are HIV negative and your partner is HIV positive we cannot say you are resistant and you cannot become infected. If you continue to have unprotected sex you might become infected in the long run," said Kaleebu.

Indeed, in the late 1990s some people in Rakai were reported to have become infected with HIV after being discordant for many years. On discovering that they were discordant, scientists had advised them to begin using condoms. Later, some of those who declined to use condoms became infected.

Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
Karen C. Aboiralor

Quick access to your favorite MSN content and Windows Live with Internet Explorer 8.
Download FREE now!
| 28547|2009-04-11 10:48:00|Ginger Daniels|Check this out - weather modification|

-----Original Message-----
From: Ginger Daniels
Sent: 4/11/2009 2:09:06 AM
To: gingerd2007@hotmail.com
Subject: Check this out - weather modification
If I sent you this email, then I respect your intelligence and consider you an open minded person. I also value you enough to want you to know the truth. Start monitoring your skies. You might want to rethink taking a deep breath when you feel a little anxious!
Check out this site (images)
http://images.google.com/images?hl=en&um=1&q=chemtrails+2009&sa=N&start=0&ndsp=20
Then watch this five minute video http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Psdg3OAw_a8
Then read this report - you may want to print it out. Its called weather as a force multiplier; owning the weather in 2005. Its 52 pages, but its a page turner http://csat.au.af.mil/2025/volume3/vol3ch15.pdf
Then check out this act introduced into congress (and denied of course) which PROVES this is going on. PERMANENT BAN ON BASING OF WEAPONS IN SPACE

http://thomas.loc.gov/cgi-bin/query/z?c107:H.R.2977.IH:
After you take this information in, if you are patient enough to sift through it all, start monitoring your skies, and weather. If you prefer to live in the dark, then delete this email and act like you never received it. Thanks.
GD

| 28548|2009-04-11 11:50:52|odhiambo okecth|Reforms and Reformers|
Reforms and Reformers 10th April 2009

I watched Martha Karua on NTV and then Mutahi Ngunyi on Capital Talk at K24 yesterday night and I was left with many questions. Kenyans are being taken for a ride by these people and the journalists that ask them questions.

Earlier in the day, I saw Martha Karua with a team that call themselves civil leaders in an hotel, supposedly talking about Kenya and the Kenyan problem.

First, what is this obsession with having workshops in the hotels?

At the hotels, it is always the same people meeting. They talk to themselves about what they all know, and what some of us know. And to this extent, what value do they add to the reform process in the country?

They are hardly covered by the media. If they are covered, they are given less than a minute of news time. When I am watching news with friends and they appear on TV, the question that people ask is; on whose behalf do these people talk?

I bet it is time the donor community realized that these people who talk in the hotels are in very serious business. They represent nobody and they talk for nobody. They are in it for themselves. They are part of the problem Kenyans must deal with.

As soon as we elect them to parliament, they promptly forget the reform agenda. They only come back to the reform process once they have been sacked, or once they fall out of favour. But so long as things are working their way, they will talk no reform. And that is why they must make all the noise in the hotels where they have the usual audience. Remember one Kibutha Kibwana?

At NTV, I would have wanted to hear Kathleen Openda ask Karua her role in President Kibaki appointing an Electoral Team all by himself in the run up to the last electoral fiasco, in the process ignoring the IPPG deal. That was not forthcoming. I would have wanted Kathleen to put Karua to task; tell her that she is a reformer of no shade, just like Ruto said. Ask her how logical it can be to declare a man with 43 MPs as the presidential winner while one with 112 MPs is declared the looser.

I would have wanted to hear from Karua how logical it is to declare a man with one and a half province a winner against one with six clear provinces to himself. I would have also wanted to hear how logical it is for two men with the support of only two provinces ganging up to forcefully take over power against one person with the support of six provinces. The law wants the winner to have the support of at least 5 provinces. Kibaki had only Central and half of Eastern province. Kalonzo had less than half of a province while Raila who was declared the loser had six clear provinces. Karau owes us an explanation.

I would have wanted Kathleen to come heavy on Karuas reform credentials. How come she yaps reforms only after falling out of favour with non reformers? Her reform credentials are questionable, just like those of Mwai Kibaki, Kalonzo Musyoka, Mutula Kilonzo and Kibutha Kibwana.

Lastly, for Mutahi Ngunyi to suggest that Kibaki can appoint George Saitoti as the next Prime Minister is superfluous. He must be in very deep slumber for the National Accord that we have is so clear on who becomes the Prime Minister. It is not the President to appoint.

The law says that the Prime Minister shall be the leader of the largest political party in parliament. As it is, Raila Odinga is that leader. He has close to 112 MPs in parliament. The nearest challenger is Mwai Kibaki with 43 MPs in Parliament, followed by Kalonzo Musyoka with 16 MPs, Uhuru Kenyatta with 14 MPs, and then other fringe parties. Kalonzo and Kibaki have a combined force of 59 MPs in Parliament, still a far cry from what Raila and ODM have. You know, these are the facts.

People like Mutahi are the people who are misadvising Kibaki on the Coalition government. If he becomes candid with Kibaki over these issues, he will do Kenya a good favour. But pretending to talk about real issue in public and in columns does not make sense to me when you talk different in private.

So, can Mutahi tell us under what authority Kibaki can even contemplate appointing Saitoti as the Prime Minister? Mutahi could be a good political commentator, but he must consign himself to reality. He must not be an agent provocateur for the current system. If he does like he is doing, he becomes a rabid dog for hire in the view of many of us who advocate truth as the guiding lines in leadership. In his political brief to the president, he needs to be as factual. He must not serve us with water, while he takes wine in the company of the President.

Secondly, why must Kibaki only consider Saitoti in the mind of Mutahi? Are there no other Kenyans worthy of consideration? This is a typical myopic thinking. It serves to advance tribal considerations at the expense of the country. It does not advance the national peace and reconciliation that Kenya so badly wants.

Odhiambo T Oketch

Komarock Nairobi.

| 28549|2009-04-11 14:29:03|Mahari Mengistu|INTELLIGENT DESIGN/CREATIONISM: FOUNDATION FOR INSIDIOUS RACISM?|
Someone posted on this site that the reason white Darwinists are so gung-ho about the Darwinian Theory of Evolution is that they just don't want to accept the fact that whites come from an Afrakan woman. I tend to disagree on this point. Creationism or the Theory of Intelligent Design is much better suited to support these racialists who don't want to accept "the Great Afrakan Mother of us all" theory. The Creationists/Intelligent designers believe- as I understand it ? that everything was fully created by "God" in 6 days; there was no evolution; everything had its own root from the start. This allows them to postulate that therefore, "God" created white people as they are, blacks as they are, and Asians are they are. They could go so far as to say that thus there should be no race mixing because "God" did not intend such to happen. (I am not promoting race mixing. It just is and will be. So what? My wish is that people ? my people ? have a full love and respect for themselves and their culture and are not "mixing" to run away from or "improve" their lot.) It is much closer to the "blacks were meant to be our slaves; let's kill the other group because that's how "God" meant it" religion that we have seen for a minimum of the last 2000 years than evolution. At least, in this field there is thoughtful inquiry.

With regard to the fundamentalist perspective which creationism/intelligent design is, in truth, one has to ALWAYS watch them very carefully. Like the Bush administration which supported the Creationist/Intelligent Design Theory they are very dangerous.

I suspect there are cases of evolutionists threatening death and violence toward their opponents but I have never read about it. But how often do you hear about these fundamentalist threatening to murder (and not infrequently actually doing it) their opponents? It is very common. In fact, it seems to be a part of their "dialogue."

HTP,

Mahari

| 28550|2009-04-11 15:48:11|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|

Here's my 2 cents worth.

I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power ? it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.

It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.

I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his fame.

I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you ? a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break ? the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
There is 26% - I believe ? who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid ? no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior ? on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them ? not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a certain level of power.
Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?

Sorry, to go on so long.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Brian" wrote:
>
> Hi group!
> I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
>
> ABC
>

| 28551|2009-04-11 16:42:26|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|Re: INTELLIGENT DESIGN/CREATIONISM: FOUNDATION FOR INSIDIOUS RACISM?|

those who use the word creation and automatically think of the judeao-christian mythes in my opinion are missing an opportunity to explore a much more diverse idea of creative- evolution . to create means something had a quasi-beginning and once the creative process took place all that came out of it was in fact an expansion of a creator.....
the evolution and volutions of creation are then vibratory (poetically expressed;"thought") process's of creation and as man has come from the earth and all there is(time/space) man is a fraction of the creator.
the idea of an eleagant universe gives the creative factor an anthropological exegesis to mythe and pysche,art etc...

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 4/11/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] INTELLIGENT DESIGN/CREATIONISM: FOUNDATION FOR INSIDIOUS RACISM?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 11, 2009, 2:23 PM

Someone posted on this site that the reason white Darwinists are so gung-ho about the Darwinian Theory of Evolution is that they just don't want to accept the fact that whites come from an Afrakan woman. I tend to disagree on this point. Creationism or the Theory of Intelligent Design is much better suited to support these racialists who don't want to accept "the Great Afrakan Mother of us all" theory. The Creationists/ Intelligent designers believe- as I understand it that everything was fully created by "God" in 6 days; there was no evolution; everything had its own root from the start. This allows them to postulate that therefore, "God" created white people as they are, blacks as they are, and Asians are they are. They could go so far as to say that thus there should be no race mixing because "God" did not intend such to happen. (I am not promoting race mixing. It just is and will be. So what? My wish is that people my people have a full love and respect for themselves and their culture and are not "mixing" to run away from or "improve" their lot.) It is much closer to the "blacks were meant to be our slaves; let's kill the other group because that's how "God" meant it" religion that we have seen for a minimum of the last 2000 years than evolution. At least, in this field there is thoughtful inquiry.
With regard to the fundamentalist perspective which creationism/ intelligent design is, in truth, one has to ALWAYS watch them very carefully. Like the Bush administration which supported the Creationist/ Intelligent Design Theory they are very dangerous.
I suspect there are cases of evolutionists threatening death and violence toward their opponents but I have never read about it. But how often do you hear about these fundamentalist threatening to murder (and not infrequently actually doing it) their opponents? It is very common. In fact, it seems to be a part of their "dialogue."

HTP,
Mahari

| 28552|2009-04-11 17:24:44|Shri Sa Hetep|BOSNIAN PYRANID PROJECT CHRONOLOGY 2005 - 2008|

Attachments :

Taken excerpt from article... (please see attachments for the complete article)

Year 2005

- April 2005: Discovery of the Bosnian Pyramid of the Sun and Bosnian Pyramid of the Moon by Sam Semir Osmanagich (more: www.samosmanagich.com) during his visit to town of Visoko in central Bosnia.
He claimed that man-made structures were hidden under the soil and vegetation in Visoko Valley.

- August 2005 : Osmanagich hired contractor and geologist to perform preliminary geology survey. First results show existence of geological anomalies and paved sandstone plateau.

- October 2005: Osmanagich published the book, "Bosnian Pyramid of the Sun - Discovery of the first European Pyramid" and announced to the world existence of the Pyramids of the Sun and Moon and underground tunnel network at the press conference. Local media (state news agency FENA. Daily Avaz, TV stations) and world agencies (AP, France Press, Reuters) sent the news out: first European and biggest pyramids in the world have been discovered in Bosnia.

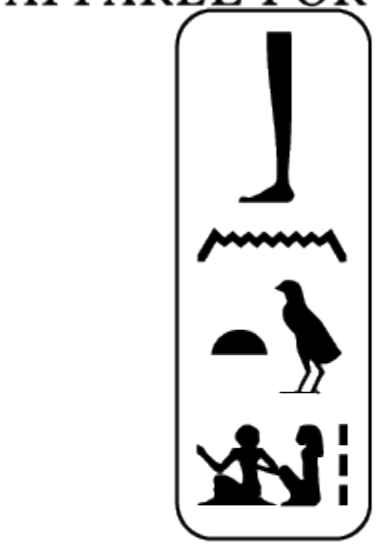
End excerpt

| 28553|2009-04-11 17:46:18|Asar Imhotep|OGAM STONE INSCRIPTIONS AND IGBO COLUMN-WRITING|

Attachments :

Peace Phamily

I came across this article (didn't know I actually had it to be honest) and felt the list could benefit from this. Would like to get Dr. Winter's opinion of this as well. I made a pdf document of the article. So if it is not attached, please send me an email directly and I will forward it to you directly.



OGAM STONE INSCRIPTIONS AND IGBO COLUMN-WRITING: A COMPARISON

By Catherine Obianuju Acholonu

Adapted from a paper published under the title Ogam Philosophical Language and the Lost Nation of Tilmun in UNESCO Nigeria published booklet Reflections on Indigenous Philosophical Thought, 2008, Abuja.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28554|2009-04-11 17:50:26|Lamar Perryman|Re: Fwd: Israeli Jews bless the sun in rare 28-year prayer|
Greetings Bro. Mahari,
In response to your article about Israel, Judaism and Egyptianism
I just wanted to add that Thorough researchers have provided direct evidence of just such a Thing. Historical Isreal is nothing more or less but Canaanite Peoples who dealt with Egyptians, Libyans and Sumeria-Indus Valley peoples in Their Culture which is Similar to all of those.
See Chayah bayith Elowahh, by LeRico Richardson, http://www.freewebs.com/radah/Kushatonjudaism.htm
Ahmed Osman,
http://ahmedosman.com/home..html
Ralph Ellis, Abraham A Pharoah Of Egypt, http://freespace.virgin.net/kena.edfu/abraham.html
Current Research is going a long way toward disproving the old religious ecclesiastical versions of Israel and tearing away the mysterious shroud that surrounds The Peoples Themselves.
MLP.,
Moorish American Federal Nationalists.

--- On Fri, 4/10/09, pharoahisrael wrote:

From: pharoahisrael
Subject: Fwd: Israeli Jews bless the sun in rare 28-year prayer
To: amer_fed_natl@yahoo.com, pharoahisrael@yahoo.com, black_fed_natl@yahoo.com
Date: Friday, April 10, 2009, 5:47 PM

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:

Here's another reason to suspect that Judaism/Christianity came out of Aigypt. This is highly reminiscent of the worship of the Akenaten's Aten who I believe was the true ---moses.
====
Israeli Jews bless the sun in rare 28-year prayer [AFP]
<http://us.rd.yahoo.com/dailynews/afp/brand/SIG=ofqlv2/*http://www.afp.c\ om> [Israeli Jews bless the sun in rare 28-year prayer] <http://news.yahoo.com/nphotos/West-Bank-Dead-Sea/photo//090408/photos_t\ s_wl_afp/82a0dd290f59adb9a825d795164433a8//s:/afp/20090408/ts_afp/israel\ religionjudaism> AFP Orthodox Jews pray during sunrise in the Judean Desert in the West Bank above the Dead Sea. Tens of thousands
2 hrs 39 mins ago
JERUSALEM (AFP) Tens of thousands of Jewish faithful turned out before sunrise on Wednesday in front of the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem and elsewhere in the country to bless the sun in a prayer said once every 28 years.

Dressed in white prayer shawls, men and women, adults and children filled the plaza in front of the wall, Judaism's holiest site, and crowded onto nearby rooftops to catch a glimpse of the sun rising over the Holy City.

As the faithful swayed back and forth in prayer, the area filled with the din of the Birkat Hakhama prayer.

Elsewhere around Israel and the occupied West Bank, tens of thousands of observant Jews sought out hilltops and rooftops to catch the first rays of the sun to recite the prayer.

Birkat Hakhama is said as the sun comes up to mark what according to Jewish tradition is the sun's return to its position at the moment that the universe was created 5,769 years ago. It returns to the spot once every 28 years.

The prayer has special significance this year because it coincides with the start of the Passover holiday, one of Judaism's most important, at sundown on Wednesday.

The Wailing Wall, also called the Western Wall, sits below the Al-Aqsa Mosque compound, Islam's third-holiest place.

===

HTP,

Mahari

--- End forwarded message ---

| 28555|2009-04-11 17:50:35|Shu Tefnut|Fw: Fwd: Check out "Somali Pirates?" on Living In Black|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: George Bennett
To: George Bennett
Sent: Saturday, April 11, 2009 3:55:19 PM
Subject: Fwd: Check out "Somali Pirates?" on Living In Black

Begin forwarded message:

From: HERU BENNU AMEN RA <share@livinginblack.ning.com>
Date: April 11, 2009 3:51:01 PM EDT
To: HERU BENNU AMEN RA <shutefnut@mac.com>
Subject: Check out "Somali Pirates?" on Living In Black Reply-To: HERU BENNU AMEN RA <shutefnut@mac.com>

Living In Black
360 Degrees of the Black Experience

HERU BENNU AMEN RA

Check out the video 'Somali Pirates?'

Somali Pirates?
Hip Hop Artist K'NAAN breaks down what's really going on in his country...

Video link:
Somali Pirates?

About Living In Black
We're Africans ascending, engaged in culturally relevant conversations, business tips, research and activism. We're ready for action.

5405 members
16096 photos
3638 songs
4257 videos
4439 discussions
2348 blog posts

To control which emails you receive on Living In Black, click here

.

| 28556|2009-04-12 07:01:01|Michael J Robinson|Save "The Game" on the CW: Post messages by April 15th on the CW mes|

Hotep Family,

I hope everyone is doing well today. Many people wonder if I have a lighter side to me since they feel I am so serious all of the time. There is a lighter side and one of the things I like to do as many of you, is watch The Game on the CW. The Game is in jeopardy of being cancelled after 3 seasons. There are only 2 African-American shows left on the 5 main networks (NBC, ABC, CBS, FOX and the CW). They however have 2 African-American shows in primetime on regular TV. (The House of Payne and Meet the Browns are on TBS which is cable TV). This is part of a complete eradication of African-Americans TV shows or a Blackout if you will. Just 4 short seasons ago we had 11 shows, yes 11 African-Amerian TV shows on ABC, Fox, WB and UPN. The WB and UPN 2 seasons ago merged to form the CW. If you cant remember all of them let me know and I will send you a list of them.

You can help keep The Game on for another season. There is a campaign to get 1 million posts on the CW message board talking about how much you like The Game and why it should be saved. The deadline for these messages is April 15th. The reason why April 15th is because this is the day that the creator of The Game, Mara Brock Akil, is going to pitch to the CW executives on changing the show to an hour-long dramedy. Never in the history of TV has a comedy been transformed to an hour long dramedy. If you want to see "The Game" win, click here to express your views on http://lounge.cwTV.com/ . They are hoping for one million posts before next Wednesday April 15th, so get on it!

Yes I have already posted my comments.

Don't just watch "The Game." Change it.

www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914 click on the link and check out a video from the cast of "The Game" in my Favorites on my Youtube channel. They are asking for fan support to bring the show back to the CW, though they want to let you know it has not been cancelled, yet.

Thanks,

Bro. Michael

www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914

Right knowledge, corrects wrong behavior

| 28557|2009-04-12 07:01:25|Joseph Wright|Re: INTELLIGENT DESIGN/CREATIONISM: FOUNDATION FOR INSIDIOUS RACISM?|

Mahari Mengistu you are correct again.

jew

--- On Sat, 4/11/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] INTELLIGENT DESIGN/CREATIONISM: FOUNDATION FOR INSIDIOUS RACISM?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 11, 2009, 2:23 PM

Someone posted on this site that the reason white Darwinists are so gung-ho about the Darwinian Theory of Evolution is that they just don't want to accept the fact that whites come from an Afrakan woman. I tend to disagree on this point. Creationism or the Theory of Intelligent Design is much better suited to support these racialists who don't want to accept "the Great Afrakan Mother of us all" theory. The Creationists/ Intelligent designers believe- as I understand it that everything was fully created by "God" in 6 days; there was no evolution; everything had its own root from the start. This allows them to postulate that therefore, "God" created white people as they are, blacks as they are, and Asians are they are. They could go so far as to say that thus there should be no race mixing because "God" did not intend such to happen. (I am not promoting race mixing. It just is and will be. So what? My wish is that people my people have a full love and respect for themselves and their culture and are not "mixing" to run away from or "improve" their lot.) It is much closer to the "blacks were meant to be our slaves; let's kill the other group because that's how "God" meant it" religion that we have seen for a minimum of the last 2000 years than evolution. At least, in this field there is thoughtful inquiry.

With regard to the fundamentalist perspective which creationism/ intelligent design is, in truth, one has to ALWAYS watch them very carefully. Like the Bush administration which supported the Creationist/ Intelligent Design Theory they are very dangerous.
I suspect there are cases of evolutionists threatening death and violence toward their opponents but I have never read about it. But how often do you hear about these fundamentalist threatening to murder (and not infrequently actually doing it) their opponents? It is very common. In fact, it seems to be a part of their "dialogue."
HTP,
Mahari

| 28558|2009-04-12 07:01:27|Joseph Wright|Re: Fw: [GlobalAfricanPresence] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found|
Interesting glad you have your ear to the ground on this. Thanks!

jew

--- On Sat, 4/11/09, Peter Gray wrote:
From: Peter Gray
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Fw: [GlobalAfricanPresence] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found
To: "Marc Washington"
Date: Saturday, April 11, 2009, 7:57 AM

I seem to remember hearing about similar instances ofsmall populations of seemingly HIV-resistant prostitutes in Sierra Leone and Nairobi some years ago. I do believe there has to be some genetic (DNA) basis for the phenomenon.

Peter

To: SOA@yahoogroups. com; yoruba_spirituality @yahoogroups. com
CC: NewAfrikanIndepende nceOnline@ yahoogroups. com; abibitumikasa@ yahoogroups. com; Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: pharoahisrael@ yahoo.com
Date: Fri, 10 Apr 2009 11:37:36 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fw: [GlobalAfricanPrese nce] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found

--- On Fri, 4/10/09, Kenneth King wrote:

From: Kenneth King
Subject: [GlobalAfricanPrese nce] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found
To: globalafricanpresen ce@yahoogroups. com
Date: Friday, April 10, 2009, 1:20 AM

Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found

Charles Wendo
3 April 2009

---------- --------- --------- --------- --------- --------- -

Kampala A SMALL fraction of Ugandans have been able to naturally knock off HIV from their body, a development that could lead to an HIV vaccine, scientists have said.

Dr. Pontiano Kaleebu, an immunologist heading the Basic Sciences Programme of the MRC/UVRI Uganda Research Unit on AIDS at the Uganda Virus Research Institute (UVRI), told Saturday Vision that an ongoing study and a previous one at the institute had unearthed signs that some Ugandans may be resistant to HIV.

They have special white blood cells that can only be produced when the virus attacks the body. However, even with the most sophisticated tests, HIV could not be found in these individuals, implying that the virus had tried to infect them but the immune system kicked it out.

"We are seeing some immune responses but it is still too early to see if there is a lot of meaning to these responses," said Kaleebu.

"Such people are of interest to many researchers worldwide."

At the AIDS Information Centre in Kampala, the UVRI scientists are studying 70 discordant couples to see if some of them are indeed resistant to HIV. These are couples that have had unprotected sex for more than a year, one partner has had HIV for long while the other has not become infected. "We have set up a clinic in Kampala where doctors and counsellors do a lot of counselling and give them condoms to reduce risky sexual behaviour," Kaleebu said.

Despite early signs of resistance to HIV, Kaleebu said meaningful results can only be released at the end of the study. The five-year research, expected to be completed in 2010, is sponsored by the US National Institutes of Health through the British Medical Research Council (MRC). It is part of a multi-country study coordinated by the US-based Center for HIV/AIDS Vaccine Immunology (CHAVI) and involving Oxford University of UK.

Prof. Heiner Grosskurth, the Director of the MRC/UVRI Uganda Research Unit on AIDS, said: "A lack of ability to becoming HIV infected is extremely rare, but there is evidence meanwhile that people who have this characteristic exist worldwide, although in very small numbers."

Although they are so few, he said, studying them could generate new knowledge that would enable scientists to develop a vaccine. "Such work is going on with a lot of speed and effort in many countries, but there is no breakthrough yet! I think it will still take years until we have good vaccine candidates."

Earlier in 2002, Prof. Andrew Mc Michael of the University of Oxford and the late Dr. Anthony Kebba of UVRI announced that they had identified some eight Ugandans in Kampala and Entebbe, who were exposed to HIV but remained uninfected. One fifth of the discordant couples they studied showed some signs of resistance to HIV, but this required further confirmation. Mc Michael is involved with Kaleebu in the new study. Similar studies are going on in Kenya and the Gambia.

Kaleebu cautioned that nearly all people are vulnerable to HIV and Ugandans should not relax simply because a few individuals seem to be resistant to the virus. "It has to be clear that this apparent resistance is not a common thing. If you are HIV negative and your partner is HIV positive we cannot say you are resistant and you cannot become infected. If you continue to have unprotected sex you might become infected in the long run," said Kaleebu.

Indeed, in the late 1990s some people in Rakai were reported to have become infected with HIV after being discordant for many years. On discovering that they were discordant, scientists had advised them to begin using condoms. Later, some of those who declined to use condoms became infected.

Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
Karen C. Aboiralor

Quick access to your favorite MSN content and Windows Live with Internet Explorer 8.
Download FREE now!

| 28559|2009-04-12 07:01:41|Joseph Wright|Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|

Attachments :

You are absolutely correct - Good thinking.

You pose questions many of us have asked and all who have asked them are looking for answers. Dr. Francis Cress Welsing Black Clinical Psychologist, Writer, Lecturer... out of Washington D. C. - I she has addressed these super important issues in her world renouned book "The Isis Papers" keys to the colors; sixth printing. Also go to:
http://artisticstudiosgallery.com/Book_of_The_Month_Study_Guides.html
if for some reason after reading her and about her book; if your questions have not been answered please contact me because understanding is best.

It is a painful process but you sound mostly healed already... only a few more critical steps to make. obviously you've seen the Willie Lynch Speech of 1712 (attached just in case) along with another. Please let me know personally if this has helped your network.
Your humble servant

jew

--- On Sat, 4/11/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 11, 2009, 4:04 PM

Here's my 2 cents worth.
I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.
It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.

We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
There is 26% - I believe who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use.

Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a certain level of power.
Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
Sorry, to go on so long.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
>
> Hi group!
> I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?

> I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
>
> ABC
>

| 28560|2009-04-12 07:02:17|Joseph Wright|Re: TEACHING INDIA'S UNTOUCHABLES|
S.O.S. In America and elsewhere: historically. Why? is the question. Sent you mail...

jew

--- On Fri, 4/10/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] TEACHING INDIA'S UNTOUCHABLES
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, April 10, 2009, 5:21 PM

The audio says that the Dalits have the added stigma of being known for "hunting and eating rats".
Evil people can be so confounding - I suspect even to themselves. The Dalits are forced to do this and all manner of other things. So when they do what they must do to survive they are then maligned for having done what they were forced to do.

HTP,
Mahari
http://online. wsj.com/video/ teaching- india-untouchabl es/C896D5C4- 16B9-4B1C- 9B13-35C61115D13 1.html

| 28561|2009-04-12 08:08:25|Alex van Deelen|Epigenetics: The new frontier of biological racism|
Paul,

Thanks for the heads up. They never seem to go away, no matter what the evidence is.

Alex
| 28562|2009-04-12 10:46:59|Marc Taylor|Re: Fw: [GlobalAfricanPresence] Uganda: HIV-Resistant Citizens Found|

The resistance may have something to do with blood type, not certain on this I believe I read it somewhere its either AB+ or AB- thats resistant to a lot of diseases.

From: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com [mailto: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com] On Behalf Of Joseph Wright
Sent: Sunday, April 12, 2009 1:22 AM
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Fw: [GlobalAfricanPresence] Uganda : HIV-Resistant Citizens Found

Interesting glad you have your ear to the ground on this. Thanks!

jew

--- On Sat, 4/11/09, Peter Gray wrote:

From: Peter Gray
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Fw: [GlobalAfricanPrese nce] Uganda : HIV-Resistant Citizens Found
To: "Marc Washington"
Date: Saturday, April 11, 2009, 7:57 AM

I seem to remember hearing about similar instances ofsmall populations of seemingly HIV-resistant prostitutes in Sierra Leone and Nairobi some years ago. I do believe there has to be some genetic (DNA) basis for the phenomenon.

Peter

To: SOA@yahoogroups. com; yoruba_spirituality @yahoogroups. com
CC: NewAfrikanIndepende nceOnline@ yahoogroups. com; abibitumikasa@ yahoogroups. com; Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: pharoahisrael@ yahoo.com
Date: Fri, 10 Apr 2009 11:37:36 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fw: [GlobalAfricanPrese nce] Uganda : HIV-Resistant Citizens Found

--- On Fri, 4/10/09, Kenneth King wrote:

From: Kenneth King
Subject: [GlobalAfricanPrese nce] Uganda : HIV-Resistant Citizens Found
To: globalafricanpresen ce@yahoogroups. com
Date: Friday, April 10, 2009, 1:20 AM

Uganda : HIV-Resistant Citizens Found

Charles Wendo
3 April 2009

---------- --------- --------- --------- --------- --------- -

Kampala A SMALL fraction of Ugandans have been able to naturally knock off HIV from their body, a development that could lead to an HIV vaccine, scientists have said.

Dr. Pontiano Kaleebu, an immunologist heading the Basic Sciences Programme of the MRC/UVRI Uganda Research Unit on AIDS at the Uganda Virus Research Institute (UVRI), told Saturday Vision that an ongoing study and a previous one at the institute had unearthed signs that some Ugandans may be resistant to HIV.

They have special white blood cells that can only be produced when the virus attacks the body. However, even with the most sophisticated tests, HIV could not be found in these individuals, implying that the virus had tried to infect them but the immune system kicked it out.

"We are seeing some immune responses but it is still too early to see if there is a lot of meaning to these responses," said Kaleebu.

"Such people are of interest to many researchers worldwide."

At the AIDS Information Centre in Kampala , the UVRI scientists are studying 70 discordant couples to see if some of them are indeed resistant to HIV. These are couples that have had unprotected sex for more than a year, one partner has had HIV for long while the other has not become infected. "We have set up a clinic in Kampala where doctors and counsellors do a lot of counselling and give them condoms to reduce risky sexual behaviour," Kaleebu said.

Despite early signs of resistance to HIV, Kaleebu said meaningful results can only be released at the end of the study. The five-year research, expected to be completed in 2010, is sponsored by the US National Institutes of Health through the British Medical Research Council (MRC). It is part of a multi-country study coordinated by the US-based Center for HIV/AIDS Vaccine Immunology (CHAVI) and involving Oxford University of UK.

Prof. Heiner Grosskurth, the Director of the MRC/UVRI Uganda Research Unit on AIDS, said: "A lack of ability to becoming HIV infected is extremely rare, but there is evidence meanwhile that people who have this characteristic exist worldwide, although in very small numbers."

Although they are so few, he said, studying them could generate new knowledge that would enable scientists to develop a vaccine. "Such work is going on with a lot of speed and effort in many countries, but there is no breakthrough yet! I think it will still take years until we have good vaccine candidates."

Earlier in 2002, Prof. Andrew Mc Michael of the University of Oxford and the late Dr. Anthony Kebba of UVRI announced that they had identified some eight Ugandans in Kampala and Entebbe , who were exposed to HIV but remained uninfected. One fifth of the discordant couples they studied showed some signs of resistance to HIV, but this required further confirmation. Mc Michael is involved with Kaleebu in the new study. Similar studies are going on in Kenya and the Gambia .

Kaleebu cautioned that nearly all people are vulnerable to HIV and Ugandans should not relax simply because a few individuals seem to be resistant to the virus. "It has to be clear that this apparent resistance is not a common thing. If you are HIV negative and your partner is HIV positive we cannot say you are resistant and you cannot become infected. If you continue to have unprotected sex you might become infected in the long run," said Kaleebu.

Indeed, in the late 1990s some people in Rakai were reported to have become infected with HIV after being discordant for many years. On discovering that they were discordant, scientists had advised them to begin using condoms. Later, some of those who declined to use condoms became infected.

Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
Karen C. Aboiralor

Quick access to your favorite MSN content and Windows Live with Internet Explorer 8.
Download FREE now!
| 28563|2009-04-13 13:28:10|Tafari khumbaka|Fwd: Fw: Spring 2009 Class Flyer|
Attachments :

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, AAS Atlanta wrote:
>
> From: AAS Atlanta
> Subject: Fwd: Fw: Spring 2009 Class Flyer
> To: "Ausar Auset Society Atlanta"
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 9:59 AM
>
> Hetepu!

> (peace)
>
> >
>
> AUSAR AUSET SOCIETY Spring 2009 Classes > & Workshops Begins Saturday, April 18, > 2009
> CLASSES

> Maat: 11 Laws > of God 11am 12pm
> This class will teach the Kamitic Philosophy of Self through > the teachings of the 11 Laws of God. You will discover the > 11 laws that govern the 11 urges of man and woman. And, if > they are applied to your life, you can expect a lawfully > successful life.
> Conversing with God through > the I Ching 12pm 1pm > Learn how to consult the I Ching, an ancient oracle system > devised to gain insight into the spiritual significance of > every aspect of your life. You will learn how to query the > oracle, how to understand trigrams and hexagrams, and > ultimately, how to be your own spiritual counselor. The > I-Ching Counselor Workbook is required.

>
> Classes are held every Saturday for 4 weeks

>
>
> WORKSHOPS

> Kamitic Spiritual Success April 18th
> 1pm 2 pm
> This workshop will teach you > all that you need to know to bring the power of your spirit > to assist you in achieving your goals and to live a > successful life. The workshop is based on Metu Neter, Vol. 3 > by Ra Un Nefer Amen.

> Mens Vitality April 25th
> 1pm 2pm
> This workshop will use ancient > healing wisdom and modern nutritional science to give > students a firm foundation in male virility and vitality > concepts.

>
> Spiritual Relationships
> May 2nd 1pm 2pm
> Learn how to develop and > maintain meaningful relationships using the Kamitic Tree of > Life. This workshop is based on the book, "Afrocentric > Guide to a Spiritual Union" by Ra Un Nefer Amen.
>
>
> Phenomenal Parenting May 9th
> 1pm 2pm
> Each child arrives as a gift > from the universe and has a distinct purpose. The deepest > nurturing you can give your child is spiritual nurturing.
> This workshop will provide direction and insight into > guiding our children on their earthly journey and identify > steps to help teach them values that focus on spiritual > needs.

The Ausar Auset > Society is a pan-African religious organization dedicated to > the spiritual development of people of African descent.
> Teachings are based on the ancient Kamitic (Egyptian) > systems of spiritual cultivation. Spiritual Readings are > available upon request.
>
> For more information, call 678-701-8011 or email us at > aasatlanta@gmail.com
>
> beginning April 18th:
> Cost is $49.00 for the entire > 4-week session for all classes and workshops payable at the > first class session. Otherwise, the cost is $10 per class or > workshop.
>
> Decatur Recreation Center 231 Sycamore Street in downtown Decatur
> (one block from the Decatur > MARTA Station; free parking is available at the library > parking deck)
>
>
>
> The Ausar Auset Society is a pan-African religious > organization dedicated to the spiritual development of > people of African descent. Teachings are based on the > ancient Kamitic (Egyptian) systems of spiritual cultivation.

> Spiritual Readings are available upon request.
>
> For more information, call 678-701-8011 or email us at > aasatlanta@gmail.com.
>
> The Ausar Auset Society is a pan-African religious > organization dedicated to the spiritual development of > people of African descent. Teachings are based on the > ancient Kamitic (Egyptian) systems of spiritual cultivation.
> Spiritual Readings are available upon request.
>
> For more information, call 678-701-8011 or email us at > aasatlanta@gmail.com.
>
>
>
> also visit
> www.metuneterworld.com
>

| 28564|2009-04-13 18:45:45|Michael J Robinson|Don't Miss the Financial Workshop Sponsored by the Afrikan Village S|

Maat Hotep Family,

I wanted to let you know that the Afrikan Village Study Group in Detroit is proud to announce that Min. Karin Stewart of the Afrikan Village in St. Louis is coming to Detroit, MI Satruday, April 25th. Please let your friends who live in the Detroit area know about this workshop.

Financial Workshop Sponsored by the TAV Study Group Detroit

HOW TO BUILD YOUR FINANCIAL HOUSE

Recession Recovery Tips

Find out the Importance of Owning Life Insurance

Learn how to properly diversify your 401K

Find out who should own a trust

Learn How to Become Credit Smart

How To Keep Your Retirement Plan From Becoming Your Long-Term Care Plan

Featured Speaker is Minister Karin Stewart

Minister Stewart is the CEO and President of Work Your Money, Inc. She is licensed by NASD (National Association of Securities Dealers). Her company's main focus is assisting families, churches and small business owners with their long term financial planning.

Join us on April 25, 2009 at 2:00 PM 5:30 PM

at the Detroit Public Library, Chandler Park Branch

12800 Harper (At Dickerson) Detroit, MI

*Please note that there is limited space and seating in not guaranteed. Please call us by Wednesday April 15th to let us know if you will be joining us. 313-319-2586 or 313-207-1008.

Bro. Michael

www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914

mjrob1914@comcast.net

Right knowledge, corrects wrong behavior.

| 28565|2009-04-13 18:46:00|Sekmet|LECTURES, EVENTS & SPEAKERS= ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY|
http://www.blackconsciousness.com/LecturePage.html
This events page is really starting to pick up steam.
Over 250,00 people a month visit the site and they offer this economic opportunity to events, lecturers, planners, promoters and travelers. If you love your people, want to be around your people, provide a service to your people and have the means to travel or vend, go to this page and check it out. This page generates cash flow to the masses of our people globally! Don't think that Black people won't travel. Never think that your own won't support your efforts and never think that we won't pass our dollars to our own with cooperative economics whenever possible. Always keep your head to the sky!
http://www.blackconsciousness.com/LecturePage.html

Visit the speakers page too:
http://www.blackconsciousness.com/spklect.html
This page has speakers that deal with our culture from health, to politics to historical references. Nobody works for free, but if your head is right and the budget is right, I'm sure there is a speakers for whatever events or aspect of our cultural heritage you might be planning. Let's get it on!

http://www.blackconsciousness.com/spklect.html
| 28566|2009-04-13 18:46:19|Lamar Perryman|Re: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|

--- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:

Greetings again,
Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.! Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics.! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story(Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a Role in it Also.!
From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai, The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/Racism/Colonialism The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!

Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
I will end here.
As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/1420824473/ref=nosim/magic4-20#reader
MLP.,
Moorish American Federal Nationalists.

From: pharoahisrael
Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:

Here's my 2 cents worth.
I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment. It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.

We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break the most in history.. Is their some logic somewhere there?
There is 26% - I believe who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them. So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a certain level of power.

Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
Sorry, to go on so long.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Brian" wrote:
>
> Hi group!
> I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich.. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"

> It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
>
> ABC
>

--- End forwarded message ---

| 28567|2009-04-14 13:09:32|Mahari Mengistu|Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
ADVERTISEMENT

>>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The

Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<

Hi, Bro. Lamar,
My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with every respect of Afrakan/world history.
Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of people". He further added that they are "blameless".
Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and
prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god
(and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION.
I believe
the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the
"Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!
Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on

Afrigypt in 391 AD.

I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I think happened:
In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the problems with the warring Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists ? the followers of the displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus, the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions. Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost literally.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
>
>
>
> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
>
> Greetings again,
> Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
>
> Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics.! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > Role in it Also.!

> From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
>
> My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/Racism/Colonialism The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
>
> Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
>
> Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> I will end here.
>
> As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/1420824473/ref=nosim/magic4-20#reader
>
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
>
> From: pharoahisrael
> Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: pharoahisrael@...
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
>
>

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Here's my 2 cents worth.
> I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.
> It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his
> fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> There is 26% - I believe who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.

> So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior □ on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them □ not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > certain level of power.
> Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> Sorry, to go on so long.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Brian" wrote:
> >
> > Hi group!
> > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well

> to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was
> taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> >
> > ABC
> >
>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>
| 28568|2009-04-14 13:22:18|Mahari Mengistu|Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
Well, that's interesting is it not, that my post has ADVERTISEMENT at the top?
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> ADVERTISEMENT
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
> Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<

>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with > every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of > people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
> then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and
> prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god
> (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption > or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully > hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our > oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of > our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or > physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER > UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe
> the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made > Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, > join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen > today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or > oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's > evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the
> "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!
> Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is > reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on > Afrigypt in 391 AD.
>
> I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is > ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the > Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I > think happened:
> In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading > the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the > problems with the warring Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold > sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy > environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest > nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists ? the followers of the > displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus,
> the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian > mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see > this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, > arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This > still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions.

> Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost > literally.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
> >
> >
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
> >
> > Greetings again,
> > Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> > Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
> >
> > Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> > of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> > I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> > Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics.! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > > Role in it Also.!
> > From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
> >
> > My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> > for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> > The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> > Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/Racism/Colonialism The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!

> >
> > Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
> >
> > Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> > I will end here.
> >
> > As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> > P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> > http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/1420824473/ref=nosim/magic4-20#reader
> >
> >
> > MLP.,
> > Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
> >
> >
> > From: pharoahisrael
> > Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > To: pharoahisrael@
> > Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > Here's my 2 cents worth.
> > I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.

> > It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> > I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his
> > fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> > We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> > There is 26% - I believe who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> > Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> > So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> > The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".

> > With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > > certain level of power.
> > Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> > Sorry, to go on so long.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Brian" wrote:
> > >
> > > Hi group!
> > > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that

perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was
> > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> > >
> > > ABC
> > >
> >
> > --- End forwarded message ---
> >
>
| 28569|2009-04-14 13:26:55|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
hmmmmmmmmmm??????

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 3:22 PM

Well, that's interesting is it not, that my post has ADVERTISEMENT at the top?
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> ADVERTISEMENT
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other

> Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with > every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of > people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
> then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and
> prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god
> (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption > or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully > hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our > oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of > our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or > physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER > UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe
> the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made > Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, > join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen > today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or > oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's > evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the
> "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!
> Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is > reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on > Afrigypt in 391 AD.
>
> I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is > ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the > Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I
> think happened:
> In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently

invading
> the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the > problems with the warring Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold > sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy > environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest > nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the > displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus,
> the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian > mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see > this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, > arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This > still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions.
> Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost > literally.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
> >
> >
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
> >
> > Greetings again,
> > Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> > Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
> >
> > Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> > of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> > I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> > Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The

Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > > Role in it Also.!
> > From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
> >
> > My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> > for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> > The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> > Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
> >
> > Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
> >
> > Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> > I will end here.
> >
> > As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> > P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> > http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
> >

> >
> > MLP.,
> > Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
> >
> >
> > From: pharoahisrael
> > Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > To: pharoahisrael@
> > Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > Here's my 2 cents worth.
> > I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.
> > It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> > I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his
> > fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.

> > We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> > There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> > Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> > So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> > The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> > With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > > certain level of power.

> > Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> > Sorry, to go on so long.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> > >
> > > Hi group!
> > > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was

> > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> > >
> > > ABC
> > >
> >
> > --- End forwarded message ---
> >
>

Messages in this topic (3) Reply (via web post) | Start a new topic
Messages | Files | Photos | Links | Database | Polls | Calendar
Ta_Seti Repository
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/ta_seti2

YAHOO! GROUPS
Change settings via the Web (Yahoo! ID required)
Change settings via email: Switch delivery to Daily Digest | Switch format to Traditional
Visit Your Group | Yahoo! Groups Terms of Use | Unsubscribe
RECENT ACTIVITY

• 4

| 28570|2009-04-14 13:27:50|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
hmmmmmmmmm??????

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 3:22 PM

Well, that's interesting is it not, that my post has ADVERTISEMENT at the top?
HTP,

Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> ADVERTISEMENT
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
> Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with > every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of > people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
> then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and
> prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god
> (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption > or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully > hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our > oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of > our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or > physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER > UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe
> the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made > Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, > join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen > today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or > oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's > evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the

> "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!
> Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is > reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on > Afrigypt in 391 AD.
>
> I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is > ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the > Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I
> think happened:
> In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently
invading
> the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the > problems with the warring Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold
> sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy > environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest > nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the > displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus,
> the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian > mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see
> this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, > arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This > still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions.
> Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS-almost > literally.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
> >
> >
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
> >
> > Greetings again,
> > Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> > Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
> >
> > Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African

History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> > of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> > I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> > Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > > Role in it Also.!
> > From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
> >
> > My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> > for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> > The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> > Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
> >
> > Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
> >
> > Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology,

Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> > I will end here.
> >
> > As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> > P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> > http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
> >
> >
> > MLP.,
> > Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
> >
> >
> > From: pharoahisrael
> > Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > To: pharoahisrael@
> > Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > Here's my 2 cents worth.
> > I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.
> > It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> > I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his

> > fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> > We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> > There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> > Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> > So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> > The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".

> > With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > > certain level of power.
> > Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> > Sorry, to go on so long.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> > >
> > > Hi group!
> > > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was

> > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> > >
> > > ABC
> > >
> >
> > --- End forwarded message ---
> >
>

| 28571|2009-04-14 13:28:01|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
hmmmmmmmmm??????

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 3:22 PM

Well, that's interesting is it not, that my post has ADVERTISEMENT at the top?
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> ADVERTISEMENT
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
> Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with > every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of > people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
> then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and
> prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god
> (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption > or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully > hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our > oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of > our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or > physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER > UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe
> the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made > Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, > join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen > today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or > oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's > evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the
> "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!

> Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is > reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on > Afrigypt in 391 AD.
>
> I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is > ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the > Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I
> think happened:
> In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently
invading
> the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the > problems with the warring Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold
> sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy > environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest > nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the > displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus,
> the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian > mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see
> this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, > arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This > still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions.
> Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS-almost > literally.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
> >
> >
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
> >
> > Greetings again,
> > Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> > Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
> >
> > Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own.

The Most Important Period
> > of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> > I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> > Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > > Role in it Also.!
> > From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
> >
> > My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> > for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> > The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> > Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
> >
> > Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
> >
> > Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender,

Economics, Land Resources, etc
> > I will end here.
> >
> > As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> > P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> > http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
> >
> >
> > MLP.,
> > Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
> >
> >
> > From: pharoahisrael
> > Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > To: pharoahisrael@
> > Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > Here's my 2 cents worth.
> > I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.
> > It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> > I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his > > fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.

> > We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> > There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> > Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> > So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> > The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".

> > With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > > certain level of power.
> > Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> > Sorry, to go on so long.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> > >
> > > Hi group!
> > > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was

> > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> > >
> > > ABC
> > >
> >
> > --- End forwarded message ---
> >
>

| 28572|2009-04-14 14:11:30|anthony clements|Re: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
I am enjoying the exchanges and I just hope to get more understanding.
The Mysteries are demonized because it is part of the push to level the acomplishments of the Afrakan in the world! There was a notion that was asserted in Zeitgeist The Movie which I though was profound:
The notion was something to the effect of; each age has a reigning "savior" the current age is the age of Pisces hence fish are often used as representations of Jesus or Christianity thus we are in the age of Christianity. Before Jesus the savior was represented by a bull (Taurus) hence the worshiping of the Golden Calf in the previous age. The next age is that of Aquarius and even Jesus points to this when he tells desciples, when they ask when or how will they find him, follow the man bearing the pitcher of water, the symbol and the saviour of the age of Aquarius. This idea though it does take blame away from the Caucasian alone seems to have a wider range of view but one that I would think agrees with some tenets of the Mysteries ?

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:09 PM

ADVERTISEMENT

>>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<

Hi, Bro. Lamar,
My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with every respect of Afrakan/world history.
Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of people". He further added that they are "blameless".
Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god
(and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe
the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the

"Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!
Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on Afrigypt in 391 AD.

I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I think happened:
In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading
the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the problems with the warring Asiatics at the time.. As you know, symbols of power hold sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus, the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on - and we see this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions. Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost literally.

HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
>
>
>
> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
>
> Greetings again,
> Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
>
> Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > Role in it Also.!
> From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
>
> My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.

> The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
>
> Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
>
> Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> I will end here.
>
> As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
>
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
>
> From: pharoahisrael
> Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
>
>

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Here's my 2 cents worth.
> I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards.. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.
> It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof.. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his
> fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?

> There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > certain level of power.

> Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> Sorry, to go on so long.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> >
> > Hi group!
> > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been > fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was

> taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> >
> > ABC
> >
>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>

| 28573|2009-04-14 14:35:39|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
gerald massey and charles finch , ra unnefer amen ,,,, are the masters of the whole astro-mythical teachings

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, anthony clements wrote:

From: anthony clements
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:10 PM

I am enjoying the exchanges and I just hope to get more understanding.
The Mysteries are demonized because it is part of the push to level the acomplishments of Afrakan in the world! There was a notion that was asserted in Zeitgeist The Movie which though was profound:
The notion was something to the effect of; each age has a reigning "savior" the current age age of Pisces hence fish are often used as representations of Jesus or Christianity thus we a the age of Christianity. Before Jesus the savior was represented by a bull (Taurus) hence th worshiping of the Golden Calf in the previous age. The next age is that of Aquarius and ev Jesus points to this when he tells desciples, when they ask when or how will they find him follow the man bearing the pitcher of water, the symbol and the saviour of the age of Aqua This idea though it does take blame away from the Caucasian alone seems to have a wider of view but one that I would think agrees with some tenets of the Mysteries ?

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:09 PM
>
> ADVERTISEMENT
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
> Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them; then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe
> the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez! Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on Afrigypt in 391 AD.

I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I think happened:
In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the problems with the warring Asiatics at the time.. As you know, symbols of power hold sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus, the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions. Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost literally.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
>
>
>
> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
>
> Greetings again,
> Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
>
> Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own.

The Most Important Period
> of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > Role in it Also.!
> From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
>
> My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
>
> Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
>
> Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land

Resources, etc
> I will end here.
>
> As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
>
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
>
> From: pharoahisrael
> Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Here's my 2 cents worth.
> I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards.. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.
> It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof.. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his

> fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".

> With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a
> certain level of power.
> Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> Sorry, to go on so long.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> >
> > Hi group!
> > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I > am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was

> taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> >
> > ABC
> >
>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>

| 28574|2009-04-14 14:35:40|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
gerald massey and charles finch , ra unnefer amen ,,,, are the masters of the whole astro-mythical teachings

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, anthony clements wrote:

From: anthony clements
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:10 PM

I am enjoying the exchanges and I just hope to get more understanding.
The Mysteries are demonized because it is part of the push to level the acomplishments of Afrakan in the world! There was a notion that was asserted in Zeitgeist The Movie which though was profound:
The notion was something to the effect of; each age has a reigning "savior" the current age age of Pisces hence fish are often used as representations of Jesus or Christianity thus we a the age of Christianity. Before Jesus the savior was represented by a bull (Taurus) hence the worshiping of the Golden Calf in the previous age. The next age is that of Aquarius and even Jesus points to this when he tells desciples, when they ask when or how will they find him, follow the man bearing the pitcher of water, the symbol and the saviour of the age of Aquarius. This idea though it does take blame away from the Caucasian alone seems to have a wider range of view but one that I would think agrees with some tenets of the Mysteries ?

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:09 PM
>
> ADVERTISEMENT
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
> Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them; then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe > the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty

while he
RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez! Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on Afrigypt in 391 AD.

I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I think happened:
In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the problems with the warring Asiatics at the time.. As you know, symbols of power hold sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus, the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions. Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost literally.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
>
>
>
> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
>
> Greetings again,
> Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated > Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).

>
> Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > Role in it Also.!
> From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
>
> My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
>
> Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!

>
> Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> I will end here.
>
> As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
>
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
>
> From: pharoahisrael
> Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Here's my 2 cents worth.
> I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards.. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.
> It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof.. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his > fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.

> We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".

> The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a
> certain level of power.
> Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> Sorry, to go on so long.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> >
> > Hi group!
> > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the

> rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was
> taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> >
> > ABC
> >
>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>

| 28575|2009-04-14 17:04:56|Mahari Mengistu|Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
I think you are a little off focus. The issue at hand has less to do with astronomical symbols and representation than it does with who is personified by these symbols and representations.
To demonstrate in blunt images let's say that the origins of this "Jesus" was of the black race and a later group - say caucasian- comes along and says and represents this black man as a white man thus directing the line of "history", civilization and culture to the white race. Would you not consider this a SERIOUS problem and a lie particularly if this group had enslaved, degraded, minimized their worth and accomplishments and murdered his progeny in great numbers?
As I understand it this is the thrust of the discussion and not astrological symbolism. Not that it is not interesting. In fact, it could have historical significance upon closer examination. But that is not the issue at hand.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, anthony clements wrote:
>

> I am enjoying the exchanges and I just hope to get more understanding.
> The Mysteries are demonized because it is part of the push to level the acomplishments of the Afrakan in the world! There was a notion that was asserted in Zeitgeist The Movie which I though was profound:
> The notion was something to the effect of; each age has a reigning "savior" the current age is the age of Pisces hence fish are often used as representations of Jesus or Christianity thus we are in the age of Christianity. Before Jesus the savior was represented by a bull (Taurus) hence the worshiping of the Golden Calf in the previous age. The next age is that of Aquarius and even Jesus points to this when he tells desciples, when they ask when or how will they find him, follow the man bearing the pitcher of water, the symbol and the saviour of the age of Aquarius.
> This idea though it does take blame away from the Caucasian alone seems to have a wider range of view but one that I would think agrees with some tenets of the Mysteries ?
> --- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:09 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> ADVERTISEMENT
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
> Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with > every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of > people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
> then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and
> prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god
> (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption > or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully > hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our > oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of > our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or > physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER > UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe

> the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made > Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, > join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen > today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or > oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's > evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the
> "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!
> Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is > reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on > Afrigypt in 391 AD.
>
> I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is > ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the > Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I
> think happened:
> In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading
> the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the > problems with the warring Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold > sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy > environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest > nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists □ the followers of the > displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus,
> the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian > mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see > this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, > arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This > still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions.
> Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost > literally.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
> >
> >
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
> > ÿ

> > ÿ Greetings again,
> > ÿ Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated > > Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
> > ÿ
> > ÿ Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> > of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> > ÿ I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> > ÿ Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Storyÿ (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > > Role in it Also.!
> > ÿ From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
> > ÿ
> > ÿ My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> > for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.ÿ
> > ÿ The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhaiÿ , ÿ The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.! > > ÿ Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
> > ÿ > > ÿ Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
> > ÿ

> > ÿ Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> > I will end here.
> > ÿ
> > ÿ As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> > P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> > http://www.amazon com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
> > ÿ
> > ÿ
> > MLP.,
> > Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
> >
> >
> > From: pharoahisrael
> > Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> > Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > Here's my 2 cents worth.
> > I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response.ÿ If I must I will have to accept it.ÿ However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization.ÿ One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world.ÿ And power holds ultimate power â" it holds all the important cards.ÿ The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true.ÿ It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too.ÿ I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means.ÿ However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us
> and replace themselves
> > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white.ÿ And we had to be reduced to chattel in order toÿ justify such treatment.
> > It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> > I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups.ÿ This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen.ÿ They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof.ÿ People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway.ÿ Could it be that he is stupid?ÿ Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around.ÿ But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here.ÿ This is like "1+1=2".ÿ

It doesn't require a lot of smarts.ÿ Even he has that much.ÿ But he opposed it.ÿ So there has to be something else.ÿ I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood
> when he "acquired" his > > fame.ÿ I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you â□" a black man.ÿ You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place.ÿ You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> > We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break â□" the most in history.ÿ Is their some logic somewhere there?
> > There is 26% - I believe â□" who blame Obama for the current economic crisis!ÿ This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness.ÿ Is their some logic there?ÿ I don't think so.ÿ Then what is the weird problem here?ÿ I think it is the color of the President.ÿ I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US.ÿ It is that simple and that stupid â□" no need to look for logic.ÿ There is none.ÿ They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> > Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power.ÿ I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe.ÿ It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage.ÿ There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this.ÿ We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years.ÿ So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world.ÿ It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence.ÿ It was about THEIR truth (what they
> decided was to > > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie.ÿ And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> > So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc.ÿ it is not important to them.ÿ What is important to them is that they be superior â□" on top.ÿ The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> > The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat).ÿ But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place.ÿ It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> > With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy.ÿ Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine.ÿ However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets".ÿ Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society.ÿ Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand.ÿ Of course, there is some truth to that.ÿ As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them â" not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use.ÿ Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't > need to have a

> > certain level of power.
> > Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance.ÿ How do you achieve it?
> > Sorry, to go on so long.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> > >
> > > Hi group!
> > > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded.ÿ Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion!ÿ How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized.ÿ But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God?ÿ As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society.ÿ I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a
> "happy" and well
> > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc.ÿ To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today?ÿ I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff.ÿ I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich.ÿ On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this.ÿ The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how > Christianity was

> > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> > >
> > > ABC
> > >
> >
> > --- End forwarded message ---
> >
>
| 28576|2009-04-14 17:54:26|Shu Tefnut|AL SHARPTON SELLING OUR CHILDREN OUT, FOR THE BUCKS.|

Hotep family

this is a shame Al Sharpton is in the mayors pocket and is selling our children out. thanx Sam really appreciate the update, and eye opener. Your missive will be fowarded.

-----Original Message-----
From: S E ANDERSON <blackeducator@me.com>
To:nycnsc@googlegroups.com
Sent: Tue, 14 Apr 2009 8:01 am
Subject: [nycnsc:101] Re: Rev. Al Sharpton's $500G Link to Education "Reform" (AKA Mayoral Control)

Sista Gail and Folks,

This info on Sharpton is already public! Thanx toJuan Gonzalezof the Daily News (the article I posted) and other journalists, Sharpton's hustling schemes are being exposed to all. This particular Mayoral Control/Charter Schools hustle has the backing of Prez Obama and hisEducation Secretary... which gives him a "legitimate" cover.

Al Sharptonhas a long history of hustling within the political and cultural realms thruout Black New York dating all the way back to his teenage days of the 70's. He hustled tickets for James Brown and Michael Jackson shows as well as Don King produced boxing bouts. He got caught up in the boxing world's corruption to the point where he made a deal with theFBIto stay out of jail by wearing a wire and bugging his office fone (this was exposed in the Village Voice back in the 80s). During this time, he tried to get one of Assata Shakur's comrade's to call her on his tapped/bugged office fone! Remember, she is in exile inCuba... and at that time, the US government was trying to either capture her or assassinate her using Black operatives.

Al Sharpton did not allow a group of experienced sisters to immediately councilTawana Brawley. In fact, they never got a chance to help her thru her trauma.

There's much more to expose about this man. But, the important thing to remember is that he can rise to mediaprominenceand be called a "leader" because WE are weak. Once we gain organizational strength and educate more and more of our people, Sharpton will be kicked to the curb.

In struggle,

Sam Anderson

bbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbbb
On Apr 13, 2009, at 4:26 PM, Gail George wrote:

> Peace and blessings!
> Just wondering...Do you plan on going public with the info? God's Grace. Gail.
>
> --- OnSat, 4/11/09, Gail George<gg1class@yahoo.com>wrote:
>
> From: Gail George <gg1class@yahoo.com>
> Subject: [nycnsc:97] Re: Rev. Al Sharpton's $500G Link to Education "Reform" (AKA Mayoral Control)
> To:nycnsc@googlegroups.com
> Date: Saturday, April 11, 2009, 2:23 PM
>
> Peace and blessings, brother Sam!
> I was wondering what induced Sharpton to get into bed with Klein & Co. Thanks for getting the info. out. God's Grace. Gail.
>
> --- OnWed, 4/1/09, S. E. Anderson<seanderson@mail.com>wrote:
>
> From: S. E. Anderson <seanderson@mail.com>
> Subject: [nycnsc:72] Rev. Al Sharpton's $500G Link to Education "Reform" (AKA Mayoral Control)
> To:
> Date: Wednesday, April 1, 2009, 6:46 AM
>
> # Rev. Al Sharpton's $500G link to education "reform"
>
> Wednesday, April 1st 2009
>  Drew/AP/AP
> Former Chancellor Harold Levy and the Rev. Al Sharpton are pictured in 2002, but stay connected.

<Education ReformNow, is run by former Daily News reporterJoe Williams, who also directs Democrats for Education Reform, a leadingnational advocacy groupfor charter schools.>>

TheRev. Al SharptonandSchools Chancellor Joel Kleinstunned the education world last June when they joined forces to "reform" thenation's public schools. They called their ambitious venture theEducation Equality Project, and they vowed in aWashingtonpress conference to lead a campaign to close the decades-decades-oldachievement gapbetween white and black students.

What Klein and Sharpton never revealed is that theNational Action Network, Sharpton's organization, immediately received a $500,000 donation for its involvement in the new effort.

The huge infusion of cash - equal to more than a year's payroll for Sharpton's entire organization - was quietly provided byPlainfield Asset Management, aConnecticut-based hedge fund, where formerChancellor Harold Levyis a managing director.

The money came at acritical momentfor the National Action Network. Sharpton was then settling a long-runningIRSinvestigation of his organization. As part of that settlement, he agreed in July to pay $1 million in back taxes and penalties both he personally and his organization owed the government.

The $500,000 from the Connecticut firm did not go directly to National Action Network. Levy funneled the cash to another nonprofit, Education Reform Now, which allowed his company to claim the donation as a charitable tax deduction. The money was then transferred in several payments to Sharpton's group, which does not have tax-deductible status because it is a lobbying organization. Sharpton and Levy confirmed the contribution.

"The money went mostly to pay forCharlie King's salary [National ActionNetwork's outgoing director] and for promoting the new initiative with Klein," Sharpton said.

"Our goal was to increase public awareness of the problems of high poverty schools, particularly in the context of the presidential race," Levy said. "The collaboration between Rev. Sharpton and Chancellor Klein is a novel alliance that we thought might help raise the visibility of the issue."

The odd pairing will be on display this week at the annual convention of the National Action Network, whereMayor Bloomberg, Klein,U.S. Education Secretary Arne Duncan, formerHouse Speaker Newt Gingrichand several mayors are expected to speak.

Levy says his firm came up with the idea to make the contribution, and neither Klein nor Bloomberg asked him to aid Sharpton.

At the time, Plainfield Asset Management, a major investor in gaming operations, was pressing city and state officials for approval of two deals worth hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

Levy has been registered for the past two years as a lobbyist targeting City Hall to privatize the city'sOff-Track Bettingoperations.Plainfieldalso provided more than $200 million in backing for Capital Play, one of three bidders on the state's proposed redevelopment ofAqueduct Racetrack. Neither deal has gone through. Levy rejected any suggestion of a connection between the donation and his business interests.

"Our contribution was not a way of currying favor with anyone," he said.

The nonprofit that served as a pass-through for the money to Sharpton, Education Reform Now, is run by former Daily News reporterJoe Williams, who also directs Democrats for Education Reform, a leading national advocacy group for charter schools.

Williams is also listed as president and treasurer of the Education Equality Project. He declined to discuss how the Levy contribution was handled.

Williams said the EEP's board has not met in the 10 months since Klein and Sharpton announced its formation, and that city Education Department employees have so far made all day-to-day decisions. He referred any questions about the group's finances to Klein and Sharpton.

DOE spokesmanDavid Cantorsaid the chancellor did not solicit the Levy donation.

"The money was paid to Joe Williams' nonprofit," Cantor said. "At that time, EEP was essentially no more than a name and had no mechanism with which to receive donations."

Since then, Cantor said, Klein has raised more than $1.6 million for EEP, and the group has hired its first full-time staff member.

Sharpton said his alliance with Klein should not be read as blanket support for Bloomberg'seducation policies.

"I am committed to cutting the achievement gap, but not necessarily to more mayoral control [of city schools]," he said. "I support more charter schools for local church and community groups, but I'm not for privatizing schools and corporate payoffs in education."

jgonzalez@nydailynews.com

---------- s. e. anderson is author of "The Black Holocaust for Beginners" Social Activism is not a hobby: it's a Lifestyle lasting a Lifetime http://www.blackeducator.org http://blackeducator.blogspot.com ----------

--
Be Yourself @mail.com!
Choose From 200+ Email Addresses
Get aFreeAccount atwww.mail.com!

| 28577|2009-04-14 17:54:30|rogaster1|Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|

Hello All,

I am new to the group, so I thought it was only fair to spend a little time just reading some of the posts. I did not intend to remain a "lurker" for any length of time, but I do have a question to pose to the group. In your collective or individual researches, has anyone come across any information that links the origin of the Jews to the worship of the Great Mother of Africa, i.e., the forerunner of Hathor, Neith and Isis?

Roger "PEACE"

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Lamar Perryman wrote:

>
>
>
> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael pharoahisrael@... wrote:
> ¼br> > Greetings again, > ¼br>

Bro. Mahari.
This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated

> Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).

> ¼br> > Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period > of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!

> I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!

> Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics.! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a

> Role in it Also.!
> From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.

> ¼br> > My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too > for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types

both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.¼br>

> The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!

> Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/Racism/Colonialism The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!

> ¼br> > Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!

> ¼br> > Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology,

Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc

> I will end here.
> ¼br> > As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry

by, Hon. GM. Zachary

> P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
>

http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/1420824473/ref=nosim/magic4-20#re\ ader

> ¼br> > ¼br> > MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
>
> From: pharoahisrael pharoahisrael@...
> Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: pharoahisrael@...
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM

>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" mahari@ wrote:
>
> Here's my 2 cents worth.
> I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response.

If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.

> It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.

> I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his > fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you □ a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.

> We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break □ the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?

> There is 26% - I believe □ who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid □ no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.

> Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.

> So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior □ on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".

> The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".

> With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them □ not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > certain level of power.

> Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?

> Sorry, to go on so long.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>

>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Brian" wrote:
> >
> > Hi group!
> > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.

> > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"

> > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively

Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?

> > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?

> > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"

> > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> >
> > ABC
> >
>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>

| 28578|2009-04-14 17:54:47|Ginger Daniels|Re: Epigenetics: The new frontier of biological racism|

Paul, thank you so much for this website, and this article. I found the site very interesting and I ended upreading many of the articles posted there.

As far as Epigenetics, itto me, goes hand in hand with eugenics. This is why, as Johnnie Cochran said, we must look at the messenger, before we can trust the message. Therehas been a big debate within this group about science, darwinism, intelligent designetc etc. My theory is, we as apeople should beexamining and re-examing anything that these people have taught about us. Point blank. And I have no regrets for feeling that way.We study people like Hegel, and Dewey, and Kant in these schools systems... all of whom were racists! Thisis who our children are growing up and studying, learninginstitutionlized racism without even knowing it.

Medical Apartheid is a greatbookto read, it goes along with this subject. The experimentation on slaves and people from Africa, which still goes on today, is how they were able to initially come upwith these sick hypothesis... and all of this nonsense carries over today. They are continuously doing the research to support their theories and will continue to permiate this throughout science.

Thanks again for the website reference. I will befrequenting this one!

To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com
From: pmanansala@sbcglobal.net
Date: Fri, 10 Apr 2009 22:51:44 +0000
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Epigenetics: The new frontier of biological racism

Eugenicists, racial historians, racial anthopologists, etc. were betrayed by the field of genetics. Their many assumptions about race and genes in the form of DNA have been shown by countless recent studies to have no place in reality.

Not unpredictably, these race fanatics have been looking elsewhere to justify their preconceptions about race.

Epigenetics is the new field that we should look to for great new "discoveries" about race-based IQ and genetic or rather epigenetic factors in the (race-based) development of civilization.

The hard-core amateur racialists are already all over this new field based on "markers" that activate gene expression. One example:

http://www.promethe us6.org/node/ 18641

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry Check it out.

| 28579|2009-04-14 17:55:17|Shu Tefnut|The History of Zionism Part 1 Professor William Mackey Jr.|

HOTEP! FAMILY

CHECK THIS OUT!
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xXDbWk9Uuj0

| 28580|2009-04-14 17:55:19|Ginger Daniels|FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months|

Thank you for your response and forgive my untimely response.
I believe this statement sums up my position -

Darwin's work was a Work of The State, The State of The Art of The European World on Origins and developments. Due to the very nature of the times and the atmosphere that it took place in there was bound to be a lot of facts and truths that were discovered and then distorted by The European Establishment Itself.!

Initially I said it didnt make sense, not from the perspective of a black woman who didnt believe anything the white man says... but from a "self-proclaimed" scholar and adamant researcher in search of truth. Not my own truth, the truth. I appreciate all of your comments on this matter. Believe me, I take the information you provide and look it up for myself, as it helps me to answer the questions that I have that never seem toget answered. I have a professor who is supposed to be one of the prominant scientists in this country - yet there are matters concerning this topic that he will not touch. If we believe that anyscientific / philosophic / phsycological / academicstudies were done without the negativegerm of racism and white supremacy somewhere lurking its ugly head, then we as a people have not done our homework. Thank you again for your responses, and yourinsight regarding thismatter.

> Date: Sat, 11 Apr 2009 21:26:46 +0000
> From: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
> To: gingerd2007@hotmail.com; pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
> Subject: Fwd: Re: FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
>
> Greetings Mrs. Ginger D.,
> I do not know if you recieved my response to Bro. Asar Imhotep's answer to our debate Over Evolution, Creationism and Darwinism. Below is my response.
>
> My answer is basically that I do not know of any other Process, Cause, or Origination of The Human Being except That of A Creator and The Forces and Elements of Nature expressed in a Scientific Sense.
>
> That is All. Thank You for your Responses and Encouragement as Well.
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "pharoahisrael" wrote:
>
> Greetings and Shalom,
> Bro. Asar Imhotep. I agree with You wholeheartedly about the mis-direction of a lot of Afro-American minds disregarding the teachings of Europeans (The White Man) even if such teachings are true. I have dealt with a lot of Black Peoples like that myself. I have learned long ago at a early age to accept that which can be proved true by The Physical Senses no matter who brings it.
> In so saying I wish to state that I am not calling all of Darwin's teachings wrong. He presents much facts. But those facts can be found anywhere else too if one cares to look and/or knows where to look. In addition Darwin did his work looking for answers that The European Physics and Spiritual Society had not given him and those Materialists > that shared or supported his viewpoints. Darwin's work was a Work of The State, The State of The Art of The European World on Origins and developments. Due to the very nature of the times and the atmosphere that it took place in there was bound to be a lot of facts and truths that were discovered and then distorted by The European Establishment > Itself.!

> However Darwin's truths were not so new either. You state the Cosmology Systems of Indigenous Afro-Asiatic Peoples and the fact that they mention Transmigration Of The Souls, the Starry or Astral World Concept of Man/Woman's Origination and Development Through Matter, and Re-Incarnations.
> Darwinism Never covered any of that as I am aware of.! His sole Thesis was to prove That Man Originated From Primates With Apes/Monkeys as a Common Ancestor.! It was a European Materialist way of saying that everything came from Africa but in The Form of an Ape-Man/Woman but Not a Black Man/Woman Human Being. European-Indian Darwinists have revised and refined darwinism to what it is now in lieu of new evidence but for almost a century or even more they thought that it was as far as " human sciences " could go.!
>
> Again I state that Darwinism and Evolution (Human Evolution of Man/Woman as The Primary Human Life Form/Species on The Planet)
> Are Two (2) Different Things Altogether.! The concepts of those African peoples that You have mentioned are still evolving too and The Concept of Star Origin can be seen in Ancient Nubia 48, 000 years ago with a Tablet of A Man/Woman worshipping The Stars (or Something > taht made the stars too) . I will get You that Tablet info Soon. It was given to me by a Close European (White) companion who is also an Anthropologist from Washington State (USA).!
> Ironically this is what the Male/Female team of scientists said in the early seventies featured in National Geographic of which I cannot recall their actual names now but will find them too.
>
> Darwinism, as I know, posits nothing of this type and The Animists > Scientists of Africa, Asia, America, Australia and elsewhere taught that WE as Man/Woman-Human Beings are The Products of The Five Great Elements called :
>
> 1. Ether, Plasma, Dark Matter
> 2. Fire - Nitrogen
> 3. Air - Oxygen
> 4. Water - Hydrogen
> 5. Earth - Carbon
>
> There is No Science today anywhere that has disproved this concept and the various cosmologies among all indigenous peoples anywhere was founded on this one single truth.
>
> Again, I accept all intelligence and truth from anyone but I will call Unfounded THEORIES such as Darwinism what they really are no matter the type of collateral education that came from educated individuals pursuing the lines of thought that it evoked and coming into some truth themselves about our position and reality as a life form here on this planet albeit ackwardly at that.
>
> I state that there is a method and a way contained in the Ancestral Teachings that are Indispensable.

>
> That is All. Thank You Also Sir.
>
> Sincerely,
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish Federal Nationalists-AFN.
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
> >
> > Peace Ginger
> >
> > It seems that a lot of African-Americans are falling into a cognitive trap that reached its height during the sixties. This line of thinking basically states that anything the "White" man says or does is to be written off as untrue and should be disregarded by the African community. Although the history of European based pedagogy in the United States warrants us to be extra critical of their scholarship, out right dismissal of all of their scholarship would render any African scholar intellectually handicapped in this day and age.
> >
> > We want to honor our greats such as Dr. Diop and John Henrick Clarke, yet we don't want to follow their lead to get to the point that got them there. As Dr. Clarke noted:
> >
> > "Most of the old and new Black scholars asking for a total reconsideration of African history, in particular, and world history, in general, are using neglected documents by radical White Scholars who are generally neglected by the White academic community."
> >
> > What he is pointing out is that the use of White scholarship has been an essential part of retelling our story, primarily because they have had the funding to go out and collect the necessary data. It was our job to reinterpret the data for a more refined analysis. Dr. Diop stressed that we create our own research teams, but never neglected information on science because a "White" man articulated in a book.
> >
> > Now usually African-Americans who make such statements hinting at us abandoning theories JUST because a "White" man came up with them have little to no knowledge of how to critique information and find it easier to use the "White" man as a scapegoat for not taking the time to learn the field and how to properly challenge any opposing ideas they may have about a given concept.
> >
> > In regards to evolution as articulated by Darwin, his concept is not new and is not anti-African. Africans who claim that it is have not read the evolutionary concepts, or sat and heard these concepts at the feet of African elders in wisdom centers of knowledge. I can tell you that evolution, as articulated by Darwin, is a part of the Dogon, Egyptian, Dagara and Zulu systems of thought. This was NOT knowledge introduced by the "White" man either.
> >

> > Credo Mutwa in Indaba My Children (1964) tells us about the Zulu concept of evolution as such:
> >
> > "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."
> >
> > Those of us who are familar with African cosmologies can tell you that to the African there are not seperate souls: all souls are one. Mutwa (1964: 565) confirms this for us when he states, "Man does not possess a special soul, exclusive to himself. All souls are the same, and Man is but one of the many forms, or re-incarnations that a soul must pass through."
> >
> > As we have stated in our discussions on the Ba and Ka(a), these are just perceived differentiations of the universal "soul" that is creation. And when you read the Egyptian texts and symbolism, they are articulating how this universal "soul" evolved to later become man. This line of thinking is in exact alignment as to what has been found in Astrophysics.
> >
> > African spiritual traditions all say we came here from the stars. The Zulu, Egyptians and the Dogon say we came exactly from the star Sirius. Any astrophysist would tell you that the galaxy, the earth, water, the elements, fish, reptiles, mammals, humans, trees, etc., are all derived as the result of dying stars. Here is some proof of this statement:
> >
> > We Are Made of Stardust
> > http://www.thegreatstory.org/Stardustbackground.html
> >
> > We are made of star stuff
> > http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=buhauZwOw7A
> >
> > The Quest for Life
> > http://video.google.de/videoplay?docid=5766979965403704214
> >
> > The Death Star
> > http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-41720681955951129
> >
> >
> > On page 590 (1964) Credo Mutwa informs us that in Zulu cosmology, the fundamental stages of man are 1) grass (plant), 2) Tree, 3) beast, 4) human, 5) Reptile, 6) bird 7) back to star phase. Although his account of evolution is different than modern biology or astrophysics, it none the less is a evolutionary theory which has humans deriving from animals.
> >
> > Laird Scranton spends a lot of space on this topic in his work Sacred Symbols of the Dogon and is worth reading. Malidoma Some in his work The Healing Wisdom of Africa starting in Chapter 8 describes the creation of the universe in stark similitude to that of espoused by modern astrophysists. He takes it further by adding a "spiritual" dimension to it and arguing that our return to the stars is the last phase in our "human evolution." (pg 168).
> >
> > Human evolution, as a small segment of biological evolution in general, is NOT a "White" man's concept. If you would have watched the documentary you would have heard the biologists state that life is like a tree and that tree shows our relationship and affinities to all that exist here on earth. Is that not an African concept of relatedness to everything in the universe? Is this not taught in our wisdom centers that we evolved from a singularity and humans are the last things to be evolve? This is basic African philosophical knowledge.

> >
> > So instead of dismissing something because a "white" man said it, we should learn simply how to do a proper critique of the information and be prepared to scientifically counter it if we feel there is an error in analysis or experimentation. We can't claim that we invented the sciences and the scientific method and then abondon it all of sudden and say its the white mans. Theophile Obenga would definitely disagree with this kind of thinking as articulated in his work African Philosophy: The Pharaonic Period: 2780-330 BC.
> >
> > The theory of evolution has not been falsified in 150 plus years of scrutiny. That should tell you something. If anything it should tell you that the ancestors were right.
> >
> > Ancestrally,
> >
> >
> >
> > Asar Imhotep
> > http://www.asarimhotep.com
> >
> >
> >
> > --- On Sun, 4/5/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:
> > From: Ginger Daniels
> > Subject: FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
> > To: ""Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com" "
> > Date: Sunday, April 5, 2009, 5:20 PM
> >
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Ginger Daniels
> > Sent: 4/5/2009 9:50:20 PM
> > To: pharoahisrael@
> > Cc: pharoahisrael@
> > Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
> >
> >
> > Thank u for this response and for bringing "intelligent balance" to > > this conversation. I especially like the "mechanically inclined" > > comment. It seems particularly relevant to this conversation. It is almost > > laughable to me that we the direct descendants of the creator are here arguing > > thus point. This theory of the white man is being regergitated instead of being > > highlighted as merely a theory, which it is.

> > U would swear by the responses here that these are proven facts. Which they are > > not. I hear these same things in school from my professors and they never answer > > the tough questions; this seems to be the case here as well. I notice there was > > no response to your email, only a video (from a white mans perspective of > > course) but no real fact finding agendas of our own. Just looking for ways to > > support their already established hypothesis.
> > So again my brotha thank you for bringing something more than a western learned > > point of view. The young people like myself who come to this site seeking the > > guidance of our elders need a perspective from our own people so that we can > > match it to what they teach in these institutions (killing fields for the black > > mind) so that we can find the truth.
> > -----Original Message-----
> > Date: Friday, April 03, 2009 9:15:26 am
> > To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com;Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> > Cc: atenergy@
> > From: pharoahisrael@
> > Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
> >
>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>
>

Windows Live: Keep your life in sync. Check it out.

Rediscover Hotmail: Get e-mail storage that grows with you. Check it out.

| 28581|2009-04-14 17:55:31|Ginger Daniels|Evolution out of Africa?|

Asar, my apologies for not responding to you sooner.
Ihad midterms all last week, and thingshave been hectic.

Let meaddress your response as briefly and thoroughly as I can-

1. Just because I said we shouldquestion the theory of evolution, and who produced the theory, does not mean I said we should some how not trust anything the white man says or does. At which pointdid I say that? I am a graduate student, in a white mans institution, which is why Iapproached this subject in the first place. You spent your first 3paragraphs talking about this, and I dont know why.No black person of sound mind would ever say disregard everything the white man says or does.If for nothing else, the truth is always is hidden in the lies. You must study the lies to find the truth in many instances.

2. When it comes to us, and our history, and how we are portrayed throughout the world, and history- EVERYTHINGthe white man has taught about us should be examined, then re-examined, then re-examined again. This is coming from awoman who learned that Carthage was in Rome in high school... and that the Egyptians worshipped the sun in college... and that the women in Africa were overtly promiscuous and seduced white men to take them and have them as their own.Oh yes, and let us not forget the misinterpretation of the bible, the hamitic curse... you may not be religious, but it does not matter. This story could have been interpreted in many ways. Instead, it was used to present the argument that we arean inferiorpeople, and this way of thinking isstill secretly shared with many white peoplein and out of the church. What about the scientific proof that our craniums were built in such a way that our brains would not grow anddevelop as the white mans does?Thesescientific theories were beingproduced around the same time asthat man, Darwin, was traveling the world in his boat bought and paid for by white priviledge.

3. Your videosshed more light on your responses, but with all due respect did notgive me anything I have not heard before. I am not stumbling in on this topic.When I initially responded, I simply said it did not make sense to me. And it still doesnt.Yes, I believe that there arenatural evolutions that have occured and are occuring. Diop taught that all civilization derived from one - Africa. He taught of themigration of Africans, and provided proof of how each branch of theAfrican family evolved into what we have today based on the natural elements. He also taught that there were two cradles ofciviliation. Not two otherspecies, that evolved to be man, but two cradels of civilization - of man. These were his theories, and it is importantfor us to research them all. But in the end, we may never have the answers we are looking for. This is something that Iasa student of the world must accept.Darwin himself, when confronted with the creation of the world, said the most intelligent thinghe could have - I dont know.You presented the videos aboutthe stars, galaxy, and solar system as it relates to how the world was created.Yes, this is a theory, but when it all boils down to it, we dont know. We can study them now, andmake our owntheories, asour ancient ancestors did...

4. I spoke with several friends of mine fromdifferent cultures in Africa. One of my older friendsfrom Nigeria laughed at me when I asked him about evolution. He told me I have been in the white mans school too long... (he said it not me) He explained to me the culture of animism, and the beliefs of the tribes in his area. I told him about what you said of the Zulu culture etc etc. He stated thatfor the most part, most cultures believe that God is manifested in all things. So to give praise to the animal, is to give praise to God. As with the Egyptians, (Kemet) they did not worship the sun. They believed that the sunwas amanifiestation of God as with the other natural elementsof society.

You quoted - "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

To me, this reflects the position of the before and after life. This does not support the argument about evolving from another species. This goes hand and hand with the Egyptian (Kemetic) belief system in my opinion. Key word: soul.

I appreciate you taking the time to respond to my email. I appreciate the references. My response to the other member was just to let him know that I, as a student, was looking for a different opinion / source of information than what is being taught in school. That is part of the reason I utilize this website. Someone here deemed me anit-evolution. No, I am pro-truth. Much of the information provided here is contrary to what is taught in the "white" institutions about our culture / history. So you can back them up or give reference to all that they have accomplished which was / is good, but I must question the methods always when it comes to the knowledge of my own people. Especially based on the fact that most of the information was stolen from us in the first place.

Peace

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: asar_imhotep@yahoo.com
Date: Sun, 5 Apr 2009 20:11:42 -0700
Subject: Re: FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months

Peace Ginger

It seems that a lot of African-Americans are falling into a cognitive trap that reached its height during the sixties. This line of thinking basically states that anything the "White" man says or does is to be written off as untrue and should be disregarded by the African community. Although the history of European based pedagogy in the United States warrants us to be extra critical of their scholarship, out right dismissal of all of their scholarship would render any African scholar intellectually handicapped in this day and age.

We want to honor our greats such as Dr. Diop and John Henrick Clarke, yet we don't want to follow their lead to get to the point that got them there. As Dr. Clarke noted:

"Most of the old and new Black scholars asking for a total reconsideration of African history, in particular, and world history, in general, are using neglected documents by radical White Scholars who are generally neglected by the White academic community."

What he is pointing out is that the use of White scholarship has been an essential part of retelling our story, primarily because they have had the funding to go out and collect the necessary data. It was our job to reinterpret the data for a more refined analysis. Dr. Diop stressed that we create our own research teams, but never neglected information on science because a "White" man articulated in a book.

Now usually African-Americans who make such statements hinting at us abandoning theories JUST because a "White" man came up with them have little to no knowledge of how to critique information and find it easier to use the "White" man as a scapegoat for not taking the time to learn the field and how to properly challenge any opposing ideas they may have about a given concept.

In regards to evolution as articulated by Darwin, his concept is not new and is not anti-African. Africans who claim that it is have not read the evolutionary concepts, or sat and heard these concepts at the feet of African elders in wisdom centers of knowledge. I can tell you that evolution, as articulated by Darwin, is a part of the Dogon, Egyptian, Dagara and Zulu systems of thought. This was NOT knowledge introduced by the "White" man either.

Credo Mutwa in Indaba My Children (1964) tells us about the Zulu concept of evolution as such:

"The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

Those of us who are familar with African cosmologies can tell you that to the African there are not seperate souls: all souls are one. Mutwa (1964: 565) confirms this for us when he states, "Man does not possess a special soul, exclusive to himself. All souls are the same, and Man is but one of the many forms, or re-incarnations that a soul must pass through."

As we have stated in our discussions on the Ba and Ka(a), these are just perceived differentiations of the universal "soul" that is creation. And when you read the Egyptian texts and symbolism, they are articulating how this universal "soul" evolved to later become man. This line of thinking is in exact alignment as to what has been found in Astrophysics.

African spiritual traditions all say we came here from the stars. The Zulu, Egyptians and the Dogon say we came exactly from the star Sirius. Any astrophysist would tell you that the galaxy, the earth, water, the elements, fish, reptiles, mammals, humans, trees, etc., are all derived as the result of dying stars. Here is some proof of this statement:

We Are Made of Stardust
http://www.thegreat story.org/ Stardustbackgrou nd.html

We are made of star stuff
http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=buhauZwOw7A

The Quest for Life
http://video. google.de/ videoplay? docid=5766979965 403704214

The Death Star
http://video. google.com/ videoplay? docid=-417206819 55951129

On page 590 (1964) Credo Mutwa informs us that in Zulu cosmology, the fundamental stages of man are 1) grass (plant), 2) Tree, 3) beast, 4) human, 5) Reptile, 6) bird 7) back to star phase. Although his account of evolution is different than modern biology or astrophysics, it none the less is a evolutionary theory which has humans deriving from animals.

Laird Scranton spends a lot of space on this topic in his work Sacred Symbols of the Dogon and is worth reading. Malidoma Some in his work The Healing Wisdom of Africa starting in Chapter 8 describes the creation of the universe in stark similitude to that of espoused by modern astrophysists. He takes it further by adding a "spiritual" dimension to it and arguing that our return to the stars is the last phase in our "human evolution." (pg 168).

Human evolution, as a small segment of biological evolution in general, is NOT a "White" man's concept. If you would have watched the documentary you would have heard the biologists state that life is like a tree and that tree shows our relationship and affinities to all that exist here on earth. Is that not an African concept of relatedness to everything in the universe? Is this not taught in our wisdom centers that we evolved from a singularity and humans are the last things to be evolve? This is basic African philosophical knowledge.

So instead of dismissing something because a "white" man said it, we should learn simply how to do a proper critique of the information and be prepared to scientifically counter it if we feel there is an error in analysis or experimentation. We can't claim that we invented the sciences and the scientific method and then abondon it all of sudden and say its the white mans. Theophile Obenga would definitely disagree with this kind of thinking as articulated in his work African Philosophy: The Pharaonic Period: 2780-330 BC.

The theory of evolution has not been falsified in 150 plus years of scrutiny. That should tell you something. If anything it should tell you that the ancestors were right.

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

--- On Sun, 4/5/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:
From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: FW: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months
To: ""Ta_Seti@yahoogrou ps.com" "
Date: Sunday, April 5, 2009, 5:20 PM

-----Original Message-----
From: Ginger Daniels
Sent: 4/5/2009 9:50:20 PM
To: pharoahisrael@ yahoo.com
Cc: pharoahisrael@ yahoo.com
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months

Thank u for this response and for bringing "intelligent balance"
to this conversation. I especially like the "mechanically inclined" comment. It seems particularly relevant to this conversation. It is almost laughable to me that we the direct descendants of the creator are here arguing thus point. This theory of the white man is being regergitated instead of being highlighted as merely a theory, which it is.

U would swear by the responses here that these are proven facts. Which they are not. I hear these same things in school from my professors and they never answer the tough questions; this seems to be the case here as well. I notice there was no response to your email, only a video (from a white mans perspective of course) but no real fact finding agendas of our own. Just looking for ways to support their already established hypothesis.
So again my brotha thank you for bringing something more than a western learned point of view. The young people like myself who come to this site seeking the guidance of our elders need a perspective from our own people so that we can match it to what they teach in these institutions (killing fields for the black mind) so that we can find the truth.
-----Original Message-----
Date: Friday, April 03, 2009 9:15:26 am
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com;Ta_Seti@ yahoogroups. com
Cc: atenergy@hotmail. com
From: pharoahisrael@ yahoo.com
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Reflecting on the Cruelest Months

Express your personality in color! Preview and select themes for Hotmail. See how.

| 28582|2009-04-14 17:55:57|pharoahisrael@yahoo.com|Re: [africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
That is right Bro. Mahari,
I feel you on that one true enough. Religions and even Caucasian, Indian and Oriental Esoteric Systems have done much damage to The Black Mind, Soul and Physical Nature. When I said I wish that I knew what other peoples knew about Black Africans/Asians so much Religions and their by-products were on my mind
but You actually said it thoroughly and clearl to the point thatI don't think any reasonable and conscious person could argue with it.
Religions and Socialization. BrotherI think that the issue has become so bad that even Our Own Political and Religious Establishments have been in on it for their own Personal and Organizational benefit. Just look at Black Christians of all types- Catholics, Protestants, Mormons, Jehovah Witness, Episcopalian, Seventh-Day Adventists, Baptists and so on.

Then we have The Black Muslims- Sunni, Shite, Baath, Ahmadiyya, Ismaili, Sufiand so many Sects, Imams, Ulama, Caliphs, Sultans, Ayatollahs, Shahs and so on.
Then we have to consider Black Muslims in America. The Nation of Islam-NOI, The Lost-Found NOI, The Five-Percent NOI, The Moorish Science Temples (All The Branches and Sects of Them). All of these groups and not one provides a basis for the total unity of Black Americans All because of some " Religious Beliefs, Faith, Hope and Doctrines " that NONE of them can even fully explain themselves in Common Sensical Terms.
Then we have The African Hebrew Israelites, The Messianic Hebrew Israelites, The Torah Only Ones, The Lawgivers, etc. Not a One of Them knows anything about the Basics of Physics (The Forces of Nature) or Spirituality (Metaphysics) from what I have seen and boy oh boy oh boy have I talked to them, Men and Women. This is inclusive of All The " Religious ' Black Folks and it is all The More Sad and Insane when They actually believe That Some Universal God-head or Messiah is " Backing Them Up On This".. That type of Self-Poisoned Psychology based on a Ignorant fear, belief and hope is absolutely a symptom of Functional Insanity.!
If any of them had a God-Head, Messiah or The Forces of Nature Backing them up on anything we and the world would have known it by now, point-blank.! However there are Two
(2) Systems that I have been interested in since birth or an early age so to speak. You almost NEVER hear the Run of The Mill Religionists, Scientists, Darwinists or Agnostics mention these for any length of time if at all.
That is Vodun and Judaism. As I begin to study them off and on when I could I can see why now..! To be brief, Vodun, Just The Thought of It, Breaks The Spells of These False Religious Shackles no matter how powerful they be. If it doesn't do anything elseit impels one in the course of Free-Thought and Free Spirit..
Judaism, Afro-Judaism, to be exact. When I began my Moorish Studies under the tutelage of a certain brotherhood years ago I found out that to understand, know and practice Judaism (correctly and comprehensively) one has to Study and Know The Social Sciences. That Judaism is nothing more or less than KANAANITE Philosophy and Practice through and through .
That what is now called Judaism was actuallyand Originally ATENISM, The Monotheism of The Pharoah Akenaten and The High Priest Osarseph of On. This Pharoah Akenaten and/or H.P. Osarseph is actually The Biblical and Historical PharonicMoses (Moschiach)whom establishedKanaan (Israel) on The Pattern of Such.That the Hyksos
Era was nothing more than Native Kanaanites Pre-Dominately and at all times who simply bested The Egyptian/Sumerian Empires of that day and time as far as the courses of civilization goes. They may have brought in some Nubians/Indus Valley Peoples as Mates and Co-Governors and Some Caucasians and Indo-Orientals as Servants and Students from time to time but these Native Kanaanites were in Charge of The Whole Process Through and Through All Of The Time.!!!
Later on in our times this is what makes Caucasians, Indians, Orientals and some sideswiped Black Scholars think that the Hyksos were a Foreign Non-Black Peoples and pretend thatsome Caucasians or Chinese came into Egypt to " Rule The Local Population ". Yes, Yess, Yessss, Brother. The Joke Continues and Goes On.!
The RealType of Education, The Social Sciences , is what is kept out of The Public Schools, The Churches, Mosques and Political Organizations for the very real fear that Foreign Imperialists and their " Educated Negroes " so to speak, will lose face, influence and the respect of the Black Population. The Spell that Non-Black peoples created the first civilizations and organized societies will be over withtoo.

MLP.,
Moorish American Federal Nationalists,
MAFN.

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: africanclassicalhistory@yahoogroups.co.uk
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 6:16 PM

>>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<

Hi, Bro. Lamar,
My theory is WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in every respect to history.
Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of people". He further added that they are "blameless".
Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them; then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state.
With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption or THEIR judgment. And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our oppressor (no question) is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or physically free yourself under these circumstances. WE SHOULD NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, join `em". Consequently, he had Christian obedience and loyalty while he RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez! Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on Afrigypt in 391 AD.

I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white here in a nutshell is what I think happened:
In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading the area. During the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the problems with the Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus, the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions. Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost literally.
HTP,
Mahari
--- In africanclassicalhis tory@yahoogroups .co.uk, Lamar Perryman wrote:
>
>
>
> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
>
> Greetings again,
> Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying.. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
>
> Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a
> Role in it Also.!

> From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
>
> My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
>
> Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
>
> Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> I will end here.
>
> As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
>
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
>

> From: pharoahisrael
> Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Here's my 2 cents worth.
> I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment..
> It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his
> fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?

> There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none.. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > certain level of power.
> Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> Sorry, to go on so long.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>

>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> >
> > Hi group!
> > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was
> taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> >
> > ABC
> >

>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>

| 28583|2009-04-14 19:08:05|yoheyman2000@yahoo.com|Re: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
I agree Mahari this is serious and I held to that when I prayed to who for practical purposes I will call "The Almighty God" after years of (Christian) Bible study, and asked thesomething to the effect of:
Dear God why should I as a Black man be SO despised as to be made to see the same man who enslaved me and despises me to this very day as the likeness of my Lord and saviour as well?
Or why would you have it that I trust the religion of the same man who has shown nothing but hatred toward me?
Why must it be that I should trust anything, no less his salvation plan, that he says or offers to me, how can this be?
From thereI discovered"The Nuwaubians" somewhere in there associated with Malidoma Some & his Dagara/Dogon teachings and from there I can't say exactly where I am but it has left me feeling thatI don't know that I am a "joiner" and with Jesus dominating the "age"
The bottom line I guess is sometimes you look for the "replacement" and sometimes it's like it takes so much effort to find that "replacement" that you wonder if you really need a replacement or maybe truth "setting one free" means getting used to how BIG freedom is?
The Mysteries are for initiates and what is an initiate is that like a priest? but if you are a "layman" what is his option a layman? is that like a historian perhaps just having the knowlege but none of the spirituality? SO our journey from Christianity leaves us not knowing who the real saviour isit Heru?
Is it the Jesus story but just with differing names of the characters?
If so then is the Jesus story such a lie?
Will changing Jesus's color help patch up the lie or is calling him Jesus a bigger offence?
-- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 8:04 PM
>
> I think you are a little off focus. The issue at hand has less to do with astronomical symbols and representation than it does with who is personified by these symbols and representations.
> To demonstrate in blunt images let's say that the origins of this "Jesus" was of the black race and a later group - say caucasian- comes along and says and represents this black man as a white man thus directing the line of "history", civilization and culture to the white race. Would you not consider this a SERIOUS problem and a lie particularly if this group had enslaved, degraded, minimized their worth and accomplishments and murdered his progeny in great numbers?

As I understand it this is the thrust of the discussion and not astrological symbolism. Not that it is not interesting. In fact, it could have historical significance upon closer examination. But that is not the issue at hand.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, anthony clements wrote:
>
> I am enjoying the exchanges and I just hope to get more understanding.
> The Mysteries are demonized because it is part of the push to level the acomplishments of the Afrakan in the world! There was a notion that was asserted in Zeitgeist The Movie which I though was profound:
> The notion was something to the effect of; each age has a reigning "savior" the current age is the age of Pisces hence fish are often used as representations of Jesus or Christianity thus we are in the age of Christianity. Before Jesus the savior was represented by a bull (Taurus) hence the worshiping of the Golden Calf in the previous age. The next age is that of Aquarius and even Jesus points to this when he tells desciples, when they ask when or how will they find him, follow the man bearing the pitcher of water, the symbol and the saviour of the age of Aquarius.
> This idea though it does take blame away from the Caucasian alone seems to have a wider range of view but one that I would think agrees with some tenets of the Mysteries ?
> --- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:09 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> ADVERTISEMENT
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous

Groups. In other
> Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with > every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of > people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
> then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and
> prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god
> (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption > or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully > hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our > oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of > our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or > physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER > UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe
> the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made > Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, > join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen > today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or

> oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's > evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the
> "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!
> Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is > reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on > Afrigypt in 391 AD.
>
> I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is > ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the > Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I
> think happened:
> In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading
> the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the > problems with the warring Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold > sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy
> environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest > nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists • the followers of the > displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus,
> the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian > mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see > this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, > arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This > still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions.
> Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost > literally.
> HTP,

> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
> >
> >
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
> > Â
> > Â Greetings again,
> > Â Â Â

> > Â The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, SonghaiÂ , Â The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> > Â Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
> > Â
> > Â Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
> > Â
> > Â Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> > I will end here.
> > Â
> > Â As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> > P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> > http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
> > Â
> > Â
> > MLP.,
> > Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
> >
> >
> > From: pharoahisrael
> > Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> > Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
> >
> >

> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > Here's my 2 cents worth.
> > I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response.Â If If I must I will have to accept it.Â However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization.Â One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world.Â And power holds ultimate power â€" it holds all the important cards.Â The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true..Â It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too.Â I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means.Â However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us
> and replace themselves
> > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white.Â And we had to be reduced to chattel in order toÂ justify such treatment.
> > It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> > I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups.Â This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen.Â They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof.Â People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway.Â Could it be that he is stupid?Â Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around.Â But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here.Â This is like "1+1=2".Â It doesn't require a lot of smarts.Â Even he has that much.Â But he opposed it.Â So there has to be something else.Â I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood
> when he "acquired" his
> > fame.Â I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you â€" a black man.Â You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place.Â You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> > We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break â€" the most in history.Â Is their some logic somewhere there?

> > There is 26% - I believe â€" who blame Obama for the current economic crisis!Â This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness.Â Is their some logic there?Â I don't think so.Â Then what is the weird problem here?Â I think it is the color of the President.Â I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US.Â It is that simple and that stupid â€" no need to look for logic.Â There is none.Â They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> > Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power.Â I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe.Â It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage.Â There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this.Â We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years.Â So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world.Â It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence.Â It was about THEIR truth (what they
> decided was to
> > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie.Â And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> > So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc.Â it is not important to them.Â What is important to them is that they be superior â€" on top.Â The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> > The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat).Â But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place.Â It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> > With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy.Â Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine.Â However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets".Â Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society.Â Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand.Â Of course, there is some truth to that.Â As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them â€" not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use.Â Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't > need to have a

> > certain level of power.
> > Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance.Â How do you achieve it?
> > Sorry, to go on so long.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> > >
> > > Hi group!
> > > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded.Â Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion!Â How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized.Â But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God?Â As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society.Â I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a > "happy" and well
> > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc.Â To break it down to today wouldn't it be be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today?Â I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would > rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff.Â I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich.Â On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this.Â The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how > Christianity was

> > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> > >
> > > ABC
> > >
> >
> > --- End forwarded message ---
> >
>

| 28584|2009-04-14 21:08:48|Asar Imhotep|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 1|
Greetings Ginger

> GINGER
> This theory of the white man is being regergitated instead of being highlighted as merely a theory, which it is.

This is the statement you made on the 5th of April. The above statement implies that just because it is the White mans theory, that people who accepts the Darwinian notion of Evolution, have adopted this theory without critically examining its tenants. You also stated:

> U would swear by the responses here that these are proven facts. Which they are not I hear these same things in school from my professors and they never answer the tough questions; this seems to be the case here as well. I notice there was no response to your email, only a video (from a white mans perspective of course) but no real fact finding agendas of our own.

Again, it is clear by your words that your disagreement is not rooted in any real interpretation of the data, but in the fact that it is the white mans perspective. From this originates my response to you. I am essentially saying this, if you are going to critique any scientific theory, you must do it within the parameters of the science AND provide a suitable explanatory model to replace the theory.

If one was operating under the standard of science, then one would understand that there is a difference in the definition of THEORY in the scientific field versus the laymans idea of a THEORY. Lets examine this before we move on.

Although I do not recommend Wikipedia as a resource, I submit it in this case because I have not found anything majorly questionable about the entry. So I submit for review the Wikipedia entry that discusses a theory and its divisions: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Theory

To further supplement our discussion, I like this discussion on this link: http://wilstar.com/theories.htm. Here they put in laymans terms the difference between a hypothesis and a theory. The author states the following:

> Hypothesis: This is an educated guess based upon observation. It is a rational explanation of a single event or phenomenon based upon what is observed, but which has not been proved. Most hypotheses can be supported or refuted by experimentation or continued observation.
>
> Theory: A theory is more like a scientific law than a hypothesis. A theory is an explanation of a set of related observations or events based upon proven hypotheses and verified multiple times by detached groups of researchers. One scientist cannot create a theory; he can only create a hypothesis.

I highlighted the phrase, verified multiple times by detached groups of researches in regards to a theory. Darwin didnt propose a scientific theory. He proposed a hypothesis. When the scientific community got wind of his theory (which other scientists independently came to the same conclusions as well), they tested his hypothesis and by successful trials it became a theory.

This means that the hypothesis brought forth by Darwin has survived scientific scrutiny and individual components has since been revised, but still fundamentally true. This is why I gave the forum the documentary because if one paid attention to it, one would have discovered that scientists from all over the world have been trying to falsify Evolutionary Theory for over a hundred and fifty years. This includes European, African, Asian and Native-American scientists.

As the above link demonstrates, A theory is developed only through the scientific method, meaning it is the final result of a series of rigorous processes. Anyone who claims that a theory is just a theory in the laymans concept of the word doesnt know ANYTHING about science.To falsify the theory, you have to have super strong experimental data that provides an alternative explanatory model to replace a theory. And theories rarely, if ever get replaced.

As I said earlier, if youre going to critique science, you have to do it within the confines of science, not by your own ideas of science. Science is not a field that a small group of people decide what is and what is not. It is a large community which expands all 7 continents and hundreds of ethnic groups. Sure there are scientists who conduct pseudo science, but the scientific community eventually falsifies their statements using the scientific method. Can we say Piltdown Man?

In my book Esodus: Internal Reflections and Conversations with the SUN, I have an article titled My People are Destroyed from a Lack of Science (2008:151). I introduce Peter Sturrocks guidelines to dealing with anomalous phenomena. I included this because each of his guidelines I have African proverbs and proofs that PROVE this is not the white mans thinking or perspective. In other words, these concepts agree with African methods of knowing. I list them below:

> (1) In studying any phenomenon, face up to the strongest evidence you can find, even if it is in conflict with current orthodoxies.
>
> (2) Go to the original sources for your data. Do not trust secondary sources.
>
> (3) Deal with "degrees of belief", which can be conveniently characterized by probabilities. It is important to avoid assigning probability P=0 (complete disbelief) or P=1 (complete certainty) to any proposition since, if you adopt either of these values, that value can never be changed no matter how much evidence you subsequently receive.
>
> (4) Focus on evidence and testing.
>
> (5) Subdivide the work into categories so different people take on different tasks.
>
> (6) Where possible work in teams; first because a combination of expertise may be required, and secondly, because a team is more likely to be self-correcting than someone working alone.
>
> (7) In theoretical analyses, list all assumptions. This seems a simple, innocuous request, yet it will not always be easy to put into effect.

I will address your other comments in a separate email.

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:
From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa?
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com"
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 6:41 PM

Asar, my apologies for not responding to you sooner.
Ihad midterms all last week, and thingshave been hectic.

Let meaddress your response as briefly and thoroughly as I can-

1. Just because I said we shouldquestion the theory of evolution, and who produced the theory, does not mean I said we should some how not trust anything the white man says or does. At which pointdid I say that? I am a graduate student, in a white mans institution, which is why Iapproached this subject in the first place. You spent your first 3paragraphs talking about this, and I dont know why.No black person of sound mind would ever say disregard everything the white man says or does.If for nothing else, the truth is always is hidden in the lies. You must study the lies to find the truth in many instances.

2. When it comes to us, and our history, and how we are portrayed throughout the world, and history- EVERYTHINGthe white man has taught about us should be examined, then re-examined, then re-examined again. This is coming from awoman who learned that Carthage was in Rome in high school... and that the Egyptians worshipped the sun in college... and that the women in Africa were overtly promiscuous and seduced white men to take them and have them as their own.Oh yes, and let us not forget the misinterpretation of the bible, the hamitic curse... you may not be religious, but it does not matter. This story could have been interpreted in many ways. Instead, it was used to present the argument that we arean inferiorpeople, and this way of thinking isstill secretly shared with many white peoplein and out of the church. What about the scientific proof that our craniums were built in such a way that our brains would not grow anddevelop as the white mans does?Thesescientific theories were beingproduced around the same time asthat man, Darwin, was traveling the world in his boat bought and paid for by white priviledge.

3. Your videosshed more light on your responses, but with all due respect did notgive me anything I have not heard before. I am not stumbling in on this topic.When I initially responded, I simply said it did not make sense to me. And it still doesnt.Yes, I believe that there arenatural evolutions that have occured and are occuring. Diop taught that all civilization derived from one - Africa. He taught of themigration of Africans, and provided proof of how each branch of theAfrican family evolved into what we have today based on the natural elements. He also taught that there were two cradles ofciviliation. Not two otherspecies, that evolved to be man, but two cradels of civilization - of man. These were his theories, and it is importantfor us to research them all. But in the end, we may never have the answers we are looking for. This is something that Iasa student of the world must accept.Darwin himself, when confronted with the creation of the world, said the most intelligent thinghe could have - I dont know.You presented the videos aboutthe stars, galaxy, and solar system as it relates to how the world was created.Yes, this is a theory, but when it all boils down to it, we dont know. We can study them now, andmake our owntheories, asour ancient ancestors did...

4. I spoke with several friends of mine fromdifferent cultures in Africa. One of my older friendsfrom Nigeria laughed at me when I asked him about evolution. He told me I have been in the white mans school too long... (he said it not me) He explained to me the culture of animism, and the beliefs of the tribes in his area. I told him about what you said of the Zulu culture etc etc. He stated thatfor the most part, most cultures believe that God is manifested in all things. So to give praise to the animal, is to give praise to God. As with the Egyptians, (Kemet) they did not worship the sun. They believed that the sunwas amanifiestation of God as with the other natural elementsof society.

You quoted - "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

To me, this reflects the position of the before and after life. This does not support the argument about evolving from another species. This goes hand and hand with the Egyptian (Kemetic) belief system in my opinion. Key word: soul.

I appreciate you taking the time to respond to my email. I appreciate the references. My response to the other member was just to let him know that I, as a student, was looking for a different opinion / source of information than what is being taught in school. That is part of the reason I utilize this website. Someone here deemed me anit-evolution. No, I am pro-truth. Much of the information provided here is contrary to what is taught in the "white" institutions about our culture / history. So you can back them up or give reference to all that they have accomplished which was / is good, but I must question the methods always when it comes to the knowledge of my own people. Especially based on the fact that most of the information was stolen from us in the first place.
Peace

| 28585|2009-04-14 23:51:52|Asar Imhotep|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
Greetings Ginger

You said
He also taught that there were two cradles ofciviliation. Not two otherspecies, that evolved to be man, but two cradels of civilization - of man.

I would venture to say that this statement is false and is not based on any of Diops work. Dr. Chiekh Anta Diop has always argued in the tradition of evolution. A matter of fact, his last publication Civilization or Barbarism, in the first two chapters, was dedicated to the evolution of man. He didnt argue that man was created separate from all other species of living organisms on the planet. We can attest this fact by observing page 60s SIMPLIFIED DIAGRAM OF THE PROBABLE PROCESS OF THE DIFFERENTIATION OF THE RACES UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF PHYSICAL FACTORS:

1. Australaopithecus gracile and robustus, approximately 5,500,000 2,000,000 years ago.

2. Homo habilus (African), 2,500,000 years ago

3. Homo erectus (African), approximately 1,000,000 years ago

4. Homo Sapiens Sapiens (African) Omo I, Kanjera, 150,000 to 130,000 years ago.

5. Arrival In Europe of the African Homo Sapiens sapiens (Grimaldi Negroid), 40,000 years ago.

6. (period of differentiation between the Grimaldi Negroid and the Cro-Magnon)

7. Appearance of the first Cro-Magnon, 20,000 years ago

8. Appearance of the Yellow race, 15,000 years ago at the very earliest, perhaps during the Mesolithic Age bordering on the Neolithic Age, resulting in the interbreeding of Black and White in the cold climate.

In paleo-anthropology, we know that Australopithcus, Homo Habilus, and Homo Erectus are not fully human beings. These are the branches from the ape-like ancestor in which the fully human Homo Sapiens Sapiens came into being. Diop is not arguing what you stated above. If Diop was arguing what you stated, he wouldnt have included non-human ancestors into the human line of evolution.

2)

YOU STATE
You quoted - "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

To me, this reflects the position of the before and after life. This does not support the argument about evolving from another species. This goes hand and hand with the Egyptian (Kemetic) belief system in my opinion. Key word: soul.

There are a few things we must understand before we examine your quote above. The first is that in nature there is no separation of disciplines. Nature doesnt know Astro-Physics from Paleo-Climatology, from geology to chemistry. There is no demarcation based on human compartmentalization of phenomena. You cant discuss biological evolution without including astro-physics. We have to do this as humans because the disciplines are so vast, but nature doesnt do this.

We start with how planets were formed and how from a single cell ameba life on earth was formed. This is why I included the documentation that all of the elements that give life and make up not only the earth, but the inhabitants on earth derive, from exploded, dying stars. I contrasted this with African stories of human beings and life deriving from stars.

The folly everyone makes when examining African oral or written spiritual texts, is assuming that the core themes have to do with religion. These are codified scientific treaties. When you examine these concepts under the rubrics of science, then we demystify our African themes. Thats the mystery we keep talking about. African science deals with quantum mechanics (see Laird Scrantons, Diop, Beatty and Finchs works), health, anatomy, physics and mathematics.

Mathematics is simply the relationship between MAAT and TECHU (Djehuti). This is why MAAT and TECHU are brother and sister which is a metaphor for inseparable, part of the same family of concepts.

> MAAT balance, reciprocity, truth, righteousness, order and harmony
>
> TECHU (djehuty) law, logic, word, science, magic, pattern, form, syntax
>
> MAAT in mathematics (deriving from mathematik? t髣ne) can be represented by the = sign.
>
> TECHU would be the proposition (the word, logic) that says two constants are equal (MAAT).
>
> 4 + 5 = 9
> TECHU + TECHU (MAAT) TECHU (logic and balance are opposite sides of the same coin = family)
>
> In order for TECHU to be true (MAAT) the logic (logos, word (djehuty inventor of the word, writing, etc.)) must be MAAT (balanced, equal on both sides). This is why Djehuti and MAAT are responsible for weighing the soul because they both deal with balance. Its mathematics, not religion.

Diop, Beatty, Obenga, and Finch have all discussed these ideas of myths connected to science in their respective works. When you understand that the idlhozi, Ka(a), Itongo, Simbi, etc., are not simply spiritual concepts in Africa, but are metaphors for electrical sources of power (energy), then you will understand what they mean by the soul. The African concept of scientific phenomena is more expansive and descriptive. The soul is simply energy as all things are energy and energy cannot be created nor destroyed; it can ONLY change FORM (evolve). I have an upcoming article on MAAT and the Theory of Relativity coming soon.

The Africans are saying the exact same thing the scientists are saying: that life began in a field of energy and the energy dispersed into packets and became different things (NTU) evolving from a single source. There is no such thing in African spiritual concepts as an after-life. That is a European concept. It is just life; a continuum of change in energy (soul).

So how can the Africans argue that life began as the dispersion of stars and it NOT be evolutionary? If things did not evolve in the African mind, why did not they simply state that all things were created simultaneously and things are fixed? Why did they start off with nothing, then light, stars, planets, plants, animals and then man in every single African tradition? In that order?

Evolution doesnt start with carbon based life on earth, but from the Big Bang (the first creation of stars) and is why Creationists always are asking who created the big bang? Because they understand you have to start from the beginning.

As stated before, and I will wrap up, science isnt concerned about who created creation. Its concern is how does creation work? You cant prove or disprove God and is why science wont address it. Period. End of discussion, no argument. Until you can prove God (in the African or European sense), quite trying to interject it into a scientific discussion. Thats not science. You dont even have a theory of God because it is not based on a single experiment from anyone to prove God.

If you are going to argue against science, you have to use science; not your beliefs.

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28586|2009-04-15 08:47:58|Asar Imhotep|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
Greetings Mr. Wright

Your response is misinformed. This is why I specifically quoted Ms. Ginger and addressed specifically her comment concerning Diop's view on evolution, not the comment about the dual cradle theory. Let me quote her again and highlight what I addressed:

GINGER
He also taught that there were two cradles ofciviliation. Not two otherspecies, that evolved to be man, but two cradels of civilization - of man.

The above comment explicitly states that Diop "taught" about two different cradles of civilization and NOT that man derived from an ape-like ancestor (two other species). I am not discussing the Diopian dual cradle theory as is evidenced in my response. I responded and provided documentation that disputes her claim that Diop didn't discuss or promote the notion that man derived from an ape-like ancestor. The first two chapters of Civilization or Barbarism is specifically dedicated to that topic (man's evolution and subsequent differentiation phenotypically).

So I say again, that your response is misinformed and isn't rooted in anything I've stated.

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Joseph Wright wrote:
From: Joseph Wright
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Asar Imhotep"
Cc: "gingerd2007@hotmail.com" , " AssociatesB. J. Clyde &" , "Nathan Hare"
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 5:56 AM

4/15/2009 5:22:37 AM

This is an unsolicited comment - - - hopefully helpful to the debate. Did I get Ginger corre me know; please?

With all due respect to all parties involved i.e. -- Not really my business and this is the middle of your conve (not having seen the original communication). Being very reluctant to ever take one side or the other Howev both need to check your sources because C. A. Diop is most certainly credited with "The Two Cradle Theor happens to be widely accepted by the dare I say Worldwide Afrocentric School. In fact "The Two Cradle Th just one of the giant corner stones of this Masters Work if not his greatest contribution. So, please check yo research so as not to diminish in any way a giant as great as he. Additionally I believe the operative words conditioning and adaptation [e.g. Cold/Hot-North/South] not so specifically evolution. So it is that you both fact be on the same train simply seated facing different directions. Ultra fine points of destinction may in fac however... ... ... Endarkening!

Sorry to butt-in but the observed group communication is very interesting - so I'll just get back to observatio although I did open a door. So if forced to: Ill put my reputation on the line along with his [Diop] and look-u specifics which do exist in the KWHS Database and no doubt online somewhere. Is is certainly referred to o the keen Diopian: Molefi Kete Asante in Kemet Afrocentricity and Knowledge as well as others. As itwas w be done! http://artisticstudiosgallery.com/Contents_Site_Map.html

Kemet Afrocentricity and Knowledge by Molefi Kete Asante

A definitive work on Afrocentricity, Kemetic Philosophy and their contributions to knowledge; highly recommended for advanced students of Classical African Civilization.

jew

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 1:51 AM

| 28587|2009-04-15 09:41:11|Michael J Robinson|Dr. Ray Hagins is coming to Chicago, Friday April 24th , 6pm at The |

Maat Hotep Family,

The Chicago Chapter of the Afrikan Village and Culture Center (CC-AV&CC)

PROUDLY PRESENT

AN EVENING WITH THE RENOWN

DR. RAY HAGINS

Founder, Chief Elder and Spiritual Leader of the Afrikan

Village and Culture Center (AV&CC),

St. Louis, Missouri

Dr. Hagins is also a Clinician, Therapist, Musician, radio and syndicated TV show host. He is an advocate for developing strong communities through healthy, productive families and spends a great deal of time addressing marriage and family issues. His informative and dynamic presentations has caused him to be recognized as one of the most distinguished expositors of our time.

Date: Friday April 24, 2009

Time: Doors Open at 6:00 P.M.

Location: The Jacob H. Carruthers Center for Inner City Studies

700 E. Oakwood Blvd

Chicago, Illinois 60653

For Information Contact:

Brother Charles Huey: 773-701-2136

Brother Olu Olufemi Chike: 708-769-4906

Sister TyWanna (AriAnkha): 773-858-2711

To view clips of Dr. Ray Hagins lectures, please visit www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914.

Please visit his website, www.WBLR.com where you can hear his lectures 24/7.

Thanks,

Bro. Michael

www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914

mjrob1914@comcast.net

mjrob1914@gmail.com

Right knowledge, corrects wrong behavior.

| 28588|2009-04-15 09:41:22|Joseph Wright|Re: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
AMEN! Glad to see this.

jew

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:35 PM

gerald massey and charles finch , ra unnefer amen ,,,, are the masters of the whole astro-mythical teachings

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, anthony clements wrote:

From: anthony clements
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:10 PM

I am enjoying the exchanges and I just hope to get more understanding.
The Mysteries are demonized because it is part of the push to level the acomplishments of the Afrakan in the world! There was a notion that was asserted in Zeitgeist The Movie which I though was profound:
The notion was something to the effect of; each age has a reigning "savior" the current age is the age of Pisces hence fish are often used as representations of Jesus or Christianity thus we are in the age of Christianity. Before Jesus the savior was represented by a bull (Taurus) hence the worshiping of the Golden Calf in the previous age. The next age is that of Aquarius and even Jesus points to this when he tells desciples, when they ask when or how will they find him, follow the man bearing the pitcher of water, the symbol and the saviour of the age of Aquarius.

This idea though it does take blame away from the Caucasian alone seems to have a wider range of view but one that I would think agrees with some tenets of the Mysteries ?
--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:09 PM
>
> ADVERTISEMENT
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
> Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them; then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe > the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez! Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on Afrigypt in 391 AD.

I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I think happened:
In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the problems with the warring Asiatics at the time.. As you know, symbols of power hold sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus, the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions. Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost literally.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
>
>
>
> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
>
> Greetings again,
> Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
>
> Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African

History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a
> Role in it Also.!
> From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
>
> My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
>
> Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
>
> Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc

> I will end here.
>
> As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
>
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
>
> From: pharoahisrael
> Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Here's my 2 cents worth.
> I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards.. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment.
> It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof.. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his

> fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".

> With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > certain level of power.
> Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> Sorry, to go on so long.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> >
> > Hi group!
> > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was

> taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> >
> > ABC
> >
>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>

| 28589|2009-04-15 09:41:25|odhiambo okecth|Fw: [next_kenya] By Kenyans For Kenyans Fw: [kenya-can] Oil in Migin|

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 8:38 AM

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, odhiambo okecth <komarockswatch@ yahoo.com> wrote:

ups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 8:32 AM

Lee becomes our first man on the bench followed by Otieno Sungu.

Elias Kanyuira joins at right wing. We need to look for a qualified coach; one who has fought many battles; one who has been to the trenches. I wonder where OrinaCyprian is? Can he be the coach/tactician?

The job is cut out and we must rally and save Kenya from these thugs in politics. They have sold our mother land;

They have eaten the reparations the British gave the Mau Mau;

They have soldd Migingo off; Coast is going to the Qataris; Jomo Kenyattaa has been given to Muhoho and he must sell both ends before he can retire;

North Eastern is being negotiated with the richest war loads. It will also go very soon. Nairobi had gone ages ago.

Rift Valley must be sold. Westtern is on the dish to Museveni as well.

And our politicians, soldiers and police are all eating from our taxes. Free fooddd while the country is going; is being sold.

You have shot yourself into the national team. And in defense of Kenya, you join the team. I assign you number 1 reservee. Elias Kanyuira joins at right wing in defense of Kenya. We now need a central defender. Must be as tough as nails. This is filled by applications and vote.

This is the team.

1] The Goal Keeper; Lawrence Nzuve

2] Right full back; Okiya Omtatah Okoiti

3] Left full back; J O Mamboleo

4] Central defender;

5] Stopper; Kuria Mwangi

6] Midfielder; Odhiambo T Oketch

7] Right winger; Elias Kanyiura

8] Central Midfielder; Judy Miriga

9] Striker; James Nduko

10] Distributor; Wa Ciru

11] Left winger;Nicholas Oyoo

Coach/tactician;

Reserves;

1] Lee Makwiny

2] Otieno Sungu

3]

They all make up the team. A truly Kenyan Team for Kenyans and by Kenyans.

Odhiambo T Oketch

Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Lee Makwiny wrote:

From: Lee Makwiny
Subject: [YP_Ke] Re: Oil in Migingo?
To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 7:01 AM

The
List has been here for long to be filled. M and K are not willing to join the CHANGE team, ama what do you suggest? I am waiting to be in the reserve team, thats why i havent filled it in.

Nzuve and Wa Ciru, can you fill the remaining slots. The Os will grab them again!!!

On 4/15/09, Lawrence Nzuve wrote:
Too many Os bad for any national team. On a lighter note though

On Wed, Apr 15, 2009 at 10:08 AM, Wa Ciru wrote:

Too many Os on the list.

.....

Omtatah,

I was pissed off watching The Chief of the General Staff, 'General' Kianga dismiss the Migingo Island as a non issue.

This was a very sad day for me.

He said again that they have not been given any orders to act, confirming our fears that Migingo is a deal between Kibaki and Museveni.

Lastly he said that if anything, we are going for a Federation and as much, we must not fight over small issues.

My goodness! That is the Chief of the General Staff talking.

1] How come to Uganda Migingo is a non issue?
2] The 'General' confirmed that they have no orders to act. I do not know why they get their salaries anyway.

3] If we are supposed to go the Federation way, is it only applicable to Kenya? It does not bind Uganda.

I join Okiyah Omtatah in defense of Kenya. And in recognition of that, welcome to the team. I assign you number 2, Right Fullback , in defense of Kenya. We still have a team to make;

1] The Goal Keeper;
2] Right full back; Okiya Omtatah Okoiti
3] Left full back; J O Mamboleo
4] Central defender;
5] Stopper; Kuria Mwangi
6] Midfielder; Odhiambo T Oketch

7] Right winger;
8] Central Midfielder; Judy Miriga
9] Striker; James Nduko
10] Distributor;
11] Left winger;Nicholas Oyoo

Then we will have the reserve team and the spectators.

They all make up the team. A truly Kenyan Team for Kenyans and by Kenyans.

Odhiambo T Oketch
Komarock Nairobi.

--~--~------ ---~--~-- --~------ ------~-- -----~--~ ----~

REACH OVER 8,000 MEMBERS DIRECTLY BY ADVERTISING ON THIS FORUM. CHARGES ARE Ksh. 500 PER ADVERT. CALL/MPESA ON +254721663208

You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "youngprofessionals _ke" group.

To post to this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com

To unsubscribe from this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke+unsubscribe@ googlegroups. com

For more options, visit this group at http://groups. google.co. ke/group/ youngprofessiona ls_ke?hl= en

Visit the LYP website at http://ypkenya. org

Join the group on facebook at http://www.facebook .com/group. php?gid=57703506 900

Follow us on twitter at http://twitter. com/lyp_ke

-~---------- ~----~--- -~----~-- ----~---- ~------~- -~---

[Non-text portions of this message have been removed]

| 28590|2009-04-15 09:41:28|Ginger Daniels|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 1|
Thank you for your response, Asar

It will be a great day when we begin quoting our own scholars on this matter, and referencing our own websites.

I am aware of the definition of hypothesis, theory, and layman... Thank you.

I understand your reluctance to refer those sites, I do not consider these reliable sources myself.

It is unfortunate that we never got around to my original questions, but the communication has been enlightening, nonetheless.

Take care

-----Original Message-----
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009 9:08:53 pm
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: Asar Imhotep <asar_imhotep@yahoo.com>
Subject: Re:[Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 1

Greetings Ginger

GINGER
"This theory of the white man is being regergitated instead of being highlighted as merely a theory, which it is."This is the statement you made on the 5th of April. The above statement implies that just because it is the "White" mans theory, that people who accepts the Darwinian notion of Evolution, have adopted this "theory" without critically examining its tenants. You also stated: "U would swear by the responses here that these are proven facts. Which they are not. I hear these same things in school from my professors and they never answer the tough questions; this seems to be the case here as well. I notice there was no response to your email, only a video (from a white mans perspective of course) but no real fact finding agendas of our own."

Again, it is clear by your words that your disagreement is not rooted in any real interpretation of the data, but in the fact that it is the "white man's" perspective. From this originates my response to you. I am essentially say
| 28591|2009-04-15 09:41:56|Ginger Daniels|Re: The History of Zionism Part 1 Professor William Mackey Jr.|
WOW, I watched them all, good info is an understatement
-----Original Message-----
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009 5:55:20 pm
To: afrikanunity_ofharlem@yahoo.com;afrikangodsoftherealm@yahoogroups.com;eubenne1@msn.com;bnyee@googlegroups.com;dr.garaia@africanidea.org;friends@templehealing.com;GatherTheFires@yahoogroups.com;happilynaturalday@yahoogroups.com;hndsupport@gmail.com;luv4s

elf_network@yahoogroups.com;mwananchi@yahoogroups.com;NABSE@yahoogroups.com;nnabakyaala.afrika@gmail.com;openyourthirdeye@yahoo.com;smaitawi@yahoogroups.com;Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com;thanubian2@yahoo.com;trueblackness@yahoogroups.com
From: Shu Tefnut <shutefnut@yahoo.com>
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The History of Zionism Part 1 Professor William Mackey Jr.

HOTEP! FAMILY

CHECK THIS OUT! http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xXDbWk9Uuj0
| 28592|2009-04-15 09:42:06|Joseph Wright|Re: [africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
Attachments :
4/15/2009 7:32:40 AM

AMEN!
Reference the subject of these mails I apply/interpret all that as Code Words meaning, pertaining to; "Religious Dogma." Enjoy the attachment.
But it is all coming together here [online] at this time; in these times. I've learned much today.
Weheme Mesu - Renaissance. Help, Participate and Watch it Grow!
When I see and read how you Brothers and Sister across the globeare picking-up the Metaphorical Gauntlet I know, not just feel... ...Reciprocity Is... Our Way - The Way!
Sincere Thanks.

jew

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, pharoahisrael@yahoo.com wrote:

From: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: africanclassicalhistory@yahoogroups.co.uk, "Ta Seti" , "Group Members" , "Group Members" , "Moorish Nationals" , "North Amexem Observers" , "Yoruba Spirituality"
Cc: "Abibitumikasa Group" , "Baba Tim Gage" , "New Afrikan Vodun" , "Parahkiyah baht Israel" , "Yomi" , "Yao-Heru-Tehuti"
Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 3:51 PM

That is right Bro. Mahari,
I feel you on that one true enough. Religions and even Caucasian, Indian and Oriental Eso Systems have done much damage to The Black Mind, Soul and Physical Nature. When I s wish that I knew what other peoples knew about Black Africans/Asians so much Religions and their by-products were on my mind but You actually said it thoroughly and clearl to the point thatI don't think any reasonable conscious person could argue with it.

Religions and Socialization. BrotherI think that the issue has become so bad that even Our Own Political and Religious Establishments have been in on it for their own Personal and Organizational benefit. Just look at Black Christians of all types- Catholics, Protestants, Mormons, Jehovah Witness, Episcopalian, Seventh-Day Adventists, Baptists and so on.
Then we have The Black Muslims- Sunni, Shite, Baath, Ahmadiyya, Ismaili, Sufiand so many Sects, Imams, Ulama, Caliphs, Sultans, Ayatollahs, Shahs and so on.
Then we have to consider Black Muslims in America. The Nation of Islam-NOI, The Lost-Found NOI, The Five-Percent NOI, The Moorish Science Temples (All The Branches and Sects of Them). All of these groups and not one provides a basis for the total unity of Black Americans All because of some " Religious Beliefs, Faith, Hope and Doctrines " that NONE of them can even fully explain themselves in Common Sensical Terms.
Then we have The African Hebrew Israelites, The Messianic Hebrew Israelites, The Torah Only Ones, The Lawgivers, etc. Not a One of Them knows anything about the Basics of Physics (The Forces of Nature) or Spirituality (Metaphysics) from what I have seen and boy oh boy oh boy have I talked to them, Men and Women. This is inclusive of All The " Religious ' Black Folks and it is all The More Sad and Insane when They actually believe That Some Universal God-head or Messiah is " Backing Them Up On This".. That type of Self-Poisoned Psychology based on a Ignorant fear, belief and hope is absolutely a symptom of Functional Insanity.!
If any of them had a God-Head, Messiah or The Forces of Nature Backing them up on anything we and the world would have known it by now, point-blank. ! However there are Two
(2) Systems that I have been interested in since birth or an early age so to speak. You almost NEVER hear the Run of The Mill Religionists, Scientists, Darwinists or Agnostics mention these for any length of time if at all.
That is Vodun and Judaism. As I begin to study them off and on when I could I can see why now..! To be brief, Vodun, Just The Thought of It, Breaks The Spells of These False Religious Shackles no matter how powerful they be. If it doesn't do anything elseit impels one in the course of Free-Thought and Free Spirit..
Judaism, Afro-Judaism, to be exact. When I began my Moorish Studies under the tutelage of a certain brotherhood years ago I found out that to understand, know and practice Judaism (correctly and comprehensively) one has to Study and Know The Social Sciences. That Judaism is nothing more or less than KANAANITE Philosophy and Practice through and through .
That what is now called Judaism was actuallyand Originally ATENISM, The Monotheism of The Pharoah Akenaten and The High Priest Osarseph of On. This Pharoah Akenaten and/or H.P. Osarseph is actually The Biblical and Historical PharonicMoses (Moschiach)whom establishedKanaan (Israel) on The Pattern of Such.That the Hyksos
Era was nothing more than Native Kanaanites Pre-Dominately and at all times who simply bested The Egyptian/Sumerian Empires of that day and time as far as the courses of civilization goes. They may have brought in some Nubians/Indus Valley Peoples as Mates
and Co-Governors and Some Caucasians and Indo-Orientals as Servants and Students from time to time but these Native Kanaanites were in Charge of The Whole Process Through and Through All Of The Time.!!!
Later on in our times this is what makes Caucasians, Indians, Orientals and some sideswiped Black Scholars think that the Hyksos were a Foreign Non-Black Peoples and pretend thatsome Caucasians or Chinese came into Egypt to " Rule The Local Population ". Yes, Yess, Yessss, Brother. The Joke Continues and Goes On.!

The RealType of Education, The Social Sciences , is what is kept out of The Public Schools, The Churches, Mosques and Political Organizations for the very real fear that Foreign Imperialists and their " Educated Negroes " so to speak, will lose face, influence and the respect of the Black Population. The Spell that Non-Black peoples created the first civilizations and organized societies will be over withtoo.
MLP.,
Moorish American Federal Nationalists,
MAFN.

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [africanclassicalhi story] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: africanclassicalhis tory@yahoogroups .co.uk
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 6:16 PM
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My theory is WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in every respect to history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them; then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state.
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption or THEIR judgment. And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our oppressor (no question) is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or physically free yourself under these circumstances. WE SHOULD NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, join `em". Consequently, he had Christian obedience and loyalty while he RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez! Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on Afrigypt in 391 AD.

I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white here in a nutshell is what I think happened:
In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading the area. During the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the problems with the Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus, the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions. Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost literally.
HTP,
Mahari
--- In africanclassicalhis tory@yahoogroups .co.uk, Lamar Perryman wrote:
>
>
>
> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
>
> Greetings again,
> Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying.. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
>
> Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!

> Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > Role in it Also.!
> From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
>
> My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
>
> Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
>
> Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> I will end here.
>
> As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :

> http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
>
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
>
> From: pharoahisrael
> Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Here's my 2 cents worth.
> I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment..
> It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his

> fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none.. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > certain level of power.

> Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> Sorry, to go on so long.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> >
> > Hi group!
> > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the > mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was

> taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> >
> > ABC
> >
>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>

| 28593|2009-04-15 09:43:05|Joseph Wright|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
4/15/2009 5:22:37 AM

This is an unsolicited comment - - - hopefully helpful to the debate. Did I get Ginger correct? Let me know; please?

With all due respect to all parties involved i.e. -- Not really my business and this is the middle of your conversation (not having seen the original communication). Being very reluctant to ever take one side or the other However, you both need to check your sources because C. A. Diop is most certainly credited with "The Two Cradle Theory" which happens to be widely accepted by the dare I say Worldwide Afrocentric School. In fact "The Two Cradle Theory" is just one of the giant corner stones of this Masters Work if not his greatest contribution. So, please check your research so as not to diminish in any way a giant as great as he. Additionally I believe the operative words are conditioning and adaptation [e.g. Cold/Hot-North/South] not so specifically evolution. So it is that you both may in fact be on the same train simply seated facing different directions. Ultra fine points of destinction may in fact apply, however... ... ... Endarkening!

Sorry to butt-in but the observed group communication is very interesting - so I'll just get back to observation; although I did open a door. So if forced to: Ill put my reputation on the line along with his [Diop] and look-up the specifics which do exist in the KWHS Database and no doubt online somewhere. Is is certainly referred to often by the keen Diopian: Molefi Kete Asante in Kemet Afrocentricity and Knowledge as well as others. As itwas written let be done! http://artisticstudiosgallery.com/Contents_Site_Map.html

Kemet Afrocentricity and Knowledge by Molefi Kete Asante

A definitive work on Afrocentricity, Kemetic Philosophy and their contributions to world knowledge; highly recommended for advanced students of Classical African Civilization.

jew

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 1:51 AM

Greetings Ginger

You said
He also taught that there were two cradles ofciviliation. Not two otherspecies, that evolved to be man, but two cradels of civilization - of man.

I would venture to say that this statement is false and is not based on any of Diops work. Dr. Chiekh Anta Diop has always argued in the tradition of evolution. A matter of fact, his last publication Civilization or Barbarism, in the first two chapters, was dedicated to the evolution of man. He didnt argue that man was created separate from all other species of living organisms on the planet. We can attest this fact by observing page 60s SIMPLIFIED DIAGRAM OF THE PROBABLE PROCESS OF THE DIFFERENTIATION OF THE RACES UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF PHYSICAL FACTORS:

1. Australaopithecus gracile and robustus, approximately 5,500,000 2,000,000 years ago.

2. Homo habilus (African), 2,500,000 years ago

3. Homo erectus (African), approximately 1,000,000 years ago

4. Homo Sapiens Sapiens (African) Omo I, Kanjera, 150,000 to 130,000 years ago.

5. Arrival In Europe of the African Homo Sapiens sapiens (Grimaldi Negroid), 40,000 years ago.

6. (period of differentiation between the Grimaldi Negroid and the Cro-Magnon)

7. Appearance of the first Cro-Magnon, 20,000 years ago

8. Appearance of the Yellow race, 15,000 years ago at the very earliest, perhaps during the Mesolithic Age bordering on the Neolithic Age, resulting in the interbreeding of Black and White in the cold climate.

In paleo-anthropology, we know that Australopithcus, Homo Habilus, and Homo Erectus are not fully human beings. These are the branches from the ape-like ancestor in which the fully human Homo Sapiens Sapiens came into being. Diop is not arguing what you stated above. If Diop was arguing what you stated, he wouldnt have included non-human ancestors into the human line of evolution.

2)

YOU STATE
You quoted - "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

To me, this reflects the position of the before and after life. This does not support the argument about evolving from another species. This goes hand and hand with the Egyptian (Kemetic) belief system in my opinion. Key word: soul.

There are a few things we must understand before we examine your quote above. The first is that in nature there is no separation of disciplines. Nature doesnt know Astro-Physics from Paleo-Climatology, from geology to chemistry. There is no demarcation based on human compartmentalizatio n of phenomena. You cant discuss biological evolution without including astro-physics. We have to do this as humans because the disciplines are so vast, but nature doesnt do this.

We start with how planets were formed and how from a single cell ameba life on earth was formed. This is why I included the documentation that all of the elements that give life and make up not only the earth, but the inhabitants on earth derive, from exploded, dying stars. I contrasted this with African stories of human beings and life deriving from stars.

The folly everyone makes when examining African oral or written spiritual texts, is assuming that the core themes have to do with religion. These are codified scientific treaties. When you examine these concepts under the rubrics of science, then we demystify our African themes. Thats the mystery we keep talking about. African science deals with quantum mechanics (see Laird Scrantons, Diop, Beatty and Finchs works), health, anatomy, physics and mathematics.

Mathematics is simply the relationship between MAAT and TECHU (Djehuti).

This is why MAAT and TECHU are brother and sister which is a metaphor for inseparable, part of the same family of concepts.

MAAT balance, reciprocity, truth, righteousness, order and harmony

TECHU (djehuty) law, logic, word, science, magic, pattern, form, syntax

MAAT in mathematics (deriving from mathematik? t髣ne) can be represented by the = sign.

TECHU would be the proposition (the word, logic) that says two constants are equal (MAAT).

4 + 5 = 9
TECHU + TECHU (MAAT) TECHU (logic and balance are opposite sides of the same coin = family)

In order for TECHU to be true (MAAT) the logic (logos, word (djehuty inventor of the word, writing, etc.)) must be MAAT (balanced, equal on both sides). This is why Djehuti and MAAT are responsible for weighing the soul because they both deal with balance. Its mathematics, not religion.

Diop, Beatty, Obenga, and Finch have all discussed these ideas of myths connected to science in their respective works. When you understand that the idlhozi, Ka(a), Itongo, Simbi, etc., are not simply spiritual concepts in Africa, but are metaphors for electrical sources of power (energy), then you will understand what they mean by the soul. The African concept of scientific phenomena is more expansive and descriptive. The soul is simply energy as all things are energy and energy cannot be created nor destroyed; it can ONLY change FORM (evolve). I have an upcoming article on MAAT and the Theory of Relativity coming soon.

The Africans are saying the exact same thing the scientists are saying: that life began in a field of energy and the energy dispersed into packets and became different things (NTU) evolving from a single source. There is no such thing in African spiritual concepts as an after-life. That is a European concept. It is just life; a continuum of change in energy (soul).

So how can the Africans argue that life began as the dispersion of stars and it NOT be evolutionary? If things did not evolve in the African mind, why did not they simply state that all things were created simultaneously and things are fixed? Why did they start off with nothing, then light, stars, planets, plants, animals and then man in every single African tradition? In that order?

Evolution doesnt start with carbon based life on earth, but from the Big Bang (the first creation of stars) and is why Creationists always are asking who created the big bang? Because they understand you have to start from the beginning.

As stated before, and I will wrap up, science isnt concerned about who created creation. Its concern is how does creation work? You cant prove or disprove God and is why science wont address it. Period. End of discussion, no argument. Until you can prove God (in the African or European sense), quite trying to interject it into a scientific discussion. Thats not science. You dont even have a theory of God because it is not based on a single experiment from anyone to prove God.

If you are going to argue against science, you have to use science; not your beliefs.

Ancestrally, Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-Versity

| 28594|2009-04-15 16:25:12|Mahari Mengistu|Re: The History of Zionism Part 1 Professor William Mackey Jr.|

This was a fantastic series of videos. They filled many areas about which I held suspicions re jews. The information fit perfectly with what seemed to me the logical outcomes and outgrowth of their movement and progress.

I posted a couple of years ago that even though we almost NEVER hear about the jews' part in our enslavement I could not imagine their NOT being a part of this moneymaking endeavor. I couldn't see them allowing this opportunity to pass them by. This also fits in with their biblical adherence to slavery and their unsurpassed arrogance.

HTP,

Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Shu Tefnut wrote:

>

> HOTEP! FAMILY

>
> CHECK THIS OUT! http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xXDbWk9Uuj0
>
| 28595|2009-04-15 16:38:01|Obadele (abibitumikasa.com)|3 Hour Intensive Yoruba and Twi Workshops: Yoruba Ijapa Folktales; A|
What: 3 Hour Intensive Yoruba Workshop: Yoruba Ijapa Folktales: Why Ijapa is used as a sacrifice to Osanyin amongst the Yoruba
Who: You Afrikan!
When: April 18, 2009 @ 6:30PM EST
Where: Abibitumi Kasa Member Classroom
How much: 50 USD
How: Step 1: Register and pay for the workshop at
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/payment.html (you'll be automatically redirected to this page from the register page)

Step 2: Create an account at free forum at
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php then at the time of class click member classroom or on this link:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

To set up audio and video and font for workshop view our instructional videos at: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

Amongst the Yoruba, there is much history and explanations of why the culture is the way that it is in the folktales and stories of the people. In this workshop, we will learn the story of Ijapa and Iya-Elepa and how Ijapa the tortoise came to be a sacrifice for Osanyin, the Orisa of herbs and medicine. Additionally youll receive a document of the story in PDF form at no additional cost. Learn and pass down the stories of your own ancestors and leave cinderella, shrek and harry potter to the children of the whites. Be sure to check out this not to miss workshop and tell a friend, a family member or an entire shrine house to be online this Saturday at 6:30PM at Abibitumi Kasa!
This workshop will cover:
Pronunciation
Reading
Singing
Listening
Speaking
Comprehension
Worldview

Abibitumi Kasa Staff and Family

++

What: 3 Hour Intensive Twi Workshop: Ak?m Songs of the Akan
Who: You Afrikan!
When: April 19, 2009 @ 6:30PM EST
Where: Abibitumi Kasa Member Classroom
How much: 50 USD
How: Step 1: Register and pay for the workshop at
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/payment.html (you'll be automatically redirected to this page from the register page)

Step 2: Create an account at free forum at
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php then at the time of class click member classroom or on this link:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

To set up audio and video and font for workshop view our instructional videos at: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

"?sansa bireku anyane o a eee!" , ?kura sekamma e!, Momfa d?nn? hyia me o, Esi!
Learn what these songs and more mean. It is very important to pronounce the words to Ak?m songs dedicated to the Abosom correctly. In this workshop, we will sing and understand what we are singing for songs dedicated to Abosom and Mmoatia alike. Additionally youll receive a document of how the words to these songs are written. Be sure to check out this not to miss workshop and tell a friend or an entire shrine house to be online this Sunday at 6:30PM at Abibitumi Kasa!
This workshop will cover:
Pronunciation
Reading
Singing
Comprehension
Worldview

Abibitumi Kasa Staff and Family

Live Interactive Online and Accra, Ghana Afrikan Language Classes

Register for Free Afrikan Liberation Institute

Sign Up for AKALI Mailing List

Abibitumi Kasa Fundraiser

| 28596|2009-04-15 16:45:49|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
Attachments :

There is no such thing in African spiritual concepts as an after-life. That is a European concept. It is just life; a continuum of change in energy (soul).
this is a quote from brother Asar response to sisda Gingered, .
africans don't have after-life concepts,////..... now thats white laboratory atheism at its best..... love your medu-neter/hieroglyphic work, great scholarlly stuff, and respect your opinion about the afterlife, but I think most africans accept the afterlife as a reality and all ways have ALONG WITH THE SCIENCE, ..

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 1:51 AM

Greetings Ginger

You said
He also taught that there were two cradles ofciviliation. Not two otherspecies, that evolved to be man, but two cradels of civilization - of man.

I would venture to say that this statement is false and is not based on any of Diops work. Dr. Chiekh Anta Diop has always argued in the tradition of evolution. A matter of fact, his last publication Civilization or Barbarism, in the first two chapters, was dedicated to the evolution of man. He didnt argue that man was created separate from all other species of living organisms on the planet. We can

attest this fact by observing page 60s SIMPLIFIED DIAGRAM OF THE PROBABLE PROCESS OF THE DIFFERENTIATION OF THE RACES UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF PHYSICAL FACTORS:

1. Australaopithecus gracile and robustus, approximately 5,500,000 2,000,000 years ago.

2. Homo habilus (African), 2,500,000 years ago

3. Homo erectus (African), approximately 1,000,000 years ago

4. Homo Sapiens Sapiens (African) Omo I, Kanjera, 150,000 to 130,000 years ago.

5. Arrival In Europe of the African Homo Sapiens sapiens (Grimaldi Negroid), 40,000 years ago.

6. (period of differentiation between the Grimaldi Negroid and the Cro-Magnon)

7. Appearance of the first Cro-Magnon, 20,000 years ago

8. Appearance of the Yellow race, 15,000 years ago at the very earliest, perhaps during the Mesolithic Age bordering on the Neolithic Age, resulting in the interbreeding of Black and White in the cold climate.

In paleo-anthropology, we know that Australopithcus, Homo Habilus, and Homo Erectus are not fully human beings. These are the branches from the ape-like ancestor in which the fully human Homo Sapiens Sapiens came into being. Diop is not arguing what you stated above. If Diop was arguing what you stated, he wouldnt have included non-human ancestors into the human line of evolution.

2)

YOU STATE
You quoted - "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

To me, this reflects the position of the before and after life. This does not support the argument about evolving from another species. This goes hand and hand with the Egyptian (Kemetic) belief system in my opinion. Key word: soul.

There are a few things we must understand before we examine your quote above. The first is that in nature there is no separation of disciplines. Nature doesnt know Astro-Physics from Paleo-Climatology, from geology to chemistry. There is no demarcation based on human compartmentalizatio n of phenomena. You cant discuss biological evolution without including astro-physics. We have to do this as humans because the disciplines are so vast, but nature doesnt do this.

We start with how planets were formed and how from a single cell ameba life on earth was formed. This is why I included the documentation that all of the elements that give life and make up not only the earth, but the inhabitants on earth derive, from exploded, dying stars. I contrasted this with African stories of human beings and life deriving from stars.

The folly everyone makes when examining African oral or written spiritual texts, is assuming that the core themes have to do with religion. These are codified scientific treaties. When you examine these concepts under the rubrics of science, then we demystify our African themes. Thats the mystery we keep talking about. African science deals with quantum mechanics (see Laird Scrantons, Diop, Beatty and Finchs works), health, anatomy, physics and mathematics.

Mathematics is simply the relationship between MAAT and TECHU (Djehuti). This is why MAAT and TECHU are brother and sister which is a metaphor for inseparable, part of the same family of concepts.

MAAT balance, reciprocity, truth, righteousness, order and harmony

TECHU (djehuty) law, logic, word, science, magic, pattern, form, syntax

MAAT in mathematics (deriving from mathematik? t髣ne) can be represented by the = sign.

TECHU would be the proposition (the word, logic) that says two constants are equal (MAAT).

4 + 5 = 9
TECHU + TECHU (MAAT) TECHU (logic and balance are opposite sides of the same coin = family)

In order for TECHU to be true (MAAT) the logic (logos, word (djehuty inventor of the word, writing, etc.)) must be MAAT (balanced, equal on both sides). This is why Djehuti and MAAT are responsible for weighing the soul because they both deal with balance. Its mathematics, not religion.

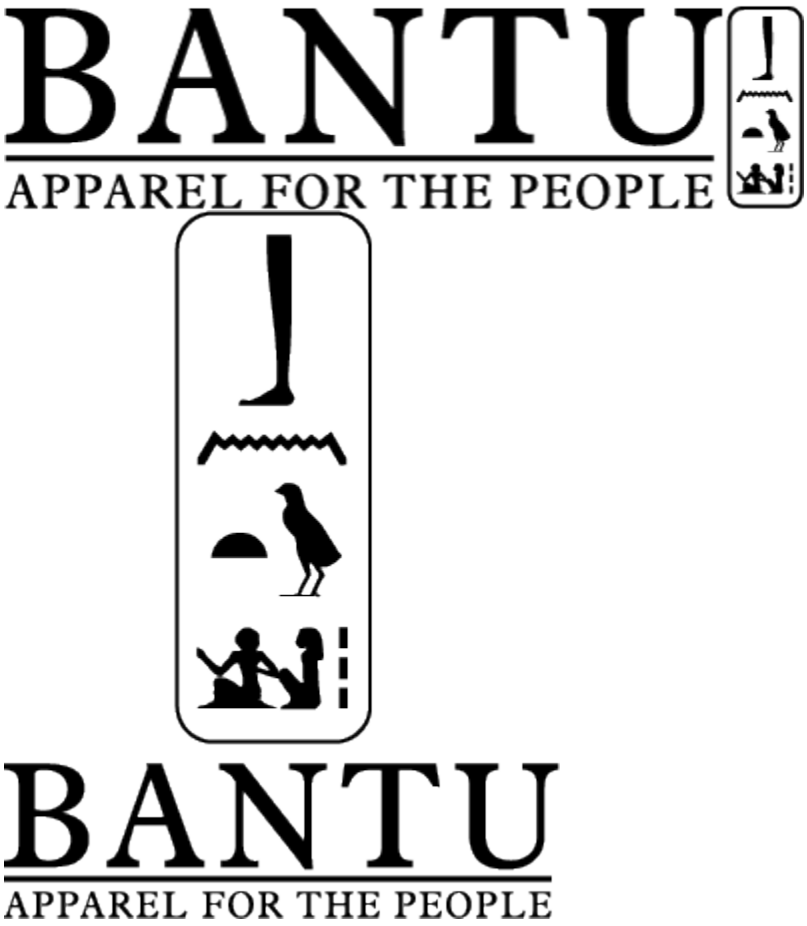
Diop, Beatty, Obenga, and Finch have all discussed these ideas of myths connected to science in their respective works. When you understand that the idlhozi, Ka(a), Itongo, Simbi, etc., are not simply spiritual concepts in Africa, but are metaphors for electrical sources of power (energy), then you will understand what they mean by the soul. The African concept of scientific phenomena is more expansive and descriptive. The soul is simply energy as all things are energy and energy cannot be created nor destroyed; it can ONLY change FORM (evolve). I have an upcoming article on MAAT and the Theory of Relativity coming soon.

The Africans are saying the exact same thing the scientists are saying: that life began in a field of energy and the energy dispersed into packets and became different things (NTU) evolving from a single source. There is no such thing in African spiritual concepts as an after-life. That is a European concept. It is just life; a continuum of change in energy (soul).

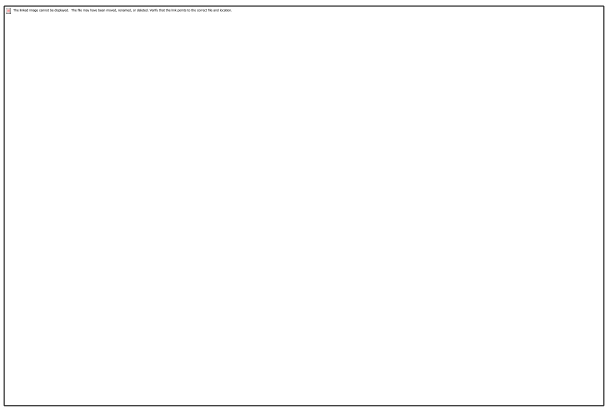


So how can the Africans argue that life began as the dispersion of stars and it NOT be evolutionary? If things did not evolve in the African mind, why did not they simply state that all things were created simultaneously and things are fixed? Why did they start off with nothing, then light, stars, planets, plants, animals and then man in every single African tradition? In that order?

Evolution doesnt start with carbon based life on earth, but from the Big Bang (the first creation of stars) and is why Creationists always are asking who created the big bang? Because they understand you have to start from the beginning.

As stated before, and I will wrap up, science isnt concerned about who created creation. Its concern is how does creation work? You cant prove or disprove God and is why science wont address it. Period. End of discussion, no argument. Until you can prove God (in the African or European sense), quite trying to interject it into a scientific discussion. Thats not science. You dont even have a theory of God because it is not based on a single experiment from anyone to prove God.

If you are going to argue against science, you have to use science; not your beliefs.



Ancestrally, Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

| 28597|2009-04-15 17:03:03|Asar Imhotep|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
Greetings Tafari

For this line of thinking, you have to understand this concept from an African point of view. for the African, your life didn't begin here on Earth. When you die, you will not dwell forever in some heaven. You would dwell in another "realm" and then return back to earth. The majority of African systems I have been able to study believe that we forever transition between material life and immaterial life. This can be attested to by the Kongo Cosmogram which can be found in any major African spiritual system, including Egypt:

The above diagram discusses the African world view of the stages of life that does not end. This concept of life is different than the Christian or Hindu account. The African believes you come to earth to experience all that there is to experience and this does not stop when you die. You are just going through rest when you die only to return.

There is no "after life" in African cosmology. Only continuing life. There is no fight for eternal life. You are already eternal. You can go to any African spiritual system and find a variant of this diagram. You can even find it in Native American cosmologies as well.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 6:45 PM

| 28598|2009-04-15 17:05:20|Tafari khumbaka|Re: The History of Zionism Part 1 Professor William Mackey Jr.|
this also speaks to president obama who is a european zionist.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: The History of Zionism Part 1 Professor William Mackey

Jr.
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 6:24 PM

This was a fantastic series of videos. They filled many areas about which I held suspicions re jews. The information fit perfectly with what seemed to me the logical outcomes and outgrowth of their movement and progress.
I posted a couple of years ago that even though we almost NEVER hear about the jews' part in our enslavement I could not imagine their NOT being a part of this moneymaking endeavor. I couldn't see them allowing this opportunity to pass them by. This also fits in with their biblical adherence to slavery and their unsurpassed arrogance.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shu Tefnut wrote:
>
> HOTEP! FAMILY
>
> CHECK THIS OUT! http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=xXDbWk9Uuj0
>

| 28599|2009-04-15 17:22:22|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
i didnt speak of a eternal heaven and what you are saying goes along with most hindu concepts.....althought i did not speak of christian or hindu concepts.
this is a mistake in symantics, i consider dying and going among the ancestors a afterlife and returning to earth as a incarnate being reincarnation.....
i was speaking from an african point of view,.
i think we only differ in nomenclature/ and some cultural perspectives as my main view of things is the Ausar-Auset-Heru concept of ancient egyptby way ofancestoral communication.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 7:01 PM

Greetings Tafari

For this line of thinking, you have to understand this concept from an African point of vie the African, your life didn't begin here on Earth. When you die, you will not dwell forever some heaven. You would dwell in another "realm" and then return back to earth. The majority of African systems I have been able to study believe that we forever transition between material life and immaterial life. This can be attested to by the Kongo Cosmogram which can be found in any major African spiritual system, including Egypt:

The above diagram discusses the African world view of the stages of life that does not end. This concept of life is different than the Christian or Hindu account. The African believes you come to earth to experience all that there is to experience and this does not stop when you die. You are just going through rest when you die only to return.

There is no "after life" in African cosmology. Only continuing life. There is no fight for eternal life. You are already eternal. You can go to any African spiritual system and find a variant of this diagram. You can even find it in Native American cosmologies as well.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 6:45 PM

| 28600|2009-04-16 08:30:26|bonotchim@aol.com|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
A side note: In the Mdw Ntr the word ankhw is translated as living and ones who are alive this included people who we would call the dead. In Kemet death is a form of life also. The term After-life is not a precise word to use to understand kemetic thought in this area. Bro Bonotchi

-----Original Message-----
From: Tafari khumbaka

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Wed, 15 Apr 2009 7:45 pm
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2

There is no such thing in African spiritual concepts as an after-life. That i s a European concept. It is just life; a continuum of change in energy (soul).
this is a quote from brother Asar response to sisda Gingered, .
africans don't have after-life concepts,/// /..... now thats white laboratory atheism at its best..... love your medu-neter/hierogly phic work, great scholarlly stuff, and respect your opinion about the afterlife, but I think most africans accept the afterlife as a reality and all ways have ALONG WITH THE SCIENCE, ..

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 1:51 AM

Greetings Ginger
You said
He also taught that there were two cradles ofciviliation. Not two otherspecies, that evolvec man, but two cradels of civilization - of man.

I would venture to say that this statement is false and is not based on any of Diops work. I Chiekh Anta Diop has always argued in the tradition of evolution. A matter of fact, his las publication Civilization or Barbarism, in the first two chapters, was dedicated to the evolu man. He didnt argue that man was created separate from all other species of living organis the planet. We can attest this fact by observing page 60s SIMPLIFIED DIAGRAM OF TH PROBABLE PROCESS OF THE DIFFERENTIATION OF THE RACES UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF PHYSICAL FACTORS:

1. Australaopithecus gracile and robustus, approximately 5,500,000 2,000,000 years ago.
2. Homo habilus (African), 2,500,000 years ago
3. Homo erectus (African), approximately 1,000,000 years ago
4. Homo Sapiens Sapiens (African) Omo I, Kanjera, 150,000 to 130,000 years ago.
5. Arrival In Europe of the African Homo Sapiens sapiens (Grimaldi Negroid), 40,000 yea
6. (period of differentiation between the Grimaldi Negroid and the Cro-Magnon)
7. Appearance of the first Cro-Magnon, 20,000 years ago
8. Appearance of the Yellow race, 15,000 years ago at the very earliest, perhaps during the Mesolithic Age bordering on the Neolithic Age, resulting in the interbreeding of Black and White in the cold climate.

In paleo-anthropology, we know that Australopithcus, Homo Habilus, and Homo Erectus are not fully human beings. These are the branches from the ape-like ancestor in which the fully human Homo Sapiens Sapiens came into being. Diop is not arguing what you stated above. If Diop was arguing what you stated, he wouldnt have included non-human ancestors into the human line of evolution.
2)
YOU STATE
You quoted - "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

To me, this reflects the position of the before and after life. This does not support the argument about evolving from another species. This goes h and and hand with the Egyptian (Kemetic) belief system in my opinion. Key word: soul.

There are a few things we must understand before we examine your quote above. The first is that in nature there is no separation of disciplines. Nature doesnt know Astro-Physics from Paleo-Climatology, from geology to chemistry. There is no demarcation based on human compartmentalizatio n of phenomena. You cant discuss biological evolution without including astro-physics. We have to do this as humans because the disciplines are so vast, but nature doesnt do this.

We start with how planets were formed and how from a single cell ameba life on earth was formed. This is why I included the documentation that all of the elements that give life and make up not only the earth, but the inhabitants on earth derive, from exploded, dying stars. I contrasted this with African stories of human beings and life deriving from stars.
The folly everyone makes when examining African oral or written spiritual texts, is assuming that the core themes have to do with religion. These are codified scientific treaties. When you examine these concepts under the rubrics=2 0of science, then we demystify our African themes. Thats the mystery we keep talking about. African science deals with quantum mechanics (see Laird Scrantons, Diop, Beatty and Finchs works), health, anatomy, physics and mathematics.

Mathematics is simply the relationship between MAAT and TECHU (Djehuti). This is why MAAT and TECHU are brother and sister which is a metaphor for inseparable, part of the same family of concepts.
MAAT balance, reciprocity, truth, righteousness, order and harmony
TECHU (djehuty) law, logic, word, science, magic, pattern, form, syntax
MAAT in mathematics (deriving from mathematik? t髣ne) can be represented by the = sign.
TECHU would be the proposition (the word, logic) that says two constants are equal (MAAT).
4 + 5 = 9
TECHU + TECHU (MAAT) TECHU (logic and balance are opposite s ides of the same coin = family)
In order for TECHU to be true (MAAT) the logic (logos, word (djehuty inventor of the word, writing, etc.)) must be MAAT (balanced, equal on both sides). This is why Djehuti and MAAT are responsible for weighing the soul because they both deal with balance. Its mathematics, not religion.

Diop, Beatty, Obenga, and Finch have all discussed these ideas of myths connected to science in their respective works. When you understand that the idlhozi, Ka(a), Itongo, Simbi, etc., are not simply spiritual concepts in Africa, but are metaphors for electrical sources of power (energy), then you will understand what they mean by the soul. The African concept of scientific phenomena is more expansive and descriptive. The soul is simply energy as all things are energy and energy cannot be created nor destroyed; it can ONLY change FORM (evolve). I have an upcoming article on MAAT and the Theory of Relativity coming soon.

The Africans are saying the exact same thing the scientists are saying: that life began in a field of energy and the energy dispersed into packets and=2 0became different things (NTU) evolving from a single source. There is no such thing in African spiritual concepts as an after-life. That is a European concept. It is just life; a continuum of change in energy (soul).
So how can the Africans argue that life began as the dispersion of stars and it NOT be evolutionary? If things did not evolve in the African mind, why did not they simply state that all things were created simultaneously and things are fixed? Why did they start off with nothing, then light, stars, planets, plants, animals and then man in every single African tradition? In that order?

Evolution doesnt start with carbon based life on earth, but from the Big Bang (the first creation of stars) and is why Creationists always are asking who created the big bang? Because they understand you have to start from the beginning.

As stated before, and I will wrap up, science isnt concerned about who created creation. Its concern is how does creation work? You cant prove or disprove God and is why science wont address it. Period. End of discussion, no argument. Until you can prove God (in the Afric an or European sense), quite trying to interject it into a scientific discussion. Thats not science. You dont even have a theory of God because it is not based on a single experiment from anyone to prove God.
If you are going to argue against science, you have to use science; not your beliefs.

Ancestrally, Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

;

Great deals on Dell's most popular laptops - Starting at $479

| 28601|2009-04-16 08:30:39|Ginger Daniels|Somalia piracy and the untold story|

Somali piracy connected to toxic dumping, illegal fishing

While CNN, FOX, Timesand othercorporate media sources have fixated onone-dimensional reporting of the"Somalia Piracy" story, some diligent reporters and outlets have reported the broader picture. The following article and attached video offers that broader picture.

UNITED NATIONS - The head of the UN's body charged with combating piracy has advocated establishing a UN force to fight the piracy problem off Somalia's coastbut the problem may be more complex than simple banditry on the high seas.

In this image provided by the U.S. Navy, Somali pirates holding the merchant vessel, MV Faina, stand on the deck of the ship after the U.S. Navy's request to check on the health and welfare of the ships crew on October 19, at sea in the Gulf of Aden off the coast of Hoybyo, Somalia. Photo: Jason Zalasky/U.S. Navy via Getty Images

According to the UN secretary-general's spokesman's office, Secretary-General of the International Maritime Bureau Efthimios Mitropoulos said the Gulf of Aden, the gateway to the vital Suez Canal, and the eastern coast of Somalia rank as the world's top piracy hot spots. The Gulf of Aden accounted for a third of all attacks on ships in the first nine months of 2008, said Mr. Mitropoulos. Thousands of cargo ships and tankers pass through on their way to Mombasa port in Kenya or destinations in southern Africa.

While the hijackings have been described as the work of criminals, officials admit the problem of waste dumped off the coast of Somalia may be a reason why ships have been commandeered.

In September, a Ukrainian freighter with Russian tanks on board, anti-aircraft guns and heavy weaponry was seized by Somali pirates and ransom negotiations are ongoing.

A spokesman for the pirates, who reportedly use the autonomous region of Puntland as their base, told Al Jazeera some of the ransom money will be used to help clean up waters off the Somali coast ravaged by years of toxic waste dumping. The ransom demand is a means of reacting to the toxic waste that has been continually dumped on the shores of our country for nearly 20 years, the spokesman said.

Ahmedou Ould-Abdallah, the UN special envoy for Somalia, said the world body had reliable information that European and Asian companies are responsible for the dumping. The United Nations has also been told that some Somali pirates claim to act as coast guards, protecting their country's waters, he added.

This is not something new, the accusation that toxic dumping is happening off the shores of Somalia, it is amazing though that it is now coming out, said Sadia Aden, president of the Somalia Diaspora Network. Opinions are mixed on the pirates. Some of the people are saying the pirates are defending our territory, Ms. Aden told The Final Call.

A political solution in Somalia would solve the piracy problem, said Ms. Aden. We need elections. We need a central government, she argued.

Somalia has not had a central government since 1991 when late President Mohamed Siad Barre was ousted.

Analysts said the chaotic state of the Transitional Federal Government has meant no binding trade measures are in affect and Somalia has not signed the Basel Convention or the Bamako Convention, which ban the import of hazardous waste to African nations.

While I know the subject of this interview is waste dumping in Somalia, I must say that toxic dumping is an issue all over West and East Africa, said Nii Akuetteh, executive director of Africa Action, a member of the Scholars' Council at Trans Africa Forum and founder of the Democracy and Conflict Research Institute in Accra, Ghana.

The Somali toxic waste dumping issue is of great concern to me because it spills over to other African nations, Mr. Akuetteh said. Did you know that when the Islamic Courts Union was in charge of Somalia, piracy had come to a virtual halt? But thanks to the Bush administration and Ethiopia after the ouster of the ICU in 2006, the phenomenon returned, said Mr. Akuetteh.
In early October, the UN Security Council unanimously passed Resolution 1838 (2008) which determined that the incidents of piracy and armed robbery against vessels in the territorial waters of Somalia and the high seas off the coast of Somalia exacerbate the situation in Somalia which continues to constitute a threat against international peace and security.
The UN must monitor more closely the toxic waste issue; and there doesn't seem to be any mention of that in Resolution 1838, observed Professor Abdi Ismail Samatar, of the geography and global studies department at the University of Minnesota, in a Final Call interview.
While the media is covering piracy, there needs to be coverage of the plundering of Somali resources by rich companies and rich governments, said Prof. Samatar. They are destroying the coral reefsbreeding grounds for the fisheriesdestroying the livelihoods of Somalis, taking the food out of the mouths of the poor.
According to Ms. Aden there are 3.5 million Somalis facing starvation. East African waters, particularly off Somalia, have huge numbers of commercial fish, including the prized yellow-fin tuna. Observers say the Somali coastline once sustained hundreds of thousands of people as a source of food and livelihoods.

Rediscover Hotmail: Get quick friend updates right in your inbox. Check it out.
| 28602|2009-04-16 08:31:49|Ginger Daniels|Re: [africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
Interesting perspective here, thanks for sharing. I have a question for you -

You said - That what is now called Judaism was actuallyand Originally ATENISM, The Monotheism of The Pharoah Akenaten and The High Priest Osarseph of On. This Pharoah Akenaten and/or H.P. Osarseph is actually The Biblical and Historical PharonicMoses (Moschiach)whom establishedKanaan (Israel) on The Pattern of Such.

I heard this from another friend of mine... not verbatem, but he implied that he believed that masonic groups and shriners study secretly that certain characters in the bible were actually the pharaohs of the ancient times... which I think is certainly interesting. (he was in the NOI by the way)

So, my question is, if Moses was actually Akenaten, who was a pharaoh himself... did he actually lead the people out of Egypt (Kemet) to flee another pharaoh? I know you mentioned the hyksos, are you saying that this was an intermediate kingdom and the power had left the hands of the original rulers? I know the 42 laws of Ma'at are similar to the 10 commandments... and the commandments were probably derived from them... so I assume this is tied in with this theory as well, right?

Very interesting stuff... I would appreciate some reading / online references if you can provide them, along with your input. Thank you!

To: africanclassicalhistory@yahoogroups.co.uk; Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com; americanpharoahs@yahoogroups.com; moorish_federal_nationalists@yahoogroups.com; moorishamericannationals@yahoogroups.com; NorthAmexemObservers@yahoogroups.com; yoruba_spirituality@yahoogroups.com
CC: abibitumikasa@yahoogroups.com; MoroKongoJudio@yahoogroups.com; spiritual_nationalism@yahoogroups.com; onilemail@yahoo.com; share@womenlol.com; jahjahknow@yahoo.com
From: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
Date: Tue, 14 Apr 2009 13:51:28 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question

That is right Bro. Mahari,
I feel you on that one true enough. Religions and even Caucasian, Indian and Oriental Esoteric Systems have done much damage to The Black Mind, Soul and Physical Nature. When I said I wish that I knew what other peoples knew about Black Africans/Asians so much Religions and their by-products were on my mind
but You actually said it thoroughly and clearl to the point thatI don't think any reasonable and conscious person could argue with it.
Religions and Socialization. BrotherI think that the issue has become so bad that even Our Own Political and Religious Establishments have been in on it for their own Personal and Organizational benefit. Just look at Black Christians of all types- Catholics, Protestants, Mormons, Jehovah Witness, Episcopalian, Seventh-Day Adventists, Baptists and so on.
Then we have The Black Muslims- Sunni, Shite, Baath, Ahmadiyya, Ismaili, Sufiand so many Sects, Imams, Ulama, Caliphs, Sultans, Ayatollahs, Shahs and so on.
Then we have to consider Black Muslims in America. The Nation of Islam-NOI, The Lost-Found NOI, The Five-Percent NOI, The Moorish Science Temples (All The Branches and Sects of Them). All of these groups and not one provides a basis for the total unity of Black Americans All because of some " Religious Beliefs, Faith, Hope and Doctrines " that NONE of them can even fully explain themselves in Common Sensical Terms.
Then we have The African Hebrew Israelites, The Messianic Hebrew Israelites, The Torah Only Ones, The Lawgivers, etc. Not a One of Them knows anything about the Basics of Physics (The Forces of Nature) or Spirituality (Metaphysics) from what I have seen and boy oh boy oh boy have I talked to them, Men and Women. This is inclusive of All The " Religious ' Black Folks and it is all The More Sad and Insane when They actually believe That Some Universal God-head or Messiah is " Backing Them Up On This".. That type of Self-Poisoned Psychology based on a Ignorant fear, belief and hope is absolutely a symptom of Functional Insanity.!
If any of them had a God-Head, Messiah or The Forces of Nature Backing them up on anything we and the world would have known it by now, point-blank. ! However there are Two
(2) Systems that I have been interested in since birth or an early age so to speak. You almost NEVER hear the Run of The Mill Religionists, Scientists, Darwinists or Agnostics

mention these for any length of time if at all.
That is Vodun and Judaism. As I begin to study them off and on when I could I can see why now..! To be brief, Vodun, Just The Thought of It, Breaks The Spells of These False Religious Shackles no matter how powerful they be. If it doesn't do anything elseit impels one in the course of Free-Thought and Free Spirit..
Judaism, Afro-Judaism, to be exact. When I began my Moorish Studies under the tutelage of a certain brotherhood years ago I found out that to understand, know and practice Judaism (correctly and comprehensively) one has to Study and Know The Social Sciences. That Judaism is nothing more or less than KANAANITE Philosophy and Practice through and through .
That what is now called Judaism was actuallyand Originally ATENISM, The Monotheism of The Pharoah Akenaten and The High Priest Osarseph of On. This Pharoah Akenaten and/or H.P. Osarseph is actually The Biblical and Historical PharonicMoses (Moschiach)whom establishedKanaan (Israel) on The Pattern of Such.That the Hyksos
Era was nothing more than Native Kanaanites Pre-Dominately and at all times who simply bested The Egyptian/Sumerian Empires of that day and time as far as the courses of civilization goes. They may have brought in some Nubians/Indus Valley Peoples as Mates
and Co-Governors and Some Caucasians and Indo-Orientals as Servants and Students from time to time but these Native Kanaanites were in Charge of The Whole Process Through and Through All Of The Time.!!!
Later on in our times this is what makes Caucasians, Indians, Orientals and some sideswiped Black Scholars think that the Hyksos were a Foreign Non-Black Peoples and

pretend thatsome Caucasians or Chinese came into Egypt to " Rule The Local Population ".   Yes, Yess, Yessss, Brother. The Joke Continues and Goes On.!
The RealType of Education, The Social Sciences , is what is kept out of The Public Schools, The Churches, Mosques and Political Organizations for the very real fear that Foreign Imperialists and their " Educated Negroes " so to speak, will lose face, influence and the respect of the Black Population. The Spell that Non-Black peoples created the first civilizations and organized societies will be over withtoo.
MLP.,
Moorish American Federal Nationalists,
MAFN.

--- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [africanclassicalhi story] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: africanclassicalhis tory@yahoogroups .co.uk
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 6:16 PM
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both
> The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups.
> In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a > whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<

Hi, Bro. Lamar,
My theory is WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in every respect to history.
Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of people". He further added that they are "blameless".
Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them; then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state.
With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption or THEIR judgment. And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our oppressor (no question) is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or physically free yourself under these circumstances. WE SHOULD NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, join `em". Consequently, he had Christian obedience and loyalty while he RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez! Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on Afrigypt in 391 AD.

I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white here in a nutshell is what I think happened:
In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading the area. During the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the problems with the Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists the followers of the displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus, the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions. Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost literally.

HTP,
Mahari
--- In africanclassicalhis tory@yahoogroups .co.uk, Lamar Perryman wrote:
>
>
>
> --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
>
> Greetings again,
> Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying.. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
>
> Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a
> Role in it Also.!
> From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
>
> My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!

> Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
>
> Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
>
> Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> I will end here.
>
> As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> http://www.amazon. com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
>
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
>
>
> From: pharoahisrael
> Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Here's my 2 cents worth.
> I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power • it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment..

> It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his
> fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you • a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break • the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> There is 26% - I believe • who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid • no need to look for logic. There is none.. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus

within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior • on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them • not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > certain level of power.
> Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> Sorry, to go on so long.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> >
> > Hi group!
> > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.

> > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was
> taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> >
> > ABC
> >
>
> --- End forwarded message ---
>

Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry Check it out.
| 28603|2009-04-16 08:31:51|Divine Allah|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP

On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep <asar_imhotep@yahoo.com> wrote:
Peace Phamily

Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.

I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview

http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm

Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.

08/17/07	The Science Of The Dogan

The Science Of The Dogon

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

| 28604|2009-04-16 08:32:12|Ginger Daniels|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
Thanks for your response Joseph, andthe other kind words you sent to me.

Iam going to check out the website...I wish there wereinfact a tangible "worldwide Afrocentric school"... perhaps one day...many of the scholars here and around the world can come together andcreate an academic plan- notjust for us, but for the world. If the U.S / Western world is guilty of anything,itis certainlydumbing the people down. I know we have kinks to workout, but we can all agree that this current system is failing our children, especially in the inner cities.

I have a 5 year oldson... in my dreams it will happen in his lifetime.

Again, you were very inspiring in your email. Thank you for those kind words!

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com; asar_imhotep@yahoo.com
CC: gingerd2007@hotmail.com; barbaraclyde@sbcglobal.net; nhare@pacbell.net
From: proactivemarketing@sbcglobal.net
Date: Wed, 15 Apr 2009 03:56:36 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2

4/15/2009 5:22:37 AM
This is an unsolicited comment - - - hopefully helpful to the debate. Did I get Ginger correct? Let me know; please?
With all due respect to all parties involved i.e. -- Not really my business and this is the middle of your conversation (not having seen the original communication) . Being very reluctant to ever take one side or the other However, you both need to check your sources because C. A. Diop is most certainly credited with "The Two Cradle Theory" which happens to be widely accepted by the dare I say Worldwide Afrocentric School. In fact "The Two Cradle Theory" is just one of the giant corner stones of this Masters Work if not his greatest contribution. So, please check your research so as not to diminish in any way a giant as great as he. Additionally I believe the operative words are conditioning and adaptation [e.g. Cold/Hot-North/ South] not so specifically evolution. So it is that you both may in fact be on the same train simply seated facing different directions. Ultra fine points of destinction may in fact apply, however... ... ... Endarkening!
Sorry to butt-in but the observed group communication is very interesting - so I'll just get back to observation; although I did open a door. So if forced to: Ill put my reputation on the line along with his [Diop] and look-up the specifics which do exist in the KWHS Database and no doubt online somewhere. Is is certainly referred to often by the keen Diopian: Molefi Kete Asante in Kemet Afrocentricity and Knowledge as well as others. As itwas written let be done! http://artisticstud iosgallery. com/Contents_ Site_Map. html

Kemet Afrocentricity and Knowledge by Molefi Kete Asante

A definitive work on Afrocentricity, Kemetic Philosophy and their contributions to world knowledge; highly recommended for advanced students of Classical African Civilization.

jew

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 1:51 AM

Greetings Ginger

You said
He also taught that there were two cradles ofciviliation. Not two otherspecies, that evolved to be man, but two cradels of civilization - of man.

I would venture to say that this statement is false and is not based on any of Diops work. Dr. Chiekh Anta Diop has always argued in the tradition of evolution. A matter of fact, his last publication Civilization or Barbarism, in the first two chapters, was dedicated to the evolution of man. He didnt argue that man was created separate from all other species of living organisms on the planet. We can attest this fact by observing page 60s SIMPLIFIED DIAGRAM OF THE PROBABLE PROCESS OF THE DIFFERENTIATION OF THE RACES UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF PHYSICAL FACTORS:

1. Australaopithecus gracile and robustus, approximately 5,500,000 2,000,000 years ago.

2. Homo habilus (African), 2,500,000 years ago

3. Homo erectus (African), approximately 1,000,000 years ago

4. Homo Sapiens Sapiens (African) Omo I, Kanjera, 150,000 to 130,000 years ago.

5. Arrival In Europe of the African Homo Sapiens sapiens (Grimaldi Negroid), 40,000 years ago.

6. (period of differentiation between the Grimaldi Negroid and the Cro-Magnon)

7. Appearance of the first Cro-Magnon, 20,000 years ago

8. Appearance of the Yellow race, 15,000 years ago at the very earliest, perhaps during the Mesolithic Age bordering on the Neolithic Age, resulting in the interbreeding of Black and White in the cold climate.

In paleo-anthropology, we know that Australopithcus, Homo Habilus, and Homo Erectus are not fully human beings. These are the branches from the ape-like ancestor in which the fully human Homo Sapiens Sapiens came into being. Diop is not arguing what you stated above. If Diop was arguing what you stated, he wouldnt have included non-human ancestors into the human line of evolution.

2)

YOU STATE
You quoted - "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

To me, this reflects the position of the before and after life. This does not support the argument about evolving from another species. This goes hand and hand with the Egyptian (Kemetic) belief system in my opinion. Key word: soul.

There are a few things we must understand before we examine your quote above. The first is that in nature there is no separation of disciplines. Nature doesnt know Astro-Physics from Paleo-Climatology, from geology to chemistry. There is no demarcation based on human compartmentalizatio n of phenomena. You cant discuss biological evolution without including astro-physics. We have to do this as humans because the disciplines are so vast, but nature doesnt do this.

We start with how planets were formed and how from a single cell ameba life on earth was formed. This is why I included the documentation that all of the elements that give life and make up not only the earth, but the inhabitants on earth derive, from exploded, dying stars. I contrasted this with African stories of human beings and life deriving from stars.

The folly everyone makes when examining African oral or written spiritual texts, is assuming that the core themes have to do with religion. These are codified scientific treaties. When you examine these concepts under the rubrics of science, then we demystify our African themes. Thats the mystery we keep talking about. African science deals with quantum mechanics (see Laird Scrantons, Diop, Beatty and Finchs works), health, anatomy, physics and mathematics.

Mathematics is simply the relationship between MAAT and TECHU (Djehuti). This is why MAAT and TECHU are brother and sister which is a metaphor for inseparable, part of the same family of concepts.

MAAT balance, reciprocity, truth, righteousness, order and harmony

TECHU (djehuty) law, logic, word, science, magic, pattern, form, syntax

MAAT in mathematics (deriving from mathematik? t髣ne) can be represented by the = sign.

TECHU would be the proposition (the word, logic) that says two constants are equal (MAAT).

4 + 5 = 9
TECHU + TECHU (MAAT) TECHU (logic and balance are opposite sides of the same coin = family)

In order for TECHU to be true (MAAT) the logic (logos, word (djehuty inventor of the word, writing, etc.)) must be MAAT (balanced, equal on both sides). This is why Djehuti and MAAT are responsible for weighing the soul because they both deal with balance. Its mathematics, not religion.

Diop, Beatty, Obenga, and Finch have all discussed these ideas of myths connected to science in their respective works. When you understand that the idlhozi, Ka(a), Itongo, Simbi, etc., are not simply spiritual concepts in Africa, but are metaphors for electrical sources of power (energy), then you will understand what they mean by the soul. The African concept of scientific phenomena is more expansive and descriptive. The soul is simply energy as all things are energy and energy cannot be created nor destroyed; it can ONLY change FORM (evolve). I have an upcoming article on MAAT and the Theory of Relativity coming soon.

The Africans are saying the exact same thing the scientists are saying: that life began in a field of energy and the energy dispersed into packets and became different things (NTU) evolving from a single source. There is no such thing in African spiritual concepts as an after-life. That is a European concept. It is just life; a continuum of change in energy (soul).

So how can the Africans argue that life began as the dispersion of stars and it NOT be evolutionary? If things did not evolve in the African mind, why did not they simply state that all things were created simultaneously and things are fixed? Why did they start off with nothing, then light, stars, planets, plants, animals and then man in every single African tradition? In that order?

Evolution doesnt start with carbon based life on earth, but from the Big Bang (the first creation of stars) and is why Creationists always are asking who created the big bang? Because they understand you have to start from the beginning.

As stated before, and I will wrap up, science isnt concerned about who created creation. Its concern is how does creation work? You cant prove or disprove God and is why science wont address it. Period. End of discussion, no argument. Until you can prove God (in the African or European sense), quite trying to interject it into a scientific discussion. Thats not science. You dont even have a theory of God because it is not based on a single experiment from anyone to prove God.

If you are going to argue against science, you have to use science; not your beliefs.

Ancestrally, Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-VERSITY
MOCHA-Versity

Quick access to your favorite MSN content and Windows Live with Internet Explorer 8.
Download FREE now!
| 28605|2009-04-16 08:32:46|Paul Kekai Manansala|Herbs added to 5,100-year-old Egyptian wine|

Study: Herbs added to 5,100-year-old Egyptian wine

RON TODT

The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA - Herbs have been detected in wine from the tomb of one of ancient Egypt's first rulers, many centuries before the civilization's known use of herbal remedies in alcoholic beverages, according to a study published Monday.

The findings from a wine jar dated to 5100 B.C. provide concrete evidence of ancient Egyptian organic medicine, which had only been ambiguously referred to in later papyrus documents, said Patrick McGovern of the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology, one of the researchers.

Tests on one of 700 jars buried with Scorpion I in his tomb at Abydos about 3100 B.C. confirmed that the vessel contained wine, according to the paper published in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences. The tests also detected tree resin, which was used as a preservative and for medical purposes, and other chemicals that make up various herbs.

"There were a lot of additives in this wine, and it fits very well with the later Egyptian pharmacology texts, the medical papyri that describe similar kinds of alcoholic beverages with herbs in them," McGovern said.

"So the assumption is that, although we're 1500 years before the earliest medical papyrus, in fact we're looking at medicinal wine," he said.

Medical papyri, texts which describe ancient Egyptian medical procedures and practices, show that resins and herbs were added to wine, beer and water for use as pain relievers, laxatives, diuretics, or aphrodisiacs. Many of the ingredients are still part of the herbal medical tradition of the country, researchers said.

Herbs from the eastern Mediterranean that fit the chemicals found in the wine are coriander, balm, mint, sage, senna, germander, savory and thyme, McGovern said.

The researchers cannot positively identify herb or herb combinations found because unique biomarkers for them have not been identified. And although prescriptions recorded on papyrus give a detailed picture of the ancient Egyptian drug cabinet, more than 80 percent of the 160 plant names listed have yet to be translated.

"Our contention is that plant additives, including various herbs and tree resins, were already being dispensed via alcoholic beverages millennia earlier" than temple inscriptions had indicated, the paper concludes.

Robert K. Ritner, Professor of Egyptology at the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, said Friday herbs and spices were also added for taste as well as health.

"I would not limit it specifically to medicinal uses; it certainly could have that, but there's no reason these wouldn't be spiced for flavor, like modern mulled wine," Ritner said.

McGovern said medical benefits of herbal wines seemed the most likely explanation. "You can't exclude the taste side of it, but we're at a time when people need to have some way to protect themselves from disease, cure themselves, and this was the primary way it was done," he said.

| 28606|2009-04-16 08:34:32|Ginger Daniels|FW: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 1|

Thank you again for your response, Asar
I will reiterate that I was looking for a "different" perspective, not an African perspective. Of course the information I get herecomes from an African perspective... this rich history and culture which I love so much...so it does hold a differenttype of weight. Just as you stated, just because it is African doesn't make it true... TRUE INDEED! I know plenty of educated fools - self taught and institutionalized... so to this point we can agree.

I clearly stated that I am not in searchof my own truth, I seek"the truth".You think I only have these conversations on this site? I go to school with many diversecultures... I pick all of their brains for information. Not just pertaining to this conversation. I am not really concerned with what you think is lacking from my responses - especially since I have reiterated that truth is what I seek... and a "different" perspective than what Iam learning in school. Yes, because the information was built from a people who have a very skewed perspective... it causes me to be extra critical... but as I said before and I willsay it again - it doesnt make sense to me. What I have read, and all of the things youhavepresented. It still doesn't make sense to me. That does not mean that this theory isnot true.Your information does not mean that it is true, either. This is one of the wonderful things about being a living, breathing human on this planet. We have the will and the mind power to seek what we so choose to seek, and we are all products of our environment- which whether we know it or not - shapes the way we see the world.

Love the Bantu apparel by the way, I hope it does well!

Date: Wed, 15 Apr 2009 11:28:54 -0700
From: asar_imhotep@yahoo.com
Subject: Re:[Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 1
To: gingerd2007@hotmail.com

I understand your wanting to find references by African scholars on human origins. But what seems to be lacking from your responses is the seeking of truth. I don't care what color the scientist. All that matters is that the data and method of analysis is correct and well informed. Truth is not any brighter because a Black man said it. Truth is no respecter of person. And the more we focus on the skin color of the person telling the truth, the more clouded our judgment.

Just because it is African doesn't make it true. There are some African systems that believe that man was created as separate racial entities. This is before any European infiltration. Does this make them correct because they are African and have an African-Centered world view? Their analysis, just like any other human being, is subject to scrutiny.

As I stated before, those principles of science I quoted earlier are all African rules of engagement. I will prove it with the following:

From Peter Sturrock's guidlines quoted previously:

> (1) In studying any phenomenon, face up to the strongest evidence you can find, even if it is in conflict with current orthodoxies.
>
> (2) Go to the original sources for your data. Do not trust secondary sources.
>
> (3) Deal with "degrees of belief", which can be conveniently characterized by probabilities. It is important to avoid assigning probability P=0 (complete disbelief) or P=1 (complete certainty) to any proposition since, if you adopt either of these values, that value can never be changed no matter how much evidence you subsequently receive.
>
> (4) Focus on evidence and testing.
>
> (5) Subdivide the work into categories so different people take on different tasks.
>
> (6) Where possible work in teams; first because a combination of expertise may be required, and secondly, because a team is more likely to be self-correcting than someone working alone.
>
> (7) In theoretical analyses, list all assumptions. This seems a simple, innocuous request, yet it will not always be easy to put into effect.

African proverbs that address each of the guidelines.

> (1) Have the wisdom to abandon the values of a time that has passed and pick out the constituents of the future. An environment must be suited to the age and men to their environment. (THIS CAN ONLY HAPPEN AS THE RESULT OF NEW TESTS THAT MAKE THE OLD IDEAS OBSOLETE)
>
> (2) Judge by cause, not by effect. (THE ONLY WAY YOU CAN DO THIS IS BY DEALING WITH PRIMARY INFORMATION, WHETHER IN DOCUMENTS OR IN NATURE). A Kenyan proverb states: Seeing is different from being told. (AGAIN, PRIMARY VERSUS SECONDARY SOURCES ARE ALWAYS BETTER).
>
> (3) I can't find a proverb that directly matches this statement. But proverb number 7 implies this point. One cannot operate as if they have absolute knowledge on anything because new information is always being revealed in the proverb which states, "The know all knows nothing."
>
> (4) There are two kinds of error: blind credulity and piecemeal criticism. Never believe a word without putting its truth to the test; discernment does not grow in laziness; and this faculty of discernment is indispensable to the Seeker. Sound skepticism is the necessary condition for good discernment; but piecemeal criticism is an error.
>
> (5) (SEE NUMBER 6 - 6 IMPLIES 5) / but this is an addition: one lantern cannot light two houses (see Kajangu pg 28).
>
> (6) The intelligence of one alone is a shallow well that soon dries up. The intelligence of community outshines the intelligence of a single person. Intelligence is a flower that grows in the neighbors garden. (LUBA AND MINA PROVERBS)
>
> (7) Routine and prejudice distort vision. Each man thinks his own horizon is the limit of the world (WHY ONE MUST MAKE KNOWN ONE'S OWN PREJUDICE/ASSUMPTIONS)

Egyptian proverb concerning method: In every vital activity it is the path that matters.

A west African proverb states

> Only a knife knows what the inside of a coco-yam looks like. (Those who investigate and research something understand the subject.)

When we truly understand that the sciences and the methods of science didn't come from "The white man," then we can't make claims that things like Evolution is "the white man's perspective." It is the result of an African way of knowing: through observation, experimentation and record keeping. Plain and simple.

Egyptian Proverbs
http://www.duboislc.org/html/Proverbs.html

Other proverbs
Kykosa Kajangu - Wisdom Poetry (2006)

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-VERSITY
MOCHA-Versity

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:
From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: Re:[Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 1
To: ""Asar Imhotep" " , "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com "
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 12:41 AM

Thank you for your response, Asar

It will be a great day when we begin quoting our own scholars on this matter, and referencing our own websites.

I am aware of the definition of hypothesis, theory, and layman...
Thank you.

I understand your reluctance to refer those sites, I do not consider these reliable sources myself.

It is unfortunate that we never got around to my original questions, but the communication has been enlightening, nonetheless.

Take care

Rediscover Hotmail: Get e-mail storage that grows with you. Check it out.

Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry Check it out.
| 28607|2009-04-16 08:37:02|Ginger Daniels|Somalia piracy and the untold story|
Here is the video to accompany the article, sorry I forgot to attach it...
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BPkgkM-CtCo&eurl=http%3A%2F%2Fwww%2Efinalcall%2Ecom%2Fartman%2Fpublish%2Farticle%5F5903%2Eshtml&feature=player_embedded

---

From: gingerd2007@hotmail.com
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com; lvanhook@peralta.edu; 1stdynasty@gmail.com; sia_awakoaiye@pacbell.net; bflakes@comcast.net; jenjud@yahoo.com; hburton@degenkolb.com; johnwilson11@verizon.net
Subject: Somalia piracy and the untold story
Date: Wed, 15 Apr 2009 14:49:41 -0700

Somali piracy connected to toxic dumping, illegal fishing While CNN, FOX, Timesand othercorporate media sources have fixated onone-dimensional reporting of the"Somalia Piracy" story, some diligent reporters and outlets have reported the broader picture. The following article and attached video offers that broader picture.

UNITED NATIONS - The head of the UN's body charged with combating piracy has advocated establishing a UN force to fight the piracy problem off Somalia's coastbut the problem may be more complex than simple banditry on the high seas.

In this image provided by the U.S. Navy, Somali pirates holding the merchant vessel, MV Faina, stand on the deck of the ship after the U.S. Navy's request to check on the health and welfare of the ships crew on October 19, at sea in the Gulf of Aden off the coast of Hoybyo, Somalia. Photo: Jason Zalasky/U.S. Navy via Getty Images

According to the UN secretary-general's spokesman's office, Secretary-General of the International Maritime Bureau Efthimios Mitropoulos said the Gulf of Aden, the gateway to the vital Suez Canal, and the eastern coast of Somalia rank as the world's top piracy hot spots. The Gulf of Aden accounted for a third of all attacks on ships in the first nine months of 2008, said Mr. Mitropoulos. Thousands of cargo ships and tankers pass through on their way to Mombasa port in Kenya or destinations in southern Africa.

While the hijackings have been described as the work of criminals, officials admit the problem of waste dumped off the coast of Somalia may be a reason why ships have been commandeered.

In September, a Ukrainian freighter with Russian tanks on board, anti-aircraft guns and heavy weaponry was seized by Somali pirates and ransom negotiations are ongoing.

A spokesman for the pirates, who reportedly use the autonomous region of Puntland as their base, told Al Jazeera some of the ransom money will be used to help clean up waters off the Somali coast ravaged by years of toxic waste dumping. The ransom demand is a means of reacting to the toxic waste that has been continually dumped on the shores of our country for nearly 20 years, the spokesman said.

Ahmedou Ould-Abdallah, the UN special envoy for Somalia,
said the world body had reliable information that European and Asian companies are responsible for the dumping. The United Nations has also been told that some Somali pirates claim to act as coast guards, protecting their country's waters, he added.

This is not something new, the accusation that toxic dumping is happening off the shores of Somalia, it is amazing though that it is now coming out, said Sadia Aden, president of the Somalia Diaspora Network. Opinions are mixed on the pirates. Some of the people are saying the pirates are defending our territory, Ms. Aden told The Final Call.

A political solution in Somalia would solve the piracy problem, said Ms. Aden. We need elections. We need a central government, she argued.

Somalia has not had a central government since 1991 when late President Mohamed Siad Barre was ousted.

Analysts said the chaotic state of the Transitional Federal Government has meant no binding trade measures are in affect and Somalia has not signed the Basel Convention or the Bamako Convention, which ban the import of hazardous waste to African nations.

While I know the subject of this interview is waste dumping in Somalia, I must say that toxic dumping is an issue all over West and East Africa, said Nii Akuetteh, executive director of Africa Action, a member of the Scholars' Council at Trans Africa Forum and founder of the Democracy and Conflict Research Institute in Accra, Ghana.

The Somali toxic waste dumping issue is of great concern to me because it spills over to other African nations, Mr. Akuetteh said. Did you know that when the Islamic Courts Union was in charge of Somalia, piracy had come to a virtual halt? But thanks to the Bush administration and Ethiopia after the ouster of the ICU in 2006, the phenomenon returned, said Mr. Akuetteh.

In early October, the UN Security Council unanimously passed Resolution 1838 (2008) which determined that the incidents of piracy and armed robbery against vessels in the territorial waters of Somalia and the high seas off the coast of Somalia exacerbate the situation in Somalia which continues to constitute a threat against international peace and security.
The UN must monitor more closely the toxic waste issue; and there doesn't seem to be any mention of that in Resolution 1838, observed Professor Abdi Ismail Samatar, of the geography and global studies department at the University of Minnesota, in a Final Call interview.
While the media is covering piracy, there needs to be coverage of the plundering of Somali resources by rich companies and rich governments, said Prof. Samatar. They are destroying the coral reefsbreeding grounds for the fisheriesdestroying the livelihoods of Somalis, taking the food out of the mouths of the poor.
According to Ms. Aden there are 3.5 million Somalis facing starvation. East African waters, particularly off Somalia, have huge numbers of commercial fish, including the prized yellow-fin tuna. Observers say the Somali coastline once sustained hundreds of thousands of people as a source of food and livelihoods.

Windows Live: Keep your life in sync. Check it out.

Quick access to your favorite MSN content and Windows Live with Internet Explorer 8.
Download FREE now!
| 28608|2009-04-16 09:38:50|Mahari Mengistu|[africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
Ahmed Osman, I believe, is the greatest living supporter of the theory of Ahkenaten as the "---moses". The following is a link to his website of books.
http://ahmedosman.com/books.html

He has written numerous books on the subject which, I believe, have great substance and are quite plausible and fascinating to me. For me it makes some events in the bible begin to make sense because they certainly don't as is.
However, many years earlier the psychologist, Sigmund Freud, put forth this theory first, I think, suggesting that Ahkenaten was actually killed by his followers in the desert which brought on the well-written about "jewish guilt" (his theory).
I feel guilty about promoting this guy since I would much rather promote a black scholar. But the truth is color-neutral. And it can save us all.
The theory goes thusly:
Ahkenaten, along with Nefertiti, brought forth the worship of the Aten, a monotheistic (the first), symbol of God. It is said that the worship had to pass through him and her. I think it was just a tactic to keep the masses away from the priests. However, the Aten was not a new NTR. In fact, it is one of the oldest names for RA or Atum. It began to have prominence with the royals during the reign of Thutmosis lll, I believe, Akhenaten's grandfather. And there are other interesting related facts as well concerning his mother, Queen Tiye and her father, Yuyu.
To attempt to be more succinct: he fired the Amunist priests, things went awry and he quickly disappears from the scene and his son the young, age 10, King Tut comes to the throne. Osman's theory suggests that he was not killed, as is the prevailing belief, but left the throne and took his followers with him into the desert, i.e., the Exodus. This "exodus", however, was nothing like what TOO MANY of us saw this weekend in the Ten Commandments.

HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Ginger Daniels wrote:
>
>
> Interesting perspective here, thanks for sharing. I have a question for you -
>
>
>
> You said - That what is now called Judaism was actually and Originally ATENISM, The Monotheism of The Pharoah Akenaten and The High Priest Osarseph of On. This Pharoah Akenaten and/or H.P. Osarseph is actually The Biblical and Historical Pharonic Moses (Moschiach) whom established Kanaan (Israel) on The Pattern of Such.
>
>
>
> I heard this from another friend of mine... not verbatem, but he implied that he believed that masonic groups and shriners study secretly that certain characters in the bible were actually the pharaohs of the ancient times... which I think is certainly interesting. (he was in the NOI by the way)
>
>
>
> So, my question is, if Moses was actually Akenaten, who was a pharaoh himself... did he actually lead the people out of Egypt (Kemet) to flee another pharaoh? I know you mentioned the hyksos, are you saying that this was an intermediate kingdom and the power had left the hands of the original rulers? I know the 42 laws of Ma'at are similar to the 10 commandments... and the commandments were probably derived from them... so I assume this is tied in with this theory as well, right?
>
>
>
> Very interesting stuff... I would appreciate some reading / online references if you can provide them, along with your input. Thank you!
>
>
>
>
>
> To: africanclassicalhistory@...; Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com; americanpharoahs@yahoogroups.com; moorish_federal_nationalists@yahoogroups.com; moorishamericannationals@yahoogroups.com; NorthAmexemObservers@yahoogroups.com; yoruba_spirituality@yahoogroups.com

> CC: abibitumikasa@yahoogroups.com; MoroKongoJudio@yahoogroups.com; spiritual_nationalism@yahoogroups.com; onilemail@...; share@...; jahjahknow@...
> From: pharoahisrael@...
> Date: Tue, 14 Apr 2009 13:51:28 -0700
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> That is right Bro. Mahari,
> I feel you on that one true enough. Religions and even Caucasian, Indian and Oriental Esoteric Systems have done much damage to The Black Mind, Soul and Physical Nature. When I said I wish that I knew what other peoples knew > about Black Africans/Asians so much Religions and their by-products were on my mind
> but You actually said it thoroughly and clearl to the point that I don't think any reasonable and conscious person could argue with it.
> Religions and Socialization. Brother I think that the issue has become so bad that even Our Own Political and Religious Establishments have been in on it for their own Personal and Organizational benefit. Just look at Black Christians of all types- Catholics, Protestants, Mormons, Jehovah Witness, Episcopalian, Seventh-Day Adventists, Baptists > and so on.
>
> Then we have The Black Muslims- Sunni, Shite, Baath, Ahmadiyya, Ismaili, Sufi and so many Sects, Imams, Ulama, Caliphs, Sultans, Ayatollahs, Shahs and so on.
> Then we have to consider Black Muslims in America. The Nation of Islam-NOI, The Lost-Found NOI, The Five-Percent NOI, The Moorish Science Temples (All The Branches and Sects of Them). All of these groups and not one provides a basis for the total unity of Black Americans All because of some " Religious Beliefs, Faith, Hope and Doctrines " > that NONE of them can even fully explain themselves in Common Sensical Terms.
>
> Then we have The African Hebrew Israelites, The Messianic Hebrew Israelites, The Torah Only Ones, The Lawgivers, etc. Not a One of Them knows anything about the Basics of Physics (The Forces of Nature) or Spirituality (Metaphysics) from what I have seen and boy oh boy oh boy have I talked to them, Men and Women. This is inclusive of All The " Religious ' Black Folks and it is all The More Sad and Insane when They actually believe That Some Universal God-head or Messiah is " Backing Them Up On This".. That type of Self-Poisoned Psychology based on a Ignorant fear, belief and hope is absolutely a symptom of Functional Insanity.!

>
> If any of them had a God-Head, Messiah or The Forces of Nature Backing them up on anything we and the world would have known it by now, point-blank.! However there are Two
> (2) Systems that I have been interested in since birth or an early age so to speak. You almost NEVER hear the Run of The Mill Religionists, Scientists, Darwinists or Agnostics > mention these for any length of time if at all.
> That is Vodun and Judaism. As I begin to study them off and on when I could I can see why now..! To be brief, Vodun, Just The Thought of It, Breaks The Spells of These False Religious Shackles no matter how powerful they be. If it doesn't do anything else it impels one in the course of Free-Thought and Free Spirit..
>
> Judaism, Afro-Judaism, to be exact. When I began my Moorish Studies under the tutelage of a certain brotherhood years ago I found out that to understand, know and practice Judaism (correctly and comprehensively) one has to Study and Know The Social Sciences. That Judaism is nothing more or less than KANAANITE Philosophy and Practice through and through .
> That what is now called Judaism was actually and Originally ATENISM, The Monotheism of The Pharoah Akenaten and The High Priest Osarseph of On. This Pharoah Akenaten and/or H.P. Osarseph is actually The Biblical and Historical Pharonic Moses (Moschiach) whom established Kanaan (Israel) on The Pattern of Such. That the Hyksos
> Era was nothing more than Native Kanaanites Pre-Dominately and at all times who simply bested The Egyptian/Sumerian Empires of that day and time as far as the courses of civilization goes. They may have brought in some Nubians/Indus Valley Peoples as Mates > and Co-Governors and Some Caucasians and Indo-Orientals as Servants and Students from time to time but these Native Kanaanites were in Charge of The Whole Process Through and Through All Of The Time.!!!
>
> Later on in our times this is what makes Caucasians, Indians, Orientals and some sideswiped Black Scholars think that the Hyksos were a Foreign Non-Black Peoples and > pretend that some Caucasians or Chinese came into Egypt to " Rule The Local Population ". Yes, Yess, Yessss, Brother. The Joke Continues and Goes On.!
>
> The Real Type of Education, The Social Sciences , is what is kept out of The Public Schools, The Churches, Mosques and Political Organizations for the very real fear that Foreign Imperialists and their " Educated Negroes " so to speak, will lose face, influence and the respect of the Black Population. The Spell that Non-Black peoples created the first civilizations and organized societies will be over with too.
>
> MLP.,
> Moorish American Federal Nationalists,
> MAFN.
>
> --- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question

> To: africanclassicalhistory@...
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 6:16 PM
>
>
>
>
> >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
>
> Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> My theory is WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in every respect to history.
> Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them; then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state.
> With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption or THEIR judgment. And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our oppressor (no question) is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or physically free yourself under these circumstances. WE SHOULD NEVER UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, join `em". Consequently, he had Christian obedience and loyalty while he RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez! Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on Afrigypt in 391 AD.
>
> I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white here in a nutshell is what I think happened:
> In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading the area. During the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the problems with the Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists ? the followers of the displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus, the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions. Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost literally.

> HTP,
> Mahari
> --- In africanclassicalhis tory@yahoogroups .co.uk, Lamar Perryman wrote:
> >
> >
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
> >
> > Greetings again,
> > Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated
> > Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying.. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
> >
> > Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> > of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> > I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> > Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Story (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a
> > Role in it Also.!
> > From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
> >
> > My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> > for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.
> > The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhai , The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> > Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!

> >
> > Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
> >
> > Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> > I will end here.
> >
> > As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> > P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> > http://www.amazon com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
> >
> >
> > MLP.,
> > Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
> >
> >
> > From: pharoahisrael
> > Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> > Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > Here's my 2 cents worth.
> > I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response. If I must I will have to accept it. However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization. One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world. And power holds ultimate power it holds all the important cards. The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true. It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too. I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means. However, given the sway that power holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us and replace themselves > > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white. And we had to be reduced to chattel in order to justify such treatment..

> > It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> > I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups. This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen. They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof. People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway. Could it be that he is stupid? Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around. But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here. This is like "1+1=2". It doesn't require a lot of smarts. Even he has that much. But he opposed it. So there has to be something else. I watched his body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood when he "acquired" his
> > fame. I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you a black man. You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place. You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> > We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break the most in history. Is their some logic somewhere there?
> > There is 26% - I believe who blame Obama for the current economic crisis! This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness. Is their some logic there? I don't think so. Then what is the weird problem here? I think it is the color of the President. I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US. It is that simple and that stupid no need to look for logic. There is none.. They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> > Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power. I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe. It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage. There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this. We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years. So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world. It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence. It was about THEIR truth (what they decided was to > > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie. And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> > So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc. it is not important to them. What is important to them is that they be superior on top. The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> > The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat). But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place. It becomes important only when it affects "ME".

> > With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy. Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine. However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets". Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society. Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand. Of course, there is some truth to that. As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use. Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't need to have a > > certain level of power.
> > Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance. How do you achieve it?
> > Sorry, to go on so long.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> > >
> > > Hi group!
> > > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded. Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion! How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized. But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God? As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society. I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly servant in Egypt was a "happy" and well
> > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc. To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today? I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff. I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that

perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich. On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this. The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to never connect how Christianity was
> > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> > >
> > > ABC
> > >
> >
> > --- End forwarded message ---
> >
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> _____
> Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry
>
http://windowslive.com/RediscoverHotmail?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Rediscover_Mobile1_042009
>
| 28609|2009-04-16 09:57:14|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
thanks bro. bonotchi , but i think it is a perfect word, .. after this particular ex-istenceis at its end we continue in a afterlife .....
thanks for your perspective, i also say next life and many times i say in-between ., my person thinks most people understand and what is said flows perfectly with the book of the amduat.
the A-khu and/or Shepsu are indeed alive and many masters have returned and are returning even as many have established themselves in the neterworld as principles/realities ausaru/Orisha's judges and keepers of particular bloodlines etc.....

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, bonotchim@aol.com wrote:

From: bonotchim@aol.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 8:35 PM

A side note: In the Mdw Ntr the word ankhw is translated as living and ones who are alive this included people who we would call the dead. In Kemet death is a form of life also. The term After-life is not a precise word to use to understand kemetic thought in this area. Bro Bonotchi

-----Original Message-----
From: Tafari khumbaka
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Sent: Wed, 15 Apr 2009 7:45 pm
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2

There is no such thing in African spiritual concepts as an after-life. That i s a European co
It is just life; a continuum of change in energy (soul).
this is a quote from brother Asar response to sisda Gingered, .
africans don't have after-life concepts,/// /..... now thats white laboratory atheism at its be love your medu-neter/hierogly phic work, great scholarlly stuff, and respect your opinion the afterlife, but I think most africans accept the afterlife as a reality and all ways have AL WITH THE SCIENCE, ..

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 1:51 AM

Greetings Ginger
You said
He also taught that there were two cradles ofciviliation. Not two otherspecies, that evolvec man, but two cradels of civilization - of man.

I would venture to say that this statement is false and is not based on any of Diops work. I

Chiekh Anta Diop has always argued in the tradition of evolution. A matter of fact, his last publication Civilization or Barbarism, in the first two chapters, was dedicated to the evolution of man. He didnt argue that man was created separate from all other species of living organisms on the planet. We can attest this fact by observing page 60s SIMPLIFIED DIAGRAM OF THE PROBABLE PROCESS OF THE DIFFERENTIATION OF THE RACES UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF PHYSICAL FACTORS:

1. Australaopithecus gracile and robustus, approximately 5,500,000 2,000,000 years ago.
2. Homo habilus (African), 2,500,000 years ago
3. Homo erectus (African), approximately 1,000,000 years ago
4. Homo Sapiens Sapiens (African) Omo I, Kanjera, 150,000 to 130,000 years ago.
5. Arrival In Europe of the African Homo Sapiens sapiens (Grimaldi Negroid), 40,000 years ago.
6. (period of differentiation between the Grimaldi Negroid and the Cro-Magnon)
7. Appearance of the first Cro-Magnon, 20,000 years ago
8. Appearance of the Yellow race, 15,000 years ago at the very earliest, perhaps during the Mesolithic Age bordering on the Neolithic Age, resulting in the interbreeding of Black and White in the cold climate.

In paleo-anthropology, we know that Australopithcus, Homo Habilus, and Homo Erectus are not fully human beings. These are the branches from the ape-like ancestor in which the fully human Homo Sapiens Sapiens came into being. Diop is not arguing what you stated above. If Diop was arguing what you stated, he wouldnt have included non-human ancestors into the human line of evolution.
2)
YOU STATE
You quoted - "The Bantu believe that the soul passes through a series of developmental stages long before and long after its brief association with the human body."

To me, this reflects the position of the before and after life. This does not support the argument about evolving from another species. This goes h and and hand with the Egyptian (Kemetic) belief system in my opinion. Key word: soul.

There are a few things we must understand before we examine your quote above. The first is that in nature there is no separation of disciplines. Nature doesnt know Astro-Physics from Paleo-Climatology, from geology to chemistry. There is no demarcation based on human compartmentalizatio n of phenomena. You cant discuss biological evolution without including astro-physics. We have to do this as humans because the disciplines are so vast, but nature doesnt do this.

We start with how planets were formed and how from a single cell ameba life on earth was formed. This is why I included the documentation that all of the elements that give life and make up not only the earth, but the inhabitants on earth derive, from exploded, dying stars. I contrasted this with African stories of human beings and life deriving from stars.
The folly everyone makes when examining African oral or written spiritual texts, is assuming that the core themes have to do with religion. These are codified scientific treaties. When you examine these concepts under the rubrics=2 0of science, then we demystify our African themes.

Thats the mystery we keep talking about. African science deals with quantum mechanics (see Laird Scrantons, Diop, Beatty and Finchs works), health, anatomy, physics and mathematics.

Mathematics is simply the relationship between MAAT and TECHU (Djehuti). This is why MAAT and TECHU are brother and sister which is a metaphor for inseparable, part of the same family of concepts.
MAAT balance, reciprocity, truth, righteousness, order and harmony
TECHU (djehuty) law, logic, word, science, magic, pattern, form, syntax
MAAT in mathematics (deriving from mathematik? t髣ne) can be represented by the = sign. TECHU would be the proposition (the word, logic) that says two constants are equal (MAAT).
4 + 5 = 9
TECHU + TECHU (MAAT) TECHU (logic and balance are opposite s ides of the same coin = family)
In order for TECHU to be true (MAAT) the logic (logos, word (djehuty inventor of the word, writing, etc.)) must be MAAT (balanced, equal on both sides). This is why Djehuti and MAAT are responsible for weighing the soul because they both deal with balance. Its mathematics, not religion.

Diop, Beatty, Obenga, and Finch have all discussed these ideas of myths connected to science in their respective works. When you understand that the idlhozi, Ka(a), Itongo, Simbi, etc., are not simply spiritual concepts in Africa, but are metaphors for electrical sources of power (energy), then you will understand what they mean by the soul. The African concept of scientific phenomena is more expansive and descriptive. The soul is simply energy as all things are energy and energy cannot be created nor destroyed; it can ONLY change FORM (evolve). I have an upcoming article on MAAT and the Theory of Relativity coming soon.

The Africans are saying the exact same thing the scientists are saying: that life began in a field of energy and the energy dispersed into packets and=2 0became different things (NTU) evolving from a single source. There is no such thing in African spiritual concepts as an after-life. That is a European concept. It is just life; a continuum of change in energy (soul).
So how can the Africans argue that life began as the dispersion of stars and it NOT be evolutionary? If things did not evolve in the African mind, why did not they simply state that all things were created simultaneously and things are fixed? Why did they start off with nothing, then light, stars, planets, plants, animals and then man in every single African tradition? In that order?

Evolution doesnt start with carbon based life on earth, but from the Big Bang (the first creation of stars) and is why Creationists always are asking who created the big bang? Because they understand you have to start from the beginning.

As stated before, and I will wrap up, science isnt concerned about who created creation. Its concern is how does creation work? You cant prove or disprove God and is why science wont address it. Period. End of discussion, no argument. Until you can prove God (in the Afric an or European sense), quite trying to interject it into a scientific discussion. Thats not science. You dont even have a theory of God because it is not based on a single experiment from anyone to prove God.

If you are going to argue against science, you have to use science; not your beliefs.

Ancestrally, Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

;

Great deals on Dell's most popular laptops - Starting at $479

| 28610|2009-04-16 10:32:05|Asar Imhotep|Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
"I heard this from another friend of mine... not verbatem, but he implied that he believed that masonic groups and shriners study secretly that certain characters in the bible were actually the pharaohs of the ancient times..."

I don't know about "Mason's" "secretly" discussing these in closed circles, but the final assumption may be plausible, especially when you examine the book of "Judges." For instance, the judge Jephthah is really YePaTaH.

For those who remember, in African traditions, the "kings list" are not of actual kings, but principles and concepts usually discussing how man derived from the divine essence to form man as we know it. Here is an example:

Gakondo
The Royal Lists

http://webspinners.com/Gakondo/en/Lists/index.php

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:
From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Re: [africanclassicalhistory] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com"
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 4:35 PM

Interesting perspective here, thanks for sharing. I have a question for you -

You said - That what is now called Judaism was actuallyand Originally ATENISM, The Monotheism of The Pharoah Akenaten and The High Priest Osarseph of On. This Pharoah Akenaten and/or H.P. Osarseph is actually The Biblical and Historical PharonicMoses (Moschiach)whom establishedKanaan (Israel) on The Pattern of Such.

I heard this from another friend of mine... not verbatem, but he implied that he believed that masonic groups and shriners study secretly that certain characters in the bible were actually the pharaohs of the ancient times... which I think is certainly interesting. (he was in the NOI by the way)

> So, my question is, if Moses was actually Akenaten, who was a pharaoh himself... did he actually lead the people out of Egypt (Kemet) to flee another pharaoh? I know you mentioned the hyksos, are you saying that this was an intermediate kingdom and the power had left the hands of the original rulers? I know the 42 laws of Ma'at are similar to the 10 commandments. .. and the commandments were probably derived from them... so I assume this is tied in with this theory as well, right?
>
> Very interesting stuff... I would appreciate some reading / online references if you can provide them, along with your input. Thank you!

| 28611|2009-04-16 11:00:05|Asar Imhotep|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
Greetings Tafari

I would have to differ with your analysis primarily because it is not based in African tradition. As I stated previously, it is a European concept of African cosmology.

In African cosmologies, there is no After Life. You simply have transition, change. What you are considering as "life" is really the "After Life" of the "spiritual world." If you have Fu-Kiau's African Cosmology of the Bantu Kongo, read pages 25-35. I think he puts it the best and provides the graphs to support it. Then I want you to examine those graphs with that which you find in among the Zulu, the Dogon, the Igbo, the Yoruba, Egyptian, Dagara and Akan.

You "live" and "die" in both worlds (the upper world and the lower world). In each world a being is born, grows, matures, and dies. The "dying" process allows the energy form to be acceptable in the respective worlds.

As Fu-Kiau notes on pg 35, "The human being is kala-zima-kala, a living-dying-living-being. A being of continuous motion through four stages of balance between a vertical force and a horizontal force (see image below). The horizontal force is fundamental because it is the key to open or to close, to enter or exit the diurnal world, nza a mwini, ya ku nseke or the nocturnal world, nza ya mpimpa, ya ku mpemba and vice versa."

Ku Nseke is the "upper world"
Ku Mpemba is the "lower world" (spiritual world)

As stated above, we just transition from the lower world to the upper world to have different experiences which we can only have in those respective worlds. That's why we must "die" here so our "spirit" or energy body can operate and live in the "lower world." We live in the lower world and when we "die" there and are born in the "upper world" we take on a flesh.

Again, what we call "life" in the African sense is really the "after life" of "life" in the "lower world." The concept of "after life" does not represent well this concept. What we on the continent articulate is that there is a an eternal continuum of life in which "energy" (including human life) takes many forms. We are in perpetual motion. You can't say "after life" because you're still living, just in another form.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 11:55 AM

thanks bro. bonotchi , but i think it is a perfect word, .. after this particular ex-istenceis at i

we continue in a afterlife .....
thanks for your perspective, i also say next life and many times i say in-between ., my person thinks most people understand and what is said flows perfectly with the book of the amduat.
the A-khu and/or Shepsu are indeed alive and many masters have returned and are returning even as many have established themselves in the neterworld as principles/realitie s ausaru/Orisha' s judges and keepers of particular bloodlines etc.....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, bonotchim@aol. com wrote:

From: bonotchim@aol. com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 8:35 PM

A side note: In the Mdw Ntr the word ankhw is translated as living and ones who are alive this included people who we would call the dead. In Kemet death is a form of life also. The term After-life is not a precise word to use to understand kemetic thought in this area. Bro Bonotchi

-

| 28612|2009-04-16 11:00:06|Tafari khumbaka|Re: 11 dimensions of space| tua'/thanks for send,

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 4/2/09, Todd Jackson wrote:

From: Todd Jackson
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: 11 dimensions of space
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 2, 2009, 2:07 PM

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=uyXVCggV6EU > click above, dark matter, multiverse, 11 dimensions of space
>
>
>

> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

Greetings, Tafari!

Before we get too far down the rabbit-hole, I recommend both the "Electric Universe" and the "Plasma Cosmology" series. This is a simpler, more elegant vision which strikes me as more scientifically responsible - though I'm no scientist.

http://www.youtube. com/results? search_type= &search_query= plasma+cosmology &aq=f

Blessings,

Todd Jackson

| 28613|2009-04-16 11:00:24|Asar Imhotep|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
Peace

Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RKS7r-pCpZ4

I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
From: Divine Allah
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM

I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP

On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep <asar_imhotep@ yahoo.com> wrote:
Peace Phamily

Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.

I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview

http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm

Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.

08/17/07	The Science Of The Dogan

The Science Of The Dogon

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

| 28614|2009-04-16 11:25:16|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
what many africans call dying in this world is a transition to a world of ancestors to be judged and enlightened and allowed to return (if necessary) to planet earth along a particular historical course.....
we see, our ancestors returning to us as our children..
Iam a African, born here in america returned to my ancestoral path in touch with many ancestors in the neter-world and in this life.
I have personally not thru other peoples books,, seen and conversed with departed africans in trance and dream states and have had my insperience's affirmed through de'javou prophesy.....
I know this through experience.
what you and your mentor say in your books is ya'll's interpretation and other african have different interpretations,.
my person has spoke with many africans of the continent and also the caribbean and bahamas.
simply because several hundred or even several million africans see a thing one way does not mean that another nation or group is wrong for seeing things differently in the detailsor seeing things differently altogether.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 12:53 PM

Greetings Tafari

I would have to differ with your analysis primarily because it is not based in African tradit
As I stated previously, it is a European concept of African cosmology.

In African cosmologies, there is no After Life. You simply have transition, change. What considering as "life" is really the "After Life" of the "spiritual world." If you have Fu-Kiau African Cosmology of the Bantu Kongo, read pages 25-35. I think he puts it the best and provides the graphs to support it. Then I want you to examine those graphs with that whic find in among the Zulu, the Dogon, the Igbo, the Yoruba, Egyptian, Dagara and Akan.

You "live" and "die" in both worlds (the upper world and the lower world). In each world is born, grows, matures, and dies. The "dying" process allows the energy form to be accep in the respective worlds.

As Fu-Kiau notes on pg 35, "The human being is kala-zima-kala, a living-dying- living-be being of continuous motion through four stages of balance between a vertical force and horizontal force (see image below). The horizontal force is fundamental because it is the open or to close, to enter or exit the diurnal world, nza a mwini, ya ku nseke or the noctu world, nza ya mpimpa, ya ku mpemba and vice versa."

Ku Nseke is the "upper world"
Ku Mpemba is the "lower world" (spiritual world)

As stated above, we just transition from the lower world to the upper world to have differe experiences which we can only have in those respective worlds. That's why we must "die" so our "spirit" or energy body can operate and live in the "lower world." We live in the lov world and when we "die" there and are born in the "upper world" we take on a flesh.

Again, what we call "life" in the African sense is really the "after life" of "life" in the "low world." The concept of "after life" does not represent well this concept. What we on the continent articulate is that there is a an eternal continuum of life in which "energy" (includ human life) takes many forms. We are in perpetual motion. You can't say "after life" becau you're still living, just in another form.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 11:55 AM

thanks bro. bonotchi , but i think it is a perfect word, .. after this particular ex-istenceis at its end

we continue in a afterlife .....
thanks for your perspective, i also say next life and many times i say in-between ., my person thinks most people understand and what is said flows perfectly with the book of the amduat.
the A-khu and/or Shepsu are indeed alive and many masters have returned and are returning even as many have established themselves in the neterworld as principles/realitie s ausaru/Orisha' s judges and keepers of particular bloodlines etc.....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/15/09, bonotchim@aol. com wrote:

From: bonotchim@aol. com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 15, 2009, 8:35 PM

A side note: In the Mdw Ntr the word ankhw is translated as living and ones who are alive this included people who we would call the dead. In Kemet death is a form of life also. The term After-life is not a precise word to use to understand kemetic thought in this area. Bro Bonotchi

-

| 28615|2009-04-16 11:36:00|Alex van Deelen|Herbs added to 5,100-year-old Egyptian wine|
Blue Lotus flowers are often added to wine.

They work as an aphrodisiac (especially on women) and
are a general euphoriant.

Just so everyone knows.

Alex
| 28616|2009-04-16 11:39:03|Mahari Mengistu|Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|
Thanks for your reply.
HTP,
Mahari
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, yoheyman2000@... wrote:
>
>
> I agree Mahari this is serious and I held to that when I prayed to who for practical purposes I will call "The Almighty God" after years of (Christian) Bible study, and asked the something to the effect of:
>
> Dear God why should I as a Black man be SO despised as to be made to see the same man who enslaved me and despises me to this very day as the likeness of my Lord and saviour as well?
> Or why would you have it that I trust the religion of the same man who has shown nothing but hatred toward me?

> Why must it be that I should trust anything, no less his salvation plan, that he says or offers to me, how can this be?
>
> From there I discovered "The Nuwaubians" somewhere in there associated with Malidoma Some & his Dagara/Dogon teachings and from there I can't say exactly where I am but it has left me feeling that I don't know that I am a "joiner" and with Jesus dominating the "age"
> The bottom line I guess is sometimes you look for the "replacement" and sometimes it's like it takes so much effort to find that "replacement" that you wonder if you really need a replacement or maybe truth "setting one free" means getting used to how BIG freedom is?
> The Mysteries are for initiates and what is an initiate is that like a priest? but if you are a "layman" what is his option a layman? is that like a historian perhaps just having the knowlege but none of the spirituality? SO our journey from Christianity leaves us not knowing who the real saviour is it Heru?
> Is it the Jesus story but just with differing names of the characters?
> If so then is the Jesus story such a lie?
> Will changing Jesus's color help patch up the lie or is calling him Jesus a bigger offence?
>
> -- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 8:04 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I think you are a little off focus. The issue at hand has less to do with astronomical symbols and representation than it does with who is personified by these symbols and representations.
> To demonstrate in blunt images let's say that the origins of this "Jesus" was of the black race and a later group - say caucasian- comes along and says and represents this black man as a white man thus directing the line of "history", civilization and culture to the white race. Would you not consider this a SERIOUS problem and a lie particularly if this group had enslaved, degraded, minimized their worth and accomplishments and murdered his progeny in great numbers?
> As I understand it this is the thrust of the discussion and not astrological symbolism. Not that it is not interesting. In fact, it could have historical significance upon closer examination. But that is not the issue at hand..
> HTP,
> Mahari
>

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, anthony clements wrote:
> >
> > I am enjoying the exchanges and I just hope to get more understanding.
> > The Mysteries are demonized because it is part of the push to level the acomplishments of the Afrakan in the world! There was a notion that was asserted in Zeitgeist The Movie which I though was profound:
> > The notion was something to the effect of; each age has a reigning "savior" the current age is the age of Pisces hence fish are often used as representations of Jesus or Christianity thus we are in the age of Christianity. Before Jesus the savior was represented by a bull (Taurus) hence the worshiping of the Golden Calf in the previous age. The next age is that of Aquarius and even Jesus points to this when he tells desciples, when they ask when or how will they find him, follow the man bearing the pitcher of water, the symbol and the saviour of the age of Aquarius.
> > This idea though it does take blame away from the Caucasian alone seems to have a wider range of view but one that I would think agrees with some tenets of the Mysteries ?
> > --- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> >
> >
> > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:09 PM
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > ADVERTISEMENT
> >
> > >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
> > Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<
> >
> > Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> > My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with > > every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> > Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of > > people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> > Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
> > then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and
> > prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> > With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god

> > (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption
> > or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully > > hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our > > oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of > > our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or > > physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER > > UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe
> > the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> > So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made > > Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, > > join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen > > today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or > > oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's > > evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the
> > "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!
> > Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is > > reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on > > Afrigypt in 391 AD.
> >
> > I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is > > ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the > > Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I
> > think happened:
> > In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading
> > the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the > > problems with the warring Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold > > sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy
> > environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest > > nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists â□" the followers of the > > displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus,
> > the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian > > mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see > > this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, > > arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This > > still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions..
> > Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost > > literally.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
> > >
> > >
> > >

> > > --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ Greetings again,
> > >
ÿ□ÿ Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated > > > Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> > > of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Storyÿ□ÿ (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > > > Role in it Also.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> > > for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhaiÿ□ÿ , ÿ□ÿ The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > > > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!

> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> > > I will end here.
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> > > P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> > > http://www.amazon com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > MLP.,
> > > Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
> > >
> > >
> > > From: pharoahisrael
> > > Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > > To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> > > Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
> > >
> > >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> > >
> > > Here's my 2 cents worth.
> > > I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response.ÿ□ÿ If I must I will have to accept it.ÿ□ÿ However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization.ÿ□ÿ One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world.ÿ□ÿ And power holds ultimate power ÿ¢â□¬" it holds all the important cards.ÿ□ÿ The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true.ÿ□ÿ It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too.ÿ□ÿ I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means.ÿ□ÿ However, given the sway that power > holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us
> > and replace themselves
> > > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white.ÿ□ÿ And we had to be reduced to chattel in order toÿ□ÿ justify such treatment.
> > > It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> > > I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups.ÿ□ÿ This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen.ÿ□ÿ They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof.ÿ□ÿ People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway.ÿ□ÿ Could it be that he is stupid?ÿ□ÿ Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around.ÿ□ÿ But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here.ÿ□ÿ This is like "1+1=2".ÿ□ÿ It doesn't require a lot of smarts.ÿ□ÿ Even he has that much.ÿ□ÿ But he opposed it.ÿ□ÿ So there has to be something else.ÿ□ÿ I watched his > body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood

> > when he "acquired" his
> > > fame.ÿ□ÿ I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you ÿ¢â□¬" a black man.ÿ□ÿ You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place.ÿ□ÿ You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> > > We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break ÿ¢â□¬" the most in history.ÿ□ÿ Is their some logic somewhere there?
> > > There is 26% - I believe ÿ¢â□¬" who blame Obama for the current economic crisis!ÿ□ÿ This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness.ÿ□ÿ Is their some logic there?ÿ□ÿ I don't think so.ÿ□ÿ Then what is the weird problem here?ÿ□ÿ I think it is the color of the President.ÿ□ÿ I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US.ÿ□ÿ It is that simple and that stupid ÿ¢â□¬" no need to look for logic.ÿ□ÿ There is none.ÿ□ÿ They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> > > Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power.ÿ□ÿ I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe.ÿ□ÿ It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage.ÿ□ÿ There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this.ÿ□ÿ We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years.ÿ□ÿ So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world.ÿ□ÿ It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence.ÿ□ÿ
> It was about THEIR truth (what they
> > decided was to
> > > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie.ÿ□ÿ And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> > > So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc.ÿ□ÿ it is not important to them.ÿ□ÿ What is important to them is that they be superior ÿ¢â□¬" on top.ÿ□ÿ The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> > > The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat).ÿ□ÿ But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance

have no place.ÿ□ÿ It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> > > With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy.ÿ□ÿ Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine.ÿ□ÿ However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets".ÿ□ÿ Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society.ÿ□ÿ Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand.ÿ□ÿ Of course, there is some truth to that.ÿ□ÿ As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them ÿ¢â□¬" not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use.ÿ□ÿ
> Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't > > need to have a
> > > certain level of power.
> > > Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance.ÿ□ÿ How do you achieve it?
> > > Sorry, to go on so long.
> > > HTP,
> > > Mahari
> > >
> > >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Hi group!
> > > > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > > > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > > > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > > > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded.ÿ□ÿ Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion!ÿ□ÿ How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized.ÿ□ÿ But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God?ÿ□ÿ As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society.ÿ□ÿ I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly > servant in Egypt was a
> > "happy" and well
> > > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc.ÿ□ÿ To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > > > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today?ÿ□ÿ I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff.ÿ□ÿ I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich.ÿ□ÿ On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this.ÿ□ÿ The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to > never connect how > > Christianity was

> > > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > > > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > > > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> > > >
> > > > ABC
> > > >
> > >
> > > --- End forwarded message ---
> > >
> >
>
| 28617|2009-04-16 12:11:23|Asar Imhotep|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
It's one thing to say that a perspective you hold is that of your own conviction. But we're not talking about one man's conviction. We are discussing a world-view which is the paradigm of cultures. When we say African in academic discourse, we understand full well that all principles do not apply to all people we classify under the rubrics of African.

We however recognize a spirit and practice that undergirds the soul of African cultures. The vast majority of African nations and cultural groups have a "cult" of ancestors. Not all Africans do. The Massai are a prime example of an African people without an ancestral cult awithcult practices and rituals.

The conviction is that if a given collection of communities exhibit a certain cultural trait, irrespective of distance within a given geographical space, then we connect these peoples based on these habits. This is at the heart of the Diopian theory of northern and southern cradle cultural traits. He can discuss a "southern" cultural trait among Africans because the vast majority of African cultures display the traits he discusses in his respective works.

This is the same process involved here with the concept of an "after life." The philosophy in which I have articulated in previous emails can be seen among the vast majority of African cultures who still adhere to their ancestral cultural milieu. This is attested to when one examines the creative motifs in reference to the their cosmological world view.

Again, this is a discussion of cultures, not an individual conviction. This is not saying any other nation is wrong in their thinking if they don't adhere to this particular philosophy. If you had a personal experience that says reality is not how others have said it is, that's fine. You are entitled to your beliefs. What you cannot do is say that the way you as an individual interprets a phenomenon is shared by the greater African world view. You would have to demonstrate that the way you see it can be seen across the thousands of cultures across the continent.

And as a person who has not only studied based on my own researches into nature, sat at the feet for learning with many master teachers from the continent and beyond, and who has read a vast library of material on African cultures (by African and other ethnic sources), I can say definitively that the way in which you describe the "after life" does not accurately convey the concept in an "African" world-view of the continuum of life.

The concept of an After Life, the way Christians and Anthropologist suggest, describes not a reincarnation of lives, but of a single life in this world, with hopes of an eternal life when one dies.

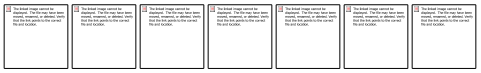
The African however has a different concept of this. For one, you are already eternal. You exist because the Creator exist. For the African, we don't worry about the after life so much as we are concerned with our "before life." Our "before life" tells us why we are here in this life and what mission we are to carry out in this world during this carnation. We have a saying across many cultural lines that, "Heaven is our home, and Earth is the market place."

You go "home" to get your next assignment. Why do you think Africans do divinations when a child is to be born to discover what the child's purpose is? This is rooted in the belief that the soul of the child exists prior to entry into this world and that that soul was given a mission by a "grand council of elders" on the "other side" to carry out here. This is why they chose a name that is supposed to remind the child of his/her purpose. Initiation is a process to help a young person remember why they came here and what gifts they possess so they can perfect those gifts and utilize them effectively in the community.

This is found everywhere on the continent and you can probably count with two hands the number of indigenous cultures that historically did not possess this world-view.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE



BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 1:23 PM

what many africans call dying in this world is a transition to a world of ancestors to be jud and enlightened and allowed to return (if necessary) to planet earth along a particular histc course.....
we see, our ancestors returning to us as our children..
Iam a African, born here in america returned to my ancestoral path in touch with many an in the neter-world and in this life.
I have personally not thru other peoples books,, seen and conversed with departed africans trance and dream states and have had my insperience' s affirmed through de'javou prophes
I know this through experience.
what you and your mentor say in your books is ya'll's interpretation and other african have different interpretations, .
my person has spoke with many africans of the continent and also the caribbean and bahar simply because several hundred or even several million africans see a thing one way does mean that another nation or group is wrong for seeing things differently in the detailsor se things differently altogether.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28618|2009-04-16 12:12:34|Asar Imhotep|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 1|
I understand your wanting to find references by African scholars on human origins. But what seems to be lacking from your responses is the seeking of truth. I don't care what color the scientist. All that matters is that the data and method of analysis is correct and well informed. Truth is not any brighter because a Black man said it. Truth is no respecter of person. And the more we focus on the skin color of the person telling the truth, the more clouded our judgment.

Just because it is African doesn't make it true. There are some African systems that believe that man was created as separate racial entities. This is before any European infiltration. Does this make them correct because they are African and have an African-Centered world view? Their analysis, just like any other human being, is subject to scrutiny.

As I stated before, those principles of science I quoted earlier are all African rules of engagement. I will prove it with the following:

From Peter Sturrock's guidlines quoted previously:

> (1) In studying any phenomenon, face up to the strongest evidence you can find, even if it is in conflict with current orthodoxies.
>
> (2) Go to the original sources for your data. Do not trust secondary sources.
>
> (3) Deal with "degrees of belief", which can be conveniently characterized by probabilities. It is important to avoid assigning probability P=0 (complete disbelief) or P=1 (complete certainty) to any proposition since, if you adopt either of these values, that value can never be changed no matter how much evidence you subsequently receive.
>
> (4) Focus on evidence and testing.
>
> (5) Subdivide the work into categories so different people take on different tasks.
>
> (6) Where possible work in teams; first because a combination of expertise may be required, and secondly, because a team is more likely to be self-correcting than someone working alone.
>
> (7) In theoretical analyses, list all assumptions. This seems a simple, innocuous request, yet it will not always be easy to put into effect.

African proverbs that address each of the guidelines.

> (1) Have the wisdom to abandon the values of a time that has passed and pick out the constituents of the future. An environment must be suited to the age and men to their environment. (THIS CAN ONLY HAPPEN AS THE RESULT OF NEW TESTS THAT MAKE THE OLD IDEAS OBSOLETE)
>
> (2) Judge by cause, not by effect. (THE ONLY WAY YOU CAN DO THIS IS BY DEALING WITH PRIMARY INFORMATION, WHETHER IN DOCUMENTS OR IN NATURE). A Kenyan proverb states: Seeing is different from being told. (AGAIN, PRIMARY VERSUS SECONDARY SOURCES ARE ALWAYS BETTER).
>
> (3) I can't find a proverb that directly matches this statement. But proverb number 7 implies this point. One cannot operate as if they have absolute knowledge on anything because new information is always being revealed in the proverb which states, "The know all knows nothing."
>
> (4) There are two kinds of error: blind credulity and piecemeal criticism. Never believe a word without putting its truth to the test; discernment does not grow in laziness; and this faculty of discernment is indispensable to the Seeker. Sound skepticism is the necessary condition for good discernment; but piecemeal criticism is an error.
>
> (5) (SEE NUMBER 6 - 6 IMPLIES 5) / but this is an addition: one lantern cannot light two houses (see Kajangu pg 28).
>
> (6) The intelligence of one alone is a shallow well that soon dries up. The intelligence of community outshines the intelligence of a single person. Intelligence is a flower that grows in the neighbors garden. (LUBA AND MINA PROVERBS)
>
> (7) Routine and prejudice distort vision. Each man thinks his own horizon is the limit of the world (WHY ONE MUST MAKE KNOWN ONE'S OWN PREJUDICE/ASSUMPTIONS)

Egyptian proverb concerning method: In every vital activity it is the path that matters.

A west African proverb states

> Only a knife knows what the inside of a coco-yam looks like. (Those who investigate and research something understand the subject.)

When we truly understand that the sciences and the methods of science didn't come from "The white man," then we can't make claims that things like Evolution is "the white man's perspective." It is the result of an African way of knowing: through observation, experimentation and record keeping. Plain and simple.

Egyptian Proverbs
http://www.duboislc.org/html/Proverbs.html

Other proverbs
Kykosa Kajangu - Wisdom Poetry (2006)

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28619|2009-04-16 12:28:46|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
i am speaking about a general stereotype,,, a thread of concensus that runs thru many african cultures;.
as stated before my person did not bring up christianity.....

christian dont hold key and lock on a term....
My person has no names ;, I even I was before the first, my mother knows not my name ...
i did not bring up what anthropologist and christian say, my person could care less!.

why? ask me about divination and assignments when thats what my person stated in saying we come back here on planet earth to finish what we assigned by the ancestors.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 2:03 PM

It's one thing to say that a perspective you hold is that of your own conviction. But we're n talking about one man's conviction. We are discussing a world-view which is the paradign cultures. When we say African in academic discourse, we understand full well that all prir do not apply to all people we classify under the rubrics of African.

We however recognize a spirit and practice that undergirds the soul of African cultures. Tl majority of African nations and cultural groups have a "cult" of ancestors. Not all Africans
The Massai are a prime example of an African people without an ancestral cult awithcult practices and rituals.

The conviction is that if a given collection of communities exhibit a certain cultural trait, irrespective of distance within a given geographical space, then we connect these peoples on these habits. This is at the heart of the Diopian theory of northern and southern cradle c traits. He can discuss a "southern" cultural trait among Africans because the vast majority African cultures display the traits he discusses in his respective works.

This is the same process involved here with the concept of an "after life." The philosophy which I have articulated in previous emails can be seen among the vast majority of Africa cultures who still adhere to their ancestral cultural milieu. This is attested to when one exa the creative motifs in reference to the their cosmological world view.

Again, this is a discussion of cultures, not an individual conviction. This is not saying any nation is wrong in their thinking if they don't adhere to this particular philosophy. If you h personal experience that says reality is not how others have said it is, that's fine. You are e to your beliefs. What you cannot do is say that the way you as an individual interprets a phenomenon is shared by the greater African world view. You would have to demonstrate the way you see it can be seen across the thousands of cultures across the continent.

And as a person who has not only studied based on my own researches into nature, sat at t for learning with many master teachers from the continent and beyond, and who has read a vast library of material on African cultures (by African and other ethnic sources), I can say definitively that the way in which you describe the "after life" does not accurately convey the concept in an "African" world-view of the continuum of life.

The concept of an After Life, the way Christians and Anthropologist suggest, describes not a reincarnation of lives, but of a single life in this world, with hopes of an eternal life when one dies.

The African however has a different concept of this. For one, you are already eternal. You exist because the Creator exist. For the African, we don't worry about the after life so much as we are concerned with our "before life." Our "before life" tells us why we are here in this life and what mission we are to carry out in this world during this carnation. We have a saying across many cultural lines that, "Heaven is our home, and Earth is the market place."

You go "home" to get your next assignment. Why do you think Africans do divinations when a child is to be born to discover what the child's purpose is? This is rooted in the belief that the soul of the child exists prior to entry into this world and that that soul was given a mission by a "grand council of elders" on the "other side" to carry out here. This is why they chose a name that is supposed to remind the child of his/her purpose. Initiation is a process to help a young person remember why they came here and what gifts they possess so they can perfect those gifts and utilize them effectively in the community.

This is found everywhere on the continent and you can probably count with two hands the number of indigenous cultures that historically did not possess this world-view.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 1:23 PM

what many africans call dying in this world is a transition to a world of ancestors to be judged and enlightened and allowed to return (if necessary) to planet earth along a particular historical course.....
we see, our ancestors returning to us as our children..
Iam a African, born here in america returned to my ancestoral path in touch with many ancestors in the neter-world and in this life.
I have personally not thru other peoples books,, seen and conversed with departed africans in trance and dream states and have had my insperience' s affirmed through de'javou prophesy.... ..
I know this through experience.
what you and your mentor say in your books is ya'll's interpretation and other african have different interpretations, .

my person has spoke with many africans of the continent and also the caribbean and bahamas. simply because several hundred or even several million africans see a thing one way does not mean that another nation or group is wrong for seeing things differently in the detailsor seeing things differently altogether.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28620|2009-04-16 13:52:02|Mahari Mengistu|Herbs added to 5,100-year-old Egyptian wine|
Where can I get some? Does it make you crazy - crazier?
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Alex van Deelen" wrote:
>
> Blue Lotus flowers are often added to wine.
>
> They work as an aphrodisiac (especially on women) and
> are a general euphoriant.
>
> Just so everyone knows.
>
> Alex
>
| 28621|2009-04-16 13:52:48|Mahari Mengistu|Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question|

>>The bottom line I guess is sometimes you look for the "replacement" and sometimes it's like it takes so much effort to find that "replacement" that you wonder if you really need a replacement or maybe truth "setting one free" means getting used to how BIG freedom is?<<

Yes, freedom entails a huge responsibility ? to yourself and your fellowman/woman.
That means also that you are FREE to search for yourself and make YOUR OWN decisions about life and your life in particular.

>>The Mysteries are for initiates and what is an initiate is that like a priest? <<

I suspect Asar can speak better to this than I from an historical perspective. My perspective is that I am a FREE human being created by the Creator/Creatress so it is all up to me to make peace with Her/Him and myself.

>>but if you are a "layman" what is his option a layman?<<

Same as above.

>>is that like a historian perhaps just having the knowlege but none of the spirituality? <<

For me it is all spiritual. This very moment as you read this is a spiritual experience. We, it, is all spiritual matter ? ever changing, ever flowing hither, dither and yond ? no need to fear. She has you covered.

>>SO our journey from Christianity leaves us not knowing who the real saviour is it Heru?<<

I think it is important to GET BEYOND the idea of a Savior. You are your Savior. This is not to divorce one from the spirit, the Omnipotent, Ever present, and Unknowable One. It is to say that IT is in you, is you, passes through you, expresses Himself in you, and empowers you. And therefore, what more do you need than confidence and faith in that power to be your own Savior?

>>Is it the Jesus story but just with differing names of the characters?<<

Personally, I think the Jesus/Christ concept developed within the 18th Dynasty and emanated from the life of King Twat-ankhw-amun. That's just my position.
In addition, I believe that the Christ spirit is more than a "man" but is, in fact, the KRS (Christ) spirit which exists in all of us. It is the spirit of the ever renewing, ever re-birthing child ? "ye must be as a child" ? or something to that effect in the bible. It is a spirit that is loving, generous, forgiving and self-sacrificing. It does or has existed in all of us and will return again and again. So, in fact, the value of the concept's substance does not rely on or is restricted to any group or race.

>>If so then is the Jesus story such a lie?<<

Well, I think the one in the bible is. It doesn't seem to fit historically. There has been no evidence of Jesus' existence at that time or any historical account of him from historians of his time. If he caused such a commotion don't you think that the historians of his time would have written about it?
Also, the concept of "the Jesus" was set in place by the Roman King Constantine, a vile, evil and imperialist figure who called the Council Nicea in 325 AD and forced the priests to determine who and what was the "Jesus". That ALONE makes the whole thing very suspect. You can look this event up on the internet. It is quite interesting. And more interesting still is that the Afrakan priests opposed the concept that was being formulated.

>>Will changing Jesus's color help patch up the lie or is calling him Jesus a bigger offence?<<

Well, I don't know. I think the best thing is to think of the Afrakan/you as a great and wonderful human being. And perhaps, forget about the "Savior" coming and work to free yourself and your people. And study your history and its religious philosophy which seems more intelligent and scientific than the others. This old bearded white man running around the world looking after 4 billion people individually, the majority of which BTW, he discriminates against and condemns (imagine that he creates them so he can discriminate against them and condemn them-am I missing something here?), just does not cut it for me.

HTP,
Mahari
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, yoheyman2000@... wrote:
>
>
> I agree Mahari this is serious and I held to that when I prayed to who for practical purposes I will call "The Almighty God" after years of (Christian) Bible study, and asked the something to the effect of:
>
> Dear God why should I as a Black man be SO despised as to be made to see the same man who enslaved me and despises me to this very day as the likeness of my Lord and saviour as well?
> Or why would you have it that I trust the religion of the same man who has shown nothing but hatred toward me?
> Why must it be that I should trust anything, no less his salvation plan, that he says or offers to me, how can this be?
>
> From there I discovered "The Nuwaubians" somewhere in there associated with Malidoma Some & his Dagara/Dogon teachings and from there I can't say exactly where I am but it has left me feeling that I don't know that I am a "joiner" and with Jesus dominating the "age"
> The bottom line I guess is sometimes you look for the "replacement" and sometimes it's like it takes so much effort to find that "replacement" that you wonder if you really need a replacement or maybe truth "setting one free" means getting used to how BIG freedom is?
> The Mysteries are for initiates and what is an initiate is that like a priest? but if you are a "layman" what is his option a layman? is that like a historian perhaps just having the knowlege but none of the spirituality? SO our journey from Christianity leaves us not knowing who the real saviour is it Heru?
> Is it the Jesus story but just with differing names of the characters?
> If so then is the Jesus story such a lie?
> Will changing Jesus's color help patch up the lie or is calling him Jesus a bigger offence?
>
> -- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 8:04 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I think you are a little off focus. The issue at hand has less to do with astronomical symbols and representation than it does with who is personified by these symbols and representations.

> To demonstrate in blunt images let's say that the origins of this "Jesus" was of the black race and a later group - say caucasian- comes along and says and represents this black man as a white man thus directing the line of "history", civilization and culture to the white race. Would you not consider this a SERIOUS problem and a lie particularly if this group had enslaved, degraded, minimized their worth and accomplishments and murdered his progeny in great numbers?
> As I understand it this is the thrust of the discussion and not astrological symbolism. Not that it is not interesting. In fact, it could have historical significance upon closer examination. But that is not the issue at hand..
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, anthony clements wrote:
> >
> > I am enjoying the exchanges and I just hope to get more understanding.
> > The Mysteries are demonized because it is part of the push to level the acomplishments of the Afrakan in the world! There was a notion that was asserted in Zeitgeist The Movie which I though was profound:
> > The notion was something to the effect of; each age has a reigning "savior" the current age is the age of Pisces hence fish are often used as representations of Jesus or Christianity thus we are in the age of Christianity. Before Jesus the savior was represented by a bull (Taurus) hence the worshiping of the Golden Calf in the previous age. The next age is that of Aquarius and even Jesus points to this when he tells desciples, when they ask when or how will they find him, follow the man bearing the pitcher of water, the symbol and the saviour of the age of Aquarius.
> > This idea though it does take blame away from the Caucasian alone seems to have a wider range of view but one that I would think agrees with some tenets of the Mysteries ?
> > --- On Tue, 4/14/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> >
> >
> > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Date: Tuesday, April 14, 2009, 4:09 PM
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > ADVERTISEMENT
> >
> > >>they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The > > Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other
> > Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not > > even try to explain what but I wish that I knew. <<

> >
> > Hi, Bro. Lamar,
> > My belief is that WHAT THEY LEARNED is that we are a doggedly religious people. And > > they have used that to undermine us. That is my theory but it seems to fit in with > > every respect of Afrakan/world history.
> > Herodotus observed in 500 BC that the "Ethiopians are the most religious of > > people". He further added that they are "blameless".
> > Have they not taken all of our religions and co-opted them and poisoned them;
> > then fed it back to us after conquest subsequently making us slaves and
> > prisoners to "their religion" which was once ours in a more non-toxic state?
> > With regard to Christianity: How can we, a black people, worship a white god
> > (and that is the case), a white Christ, and not be a slave to THEIR redemption > > or THEIR judgment? And how can we, a black people, accurately resist and fully > > hate (as bad as hating is, sometimes it is appropriate) our oppressor when our > > oppressor -no question- is SUPPOSED to be our Savior or, at least, the people of > > our Savior? I just don't think that it is possible to psychologically or > > physically free yourself under these circumstances. And WE SHOULD NEVER > > UNDERESTIMATE THE POWER OF SOCIALIZATION AND THE POWER OF RELIGION. I believe
> > the only thing more powerful is sex. And it even takes part in that!
> > So basically what Constantine did when he became a "Christian" and made > > Christianity the national religion of Rome was to decide "if you can't beat `em, > > join `em". Consequently, what followed was Christian obedience and loyalty while he > > RE-formed the "religion" as he preferred it to be. This power can be seen > > today: when anyone says "I am a Christian", they can speak any kind of hatred or > > oppression and those listening become awestruck and obedient to the speaker's > > evil. A case in point is the horrible "Reverend" Pat Robertson of the
> > "Christian" Broadcasting Co., who called for the assassination of Hugo Chavez!
> > Unbelievable! But he is still there and apparently held in high esteem which is > > reminiscent of that horrible event I posted about the early Christians attack on > > Afrigypt in 391 AD.
> >
> > I think some people might think the concept of "jews" becoming white is > > ridiculous. So just to fill in what I think subsequently occurred with the > > Afrakan Atenism>Judaism religion becoming white in a nutshell is what I
> > think happened:
> > In Far East Afraka (ME) the mountain people were quickly and violently invading
> > the area. From the 18th Dynasty there are numerous Aigyptian records of the > > problems with the warring Asiatics at the time. As you know, symbols of power hold > > sway. What could hold more power and influence in an ignorant, greedy
> > environment than a person/people connected to the most powerful and richest > > nation in the world? That would have been the Atenists â□" the followers of the > > displaced pharaoh of Aigypt and perhaps, the displaced pharaoh himself. Thus,
> > the power (riches) and influence of the Atenists attracted the Caucasian > > mountain barbarians and many became followers. And as time went on -and we see > > this happen even at this very moment- the whites took over through racism, > > arrogance and discrimination to the extent that it ALL became theirs. This > > still happens today within the realms of our black culture and inventions..

> > Whites co-opt them and for all practical purposes they ALL become THEIRS- almost > > literally.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Lamar Perryman wrote:
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > --- On Mon, 4/13/09, pharoahisrael wrote:
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ Greetings again,
> > >
ÿ□ÿ Bro. Mahari. This is in response to your answer about a conspiracy theory regarding Moorish/Black/ African Peoples . Brother I am no Collegiate Educated > > > Scholar with Letters but from my own researches I would like to add something to the Truths that you are saying. This is also in response to your Statement about Judaism having arisen from Egypt which I agree (Atenism to be Exact.!).
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ Brother, we have gotten a real, real swindle with world history and African History from the Euro-Caucasians and almost everyone else including our own. The Most Important Period
> > > of Time for Our First Consideration here in The West is That of The Middle Kindom to New Kingdom Period in which is THE HYKSOS ERA.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ I now know that this era was NOT a Fight of Africans/Blacks against any Foreign Racial Powers such as Indian, Oriental and Caucasians but a Fight Of Africans against Africans.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ Native Africans as well as Afro-Asiatics. ! This Era which comes down to us as The Famous Moses Against The Pharoahs of Egypt Storyÿ□ÿ (Whoever Moses Was He Was Definitely One Too.!) . This was Essentially a Fight Of The Canaanite Empire against The Egyptian-Sumerian Empire and The Nubians and The Indus Kush Valley Peoples played a > > > Role in it Also.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ From this Time down to The Time of Hannibal The Moor, The Great and The Battles with The Roman Empire should be a Classic Study Era for Us.
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ My point is that when The Indian, Oriental, and Particularly The Caucasian Foreigners began Colonization/ Imperialism this is The Period that they Payed Especial Attention too
> > > for they LEARNED a lot about Black Africans/Black Asians of All Types both The Technologically Advanced Ones and The Many, Many Indigenous Groups. In other Words They LEARNED something FUNDAMENTAL about us as a whole which I will not even try to explain what but I wish that I knew.ÿ□ÿ

> > > ÿ□ÿ The proof of this is that Indigenous Groups from The Dravidians, Dalits, Tamils and Australians to The SZulus of South Africa, The Igbo and Yoruba of West Africa's Ghana, Mali, Songhaiÿ□ÿ , ÿ□ÿ The Kongo's of Central Africa and The Olmec's and Indigenous Moors of The Early Americas all fell before Imperialism and Colonialism in less time than it took to create those National and Tribal Empires.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ Coupled with this is the fact that all Black Peoples are Not the Same and if Not for Imperialism/ Racism/Coloniali sm The African Union Dream would still be just that. A Dream but not a concrete thought. The Black Peoples of Africa and Asia never saw themselves as United BUT they Mastered The Art of How To Live Together In Peace with each other in their Tribes, Ethnic Groups and Nations for Long, Long, Long Periods of Time.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ Racial Teachers among us today will say different but this is The Total Truth. Since this subject covers so many elements, Old and New, I will end by just saying that The Most Successful Imperialists/ Colonialists have been The Indian Arabs and Euro-Caucasians thus far and The Euro-Caucasian the most successful of these two. GRANTED, The Euro-Caucasians themselves have had to rise to some forms of Learning and Science in order to > > > apply their Methodology to us but we can see that they are steadily rolling along.!
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ Because of All that a Empire entails such as Science, Psychology, Mechanics, Politics, Education (or Indoctrination), Religion (s), Gender, Economics, Land Resources, etc
> > > I will end here.
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ As for Secret Societies See The African Origins Of Free-Masonry by, Hon. GM. Zachary
> > > P. Gremillion-El, 90 at :
> > > http://www.amazon com/exec/ obidos/ASIN/ 1420824473/ ref=nosim/ magic4-20# reader
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > > MLP.,
> > > Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
> > >
> > >
> > > From: pharoahisrael
> > > Subject: Fwd: Re: Egyptian Mysteries Question
> > > To: pharoahisrael@ ...
> > > Date: Monday, April 13, 2009, 8:44 PM
> > >
> > >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> > >
> > > Here's my 2 cents worth.
> > > I guess I could be called a Conspiracy Theorist on this response.ÿ□ÿ If I must I will have to accept it.ÿ□ÿ However, from my perspective on HIS-tory it appears that there has been a concerted effort to dismantle the AFRAKAN and his power and influence from ourstory, i.e., the main stage of civilization.ÿ□ÿ One can see why this effort would have been undertaken because it appears that in reality we (and our culture) were in power all over the world.ÿ□ÿ And power holds ultimate power ÿ¢â□¬" it holds all the important cards.ÿ□ÿ The adage "Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely", is fundamentally true.ÿ□ÿ It is reasonable to assume that the power that blacks held in the past was accompanied by some corruption, too.ÿ□ÿ I am certainly not suggesting that the corruption deserved the kind of treatment we have seen in the last 2000 years by any means.ÿ□ÿ However, given the sway that power

> holds it was necessary to snatch it away from us
> > and replace themselves
> > > in this position; thus the gods and culture that were black had to become white.ÿ□ÿ And we had to be reduced to chattel in order toÿ□ÿ justify such treatment.
> > > It then follows that the great Afrakan high culture of Afrigypt and Aigyptian religion which is WHOLLY black Afrakan and wholly undeniable, had to be denigrated.
> > > I think we tend to avoid facing the level and depth of the hatred in the murderous hearts of many within the white or perhaps more accurately the non-black groups.ÿ□ÿ This boundless, illogical hatred can be seen this very day in the attitudes of groups in the Republican ranks who insist that President Obama is not an American citizen.ÿ□ÿ They maintain this position solidly in the face of evidence and proof and more evidence and proof.ÿ□ÿ People like "Joe the Plumber" who would actually benefit more from President Obama's economic plan opposed him and the plan anyway.ÿ□ÿ Could it be that he is stupid?ÿ□ÿ Well, clearly he is not the smartest person around.ÿ□ÿ But you can be minimally smart and see the advantage here.ÿ□ÿ This is like "1+1=2".ÿ□ÿ It doesn't require a lot of smarts.ÿ□ÿ Even he has that much.ÿ□ÿ But he opposed it.ÿ□ÿ So there has to be something else.ÿ□ÿ I watched his > body language when he confronted Barack in his neighborhood
> > when he "acquired" his
> > > fame.ÿ□ÿ I've seen that face before. It was the confrontational face of a racist white man. I've seen it staring at me numerous times - a face that will resist everything that you say not because what you say has no merit but because what is said comes from you ÿ¢â□¬" a black man.ÿ□ÿ You look into their eyes and you don't see mental processing taking place.ÿ□ÿ You see only resistance and angry almost violent emotional conflict.
> > > We have these so-called "Tea Party" demonstrations in spots around the country supposedly opposing the President's economic plan due to taxes even though 95% of Americans will get a tax break ÿ¢â□¬" the most in history.ÿ□ÿ Is their some logic somewhere there?
> > > There is 26% - I believe ÿ¢â□¬" who blame Obama for the current economic crisis!ÿ□ÿ This crisis clearly began during the Bush administration through its complete predatory ineptness.ÿ□ÿ Is their some logic there?ÿ□ÿ I don't think so.ÿ□ÿ Then what is the weird problem here?ÿ□ÿ I think it is the color of the President.ÿ□ÿ I think by their racist standards he should not be President of the US.ÿ□ÿ It is that simple and that stupid ÿ¢â□¬" no need to look for logic.ÿ□ÿ There is none.ÿ□ÿ They don't need it really if a lie with a spin will work.
> > > Thus when Rome took charge of Afraka, Afigypt (the epicenter of high Afrakan civilization) and Far East Afraka (Middle East) they begin the dismantlement of the black Afrakan/the black image's influence and power.ÿ□ÿ I believe that is why we base historical time and emergence of the white Jesus within this timeframe.ÿ□ÿ It signals the time period when the European took control of the world stage.ÿ□ÿ There is no way - given the information readily available to them including ancient historians who have written that Afrigypt's culture and its people were black - that they could not have known this.ÿ□ÿ We, Afrocentrics, who have been shut out from primary research and direct observation from the beginning have been able to deduce this for the last 200 years.ÿ□ÿ So they just simply decided that this is what they wanted to present to the world.ÿ□ÿ It had nothing to do with truth or logic regarding the evidence.ÿ□ÿ

> It was about THEIR truth (what they
> > decided was to
> > > be the "truth") and the logic of what they felt would be the benefits of the Great Racist Lie.ÿ□ÿ And one must admit that the logic has worked very well for them.
> > > So it is important to stop being confused and in wonderment of why would "they" do this when the evidence suggests that, etc., etc.ÿ□ÿ it is not important to them.ÿ□ÿ What is important to them is that they be superior ÿ¢â□¬" on top.ÿ□ÿ The response is totally animalistic and they use the human capacity to lie to support its "truth".
> > > The Afrakan culture has stressed for thousands upon thousands of years truth, justice, and balance as is expressed in another symbols "they" took from Aigypt, the scales (Maat).ÿ□ÿ But we must settle into accepting that within a wholly predatory culture truth, justice and balance have no place.ÿ□ÿ It becomes important only when it affects "ME".
> > > With regard to the missteps of Aigyptian religion I think it could have possessed an inherent weakness in that it seems that there was too much secrecy.ÿ□ÿ Even today in Afraka we have these "secret" societies that supposedly hold insight into the divine.ÿ□ÿ However, as I understand it you must prove yourself worthy in order to acquire these "secrets".ÿ□ÿ Obviously, this limits the number of people who have access to these "truths" and could conceivably limit the benefits to the whole of society.ÿ□ÿ Some of these "secrets" could be damaging to society if they are acquired by the wrong people is another perspective of this stand.ÿ□ÿ Of course, there is some truth to that.ÿ□ÿ As an example, take nuclear weapons: we don't want certain people to have the knowledge of how to make them ÿ¢â□¬" not that we should have them either because it is incredibly hypocritical given our history of weapons use.ÿ□ÿ
> Nonetheless, one can see that certain people don't > > need to have a
> > > certain level of power.
> > > Again, it is the duality of existence, Maat, and balance.ÿ□ÿ How do you achieve it?
> > > Sorry, to go on so long.
> > > HTP,
> > > Mahari
> > >
> > >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Brian" wrote:
> > > >
> > > > Hi group!
> > > > I don't post often as I currently don't have internet service at home but I had a question I hoped to get some feedback on.
> > > > I recently viewed a video entitled Exposing the "Illuminati From Within"
> > > > the speaker's name is Bill Schnoebelen.
> > > > As I watched this video it began to dawn on me how negatively Egytian Religion is truly regarded.ÿ□ÿ Personally it just boggles my mind that a culture that taught the world would be so negatively regarded in terms of it's religion!ÿ□ÿ How can it be that everything that a civilization could aspire to was begged, stolen & borrowed from Egypt yet Egypts religion is highly demonized.ÿ□ÿ But to try and be open minded or something I ask you: As we have seen and are now seeing how a civilization can self destruct much like how Egypt herself eventually did, can it possibly be the case that secret society based religions are for lack of a better term against God?ÿ□ÿ As I watched this video it occured to me could it have been that the glory we know of the Egyptian hierarchy (pardon any misspellings please) was really LIMITED to the higher enchelons of that society.ÿ□ÿ I mean we are sort of promted to believe that even the lowly > servant in Egypt was a

> > "happy" and well
> > > to do servant yet all the glorious trappings seem to have been held in the hands of the Pharoahs etc.ÿ□ÿ To break it down to today wouldn't it be similar to how the rich would like to be regarded here in the USA?
> > > > Or is it possible that the higher ups in Egypt were akin to the higher ups we know of today?ÿ□ÿ I mean The upper upper of today hold very little esteem for the lowly, I think if they had their way they would rather somehow rid society of the poor or middle class and live without the riff-raff.ÿ□ÿ I don't mean to bring insult & I am not expert in Egyptology as I am sure some folk would be very happy to comment on but I question because I just suddenly became aware that perhaps this is why societies fail they become so haughty and only interested in wealth the good like and the more rich.ÿ□ÿ On the other hand I pondered if perhaps Freemasonry WAS really the poor mans answer to the hierarchy he may have been fed up with and because of this created an adulterated poluted version of the mysteries? I hope someone will sort of get where I am going with this.ÿ□ÿ The video and so many other speakers, authors commentators seem to > never connect how > > Christianity was
> > > taked from Egyptian myth and only see this aspectof Egypt as a sort of lost and ironically primitive state that I just wondered perhaps there was an adulterated version of the mysteries created and born of Freemasonry and that is where the disconnect or condemnation happens?
> > > > I want to try and explain my question more but I know this is long enough.. I guess in the Holiday season I am just aware how sad it is that a religion so born of Egypt will never see this fact and instead chooses to right Egyptian mysteries off as even "Satanic"
> > > > It's just really sad how powerful a lie or misinterpretation can be.
> > > >
> > > > ABC
> > > >
> > >
> > > --- End forwarded message ---
> > >
> >
>
| 28622|2009-04-17 10:16:39|Divine Allah|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
Yeah, that's going to be a problem them. Once I have reviewed the material more completely, I will give my analysis.

ShM HTP / Peace.

RH NWTWh NB KK (Divine Ruler Equality Allah)

On Thu, Apr 16, 2009 at 1:58 PM, Asar Imhotep <asar_imhotep@yahoo.com> wrote:

Peace

Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RKS7r-pCpZ4

I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah <allahsnation@gmail.com> wrote:

From: Divine Allah <allahsnation@gmail.com>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM

I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP

On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep <asar_imhotep@ yahoo.com> wrote:

> Peace Phamily
>
> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview
>
> http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm
>
> Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.
>
> | 08/17/07 | The Science Of The Dogan |  |
> |---|---|---|
>
> The Science Of The Dogon
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>

| 28623|2009-04-17 10:16:40|Shu Tefnut|REMINDER, AFRICA / EGYPT / NUBIA: EDUCATIONAL TOUR.|

Africa / Egypt / Nubia Educational Tour.

August 15th, through August 25th, 2009.

Starting at $2379.00 P.P Double Room

Join Us As We Return to the Motherland.

Join us on our annual tour, as we return to the motherland. Lets experience the great works and wonders of our ancestors, who were the builders of the Great Pyramids, Sphinx, and many temples. You will enjoy the historical sites from Nubia to the Giza Plateau. Experience the beginning of world civilization which was influenced by ancient Egypt. Experience Nubia, which is the foundation and beginning of the Nile Valley civilization which is called Ancient Egypt. We will visit the Nubian Museum which boasts the antiquity of Ancient Egypt with artifacts going back 90,000 years. You will witness and see stone pictographs, tools made of metal (copper) and ancient sites, before there was an Egyptian Dynasty. Learn the history of Egypt and come back to the beginning of knowledge with Bro. Heru Bennu Amen Ra. (aka George Bennett M.F.A.) African Art historian, Archeologist Researcher/Lecturer, From Paleolithic (Kush) to (kemet) Egypt.

Day 1: - Departure from USA

Board your international flight to Cairo and begin your journey back in time to Egypt, and Nubia the holy land.

Day 02 - Cairo

Arrival in the Land of the Pharaohs.At Cairo International airport you will be welcomed and assisted through immigration and customs by our representative, then escorted to Hotel.

Day 03: - Cairo, Aswan

After breakfast, you will begin a full day of sight seeing in Cairo which include the Pyrimids, Sphinx, Egyptian Museum,and the bazaar. Camel ride opportunity-overnight in Cairo.

Transfer to Railway Station to board night train to Aswan. Overnight on board.

The Pyramids of Giza:

The only present-day survivors of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, The Pyramids of Giza are among the worlds greatest tourist attractions and never lose their ability to inspire and overwhelm visitors. The largest and oldest of the Pyramids of Giza is that of Cheops (Khufu). The Pyramids of Khafre the Great and Menkaure the Divine may not be as large in size as the Great Pyramid, but they are no less imposing in fascination.

Sphinx

The Sphinx remains a symbol of strength, wisdom and mystery for eons. Partially buried several times over the years by the shifting desert sands, the Sphinx now stands fully exposed with its impressive dimensions visible to all. The body of a lion with the head of a king or god, the Sphinx lines up with the Pyramid of Khafre. After visiting the Pyramids of Giza, proceed to visit the Egyptian Museum.

The Egyptian Museum

The Egyptian Museum was built during the reign of Khedive Abbass Helmi II in 1897, and opened its doors on November 15, 1902. Today, the museum contains the most important collection of Egyptian antiquities in the world. Exhibited are over 120,000 objects from the Pharaonic and Greco-Roman periods, including the celebrated mummies of ancient Egyptian kings and the treasures of King Tutankhamen. After Lunch, drive to Old Cairo, where early Judaism and Christianity flourished in Egypt. Visit the Ben Ezra Synagogue and Saint Sergious Church

Day 04: Aswan, Abu Simbel, Aswan

transferred to your hotel. The next morning

After breakfast you willbe transferred to airport

for your flight to Abu Simbel visit the colossal Temple of Ramses II and the temple of his beloved Queen Nefertari, both temples carved out of a hillside beside the Nile in the 13th century BC. Transfer back to the airport for your flight back to Aswan. Upon arrival you iewill be escorted to your 4D/3N cruise. Accommodation aboard your cruise ship will consist of a cabin with private facilities. In the afternoon, you will be escorted to visit the Nubian Museum, Temple of Philae, and the Broken Obelisk

The Nubian Museum

Located in the city of Aswan, on the eastern bank of the Nile, 899 kilometers south of Cairo. The museum is a three-story building with an outdoor exhibition area. It houses the main finds of the UNESCO salvage campaign carried out at the time of the building of the High Dam, which eventually flooded that whole region. Another major exhibit is a diorama which shows the daily life of Nubian villagers. Dinner & overnight on board.

Day 05 : Aswan - Kom Ombo Edfu

Philae Temple

On a small island in the Nile near Aswan stands the amazing Temple of Isis at Philae. This monument is possibly best known for the international effort which moved it in it's entirety to the island when it's original location was threatened by the change in water level caused by the High Dam. The temple has been completely dismantled and rebuilt to the original orientation on the nearby island of Agilika which rises higher from the water and has been reshaped and landscaped to resemble the original Philae. Sail to Komombo. Visit the temple shared by the two Gods sobek and Haroe

Temple of Kom Ombo:

The temple is actually made up of two temples: that of Sobek and that of Haroeris. In ancient time, crocodiles waded in the river. There are two entrances, two courts, two colonnades, two hypostyle halls and two sanctuaries. There were probably even two sets of priests for the two temples. Despite being badly damaged, the temple is a beautiful sight as one approach from either direction on the river, particularly as sunset nears and the colors change. Overnight in Edfu.

Day 06: Edfu - Esna - Luxor

After breakfast, visit the temple of Horus in Edfu

The Temple of Horus:

Of all the temples of ancient Egypt, the one at Edfu is the most complete and best preserved. The reason is that the temple had been totally submerged under the desert except for the very top of the pylon entrance. A small amount of stone had been removed from the exposed part, but when excavated it was found to be in near perfect condition. Sail to Esna, cross the lock, then sail to Luxor and overnight.

Day 07: Luxor

Disembarkation after breakfast. Cross to the west bank. And visit Valley of the Kings, the Temple of Queen Hatshepsut and the Colossi of Memnon.

Valley of the Kings & Queens:

A vast City of the Dead where magnificent tombs were carved into the desert rocks, decorated richly, and filled with treasures for the afterlife by generations of Pharaohs. You will also see the Valley of the Queens.

Temple of Queen Hatshepsut:

The temple built in El Deir El Bahari on the west bank of the Nile in Luxor by queen

Hatshepsut, who ruled Egypt for almost 20 years. She chose a very well protected location as it is surrounded by the mountains

Colossi of Memnon:

Two large colossal sculptures of Amenhotep III also foundation of tample.

On the way back to the river Nile, your road passes by the famed Colossi of Memnon, known in Ancient Greek times for their haunting voices at dawn. Transfer to the railway station to board your first class sleeping train to Cairo. Overnight on board.

Day 08: Cairo

Upon arrival you will be escorted to Hotel in Cairo. Rest of your day at leisure.

Suggested Tour Visit the pyrimids of Saqqara, and the tombs of Kagemeni and Ptah hotep

Day 09: Day of leisure suggested tour

Old Cairo:

Is so named because it is the oldest part of Cairo, and in fact, predates what is now Cairo. Later, the Romans built a fortress here which we call Babylon. Some of these Roman walls still exist. Later, it became a Christian stronghold, with as many as 20 churches built within an area of one square mile. There are only five remaining from which is the Church of St. Sergius (Abu Serga), which legend has it is built atop one of the sites where the Holy Family rested on their flight from Herod. Overnight at hotel.

Day 10: Sun Departure

After breakfast, transfer to Cairo International Airport for your flight back to the USA.

Great trip.

Contact info: For more details contact Dr. Bennett (347-495-4289) or Egyptian Connections at (800-334-4477)

Itinerary subject to change

Day 1	Depart from JFK
Day 2	Upon arrival to Cairo, you will be met and escorted to your Cairo Hotel - Overnight
Day 3	After your breakfast, you will begin your full day of sight-seeing in Cairo, which will include the Egyptian Museum, Bazaar, Pyramids and Sphinx. Camel ride Opportunity - Transfer to train station for trip to Aswan. Overnight on train
Day 4	Upon arrival, transfer to your Hotel for Check in. Afternoon visit of the Nubian Museum. Overnight in Hotel.
Day 5	After Breakfast, transfer to your deluxe Nile Cruise (Optional Abu Simbel Tour). After Orientation, enjoy your tour to the Temple of Philae, which is dedicated to the goddess Isis. Sail to Kom Ombo
Day 6	Visit the Temple of Kom Ombo, shared by the two Gods Sobek & Haroeris. Sail to Edfu. Upon Arrival to Edfu, visit the Temple of Horus. Sail to Luxor
Day 7	Cross the Nile to visit the Valley of the Kings and Queens, the Temple of Hatshepsut and the Colossi of Memnon. In the afternoon, visit the Temple of Karnack, the largest religious complex in the world, and the Temple of Luxor with its elegant colonnaded hall, Evening Captain's Dinner party Overnight on Board.

Day 8	Disembark, rest of the day at Leisure in Luxor, 7 PM. Transfer to the train station for a trip to Cairo Overnight on train
Day 9	Day Free at leisure.
Day 10	After your breakfast, you will transfer to the airport for your homebound flight

Africa/Egypt Reservation Form

Please print this Form and e-mail, fax to 201-678-0077, or mail to our address:

Name of Traveler:

Name of Companion:

Phone:

Mailing Address:

(Separate forms should be completed in case more than two are joining the trip)

Payment Information: (Please check the appropriate boxes)

Basic Package	$2379.00
Single Supplement	$239.00
Abu Simbel (Optional)	$230.00

All above are per person Total

Reservation and deposits:

A $200.00 per person deposit by check only is required to initiate the booking.

Full amount is requested 45 days prior to departure date.

Full payment is requested for any booking made less than 45 days before departure.

Note: Payments made by check received less than 30 days prior to departure must be certified.

Cancelation and Refunds:

All cancellations should be received in writing.

$75.00 per person administration fees will apply on all cancellations 45 days prior to departure.

20% cancellation fee will apply 44-30 days prior to departure|50% for 29-7days|100% for less than 7 days

No refund for any unused service while on tour.

No refund can be made for intangible items such as hardship, unpleasantness, or the like.

Travel Insurance is strongly recommended, please call & inquire within.

235 Main St. Suite 202
Hackensack, NJ 07601

www.EgyptOnTheWeb.com

| 28624|2009-04-17 10:36:51|Asar Imhotep|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
Why would that be a problem?

Anyway, I will have brother Prince Badara Ndaw on my radio program either next weekend or the weekend after. I will inform the group when that will go down.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
From: Divine Allah
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 3:38 PM

Yeah, that's going to be a problem them. Once I have reviewed the material more completely, I will give my analysis.

ShM HTP / Peace.

RH NWTWh NB KK (Divine Ruler Equality Allah)

On Thu, Apr 16, 2009 at 1:58 PM, Asar Imhotep <asar_imhotep@ yahoo.com> wrote:

Peace

Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Bada Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=RKS7r-pCpZ4

I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the contine relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss my book.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

--- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah <allahsnation@ gmail.com> wrote:
From: Divine Allah <allahsnation@ gmail.com>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM

I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP

On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep <asar_imhotep@ yahoo.com> wrote:

> Peace Phamily
>
> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview

http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm

Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.

08/17/07	The Science Of The Dogan

The Science Of The Dogon

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

| 28625|2009-04-17 12:31:32|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
Did he mean to say "a problem FOR them", maybe?
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> Why would that be a problem?
>
> Anyway, I will have brother Prince Badara Ndaw on my radio program either next weekend or the weekend after. I will inform the group when that will go down.
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimhotep.com
>

>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 3:38 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Yeah, that's going to be a problem them. Once I have reviewed the material more completely, I will give my analysis.
> ShM HTP / Peace.
> RH NWTWh NB KK (Divine Ruler Equality Allah)
>
>
> On Thu, Apr 16, 2009 at 1:58 PM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace
>
> Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
>
> http://www.youtube com/watch? v=RKS7r-pCpZ4
>
> I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.
>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
>
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
>
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP
>
> On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace Phamily
>
> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.
>
>
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview
>
>
>
> http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm
>
>
>
> Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.

>
> 08/17/07
>
> The Science Of The Dogan
>
> The Science Of The Dogon
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Asar
> Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
| 28626|2009-04-17 12:35:21|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
this is not new info: doc ben and richard king ra unnefer amen, speak of this and Dr. king and Dr.Ra Amen speak on how to coordinate numerology also.....

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 4/17/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, April 17, 2009, 2:31 PM

Did he mean to say "a problem FOR them", maybe?
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> Why would that be a problem?
>
> Anyway, I will have brother Prince Badara Ndaw on my radio program either next weekend or the weekend after. I will inform the group when that will go down.
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 3:38 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Yeah, that's going to be a problem them. Once I have reviewed the material more completely, I will give my analysis.
> ShM HTP / Peace.
> RH NWTWh NB KK (Divine Ruler Equality Allah)
>
>
> On Thu, Apr 16, 2009 at 1:58 PM, Asar Imhotep wrote:

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace
>
> Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
>
> http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=RKS7r-pCpZ4
>
> I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.
>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
>
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
>
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP
>
> On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace Phamily
>
> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.

>
>
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview
>
>
>
> http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm
>
>
>
> Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.
>
> 08/17/07
>
> The Science Of The Dogan
>
> The Science Of The Dogon
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Asar
> Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>

| 28627|2009-04-17 13:45:13|Asar Imhotep|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
Can you point me to any specific references of where Ra Unefer, Dr. Ben or Richard Wright talks about this in their works? I am unaware of any material printed by them that discusses the ideographic reading of Mdw Ntr. Dr. Ben is the only one I know who reads Mdw Ntr nouns like this, but he doesn't discuss it in public, nor does he write it in books.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Fri, 4/17/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, April 17, 2009, 2:35 PM

this is not new info: doc ben and richard king ra unnefer amen, speak of this and Dr. king Dr.Ra Amen speak on how to coordinate numerology also.....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 4/17/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, April 17, 2009, 2:31 PM

Did he mean to say "a problem FOR them", maybe?
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> Why would that be a problem?
>
> Anyway, I will have brother Prince Badara Ndaw on my radio program either next weekend or the weekend after. I will inform the group when that will go down.
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 3:38 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
> Yeah, that's going to be a problem them. Once I have reviewed the material more completely, I will give my analysis.
> ShM HTP / Peace.
> RH NWTWh NB KK (Divine Ruler Equality Allah)
>
>
> On Thu, Apr 16, 2009 at 1:58 PM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace
>
> Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
>
> http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=RKS7r-pCpZ4
>
> I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.

>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
>
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
>
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP
>
> On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace Phamily
>
> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.
>
>
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview
>
>
>
> http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm
>
>
>
> Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.
>
> 08/17/07
>
> The Science Of The Dogan
>
> The Science Of The Dogon
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Asar
> Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com

>
>
>
>
>

| 28628|2009-04-17 20:25:27|Radwa|Re: REMINDER, AFRICA / EGYPT / NUBIA: EDUCATIONAL TOUR.|

Hi I am a new member In the group why don't you add the pharaonic village to your tour it's a great educational place for ancient Egyptian with real human beings acting like Pharaonic Egypt exactly here is the link
www.pharaonicvillage.com

From: Shu Tefnut
Sent: Friday, April 17, 2009 1:06 AM
To: afrikanunity_ofharlem@yahoo.com ; HERU BENNU AMEN RA ; Eugene Bennett ; bnyee@googlegroups.com ; dr.garaia@africanidea.org ; friends@templehealing.com ; GatherTheFires@yahoogroups.com ; happilynaturalday@yahoogroups.com ; hndsupport@gmail.com ; luv4self_network@yahoogroups.com ; mwananchi@yahoogroups.com ; NABSE@yahoogroups.com ; nnabakyaala.afrika@gmail.com ; openyourthirdeye@yahoo.com ; smaitawi@yahoogroups.com ; Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com ; thanubian2@yahoo.com ; trueblackness@yahoogroups.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] REMINDER, AFRICA / EGYPT / NUBIA: EDUCATIONAL TOUR.

Africa / Egypt / Nubia Educational Tour.

August 15th, through August 25th, 2009.

Starting at $2379.00 P.P Double Room

Join Us As We Return to the Motherland.

Join us on our annual tour, as we return to the motherland. Lets experience the great works and wonders of our ancestors, who were the builders of the Great Pyramids, Sphinx, and many temples. You will enjoy the historical sites from Nubia to the Giza Plateau. Experience the beginning of world civilization which was influenced by ancient Egypt. Experience Nubia, which is the foundation and beginning of the Nile Valley civilization which is called Ancient Egypt. We will visit the Nubian Museum which boasts the antiquity of Ancient Egypt with artifacts going back 90,000 years. You will witness and see stone pictographs, tools made of metal (copper) and ancient sites, before there was an Egyptian Dynasty. Learn the history of Egypt and come back to the beginning of knowledge with Bro. Heru Bennu Amen Ra. (aka George Bennett M.F.A.) African Art historian, Archeologist Researcher/Lecturer , From Paleolithic (Kush) to (kemet) Egypt.

Day 1: - Departure from USA

Board your international flight to Cairo and begin your journey back in time to Egypt, and Nubia the holy land.

Day 02 - Cairo

Arrival in the Land of the Pharaohs.At Cairo International airport you will be welcomed and assisted through immigration and customs by our representative, then escorted to Hotel.

Day 03: - Cairo, Aswan

After breakfast, you will begin a full day of sight seeing in Cairo which include the Pyrimids, Sphinx, Egyptian Museum,and the bazaar. Camel ride opportunity- overnight in Cairo.

Transfer to Railway Station to board night train to Aswan. Overnight on board.

The Pyramids of Giza:

The only present-day survivors of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, The Pyramids of Giza are among the worlds greatest tourist attractions and never lose their ability to inspire and overwhelm visitors. The largest and oldest of the Pyramids of Giza is that of Cheops (Khufu). The Pyramids of Khafre the Great and Menkaure the Divine may not be as large in size as the Great Pyramid, but they are no less imposing in fascination.

Sphinx

The Sphinx remains a symbol of strength, wisdom and mystery for eons. Partially buried several times over the years by the shifting desert sands, the Sphinx now stands fully exposed with its impressive dimensions visible to all. The body of a lion with the head of a king or god, the Sphinx lines up with the Pyramid of Khafre. After visiting the Pyramids of Giza, proceed to visit the Egyptian Museum.

The Egyptian Museum

The Egyptian Museum was built during the reign of Khedive Abbass Helmi II in 1897, and opened its doors on November 15, 1902. Today, the museum contains the most important collection of Egyptian antiquities in the world. Exhibited are over 120,000 objects from the Pharaonic and Greco-Roman periods, including the celebrated mummies of ancient Egyptian kings and the treasures of King Tutankhamen. After Lunch, drive to Old Cairo, where early Judaism and Christianity flourished in Egypt. Visit the Ben Ezra Synagogue and Saint Sergious Church

Day 04: Aswan, Abu Simbel, Aswan

transferred to your hotel. The next morning

After breakfast you willbe transferred to airport

for your flight to Abu Simbel visit the colossal Temple of Ramses II and the temple of his beloved Queen Nefertari, both temples carved out of a hillside beside the Nile in the 13th century BC. Transfer back to the airport for your flight back to Aswan. Upon arrival you iewill be escorted to your 4D/3N cruise. Accommodation aboard your cruise ship will consist of a cabin with private facilities. In the afternoon, you will be escorted to visit the Nubian Museum, Temple of Philae, and the Broken Obelisk

The Nubian Museum

Located in the city of Aswan, on the eastern bank of the Nile, 899 kilometers south of Cairo. The museum is a three-story building with an outdoor exhibition area. It houses the main finds of the UNESCO salvage campaign carried out at the time of the building of the High Dam, which eventually flooded that whole region. Another major exhibit is a diorama which shows the daily life of Nubian villagers. Dinner & overnight on board.

Day 05 : Aswan - Kom Ombo Edfu

Philae Temple

On a small island in the Nile near Aswan stands the amazing Temple of Isis at Philae. This monument is possibly best known for the international effort which moved it in it's entirety to the island when it's original location was threatened by the change in water level caused by the High Dam. The temple has been completely dismantled and rebuilt to the original orientation on the nearby island of Agilika which rises higher from the water and has been reshaped and landscaped to resemble the original Philae. Sail to Komombo. Visit the temple shared by the two Gods sobek and Haroe

Temple of Kom Ombo:

The temple is actually made up of two temples: that of Sobek and that of Haroeris. In ancient time, crocodiles waded in the river. There are two entrances, two courts, two colonnades, two hypostyle halls and two sanctuaries. There were probably even two sets of priests for the two temples. Despite being badly damaged, the temple is a beautiful sight as one approach from either direction on the river, particularly as sunset nears and the colors change. Overnight in Edfu.

Day 06: Edfu - Esna - Luxor

After breakfast, visit the temple of Horus in Edfu

The Temple of Horus:

Of all the temples of ancient Egypt, the one at Edfu is the most complete and best preserved. The reason is that the temple had been totally submerged under the desert except for the very top of the pylon entrance. A small amount of stone had been removed from the exposed part, but when excavated it was found to be in near perfect condition. Sail to Esna, cross the lock, then sail to Luxor and overnight.

Day 07: Luxor

Disembarkation after breakfast. Cross to the west bank. And visit Valley of the Kings, the Temple of Queen Hatshepsut and the Colossi of Memnon.

Valley of the Kings & Queens:

A vast City of the Dead where magnificent tombs were carved into the desert rocks, decorated richly, and filled with treasures for the afterlife by generations of Pharaohs. You will also see the Valley of the Queens.

Temple of Queen Hatshepsut:

The temple built in El Deir El Bahari on the west bank of the Nile in Luxor by queen

Hatshepsut, who ruled Egypt for almost 20 years. She chose a very well protected location as it is surrounded by the mountains

Colossi of Memnon:

Two large colossal sculptures of Amenhotep III also foundation of tample.

On the way back to the river Nile, your road passes by the famed Colossi of Memnon, known in Ancient Greek times for their haunting voices at dawn. Transfer to the railway station to board your first class sleeping train to Cairo. Overnight on board.

Day 08: Cairo

Upon arrival you will be escorted to Hotel in Cairo. Rest of your day at leisure.

Suggested Tour Visit the pyrimids of Saqqara, and the tombs of Kagemeni and Ptah hotep

Day 09: Day of leisure suggested tour

Old Cairo:

Is so named because it is the oldest part of Cairo, and in fact, predates what is now Cairo. Later, the Romans built a fortress here which we call Babylon. Some of these Roman walls still exist. Later, it became a Christian stronghold, with as many as 20 churches built within an area of one square mile. There are only five remaining from which is the Church of St. Sergius (Abu Serga), which legend has it is built atop one of the sites where the Holy Family rested on their flight from Herod. Overnight at hotel.

Day 10: Sun Departure

After breakfast, transfer to Cairo International Airport for your flight back to the USA.

Great trip.

Contact info: For more details contact Dr. Bennett (347-495-4289) or Egyptian Connections at (800-334-4477)

Itinerary subject to change

Day 1	Depart from JFK
Day 2	Upon arrival to Cairo, you will be met and escorted to your Cairo Hotel - Overnight
Day 3	After your breakfast, you will begin your full day of sight-seeing in Cairo, which will include the Egyptian Museum, Bazaar, Pyramids and Sphinx. Camel ride Opportunity - Transfer to train station for trip to Aswan. Overnight on train
Day 4	Upon arrival, transfer to your Hotel for Check in. Afternoon visit of the Nubian Museum. Overnight in Hotel.
Day 5	After Breakfast, transfer to your deluxe Nile Cruise (Optional Abu Simbel Tour). After Orientation, enjoy your tour to the Temple of Philae, which is dedicated to the goddess Isis. Sail to Kom Ombo
Day 6	Visit the Temple of Kom Ombo, shared by the two Gods Sobek & Haroeris. Sail to Edfu. Upon Arrival to Edfu, visit the Temple of Horus. Sail to Luxor
Day 7	Cross the Nile to visit the Valley of the Kings and Queens, the Temple of Hatshepsut and the Colossi of Memnon. In the afternoon, visit the Temple of Karnack, the largest religious complex in the world, and the Temple of Luxor with its elegant colonnaded hall, Evening Captain's

Dinner party Overnight on Board.

Day 8 Disembark, rest of the day at Leisure in Luxor, 7 PM. Transfer to the train station for a trip to Cairo Overnight on train

Day 9 Day Free at leisure.

Day 10 After your breakfast, you will transfer to the airport for your homebound flight

Africa/Egypt Reservation Form

Please print this Form and e-mail, fax to 201-678-0077, or mail to our address:

Name of Traveler:

Name of Companion:

Phone:

Mailing Address:

(Separate forms should be completed in case more than two are joining the trip)

Payment Information: (Please check the appropriate boxes)

Basic Package	$2379.00
Single Supplement	$239.00
Abu Simbel (Optional)	$230.00

All above are per person Total

Reservation and deposits:

A $200.00 per person deposit by check only is required to initiate the booking.

Full amount is requested 45 days prior to departure date.

Full payment is requested for any booking made less than 45 days before departure.

Note: Payments made by check received less than 30 days prior to departure must be certified.

Cancelation and Refunds:

All cancellations should be received in writing.

$75.00 per person administration fees will apply on all cancellations 45 days prior to departure.

20% cancellation fee will apply 44-30 days prior to departure|50% for 29-7days|100% for less than 7 days

No refund for any unused service while on tour.

No refund can be made for intangible items such as hardship, unpleasantness, or the like.

Travel Insurance is strongly recommended, please call & inquire within.

235 Main St. Suite 202
Hackensack, NJ 07601

www.EgyptOnTheWeb. com

| 28629|2009-04-18 01:11:54|Asar Imhotep|The mysteries and the "secrets" of African secret societies|
(to address the following questions from the Ta-Seti Egyptian Mysteries thread)

>>The Mysteries are for initiates and what is an initiate is that like a priest? << >>but if you are a "layman" what is his option a layman?<<

There has been much discussion about the mysteries, secret societies and initiation lately and I wanted to take the time to briefly add what little I know to this discourse with the intent of helping members of this group understand better African wisdom centers, their methods of wisdom transference, and their visionary ideals.

Before we can address the two questions above, we must first map African ideals in order to guide us successfully on our journey. I do not intend to present pre-Western modes of thought and being as monolithic or as possessing an agreed upon body of traditional theories and concepts. I however cannot recognize familiar spirit that undergirds African centers of wisdom. I will try to do my best to synthesize African traditional modes of thought and being in a manner that preserves the essence of the ideals in which countless African sages have developed over the millennia.

According to African wisdom traditions, life is an unending stream of mysteries that arms itself with dual weapons of life: day and night, summer and winter, male and female, joy and grief. These dual weapons of life are engaged in an eternal quarrel whose unceasing battles will rage until everything flows together into one eternal river.

African sages believe that it is these unceasing battles that are responsible for the one thousand and one challenges that plague human life on earth. To counter these challenges, African sages in various wisdom centers have developed sacred arts as a means to find balance between these dual weapons of life. By mastering these sacred arts, they empower the muntu (human being) to achieve the state of perfection or enlightenment which is the ultimate goal of African sages. By mastering these arts and reaching the state of perfection, man can therefore assume their rightful place as children of the earth and children of the stars.

The mastering of the sacred arts (verbal arts, ecstatic arts, healing arts, and divinatory arts) helps the wisdom seeker to do the following:

1. Unveil lifes mysteries

2. Celebrate lifes beauties

3. Stave off the syndrome of foolishness

While mastering the sacred arts helps us to realize these objectives on our quest of perfection, it also helps us to attempt to solve the most fundamental human problems according to African wisdom centers: the dual hunger which fuels our eternal quest for meaning. The sacred arts assist us in reinforcing the powers of the mind in order to grasp the purpose of life.

Charles Handy, an Irish philosopher quoting an African, claimed that human beings experience two types of hunger: the lesser hunger and the greater hunger. The lesser hunger deals primarily with the needs and wants of life on Earth. Material things can satisfy this hunger. The greater hunger however concerns the meaning of life. This type of hunger can only be satisfied by looking for wisdom.

African wisdom centers (misnomered secret societies) are organizations that guide human beings in the pursuit of wisdom. They are designed to help the human being to know life and provide tools to help stem the tide of its challenges. Wisdom centers, like spiders, create webs that give meaning to all dimensions of existence. Wisdom centers conceive and construct wisdom traditions. Wisdom centers are populated by wisdom seekers who are the brightest minds of the community who provide enlightened leadership and guide others in knowing life and stemming the tide of its challenges. Wisdom centers serve three primary functions:

1. Are schools of enlightened leadership

2. Are schools of lifelong learning

3. Provide strategies to assist human beings in their search for perfection

Teaching and learning are at the heart of wisdom centers. In African centers of wisdom, initiation is the method par excellence for helping an initiate to know life and stem the tide of its challenges. Amadou Hampate Ba informs us of the purpose of initiation:

> The purpose of initiation is to give the psychological person a moral and mental power which conditions and aids the perfect and total realization of the individual.

In the book The Religion, Spirituality and Thought of Traditional Africa, Zahan says:

> Initiation in Africa must be viewed as a slow transformation of the individual, as a progressive passage from exteriority to interiority. It allows the human being to gain consciousness of his humanity. (Zahan 1979:54)

What we call priests are actually the Nganga: the doers, healers, pillars, enlightened of the community who know life to the highest degree and have mastered the use of tools which allow them battle against the syndrome of foolishness. In the Kongo, among the Luba especially, we call these walking pillars bantu basunguluke, which means the most accomplished sages. We also call them the bakoles. These accomplished sages excel only with the help of other sages. This is suggestive on many accounts. Primarily, this suggests that to excel in wisdom, it is recommended that you keep company with other wisdom seekers and share what you know between yourselves and teach other wisdom seekers who follow you. This is peer pressure on the light side of the force.

You will know if you belong to a wisdom center if:

1. The center of wisdom is about unraveling the mysteries of life
2. Explores the physical world in which human beings live
3. And they look for ways and means that enable human beings to achieve perfection

Wisdom centers are primarily about education. Malidoma Some in his book Of Water and the Spirit discusses education in Dagara wisdom centers as such:

> Traditional education consists of three parts: enlargement of ones ability to see, destabilization of the bodys habit of being bound to ones plane of being, and the ability to voyage transdimensionally and return. (Some 1994:226)

Wisdom centers and communities are designed to help fertilize our seeds of greatness. They introduce to us the sacred arts used to help the muntu reach the state of perfection. The state of perfection is embodied by three interrelated concepts:

1. Adversity quotient the will to tower above everything, including the self and the world
2. Imaging quotient the creative ability to perceive the hidden layers of reality
3. And emotional quotient the visionary leadership that is achieved by sages

>>but if you are a "layman" what is his option a layman?<<

As part of your spiritual grand strategy I would suggest that 1) you actively seek a living wisdom tradition that has clear ties to a lineage that has its roots planted in the rich soils of the continent, and 2) do what the sages do: read tons of books on wisdom, practice sacred arts, build a relationship with ones ancestors, sit at the feet of elders, grow a garden, and most importantly, create wisdom poetry.

As a fellow wisdom seeker and poet, I cannot stress how important and valuable wisdom poetry is in the spiritual grand strategy to achieve perfection. Wisdom Poetry is the tool sages use to guide human beings along the path of wisdom. It is the verbal art par excellence that uses proverbs to encode the insights, secrets and teachings of initiations among wisdom traditions.

Wisdom Poetry is not poetry of ones own feelings. It is created by taking African proverbs of similar theme and weaving them together to create a poem. It is a form of deep talk. It is a language of initiation. It is a way to learn how to see the hidden realities of life. To demonstrate how a wisdom poem is constructed, we will use the following African proverbs to create a poem.

> When the moon is not full, the stars shine more brightly. (Buganda)
>
> Rain does not fall on one roof alone. (Cameroon)
>
> If relatives help each other, what evil can hurt them? (Ethiopia)
>
> The leader has ears, he does not have a mouth. (Kongo)
>
> Nations are forests (Kongo)

We would rearrange the proverbs to look something like this:

Nations are forests
Rain does not fall on one roof alone
If relatives help each other, what evil can hurt them
therefore
The leader has ears, he does not have a mouth
When the moon is not full, the stars shine more brightly

All of these proverbs, converted into a wisdom poem, deal with the central theme of community. We can see how each of these respective ethnic groups view the value of community and where the real leadership/power resides. It is these types of lessons that await the wisdom seeker who wishes to learn how to put together wisdom poetry.

All in all, the mystery is finding the joy in the journey on the road to knowing life. The joy is in finding the courage and the tools to stem the tide of lifes challenges: finding cures for the syndrome of foolishness. It is these critical issues wisdom centers seek to address by creating an environment where one can fertilize their seeds of greatness. I hope that you have found this article of value and in our next discussion, we will discuss how the Spiritual Grand Strategy used by African sages to reach the state of perfection (you have already been introduced to one: wisdom poetry).

Asar Imhotep is a philosopher, activist, poet and author of the book Esodus: Internal Reflections and Conversations with the Sun. He is also the founder of the MOCHA-Versity Institute of Philosophy and Research and the Houston Ministry of Culture:

http://www.houstonministryofculture.com

Selected Bibliography

Ba Hampate, Amadou (1972). Aspects de la civilisation africaine: personne, culture, religion. Paris: Pr鳥nce africaine

Fu-Kiau, K. Bunseki (2001). African Cosmology of the Bantu Kongo: Principles of Life and Living. Athelia Henrietta Press

Imhotep, Asar (2008). Esodus: Internal Reflections and Conversations with the SUN. MOCHA-Versity Press

Kajangu, Kykosa (2006). Wisdom Poetry. Blooming Twigs Books

Kajangu, Kykosa (2005). Beyond the Colonial Gaze: Reconstructing African Wisdom Traditions. Unpublished PhD dissertation

Neimark, Philip John (1993). The Way of the Orisa: Empowering Your Life Through the Ancient African Religion of Ifa. Harper Collins

Some, Malidoma (1994). Of Water and the Spirit: Ritual Magic and Initiation In the Life of an African Shaman. Penguin

Zahan, Dominique (1979). The Religion, Spirituality, and Thought of Traditional Africa. University of Chicago Press

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28630|2009-04-18 06:55:23|Obadele (abibitumikasa.com)|Buy 1 Get 1 Free! 3 Hour Intensive Yoruba and Twi Workshops: Yoruba |

Greetings Afrikans!
This is our first time conducting two workshops during the same weekend so we are going to try something new.

If you register and pay for one workshop, you can attend the other at no additional cost. If this weekend proves to be successful, we may make double-workshops per weekend a standard thing. Register before it's too late: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html

What: 3 Hour Intensive Yoruba Workshop: Yoruba Ijapa Folktales: Why Ijapa is used as a sacrifice to Osanyin amongst the Yoruba
Who: You Afrikan!
When: April 18, 2009 @ 6:30PM EST
Where: Abibitumi Kasa Member Classroom
How much: 50 USD
How: Step 1: Register and pay for the workshop at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html http://www.abibitumikasa.com/payment.html (you'll be automatically redirected to this page from the register page)

Step 2: Create an account at free forum at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php then at the time of class click member classroom or on this link: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

To set up audio and video and font for workshop view our instructional videos at:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

Amongst the Yoruba, there is much history and explanations of why the culture is the way that it is in the folktales and stories of the people. In this workshop, we will learn the story of Ijapa and Iya-Elepa and how Ijapa the tortoise came to be a sacrifice for Osanyin, the Orisa of herbs and medicine. Additionally youll receive a document of the story in PDF form at no additional cost. Learn and pass down the stories of your own ancestors and leave cinderella, shrek and harry potter to the children of the whites. Be sure to check out this not to miss workshop and tell a friend, a family member or an entire shrine house to be online this Saturday at 6:30PM at Abibitumi Kasa!
This workshop will cover:
Pronunciation
Reading
Singing
Listening
Speaking
Comprehension
Worldview

Abibitumi Kasa Staff and Family

++

What: 3 Hour Intensive Twi Workshop: Ak?m Songs of the Akan
Who: You Afrikan!
When: April 19, 2009 @ 6:30PM EST
Where: Abibitumi Kasa Member Classroom
How much: 50 USD
How: Step 1: Register and pay for the workshop at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html http://www.abibitumikasa.com/payment.html (you'll be automatically redirected to this page from the register page)

Step 2: Create an account at free forum at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php then at the time of class click member classroom or on this link:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

To set up audio and video and font for workshop view our instructional videos at:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

"?sansa bireku anyane o a eee!" , ?kura sekamma e!, Momfa d?nn? hyia me o, Esi!
Learn what these songs and more mean. It is very important to pronounce the words to Ak?m songs dedicated to the Abosom correctly. In this workshop, we will sing and understand what we are singing for songs dedicated to Abosom and Mmoatia alike. Additionally youll receive a document of how the words to these songs are written. Be sure to check out this not to miss workshop and tell a friend or an entire shrine house to be online this Sunday at 6:30PM at Abibitumi Kasa!
This workshop will cover:
Pronunciation
Reading
Singing
Comprehension
Worldview

Abibitumi Kasa Staff and Family

Live Interactive Online and Accra, Ghana Afrikan Language Classes

Register for Free Afrikan Liberation Institute

Sign Up for AKALI Mailing List

Abibitumi Kasa Fundraiser

| 28631|2009-04-18 10:42:37|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|

I was struck by something Prince Badara said in the video regarding Greek writing. He said Europeans have the translation of Kemetic writing wrong and that it is like Greek. For example A, B, D is not, in fact, pronounced ABC but alpha, beta, delta; thus, NTR, for example, is not N-T-R (neter) but something else presumably.

If this is correct it also explains an issue that has lingered with me for a while concerning Greek writing. It has become more and more evident that Greek has an Afrakan foundation but I always wondered about the writing itself: that if it had an Afrakan basis in language what about the writing? It would seem there would be a connection there, too.

This could be the connection with Afrigyptian writing. In effect, the Greek alphabet is the rudimental equivalent of the Kemetic hieroglyph.

HTP,

Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Asar Imhotep wrote:

> Peace

> Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:

> http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RKS7r-pCpZ4

> I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.

> Asar Imhotep

> http://www.asarimhotep.com

> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP
>
> On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace Phamily
>

> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.
>
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview
>
>
>
> http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm
>
>
> Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.
> 08/17/07
> The Science Of The Dogan
> The Science Of The Dogon
>
>
>
>
>
> Asar
> Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
| 28632|2009-04-18 11:32:05|Mahari Mengistu|Re: The mysteries and the "secrets" of African secret societies|
Thanks, Asar,
>>We would rearrange the proverbs to look something like this:

Nations are forests
Rain does not fall on one roof alone
If relatives help each other, what evil can hurt them
therefore
The leader has ears, he does not have a mouth
When the moon is not full, the stars shine more brightly<<

This is a brilliant practice. I am a strong believer in the power of the word which is why I feel discouraged by a high tendency for our people of the Diaspora to dismiss the huge value of the command of the "language" - whatever the language of the country. I think I understand this tendency. I believe it is a passive aggressive way (not a good approach to anything) of resisting the oppressor by resisting his language,i.e., his dictates. But it is obviously counterproductive because in ANY culture it is the ones who have the greatest command of "the language" who succeed.
But this is great. Through this practice it forces you to think in wise ways and in wise terms. Given the way the mind works it will string together these "wise" thoughts into a greater concept of wisdom leading to an ever expanding wise concept of living and doing!
I can easily see how this practice and worldview could have lead to the evolution of a great culture like that of Afrigypt.
The downside of this practice PERHAPS is will it prepare you to physically save yourself and your people from the "foolishness" of life that will come your way in the form of destroyers and annihilaters?
I remember you brought up this question some time back where you wondered if Afrigypt should have devoted more time and resources in developing tools of warfare. I am ambivalent. On the one hand my human "self" wants the capacity to destroy. But on the other hand my spiritual "self" and philosophy considers the "eternal stream of life" and re-birth thus no death per se and I believe in KARMA. Thus, destroyers shall be destroyed. I have seen it happen too much in my lifetime to NOT believe it.
The problem with humans - this human - is that we want to see it happen in our lifetime. And it may not happen when we can see it.
HTP,
Mahari
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
> (to address the following questions from the Ta-Seti Egyptian Mysteries thread)
>
>
>
> >>The Mysteries are for initiates and what is an > initiate is that like a priest? <<
>
> >>but if you are a "layman" what is his option a > layman?<<
>
> There has been much discussion about the mysteries, secret > societies and initiation lately and I wanted to take the time to briefly add > what little I know to this discourse with the intent of helping members of this > group understand better African wisdom centers, their methods of wisdom > transference, and their visionary ideals.

>
> Before we can address the two questions above, we must first > map African ideals in order to guide us successfully on our journey. I do not > intend to present pre-Western modes of thought and being as monolithic or as > possessing an agreed upon body of traditional theories and concepts. I however > cannot recognize familiar spirit that undergirds African centers of wisdom. I > will try to do my best to synthesize African traditional modes of thought and being > in a manner that preserves the essence of the ideals in which countless African > sages have developed over the millennia.
>
> According to African wisdom traditions, life is an unending > stream of mysteries that arms itself with dual weapons of life: day and night, > summer and winter, male and female, joy and grief. These dual weapons of life > are engaged in an eternal quarrel whose unceasing battles will rage until > everything flows together into one eternal river.
>
> African sages believe that it is these unceasing battles > that are responsible for the one thousand and one challenges that plague human > life on earth. To counter these challenges, African sages in various wisdom > centers have developed sacred arts as a means to find balance between these > dual weapons of life. By mastering these sacred arts, they empower the muntu (human being) to achieve the state > of perfection or enlightenment which is the ultimate goal of African sages. By > mastering these arts and reaching the state of perfection, man can therefore assume > their rightful place as children of the earth and children of the stars.
>
> The mastering of the sacred arts (verbal arts, ecstatic > arts, healing arts, and divinatory arts) helps the wisdom seeker to do the > following:
>
> 1.
> Unveil life□s mysteries
>
> 2.
> Celebrate life□s beauties
>
> 3.
> Stave off the syndrome of foolishness
>
> While mastering the sacred arts helps us to realize these > objectives on our quest of perfection, it also helps us to attempt to solve the > most fundamental human problems according to African wisdom centers: the dual hunger which fuels our eternal > quest for meaning. The sacred arts assist us in reinforcing the powers of the > mind in order to grasp the purpose of life.
>

> Charles Handy, an Irish philosopher quoting an African, claimed > that human beings experience two types of hunger: the lesser hunger and the > greater hunger. The lesser hunger deals primarily with the needs and wants of > life on Earth. Material things can satisfy this hunger. The greater hunger > however concerns the meaning of life. This type of hunger can only be satisfied > by looking for wisdom.
>
> African wisdom centers (misnomered □secret societies□) are > organizations that guide human beings in the pursuit of wisdom. They are > designed to help the human being to know life and provide tools to help stem > the tide of its challenges. Wisdom centers, like spiders, create webs that give > meaning to all dimensions of existence. Wisdom centers conceive and construct > wisdom traditions. Wisdom centers are populated by wisdom seekers who are the > brightest minds of the community who provide enlightened leadership and guide > others in knowing life and stemming the tide of its challenges. Wisdom centers > serve three primary functions:
>
> 1.
> Are schools of enlightened leadership
>
> 2.
> Are schools of lifelong learning
>
> 3.
> Provide strategies to assist human beings in > their search for perfection
>
> Teaching and learning are at the heart of wisdom centers. In > African centers of wisdom, initiation is the method par excellence for helping > an initiate to know life and stem the tide of its challenges. Amadou Hampate Ba > informs us of the purpose of initiation:
>
> □The purpose of initiation is to > give the psychological person a moral and mental power which conditions and > aids the perfect and total realization of the individual.□
>
> In the book The > Religion, Spirituality and Thought of Traditional Africa, Zahan says:
>
> □Initiation in Africa must be > viewed as a slow transformation of the individual, as a progressive passage > from exteriority to interiority. It allows the human being to gain > consciousness of his humanity.□ (Zahan 1979:54)
>
> What we call □priests□ are actually the Nganga: the doers, healers, pillars, enlightened of the community > who know life to the highest degree and have mastered the use of tools which > allow them battle against the syndrome of foolishness. In the Kongo, among the > Luba especially, we call these walking pillars bantu basunguluke, which means the > most accomplished sages. We also call them the bakoles. These accomplished sages excel only with the help of other > sages. This is suggestive on many accounts. Primarily, this suggests that to > excel in wisdom, it is recommended that you keep company with other wisdom > seekers and share what you know between yourselves and teach other wisdom > seekers who follow you. This is peer pressure on the □light□ side of the force.

>
>
> You will know if you belong to a wisdom center if:
>
> 1.
> The center of wisdom is about unraveling the > mysteries of life
>
> 2.
> Explores the physical world in which human > beings live
>
> 3.
> And they look for ways and means that enable > human beings to achieve perfection
>
> Wisdom centers are primarily about education. Malidoma Some > in his book Of Water and the Spirit > discusses education in Dagara wisdom centers as such:
>
> □Traditional
> education consists of three parts: enlargement of one□s ability to see, > destabilization of the body□s habit of being bound to one□s plane of being, and > the ability to voyage transdimensionally and return.□ (Some 1994:226)
>
> Wisdom centers and communities are designed to help > fertilize our seeds of greatness. They introduce to us the sacred arts used to > help the muntu reach the state of perfection. The state of perfection is > embodied by three interrelated concepts:
>
> 1.
> Adversity quotient □ the will to tower above > everything, including the self and the world
>
> 2.
> Imaging quotient □ the creative ability to > perceive the hidden layers of reality

>
> 3.
> And emotional quotient the visionary > leadership that is achieved by sages
>
> >>but if you
> are a "layman" what is his option a layman?<<
>
> As part of your spiritual grand strategy I would suggest > that 1) you actively seek a living wisdom tradition that has clear ties to a > lineage that has its roots planted in the rich soils of the continent, and 2)
> do what the sages do: read tons of books on wisdom, practice sacred arts, build > a relationship with one s ancestors, sit at the feet of elders, grow a garden, > and most importantly, create wisdom
> poetry.
>
> As a fellow wisdom seeker and poet, I cannot stress how > important and valuable wisdom poetry is in the spiritual grand strategy to achieve perfection.
Wisdom Poetry is > the tool sages use to guide human beings along the path of wisdom. It is the > verbal art par excellence that uses proverbs to encode the insights, secrets > and teachings of initiations among wisdom traditions.
>
> Wisdom Poetry is not poetry of one s own feelings. It is > created by taking African proverbs of similar theme and weaving them together > to create a poem. It is a form of deep talk. It is a language of initiation. It > is a way to learn how to see the hidden realities of life. To demonstrate how > a wisdom poem is constructed, we will use the following African proverbs to > create a poem.
>
> .
> When
> the moon is not full, the stars shine more brightly. (Buganda)
>
> .
> Rain
> does not fall on one roof alone. (Cameroon)
>
> .
> If
> relatives help each other, what evil can hurt them? (Ethiopia)
>
> .
> The
> leader has ears, he does not have a mouth. (Kongo)
>

> .
> Nations
> are forests (Kongo)
>
>
>
> We would rearrange the proverbs to look something like this:
>
> Nations are > forests
>
> Rain does not fall on one roof alone
>
> If relatives help each other, what evil can hurt them
>
> therefore
>
> The leader has ears, he does not have a mouth
>
> When the moon is not full, the stars shine more brightly
>
> All of these proverbs, converted into a wisdom poem, deal > with the central theme of community. We can see how each of these respective > ethnic groups view the value of community and where the real leadership/power > resides. It is these types of lessons that await the wisdom seeker who wishes > to learn how to put together wisdom poetry.
>
> All in all, the mystery is finding the joy in the journey on > the road to knowing life. The joy is in finding the courage and the tools to > stem the tide of life□s challenges: finding cures for the syndrome of > foolishness. It is these critical issues wisdom centers seek to address by creating > an environment where one can fertilize their seeds of greatness. I hope that > you have found this article of value and in our next discussion, we will > discuss how the Spiritual Grand Strategy used by African sages to reach the > state of perfection (you have already been introduced to one: wisdom poetry).
>
>
>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep is a philosopher, activist, poet and author of > the book Esodus: Internal Reflections and > Conversations with the Sun. He is also the founder of the MOCHA-Versity Institute of Philosophy and > Research and the Houston Ministry of > Culture: http://www.houstonministryofculture.com

>
>
>
>
> Selected Bibliography
>
> Ba Hampate, Amadou (1972). Aspects de la civilisation africaine: personne, culture, religion. Paris:
> Présence africaine
>
> Fu-Kiau, K. Bunseki (2001). African Cosmology of the Bantu Kongo: Principles of Life and Living.
> Athelia Henrietta Press
>
> Imhotep, Asar (2008). Esodus:
> Internal Reflections and Conversations with the SUN. MOCHA-Versity Press
>
> Kajangu, Kykosa (2006). Wisdom Poetry. Blooming Twigs Books
>
> Kajangu, Kykosa (2005). Beyond the Colonial Gaze:
> Reconstructing African Wisdom Traditions. Unpublished PhD dissertation
>
> Neimark, Philip John (1993). The Way of the Orisa: Empowering Your Life Through the Ancient African > Religion of Ifa. Harper Collins
>
> Some, Malidoma (1994). Of > Water and the Spirit: Ritual Magic and Initiation In the Life of an African > Shaman. Penguin
>
> Zahan, Dominique (1979). The > Religion, Spirituality, and Thought of Traditional Africa. University of > Chicago Press
>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimhotep.com
>
>
>
>
>
| 28633|2009-04-18 11:32:18|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
i have heard lectures by Doc.Ben, talking about this....i ve been listening to his lectures and influenced by him since the late 80's, and you are very right his in-house people university students get the full load of his teachings., i only know hetaught about this method if he canteache it at a scholarly level i dont know.

I must say the same for Dr.Ra unnefer AMEN and DR.Richard King,. i personally only know they teach the metu-neter can be translated as numbers and some words are abbreviations(I thought this to be common knowledge in afro-centric circles).
To what extant they can teach it i dont know,,, wheter its on a college level or elementary i personally do not know.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 4/17/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, April 17, 2009, 3:44 PM

Can you point me to any specific references of where Ra Unefer, Dr. Ben or Richard Wrig talks about this in their works? I am unaware of any material printed by them that discusse ideographic reading of Mdw Ntr. Dr. Ben is the only one I know who reads Mdw Ntr nou this, but he doesn't discuss it in public, nor does he write it in books.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Fri, 4/17/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, April 17, 2009, 2:35 PM

this is not new info: doc ben and richard king ra unnefer amen, speak of this and Dr. king and Dr.Ra Amen speak on how to coordinate numerology also.....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 4/17/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu

Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, April 17, 2009, 2:31 PM

Did he mean to say "a problem FOR them", maybe?
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> Why would that be a problem?
>
> Anyway, I will have brother Prince Badara Ndaw on my radio program either next weekend or the weekend after. I will inform the group when that will go down.
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 3:38 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Yeah, that's going to be a problem them. Once I have reviewed the material more completely, I will give my analysis.

> ShM HTP / Peace.
> RH NWTWh NB KK (Divine Ruler Equality Allah)
>
>
> On Thu, Apr 16, 2009 at 1:58 PM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace
>
> Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
>
> http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=RKS7r-pCpZ4
>
> I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.
>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
>
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
>
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP
>
> On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
> Peace Phamily
>
> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.
>
>
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview
>
>
>
> http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm
>
>
>
> Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.
>
> 08/17/07
>
> The Science Of The Dogan
>
> The Science Of The Dogon
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Asar
> Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>

| 28634|2009-04-18 13:17:09|Asar Imhotep|Re: The mysteries and the "secrets" of African secret societies|

Peace Mahari

What I will get into in another discussion is how one can understand how this method, one of many in the spiritual grand strategy, is used to give clues on the "routes" on the "super highway of wisdom." I have spoken about this in previous discussions about how in Africa sages visit and learn under many different teachers and ethnic groups across the continent.

This was told to me by one of my teachers and it amazed me to find some initiated scholars discussing the process in print (which I will cite in the article). This led me to the idea that the reason you see a lot of Ancient Egyptian motifs and ideas across Africa, besides migrations, is because these priests were required to travel to different parts of Africa to get certain teacherings. It literally was a world wide university system as Dr. Ben points out in his Black Man of the Nile book.

To demonstrate that Wisdom Poetry reveals secrets of this method of African learning, let's examine the following wisdom poem created by Dr. Kajangu:

"The child who has never left home says: "My mother is the best cook"
The child who travels far excels the elder of old time
Those who have seen very little talk too much,
But those who have seen a great deal cannot find words to explain what they have gone through"

These are various proverbs taken from across the continent which speaks on the value of traveling to learn from master teachers. The super highway of wisdom is that network which makes it possible to establish a dialogue of mutual enrichment among wisdom traditions.

If we understand this, then you will begin to understand why Mdw Ntr was necessary and why the absence of vowels and the use of abbreviations was adopted: to be able to communicate with the widest amount of people across Africa given the thousands of language variations. Regardless if one spoke the "Egyptian language" you could still read the "meaning" behind each glyph and understand what is being said because wisdom centers work to develop a high sense of "symbolic literacy." You could still read the Mdw Ntr in your language without loss of meaning.

Wisdom Poetry allows you to think holistically and condition your psyche to create a web of symbols that can connect all things and help your "closed senses" to open so that you may see the hidden layers of reality.

The mystery is the woman. All African male wisdom centers study the anatomy and nature of a woman because they are the crystalization of the creative and nurturing concept in creation. What we seek to learn in wisdom centers is how to bring things into being and nurture our ideas so that they may have long life and can produce fruit for generations to come. This is why the focus is on the woman and why the woman is the "mystery."

African wisdom is deep and they use the most subtle processes to help us realize the deepest concepts of life.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Sat, 4/18/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: The mysteries and the "secrets" of African secret societies
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 1:31 PM

Thanks, Asar,
>>We would rearrange the proverbs to look something like this:

Nations are forests
Rain does not fall on one roof alone
If relatives help each other, what evil can hurt them
therefore
The leader has ears, he does not have a mouth
When the moon is not full, the stars shine more brightly<<

This is a brilliant practice. I am a strong believer in the power of the word which is why I feel discouraged by a high tendency for our people of the Diaspora to dismiss the huge value of the command of the "language" - whatever the language of the country. I think I understand this tendency. I believe it is a passive aggressive way (not a good approach to anything) of resisting the oppressor by resisting his language,i.e. , his dictates. But it is obviously counterproductive because in ANY culture it is the ones who have the greatest command of "the language" who succeed.
But this is great. Through this practice it forces you to think in wise ways and in wise terms. Given the way the mind works it will string together these "wise" thoughts into a greater concept of wisdom leading to an ever expanding wise concept of living and doing!
I can easily see how this practice and worldview could have lead to the evolution of a great culture like that of Afrigypt.
The downside of this practice PERHAPS is will it prepare you to physically save yourself and your people from the "foolishness" of life that will come your way in the form of destroyers and annihilaters?
I remember you brought up this question some time back where you wondered if Afrigypt should have devoted more time and resources in developing tools of warfare. I am ambivalent. On the one hand my human "self" wants the capacity to destroy. But on the other hand my spiritual "self" and philosophy considers the "eternal stream of life"
and re-birth thus no death per se and I believe in KARMA. Thus, destroyers shall be destroyed. I have seen it happen too much in my lifetime to NOT believe it.
The problem with humans - this human - is that we want to see it happen in our lifetime. And it may not happen when we can see it.
HTP,
Mahari
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>

| 28635|2009-04-18 13:38:25|Asar Imhotep|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
I will tell you what a Jewish Rabbi told me, "Vowels are for the uninitiated."

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Sat, 4/18/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 12:41 PM

I was struck by something Prince Badara said in the video regarding Greek writing. He said Europeans have the translation of Kemetic writing wrong and that it is like Greek. For example A, B, D is not, in fact, pronounced ABC but alpha, beta, delta; thus, NTR, for example, is not N-T-R (neter) but something else presumably.

If this is correct it also explains an issue that has lingered with me for a while concerning Greek writing. It has become more and more evident that Greek has an Afrakan foundation but I always wondered about the writing itself: that if it had an Afrakan basis in language what about the writing? It would seem there would be a connection there, too.
This could be the connection with Afrigyptian writing. In effect, the Greek alphabet is the rudimental equivalent of the Kemetic hieroglyph.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> Peace
>
> Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
> http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=RKS7r-pCpZ4
>
> I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP
>
> On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace Phamily
>
> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.
>
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview
>
>
>
> http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm
>
>
> Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.

> 08/17/07
> The Science Of The Dogan
> The Science Of The Dogon
>
>
>
>
>
> Asar
> Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>

| 28636|2009-04-18 14:31:12|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|
went back to look at vid off of youtube....
and i have to say i personally understand someone using the metaphor and/or name of God they understand to translate metu neter/hieroglyph, and too see allah in metu neter thru islamic eyes that understandable.
But to teach that the hand gestur with a pyramid on an ancient temple in the Hapi valley isAllah and iswhat was taught by those anc.africans is wrong.
my person is guessing this brother knows better.....
Doc. Ben talks about the worship of Allat(Allaht, Allatu) a ancient Caanite Goddess and that the arab took the goddess concept and made it patriarchical with the rise of mohamet in a.d. times.
if the (ah) forearm handgesture with a pyramid can be translated as "ah and also a determinative for power " hence allah perhaps its better translated Ah-Rat since the so called pyramid kings all used Ra as nomens and the pyramid can beconsidered a house of Ra therefore a the feminine t at the end.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 4/18/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 3:38 PM

I will tell you what a Jewish Rabbi told me, "Vowels are for the uninitiated. "

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-VERSITY
MOCHA-Versity

--- On Sat, 4/18/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 12:41 PM

I was struck by something Prince Badara said in the video regarding Greek writing. He said Europeans have the translation of Kemetic writing wrong and that it is like Greek. For example A, B, D is not, in fact, pronounced ABC but alpha, beta, delta; thus, NTR, for example, is not N-T-R (neter) but something else presumably.
If this is correct it also explains an issue that has lingered with me for a while concerning Greek writing. It has become more and more evident that Greek has an Afrakan foundation but I always wondered about the writing itself: that if it had an Afrakan basis in language what about the writing? It would seem there would be a connection there, too.
This could be the connection with Afrigyptian writing. In effect, the Greek alphabet is the rudimental equivalent of the Kemetic hieroglyph.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> Peace
>
> Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
> http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=RKS7r-pCpZ4
>
> I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP
>
> On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace Phamily
>
> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.
>
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview
>
>
>

> http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm
>
>
> Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.
> 08/17/07
> The Science Of The Dogan
> The Science Of The Dogon
>
>
>
>
>
> Asar
> Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>

| 28637|2009-04-18 15:07:30|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections|

the arrat the paradise of the shepsu is also implied..... as is the hand of God or intervention of heaven

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 4/18/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 4:30 PM

went back to look at vid off of youtube....
and i have to say i personally understand someone using the metaphor and/or name of Goc understand to translate metu neter/hieroglyph, and too see allah in metu neter thru islamic that understandable.

But to teach that the hand gestur with a pyramid on an ancient temple in the Hapi valley isAllah and iswhat was taught by those anc.africans is wrong.
my person is guessing this brother knows better..... ..
Doc. Ben talks about the worship of Allat(Allaht, Allatu) a ancient Caanite Goddess and that the arab took the goddess concept and made it patriarchical with the rise of mohamet in a.d. times.
if the (ah) forearm handgesture with a pyramid can be translated as "ah and also a determinative for power " hence allah perhaps its better translated Ah-Rat since the so called pyramid kings all used Ra as nomens and the pyramid can beconsidered a house of Ra therefore a the feminine t at the end.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 4/18/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 3:38 PM

I will tell you what a Jewish Rabbi told me, "Vowels are for the uninitiated. "

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Sat, 4/18/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 12:41 PM

I was struck by something Prince Badara said in the video regarding Greek writing. He said Europeans have the translation of Kemetic writing wrong and that it is like Greek. For example A, B, D is not, in fact, pronounced ABC but alpha, beta, delta; thus, NTR, for example, is not N-T-R (neter) but something else presumably.
If this is correct it also explains an issue that has lingered with me for a while concerning Greek writing. It has become more and more evident that Greek has an Afrakan foundation but I always wondered about the writing itself: that if it had an Afrakan basis in language what about the writing? It would seem there would be a connection there, too.
This could be the connection with Afrigyptian writing. In effect, the Greek alphabet is the rudimental equivalent of the Kemetic hieroglyph.
HTP,

Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> Peace
>
> Keep in mind the same way that Laird Scranton reads the Mdw Ntr, is the same way Badara Ndaw reads the Mdw Ntr in this video clip:
> http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=RKS7r-pCpZ4
>
> I was hipped to reading Mdw Ntr this way in 2001 by one of my teachers from the continent in relation to what Mdw Ntr really means (The laws that guide the Nun into form). I discuss it in my book.
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Thu, 4/16/09, Divine Allah wrote:
> From: Divine Allah
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Dogon and Ancient Egyptian Language Connections
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, April 16, 2009, 7:06 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I just acquired both of Laird Scranton's books. I will write back further after I have done a more thorough analysis. Peace / ShM HTP

>
> On Mon, Sep 1, 2008 at 10:10 AM, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peace Phamily
>
> Here is an interview that I think would interest people to understand further some inspirations towards the methodology of interpreting ideographically the Mdw Ntr keywords.
>
>
> I think you need quicktime to listen to the interview
>
>
>
> http://www.justener gyradio.com/ archive-pages/ lscranton. htm
>
>
> Laird Scranton is an independent software designer from Albany, New York. His degree is in English from Vassar College. He has lectured at Colgate University on two occasions to classes studying his books. He was invited to write three articles for Temple University's upcoming Encyclopedia of African Religion, and has a publishedarticle on Dogon cosmology in the April 2007 edition of Anthropology News, an academic journal produced by the University of Chicago. He will be a guest speaker at the CPAK 2007 conference in San Diego, California in October 2007.
> 08/17/07
> The Science Of The Dogan
> The Science Of The Dogon
>
>

>
>
>
> Asar
> Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
>
>
>

| 28638|2009-04-18 15:10:41|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: FOLLOW THE MONEY / MADOFF, MOSSAD, AIG AND 9/11|
thanx

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 4/18/09, Linda Maples <> wrote:

From: Linda Maples >
Subject: Fw: FOLLOW THE MONEY / MADOFF, MOSSAD, AIG AND 9/11
To: "tafari"
Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 7:49 AM

With a stout heart, a mouse can lift an elephant.
peace and love~patchouliwindz

Subject: FOLLOW THE MONEY / MADOFF, MOSSAD, AIG AND 9/11
To: "Peter Anna" <>
Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 8:48 AM

The Madoff investigation is very similar to the 9-11 investigation in thatevidence of a larger conspiracy is being avoided and ignored.It ispossible thatthe billions that Madoff stole, and is still unaccounte for,was being used tofinance Israels vast global spy and sabotage networkMossadwithconnections to both AIG and quite possibly 9/1 itself: Allen L Roland Full Article:

http://blogs.salon.com/0002255/2009/03/18.html

With a stout heart, a mouse can lift an elephant.
peace and love~patchouliwindz

| 28639|2009-04-18 15:32:39|Alex van Deelen|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
Has anyone examined African religion in relationship to psychedelics?

Specifically, the influence of Iboga or other psychedelic plants, that are routinely used in rights of passage in West Africa?

The same for Egyptian religion.

Alex
| 28640|2009-04-19 09:59:46|odhiambo okecth|Daily Nation on Migingo|
Daily Nation on Migingo 19th April 2009

In the edition of the Nation yesterday, their editorial talked about the issue of Mijinjo Island. They said and I quote; Museveni correctly think it is a shame to wrangle over a small territorial dispute when we should be fighting for the creation of an East African Federation.

Check who is talking. Who is it that has invaded another country? If Museveni correctly believe that it is a shame to wrangle over small territorial disputes, why then has he invaded Migingo Islands?

Did the person who authored this editorial at the Nation put his mind to proper use before coming up with such an absurdity? Can the Nation quote Museveni on this issue and add the term correctly?

Anyway, I do not want to doubt the intentions that inspired the Nation to come up with such an editorial.

It brought me to ask myself a few questions. What are the roles of the police and the Army? When they graduate from their respective training colleges, the police swear to uphold and enforce the rule of law in the country. To this extent, when they are on patrol and they come across crime, they do not wait for any orders from anybody else. They act on the spot and the law takes its course.

Similarly, when the members of the Armed Forces graduate from their training colleges, they swear to protect the territorial integrity of Kenya from any external aggression. This is their cardinal responsibility. This is why we feed them that lavishly at the barracks. What I would have expected from our armed forces was a report that they had beaten the hell out of these Ugandans and then they wait for orders from their Commander-in-Chief.

I did not expect that members of our armed forces will plead luck of orders when Kenya is invaded, while, that is the reason for which they exist.

It makes the whole issue of Migingo look very silly.

Can Kenyans remember how Museveni took the Okellos in circle during their fight in 1986? Museveni was signing a peace deal with the Okellos and at the same time, tightening his grip on Uganda inch by inch. That is what he is doing with Kenya now.

Our ministers travel to Uganda to negotiate about our Island and immediately they return, Museveni adds to more solders to the Island bringing the number to 4. Our ministers and his go to Migingo and an official from the Fisheries Department in Uganda shuts down our Minister in the presence of 2 Provincial Commissioners and Police Commanders, and all hell breaks loose.

Our team run to their boat and comes back to safety and immediately Museveni sends in some 2 more police making the number to 6. He then goes to Zambia and meets with our CinC and they agree on spending Kshs 140 million to confirm what we all know; where Migingo is. Immediately they come back, Museveni sends in a Brigadier to take command of the Island and levy new taxes. Thereafter, he sends his spin doctor Mr. Opolot to come and bully our own spin doctor Mr. Alfred Mutura. Opolot made our Mutua tremble with fear at KICC in a charade of a press conference.

The following day, he sends his Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Mr. Isaac Isanga Musumba to come and tell us in Nairobi that if we doubt where Migingo is, we can go to hell, sorry, Hague.

Surely, can the Nation in their Editorial quote Museveni as correctly thinking that it is a shame to wrangle over a small territorial dispute?

Things must be very elephant at the Nation. Or do they know the secret that Mutua and Kibaki are privy to?

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock Nairobi.

Kenyans must demand action over Migingo 2nd April 2009

The world must know that for the last eight months, Yoweri Museveni of Uganda has been levying taxes on Kenyans leaving at Migingo Island, an Island in Kenya, 15 Kilometres from Muhuru mainland of Kenya and 260 Kilometres from the nearest mainland in Uganda. This is an act of aggression.

During all that time, the world famed ruthlessness of the Kenya Police against Kenyans and the brutality exhibited by the Kenya Army in Mt Elgon and Wagir against Kenyans has been conspicuously absent. The Kenya Police even took off from Migingo at the first sight of 2 armed Police Officers from Uganda.

Yesterday, Migosi Raila Odinga was emphatic that Migingo belongs to Kenya and that the Ugandan flag that has been hoisted there for the last eight months must be lowered immediately. He went on to say that only 6% of Lake Victoria belongs to Kenya. As a partner in this government, I would have wanted to hear from him that all those Ugandans at Migingo have been arrested for being in Kenya illegally, and are been detained at Kodiaga Prisons awaiting to appear in Court.

If 94% of the Lake belongs to Uganda and Tanzania, then, johana mane ma ooro Museveni mondo okaw Migingo Islands? [What is this madness that has made Museveni invade Kenya?]

Why are we negotiating with Museveni? If the Army, the Police and the politicians can not reclaim Migingo, the people will, the people of Kenya must. We will stop all transit vehicles to Uganda, either through rail or road transport. We must stop all transit vehicles either by rail or road into Uganda with immediate effect.

It is very simple;

1] The Kenya Police must immediately arrest all those people masquerading as Ugandan Police at Migingo. They are in Kenya illegally. Do not negotiate this. It is so sad when an invader shuts down our Minister in the presence of 2 Provincial Commissioners, the Police Commanders and the press. Why is the Police Commissioner being sent to Uganda to negotiate with the invaders? Why has he never been sent to negotiate with Kenyans in areas of conflict? They cannot fool us!

2] The Armed Forces of Kenya must cease being ornaments best used for passing out parades. They must defend the territorial space of Kenya. They must not negotiate with Museveni over any bit of an inch of Kenya. They must repulse those invaders with the full force that they can. Why move into Elgon and Wagalla with such might and force, and put your tails between your legs when your services are most needed? When Kenya has been invaded?

3] The Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces of Kenya must know that Kenya has been invaded. He must act to protect Kenya and Kenyans. We do not eat new Districts. We eat the fish that Museveni is now controlling at Migingo. For Gods sake, can those people who meet Kibaki daily tell him that Migingo has been invaded and has been under the firm grip of Museveni for the last 8 months? And that he is the Commander-in-Chief of the Kenya Armed Forces, as Mutula and Kalonzo likes reminding us.

Unless he and they know something that we do not know.

The Commander-in-Chiefs response to the Migingo crisis, now in its eighth month, leads most of us to confirm that there is a deal between him and Museveni. This deal is a fulfillment of favours earlier extended, or a deal expected in future. And that future is 2012.

If we look at how Kibaki has bestrowed Kenya in the past 6 years, I am convinced that the president does not mean well for Kenya. If a part of Kenya can be invaded by a country like Uganda and he keeps silent, then his leadership is wanting. It is also not by surprise that the President has refused to visit that same part of Kenya for the entire period he has been President of Kenya.

Museveni had invaded Rwanda and Kagame beat him so quickly and so ruthlessly that he cannot try again. He invaded DRC and again, Kagame came to the rescue of DRC and beat him there. He tried Tanzania and he knew the repercussions. He knows that Tanzanians will beat him and follow him to Kampala and topple him, the way they did with Idi Amin Dada.

He tried South Sudan, and the rag tag army of the southern Sudan dared him. They were ready for him any time, day or night. He cannot dare Ethiopia. He knows that Menes Zenawi does not take those kinds of jokes lightly.

He then turned to Kenya and invaded Migingo and for eight months, his flag has been high as he collects taxes from Kenyans.

The fact that our trigger happy police force could fold their tail and take off speaks volumes. What is the rationale of unleashing too much force on students who are just rioting while you turn a blind eye to an invader?

Where is the force needed? Against our own or against the invaders? I cannot believe that our normally ruthless police force could have left Migingo in fear of Museveni. There must have been an order to withdraw.

I also do not believe that our ceremonial ornaments in the barracks are that cowardly. They invaded Mt Elgon and beat our own Saboat people ruthlessly. There must have been an order for non interference. If our Army can beat people senseless in Mount Elgon and in Wagir, what can stop them from beating these Ugandans from Migingo?

Or, is it that our police and army are at their best against civilians, people who have no guns? People who cannot defend themselves?

Surely, if the Police could cordon off Uhuru Park for a whole one month in January 2007, can they surely be so afraid of Museveni and his team at Migingo? If the Police could kill so many Kenyans just to ensure that Kibaki became our President, can they not kill these 2 Ugandans at Migingo? Can they surely be so afraid in Migingo?

No. It is not the Police, it is not the Army. It is the Commander-in-Chief.

If the President does not want to take action, Kenyans must now defend their territorial integrity. We did it before by uprooting the Railway line to Uganda. We did it before by stopping all transit vehicles through Busia and Malaba.

If Uganda has invaded Kenya, and the Kenya Police and Army are under instructions not to intervene, Kenyans must take the law into their hands and protect our boundaries.

It is a shame that a rag tag army in Somali can act so swiftly whenever there is territorial violations while an Independent Kenya, cries baby.

It is sad to note that the President is doing nothing to promote peace, national healing and reconciliation in Kenya. He is refusing, for purposes of expediency, to be the symbol of national unity.

It looks to me like Migongo is an advance post for 2012, and we must view it as such. Kenya must not loose any inch of land, more so to Yoweri Museveni.

If the Army and the Police are under instructions not to defend us, let us defend ourselves.

Sijivuni kuwa Mkenya!

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Koamrocks Nairobi.

| 28641|2009-04-19 18:36:26|Paul Kekai Manansala|R1b1 haplogroup among the Bantu|
The article abstracted below is important for a number of reasons.

First if suggests that the R1b haplogroup is much more widespread in Africa than originally thought.

Since R1b1 is dated to have expanded at an ancient date in Africa, after a probable back migration from Asia, the high presence of the haplotype in some Bantu groups may mean that admixture rates for blacks in the Americas have been overestimated.

Another possibility is that R1b1b2, the most common subtype found in Europe, may have originated in Africa!

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

MBE Advance Access published online on April 15, 2009
Molecular Biology and Evolution, doi:10.1093/molbev/msp069

Genetic and demographic implications of the Bantu expansion: insights from human paternal lineages

Gemma Berniell-Lee[1] , Francesc Calafell[1,2] , Elena Bosch[1,2] , Evelyne Heyer[3] , Lucas Sica[4] , Patrick Mouguiama-Daouda[5] , Lolke van der Veen[6] , Jean-Marie Hombert[6] , Lluis Quintana-Murci[7] and David Comas[1,2]

The expansion of Bantu languages, which started around 5,000 years before present (YBP) in west/central Africa and spread all throughout sub-Saharan Africa, may represent one of the major and most rapid demographic movements in the history of the human species. Although the genetic footprints of this expansion have been unmasked through the analyses of the maternally-inherited mitochondrial (mtDNA) lineages, information on the genetic impact of this massive movement and on the genetic composition of pre-Bantu populations is still scarce. Here we analyze an extensive collection of Y-chromosome markers - 41 SNPs and 18 STRs - in 883 individuals from 22 Bantu-speaking agriculturalist populations and 3 Pygmy hunter-gatherer populations from Gabon and Cameroon. Our data reveal a recent origin for most paternal lineages in west Central African populations most likely resulting from the expansion of Bantu-speaking farmers that erased the more ancient Y-chromosome diversity found in this area. However, some traces of ancient paternal lineages are observed in these populations, mainly among hunter-gatherers. These results are at odds with those obtained from mtDNA analyses, where high frequencies of ancient maternal lineages are observed, and substantial maternal gene flow from hunter-gatherers to Bantu farmers has been suggested. These differences are most likely explained by socio-cultural factors such as patrilocality. We also find the intriguing presence of paternal lineages belonging to Eurasian haplogroup R1b1*, which might represent footprints of demographic expansions in central Africa not directly related to the Bantu expansion.

| 28642|2009-04-20 06:51:27|Sekmet|LECTURE OF THE MONTH- PAN-AFRIKANISM vs. THE MOORS|

LECTURE OF THE MONTH: APRIL 09'

"Pan-Afrikanism vs. The Moors"

SARA SUTEN SETI Debates SABIR BEY

run time: over 3 hrs.

http://www.blackconsciousness.com/sshop/straightup.html

Reviewed by Booty Adams

I thought that this lecture debate was interesting. A group of adult men went at each other without coming to physical blows. There was a lot of arguments, going back and forth, giving the general audience an opportunity to research and weigh a lot of statements that they may not be familiar with. The majority of our people around the planet are not familiar with these brothers and what the debate is about. One of the solutions is for as many of our people to see differing views and have something to do critical thinking about.

A FEW OF THE TOPICS COVERED:

Slavery - Global Economy - Sovereignty

Moorish Science Temple - Noble Drew Ali - Egyptian Adept

Circle 7 Koran - Confucius - Buddha - Islam - Ma'at, Nile Valley

Initiates- Hannibal- Africa - Marcus Garvey

Webster's Dictionary - Black's Law Dictionary

Shoulders of the ancestors - Oral Tradition

Morocco - Ethiopia - Nubia - Spain - Mecca

Caribbean - Central, North & South America

Turks, Arabs, Pakistanis, Traitors, Asiatics

Word Play - Laws - No Laws - Origins of Laws

Emotional Triads, Sitting on the Fence, Navigating

The Beast - Nature of the Beast - The Art of War and a lot, lot Moor of the pieces to the puzzle!

This lecture is rated: R for restricted- Strong language is used. This lecture is not meant for kids. To some people argumentative debates are distressing, but this is a reality we must deal with. There are always going to be differing factions within our community that may not see eye to eye, but we must assemble and come to terms if we are ever going to unify. Friendship & Peace amongst ourselves must be achieved, before we can do battle with any kind of enemy to our children and community. Draw your own conclusions! ~fini~

http://www.blackconsciousness.com/sshop/straightup.html

| 28643|2009-04-20 19:05:37|Asar Imhotep|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
I am unaware of a systemic study off the back. I am only aware of these examinations regarding Zulu warriors against the British. You might find mention in some things regarding voudun but I can't think of a systematic study. I might have to look into this myself.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

--- On Sat, 4/18/09, Alex van Deelen wrote:

From: Alex van Deelen
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com

Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 5:26 PM

Has anyone examined African religion in relationship to psychedelics?

Specifically, the influence of Iboga or other psychedelic plants, that are routinely used in rights of passage in West Africa?

The same for Egyptian religion.

Alex

| 28644|2009-04-21 04:18:41|safiya7772002|Beginner's luck may lay trail to Celopatra's tomb| smh at the headlines, perhaps its because this woman is of Afrikan descent

http://news.yahoo.com/s/afp/20090419/wl_mideast_afp/egyptarchaeologycleopatra_20090419204642

BURG EL-ARAB, Egypt (AFP) ? Archaeologists revealed a rocky hilltop in northern Egypt on Sunday where they believe Cleopatra was buried 2,000 years ago by the side of her Roman lover Mark Anthony after she committed suicide with a self-inflicted asp bite.

The team, led by antiquities chief Zahi Hawass and Kathleen Martinez, an Egyptologist from the Dominican Republic, hopes that the site around the ancient temple of Taposiris Magna, erected to honour the Egyptian god Isis in around 300 BC, will soon reveal the legendary lovers' final resting place.

The team has worked there for three years -- the latest in a chain of digs since an expedition by Napoleon in the 19th century.

Martinez says that the find of a carved male head, a fragment of a mask with a cleft-chin, coins and other artifacts prove that this is Anthony's burial site.

And she is convinced that Cleopatra's body also lies somewhere on this rocky outcrop overlooking the Mediterranean, 50 kilometres (30 miles) east of Alexandria.

"There are historic proofs in the works of (Roman chronicler) Plutarch where he says Cleopatra was buried with Mark Anthony," Martinez said.

A lawyer by training, Martinez said that trying to unravel the fate of the doomed lovers began as a hobby but has now become what Hawass said could be "one of the most important discoveries of the 21st century."

Martinez said she "always had the conviction that the tomb of Anthony and Cleopatra was in this temple. We have been looking for the right tunnels, but so far we have only found the entrance to other chambers.

"I studied Cleopatra for 14 years, and I came up with the idea that her death was a religious act, to be bitten by this asp and buried in this temple, so I started searching for the temple," she said.

"She couldn't be buried in a different place from Mark Anthony and be protected by Isis."

The theory was initially disparaged by experts, and after five years of research, it took another year for Martinez to get approval to dig.

But today even Egypt's antiquities supremo Hawass enthusiastically endorses the hypothesis, which could lead to the greatest discovery in the country since Howard Carter found the tomb of the boy king Tutankhamun in 1922.

Martinez admitted that "beginner's luck" may have played a part, as her team found a major clue in the form of a clay fragment linking the site to Isis just inches from where Hungarian archaeologists stopped working four years ago.

Using ground-penetrating radar, her own expedition discovered two large subterranean chambers and an intriguing passageway.

But the clock is now ticking because the site is close to one of the summer homes of veteran President Hosni Mubarak, and it risks being closed for six months.

"Since it's close to the summer home of Mubarak we can only dig until May. We don't know if we can reach the chambers we want: we've spent a lot of time clearing these tunnels, and we should not leave now, leave them open," she said.

The team has already discovered coins engraved with the images of Cleopatra and Alexander the Great. Twenty-two of the bronze coins showed Cleopatra's profile.

Those engraved with Cleopatra's image, and also an alabaster bust of the queen found at the site, showed that the queen was what Hawass described as a "beauty."

The coins, worn by age, show Cleopatra -- whom Shakespeare portrayed as a tawny beauty who enthralled Anthony -- to have been a robust woman with a large, hooked nose.

In recent years the image of the queen has come to be more associated with Elizabeth Taylor's sensual portrayal of her in the 1963 movie "Cleopatra."

Egypt's ruler more than 2,000 years ago, Cleopatra married Mark Anthony, one of the three men who ruled the Roman empire after the assassination of Julius Caesar.

But their wedding and Anthony's ceding of Roman land to Cleopatra helped set his fellow Roman leaders against him. A civil war ensued, and both Anthony and Cleopatra committed suicide when all was lost.

| 28645|2009-04-21 09:32:36|Alex van Deelen|R1b1 haplogroup among the Bantu|
Paul,

I wonder how much they underestimate the migration that has taken place in Africa over the last 400 years.

If you have (for instance) people from Natal ending up in Tanzania (Ngoni), and people from the southern DRC (Kola region) creating Malawi and then through colonial migration and mining, ending up in South Africa, what are they actually measuring?

Alex
| 28646|2009-04-21 09:48:28|Alex van Deelen|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
Asar,

Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
Posted by: "Asar Imhotep" asar_imhotep@yahoo.com asar_imhotep
Mon Apr 20, 2009 7:05 pm (PDT)

> I am unaware of a systemic study off the back. I am only aware of > these examinations regarding Zulu warriors against the British. You > might find mention in some things regarding voudun but I can't think > of a systematic study. I might have to look into this myself.
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimhotep.com

Back in the day, Terence McKenna bemoaned the fact that so few studies of religion go into the use and types of psychedelics and narcotics that were regarded as sacred, but not 'taboo' as they are in western society, with it's cultural prohobition against personal (as opposed to organized) religious experience.

Especially if you look at the type of 'hallucinations' that go with Ayahuasca - jaguars, hugely detailed cities, those seem to be potentially hugely influential on South American culture and consciousness.

If these substances are stepping stones in cultural evolution, their study should be very revealing about official religion and ideation.

Cheers,

Alex
| 28647|2009-04-21 13:28:54|rogaster1|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
You might want to look into the use of the 'Blue Lotus' among the ancient Egyptians. However, I asked about it when we were there recently, but no one seemed aware of the term. The Dogon People used the 'Iboga' and it is used in Gabon. Also I suspect it my have been used within the Blacksmith Tradition, I have yet to find any indication of it.

Roger "PEACE"

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> I am unaware of a systemic study off the back. I am only aware of these examinations regarding Zulu warriors against the British. You might find mention in some things regarding voudun but I can't think of a systematic study. I might have to look into this myself.
>
>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimhotep.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Sat, 4/18/09, Alex van Deelen wrote:
> From: Alex van Deelen
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Saturday, April 18, 2009, 5:26 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
> Has anyone examined African religion in relationship
>
> to psychedelics?
>
>
>
> Specifically, the influence of Iboga or other psychedelic
>
> plants, that are routinely used in rights of passage in
>
> West Africa?
>
>
>
> The same for Egyptian religion.
>
>
>
> Alex
>
| 28648|2009-04-21 13:29:22|odhiambo okecth|KCDN Peace Run 13th June 2009|
Dear Friends,

We kindly invite you to support us hold the 2nd Edition of the KCDN Peace Run/Walk on the 13th June 2009. It will be flagged off at Montana/Calvary Grounds in Komarock at 8.00am by the District Commissioner, Nairobi East District. We envisage a turn out of close to 5,000 participants.

We need tents, chairs, PA system, performances, transport, communication, T-shirts, posters, course security, water and soft drinks for our guests. We will appreciate your contribution to help us have a wonderful peace rally.

We have invited guest who will talk about Peace, National Healing and Reconciliation; one year after the conflicts.

We have also invited priests who will talk about peace, national healing and reconciliation; their own way. We would like to make it an inter-denominational peace rally and they will come robbed in their official regalia. This will help sink in the messages of peace.

Komarocks Community Development Network is a Community Based Organization based at Komarocks Phase 2 at the shopping centre. Our forte is the support of Orphans and Vulnerable Children, OVCs. We are currently mobilizing educational support for some 250 such children from across seven schools in Embakasi namely; Kayole Secondary School , Kayole 1 Primary School, Imara Primary School , Komarock Primary School , Mwangaza Primary School , Tumaini Primary School and Busara Primary School .

At the same time, we are preaching the virtues of Annotated Agenda Item Number 4 as captured in the National Dialogue and Reconciliation Accord. We believe we can play our part in this process by reaching out to parents all over Kenya . We believe that Kenyans can live in peace and harmony devoid of hostilities. We can all make it work. Kenya is still in the woods and she needs all our efforts to ensure a peaceful coexistence. We must initiate and maintain dialogue amongst Kenyans at all the times. As we do this, we must also focus on the educational needs of children from poor families and those that are orphans.

We look forward to your support. You can reach us via email.

Yours faithfully,

Odhiambo T Oketch,

CEO KCDN Nairobi.

Tel; 0735 529 126, 0724 365 557,

Email; komarockswatch@yahoo.com

http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com

| 28649|2009-04-21 13:31:48|Paul Kekai Manansala|R1b1 haplogroup among the Bantu|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Alex van Deelen" wrote:
>
> Paul,
>
> I wonder how much they underestimate the migration that has > taken place in Africa over the last 400 years.
>
> If you have (for instance) people from Natal ending up in Tanzania (Ngoni), > and people from the southern DRC (Kola region) creating Malawi and then > through colonial migration and mining, ending up in South Africa, what are > they actually measuring?
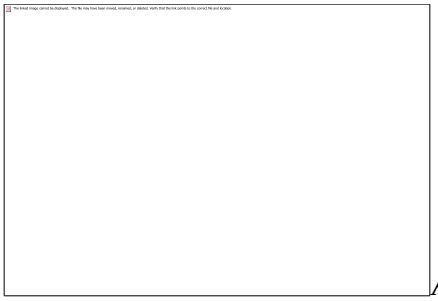
>

Alex, there's limited resolution in these studies. Often what they used with Y chromosomes are the STRs as sort of molecular clocks.



If they notice a wide time separation, evidenced by divergent STRs, in the same haplotypes from region to region, then they figure the split must have occurred long ago.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28650|2009-04-21 13:41:24|Mahari Mengistu|New ancient Egypt temples discovered in Sinai|

New ancient Egypt temples discovered in Sinai

Associated Press

-

AP?This undated hand out picture released Tuesday April 21, 2009, by Egypt's Supreme Council of Antiquities?

- Slideshow:Anthropology & Archaeology
- Play Video Video:Archeologists hope to find tomb of Cleopatra AP

By HADEEL AL-SHALCHI, Associated Press Writer Hadeel Al-shalchi, Associated Press Writer ? 42minsago

CAIRO ? Archaeologists exploring an old military road in the Sinai have unearthed four new temples amidst the 3,000-year-old remains of an ancient fortified city that could have been used to impress foreign delegations visiting Egypt, antiquities authorities announced Tuesday.

Among the discoveries was the largest mud brick temple found in the Sinai with an area of 70 by 80 meters (77 by 87 yards) and fortified with mud walls 3 meters (10 feet) thick, said Zahi Hawass, chief of Egypt's Supreme Council of Antiquities.

The find was made in Qantara, 2 1/2 miles (4 kilometers) east of the Suez Canal. These temples mark the latest discovery by archaeologists digging up the remains of the city on the military road known as "Way of Horus." Horus is a falcon-headed god, who represented the greatest cosmic powers for ancient Egyptians.

The path once connected Egypt to Palestine and is close to present-day Rafah, which borders the Palestinian territory of Gaza.

Archaeologist Mohammed Abdel-Maqsoud, chief of the excavation team, said the large brick temple could potentially rewrite the historical and military significance of the Sinai for the ancient Egyptians.

The temple contains four hallways, three stone purification bowls and colorful inscriptions commemorating Ramses I and II. The grandeur and sheer size of the temple could have been used to impress armies and visiting foreign delegations as they arrived in Egypt, authorities said.

The dig has been part of a joint project with the Culture Ministry that started in 1986 to find fortresses along the military road. Hawass said early studies suggested the fortified city had been Egypt's military headquarters from the New Kingdom (1569-1081 B.C.) until the Ptolemaic era, a period lasting about 1500 years.

In a previous find, archaeologists there reported finding the first ever New Kingdom temple to be found in northern Sinai. Studies indicated the temple was built on top of an 18th Dynasty fort (1569-1315 B.C.).

Last year, a collection of reliefs belonging to King Ramses II and King Seti I (1314-1304 B.C.) were also unearthed along with rows of warehouses used by the ancient Egyptian army during the New Kingdom era to store wheat and weapons.

Abdel-Maqsoud said the fortified city corresponded to the inscriptions of the Way of Horus found on the walls of the Karnak Temple in Luxor which illustrated the features of 11 military fortresses that protected Egypt's eastern borders. Only five of them have been discovered to date.

===

HTP,

Mahari

| 28651|2009-04-21 22:30:33|Asar Imhotep|Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2|
You might also want to try this:

(downloadable file)
http://www.scribd.com/doc/7709462/Psychedelic-Shamanism

Psychedelic Shamanism

Preparation of shamanic plants, the use of sacred mind altering hallucinogenic plants in shamanism.

****

Ropes to God: Experiencing the Bushman Spiritual Universe (Profiles in Healing series) (Paperback)

by Bradford Keeney PhD (Author)

****

Herbs of the Northern Shaman: A Guide to Mind-Altering Plants of the Northern Hemisphere (Paperback)

by Steve Andrews (Author)
****

And then there is.....

Bibliography on Psychedelic Healing and Spirituality

Compiled by:
Neal M. Goldsmith, Ph.D.
neal@inch.com
September, 2003

Books

1. Abramson, H.A. (Ed.) The Use of LSD in Psychotherapy and Alcoholism. (Indianapolis, IN: Bobbs Merrill, 1967.)
2. Adamson, S. Through the Gateway of the Heart: Accounts of Experiences with MDMA and Other Empathogenic Substances. (El Verano, CA: Green Earth Foundation, 1985.)
3. Arthur, J. Mushrooms and Mankind: The Impact of Mushrooms on Human Consciousness and Religion. (Escondito, CA: The Book Tree, 2000.)
4. Bache, C. Dark Night, Early Dawn: Steps to a Deep Ecology of Mind. (Albany, NY: SUNY Press, 2000.)
5. Badiner, A.H. (ed.) Zig Zag Zen: Buddhism and Psychedelics. (S.F.: Chronicle Books, 2002.)

6. Bharati, A. The Light at the Center: Context and Pretext of Modern Mysticism (Santa Barbara, CA: Ross-Erickson, 1976
7. Ellwood, R.S. The Sixties Spiritual Awakening: American Religion Moving from Modern to Postmodern. (New Brunswick, NJ: Rutgers University Press, 1994.)
8. Forte, R. (ed.) Entheogens and the Future of Religion. (S.F: Council on Spiritual Practices, 2000)
9. Frances, S.H. Drawing it Out: Befriending the Unconscious a Contemporary Woman's Psychedelic Journey. (Sarasota, FL: Multidisciplinary Association for Psychedelic Studies, 2001.)
10. Fuller, R.C. Stairways to Heaven: Drugs in American Religious History. (Bolder, CO: Westview Press, 2000.)
11. Grey, A. Sacred Mirrors: The Visionary Art of Alex Grey. (Rochester, VT: Inner Traditions International, 1990.)
12. Grinspoon, L. and Bakalar, J. Psychedelic Drugs Reconsidered. (NY: The Lindesmith Center, 1997) (My vote for the single best book on the subject.)
13. Grob, C.S. (ed.) Hallucinogens: A Reader. (NY: Jeremy P. Tarcher/Putnam, 2002.)
14. Grof, S. LSD Psychotherapy: Exploring the Frontiers of the Hidden Mind. (Pomona, CA: Hunter House, 1980.)
15. Grof, S. Psychology of the Future: Lessons from Modern Consciousness Research. (Albany, NY: SUNY Press, 2000.)
16. Grof, S. and Halifax, J. The Human Encounter with Death. (NY: E.P. Dutton, 1977.)
17. Halifax, J. Shaman: The Wounded Healer. (London: Thames and Hudson, Ltd., 1982.)
18. Harner, M.J. (ed.), Hallucinogens and Shamanism. (NY: Oxford University Press, 1973.)
19. Henderson, L.A. and Glass, W.J. LSD: Still With Us After All These Years. (NY: Lexington Books, 1994.)
20. Heinrich, C. Magic Mushrooms in Religion and Alchemy. (Originally published as: Strange Fruit: Alchemy and Religion, The Hidden Truth) (Rochester, VT: Park Street Press, 2002.)
21. Hofmann, A. LSD: My Problem Child: Reflections on Sacred Drugs, Mysticism, and Science. (L.A.: J.P. Tarcher, Inc., 1983.)
22. Huxley, A. The Doors of Perception. (NY: Harper & Row, 1954.)
23. Huxley, A. Island. (NY: Harper & Row, 1962.)
24. Huxley, A. Moksha: Writings on Psychedelics and the Visionary Experience (1931-1963). (Rochester, VT: Inner Traditions Press, 1999.)
25. Huxley, A. The Perennial Philosophy (NY: Harper & Row, 1944.)
26. Ka-Tzetnik 135633. Shivitti: A Vision. (Nevada City, CA: Gateways/IDHHB Publishers, 1988.)
27. Kunitz, S.J. Navajo Drinking Patterns. Yale Univ. Ph.D dissertation (sociology), 1970.
28. La Barre, W. The Peyote Cult (Fifth Edition, Enlarged). (Norman, OK: U. of Oklahoma Press, 1989.)
29. Luna, L.E. and Amaringo, L. Ayahuasca Visions: The Religious Iconography of a Peruvian Shaman. (Berkeley: North Atlantic Press, 1991.)
30. Masters, R.E.L. and Houston, J. The Varieties of Psychedelic Experience. (NY: Holt, Rinehart, Janovich, 1966.)
31. McKenna, T. Archaic Revival. (NY: HarperCollins, 1991.)
32. McKenna, T. Food of the Gods. (NY: Bantam Books, 1992.)

33. Merkur, D. The Ecstatic Imagination: Psychedelic Experiences and the Psychoanalysis of Self- Actualization. (NY: SUNY Press, 1998.)
34. Metzner, R. The Unfolding Self: Varieties of Transformative Experience. (Mt. Shasta, CA: Origin Press, 1998.)
35. Metzner, R. Green Psychology: Cultivating a Spiritual Connection with the Natural World. (Rochester, VT: Inner Traditions Press, 1999.)
36. Miller, RA. The Magical and Ritual Use of Herbs. (Rochester, VT: Destiny Books, 1993.)
37. Ott, J. Pharmacotheon: Entheogenic Drugs, their Plant Sources and History. (Kennewick, WA: Natural Products, Co., 1996.)
38. Pahnke, W.N. Drugs and Mysticism. (Doctoral dissertation.) (Cambridge, MA: Harvard University, 1963.)
39. Plotkin, M.J. Tales of a Shaman's Apprentice: An Ethnobotanist Searches for New Medicines in the Amazon Rain Forest. (NY: Viking-Penguin Books, 1993.)
40. Ram Das. The Only Dance There Is. (NY: Anchor/Doubleday Bantam, 1970.)
41. Ram Das. Be Here Now. (NY: Crown/Hanuman Ingram, 1971.)
42. Ratsch, C. The Dictionary of Sacred and Magical Plants. (Dorset, UK: Prism Unity Press, 1992.)
43. Richards, W. Counseling, Peak Experiences and the Human Encounter with Death: An Empirical Study of the Efficacy of DPT-Assisted Counseling in Enhancing the Quality of Life of Persons with Terminal Cancer and Their Closest Family Members. (Doctoral dissertation, The Catholic University of America, 1975.) University Microfilms, Ann Arbor, MI 75-18,531.
44. Roberts, T.B. (ed.) Psychoactive Sacramentals: Essays on Entheogens and Religion. (S.F.: Council on Spiritual Practices, 2002.)
45. Roberts, T.B. and Hruby, P.J. Religion and Psychoactive Sacraments: An Entheogen Chrestomathy. (S.F.: Council on Spiritual Practices, 2001.)
46. Ruck, C.A.P., Staples, B.D., Heinrich, C. The Apples of Apollo: Pagan and Christian Mysteries of the Eucharist. (Durham, NC: Carolina Academic Press, 2001.)
47. Saunders, N., Saunders, A. and Pauli, M. In Search of the Ultimate High: Spiritual Experiences Through Psychoactives. (London: Random House UK, 2000.)
48. Schultes, R.E. and Hofmann, A. Plants of the Gods: Origins of Hallucinogenic Use. (NY: McGraw Hill, 1979.)
49. Schultes, R.E. and Hofmann, A. Plants of the Gods: Their Sacred Healing & Hallucinogenic Powers. (Rochester, VT: Inner Traditions, 1992.)
50. Scotton, B.W., Chinen, A.B., and Battista, J.R. Textbook of Transpersonal Psychiatry and Psychology. (NY: Harper Collins, 1996.)
51. Smith, H. Forgotten Truth: The Common Vision of the Worldά Religions. (NY: Harper Collins, 1992.)
52. Smith, H. Cleansing the Doors of Perception: The Religious Significance of Entheogenic Plants and Chemicals. (NY: Jeremy P. Tarcher/Putnam, 2000.)
53. Stevens, J. Storming Heaven. (NY: Harper & Row, 1988.)
54. Stewart, O.C. Peyote Religion: A History. (Norman, OK: U. of Oklahoma Press, 1987.)
55. Stolaroff, M.J. Thanatos to Eros: Thirty-five years of Psychedelic Exploration. (Berlin: VWB-Verlag fur Wissenschaft und Bildung, 1994.)
56. Stolaroff, M.J. The Secret Chief. (Sarasota, FL: Multidisciplinary Association for Psychedelic Studies, 1997.)

57. Strassman, R. DMT: The Spirit Molecule: A Doctorά Revolutionary Research into the Biology of Near-Death and Mystical Experiences. (Rochester, VT: Park Street Press, 2001.)
58. Teasdale, W. The Mystic Heart: Discovering a Universal Spirituality in the World's Religions. (Novato, CA: New World Library, 1999.)
59. Trueheart, T. Triplepoint: LSD in Group Therapy, a Life Transformed. (Petrolia CA: Green Fir, 1992.)
60. Wasson, R.G., Hofmann, A., and Ruck, A.P. The Road to Eleusis: Unveiling the Secret of the Mysteries. (NY: Harcourt Brace, Janovich, 1978.) ibid. Persephoneά Quest: Entheogens and the Origins of Religion. (New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, 1986.)
61. Watts, A. The Joyous Cosmology: Adventures in the Chemistry of Consciousness. (NY: Random House, 1965.)
62. Weil, Andrew. The Natural Mind. (NY: Houghton Mifflin, 1998.)
63. Widmer, S. Listening Into the Heart of Things: The Awakening of Love on MDMA and LSD: The Undesired Psychotherapy. (Gerolfingen, Switzerland: Basic Editions, 1995.)

Articles

1. Abraham, H. and Aldridge, A. ϛdverse consequences of lysergic acid diethylamide,ȝ Addiction, Vol. 88, pp. 1327-1334, 1993.
2. Abzzahab, F.S., Anderson, B.J. ϛ Review of LSD Treatment in Alcoholism,ȝInternational Pharmacopsychiatry. 6, 223-235, 1971.
3. Albaugh, B.J. and Anderson, P.O. Ґeyote in the treatment of alcoholism among American Indians.ȝ Amer. J. Psychiatry, 1974, 131(11): 1247-50.
4. Bergman, R.L. Ꝑavajo peyote use: Its apparent safety.ȝ Am. J Psychiatry, 1971, 128(6): 695-9.
5. Bergman, R.L. ʔr. Bergman replies.ȝ Am. J. Psychiatry, 1971, 129(1).
6. Blum, K., Futterman, S.L, and Pascarosa, P. Ґeyote, a potential ethnopharmacologic agent for alcoholism and other drug dependencies: Possible biochemical rationale.ȝ Clin. Toxicol., 1977, 11(4): 459-72.
7. Boyer, L.B., Boyter, R.M, and Basehart, H.W. ꝛhamanism and peyote use among the Apaches of the Mescalero Indian Reservation.ȝ In, M.J. Harner (ed.), Hallucinogens and Shamanism. (NY: Oxford University Press, 1973, pp. 49-66.)
8. Bravo, G., and Grob, C.S. ꝛhamans, Sacraments, and Psychiatrists,ȝJ of Psychoactive Drugs. 21(1), 123-128, 1989.
9. Cohen, S. ƀSD and the Anguish of Dying.ȝ Harpers Magazine, 231, 68-78, September, 1965.
10. Dobkin De Rios, M. and Grob, C.S. ʔ̂allucinogens, suggestibility and Adolescence in Cross-cultural Perspective.ȝ Yearbook of Ethnomedicine, 1994, pp. 113-32.
11. Doblin, R. The Historic FDA and NIDA Meetings on ȷƀallucinogensðȝ MAPS, 3(3), 2-6, September, 1992.
12. Faillace, L.A., Vourlekis, A., and Szara, S. ʅinical Evaluation of Some Hallucinogenic Tryptamine Derivatives,ȝJ. of Nervous and Mental Disease. 145(4), 306-13, 1967.
13. Faillace, L.A., Vourlekis, A., and Szara, S. ʔ̂allucinogenic Drugs in the Treatment of Alcoholism: A Two-year Follow-up,ȝComprehensive Psychiatry, 11(1), 51-56, 1970.

14. Gable, R. Ђoward a Comparative Overview of Dependence Potential and Acute Toxicity of Psychoactive Substances Used Nonmedically.Ȝ Am. J. of Drug and Alcohol Abuse, 19(3), 263- 281, 1993.
15. Greer, G. ђsing MDMA in Psychotherapy.Ȝ Advances, 2(2), 57-59, Spring, 1985.
16. Greer, G. & Tolbert, R., ғubjective Reports of the Effects of MDMA in a Clinical Setting.Ȝ J. of Psychoactive Drugs, 18(4), 319-327, Oct-Dec, 1986.
17. _____. Ђhe Therapeutic Use of MDMA.Ȝ In Peroutka, S.J. (ed.) Ecstasy: The Clinical, Pharmacological and Neurotoxicological Effects of the Drug MDMA (Boston, MA: Kluwer Academic Publishers, 1990.)
18. _____. ç Method of Conducting Therapeutic Sessions with MDMA.Ȝ J. of Psychoactive Drugs, 30:371-379, 1998.
19. Grinspoon, L. and Bakalar, J. ¯an Drugs Be Used to Enhance the Psychotherapeutic Process?Ȝ American J. of Psychotherapy, XL(3), 393-404, 1986.
20. Grob, C.S. Ґsychiatric Research with Hallucinogens: What Have We Learned?Ȝ Yearbook of Ethnomedicine, 3, 91-112, 1994.
21. Grof, S. Ђhe Use of LSD in Psychotherapy,ȜJ. of Psychedelic Drugs, 3(1), 52-62, 1970.
22. Grof, S. ¯motional Distress and Physical Pain of Dying Individuals.Ȝ In, Grof, S., LSD Psychotherapy. (Alameda, CA: Hunter House, 1994, pp. 260-262.)
23. Grof, S., Goodman, L.E., Richards, WA., Kurland, A.A.. ЬSD-Assisted Psychotherapy in Patients with Terminal Cancer,ȜInternational Pharmacopsychiatry, 8, 129-144, 1973.
24. Grof, S., Soskin, R.A., Richards, W.A., and Kurland, A.A. ¯PT as an Adjunct in Psychotherapy of Alcoholics,ȜInternational Pharmacopsychiatry, 8, 104-115, 1973.
25. Halpern, J. Ђhe Use of Hallucinogens in the treatment of Addiction.Ȝ Addiction Research, 4(2), 177- 189, 1996.
26. Hollister, L.E., Shelton, J., Krieger, G. ç Controlled Comparison of Lysergic Acid Diethylamide (LSD) and Dextroamphetamine in Alcoholics,Ȝ American J. of Psychiatry, 125(10), 58-63, 1969.
27. Hurt, W.R. ¯actors in the persistence of peyote in the northern plains.Ȝ Plains Anthropologist, 5, 1960: 16-27.
28. Jensen, S.E. Ђreatment program for alcoholics in a mental hospital,ȜCanadian J. Of Studies on Alcohol, 23, 315-320, 1962.
29. Jensen, S.E. Ђreatment of Chronic Alcoholism with lysergic acid diethylamide,ȜCanadian Psychiatric Association J., 8, 182-188, 1963.
30. Jilek, W.G. çnomic depression, alcoholism and a culture-congenial Indian response.Ȝ J Stud. on Alcohol, 1981, 42(Suppl. 9): 159-70.
31. Jilek-Aall, L. çlcohol and the Indian-White relationship: A Study of the Function of Alcoholics Anonymous among Coast Salish Indians.Ȝ Confinia Psychiatrica, 1978, 21(4), 195-233.
32. Johnson, F.G. ЬSD in the Treatment of Alcoholism,ȜAmerican J. of Psychiatry, 126, 481-487, 1969.
33. Kast, E. çttenuation of Anticipation: A Therapeutic Use of Lysergic Acid Diethylamide.Ȝ Psychiatric Quarterly, 41, 646-657, 1967
34. Kast, E. and Collins, V. Ьysergic Acid Diethylamide as an Analgesic Agent.Ȝ Anesthesia and Analgesia, 43(3), 285-291, May-June, 1964.
35. Kranler, H.R. and Orrok, B. Ђhe Pharmacotherapy of Alcoholism.Ȝ In, Tasman, A., Hales, R.E, and

36. Frances, A.J. (eds.): Review of Psychiatry, Vol. 8., 359-379. (Wash., DC: American Psychiatric Press, 1989.)
37. Kurland, A. ЬSD in the Supportive Care of the Terminally Ill Cancer Patient.ʒ J. of Psychoactive Drugs, 17(4), 279-290, Oct-Dec, 1985.
38. Kurland, A.A., Savage, C., Pahnke, W.N., Grof, S., and Olsson, J.E. ЬSD in the Treatment of Alcoholics.ʒ Pharmakopsychiatrie und Neuro-Psychopharmakologie, 4(2), 83-94, 1971.
39. Kurland, A.A., Unger, S., Shaffer, J.W., and Savage, C. Ґsychedelic Therapy Utilizing LSD in the Treatment of the Alcoholic Patient: A Preliminary Report.ʒ Am. J of Psychiatry, 123, 1202-1209, 1967.
40. La Barre, W. Ґrimitive psychotherapy in native American cultures: Peyotism and confession.ʒ J. of Abnormal and Soc. Psychol., 1947, 42(3): 294-309.
41. _____. ç cultist drug-addiction in an Indian alcoholic.ʒ Bulletin of the Menninger Clinic, 5(2), 1957: 359-360.
42. _____. Ђwenty years of peyote studies.ʒ Current Anthrop., 1960, 1(1): 45-60.
43. La Barre, W., McAllester, D.P., Slotkin, J.S., Stewart, O.C., and Tax, S. ғtatement on peyote.ʒ Science, 2970(114), 11/30/51: 582-583.
44. Levy, J.E. and Kunitz, S.J. Indian Drinking: Navajo Practices and Anglo-American Theories. NY: John Wiley and Sons, 1974.
45. Lin, G. and Glennon, R. (Eds.) Hallucinogens: An Update. NIDA Research Monograph No. 146. (Wash., DC: NIDA, 1994).
46. Lotsof, H.S. Rapid Method for Interrupting the Narcotic Addiction Syndrome. U.S. Patent # 4,499,096. 1985
47. Lotsof, H.S. Rapid Method for Interrupting the Cocaine and Amphetamine Abuse Syndrome. U.S. Patent # 4,857,243. 1986.
48. Lotsof, H.S. Rapid Method for Attenuating the Alcohol Dependency Syndrome. U.S. Patent # 4,857,523.
49. Lotsof, H.S. Rapid Method for Interrupting or Attenuating the Nicotine/Tobacco Dependency Syndrome U.S. Patent # 5,026,697.
50. Lotsof, H.S.: ¦Ьogaine in the Treatment of Chemical Dependence Disorders: Clinical Perspectives.ʒ MAPS Bulletin, 5(3), 16-27, 1995.
51. Lukoff, D., Zanger, R. and Lu, F. Ђranspersonal Psychology Research Review: Psychoactive Substances and Transpersonal States.ʒ J. of Transpersonal Psychology, 22(2), 107-148, 1990.
52. MacLean, J.R., MacDonald, D.C., Ogden, F., and Wilby, E. ЬSD-25 and Mescaline as Therapeutic Adjuvants.ʒ In, Abramson, H.A. (Ed.): Use of LSD in Psychotherapy and Alcoholism, 407-426. (Indianapolis, IN: Bobbs Merrill, 1967.)
53. McGlothlin, W.H. ғocial and para-medical aspects of hallucinogenic drugs.ʒ In, The Use of LSD in Psychotherapy and Alcoholism, Abramson, H.A. (ed.) NY: Bobbs-Merrill, 1967, pp. 13-14.
54. Meyer, R.E. Ґrospects for a Rational Pharmacotherapy of Alcoholism.ʒ J. of Clinical Psychiatry, 50(11), 403-412.
55. Mottin, J.L. ˆrug-induced attenuation of alcohol consumption.ʒ Q. J. Studies on Alcohol, 1973, 34, 444-472.
56. Pahnke, W. and Richards, W.: ¦mplications of LSD and Experimental Mysticism.ʒ J. of Religion and Health, 5(3), July, 1966.

57. Pahnke, W., et al. Ђhe Psychedelic Mystical Experience in the Human Encounter with Death.Ɜ Harvard Theological Review, 62(1), 1-32, January, 1969.
58. Pahnke, W., et al. Ґsychedelic Therapy (Utilizing LSD) with Cancer Patients.Ɜ J. of Psychedelic Drugs, 3(1), 63-75, September, 1970.
59. Pascarosa, P. and Futterman, S. Ēthnopsychedelic therapy for alcoholics: Observations in the peyote ritual of the Native American Church.Ɜ J. Psychedelic Drugs, 1976, 8(3): 215-21.
60. Pascarosa, P., Futterman, S., and Halsweig, M. pbservations of alcoholics in the peyote ritual: A pilot study.Ɜ Ann. NY Acad. Sci., 1976, 273: 518-24.
61. Petrullo, V. Ґeyotism as an emergent Indian culture.Ɜ In, Indians at Work: A Newssheet for Indians and the Indian Service. Bur of Indian Affairs, Wash., D.C., 7(8), 1940: 51-60.
62. Phifer, B. ç Review of the Research and Theological Implications of the Use of Psychedelic Drugs with Terminal Cancer Patients.Ɜ J of Drug Issues, 7(3), 287-292, 1977.
63. Porush, D. Ēinding God in the Three-Pound Universe: The Neuroscience of Transcendence.Ɜ Omni, p. 60, October, 1993.
64. Richards, W., et al. Ђhe Peak Experience Variable in DPT-Assisted Psychotherapy with Cancer Patients.Ɜ J. of Psychedelic Drugs, 9(1), 1-10, Jan-Mar, 1977.
65. Schultes, R.E. Ђhe appeal of peyote... as a medicine.Ɜ American Anthropologist, 40(4), 1938: 698- 715.
66. Sheehan, D. ç Review of the Use of LSD for the Patient Near Death.Ɜ The Psychiatric Forum, 21- 23, 1972.
67. Strassman, R. çdverse Reactions to Psychedelic Drugs: A Review of the Literature.Ɜ J of Nervous and Mental Disease, 172(10), 577-595, October, 1984.
68. Strassman, R. Human Hallucinogenic Drug Research in the United States: A Present-day Case History and Review of the Process.Ɜ J of Psychoactive Drugs, 23(1), 29-38, Jan.-Mar., 1991.
69. Strassman, R. â̂̃allucinogenic Drugs in Psychiatric Research and Treatment.Ɜ J. of Nervous and Mental Disease, 183(3), 127-137, 1994.
70. Wagner, R. ғome pragmatic aspects of Navaho Peyotism.Ɜ Plains Anthrop, 20, 8/75: 197-205.
71. Yensen, R. ЬSD and Psychotherapy.Ɜ J. of Psychoactive Drugs, 17(4), 267-277, 10-12/75.

Magazines and Web Sites

1. Bulletin of the Multidisciplinary Association for Psychedelic Studies. (Sarasota, FL: MAPS, http://www.maps.org.)
2. The Council on Spiritual Practices. (S.F.: http://www.csp.org/)
3. The Entheogen Review: The Journal of Unauthorized Research on Visionary Plants and Drugs. (http://www.entheogenreview.com/.)
4. Religion and Psychoactive Sacraments: An Entheogen Chrestomathy. (S.F.: Council on Spiritual Practices, http://www.csp.org/chrestomathy/a_chrestomathy.html.)
5. Entheos: The Journal of Psychedelic Spirituality (San Diego, CA: http://www.entheomedia.com/.)
6. Gnosis: A Journal of the Western Inner Traditions. (See Special Issue: Ґsychedelics and

the Path,ȝ
7. No. 26, Winter, 1993, 96 pp.) (SF: Lumen Foundation, ISSN 0894-6159.)
8. Journal of Cognitive Liberties. (Davis, CA: Center for Cognitive Liberty and Ethics, http://www.cognitiveliberty.org)
9. Journal of Psychoactive Drugs. (See Special Issue: Ƕherapeutic Use of Hallucinogens,ȝVol 30, No. 4, 128 pp.) (S.F.: Haight-Ashbury Publications, http://www.hafci.org/journal/.)
10. Magical Blend Magazine: A Transformative Journey. (Chico, CA: Magical Blend, ISSN 1040-4287.)
11. ReVISION- Journal of Consciousness and Change. (See Special Issue: Ƒsychedelics Revisited,ȝ Vol. 10, No. 4, Spring, 1988, 72 pp.) (Washington, D.C.: Heldref Publications.)
12. Cliff Schaffer Psychedelic Library (online copies of selected classic literature):
13. Psychotherapy and Psychedelic Drugs: http://www.psychedelic-library.org/thermenu.htm
14. Psychedelics and Religious Experience: http://www.psychedelic-library.org/relmenu.htm
15. Psychedelic Experience and Personal Growth: http://www.psychedelic-library.org/persmenu.htm
16. Shamanƈ Drum: A Journal of Experiential Shamanism and Spiritual Healing. (Williams, OR: Cross- Cultural Shamanism Network, ISSN 0887-8897.)
17. Tricycle: The Buddhist Review. (See Fifth Anniversary Special Issue: ≠uddhism and Psychedelics,ȝ VI, N1, Fall, 1996, 160 pp.) (NY: The Buddhist Ray, Inc., ISSN 1055-484x.)

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Tue, 4/21/09, Alex van Deelen wrote:
From: Alex van Deelen
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 21, 2009, 11:45 AM

Asar,

Re: Evolution out of Africa? Response 2
Posted by: "Asar Imhotep" asar_imhotep@ yahoo.com asar_imhotep
Mon Apr 20, 2009 7:05 pm (PDT)

> I am unaware of a systemic study off the back. I am only aware of > these examinations regarding Zulu warriors against the British. You > might find mention in some things regarding voudun but I can't think > of a systematic study. I might have to look into this myself.
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com

Back in the day, Terence McKenna bemoaned the fact that so few studies of religion go into the use and types of psychedelics and narcotics that were regarded as sacred, but not 'taboo' as they are in western society, with it's cultural prohobition against personal (as opposed to organized) religious experience.

Especially if you look at the type of 'hallucinations' that go with Ayahuasca - jaguars, hugely detailed cities, those seem to be potentially hugely influential on South American culture and consciousness.

If these substances are stepping stones in cultural evolution, their study should be very revealing about official religion and ideation.

Cheers,

Alex

| 28652|2009-04-21 23:51:06|Asar Imhotep|Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?|
Just wanted to revamp this for someone on the forum.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Wed, 3/11/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:
From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, March 11, 2009, 6:03 AM

Peace Phamily

I am trying to get clarity on a claim by Wim Van Binsbergen concerning the origins of Geoma coming from Arabia and spreading across Africa. In the few papers I have been able to rea never explains how there are not strong Arabic terms that would correspond, for instance, the 16 primary Odu of Ifa. When someone introduces something to another ethnic group, i ethnic group does not have a ready made equivalent in their language for the concept, they going to adopt the names associated with the language that introduced it to them.

Does anyone know of any critiques of Binsbergen's work? His analysis seems way off kilt I've already found holes upon holes within his central thesis. Here is an article to see what mean: http://www.shikanda .net/afrocentris m/rethink2. htm

Here is the full gamit of his work: http://www.shikanda .net/african_ religion/ index.htm

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

| 28653|2009-04-22 07:05:31|leroy siner|Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?|
From what I gleaned from his articleI believe his arguements are week. Particularly when I looked into the doubling nature of African mathematics. I think Ron Eglashe's book African Fractals gives strong examples that the divination could not have originatedfrom the Arabs. Much of African architecture itself reveals the template for the binary divination system (strongly so in my opinion). I also thought Eglash took a paternalistic approach to African Mathematics and made light of the plaigarism of African knowledge systems such as the "Cantor" set which is really an"African Lotus set" at least that is whatI call it.
LeRoy

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 1:50 AM

Just wanted to revamp this for someone on the forum.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Wed, 3/11/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:
From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, March 11, 2009, 6:03 AM

Peace Phamily

I am trying to get clarity on a claim by Wim Van Binsbergen concerning the origins of Geomancy coming from Arabia and spreading across Africa. In the few papers I have been able to read, he never explains how there are not strong Arabic terms that would correspond, for instance, with the 16 primary Odu of Ifa. When someone introduces something to another ethnic group, if that ethnic group does not have a ready made equivalent in their language for the concept, they are going to adopt the names associated with the language that introduced it to them.

Does anyone know of any critiques of Binsbergen's work? His analysis seems way off kilter and I've already found holes upon holes within his central thesis. Here is an article to see what I mean: http://www.shikanda .net/afrocentris m/rethink2. htm

Here is the full gamit of his work: http://www.shikanda .net/african_ religion/ index.htm

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

MOCHA-Versity

| 28654|2009-04-22 08:59:51|Michael J Robinson|Dr Ray Hagins, Minister Karin Stewart and Professor Hunter Adams are|

Maat Hotep Family,

I wanted to remind you about these upcoming events in the Chicago and Detroit areas.

Upcoming Events and Lectures

(Please forward this information out to your friends in these areas)

Friday, April 24th in Chicago, IL

The Chicago Chapter of the Afrikan Village and Culture Center (CC-AV&CC)

PROUDLY PRESENT

AN EVENING WITH THE RENOWN

DR. RAY HAGINS

Founder, Chief Elder and Spiritual Leader of the Afrikan

Village and Culture Center (AV&CC),

St. Louis, Missouri

Dr. Hagins is also a Clinician, Therapist, Musician, radio and syndicated TV show host. He is an advocate for developing strong communities through healthy, productive families and spends a great deal of time addressing marriage and family issues. His informative and dynamic presentations has caused him to be recognized as one of the most distinguished expositors of our time.

Date: Friday April 24, 2009

Time: Doors Open at 6:00 P.M.

Location: The Jacob H. Carruthers Center for Inner City Studies

700 E. Oakwood Blvd

Chicago, Illinois 60653

For Information Contact:

Brother Charles Huey: 773-701-2136

Brother Olu Olufemi Chike: 708-769-4906

Sister TyWanna (AriAnkha): 773-858-2711

To view clips of Dr. Ray Hagins lectures, please visit www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914.

Please visit his website, www.WBLR.com where you can hear his lectures 24/7.

Saturday, April 25th in Detroit, MI

I wanted to let you know that the Afrikan Village Study Group in Detroit is proud to announce that Min. Karin Stewart of the Afrikan Village in St. Louis is coming to Detroit, MI Saturday, April 25th. Please let your friends who live in the Detroit area know about this workshop.

Financial Workshop Sponsored by the TAV Study Group Detroit

HOW TO BUILD YOUR FINANCIAL HOUSE

Recession Recovery Tips

Find out the Importance of Owning Life Insurance

Learn how to properly diversify your 401K

Find out who should own a trust

Learn How to Become Credit Smart

How To Keep Your Retirement Plan From Becoming Your Long-Term Care Plan

Featured Speaker is Minister Karin Stewart

Minister Stewart is the CEO and President of Work Your Money, Inc. She is licensed by NASD (National Association of Securities Dealers). Her company's main focus is assisting families, churches and small business owners with their long term financial planning.

Join us on April 25, 2009 at 2:00 PM 5:30 PM

at the Detroit Public Library, Chandler Park Branch

12800 Harper (At Dickerson) Detroit, MI

*Please note that there is limited space and seating in not guaranteed. Please call us by Monday April 20th to let us know if you will be joining us. 313-319-2586 or 313-207-1008 or email us at DJBeasley@aol.com.

Saturday, April 25th in Detroit, MI

Raise Yourself Science of Salvation and Transformation!!!

Kheper-Ra Study Group brings

Prof. Hunter H. Adams III from Chicago, IL.

Saturday, April 25th, 2009

5:00pm 8:00pm

At The Dexter Elmhurst Center located at 11825 Dexter, Detroit, MI 48206

You are invited to a seminar that examines faith in light of new and novel, myth-shattering findings about how the brain-mind functions and malfunctions. Learn the many ways in which youre your beliefs, thoughts, memories and emotion at conscious and unconscious levels, social setting, situation, cultural history and identity impact spiritual meaning and experience.

There will be a $10.00 Donation. For more information, please contact 313-218-4491.

Thanks,

Bro. Michael

www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914

mjrob1914@comcast.net

mjrob1914@gmail.com

Right knowledge corrects wrong behavior.

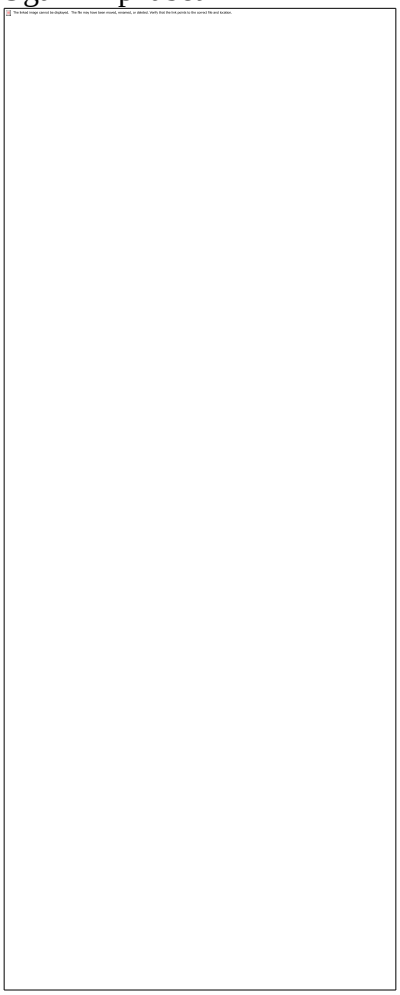
| 28655|2009-04-22 09:05:27|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> When someone introduces something to another ethnic group, if that ethnic group does not have a ready made equivalent in their language for the concept, they are going to adopt the names associated with the language that introduced it to them.
>

Usually that is the case, although there are exceptions.

For example, a particular type of fish corral was used in South Spain since Phoenician times, and particularly in Roman times it was used extensively.

However, it became known in Spain by the name given to it by the Moors much later on: almadraba. So it is possible that words can get replaced latter on for various reasons.

However, if you have a whole system like geomancy with extensive terminology, it does makes sense that many words would be borrowed.



The mathematics of African geomancy is definitely indigenous.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

| 28656|2009-04-22 09:56:58|Asar Imhotep|Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?|
This is why I posted the information about the Ogam script of Nigeria. If you pay attention to the script, it seems to be the foundation for the divination notation. If they are already writing with lines, it would make sense that their divination would follow this same pattern.

Also, this Ogam script reminds me of the notation of the Ishango bone.

Ogam Alphabet

18000 - 20000 BCE

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Paul Kekai Manansala wrote:

From: Paul Kekai Manansala
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 10:48 AM

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> When someone introduces something to another ethnic group, if that ethnic group does not have a ready made equivalent in their language for the concept, they are going to adopt the names associated with the language that introduced it to them.
>

Usually that is the case, although there are exceptions.

For example, a particular type of fish corral was used in South Spain since Phoenician times, and particularly in Roman times it was used extensively.

However, it became known in Spain by the name given to it by the Moors much later on: almadraba. So it is possible that words can get replaced latter on for various reasons.

However, if you have a whole system like geomancy with extensive terminology, it does makes sense that many words would be borrowed.

The mathematics of African geomancy is definitely indigenous.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

| 28657|2009-04-22 12:27:06|just_being_myself_352|New group focusing on ancient Kmt and Africa as a whole|
Hello fellow Ta-seti posters,

You might remember me from awhile back I use to post under the name alberto and saidis_aswan_egy. For awhile I was moderating the Egyptsearch board but it became stagnant and began to wither into a troll infested board. Over the years we discussed alot of important topics that unfortunately were forever lost.

I decided to start a new forum to subsitute for the deteriation of Egyptsearch. Understand, my group is not as a means to take away from Ta-seti or any other African based board. I have the hope to add insight and contributions to the flow of African studies.

Hopefully, the moderator here will allow me to post a link to my yahoo group.

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/FromtheNileandBeyond/members?group=sub&start=0

Thanks,

Ausar
| 28658|2009-04-22 13:05:02|Asar Imhotep|Re: New group focusing on ancient Kmt and Africa as a whole|
I guess it is the fate of all forums as of late. How do we ensure that this, and future lists, do not fall victim to the psuedo/street scholars who want to promote moorish, islamic, christian propaganda, or Eurocentric/Arab misconceptions of African concepts?

Should there be a ranking system for such a forum? I think everyone should write an essay to join forums now so you can see if they would be a contributor or not. There should be two levels of membership: contributors and listeners.

The contributors, those who have proven themselves that they provide valuable information (however subjective that is) to the forum, would be the ones allowed to post information.

The listeners can only respond to topics, but not post an initial forum. That way you begin to ween out those who have alternative motives as they would be forced to address the topic forums.

If a listener wants to move to the rank of contributor, then he/she would have to write an essay to be approved by the board members.

I think something like this would work.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, just_being_myself_352 wrote:
From: just_being_myself_352
Subject: [Ta_Seti] New group focusing on ancient Kmt and Africa as a whole
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 1:49 PM

Hello fellow Ta-seti posters,

You might remember me from awhile back I use to post under the name alberto and saidis_aswan_ egy. For awhile I was moderating the Egyptsearch board but it became stagnant and began to wither into a troll infested board. Over the years we discussed alot of important topics that unfortunately were forever lost.

I decided to start a new forum to subsitute for the deteriation of Egyptsearch. Understand, my group is not as a means to take away from Ta-seti or any other African based board. I have the hope to add insight and contributions to the flow of African studies.

Hopefully, the moderator here will allow me to post a link to my yahoo group.

http://groups. yahoo.com/ group/FromtheNil eandBeyond/ members?group= sub&start= 0

Thanks,

Ausar

| 28659|2009-04-22 13:24:50|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?|
The script looks derived from a base six tally system. Many types of divination arise out of or are linked to tally systems.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

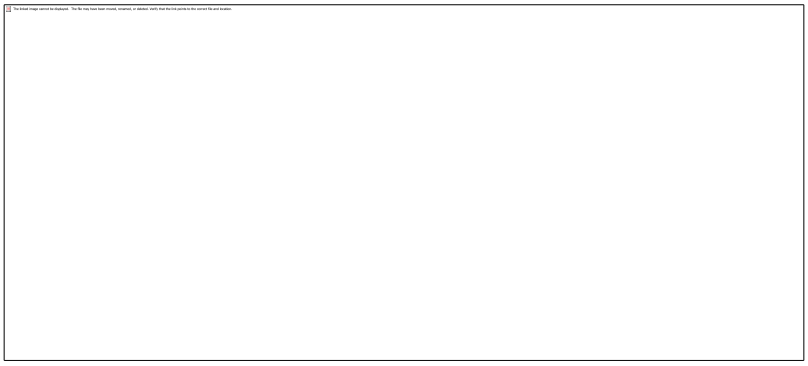
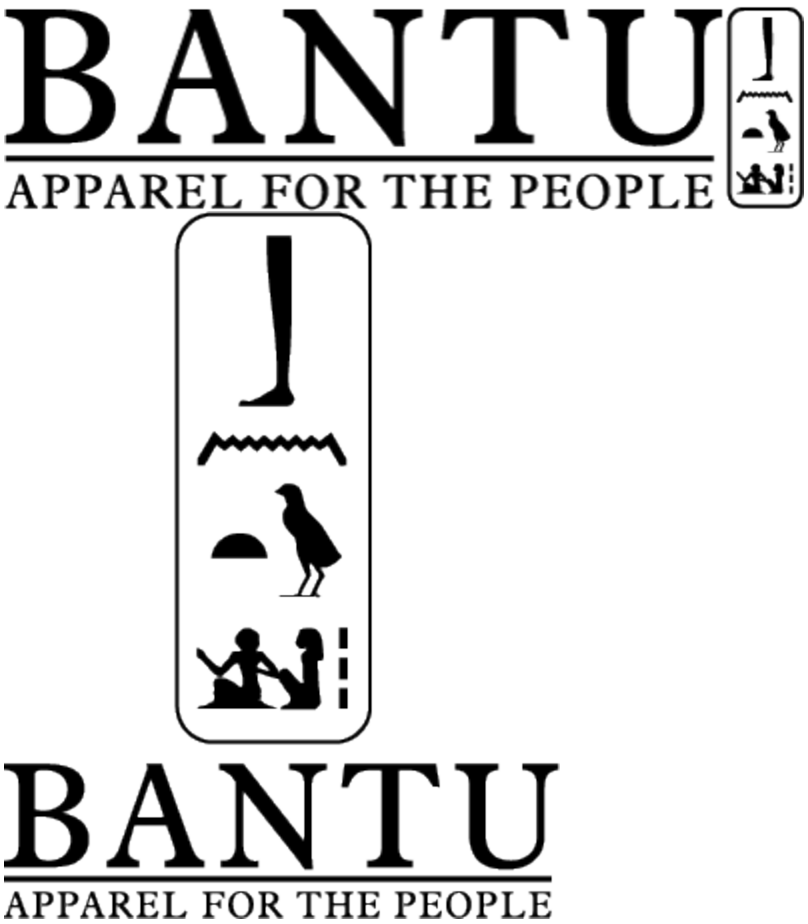
From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 9:56 AM



This is why I posted the information about the Ogam script of Nigeria. If you pay attention to the script, it seems to be the foundation for the divination notation. If they are already writing with lines, it would make sense that their divination would follow this same pattern.

Also, this Ogam script reminds me of the notation of the Ishango bone.



Ogam Alphabet

18000 - 20000 BCE

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Paul Kekai Manansala wrote:
From: Paul Kekai Manansala
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 10:48 AM

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> When someone introduces something to another ethnic group, if that ethnic group does not have a ready made equivalent in their language for the concept, they are going to adopt the names associated with the language that introduced it to them.

>

Usually that is the case, although there are exceptions.

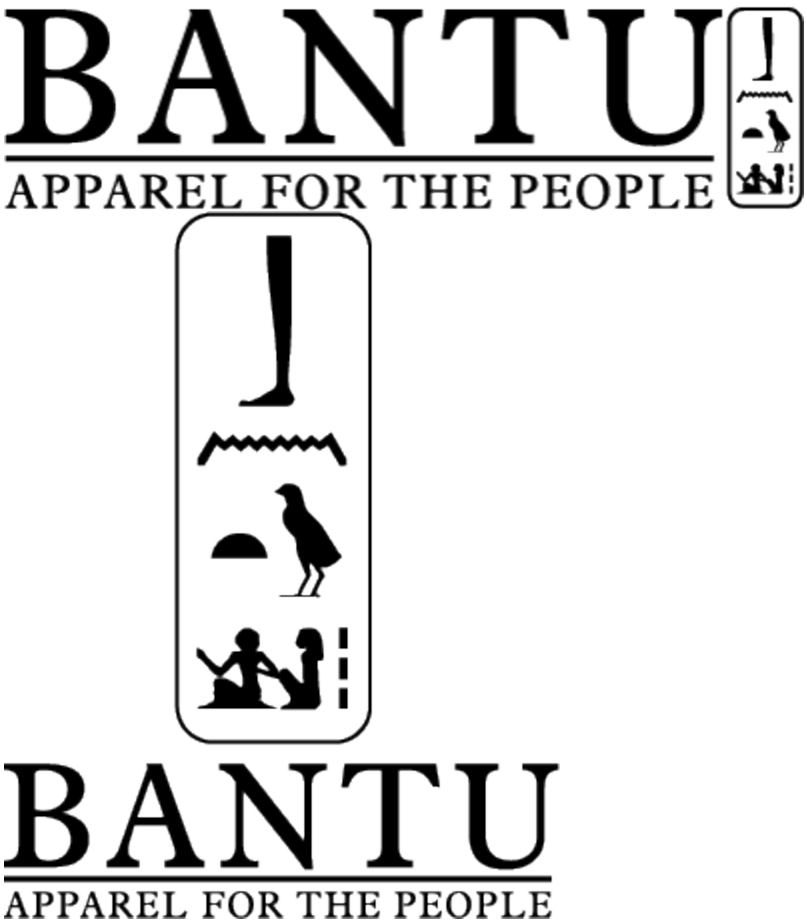
For example, a particular type of fish corral was used in South Spain since Phoenician times, and particularly in Roman times it was used extensively.

However, it became known in Spain by the name given to it by the Moors much later on: almadraba. So it is possible that words can get replaced latter on for various reasons.

However, if you have a whole system like geomancy with extensive terminology, it does makes sense that many words would be borrowed.

The mathematics of African geomancy is definitely indigenous.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala



| 28660|2009-04-22 13:25:51|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: New group focusing on ancient Kmt and Africa as a whole|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "just_being_myself_352" wrote:
>
>
>

For awhile I was moderating the Egyptsearch board but it became stagnant and began to wither into a troll infested board. Over the years we discussed alot of important topics that unfortunately were forever lost.
>
>

Did they delete the archives?

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28661|2009-04-22 13:35:51|Asar Imhotep|Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?|
That's understood, but rarely are they derived from tallies that mean words. So in Ifa divination, the tallies aren't 1 and 2, but "on" and "off" literally.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Paul Kekai Manansala wrote:
From: Paul Kekai Manansala
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 3:23 PM

The script looks derived from a base six tally system. Many types of divination arise out o linked to tally systems.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

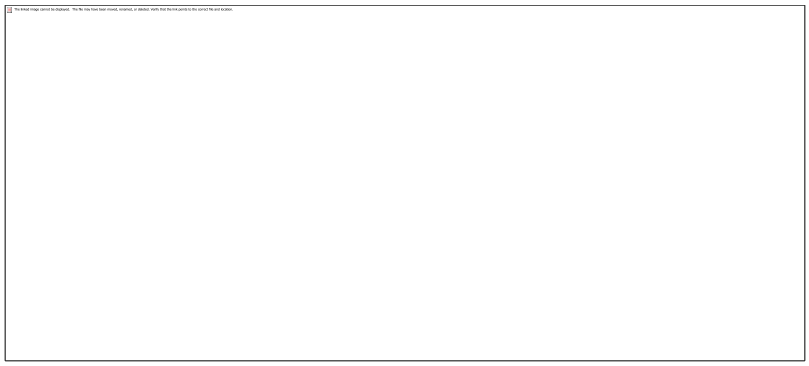
From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 9:56 AM



This is why I posted the information about the Ogam script of Nigeria. If you pay attentio script, it seems to be the foundation for the divination notation. If they are already writing lines, it would make sense that their divination would follow this same pattern.

Also, this Ogam script reminds me of the notation of the Ishango bone.

Ogam Alphabet

18000 - 20000 BCE

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Paul Kekai Manansala wrote:
From: Paul Kekai Manansala
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Geomantic Divination of Africa derived from Arabs?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 10:48 AM

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
> When someone introduces something to another ethnic group, if that ethnic group does not have a ready made equivalent in their language for the concept, they are going to adopt the names associated with the language that introduced it to them.
>

Usually that is the case, although there are exceptions.

For example, a particular type of fish corral was used in South Spain since Phoenician times, and particularly in Roman times it was used extensively.

However, it became known in Spain by the name given to it by the Moors much later on: almadraba. So it is possible that words can get replaced latter on for various reasons.

However, if you have a whole system like geomancy with extensive terminology, it does makes sense that many words would be borrowed.

The mathematics of African geomancy is definitely indigenous.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

| 28662|2009-04-22 13:52:26|Tafari khumbaka|Re: [SmaiTawi] Remembering the African Holocaust|
president Obama is a european-Zionist

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Tenisio Seanima wrote:

From: Tenisio Seanima
Subject: [SmaiTawi] Remembering the African Holocaust
To:
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 1:25 PM

Black Jewish Relations Under Obama:
Reopening Old Wounds

Paul Scott

April 21st is Holocaust Remembrance Day, a day set aside to remember the the Jews who suffered under the Nazi regime. No one can fault an ethnic group for honoring the deaths of millions of its brothers and sisters. However, as a descendant of those who experienced their own African Holocaust I find myself, selfishly, asking "what about us ?"

My feeling of unapologetic, self centeredness has become more pronounced in the aftermath of the Obama Administration's bowing to Jewish pressure and deciding to boycott the UN World Conference Against Racism, an event that would have, initially,allowed issues important to African Americans such as reparations and the Trans Atlantic Slave Trade to be presented on the world stage. This was especially hurtful to a black community that had the misconception that the nations first African American president would give their issues a fair hearing.

For many blacks, this opened up an old wound; Jewish issues taking precedence over African American concerns.

Very few people argue over the death toll of six million Jews during their Holocaust, however, for African Americans it is much different. The number of African people who were brought to America is conservatively estimated at 40 Million. How many Africans perished during the 400 years of the slave trade and the following years of European colonialism the world may never know. Reason being, the concern for people of color pales in comparison to concern for people with white skin.

There is only room for one "most persecuted" group and the Jews aren't sharing that spotlight with anyone.

Some of the best critiques of Black-Jewish relations were written by Harold Cruse in his books "Crisis of the Negro Intellectual" and "Plural but Equal." Cruse points out that contrary to popular belief, there was no real African American-Jewish alliance prior to 1913. It was not until the trial of Leo Frank, a Jewish man, convicted of murder based on the testimony of a black man and later lynched by a white mob that Jewish Americans developed any solidarity with the plight of black people. Prior to that the Jews were just as ambivalent towards the plight of blacks as other white folks.

But this fact is not discussed for fear of being labeled an anti-semite. Black anti-semitism is , in itself, a misnomer. If you look at the actual definition of a Semite, it can apply to members of many ethnic groups of the Afro-Asiatic world; a fact that is conveniently left out of discussions.

If anything, African Americans are Jew phobic. There is a fear, whether real or imagined that if you say anything against Jewish people, something very bad is going to happen to you.

Part of this fear is theological.

Since the enslaved Africans in this country were forbidden to read the Bible, they were unable to develop a theology that placed their struggle in the context of the Divine Being's master plan. Therefore, any group that claims the title of "God's Chosen people" is readily accepted by African Americans, without question. This places them at a distinct disadvantage when dealing with other cultures which have historically made their culture synonymous with their religion.

The fear has also been socio-politically based.

There is a fear among African Americans that being labled an "enemy of the Jews" could result in anything from losing a political office, getting evicted from one's home to being blacklisted by any industry having a high Jewish ownership.

Whether real or imagined, these fears are not, totally, without precedent and the animosity over the control that many believe Jews exert over black lives remains.

Despite the good that Minister Louis Farrakhan and the Nation of Islam have done cleaning up drug infested, black neighborhoods any positive comments about the ministry are blocked by charges of anti-semitism.

In the political realm, Rev. Jesse Jackson had his presidential runs of the 1980's severely impacted by the charge. Also during this period, politicians such as former Chicago political aid, Steve Cokely, lost his job because of charges of making anti-Jewish statements.

Black entertainers have been affected, as well. At the top of his popularity, "the King of Pop" Michael Jackson was dethroned by Jewish activists for mouthing the lyrics "Jew me, sue me" on the controversial song "They Don't Care About Us." Also, many believe that it is more than a coincidence that the top rated Arsenio Hall Show was canceled shortly after the appearance of Min. Louis Farrakhan on the program.

As uncompromising as Hip Hop claims to be, even it has been impacted. During the late 80's, the rap group Public Enemy came under intense scrutiny for comments that group member Professor Griff, allegedly, made that offended Jewish leaders. Even Sean "Puff Daddy" Combs had to censor the lyric "stack chips like Hebrews" from the hit record "All About the Benjamins." The irony being that calls from African American women for rappers to stop recording misogynistic lyrics fall on deaf ears.

While the calls often go out to open channels of dialogue between the black and Jewish communities, this cannot be done without open and honest communication. Before we can move forward, we have to heal the old wounds of the past. This can only be done by cultural education which must begin with an African American community that has little knowledge of its own history.

Unfortunately, the African American scholars who have been capable of bringing historical clarity to the issue like Dr. Tony Martin and Dr. Leonard Jeffries have,themselves, been demonized as anti-semites.

On April 21st millions of Jews will repeat the phrase, "never forget!"

Unfortunately for African Americans, we cannot forget that which we have never been allowed to learn.

Paul Scott writes for No Warning Shots Fired.com. He can be reached at info@nowarningshots fired.com or (919) 451-8283

No Warning Shots Fired.com
(Hardcore News and Views with a Gangsta Attitude)
http://www.nowarnin gshotsfired. com
(919) 451-8283

--

"Most people search high and wide for the key to success. If they only knew the key to their dreams lies within."
George Washington Carver

"We must look at the psychopathology of everyday life and must recognize we cannot have it both ways. We cannot talk about a people who have enslaved us, who discriminate against us, who insult us, who do all manner of other things against us, and then use them as models of normality."
Amos N. Wilson
"The Falsification of Afrikan Consciousness"

"To live on the achievement of others is to really admit the superiority of others, and the inferiority of self." Marcus Mosiah Garvey

"Cowardice asks the question: is it safe? Expediency asks the question: is it political? Vanity asks the question: is it popular? But conscience asks the question: is it right? And there comes a time when one must take a position that is neither safe, nor political, nor popular - but one must take it simply because it is right." Martin Luther King, Jr.

"I had reasoned this out in my mind, there was one of two things I had a right to, liberty or death; if I could not have one, I would have the other." Harriet Tubman

"In Africa..., the woman's 'place' was not only with her family; she often ruled nations with unquestionable authority. Many African women were great militarists, and on occasion led their armies in battle. The Africans had produced a civilization where men were secure enough to let women advance as far as their talent, royal lineage and prerogatives would take them."
John Henrik Clarke
"Woman's Place in African Antiquity"

"One does not enter into the water and then run from the cold." Yoruba (Afrikan) proverb

J O I N T H E W U R L D ! ! !

| 28663|2009-04-22 16:07:42|just_being_myself_352|Re: New group focusing on ancient Kmt and Africa as a whole|
The moderator never archived any information. Most of it over 4 years old simply fell off the board and into obscurity. I don't think there will ever be another thing like Egyptsearch simply because nobody with enough money will invest money into such a subject. The closest thing I have seen is Myra's website.
| 28664|2009-04-22 20:10:45|Marc Taylor|Re: [SmaiTawi] Remembering the African Holocaust|

He may not be fully european, but hes definitely a zionist, this thinking makes him nearly an automatic enemy of African Americans. Black folks need to wake up and smell the zionism...

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [SmaiTawi] Remembering the African Holocaust
To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 3:51 PM

president Obama is a european-Zionist

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Tenisio Seanima wrote:

From: Tenisio Seanima
Subject: [SmaiTawi] Remembering the African Holocaust
To:
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 1:25 PM

> Black Jewish Relations Under Obama:
> Reopening Old Wounds
>
> Paul Scott
>
> April 21st is Holocaust Remembrance Day, a day set aside to remember the the Jews who suffered under the Nazi regime. No one can fault an ethnic group for honoring the deaths of millions of its brothers and sisters. However, as a descendant of those who experienced their own African Holocaust I find myself, selfishly, asking "what about us ?"
>
> My feeling of unapologetic, self centeredness has become more pronounced in the aftermath of the Obama Administration' s bowing to Jewish pressure and deciding to boycott the UN World Conference Against Racism, an event that would have, initially,allowed issues important to African Americans such as reparations and the Trans Atlantic Slave Trade to be presented on the world stage. This was especially hurtful to a black community that had the misconception that the nations first African American president would give their issues a fair hearing.
>
> For many blacks, this opened up an old wound; Jewish issues taking precedence over African American concerns.

Very few people argue over the death toll of six million Jews during their Holocaust, however, for African Americans it is much different. The number of African people who were brought to America is conservatively estimated at 40 Million. How many Africans perished during the 400 years of the slave trade and the following years of European colonialism the world may never know. Reason being, the concern for people of color pales in comparison to concern for people with white skin.

There is only room for one "most persecuted" group and the Jews aren't sharing that spotlight with anyone.

Some of the best critiques of Black-Jewish relations were written by Harold Cruse in his books "Crisis of the Negro Intellectual" and "Plural but Equal." Cruse points out that contrary to popular belief, there was no real African American-Jewish alliance prior to 1913. It was not until the trial of Leo Frank, a Jewish man, convicted of murder based on the testimony of a black man and later lynched by a white mob that Jewish Americans developed any solidarity with the plight of black people. Prior to that the Jews were just as ambivalent towards the plight of blacks as other white folks.

But this fact is not discussed for fear of being labeled an anti-semite. Black anti-semitism is , in itself, a misnomer. If you look at the actual definition of a Semite, it can apply to members of many ethnic groups of the Afro-Asiatic world; a fact that is conveniently left out of discussions.

If anything, African Americans are Jew phobic. There is a fear, whether real or imagined that if you say anything against Jewish people, something very bad is going to happen to you.

Part of this fear is theological.

Since the enslaved Africans in this country were forbidden to read the Bible, they were unable to develop a theology that placed their struggle in the context of the Divine Being's master plan. Therefore, any group that claims the title of "God's Chosen people" is readily accepted by African Americans, without question. This places them at a distinct disadvantage when dealing with other cultures which have historically made their culture synonymous with their religion.

The fear has also been socio-politically based.

There is a fear among African Americans that being labled an "enemy of the Jews" could result in anything from losing a political office, getting evicted from one's home to being blacklisted by any industry having a high Jewish ownership.

Whether real or imagined, these fears are not, totally, without precedent and the animosity over the control that many believe Jews exert over black lives remains.

Despite the good that Minister Louis Farrakhan and the Nation of Islam have done cleaning up drug infested, black neighborhoods any positive comments about the ministry are blocked by charges of anti-semitism.

In the political realm, Rev. Jesse Jackson had his presidential runs of the 1980's severely impacted by the charge. Also during this period, politicians such as former Chicago political aid, Steve Cokely, lost his job because of charges of making anti-Jewish statements.

Black entertainers have been affected, as well. At the top of his popularity, "the King of Pop" Michael Jackson was dethroned by Jewish activists for mouthing the lyrics "Jew me, sue me" on the controversial song "They Don't Care About Us." Also, many believe that it is more than a coincidence that the top rated Arsenio Hall Show was canceled shortly after the appearance of Min. Louis Farrakhan on the program.

As uncompromising as Hip Hop claims to be, even it has been impacted. During the late 80's, the rap group Public Enemy came under intense scrutiny for comments that group member Professor Griff, allegedly, made that offended Jewish leaders. Even Sean "Puff Daddy" Combs had to censor the lyric "stack chips like Hebrews" from the hit record "All About the Benjamins." The irony being that calls from African American women for rappers to stop recording misogynistic lyrics fall on deaf ears.

While the calls often go out to open channels of dialogue between the black and Jewish communities, this cannot be done without open and honest communication. Before we can move forward, we have to heal the old wounds of the past. This can only be done by cultural education which must begin with an African American community that has little knowledge of its own history.

Unfortunately, the African American scholars who have been capable of bringing historical clarity to the issue like Dr. Tony Martin and Dr. Leonard Jeffries have,themselves, been demonized as anti-semites.

On April 21st millions of Jews will repeat the phrase, "never forget!"

Unfortunately for African Americans, we cannot forget that which we have never been allowed to learn.

Paul Scott writes for No Warning Shots Fired.com. He can be reached at info@nowarningshots fired.com or (919) 451-8283

No Warning Shots Fired.com
(Hardcore News and Views with a Gangsta Attitude)

http://www.nowarnin gshotsfired. com
(919) 451-8283

--

"Most people search high and wide for the key to success. If they only knew the key to their dreams lies within."
George Washington Carver

"We must look at the psychopathology of everyday life and must recognize we cannot have it both ways. We cannot talk about a people who have enslaved us, who discriminate against us, who insult us, who do all manner of other things against us, and then use them as models of normality."
Amos N. Wilson
"The Falsification of Afrikan Consciousness"

"To live on the achievement of others is to really admit the superiority of others, and the inferiority of self." Marcus Mosiah Garvey

"Cowardice asks the question: is it safe? Expediency asks the question: is it political? Vanity asks the question: is it popular? But conscience asks the question: is it right? And there comes a time when one must take a position that is neither safe, nor political, nor popular - but one must take it simply because it is right." Martin Luther King, Jr.

"I had reasoned this out in my mind, there was one of two things I had a right to, liberty or death; if I could not have one, I would have the other." Harriet Tubman

"In Africa..., the woman's 'place' was not only with her family; she often ruled nations with unquestionable authority. Many African women were great militarists, and on occasion led their armies in battle. The Africans had produced a civilization where men were secure enough to let women advance as far as their talent, royal lineage and prerogatives would take them."
John Henrik Clarke
"Woman's Place in African Antiquity"

"One does not enter into the water and then run from the cold." Yoruba (Afrikan) proverb

J O I N T H E W U R L D ! ! !
| 28665|2009-04-22 20:10:48|meera_jasmin@ymail.com|All Educational Information at one place...|
All Educational Information at one place...

http://tinyurl.com/co3t32

Hot Hollywood Videos 100% Free...

http://desipuvvu.blogspot.com/
| 28666|2009-04-23 20:22:20|Asar Imhotep|Egyptian determinatives Bantu Affixes - Luba Language|
Peace Phamily

I mentioned a while ago a book that discusses the Egyptian determinatives being Bantu Affixes. Here is the author that introduced me to the concept and his short book that discusses it. The whole book is written in Kikongo, so you will have to have a background in the language. But it is a treasure to have if you can get it.

Tuleshi Kapya Ne Dyanga Mu CiKam

By Mubabinge Bilolo

http://books.google.com/books?id=D8Isv1FwuocC&dq=Mubabinge+Bilolo&printsec=frontcover&source=bl&ots=zjcmFi_FOt&sig=xGgUdmdoO1XVIJjjn-MVjHcx9Fc&hl=en&ei=IGDtSanzAcKltgeSlvTHDw&sa=X&oi=book_result&ct=result&resnum=7

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28667|2009-04-23 20:22:39|odhiambo okecth|Tussle over Migingo. Daily Nation 23/4/09|
Paul M Mwangi, an advocate of the High Courts of Kenya, in his article titled Tussle over Migingo in todays Daily Nation page 11 makes a rather interesting and uninformed opinion over Migingo Island.

This comes just a few days after the Daily Nation in their editorial seemed to share in the view that Migingo could be a non-issue, the same sentiments expressed by the Chief of the General Staff of our cowards in the barracks.

Mr. Mwangi said, So far, Migingo appears to be worth nothing more than our sentimental and patriotic regards [whatever that means]. For the country, it appears to be of little economic value. Surely! What of the 5 tones of fish that Migingo generates over every 3 days? Is that of no economic value?

Surely, and this is a lawyer. He goes down to make some very interesting observations. He says that Migingo is such a useless piece that even Museveni calls it a rock. That it cannot settle even a few hundred Kenyans or Ugandans. My foot and this is a lawyer!

Mr. Mwangi, it does not matter even if it were a rock. It is Kenyan rock and nobody must take it from Kenya. If Museveni calls it a rock, then why has he sent his Army to take it? Why can he not wait for arbitration to determine if the rock is Kenyan rock or Ugandan rock? Museveni has seen something useful in the Kenyan rock and the lawyer in Mwangi is seeing nothing!

Mwangi wants us to give the rock to Uganda in exchange of trade with Uganda. My. Do you defecate on your sovereignty in exchange of trade? That all goods to Uganda pass through Kenya and as such, we must give Uganda our Migingo! Surely this lawyer has missed it all. Somebody invades your territory and takes your land and you cower because of trade and the prospects of loosing in that trade. Go to hell Mr. Mwangi.

Mr. Mwangi must know that Migingo is a hub of fishing activities. It generates almost 5 tones of fish every 3 days. That is very serious business for your information. Migingo is a source of livelihood to many families in Kenya. Many children are taken to school by money from the proceeds of fish business. Many families in Kenya put bread on the table courtesy of Migingo.

By the way, do you cede your land because of trade? We will cede Migingo today, Pokot tomorrow, Busia the next day, Malaba the following day, Kisumu the next day, all because we must appease Uganda on the strength of trade and commerce. We will cede Kericho, Kisii, Kakamega, Eldoret, peace by peace because we must please Uganda on the strength of trade and commerce! We will then cede Kabarnet, Nakuru, Gilgil, Naivasha and Limuru because of trade and commerce. And Mr. Mwangi will be a happy man because the strength of trade and commerce supersedes our sovereignty. And he is a lawyer.

Soon Ugandans will be at Nairobi, and they will take Machakos and move to Mombasa. And Kenya will be no more because this lawyer wants us to cede our land on the strength of trade and commerce. It reminds me of Nazi Germany where a priest kept silent when his neighbours were being taken to the gallows.

The Nazis came for the communists and he kept silent because he was not a communist. They then came for the Jews and he kept silent because he was not a Jew. They next came for the Trade Unionists and he kept silent because he was not a Trade Unionist. Next they came for the Catholics and he kept silent because he was not a Catholic.

When they came for him, there was no one to talk for him. And this is the prescription this lawyer is giving Kenyans; that in exchange of trade and commerce, we can let Migingo go.

And this is a lawyer arguing so stupidly. No. We must not cede any inch of our land to anybody on the strength of trade and commerce. I would rather we uproot the rail to Uganda and dig trenches on the road to Uganda so that we reclaim our rock. I would rather I die hungry than to appease Museveni over what Mwangi calls a peace of rock.

That peace of rock is Kenyan rock and nobody must claim it.

If that rock is so worthless, why is Museveni so desperate for it? Can this lawyer think about this? And by the way, why is the Daily Nation giving this kind of thinking such prominence? Is it meant to spite the people around Lake Victoria?

Does the Nation Media Group envisage that this kind of reporting can be taken as being hostile to the people and that it can affect its sales in the whole country? It is an affront to our sovereignty.

Odhiambo T Oketch

Komarock Nairobi.

| 28668|2009-04-23 20:24:18|Renato Callado Borges|Re: New group focusing on ancient Kmt and Africa as a whole|
Greetings everyone!

I've recently started lurking this list, and wouldn't dare post so early if it weren't a tech-related post, that I hope may be of value.

> 3c. Re: New group focusing on ancient Kmt and Africa as a whole > Posted by: "Paul Kekai Manansala" pmanansala@sbcglobal.net pinatubo.geo
> Date: Wed Apr 22, 2009 1:25 pm ((PDT))
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "just_being_myself_352" wrote:
> >
> >
> >
> For awhile I was moderating the Egyptsearch board but it became stagnant and began to wither into a troll infested board. Over the years we discussed alot of important topics that unfortunately were forever lost.
> >
> >
>
> Did they delete the archives?
>
> Regards,
> Paul Kekai Manansala

Have you guys checked out the Internet Archive? I've found they keep records of www.egyptsearch.com from 1998 onwards:

http://web.archive.org/web/*/http://www.egyptsearch.com

--
[]'s, RCB.
http://sampa.if.usp.br/~rborges/
http://stoa.usp.br/callado/
| 28669|2009-04-23 21:04:53|Michael Bayman|Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency: Blogtalkradio|

From: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency:
Central-Command: Communications-Unit
Unto: Original-men and women, on-this-planet (Moors be they declared or undeclared)
Re: An-invitation for the sharing of the upcoming broadcast-segment: experience.
I.S.L.A.M.:
Peace and love from the entire: Amexem-Moor-Empire: National-Family.

By the power, authority, and permission of the Grand-Architect, we-dispatch-this: invitation unto you for the sharing of the experience of the upcoming blogtalkradio: segment of the presenting by the

Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency = Amexem-Moor-Empire:

Imperial-Government-Watch by the authority of the Amexem-Moor-Empire:

Minister For The Communications, His-Excellency: Grand-Noble: Dan: El at the direction of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Constitutional-Monarch, His-Imperial-Majesty: Emperor: An-Anu-El: Bey.

Todays-Broadcast And All-Previous: Broadcast-Segments = available at the link = http://www.blogtalkradio.com/yahoo_com_group_NorthAmexemObservers
Blogtalkradio: Segment-Call-in: phone-number = (646) 652-2901 [thursdays at 7pm, E.S.T.]
Brief-Highlights Regarding The Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Government-Operations

>Of the dispatching by the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency:

Central-Command: Communications-Unit

| 28670|2009-04-23 21:20:20|Ginger Daniels|Mystery Illnesses Sack Westchester, L.I. Schools|

This page was sent to you by Ginger

http://wcbstv.com/local/mystery.illness.horace.2.987685.html

WCBS http://wcbstv.com

Windows Live SkyDrive: Get 25 GB of free online storage. Check it out.
| 28671|2009-04-24 12:02:38|Asar Imhotep|Re: Egyptian determinatives Bantu Affixes - Luba Language|
I apologize to the forum. The book is written in the Luba language, not Kikongo.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Thu, 4/23/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:
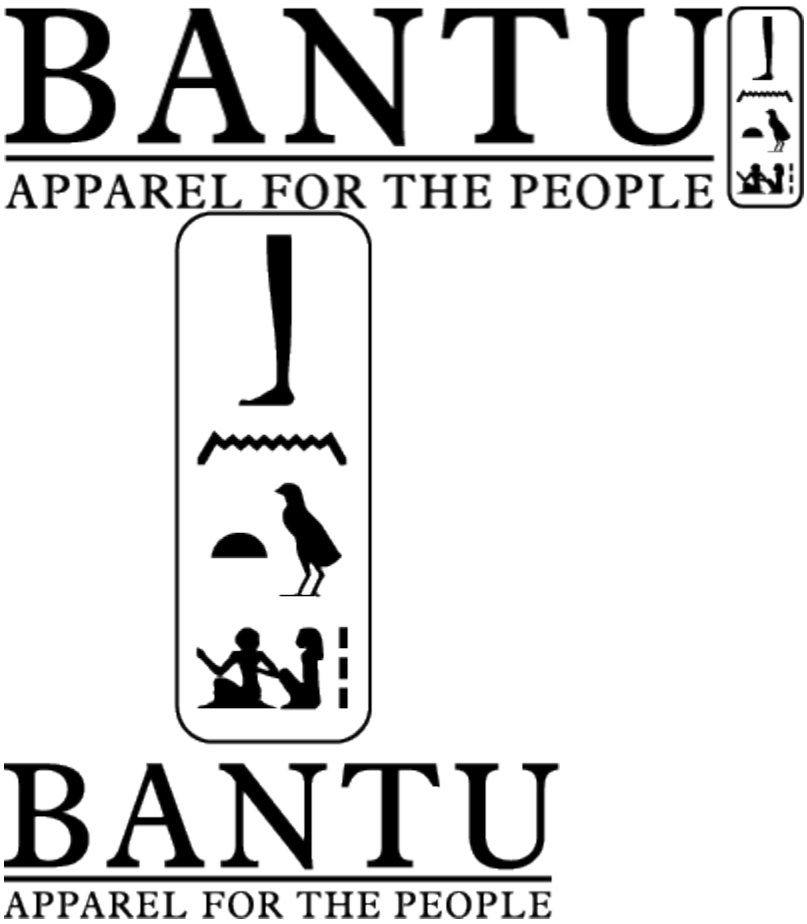
From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: Egyptian determinatives Bantu Affixes - Luba Language
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com, FromtheNileandBeyond@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 23, 2009, 10:22 PM

Peace Phamily



I mentioned a while ago a book that discusses the Egyptian determinatives being Bantu Af
Here is the author that introduced me to the concept and his short book that discusses it. T whole book is written in Kikongo, so you will have to have a background in the language.
is a treasure to have if you can get it.

Tuleshi Kapya Ne Dyanga Mu CiKam

By Mubabinge Bilolo

http://books.google.com/books?id=D8Isv1FwuocC&dq=Mubabinge+Bilolo&printsec=frontcover&source=bl&ots=zjcmFi_FOt&sig=xGgUdmdoO1XVIJjjn-MVjHcx9Fc&hl=en&ei=IGDtSanzAcKltgeSlvTHDw&sa=X&oi=book_result&ct=result&resnum=7

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

| 28672|2009-04-24 12:05:18|Agola Kisira|Fw: Fwd: Enc: Life without black people|

Life without black people

A very humorous and revealing story is told about a group of white people who were fed up with African Americans, so they joined together and wished themselves away. They passed through a deep dark tunnel and e merged in sort of a twilight zone where there is an America without black people.

At first these white people breathed a sigh of relief.

At last, they said, No more crime, drugs, violence and welfare.

All of the blacks have gone! Then suddenly, reality set in. The "NEW AMERICA " is not America at all-only a barren land.

1. There are very few crops that have flourished because the nation was built on a slave-supported system.

2. There are no cities with tall skyscrapers because Alexander Mils, a black man, invented the elevator, and without it, one finds great difficulty reaching higher floors.

3. There are few if any cars because Richard Spikes, a black man, invented the automatic gearshift, Joseph Gambol, also black, invented the Super Charge

System for Internal Combustion Engines, and Garrett A. Morgan, a black man, invented the traffic signals.

4. Furthermore, one could not use the rapid transit system because its procurer was the electric trolley, which was invented by another black man, Albert R. Robinson.

5. Even if there were streets on which cars and a rapid transit system could operate, they were cluttered with paper because an African American, Charles Brooks, invented the street sweeper.

6. There were few if any newspapers, magazines and books because John Love invented the pencil sharpener, William Purveys invented the fountain pen,20and Lee Barrage invented the Type Writing Machine and W. A. Love invented the Advanced Printing Press. They were all, you guessed it, Black.

7. Even if Americans could write their letters, articles and books, they would not have been transported by mail because William Barry invented the Postmarking and Canceling Machine, William Purveys invented the Hand Stamp and Philip Downing invented the Letter Drop.

8. The lawns were brown and wilted because Joseph Smith invented the Lawn Sprinkler and John Burr the Lawn Mower.

9. When they entered their homes, they found them to be poorly ventilated and poorly heated. You see, Frederick Jones invented the Air Conditioner and Alice Parker the Heating Furnace. Their homes were also dim. But of course, Lewis Lattimer later invented the Electric Lamp, Michael Harvey invented the lantern,and Granville T. Woods invented the Automatic Cut off Switch. Their homes were also filthy because Thomas W. Steward invented the Mop and Lloyd P. Ray the Dust Pan.

10. Their children met them at the door- barefooted, shabby, motley and unkempt. But what could one expect? Jan E. Matzelinger invented the Shoe Lasting Machine,Walter Sammons invented the Comb, Sarah Boone invented the Ironing Board, and George T. Samon invented the Clothes Dryer.

11. Finally, they were resigned to at least have dinner amidst all of this turmoil. But here again, the food had spoiled be cause another Black Man, John Standard invented the refrigerator.

Now, isn't that something? What would this country be like without the contributions of Blacks, as African-Americans?

Martin Luther King, Jr. said, "by the time we leave for work, Americans have depended on the inventions from the minds of Blacks."

Black history includes more than just slavery, Frederick Douglass, Martin Luther King, Jr., Malcolm X, and Marcus Garvey & W.E.B. Dubois.

PLEASE SHARE, ABUNDANTLY

Windows Live Messenger just got better. Find out more!

Veja quais s榱os assuntos do momento no Yahoo! + Buscados: Top 10 - Celebridades - Msica - Esportes

Why pay full price? Check out this month's deals on the new AOL Shopping.

| 28673|2009-04-24 13:00:09|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- Malcolm X A Black Fatherhood 6PM @ Schomburg 19 Ma|

Attachments :

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: S. E. Anderson
Sent: Friday, April 24, 2009 8:16:12 AM
Subject: [BNYEE]-- Malcolm X A Black Fatherhood 6PM @ Schomburg 19 May

Flyer Attached

Malcolm X & Fatherhood: Lost, Stolen and Found
His Impact On Rebuilding Black Fatherhood Today

Tuesday May 19, 2009 from 6 pm to 9 pm

What would move the Black community to the next level? A modern day Malcolm X, President Barack Obama, or fathers who are committed to nurturing and supporting their families. Join the Malcolm X Museum as it commemorates the 84th anniversary of Malcolm's birth by talking with fathers and their children and re?ecting on Hajj Malik El Shabazzs role as a father, son and leader. Free gifts for fathers who attend with their children!

Tuesday May 19, 2009 from 6 pm to 9 pm
Langston Hughes Auditorium
Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture,
Malcolm X Boulevard & 135th Street
Harlem, NY

This event is free and open to the public.

--The Malcolm X Museum is Chartered by the NY State Board of Regents--

For more information, please contact The Malcolm X Museum at 2123409502

---------- s. e. anderson is author of "The Black Holocaust for Beginners" Social Activism is not a hobby: it's a Lifestyle lasting a Lifetime http://www.blackeducator.org http://blackeducator.blogspot.com ----------

--
It's News. It's Reviews. It's Interviews. It's Free. What Are You Waiting For? www.movieline.com!

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~

You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28674|2009-04-25 07:53:44|odhiambo okecth|The Standard Rocks|
If you missed The Standard on Saturday today, you have done yourself a big disservice. The Standard Rocks and Kwame Kenneth caught my mood alright; it is time to go to the streets. To demand leadership

The Standard has assembled a team that has Kenya at heart; Otuma Ongalo, Barrack Muluka, Wanyonyi Wambilyanga, Okech Kendo, Dominic Odipo, Nancy Mburu. They say it as it ought to be.

The good thing that I have admired in this cast is their precision. If it is white, then it is white. And that is how we can solve the Kenyan problem. We cannot solve the Kenyan problem through double speak.

Compare this with the cavalier attitude espoused by Hon Kilemi Mwiria, sadly also at The Standard, and Paul Mwangi, an advocate of the High Court of Kenya [High Court mar okombe] in his piece Tussles over Migingo in the Daily Nation of Thursday 23rd April 2009.

I am surprised to read that Hon Kalemi Mwiria is also of the view that Migingo is a non-issue and that soon, we will tire and move on. If a whole assistant minister can be of this view, that Migingo is a non-issue, then we must pause and look back. We must check how sincere these people are with Kenya. Or is it not Kenya?

This is the attitude that they had in December 2007; that they will steal the elections and a few people will definitely riot, but soon, it would be life as usual. It led to the death of many Kenyans and a lot of property was lost. People are still staying in the IDP camps. And people like Hon Kilemi Mwiria think that such issues as territorial integrity are non-issues!

There must not be any other issue when Kenya is invaded. We must all rise up and defend our Kenya. But if we start becoming academic with our territorial boundaries, we are stepping on the wrong side of history. We are strengthening the resolve of the invaders.

The love for Kenya is what has made the aforementioned writers stand up as patriots during our times. We will see no other patriots. It is from their pen and paper that Kenya will be truly liberated. This power of the pen is what will galvanize Kenyans into action and we will all march into Migingo, into Kacheliba, and into Turkana where Ethiopia has also now pitched camp.

The president with all the powers he is sitting on must know that the earth has shifted and people are not ordinary any more. We are Kenyans and Kenya is marwa. It does not matter whether you popni of ndekni, we must defend Kenya and any inch of Kenya, be it a rock or whatever, it must remain Kenyan rock. And the people will ensure this. To do this, we need no army, police nor GSU. It is our dignity and pride as a nation that is at stake. We must defend that and it will not be a passing cloud.

People like having the blame shared by Kibaki and Raila in the current Government of Grand Coalition and I think it is not right. When President Kibaki becomes clever all of a sudden, we must tell him so. We must not become constitutional experts aka Gibson Kamau Kuria all of a sudden. We must summon the truth and tell him, not so.

With people like Hon Kilemi Mwiria in government, Paul Mwangi as advocates, Kamau Kuria as presidential advisors, I cannot see where we are heading. Surely, if your country has been invaded, can you have time to address issues of poverty, hunger, overcrowding, unemployment, HIV/AIDS, insecurity and all such nonsense? No. If your country is invaded, you rally all and sundry to defend the land first. After the enemy has been vanquished is when you can have the pleasure to address such mundane matters.

The problem with Kenya is the Presidency, and we must have the courage to address it. Not that we dislike the man. No. He has a job for which we have elected him to do. We need him to do that job. He is not doing us any favours by doing the job for which we elected him to do, a job for which we pay him at every end of the month; a job that comes with immense powers, almost touching on the power over life of Kenyans, a job that guarantees his personal security.

He must in turn also ensure the personal security of all Kenyans in Kenya and out of Kenya. Americans recently rescued one of their own in the coast of East Africa after being taken hostage by piratess, very far from The US. Why can Kibaki not rescue our sisters and brothers in Migingo, in West Pokot, in Turkana from the Ugandan pirates? Why?

But when he sits pretty as things slide from bad to worse, Kenyans must rise and ask him to account. Why need we make him the CinC of our Armed Forces if he cannot command?

Why need we make him the President when he cannot ensure that our territorial boundaries are safe? Why need we place him as the custodian of our constitution when he cannot use the same to harness peace, national healing and reconciliation?

Time has come for Kenyans to stop blaming Kibaki and Raila together. If Raila has failed in the discharge of his duties, blame him alone and squarely. If Kibaki has failed to discharge his constitutional duties, blame him alone and squarely. If Kibaki has failed to consult with Raila as the National Accord demands, do we blame Raila? No. We must face Kibaki and reprimand him.

It is high time Kibaki stating earning his pay. He must work for that pay.

This is where the church fails again; that we have a moribund President and an ineffective Prime Minister. This is not right. There is nothing you are telling us. If Kenya is invaded like we have been invaded at Migingo, West Pokot and now in Turkana where the Ethiopians have diverted river Oromo, it is only the Commander-in-Chief who can order the Army to intervene.

Raila Odinga, even though a partner in this government, has no those powers. He cannot even order the Police to accept help from the FBI into murder investigations of Oulu GPO and Oscar Kingara. It is only Kibaki who can do that, because, he is the CinC of our Armed Forces.

Raila must also now stop being used by Kibaki as a door mat, being sent for public relations exercises in places affected by luck of leadership from President Kibaki. Raila must let Kibaki clean his own shit. This shit makes Raila to equally stink, hence earning the tag ineffective from the church leaders.

Kenyans must rise up to the occasion. One man cannot sit on all the powers and refuse the usage of the same by departments that ought to do something. We must reclaim those powers and deposit them with one who has the interest of Kenya at heart.

Slowly but surely, Kibaki is messing Kenya. He makes the Army look week. He makes the Police look helpless. He only calls on the police to fight his personal battles. And he makes the government look week by sitting tight on all powers to an extent that nothing moves, except issues personal to Kibaki the man.

Lastly, Kilemi Mwiria must be out of touch to think that things like poverty, insecurity, overcrowding, unemployment, HIV/AIDS, hunger and such other matters take precedent over our territorial boundaries.

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock Nairobi.

Tussle over Migingo. 23/4/09

Paul M Mwangi, an advocate of the High Courts of Kenya, in his article titled Tussle over Migingo in todays Daily Nation page 11 makes a rather interesting and uninformed opinion over Migingo Island.

This comes just a few days after the Daily Nation in their editorial seemed to share in the view that Migingo could be a non-issue, the same sentiments expressed by the Chief of the General Staff of our cowards in the barracks.

Mr. Mwangi said, So far, Migingo appears to be worth nothing more than our sentimental and patriotic regards [whatever that means]. For the country, it appears to be of little economic value. Surely! What of the 5 tones of fish that Migingo generates over every 3 days? Is that of no economic value?

Surely, and this is a lawyer. He goes down to make some very interesting observations. He says that Migingo is such a useless piece that even Museveni calls it a rock. That it cannot settle even a few hundred Kenyans or Ugandans. My foot and this is a lawyer!

Mr. Mwangi, it does not matter even if it were a rock. It is Kenyan rock and nobody must take it from Kenya. If Museveni calls it a rock, then why has he sent his Army to take it? Why can he not wait for arbitration to determine if the rock is Kenyan rock or Ugandan rock? Museveni has seen something useful in the Kenyan rock and the lawyer in Mwangi is seeing nothing!

Mwangi wants us to give the rock to Uganda in exchange of trade with Uganda. My. Do you defecate on your sovereignty in exchange of trade? That all goods to Uganda pass through Kenya and as such, we must give Uganda our Migingo! Surely this lawyer has missed it all. Somebody invades your territory and takes your land and you cower because of trade and the prospects of loosing in that trade. Go to hell Mr. Mwangi.

Mr. Mwangi must know that Migingo is a hub of fishing activities. It generates almost 5 tones of fish every 3 days. That is very serious business for your information. Migingo is a source of livelihood to many families in Kenya. Many children are taken to school by money from the proceeds of fish business. Many families in Kenya put bread on the table courtesy of Migingo.

By the way, do you cede your land because of trade? We will cede Migingo today, Pokot tomorrow, Busia the next day, Malaba the following day, Kisumu the next day, all because we must appease Uganda on the strength of trade and commerce. We will cede Kericho, Kisii, Kakamega, Eldoret, piace by peice because we must please Uganda on the strength of trade and commerce! We will then cede Kabarnet, Nakuru, Gilgil, Naivasha and Limuru because of trade and commerce. And Mr. Mwangi will be a happy man because the strength of trade and commerce supersedes our sovereignty. And he is a lawyer.

Soon Ugandans will be at Nairobi, and they will take Machakos and move to Mombasa. And Kenya will be no more because this lawyer wants us to cede our land on the strength of trade and commerce. It reminds me of Nazi Germany where a priest kept silent when his neighbours were being taken to the gallows.

The Nazis came for the communists and he kept silent because he was not a communist. They then came for the Jews and he kept silent because he was not a Jew. They next came for the Trade Unionists and he kept silent because he was not a Trade Unionist. Next they came for the Catholics and he kept silent because he was not a Catholic.

When they came for him, there was no one to talk for him. And this is the prescription this lawyer is giving Kenyans; that in exchange of trade and commerce, we can let Migingo go.

And this is a lawyer arguing so stupidly. No. We must not cede any inch of our land to anybody on the strength of trade and commerce. I would rather we uproot the rail to Uganda and dig trenches on the road to Uganda so that we reclaim our rock. I would rather I die hungry than to appease Museveni over what Mwangi calls a peace of rock.

That peace of rock is Kenyan rock and nobody must claim it.

If that rock is so worthless, why is Museveni so desperate for it? Can this lawyer think about this? And by the way, why is the Daily Nation giving this kind of thinking such prominence? Is it meant to spite the people around Lake Victoria?

Does the Nation Media Group envisage that this kind of reporting can be taken as being hostile to the people and that it can affect its sales in the whole country? It is an affront to our sovereignty.

Odhiambo T Oketch

Komarock Nairobi.

Kenyans must demand action over Migingo 2nd April 2009

The world must know that for the last eight months, Yoweri Museveni of Uganda has been levying taxes on Kenyans leaving at Migingo Island, an Island in Kenya, 15 Kilometres from Muhuru mainland of Kenya and 260 Kilometres from the nearest mainland in Uganda. This is an act of aggression.

During all that time, the world famed ruthlessness of the Kenya Police against Kenyans and the brutality exhibited by the Kenya Army in Mt Elgon and Wagir against Kenyans has been conspicuously absent. The Kenya Police even took off from Migingo at the first sight of 2 armed Police Officers from Uganda.

Yesterday, Migosi Raila Odinga was emphatic that Migingo belongs to Kenya and that the Ugandan flag that has been hoisted there for the last eight months must be lowered immediately. He went on to say that only 6% of Lake Victoria belongs to Kenya. As a partner in this government, I would have wanted to hear from him that all those Ugandans at Migingo have been arrested for being in Kenya illegally, and are been detained at Kodiaga Prisons awaiting to appear in Court.

If 94% of the Lake belongs to Uganda and Tanzania, then, johana mane ma ooro Museveni mondo okaw Migingo Islands? [What is this madness that has made Museveni invade Kenya?]

Why are we negotiating with Museveni? If the Army, the Police and the politicians can not reclaim Migingo, the people will, the people of Kenya must. We will stop all transit vehicles to Uganda, either through rail or road transport. We must stop all transit vehicles either by rail or road into Uganda with immediate effect.

It is very simple;

1] The Kenya Police must immediately arrest all those people masquerading as Ugandan Police at Migingo. They are in Kenya illegally. Do not negotiate this. It is so sad when an invader shuts down our Minister in the presence of 2 Provincial Commissioners, the Police Commanders and the press. Why is the Police Commissioner being sent to Uganda to negotiate with the invaders? Why has he never been sent to negotiate with Kenyans in areas of conflict? They cannot fool us!

2] The Armed Forces of Kenya must cease being ornaments best used for passing out parades. They must defend the territorial space of Kenya. They must not negotiate with Museveni over any bit of an inch of Kenya. They must repulse those invaders with the full force that they can. Why move into Elgon and Wagalla with such might and force, and put your tails between your legs when your services are most needed? When Kenya has been invaded?

3] The Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces of Kenya must know that Kenya has been invaded. He must act to protect Kenya and Kenyans. We do not eat new Districts. We eat the fish that Museveni is now controlling at Migingo. For Gods sake, can those people who meet Kibaki daily tell him that Migingo has been invaded and has been under the firm grip of Museveni for the last 8 months? And that he is the Commander-in-Chief of the Kenya Armed Forces, as Mutula and Kalonzo likes reminding us.

Unless he and they know something that we do not know.

The Commander-in-Chiefs response to the Migingo crisis, now in its eighth month, leads most of us to confirm that there is a deal between him and Museveni. This deal is a fulfillment of favours earlier extended, or a deal expected in future. And that future is 2012.

If we look at how Kibaki has bestrowed Kenya in the past 6 years, I am convinced that the president does not mean well for Kenya. If a part of Kenya can be invaded by a country like Uganda and he keeps silent, then his leadership is wanting. It is also not by surprise that the President has refused to visit that same part of Kenya for the entire period he has been President of Kenya.

Museveni had invaded Rwanda and Kagame beat him so quickly and so ruthlessly that he cannot try again. He invaded DRC and again, Kagame came to the rescue of DRC and beat him there. He tried Tanzania and he knew the repercussions. He knows that Tanzanians will beat him and follow him to Kampala and topple him, the way they did with Idi Amin Dada.

He tried South Sudan, and the rag tag army of the Southern Sudan dared him. They were ready for him any time, day or night. He cannot dare Ethiopia. He knows that Menes Zenawi does not take those kinds of jokes lightly.

He then turned to Kenya and invaded Migingo and for eight months, his flag has been high as he collects taxes from Kenyans.

The fact that our trigger happy police force could fold their tail and take off speaks volumes. What is the rationale of unleashing too much force on students who are just rioting while you turn a blind eye to an invader?

Where is the force needed? Against our own or against the invaders? I cannot believe that our normally ruthless police force could have left Migingo in fear of Museveni. There must have been an order to withdraw.

I also do not believe that our ceremonial ornaments in the barracks are that cowardly. They invaded Mt Elgon and beat our own Saboat people ruthlessly. There must have been an order for non interference. If our Army can beat people senseless in Mount Elgon and in Wagir, what can stop them from beating these Ugandans from Migingo?

Or, is it that our police and army are at their best against civilians, people who have no guns?

People who cannot defend themselves?

Surely, if the Police could cordon off Uhuru Park for a whole one month in January 2007, can they surely be so afraid of Museveni and his team at Migingo? If the Police could kill so many Kenyans just to ensure that Kibaki became our President, can they not kill these 2 Ugandans at Migingo? Can they surely be so afraid in Migingo?

No. It is not the Police, it is not the Army. It is the Commander-in-Chief.

If the President does not want to take action, Kenyans must now defend their territorial integrity. We did it before by uprooting the Railway line to Uganda. We did it before by stopping all transit vehicles through Busia and Malaba.

If Uganda has invaded Kenya, and the Kenya Police and Army are under instructions not to intervene, Kenyans must take the law into their hands and protect our boundaries.

It is a shame that a rag tag army in Somali can act so swiftly whenever there is territorial violations while an Independent Kenya, cries baby.

It is sad to note that the President is doing nothing to promote peace, national healing and reconciliation in Kenya. He is refusing, for purposes of expediency, to be the symbol of national unity.

It looks to me like Migongo is an advance post for 2012, and we must view it as such. Kenya must not loose any inch of land, more so to Yoweri Museveni.

If the Army and the Police are under instructions not to defend us, let us defend ourselves. Sijivuni kuwa Mkenya!

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Koamrocks Nairobi.

| 28675|2009-04-25 16:59:41|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: Merck Vaccine, Mothers mandate & Mother seeks return of child|

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 4/23/09, Health Freedom Alliance wrote:

From: Health Freedom Alliance

Subject: Merck Vaccine, Mothers mandate & Mother seeks return of child
To: "tafari-sudra khumbaka"
Date: Thursday, April 23, 2009, 8:00 AM

Health Freedom Alliance Alert: April 23, 2009 View In Browser|Send To Friend|S

April 23, 2009

Health Freedom Alert:

- MERCK is backing off (for now) their quest to mandate vaccination of young girls with Gardisil
- Police State Alert: HR20-New Mother's Mandated Mental Health Test-PASSED HO
- Mother seeks return of her youngest daughter unlawfully abducted.
- "Vaccine Nation" DVD Gift with your donation while supplies last!

MERCK is backing off (for now) their quest to mandate vaccination of young girls with Gardisil

Forced vaccination backfires.

Good news! It looks as if MERCK is finally backing off of their quest to mandate vaccination c young girls with Gardisil. It seems the reports of fainting, dizziness, sterility and death (22 so far) starting to garner the attention of the regulatory authorities. It is you and your efforts bringing thi beast to heel. The fight isn't over; keep up the pressure. It's working!

Read More >>> http://blogs.healthfreedomalliance.org/blog/2009/04/21/hpv-vaccine-might-cause-infertility/

HR20-New Mother?s Mandated Mental Health Test-JUST PASSED HOUSE!

This insidious legislation falls into our "Health Fascism" file. The House of Representatives has passed HR-20 and sent it on to the Senate. HR-20, also known as the "Melanie Blocker Stokes MOTHERS Act", authorizes the study of the effects of post partum depression on women after childbirth. Like all legislation, it sounds benign and helpful but close examination and a little thinking reveals it to be a horrendous intrusion of the Federal Government into the very nucleus of American Society.

The bill authorizes health care workers to screen mothers for post partum depression and offer them "help" in dealing with and overcoming it. A scenario is easily developed where a family is denied the ability to take their child home after a hospital birth because a mother failed to answer a series of subjective questions on a multiple choice test correctly. Or even worse chose not to vaccinate their new born with deadly toxins. Of course, that denial to take your baby home can be overcome if you just take this little pill here and agree to in home monitoring until you are pronounced OK. Think on this: Do you have any idea how hard it is to be declared sane after being declared unsane?

Click here for more and steps to TAKE ACTION!!! >>>

http://blogs.healthfreedomalliance.org/blog/2009/04/21/hr20-new-mothers-mandated-mental-health-test-just-passed-house/

Mother Seeking Daughter and Justice

To give you an idea of how easily a parent can lose custody of their children visit this story of a mother who has been fighting for years to get her youngest daughter back.

More >>> http://blogs.healthfreedomalliance.org/blog/2009/04/21/child-abduction-by-the-state/

And please please sign her petition on Care2! She's up to 5,043 signatures... Lets get it up to 50,000!!!

Petition link >>> http://www.thepetitionsite.com/1/child-abduction-by-the-state

---

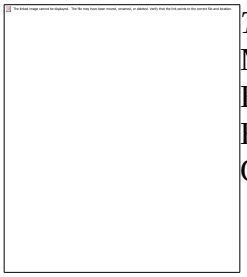
Finally, this week we feature a report exposing the failed link between vaccines and the reduction of childhood diseases. Indeed, the true credit for the reduction in childhood disease is shown to be more a function of improvements in sanitation and living with clean potable water than anything which could be attributed to vaccines. In this report, Dr. James Shannon who served as director of NIH is quoted as saying "the only safe vaccine is one that is never used." It goes on to expose the dirty little secrets about vaccines.

More >>> http://blogs.healthfreedomalliance.org/blog/2009/04/21/why-you-should-avoid-taking-vaccines/

We have some true victories, but the battle for Health Freedom is never ending. You are the true warriors in this battle. MERCK's retreat from seeking mandatory Gardisil vaccinations is a victory we can all relish but it is you who have made the difference. Your support helps us put the information in your hands, but it is you who are doing the heavy lifting. You have a victory to celebrate this week. Be proud.

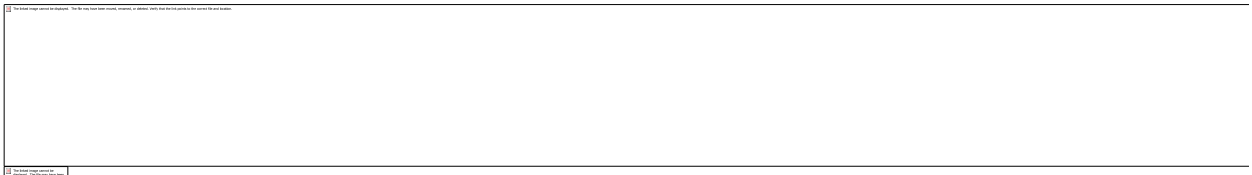
We We have a new DVD to offer this week as a thank you gift for your donations. It is "Vaccine Nation" produced by our good friend Gary Null, Ph.D. This documentary film clearly illustrates the health damage suffered by our innocent children, due to unnecessary vaccinations and gives you the information you need to speak intelligently and forcefully on the subject of childhood vaccinations. We only have a limited supply of these DVD's so they are only available while supplies last.

Also for a limited time receive a 2 Disk DVD set "The Future of Food" and/or "Understanding MMS" with your donation. More than 200,000 Americans are using The Miracle Mineral Supplement (MMS). Thousands of lives have been saved (Over 75,000 from Malaria in Africa alone). Reports of overcoming 'incurable' diseases are happening every day! With ever looming threat of bio-warfare and Bird flu, MMS should be in every home. Click here to read about Mirace Mineral Supplement http://blogs.healthfreedomalliance.org/blog/2009/03/13/miracle-mineral-supplement/



We've asked for a special discount on MMS for HFA members and now have a special order page for members! A full 20% saving on MMS! Go here to stock up while you can at this price

http://MiracleMineral.us/?cid=hfa



Your donations make all of these timely advances possible! Your continued support is the fuel that drives Health Freedom Alliance. Thank you for forwarding emails to your friends and family! Keep up the good work!

We are all invested in this fight. Each of us will be effected by its outcome.
Each of us can make a difference!
Thank you Freedom Fighters!

Thomas Cowles II
Media Director
Health Freedom Alliance
Health & Wellness Foundation
CHAD Foundation

We hate SPAM too. To stop receiving this alert, you can unsubscribe here.
To send this email to a friend, click here: Send To Friend
To subscribe to this newsletter, click here: Subscribe
To view this email in your browser, click here: View In Browser

To stop receiving this Health Freedom Alliance Alerts, visit:
http://elist.healthfreedomalliance.org/unsubscribe.php?M=105505&C=4dc0cf33c678cc89debbf16d53ef376e&L=1&N=45

http://www.healthfreedomalliance.org

| 28676|2009-04-25 17:12:49|Shri Sa Hetep|Re: [SmaiTawi] Remembering the African Holocaust|

Q: Can the term Semite be derived from the prefix Semi?

If so, the definition of the prefix Semi is:

1 a: precisely half of: (1): forming a bisection of <*semi*diameter> (2): being a usually vertically bisected form of (a specified architectural feature) <*semi*dome> b: half in quantity or value : half of or occurring halfway through a specified period of time <*semi*annual> <*semi*monthly> compare bi-2: to some extent : partly : incompletely <*semi*civilized> <semi-independent> <*semi*dry> compare demi-, hemi-3 a: partial : incomplete <*semi*consciousness> <*semi*darkness> b: having some of the characteristics of <*semi*porcelain> c: quasi- <*semi*governmental> <*semi*monastic>
(Merriam-Webster Online Dictionary)

Q: If this definition can be applied to the Semites, e.g. precisely half of, half in quantity, partial, incomplete, etc., could it be said that those whom refer to themselves as Semitic Jews - are really Half Jewish, Partially Jewish, or an Incomplete Jew?

The definition of Semite is:

1 a: a member of any of a number of peoples of ancient southwestern Asia including the Akkadians, Phoenicians, Hebrews, and Arabs b: a descendant of these peoples2: a member of a modern people speaking a Semitic language.
(Merriam-Webster Online Dictionary)

It seems that a Semite can come from any number of Afro-Asiatic ethnic groups. They seem to be a mixture of, 2 or 3 ethnic groups. Not a pure (or non-mixed) ethnic group like the Akan, Igbo, Dogon, etc.

Please shed light on this matter. Otherwise I will rely on the Biblical Book of Revelations 2:9 - "I know your afflictions and your povertyyet you are rich! I know the slander of those who say they are Jews and are not, but are a synagogue of Satan.", and Revelation 3:9, - "I will make those who are of the synagogue of Satan, who claim to be Jews though they are not, but are liarsI will make them come and fall down at your feet and acknowledge that I have loved you."

Peace-n-Blessings,

Shri Sa Hetep

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Marc Taylor wrote:
From: Marc Taylor
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: [SmaiTawi] Remembering the African Holocaust
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 10:04 PM

He may not be fully european, but hes definitely a zionist, this thinking makes him nearly an automatic enemy of African Americans. Black folks need to wake up and smell the zionism...

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [SmaiTawi] Remembering the African Holocaust
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 3:51 PM

president Obama is a european-Zionist

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/22/09, Tenisio Seanima wrote:

From: Tenisio Seanima
Subject: [SmaiTawi] Remembering the African Holocaust
To:
Date: Wednesday, April 22, 2009, 1:25 PM

> Black Jewish Relations Under Obama:
> Reopening Old Wounds
>
> Paul Scott
>
> April 21st is Holocaust Remembrance Day, a day set aside to remember the the Jews who suffered under the Nazi regime. No one can fault an ethnic group for honoring the deaths of millions of its brothers and sisters. However, as a descendant of those who experienced their own African Holocaust I find myself, selfishly, asking "what about us ?"

My feeling of unapologetic, self centeredness has become more pronounced in the aftermath of the Obama Administration' s bowing to Jewish pressure and deciding to boycott the UN World Conference Against Racism, an event that would have, initially,allowed issues important to African Americans such as reparations and the Trans Atlantic Slave Trade to be presented on the world stage. This was especially hurtful to a black community that had the misconception that the nations first African American president would give their issues a fair hearing.

For many blacks, this opened up an old wound; Jewish issues taking precedence over African American concerns.

Very few people argue over the death toll of six million Jews during their Holocaust, however, for African Americans it is much different. The number of African people who were brought to America is conservatively estimated at 40 Million. How many Africans perished during the 400 years of the slave trade and the following years of European colonialism the world may never know. Reason being, the concern for people of color pales in comparison to concern for people with white skin.

There is only room for one "most persecuted" group and the Jews aren't sharing that spotlight with anyone.

Some of the best critiques of Black-Jewish relations were written by Harold Cruse in his books "Crisis of the Negro Intellectual" and "Plural but Equal." Cruse points out that contrary to popular belief, there was no real African American-Jewish alliance prior to 1913. It was not until the trial of Leo Frank, a Jewish man, convicted of murder based on the testimony of a black man and later lynched by a white mob that Jewish Americans developed any solidarity with the plight of black people. Prior to that the Jews were just as ambivalent towards the plight of blacks as other white folks.

But this fact is not discussed for fear of being labeled an anti-semite. Black anti-semitism is , in itself, a misnomer. If you look at the actual definition of a Semite, it can apply to members of many ethnic groups of the Afro-Asiatic world; a fact that is conveniently left out of discussions.

If anything, African Americans are Jew phobic. There is a fear, whether real or imagined that if you say anything against Jewish people, something very bad is going to happen to you.

Part of this fear is theological.

Since the enslaved Africans in this country were forbidden to read the Bible, they were unable to develop a theology that placed their struggle in the context of the Divine Being's master plan. Therefore, any group that claims the title of "God's Chosen people" is readily accepted by African Americans, without question. This places them at a distinct disadvantage when dealing with other cultures which have historically made their culture synonymous with their religion.

The fear has also been socio-politically based.

There is a fear among African Americans that being labled an "enemy of the Jews" could result in anything from losing a political office, getting evicted from one's home to being blacklisted by any industry having a high Jewish ownership.

Whether real or imagined, these fears are not, totally, without precedent and the animosity over the control that many believe Jews exert over black lives remains.

Despite the good that Minister Louis Farrakhan and the Nation of Islam have done cleaning up drug infested, black neighborhoods any positive comments about the ministry are blocked by charges of anti-semitism.

In the political realm, Rev. Jesse Jackson had his presidential runs of the 1980's severely impacted by the charge. Also during this period, politicians such as former Chicago political aid, Steve Cokely, lost his job because of charges of making anti-Jewish statements.

Black entertainers have been affected, as well. At the top of his popularity, "the King of Pop" Michael Jackson was dethroned by Jewish activists for mouthing the lyrics "Jew me, sue me" on the controversial song "They Don't Care About Us." Also, many believe that it is more than a coincidence that the top rated Arsenio Hall Show was canceled shortly after the appearance of Min. Louis Farrakhan on the program.

As uncompromising as Hip Hop claims to be, even it has been impacted. During the late 80's, the rap group Public Enemy came under intense scrutiny for comments that group member Professor Griff, allegedly, made that offended Jewish leaders. Even Sean "Puff Daddy" Combs had to censor the lyric "stack chips like Hebrews" from the hit record "All About the Benjamins." The irony being that calls from African American women for rappers to stop recording misogynistic lyrics fall on deaf ears.

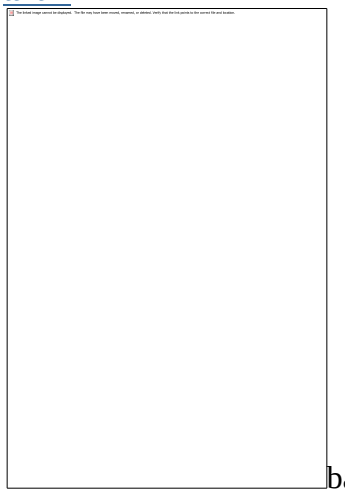
While the calls often go out to open channels of dialogue between the black and Jewish communities, this cannot be done without open and honest communication. Before we can move forward, we have to heal the old wounds of the past. This can only be done by cultural education which must begin with an

> African American community that has little knowledge of its own history.
>
> Unfortunately, the African American scholars who have been capable of bringing historical clarity to the issue like Dr. Tony Martin and Dr. Leonard Jeffries have,themselves, been demonized as anti-semites.
>
> On April 21st millions of Jews will repeat the phrase, "never forget!"
>
> Unfortunately for African Americans, we cannot forget that which we have never been allowed to learn.
>
> Paul Scott writes for No Warning Shots Fired.com. He can be reached at info@nowarningshots fired.com or (919) 451-8283
>
> No Warning Shots Fired.com
> (Hardcore News and Views with a Gangsta Attitude)
> http://www.nowarnin gshotsfired. com
> (919) 451-8283

--

"Most people search high and wide for the key to success. If they only knew the key to their dreams lies within."
George Washington Carver

"We must look at the psychopathology of everyday life and must recognize we cannot have it both ways. We cannot talk about a people who have enslaved us, who discriminate against us, who insult us, who do all manner of other things against us, and then use them as models of normality."
Amos N. Wilson
"The Falsification of Afrikan Consciousness"



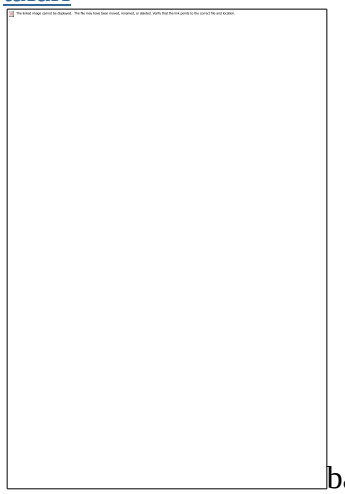
"To live on the achievement of others is to really admit the superiority of others, and the inferiority of self." Marcus Mosiah Garvey

"Cowardice asks the question: is it safe? Expediency asks the question: is it political? Vanity asks the question: is it popular? But conscience asks the question: is it right? And there comes a time when one must take a position that is neither safe, nor political, nor popular - but one must take it simply because it is right." Martin Luther King, Jr.

"I had reasoned this out in my mind, there was one of two things I had a right to, liberty or death; if I could not have one, I would have the other." Harriet Tubman

"In Africa..., the woman's 'place' was not only with her family; she often ruled nations with unquestionable authority. Many African women were great militarists, and on occasion led their armies in battle. The Africans had produced a civilization where men were secure enough to let women advance as far as their talent, royal lineage and prerogatives would take them."
John Henrik Clarke
"Woman's Place in African Antiquity"

"One does not enter into the water and then run from the cold." Yoruba (Afrikan) proverb



J O I N T H E W U R L D ! ! !
| 28677|2009-04-25 19:35:37|Tafari khumbaka|baggy pants|
tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28678|2009-04-26 07:40:06|yvette moore|Re: baggy pants|
I agree with this statement of your perspective!

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

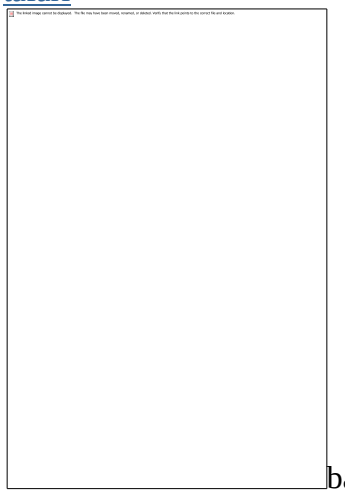
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 8:34 PM



tafari
 baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28679|2009-04-26 07:41:53|Ginger Daniels|Re: baggy pants|
WOW... yousaid alot of goodstuff...
- not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation... dont say this too loud...everyone is not supposed to know!!!!!

To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Date: Sat, 25 Apr 2009 19:34:33 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry Check it out.
| 28680|2009-04-26 07:42:27|Ginger Daniels|FW: Chemtrails finally out into the open|

Know anyone that has been seriously ill lately, with no explanation? Been paying attention to the swine flu and the numerous unexplained illnesses popping up all over the country? Read here... watch the videos at least the first two. They are both very short -
Sent: Friday, April 24, 2009 12:02 AM

Subject: Chemtrails finally out into the open

It's Being Done TO US - and they know it!

Finally, finally, alas finally, after over ten years of denial, chemtrails are hitting fan and getting some media exposure.

While the public, accused of causing global warming and chaotic weather - is being saddled with all kinds of regulations and taxes (like the carbon tax, and Cap-and-trade quotas for polluting) the real reason for climate chaos and irrational weather systems has very clearly been kept under secret raps.

Yes, it has been documented that the military has been experimenting and perfecting weather modification for decades - and Chemtrails have been and are very much a part of those experiments, as is the HAARP technology.

Chemtrials have been visibly obvious to anyone with eyes to see and a brain to discern normal from abnormal (and yet most people just wouldn't see - and remained in denial, despite the overwhelming evidence).

It has also been documented that the military has conducted numerous bio-warfare-toxic-chemical experiments on unwitting and unsuspecting populations in the USA - and probably also elsewhere.

Chemtrail researchers have been able to substantiate that, among many other toxic and pathological substances, they contain dangerously high quantities of aluminum and barium.
Both of them are known to lower the immune system

In the last few weeks the chemtrail activity seems to have intensified exponentially.
Why now? Could it be that before the long-predicted pandemic of Bird Flu is unleashed, the immune systems of the population are being weakened to make sure that the "planned reduction in population" actually materializes.

The pictures in these you-tube videos are so compelling - and remove forever the controversy as to "whether or not they exist".

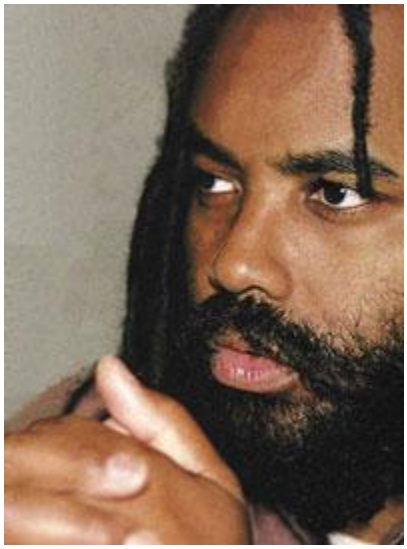
My question, naturally is, "Where has the media been in these past 10+ years.
Not a whimper or a peep!

Please share this widely with all your contacts, especially those still in chemtrail denial.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QRFbOe38Y1U&feature=PlayList&p=13300F7CE0A3B409&index=11

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4ceXK0juBHA&feature=related

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ghoaomHQB2g&NR=1



There has also been items coming out on German TV openly implicating the military in chemtrails.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IaPqCMIuEk4

 exposing the hidden truth for further educational research only ***
CAVEAT LECTOR ***

Windows Live SkyDrive: Get 25 GB of free online storage. Check it out.
| 28681|2009-04-26 07:42:52|Ginger Daniels|High court rejects Mumia Abu Jamal appeal|
The Supreme Court dealt a cruel blow to journalist and former Black Panther Mumia Abu-Jamal, April 6, denying without comment his appeal to overturn his conviction for the 1981 killing of a White police officer.

The central issue in this case is racism in jury selection, Robert Bryan, his chief defense attorney wrote to supporters recently. The racially tinged trial which sentenced Mr. Abu Jamal to death was held before a predominantly White jury of 10 Whites and only two Blacks in Philadelphia where 43 percent of the population is Black.

Mumia Abu Jamal

This is another terribly dark day for justice in this country! Hans Bennett, a co-founder of the group Journalists for Mumia told supporters. Mr. Abu Jamal was president of the Philadelphia chapter of the National Association of Black Journalists (NABJ) who had repeatedly reported on police brutality charges raised by the back-to-nature collective MOVE at the time of his arrest in 1981.

We are ready to mass mobilize, but we are open to suggestions from the ground. One of our first acts will be to get the petition drive going. We want to push this in a big way, MOVE member Pam Africa told Final Call correspondent Saeed Shabazz.

Mumia turns 55 on April 24, and there will be More Than a Book Party' celebrations held in Philadelphia, at the Church of the Advocate, in Milan (Italy), and San Francisco to introduce Mumia's new book Jailhouse Lawyers,' said Ms. Africa. The New York City book party is scheduled on April 25, at 4 p.m. at the Riverside Church, sponsored by the church's Prison Ministry.

Demonstrations and Emergency Strategy Meetings in New York City, Philadelphia, Albany, N.Y., San Francisco, Germany, France and Italy, were scheduled on April 11 according to Suzzane Ross, Free Mumia Abu Jamal Coalition/NYC.

People are calling, they are outraged. We had 27 calls to our New York Mumia Hotline within hours after the decision was made public, Ms. Ross said.

This Supreme Court decision again underscores the Mumia Exception' where courts reject granting this inmate the same legal relief given to others raising the same legal points, Linn Washington, associate professor of journalism at Temple University and longtime defender of Mr. Abu Jamal's innocence, told the online column Journal-isms April 6.

Ample evidence exists documenting improprieties by the prosecutor during jury selection at Abu-Jamal's 1982 trialthe same pattern of improprieties that state and federal courts have cited in overturning over a dozen murder convictions in Philadelphia occurring before, during and after the trial of Abu-Jamal ... none of which (involve) a Black charged with killing a white police officer, said Mr. Washington.

The ruling is just really an atrocity, because this particular case has consistently led courts to create special exceptions for Abu Jamal only, where everyone else gets a new trial, but Abu Jamal doesn't, author Dave Lindorff, told The Final Call the day of the Supreme Court decision to not hear Mr. Abu Jamal's appeal.

The first example of this was in Pennsylvania, where the State Supreme Court issued a ruling that freed everybody up to Abu Jamal on a precedent, and then didn't free him, and then, after his case had been rejected on this appeal, they then returned with a new case and again reinstated their precedent but didn't make it retroactive. They specifically made it so that the only person who didn't get a new trial on that particular precedent was Abu Jamal.

The ruling, made without comment by the court, leaves in place a federal appeals court ruling upholding Mr. Abu-Jamal's conviction of killing White police officer Daniel Faulkner in 1981 after the patrolman pulled over Mr. Abu-Jamal's brother during an overnight traffic stop. Mr. Abu-Jamal was working as a cab driver at the time.

Prosecutors, meanwhile, are appealing to the Supreme Court for a separate ruling to reinstate the death penalty, after a lower court ordered a new sentencing hearing because of flawed jury instructions.

While on death row for more than 25 years, Mr. Abu-Jamal has been a prolific writer and radio commentator. In 2004, the NAACP reaffirmed previous stances against the death penalty and passed its first-ever convention-approved support of the international movement for a new and fair trial for Mumia Abu Jamal.

There will be a legal campaign with petitions to U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder and the Justice Department asking for a civil rights investigation into prosecutorial misconduct' in the nation, particularly Philadelphia, said Ms. Ross.

The Supreme Court ruling came as no surprise to Mr. Abu Jamal, he told long time confidant and collaborator Noelle Hanrahan, director of the Prison Radio Project. When asked by Ms. Hanrahan when he stopped being surprised, Mr. Abu Jamal told her: When I was at pretrial hearing before Judge (Alfred) Sabo, and he denied the motion. I knew then that he wasn't working with the Constitution.

It did surprise me, and it really shocked me, because, you know, I had read the cases. I knew what the law was. I knew what the law books said the law was. I learned then that they're not going by that kind of law. And apparently they're not going by that kind of law now. You know, if you read Batson and you read my case, then it's almost as if you're in two different universes. And, in fact, you are. You are, he said.

The Batson precedent was the basis of Mr. Abu Jamal's appeal. That case was decided by the Supreme Court in 1986, and it essentially lowered the standard, in one respect, for counsel to even ask the question as to whether or not discrimination in jury selection had taken place, Vincent Southerland, assistant counsel at the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund told Pacifica Radio's Democracy Now! April 7.

Essentially, when defense counsel or a prosecutor, in some cases, sees a pattern of discrimination, a pattern of strikes during the course of jury selection, that attorney has a right to then question the court, to ask whether or not the other counsel is using those strikes in a discriminatory manner.

And at that point, when the court makes a determination that there has been some type of a pattern of discrimination, some type of discrimination during the course of jury selection, the onus is then on the prosecutor or the other counsel to maketo provide some explanation as to why they're striking jurors and make that explanationyou know, provide an explanation that does not have to do with race, Mr. Southerland continued. They cannot be striking jurors based on race. And, you know, that decision is essentially the cornerstone of the protections that defendants have in order to prevent discriminatory jury selection and at least challenge discrimination in jury selection during trial.

The district attorney's office in Philadelphia, back duringparticularly during that period in the early '80s, late '70s and mid- to late '80s, engaged in a patternthis is judicially recognizedof removing people from sitting on juries because of race, because of the color of their skin, Robert Bryan, Mr. Abu Jamal's attorney said last year when he petitioned the Supreme Court to overturn the conviction.

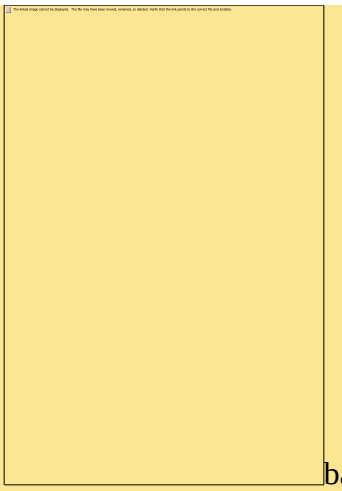
The racially biased jury, as well as witness intimidation by police wanting to avenge the death of one of their own, and tainted evidence presented at trial point to the gross injustice of Mr. Abu Jamal's conviction, if not his outright innocence according to Mr. Lindorff. He is a prize-winning journalist, columnist and author of several books including Killing Time: An Investigation into the Death Penalty Case of Mumia Abu Jamal, published in 2003 after a three-year investigation

I never made a conclusion as to whether he shot Faulkner or not. There's a number of possibilities that could have happened, but it was my conclusion after looking at all the evidence, thatand there's been some evidence since I wrote the book that's further strengthened this perspectiveis that what certainly did not happen is what the prosecution convinced the jury happened, Mr. Lindorff told The Final Call. That was based on lies, forged testimony and evidence by the police and prosecutor
What we do know is that the scenario they described is simply impossible on the basis of all the evidence submitted. So, he's in jail now on a fraud, a trial that was based on lies and deceit by the prosecution, he said.

Calls for a new and fair trial for Mr. Abu-Jamal have come from Amnesty International, the Congressional Black Caucus, Harvard University Law School's Civil Rights Institute, former South African President Nelson Mandela, Bishop Desmond Tutu, former French President Jacques Chirac, the Japanese Diet (parliament), hundreds of British attorneys, thousands of artists, writers, and other intellectuals in this country and around the world.

Windows Live Hotmail:more than just e-mail. Check it out.
| 28682|2009-04-26 12:50:12|Shri Sa Hetep|Re: baggy pants|

Hetepu,



Very nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of passage?

Peace-n-Blessings,

Shri Sa Hetep

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
| 28683|2009-04-26 13:45:11|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|
cant fight or flee in em',,,,,.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, yvette moore wrote:

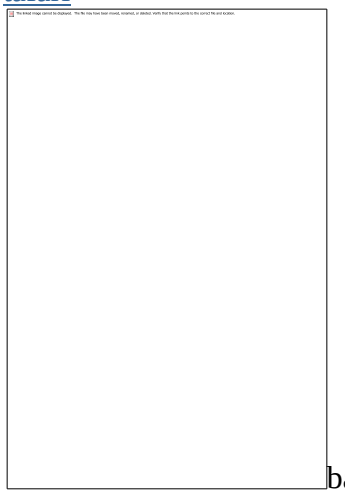
From: yvette moore
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com



Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:44 PM

I agree with this statement of your perspective!

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 8:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short l
the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, sir time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white..... are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are no threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, a they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitati the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang v butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a chi play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28684|2009-04-26 13:53:26|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|

the Turks, the Samurai, the Romans (were against it unless u could take it,lol) ,the French and most Arabs.....
for a better look at the greeks 1 book is greek homosexuality
by. Dover

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 4/26/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com"
Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 1:31 AM

WOW... yousaid alot of goodstuff...
- not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation.. . dont say this too loud...everyone is not supposed to know!!!!!

To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Date: Sat, 25 Apr 2009 19:34:33 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short l
the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, sir
time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course

generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry Check it out.

| 28685|2009-04-26 14:04:18|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|
If the white world could be looked at as a english court, the blacks would be the court jester, and peasants and the good paying job of court jester has its particular apparell/ uniform. In the 20's thru the 60's it was joot suits , big hats, tight tight pants and baggy arms, all types of clown clothing , now its no longer good to clown for the white man,. ....
so our clothing is stating our unconcious percieved status in socieity,,,she-male exotica.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 4/26/09, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:

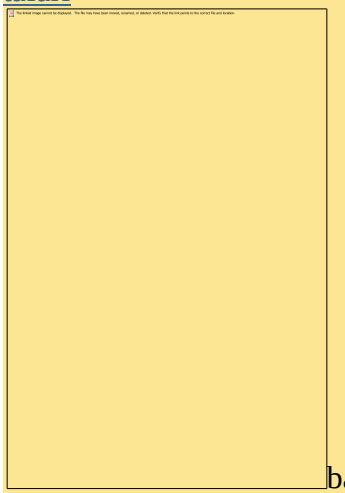
From: Shri Sa Hetep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 2:50 PM

Hetepu,



Very nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: W do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of passage?

Peace-n-Blessings,

Shri Sa Hetep

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM

tafari
 baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28686|2009-04-26 14:53:03|Mahari Mengistu|Re: baggy pants|
The answer is simple and perhaps painful:

Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?
I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"
It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England. They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learning and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting ?even profound thoughts.
And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders ? and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them ? spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.
It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community ? that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process ? the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
As is usually the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature ? that's just my opinion.
My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem. However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.

If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval compounded exponentially when she has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice ? plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.
Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that ?..
WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?

HTP,
Mahari
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:
>
> Hetepu,
>
> Very
> nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > passage?
>
> Peace-n-Blessings,
>
> Shri Sa Hetep
>
>
> --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
> tafari
>
>
> baggy pants
> once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
> if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
> are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
> are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
>
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
| 28687|2009-04-27 08:29:59|Shu Tefnut|Fw: Afrindia: pre-4500 BC Africa and India part of one cultural sphe|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Marc Washington
To: mjrob1914@comcast.net
Sent: Saturday, April 25, 2009 7:45:17 AM
Subject: Afrindia: pre-4500 BC Africa and India part of one cultural sphere

If you cannot see the web page below, click following link:
http://www.beforebc.de/400_neareast/08-10-00-16.html

The linked image cannot be displayed. The file may have been moved, renamed, or deleted. Verify that the link points to the correct file and location.

Marc Washington

Site: www.BeforeBC.de

Site purpose: Based on hard artefacts, hard evidence, to present a pictorial image of Africas golden age before Columbus , before Christ, and before the spread of the Indo-European peoples. An age where Africa itself was the world.

web site summary:
http://www.beforebc.de/AboutAuthorAndAfricanGoldenAge.html

detailed explanation of site: http://www.beforebc.de/index2.html

.

.

.

_____ Information from ESET NOD32 Antivirus, version of virus signature database 4035 (20090425) _____

The message was checked by ESET NOD32 Antivirus.

http://www.eset.com

_____ Information from ESET NOD32 Antivirus, version of virus signature database 4035 (20090425) _____

The message was checked by ESET NOD32 Antivirus.

http://www.eset.com

| 28688|2009-04-27 08:30:20|Ginger Daniels|Scholarships - Please Pass On!|

Kaiser Permanente African American Professional Association (KPAAPA) Bulletin Board - #2:

AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDENTS ARE NOT APPLYING

Even if you do not have a college-aged child at home, please share this with someone who does, pass this scholarship information on to anyone and everyone that comes to mind. Though there are a number of companies and organizations that have donated money for scholarship use to African Americans, a great deal of the money is being returned because of a lack of interest.

No one is going to knock on our doors and ask if we can use a scholarship.
Take the initiative to get your children involved. There is no need for money to be returned to donating companies because we fail to apply for it.

Please pass this information on to family members, nieces, nephews, friends with children etc. We must get the word out that money is available. If you are a college stu dent or getting ready to become one, you probably already know how useful additional money can be. Our youth really could use these scholarships. Thanks!! * (If clicking on the link doesn't work, then typ e in the Web site address manually.)

1) BELL LABS FELLOWSHIPS FOR UNDER REPRESENTED MINORITIES
http://www.bell-labs.com/fellowships/CRFP/info.html
2) Student Inventors Scholarships http://www.invent.org/collegiate http://www.invent.org/collegiate/
3) Student Video Scholarships http://www.christophers.org/vidcon2k.html
4) Coca-Cola Two Year College Scholarships http://www.coca-colascholars.org/programs.html
5) Holocaust Remembrance Scholarships http://holocaust.hklaw.com/
6) Ayn Rand Essay Scholarships http://www.aynrand.org/contests/
7) Brand Essay Competition http://www.instituteforbrandleadership.org/IBLEssayContest-2002Rules.htm
8) Gates Millennium Scholarshi ps (major) http://www.gmsp.org/nominationmaterials/read.dbm?ID=12
9) Xerox Scholarships for Students
http://www2.xerox.com/go/xrx/about_xerox/about_xerox_detail.jsp
10) Sports Scholarships and Internships http://www.ncaa.org/about/scholarships.html
11) National Assoc. of Black Journalists Scholarships (NABJ)
http://www.nabj.org/html/studentsvcs.html

12) Saul T. Wilson Scholarships (Veterinary) http://www.aphis.usda.gov/mb/mrphr/jobs/stw.html
13) Thurgood Marshall Scholarship Fund http://www.thurgoodmarshallfund.org/sk_v6.cfm
14) FinAid: The Smart Students Guide to Financial Aid scholarships) http://www.finaid.org/
15) Presidential Freedom Scholarships http://www.nationalservice.org/scholarships/
16) Microsoft Scholarship Program http://www.microsoft.com/college/scholarships/minority.asp
17) WiredScholar Free Scholarship Search http://www.wiredscholar.com/paying/scholarship_search/pay_sc holarship _search.jsp
0A
18) Hope Scholarships &Lifetime Credits http://www.ed.gov/inits/hope/
19) William Randolph Hearst Endowed Scholarship for Minority Students
http://www.apsanet.org/PS/grants/aspen3.cfm
20) Multiple List of Minority Scholarships http://gehon.ir.miami.edu/financial-assistance/Scholarship/blackhtml
21) Guaranteed Scholarships http://www.guaranteed-scholarships.com/
22) BOEING scholarships (soma e HBCU connects) http://www.boeing.com/companyoffices/educationrelations/scholarships
23) Easley National Scholarship Program http://www.naas.org/senior.htm
24) Maryland Artists Scholarships http://www.maef.org/
26) Jacki Tuckfield Memorial Graduate Business Scholarship (for AA students in South Florida) http://www.jackituckfield.org/
27) Historically Black College & University Scholarships
http://www.iesabroad.org/info/hbcu.htm
28) Actuarial Scholarships for Minorit y Students http://www.beanactuary.org/minority/scholarships.htm
29) International Students Scholarships &Aid Help http://www.iefa.org/
30) College Board Scholarship Search http://cbweb10p.collegeboard.org/fundfinder/html/fundfind01.html
31) Burger King Scholarship Program http://www.bkscholars.csfa.org/
32) Siemens Westinghouse Competition http://www.siemens-foundationorg/
33) GE and LuLac20Scholarship Funds http://www.lulac.org/Programs/Scholar.html
34) CollegeNet ' s Scholarship Database http://mach25.collegenet.com/cgi-bin/M25/index
35) Union Sponsored Scholarships and Aid http://www.aflcioorg/scholarships/scholar.htm
36) Federal Scholarships &Aid Gateways 25 Scholarship Gateways from Black Excel http://www.blackexcel.org/ 25scholarships.htm
37) Scholarship &Financial Aid Help http://www.blackexcel.org/fin-sch.htm
38) Scholarship Links (Ed Finance Group) http://www.efg.net/ /link_scholarship.htm
39) FAFSA On The Web (Your Key Aid Form &Info) http://www.fafsa.ed.gov/
=0 D
40) Aid &Resources For Re-Entry Students http://www.back2college.com/
41) Scholarships and Fellowships http://www.osc.cuny.edu/sep/links.html
42) Scholarships for Study in Paralegal Studies http://www.paralegals.org/Choice/2000west.htm
43) HBCU Packard Sit Abroad Scholarships (for study around the world)
http://www.sit.edu/studyabroad/packard_nomination.html
44) Scholarship and Fellowship Opportunities http://ccmi.uchicago.edu/schl1.html

45) INROADS internships http://www.inroads.org/ 46) ACT-SO bEURoeOlympics of the Mind "A Scholarships http://www.naacp.org/work/actso/act-so.shtml
47) Black Alliance for Educational Options Scholarships http://www.baeo.org/options/privatelyfinanced.jsp 48) ScienceNet Scholarship Listing http://www.sciencenet.emory.edu/undergrad/scholarships.html
49) Grad uate Fellowships For Minorities Nationwide http://cuinfo.cornell.edu/Student/GRFN/list.phtml?category=MINORITIES
50) RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS AT OXFORD http://www.rhodesscholar.org/info.html
51) The Roothbert Scholarship Fund http://www.roothbertfund.com/ "Friends are angels who lift us to our feet when our wings have trouble remembering how to fly." - Anonymous

Peace
Michael

COURAGE

It takes courage to interrogate yourself.

It takes courage to look in the mirror and see past your reflection to who you really are when you take off the mask, when youre not performing the same old routines and social roles. It takes courage to ask. How did I become so well-adjusted to injustice?

Cornel West

A Good Credit Score is 700 or Above. See yours in just 2 easy steps!

Green cleaning products -- do they work as well? Find out now!

Rediscover Hotmail: Get quick friend updates right in your inbox. Check it out.
| 28689|2009-04-27 08:30:36|Agola Kisira|baggy pants|
screw hip-hop! it's already grown old and pop.

listen to real music, real musicians who have mastered their instruments, sing your heart out perfection of vocals

listen to THE BLUES!!!!!!!!!!

http://www.000audio.com/player/Blues.aspx

From: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com"
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com

Sent: Monday, 27 April, 2009 4:43:06
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Digest Number 3409

Kmt and African Civilization

Messages In This Digest (9 Messages)

1a.
Re: baggy pants From: yvette moore

1b.
Re: baggy pants From: Ginger Daniels

1c.
Re: baggy pants From: Shri Sa Hetep

1d.
Re: baggy pants From: Tafari khumbaka

1e.
Re: baggy pants From: Tafari khumbaka

1f.
Re: baggy pants From: Tafari khumbaka

1g.
Re: baggy pants From: Mahari Mengistu

2.
FW: Chemtrails finally out into the open From: Ginger Daniels

3.
High court rejects Mumia Abu Jamal appeal From: Ginger Daniels

View All Topics | Create New Topic

Messages

1a.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "yvette moore" iqtraveler@yahoo.com iqtraveler
Sun Apr26,2009 7:40am (PDT)

I agree with this statement of your perspective!

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 8:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.

if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Back to top

Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post

Messages in this topic (8)

1b.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Ginger Daniels" gingerd2007@hotmail.com gingerd2007
Sun Apr26,2009 7:41am (PDT)

WOW... you said alot of good stuff...

- not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation.. . dont say this too loud... everyone is not supposed to know!!!!!

To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Date: Sat, 25 Apr 2009 19:34:33 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

_____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _
Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry
http://windowslive. com/RediscoverHo tmail?ocid= TXT_TAGLM_ WL_HM_ Rediscover _Mobile2_ 042009

Back to top
Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (8)

1c.
Re: baggy pants
Posted by: "Shri Sa Hetep" shrisahetep@sbcglobal.net shrisahetep
Sun Apr26,2009 12:50pm (PDT)

Hetepu,

Very
nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of passage?

Peace-n-Blessings,

Shri Sa Hetep

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo..com>
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Back to top

1d.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Tafari khumbaka" tafari_sudra@yahoo.com tafari_sudra
Sun Apr26,2009 1:45pm (PDT)

cant fight or flee in em',,,,,.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, yvette moore <iqtraveler@yahoo. com> wrote:

From: yvette moore <iqtraveler@yahoo. com>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:44 PM

I agree with this statement of your perspective!

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 8:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.

are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Back to top

Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post

Messages in this topic (8)

1e.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Tafari khumbaka" tafari_sudra@yahoo.com tafari_sudra
Sun Apr26,2009 1:53pm (PDT)

the Turks, the Samurai, the Romans (were against it unless u could take it,lol) ,the French and most Arabs.....
for a better look at the greeks 1 book is greek homosexuality
by. Dover

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 4/26/09, Ginger Daniels <gingerd2007@ hotmail.com> wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels <gingerd2007@ hotmail.com>
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com" <ta_seti@yahoogroups .com>
Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 1:31 AM

WOW... yousaid alot of goodstuff...
- not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation.. . dont say this too loud...everyone is not supposed to know!!!!!

To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Date: Sat, 25 Apr 2009 19:34:33 -0700

Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry Check it out.

Back to top
Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (8)

1f.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Tafari khumbaka" tafari_sudra@yahoo.com tafari_sudra
Sun Apr26,2009 2:04pm (PDT)

If the white world could be looked at as a english court, the blacks would be the court jester, and peasants and the good paying job of court jester has its particular apparell/ uniform. In the 20's thru the 60's it was joot suits , big hats, tight tight pants and baggy arms, all types of clown clothing , now its no longer good to clown for the white man,. ....
so our clothing is stating our unconcious percieved status in socieity,,,she- male exotica.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 4/26/09, Shri Sa Hetep <shrisahetep@ sbcglobal. net> wrote:

From: Shri Sa Hetep <shrisahetep@ sbcglobal. net>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 2:50 PM

Hetepu,

Very nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of passage?

Peace-n-Blessings,

Shri Sa Hetep

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Back to top

Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post

Messages in this topic (8)

1g.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Mahari Mengistu" mahari@myway.com m2rmsm
Sun Apr26,2009 2:53pm (PDT)

The answer is simple and perhaps painful:

Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?
I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"
It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England. They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learning and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting even profound thoughts.
And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.
It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?

As is usually the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature that's just my opinion.
My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem. However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval compounded exponentially when she has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.
Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that ..
WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?

HTP,
Mahari
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:
>
> Hetepu,
>
> Very
> nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > passage?
>
> Peace-n-Blessings,
>
> Shri Sa Hetep
>
>
> --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> tafari
>
>
> baggy pants
> once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
> if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
> are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
> are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
>
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

Back to top

2.

FW: Chemtrails finally out into the open

Posted by: "Ginger Daniels" gingerd2007@hotmail.com gingerd2007
Sun Apr26,2009 7:42am (PDT)

Know anyone that has been seriously ill lately, with no explanation? Been paying attention to the swine flu and the numerous unexplained illnesses popping up all over the country? Read here... watch the videos at least the first two. They are both very short -

Sent: Friday, April 24, 2009 12:02 AM

Subject: Chemtrails finally out into the open

It's Being Done TO US - and they know it!

Finally, finally, alas finally, after over ten years of denial, chemtrails are hitting fan and getting some media exposure.

While the public, accused of causing global warming and chaotic weather - is being saddled with all kinds of regulations and taxes (like the carbon tax, and Cap-and-trade quotas for polluting) the real reason for climate chaos and irrational weather systems has very clearly been kept under secret raps.

Yes, it has been documented that the military has been experimenting and perfecting weather modification for decades - and Chemtrails have been and are very much a part of those experiments, as is the HAARP technology.

Chemtrials have been visibly obvious to anyone with eyes to see and a brain to discern normal from abnormal (and yet most people just wouldn't see - and remained in denial, despite the overwhelming evidence).

It has also been documented that the military has conducted numerous bio-warfare- toxic-chemical experiments on unwitting and unsuspecting populations in the USA - and probably also elsewhere.

Chemtrail researchers have been able to substantiate that, among many other toxic and pathological substances, they contain dangerously high quantities of aluminum and barium.
Both of them are known to lower the immune system

In the last few weeks the chemtrail activity seems to have intensified exponentially.
Why now? Could it be that before the long-predicted pandemic of Bird Flu is unleashed, the immune systems of the population are being weakened to make sure that the "planned reduction in population" actually materializes.

The pictures in these you-tube videos are so compelling - and remove forever the controversy as to "whether or not they exist".

My question, naturally is, "Where has the media been in these past 10+ years.
Not a whimper or a peep!

Please share this widely with all your contacts, especially those still in chemtrail denial.

http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=QRFbOe38Y1U& feature=PlayList &p=13300F7CE0A3B409&index= 11

http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=4ceXK0juBHA& feature=related

http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=ghoaomHQB2g& NR=1

There has also been items coming out on German TV openly implicating the military in chemtrails.

http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=IaPqCMIuEk4

 exposing the hidden truth for further educational research only ***
CAVEAT LECTOR ***

_____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _

Windows Live SkyDrive: Get 25 GB of free online storage.
http://windowslive. com/online/ skydrive? ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_skydrive_042009

Back to top
Reply to sender | Reply to group |

| 28690|2009-04-27 10:27:46|Mahari Mengistu|Nefertiti's 'hidden face' proves Berlin bust is not Hitler's fake| Maybe.

==========

Nefertiti's 'hidden face' proves Berlin bust is not Hitler's fake

Posted : Mon, 27 Apr 2009 02:11:48 GMT

Author : DPA

Category : Technology

News Alerts by Email (click here)

Technology News | Home

Hamburg - Using 21st Century medical computer technology, German researchers have unveiled the "hidden face" below the surface facial features of the famed bust of 18th Dynasty Queen Nefertiti - dispelling once and for all nagging rumours that the bust might be a duplicate made at the orders of Adolf Hitler in the 1930s, and that the genuine bust was lost in the chaos following World War II. The researchers from Berlin's Imaging Science Institute at Charite Hospital made a series of CT scans of the bust and confirmed findings of a less sophisticated CT scan 17 years ago which revealed that the sculpture has a limestone core and is covered in layers of plaster-like stucco, called "render" by Egyptologists.

That finding was not new. But what was new is the fact that the new CT scan revealed that the limestone core was carved with such artistic precision that it forms a veritable inner copy of the outer face.

Now the Berlin experts are wondering whether the original artist originally carved the bust in limestone, but then changed his mind and added a plaster glaze which gave the queen softer and more rounded features. The experts say the limestone facial features are a bit more angular.

It is a question which may never be answered. But the latest CT scan does answer the lingering question as to whether the bust, which forms the cornerstone of Berlin's Egyptian collection, is genuinely 3,300 years old - or whether it is a fake made 70 years ago as part of a scheme by the Nazi fuehrer to assuage Egyptian ire by giving them a fake bust of Nefertiti, while Hitler kept the original for his own private collection.

No 20th Century artist would go to the extraordinary trouble of carving a limestone bust in exquisite detail and then hiding it below a coat of plaster. For years, the Berlin officials have argued that chemical tests showed the paint and plaster on the bust were identical to those used by Ancient Egyptian artisans. Now they also have computer-backed evidence that the limestone carving is also genuinely ancient.

Egypt has demanded the return of the bust since it went on display in 1923 in Berlin at the height of worldwide "Egypto-mania" in the wake of the discovery of the tomb of Tutankhamen by Howard Carter.

The painted limestone and plaster bust, depicting the elegantly chiselled life-sized features of a stunningly beautiful woman wearing a unique cone-shaped headdress, has been the pride of the collection since German archaeologists discovered the bust in the ruins of an ancient artist's studio on the banks of the Nile in 1912.

An alluring mystery has surrounded the bust since its discovery on December 7, 1912, incredibly intact and sporting vibrant colours, after lying forgotten in the sands since the tumultuous close of the reign of Pharaoh Akhenaton, one of the most enigmatic rulers of all time.

In 1913, the Ottoman Empire agreed to allow its finders, part-time German-Jewish archaeologist and full-time entrepreneur James Simon and his Prussian colleague Ludwig Borchardt, to retain possession of the bust.

The simmering controversy between Egypt and Germany boiled over anew earlier this year when a German news magazine printed excerpts from documents which allegedly indicated Borchardt deliberately used subterfuge to "smuggle" the bust out of Egypt. The documents are not new to scholars, however, who say Borchardt and Simon did not need to be devious. Instead, the Ottoman Empire officials simply failed to appreciate the artistic value of the artefact.

Despite persistent rumours that Borchardt and Simon smuggled out the bust under a coating of mud, the plain truth of the matter is that Ottoman authorities failed to recognize the bust as a masterpiece. In those days, the stark style of the Amarna Period was not deemed as valuable as the more traditional styles of other periods.

Borchardt and Simon, however, immediately recognized the bust's appeal to European tastes for Art Nouveau and other post-Victorian styles. They did indeed breathe a sigh of relief when the Ottoman authorities blindly gave their stamp of approval to their request for removal from Egypt.

Borchardt and Simon carted it off to Europe where Simon displayed Nefertiti prominently in his home in Berlin before later lending it to the Berlin museum and finally donating it to the Berlin collection in 1920.

The discovery of Tutankhamen's tomb in 1922 spawned an Egypto-mania craze as well as the Art Deco style. King Tut's treasures flaunted the "decadent" style of the late 18th Dynasty, and Nefertiti suddenly was a fashion trend-setter.

Crowds flocked to the Berlin museum to see Nefertiti and shame-faced Egyptian authorities realized they had made a ghastly mistake a decade earlier.

"They suddenly realized that this bust, which had been dismissed as 'un-Egyptian' in 1913, was in fact one of the most exquisite examples of Egyptian art," the Berliner Zeitung newspaper quoted one expert as saying.

In 1933, the Egyptian government demanded Nefertiti's return - the first of many such demands over the ensuing decades. One of the many titles Hermann Goering held was premier of Prussia

(which included Berlin) and, acting in that capacity, Goering hinted to King Fouad I of Egypt that Nefertiti would soon be back in Cairo.

But Hitler had other plans. Through the ambassador to Egypt, Eberhard von Stohrer, Hitler informed the Egyptian government that he was an ardent fan of Nefertiti:

"I know this famous bust," the fuehrer wrote. "I have viewed it and marvelled at it many times. Nefertiti continually delights me. The bust is a unique masterpiece, an ornament, a true treasure!"

Hitler said Nefertiti had a place in his dreams of rebuilding Berlin and renaming it "Germania".

"Do you know what I'm going to do one day? I'm going to build a new Egyptian museum in Berlin," Hitler went on.

"I dream of it. Inside I will build a chamber, crowned by a large dome. In the middle, this wonder, Nefertiti, will be enthroned. I will never relinquish the head of the Queen."

While he did not mention it at the time, Hitler envisioned more for the museum. There was to be an even larger hall of honour, with a bust of Hitler.

It was rumoured immediately after World War II that Hitler had commissioned a copy of the bust for possible handover to the Egyptians after a Nazi victory. American Allied art experts claimed they found two wooden crates in a salt mine south of Berlin where the German capital's museum art treasures had been placed for safekeeping during bombing raids. The two crates allegedly contained identical Nefertiti busts.

But in post-war confusion, one of the crates got lost. The whereabouts of the "other Nefertiti" are unknown - assuming it ever existed to start with. From time to time over the years, there have been reports suggesting that the fake bust survived and that the genuine bust is lost. A recent documentary on Germany's ZDF television network revived that theory.

And that is where the new CT scans come to the rescue. They prove once and for all that the bust on view in Berlin is indeed genuine. Whether there ever was a duplicate is now a moot point.

The exquisite limestone bust of Queen Nefertiti forms the focal point of the Berlin collection, which ranks among the top two or three collections in the world outside Egypt itself. The British Museum, the Louvre in Paris and the Metropolitan in New York are the only chief rivals to Berlin's collection, which spans all eras from the pre-Dynastic period all the way through to Roman times.

Hitler's dreams of a monolithic new Egyptian museum never materialized. Instead, Nefertiti will move into permanent quarters in Berlin's Neues Museum later this year, following painstaking renovation work to erase wartime damage.

Ironically, it will be the first time since 1939 that the entire Berlin Egyptian collection will be housed in one permanent location.

Hitler and his mad dreams are long dead. But Nefertiti continues to smile serenely. As she has for 3,300 years. As if to say: "This too shall pass. And I shall endure."

Copyright, respective author or news agency

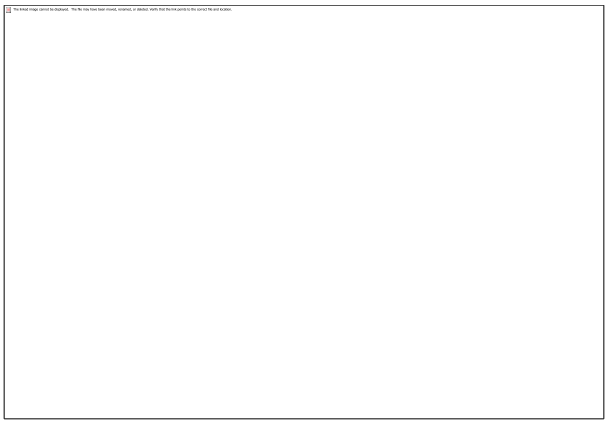
===

HTP,

Mahari

| 28691|2009-04-27 11:18:53|Mahari Mengistu|3 of the MANY FACES OF NEFERTITI|

HTP,



Mahari

| 28692|2009-04-27 12:12:08|Mahari Mengistu|Cache of mummies unearthed at Egypt's Lahun pyramid|

Cache of mummies unearthed at Egypt's Lahun pyramid

By Cynthia JohnstonPosted 2009/04/26 at 11:19 am EDT

LAHUN, Egypt, Apr. 26, 2009 (Reuters) ? Archaeologists have unearthed a cache of pharaonic-era mummies in brightly painted wooden coffins near Egypt's little-known Lahun pyramid, the site head said on Sunday.

An Egyptian worker brushes dust off a wooden coffin containing a linen-wrapped mummy covered in cartonnage near the Illahun Pyramid in Faiyum, 130 km (80 miles) southwest of Cairo , April 26, 2009, released by the Egyptian Supreme Council of Antiquities. REUTERS/Tarek Mostafa

---

The mummies were the first to be found in the sand-covered desert rock surrounding the mud-brick Lahun pyramid, believed to be built by the 12th dynasty pharaoh Senusret II, who ruled 4,000 years ago. The team expects to announce more finds soon.

The site was first excavated more than a century ago.

"The tombs were cut on the rock itself, and they vary in architectural designs," said archaeologist Abdul Rahman Al-Ayedi, head of excavations at the site. "Most of the mummies we discovered were with these bright and beautiful colors."

At the site, bare skulls from some of the mummies sit on a hillside while workers gently brush away sand from coffins below the earth that bear images of their occupants, some painted in striking hues of green, red and white.

Ayedi said the dozens of tombs dotting the site near Fayoum, 60 km (35 miles) south of Cairo, could give insight into the development of Egyptian funerary architecture and traditions from the Middle Pharaonic Kingdom all the way to the Roman era.

Some of the tombs were built on top of graves from earlier eras, and Ayedi said archaeologists had found dozens of mummies, including around 30 that were well-preserved. Some were inscribed with prayers intended to help the deceased.

SITE MAY DATE TO EARLIER ERA

Ayedi said Egypt would soon announce an additional significant find near the Lahun pyramid, once covered by slabs of white limestone, showing the site could date back to an earlier era thousands of years before previously thought.

"The prevailing idea was that this site has been established by Senusret II, the fourth king of the 12th dynasty. But in light of our discovery, I think we are going to change this theory, and soon we will announce another discovery," he told reporters.

He said teams had made a discovery dating to before the 12th dynasty, but gave no details on what it was and said an official announcement could be made within days.

Ayedi said he had wanted to excavate at Lahun, Egypt's southernmost pyramid, because he was not satisfied with the result of the first excavation there in the 19th century, saying it did not match the significance of the site.

"The size of the site is huge. So I thought that we could unearth a lot of elements in this site. At the beginning of the excavation, I thought that we may rewrite the history of the area, and I was right," he said.

Archaeologists found the main entrance to the pyramid last year in a 16-meter well, and later found storage jars and other objects inside before finding the mummies in the surrounding desert stone in recent months, Ayedi said.

Egypt, whose economy relies heavily on tourism, has made several significant discoveries this year including a rare intact mummy found in February in a sealed sarcophagus near the world's oldest standing step pyramid at Saqqara, near Cairo.

Archaeologists hope to start digging soon in search of the tomb of Cleopatra and possibly her lover Mark Antony on Egypt's north coast. Cleopatra, facing possible captivity in Rome, is alleged to have killed herself by the sting of an asp in 30 BC.

(Writing by Cynthia Johnston; Editing by Angus MacSwan)

Copyright Reuters 2008. See Restrictions for more details.

===

HTP,

Mahari

| 28693|2009-04-27 16:38:39|Lamar Perryman|Does The Igbo Have a Historical Presence in Canaan ?|
Question: Does The Igbo Peoples Of Nigeria Have A Historical Presence In The Land Of Canaan ???
MLP.,
Moorish American Federal Nationalists,
MAFN, The Nationalists.

| 28694|2009-04-27 16:39:49|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|
love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM

The answer is simple and perhaps painful:

Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?
I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"
It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England. They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learning and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting even profound thoughts.
And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.
It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?

As is usually the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature that's just my opinion.
My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem. However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval compounded exponentially when she has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.
Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that .. WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?

HTP,
Mahari
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:
>
> Hetepu,
>
> Very
> nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > passage?
>
> Peace-n-Blessings,
>

> Shri Sa Hetep
>
>
> --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> tafari
>
>
> baggy pants
> once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
> if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
> are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
> are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .

> seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
>
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28695|2009-04-27 16:53:34|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|
good site!

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 4/27/09, Agola Kisira wrote:

From: Agola Kisira
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 7:47 AM

screw hip-hop! it's already grown old and pop.

listen to real music, real musicians who have mastered their instruments, sing your heart out perfection of vocals

listen to THE BLUES!!!!!!! !!!

http://www.000audio .com/player/ Blues.aspx

From: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroup s.com"
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Sent: Monday, 27 April, 2009 4:43:06
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Digest Number 3409

Kmt and African Civilization

Messages In This Digest (9 Messages)

1a.
Re: baggy pants From: yvette moore
1b.
Re: baggy pants From: Ginger Daniels
1c.
Re: baggy pants From: Shri Sa Hetep
1d.
Re: baggy pants From: Tafari khumbaka
1e.
Re: baggy pants From: Tafari khumbaka
1f.
Re: baggy pants From: Tafari khumbaka
1g.
Re: baggy pants From: Mahari Mengistu
2.
FW: Chemtrails finally out into the open From: Ginger Daniels
3.
High court rejects Mumia Abu Jamal appeal From: Ginger Daniels
View All Topics | Create New Topic

Messages

1a.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "yvette moore" iqtraveler@yahoo. com iqtraveler

Sun Apr26,2009 7:40am (PDT)

I agree with this statement of your perspective!

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 8:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time

yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Back to top

Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (8)

1b.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Ginger Daniels" gingerd2007@ hotmail.com gingerd2007

Sun Apr26,2009 7:41am (PDT)

WOW... you said alot of good stuff...

- not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation.. . dont say this too loud... everyone is not supposed to know!!!!!

To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Date: Sat, 25 Apr 2009 19:34:33 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

_____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _
Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry

http://windowslive. com/RediscoverHo tmail?ocid=
TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Rediscover_Mobile2_042009

Back to top

Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (8)

1c.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Shri Sa Hetep" shrisahetep@ sbcglobal. net
shrisahetep

Sun Apr26,2009 12:50pm (PDT)

Hetepu,

Very
nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of passage?

Peace-n-Blessings,

Shri Sa Hetep

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo..com>
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and

declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Back to top
Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (8)

1d.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Tafari khumbaka" tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
tafari_sudra

Sun Apr26,2009 1:45pm (PDT)

cant fight or flee in em',,,,,.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, yvette moore <iqtraveler@yahoo. com> wrote:

From: yvette moore <iqtraveler@yahoo. com>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: Ta_ Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:44 PM

I agree with this statement of your perspective!

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 8:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Back to top

Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (8)

1e.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Tafari khumbaka" tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
tafari_sudra

Sun Apr26,2009 1:53pm (PDT)

the Turks, the Samurai, the Romans (were against it unless u could take it,lol) ,the French and most Arabs.....
for a better look at the greeks 1 book is greek homosexuality
by. Dover

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 4/26/09, Ginger Daniels <gingerd2007@ hotmail.com> wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels <gingerd2007@ hotmail.com>
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com" <ta_seti@yahoogroups .com>
Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 1:31 AM

WOW... yousaid alot of goodstuff...
- not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation.. . dont say this too loud...everyone is not supposed to know!!!!!

To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Date: Sat, 25 Apr 2009 19:34:33 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.

if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Rediscover Hotmail: Now available on your iPhone or BlackBerry Check it out.

Back to top
Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (8)

1f.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Tafari khumbaka" tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com tafari_sudra

Sun Apr26,2009 2:04pm (PDT)

If the white world could be looked at as a english court, the blacks would be the court jester, and peasants and the good paying job of court jester has its particular apparell/ uniform. In the 20's thru the 60's it was joot suits , big hats, tight tight pants and baggy arms, all types of clown clothing , now its no longer good to clown for the white man,. ....

so our clothing is stating our unconcious percieved status in socieity,,,she- male exotica.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 4/26/09, Shri Sa Hetep <shrisahetep@ sbcglobal. net> wrote:

From: Shri Sa Hetep <shrisahetep@ sbcglobal. net>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 2:50 PM

Hetepu,

Very nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of passage?

Peace-n-Blessings,

Shri Sa Hetep

--- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM

tafari

baggy pants
once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....

are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Back to top

Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (8)

1g.

Re: baggy pants

Posted by: "Mahari Mengistu" mahari@myway. com m2rmsm

Sun Apr26,2009 2:53pm (PDT)

The answer is simple and perhaps painful:

Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?
I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"
It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England. They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learning and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting even profound thoughts.

And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.

It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?

As is usually the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature that's just my opinion.

My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem. However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.

I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.

If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval compounded exponentially when she has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.
Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that ..
WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?

HTP,
Mahari
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:
>
> Hetepu,
>
> Very
> nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > passage?
>
> Peace-n-Blessings,
>
> Shri Sa Hetep
>
>
> --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> tafari
>
>
> baggy pants
> once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
> if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
> are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
> are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
>
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

Back to top

Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (8)

2.

FW: Chemtrails finally out into the open

Posted by: "Ginger Daniels" gingerd2007@ hotmail.com gingerd2007

Sun Apr26,2009 7:42am (PDT)

Know anyone that has been seriously ill lately, with no explanation? Been paying attention to the swine flu and the numerous unexplained illnesses popping up all over the country? Read here... watch the videos at least the first two. They are both very short -

Sent: Friday, April 24, 2009 12:02 AM

Subject: Chemtrails finally out into the open

It's Being Done TO US - and they know it!

Finally, finally, alas finally, after over ten years of denial, chemtrails are hitting fan and getting some media exposure.

While the public, accused of causing global warming and chaotic weather - is being saddled with all kinds of regulations and taxes (like the carbon tax, and Cap-and-trade quotas for polluting) the real reason for climate chaos and irrational weather systems has very clearly been kept under secret raps.

Yes, it has been documented that the military has been experimenting and perfecting weather modification for decades - and Chemtrails have been and are very much a part of those experiments, as is the HAARP technology.

Chemtrials have been visibly obvious to anyone with eyes to see and a brain to discern normal from abnormal (and yet most people just wouldn't see - and remained in denial, despite the overwhelming evidence).

It has also been documented that the military has conducted numerous
bio-warfare- toxic-chemical experiments on unwitting and unsuspecting populations in the USA - and probably also elsewhere.

Chemtrail researchers have been able to substantiate that, among many other toxic and pathological substances, they contain dangerously high quantities
of aluminum and barium.
Both of them are known to lower the immune system

In the last few weeks the chemtrail activity seems to have intensified exponentially.
Why now? Could it be that before the long-predicted pandemic of Bird Flu is unleashed, the immune systems of the population are being weakened to make sure that the "planned reduction in population" actually materializes.

The pictures in these you-tube videos are so compelling - and remove forever the controversy as to "whether or not they exist".

My question, naturally is, "Where has the media been in these past 10+ years.
Not a whimper or a peep!

Please share this widely with all your contacts, especially those still in chemtrail denial.

http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=QRFbOe38Y1U& feature=PlayList &p=13300F7CE0A3B 409&index= 11

http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=4ceXKojuBHA& feature=related

http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=ghoaomHQB2g& NR=1

There has also been items coming out on German TV openly implicating the military in chemtrails.

http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=IaPqCMIuEk4

 exposing the hidden truth for further educational research only ***
CAVEAT LECTOR ***

_____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _

Windows Live SkyDrive: Get 25 GB of free online storage.
http://windowslive. com/online/ skydrive? ocid=TXT_ TAGLM_ WL_ skydrive_ 042009

Back to top

Reply to sender | Reply to group | Reply via web post
Messages in this topic (1)

3.

High court rejects Mumia Abu Jamal appeal

Posted by: "Ginger Daniels" gingerd2007@ hotmail.com gingerd2007

Sun Apr26,2009 7:42am (PDT)

The Supreme Court dealt a cruel blow to journalist and former Black Panther Mumia Abu-Jamal, April 6, denying without comment his appeal to overturn his conviction for the 1981 killing of a White police officer.

Mumia Abu JamalThe central issue in this case is racism in jury selection, Robert Bryan, his chief defense attorney wrote to supporters recently. The racially tinged trial which sentenced Mr. Abu Jamal to death was held before a predominantly White jury of 10 Whites and only two Blacks in Philadelphia where 43 percent of the population is Black.

This is another terribly dark day for justice in this country! Hans Bennett, a co-founder of the group Journalists for Mumia told supporters. Mr. Abu Jamal was president of the Philadelphia chapter of the National Association of Black Journalists (NABJ) who had repeatedly reported on police brutality charges raised by the back-to-nature collective MOVE at the time of his arrest in 1981.

We are ready to mass mobilize, but we are open to suggestions from the ground. One of our first acts will be to get the petition drive going. We want to push this in a big way, MOVE member Pam Africa told Final Call correspondent Saeed Shabazz.

Mumia turns 55 on April 24, and there will be More Than a Book Party' celebrations held in Philadelphia, at the Church of the Advocate, in Milan (Italy), and San Francisco to introduce Mumia's new book Jailhouse Lawyers,' said Ms. Africa. The New York City book party is scheduled on April 25, at 4 p.m. at the Riverside Church, sponsored by the church's Prison Ministry.

Demonstrations and Emergency Strategy Meetings in New York City, Philadelphia, Albany, N.Y., San Francisco, Germany, France and Italy, were scheduled on April 11 according to Suzzane Ross, Free Mumia Abu Jamal Coalition/NYC.

People are calling, they are outraged. We had 27 calls to our New York Mumia Hotline within hours after the decision was made public, Ms. Ross said.

This Supreme Court decision again underscores the Mumia Exception' where courts reject granting this inmate the same legal relief given to others raising the same legal points, Linn Washington, associate professor of journalism at Temple University and longtime defender of Mr. Abu Jamal's innocence, told the online column Journal-isms April 6.

Ample evidence exists documenting improprieties by the prosecutor during jury selection at Abu-Jamal's 1982 trialthe same pattern of improprieties that state and federal courts have cited in overturning over a dozen murder convictions in Philadelphia occurring before, during and after the trial of Abu-Jamal ... none of which (involve) a Black charged with killing a white police officer, said Mr. Washington.

The ruling is just really an atrocity, because this particular case has consistently led courts to create special exceptions for Abu Jamal only, where everyone else gets a new trial, but Abu Jamal doesn't, author Dave Lindorff, told The Final Call the day of the Supreme Court decision to not hear Mr. Abu Jamal's appeal.

The first example of this was in Pennsylvania, where the State Supreme Court issued a ruling that freed everybody up to Abu Jamal on a precedent, and then didn't free him, and then, after his case had been rejected on this appeal, they then returned with a new case and again reinstated their precedent but didn't make it retroactive. They specifically made it so that the only person who didn't get a new trial on that particular precedent was Abu Jamal.

The ruling, made without comment by the court, leaves in place a federal appeals court ruling upholding Mr. Abu-Jamal's conviction of killing White police officer Daniel Faulkner in 1981 after the patrolman pulled over Mr. Abu-Jamal's brother during an overnight traffic stop. Mr. Abu-Jamal was working as a cab driver at the time.

Prosecutors, meanwhile, are appealing to the Supreme Court for a separate ruling to reinstate the death penalty, after a lower court ordered a new sentencing hearing because of flawed jury instructions.

While on death row for more than 25 years, Mr. Abu-Jamal has been a prolific writer and radio commentator. In 2004, the NAACP reaffirmed previous stances against the death penalty and passed its first-ever convention-approved support of the international movement for a new and fair trial for Mumia Abu Jamal.

There will be a legal campaign with petitions to U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder and the Justice Department asking for a civil rights investigation into prosecutorial misconduct' in the nation, particularly Philadelphia, said Ms. Ross.

The Supreme Court ruling came as no surprise to Mr. Abu Jamal, he told long time confidant and collaborator Noelle Hanrahan, director of the Prison Radio Project. When asked by Ms. Hanrahan when he stopped being surprised, Mr. Abu Jamal told her: When I was at pretrial hearing before Judge (Alfred) Sabo, and he denied the motion. I knew then that he wasn't working with the Constitution.

It did surprise me, and it really shocked me, because, you know, I had read the cases. I knew what the law was. I knew what the law books said the law was. I learned then that they're not going by that kind of law. And apparently they're not going by that kind of law now. You know, if you read Batson and you read my case, then it's almost as if you're in two different universes. And, in fact, you are. You are, he said.

The Batson precedent was the basis of Mr. Abu Jamal's appeal. That case was decided by the Supreme Court in 1986, and it essentially lowered the standard, in one respect, for counsel to even ask the question as to whether or not discrimination in jury selection had taken place, Vincent Southerland, assistant counsel at the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund told Pacifica Radio's Democracy Now! April 7.

Essentially, when defense counsel or a prosecutor, in some cases, sees a pattern of discrimination, a pattern of strikes during the course of jury selection, that attorney has a right to then question the court, to ask whether or not the other counsel is using those strikes in a discriminatory manner.

And at that point, when the court makes a determination that there has been some type of a pattern of discrimination, some type of discrimination during the course of jury selection, the onus is then on the prosecutor or the other counsel to maketo provide some explanation as to why they're striking jurors and make that explanationyou know, provide an explanation that does not have to do with race, Mr. Southerland continued. They cannot be striking jurors based on race. And, you know, that decision is essentially the cornerstone of the protections that defendants have in order to prevent discriminatory jury selection and at least challenge discrimination in jury selection during trial.

The district attorney's office in Philadelphia, back duringparticularly during that period in the early '80s, late '70s and mid- to late '80s, engaged in a patternthis is judicially recognizedof removing people from sitting on juries because of race, because of the color of their skin, Robert Bryan, Mr. Abu Jamal's attorney said last year when he petitioned the Supreme Court to overturn the conviction.

The racially biased jury, as well as witness intimidation by police wanting to avenge the death of one of their own, and tainted evidence presented at trial point to the gross injustice of Mr.. Abu Jamal's conviction, if not his outright innocence according to Mr. Lindorf

(Message over 64 KB, truncated)

| 28696|2009-04-27 18:02:15|Mahari Mengistu|Re: baggy pants|
I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it". Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over the butt.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
>
> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
>
> Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?
> I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"
> It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England. They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learning and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting even profound thoughts.
> And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing

solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.
> It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> As is usually the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature that's just my opinion.
> My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem. However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
> I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval compounded exponentially when she has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.
> Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that ..
> WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
>
> HTP,
> Mahari
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:
> >
> > Hetepu,
> >
> > Very
> > nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > > passage?

> >
> > Peace-n-Blessings,
> >
> > Shri Sa Hetep
> >
> >
> > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > From: Tafari khumbaka
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > tafari
> >
> >
> > baggy pants
> > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
> > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
> > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
> > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .

> > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
>
| 28697|2009-04-27 20:03:58|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|Re: baggy pants|
i personally do not think they are asking for a homosexual encounter.....
although this act was 1st used as a invitation in prison communitiesfor invitation toa sexual encounter.
i am speaking about subliminal seduction , a subconcious directive to act in a manner that shows no aggression toward a higher authority,.
Liken it to the experiments on pavlov's dogs..... and think of a puppy kicked hard by its master daily it will without thinking put its tail between its legs and bow.
If its not sexual why ? do they try an hid it with their shirts??? certainly their backside out in this culture on the avenues and back streets of afr.am. is sloopy and boyish., a boy unable to act as a African Scholar-Warrior., unable to contend with the Greater white community he is putting his tail between his legs.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 4/27/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:01 PM

I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it". Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over the butt.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.

>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
>
> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
>
> Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?
> I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"
> It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England. They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learning and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting •even profound thoughts.
> And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders • and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them •

spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.
> It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community • that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process • the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> As is usually the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature • that's just my opinion.
> My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem. However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
> I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval compounded exponentially when she has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice • plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.
> Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that …..
> WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
>
> HTP,
> Mahari
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:
> >

> > Hetepu,
> >
> > Very
> > nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > > passage?
> >
> > Peace-n-Blessings,
> >
> > Shri Sa Hetep
> >
> >
> > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > From: Tafari khumbaka
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > tafari
> >
> >
> > baggy pants
> > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
> > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
> > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.

> > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
>

| 28698|2009-04-27 22:01:20|Asar Imhotep|"Writing Africa" (ALA conference; Soyinka keynote)|

> The following release from the University of Vermont was seen via a Google alert. It concerns the 35th meeting of the African Literature Association and the keynote address by Wole Soyinka. Interesting to note that although he now writes in English, Mr. Soyinka says he thinks in Yoruba.
>
> Writing Africa
> http://www.uvm. edu/~uvmpr/ ?Page=News& storyID=14171 > Release Date: 04-22-2009
>
> Author: Lee Ann Cox1
> Email: LeeAnn.Cox@uvm. edu2
> Phone: 802/656-1107 Fax: (802) 656-3203
>
> [photo inset: Wole Soyinka and Lokangaka Losambe
> "Speaking a culture is very different from speaking a language," says Nobel Laureate Wole Soyinka (left), who addressed the recent African Language [sic] Association conference organized by Lokangaka Losambe (right) at UVM. (Photo: Holly Hendricks)]

"You won't believe it," says Amaka Azuike, novelist, poet and senior lecturer of literature in English at the University of Jos in Nigeria. "There are people who actually go to the extent of selling things cars, property just to make it here." She's referring to the African Literature Association (ALA) conference, whose 35th annual meeting convened at UVM last week. The conference is held on the continent every five years, which allows for greater African participation, but universities there often lack the resources to send scholars abroad. And still, when they can, they come.

"You meet different people, from different cultures," explains Azuike, "you share ideas, beliefs. You mingle with great writers, you make friends, you make enemies if you like." She takes photographs and buys books to share with her students at home.

Lokangaka Losambe, professor and chair of English and the organizer of this year's conference, understands. This year's theme was "Africa and Blackness in World Literature and Visual Arts," but ideas about globalization were a strong undercurrent linking the past three gatherings. Absent global exchange, the wide-ranging influences on African and African Diaspora literature would be lost to a world hungry for both shared experiences and understanding of the diversity among peoples with different social and political pasts.

"African literature," says Losambe, "like any other literature, evolves. New works come out, they introduce new paradigms, new perspectives as the world order moves. "

The ALA provides a forum for exploring works new and old; this year's conference brought 400 participants from more than 55 countries to campus. Africa, Losambe notes, had a vibrant literary tradition an oral one long before colonialism took root. Independence, dictatorship, military rule all became fertile territory for creative and political expression. And yet, as many Africans have moved into American universities, their writings on the same topic invariably change.

"The way they articulate it," Losambe says, "will be different from the person living in the country. We want to have a dialogue all the time about that. But," he adds, "there is also the critical debate about the nature of the art of African literature in conjunction with the totality of universal literature. Most of that debate happens here."

Worlds in translation

Among the untold tasks Losambe has undertaken since UVM won its bid to host this prestigious conference two years ago, was bringing in notable speakers, the people who stir young African scholars like Azuike to sacrifice for the privilege of hearing them. Praise for Losambe's vision and organization has been pouring into his inbox since Sunday, but signing playwright Wole Soyinka to present the keynote address was clearly a highlight. Soyinka, author of the acclaimed Death and the King's Horseman, was the first African to win the Nobel Prize for Literature.

In his speech, "The Creative Pursuit in Global Times," Soyinka played with the notion in his title of "time" as "tempo" and even took a shot at globalization, calling it, at least in terms of corporate interests, another form of colonialism, domination over the local and unique.

But sharing his intellectual expertise across cultures is what Soyinka does. The writer, who was once forced into exile by military dictatorship, now divides his time between his homeland of Nigeria and posts at U.S. universities. During the conference he sat with UVM students, answering their questions: Shakespearian tragedy versus African tragedy, tradition versus modernity in his work.

Asked whether he writes in Yoruba or English, he answers that the early work he wrote in Yoruba, which was then an easy job for translation into English. Now, he says, he writes in English, but a major challenge according to his translator he, thinks in Yoruba.

In writing, Soyinka tells the students, "an image comes to us fully formed, then sensation comes; you hope you're not a lunatic and others have had that kind of sensation and can relate."

Even a glimmer of self-doubt from a character of this stature must come as a relief to the young writers in the room. If Losambe had any similar feelings about building this conference, they've been dispelled, with a call even for his succeeding the outgoing president of the ALA. As one Ghanaian attendee wrote, "Ayekoo," congratulations, well done.

2009 The University of Vermont

*  * Disclaimer ********** ********* *********
Copyright: In accordance with Title 17, United States Code Section 107, this material is distributed without profit for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material posted to this list for purposes that go beyond "fair use," you must obtain permission from the copyright owner.
Content: The sender does not vouch for the veracity nor the accuracy of the contents of this message, which are the sole responsibility of the > copyright owner. Also, the sender does not necessarily agree or disagree with any opinions that are expressed in this message.

> ********** ********* ********* ********* *********
> ********* ********* ****

| 28699|2009-04-28 01:47:10|Obadele (abibitumikasa.com)|Intro & Inter. Akan (Twi) & Yoruba Online Classes begin week of May |

What: You are invited to join one month (8 class) sessions of Introductory Twi or Yoruba or one month (4 class) sessions of Intermediate Twi or Yoruba.

Four Simple Steps to SUCCESSFUL registration for class:

Have you registered for the class:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html

Have you submitted payment for the class:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/payment.html

Have you registered and logged into the forums:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php

Have you clicked on member classroom (where the classes are held):
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

http://www.abibitumikasa.com/classes.html

Who: All Afrikan people who are serious about being Afrikan

When: Next class session begins the week of May 11, 2009 (Click here for schedule http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/calendar.php)

Monday AND Wednesday Intro Yoruba 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

Tuesday AND Thursday Intro Twi 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

AND

Sunday Intermediate Twi 1:00PM-3:00PM EST

Sunday Intermediate Yoruba 4:00PM-6:00PM EST

Where: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

How: To access the online member classroom, you must register for the Abibitumi Kasa site at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php

You'll need to do this if you don't have an account already.

If you already have an account at the site, login at this link: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/login.php

From there click on the link to member classroom on any page at the site at class time or visit the link to the member classroom here directly at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

Learn to hook up your audio and/or webcam for class and more at: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

How Much: 195 USD for eight (8) class Introductory Class; 97.50 USD for four (4) class Intermediate Class; Contact us about cost of advanced individual tutorials http://www.abibitumikasa.com/contact.html

Why: Repatriation, Visit, Interacting with Family, and more. Let us know your reason for wanting to learn Afrikan languages via our Prospective Student Questionnaire http://www.abibitumikasa.com/nsemmisa.pdf

Live Interactive Online and Accra, Ghana Afrikan Language Classes

Register for Free Afrikan Liberation Institute

Sign Up for AKALI Mailing List

Abibitumi Kasa Fundraiser

| 28700|2009-04-28 09:06:25|Cjmtlc@aol.com|Re: baggy pants|
This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine, as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).

Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B videos. So, the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.

I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear. As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up their butts hanging out and some don't.

It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not knowing/understanding where this activity comes from, and not knowing what they are emulating.

Carl J. Mason
AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the greatest metamorphosis and renewal. If we think about it, we may look at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on within.

-----Original Message-----
From: Mahari Mengistu <mahari@myway.com>
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants

I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it". Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over the butt.

HTP,

Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Tafari khumbaka
wrote:

>

> love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking

the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.

>

>

>

>

> Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

>

> --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

>

>

> From: Mahari Mengistu <m

ahari@...>

> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants

> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com

> Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

> The answer is simple and perhaps painful:

>

> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

>

> Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?

> I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"

> It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.

They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learnin g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but

I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting •even profound thoughts.

> And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders • and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them • spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.

> It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community • that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process • the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?

> As is usual ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature • that's just my opinion.

> My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem. However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.

> I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.

> If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family

there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval compounded exponentially when she=2 0has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice • plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.

> Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that …..

> WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?

>

> HTP,

> Mahari

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep

wrote:

> >

> > Hetepu,

> >

> > Very

> > nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why

> > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > > passage?

> >

> > Peace-n-Blessings,

> >

> > Shri Sa Hetep

> >

> >

> > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

> > From: Tafari khumbaka

> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants

> > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com

> > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> > tafari

> >

> >

> > baggy pants

> > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.

> > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be

white.....

> > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and

declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.

> > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no

t a owner,
not someone who is a man in his own mind .

> > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

> >

>
| 28701|2009-04-28 09:07:19|Paul Kekai Manansala|Largest ancient Egyptian temple yet to be found in Sinai|

Painted history

REMAINS of the largest ancient Egyptian temple yet to be found in Sinai have been uncovered in Qantara, reports Nevine El-Aref.

At Tel-Hebua, known in Pharaonic times as Tharo, the area from which the ancient Egyptian army embarked on military campaigns along Egypt's eastern borders, an Egyptian archaeological mission stumbled upon what is believed to be the largest New Kingdom temple ever discovered.

The temple, which covers an area of 80x70 metres, is built of mud brick decorated with paintings. It consists of four rectangular halls containing a total of 34 columns, three limestone purification basins, and a number of secondary chapels, suggesting that the temple was an important religious centre on Egypt's eastern front.

The site is heavily fortified and surrounded by a four-metre-thick wall. Paintings featuring Horus, Hathor, Tefnut, Montu and Renenutet were unearthed within the temple walls along with others showing kings Tuthmosis II and Ramses II.

On the east and west of the site are two groups of storehouses consisting of 13 rooms each, which probably date to the reigns of Seti I, Ramses II and Seti II. They contain thousands of inscriptions and seal impressions of the three kings. One of them is particularly important, points out mission director Mohamed Abdel-Maqsoud. It depicts Ramses II before the god Set, patron deity of the Hyksos capital Avaris, now known as Tel Al-Dabaa, some 50 kilometres from Tel Hebua in the eastern Nile Delta.

Zahi Hawass, secretary-general of the Supreme Council of Antiquities (SCA), described the discovery as the most important to date in Sinai.

(see: Tomb of the century)

© Copyright Al-Ahram Weekly. All rights reserved

| 28702|2009-04-28 09:07:44|Mahari Mengistu|Re: baggy pants|

>>If its not sexual why ? do they try an hid it with their shirts???<<

You say it's not sexual, then you say it is sexual and you say it is subliminal seduction. When you start saying what is happening in someone elso's brain you run into clear problems. The best you can say is that these boys don't seem to be acting like firmly directed young men.
I think the biggest problem with us humans is that we cannot control our own minds - and that goes for these boys. It is inappropriate to put clear intentions in the minds others when too often what we assume about others actions are our own thoughts and interpretations which frequently emanate from that can of worms in our brains. A good example is the mind of the white racists who seem to think that we, blacks, are always after them when, in fact, they are always after us.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, tafari_sudra@... wrote:
>
>
>
>
> i personally do not think they are asking for a homosexual encounter.....
> although this act was 1st used as a invitation in prison communities for invitation to a sexual encounter.
> i am speaking about subliminal seduction , a subconcious directive to act in a manner that shows no aggression toward a higher authority,.
> Liken it to the experiments on pavlov's dogs..... and think of a puppy kicked hard by its master daily it will without thinking put its tail between its legs and bow.
>
> If its not sexual why ? do they try an hid it with their shirts??? certainly their backside out in this culture on the avenues and back streets of afr.am. is sloopy and boyish., a boy unable to act as a African Scholar-Warrior., unable to contend with the Greater white community he is putting his tail between his legs.
>
>
>
>

> Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:01 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it". Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over the butt.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> >
> > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
> >
> >
> > ÿ
> >
> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> >
> >
> > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
> >
> >
> >

> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
> >
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?
> > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"
> > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England. They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learning and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting â□"even profound thoughts.
> > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders â□" and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them â□" spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.
> > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community â□" that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process â□" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> > As is usually the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature â□" that's just my opinion.
> > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem. However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.

> > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval compounded exponentially when she has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice â□" plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.
> > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that â□¦..
> > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
> >
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:
> > >
> > > Hetepu,
> > >
> > > Very
> > > nicely stated.ÿ I agree whole heartily.ÿ Now comes the question:ÿ Why > > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > > > passage?ÿ
> > >
> > > Peace-n-Blessings,
> > >
> > > Shri Sa Hetep
> > >
> > >
> > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > > From: Tafari khumbaka
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >

> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > ÿ tafari
> > >
> > >
> > > baggy pants
> > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and theÿ black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
> > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
> > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
> > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > ÿ
> > >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> >
>
| 28703|2009-04-28 09:24:36|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|
one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----, the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,
Only difference is the woman knows it.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@aol.com wrote:

From: Cjmtlc@aol.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM

This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine, as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).

Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B videos. So,
the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.

I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear. As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up their butts hanging out and some don't.

It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing what they are emulating.

Carl J. Mason
AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the greatest metamorphosis
and renewal. If we think about it, we may look at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on within.

-----Original Message-----
From: Mahari Mengistu <mahari@myway. com>
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants

I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it". Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over the butt.

HTP,

Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

>

> love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.

>

>

>

>

> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

>

> --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

>

>

> From: Mahari Mengistu <m
ahari@...>

> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants

> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com

> Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

> The answer is simple and perhaps painful:

>

> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

> Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.

>

> Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?

> I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"

> It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England. They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learnin g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting •even profound thoughts.

> And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders • and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them • spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.

> It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community • that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process • the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?

> As is usual

ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home
one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature • that's just my opinion.

> My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.

> I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.

> If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family
there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
compounded exponentially when she=2 0has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice • plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.

> Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that …..

> WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?

>

> HTP,

> Mahari

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
wrote:

> >

> > Hetepu,

> >

> > Very

> > nicely stated. I agree whole heartily. Now comes the question: Why > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > > passage?

> >

> > Peace-n-Blessings,

> >

> > Shri Sa Hetep

> >

> >

> > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

> > From: Tafari khumbaka

> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants

> > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com

> > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> > tafari

> >

> >

> > baggy pants

> > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and the black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.

> > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....

> > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.

> > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no t a owner,
not someone who is a man in his own mind .

> > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).

> >

> >

> >

> >

> >

> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

> >

>

| 28704|2009-04-28 09:30:14|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|

i personally say its sexual because the butt on display is sexual.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/28/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com

Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 11:07 AM

>>If its not sexual why ? do they try an hid it with their shirts???<<

You say it's not sexual, then you say it is sexual and you say it is subliminal seduction. When you start saying what is happening in someone elso's brain you run into clear problems. The best you can say is that these boys don't seem to be acting like firmly directed young men.
I think the biggest problem with us humans is that we cannot control our own minds - and that goes for these boys. It is inappropriate to put clear intentions in the minds others when too often what we assume about others actions are our own thoughts and interpretations which frequently emanate from that can of worms in our brains. A good example is the mind of the white racists who seem to think that we, blacks, are always after them when, in fact, they are always after us.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, tafari_sudra@ ... wrote:
>
>
>
>
> i personally do not think they are asking for a homosexual encounter... ..
> although this act was 1st used as a invitation in prison communities for invitation to a sexual encounter.
> i am speaking about subliminal seduction , a subconcious directive to act in a manner that shows no aggression toward a higher authority,.
> Liken it to the experiments on pavlov's dogs..... . and think of a puppy kicked hard by its master daily it will without thinking put its tail between its legs and bow.
>
> If its not sexual why ? do they try an hid it with their shirts??? certainly their backside out in this culture on the avenues and back streets of afr.am. is sloopy and boyish., a boy unable to act as a African Scholar-Warrior. , unable to contend with the Greater white community he is putting his tail between his legs.
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com

> Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:01 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it". Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over the butt.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> >
> > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
> >
> >
> > Â
> >
> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> >
> >
> > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
> >

> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he looks?
> > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me get my sh-t together!"
> > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England. They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to learning and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates some interesting â€"even profound thoughts.
> > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our children. Instead, our leaders â€" and I consider those leaders (of sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them â€" spend too much time, energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly unlikely that most of them do.
> > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual group within the black community since - I think - they are the most educated group within the black community â€" that is IF the goal is to progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about. Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the process â€" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> > As is usually the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and nurture. And probably more nurture than nature â€" that's just my opinion.
> > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem. However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.

> > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval compounded exponentially when she has never had it. If she doesn't have the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice â€" plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of this.
> > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase and the fact that â€¦..
> > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
> >
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:
> > >
> > > Hetepu,
> > >
> > > Very > > > nicely stated.Â I agree whole heartily.Â Now comes the question:Â Why > > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of > > > passage?Â
> > >
> > > Peace-n-Blessings,
> > >
> > > Shri Sa Hetep
> > >
> > >
> > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > > From: Tafari khumbaka
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >

> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > Â tafari
> > >
> > >
> > > baggy pants
> > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a long torso and short legs and theÂ black man has long legs and a short torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs. ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but anecdotally.
> > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be white.....
> > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see him as a sex symbol.
> > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and not a owner, not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > Â
> > >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> >
>

| 28705|2009-04-28 09:35:17|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|semi , hemi|

Huis created by Ra from the blood of his penis and asist Ra in destroying those that opposed the Ark of Ra.
Hu is the protector of divine speech, and was also an aspect of Her-em-Akhet
Sia stands at the brow of the bark of Ra and is Sia is the mind/consiousness of Ra and is also called the heart of Ptah and Hu is called the tongue of Ptah by the priest of Ptah
Hu = ham
Sia= shem
Ptah= japheth
Ra= noah
and yea shem is semi as is ham= hemi which would make the northerners the only pure race people, japheth.....
all the aforementioned are my personal understanding of the flood story and there is much more to the mythe.
Read G. Massey "anc. egypt light of the world" in there he shows the procession of the equinox thru the story.
also Pro. Charles finch has several book on the subject.
another point of view that flows with massey and finch althought is differentDr.Ra unnefer Amen pg40 metu neter vol2.
also check out the epic of Gilgamesh for a Cannite telling of the hebrew mythe.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28706|2009-04-28 15:28:17|Mahari Mengistu|Re: baggy pants|

> >> the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,<<

Don't you think that is only the case if the man watching wants to jump it? In other words, if I am in a public shower room I had better watch out for my butt because any man is likely to want to jump it. I don't think that is my responsibility to have these kinds of concerns for my natural well being.
This is much like the insistance by certain Islamists that a woman be fully covered head-to-toe in order to protect herself- and the man presumably. And if she is raped it because her fault! This is totally obscence. It leaves the vulgar, low-life, totally out-of-control, egotistal, self-centered male free of responsibility for his foul act and free from being a decent respectful human being who adheres to the fact that other peoples bodies are THEIRS and must never be attacked, invaded or disrespected.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----, the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,

>
> Only difference is the woman knows it.
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@... wrote:
>
>
> From: Cjmtlc@...
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read > the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have > anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is > having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine, > as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and > it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they > were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag > their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an > insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).
>
> Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't > given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants > sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and > cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous > rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style > spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't > have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, > grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street > knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from > drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones > that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing > like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B > videos. So,
> the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into > the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.

>
> I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist > of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see > this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't > want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
> Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age > group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their > pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear.
> As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these > guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit > under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the > t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up > their butts hanging out and some don't.
>
> It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do > with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not > knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing > what they are emulating.
>
> Carl J. Mason
> AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
> My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is > a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the > greatest metamorphosis
> and renewal. If we think about it, we may look > at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore > further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on > within.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
>
> I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and > stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because > they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an > effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed
> "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it".
> Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over > the butt.
>
> HTP,
>

> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka
> wrote:
>
> >
>
> > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking
> the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black > men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
>
> >
>
> >
>
> > ÿ
>
> >
>
> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> >
>
> > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
> >
>
> >
>
> > From: Mahari Mengistu <m
> ahari@>
>
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
>
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
>
> > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
>
> >
>
> >
>
> >

> >
>
> >
>
> >
>
> >
>
> > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
>
> >
>
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
>
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
>
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
>
> >
>
> > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong > father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he > looks?
>
> > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always > thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me > get my sh-t together!"
>
> > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.
> They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't > think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have > abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too > many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang > infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they > drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not > opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite > frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to > learnin
> g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but > I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates > some interesting â□"even profound thoughts.
>
> > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding, > researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our > children. Instead, our leaders â□" and I consider those leaders (of > sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them â□" spend too much time,

> energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like > homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the > boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly > unlikely that most of them do.
>
> > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual
> group within the black community since - I think - they are the most > educated group within the black community â□" that is IF the goal is to > progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about.
> Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the > objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the > process â□" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to > inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting" > ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to > promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
>
> > As is usual
> ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home
> one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their > homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and > nurture. And probably more nurture than nature â□" that's just my > opinion.
>
> > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the > absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
> However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief > that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we > heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the > other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE > THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black > men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
>
> > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is > not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I > believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but > overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
>
> > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family
> there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know > how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when > she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
> compounded exponentially when she=2 > 0has never had it. If she doesn't have > the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice â□"
> plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but > we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our > own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of > this.

>
> > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black > community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase > and the fact that â□¦..
>
> > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
>
> >
>
> > HTP,
>
> > Mahari
>
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
> wrote:
>
> > >
>
> > > Hetepu,
>
> > >
>
> > > Very
>
> > > nicely stated.ÿ I agree whole heartily.ÿ Now comes the > question:ÿ Why
>
> > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of
>
> > > passage?ÿ
>
> > >
>
> > > Peace-n-Blessings,
>
> > >
>
> > > Shri Sa Hetep
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

>
> > > From: Tafari khumbaka
>
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
>
> > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
>
> > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > > ÿ tafari
>
> > >

>
> > >
>
> > > baggy pants
>
> > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a > long torso and short legs and theÿ black man has long legs and a short > torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs.
> ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see > such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but > anecdotally.
>
> > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be
> white.....
>
> > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and > declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a > threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not > saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display
> as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers > a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(
> not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek > ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of > homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see > him as a sex symbol.
>
> > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white > man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no
> t a owner,
> not someone who is a man in his own mind .
>
> > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of > dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > > ÿ
>
> > >
>
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

> > >
>
> >
>
| 28707|2009-04-28 16:42:13|Mahari Mengistu|Re: baggy pants|

>> it because her fault<<

Sorry, typo. S/b "it becomes her fault".
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> >> the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,<<
>
> Don't you think that is only the case if the man watching wants to jump it? In other words, if I am in a public shower room I had better watch out for my butt because any man is likely to want to jump it. I don't think that is my responsibility to have these kinds of concerns for my natural well being.
> This is much like the insistance by certain Islamists that a woman be fully covered head-to-toe in order to protect herself- and the man presumably. And if she is raped it because her fault! This is totally obscence. It leaves the vulgar, low-life, totally out-of-control, egotistal, self-centered male free of responsibility for his foul act and free from being a decent respectful human being who adheres to the fact that other peoples bodies are THEIRS and must never be attacked, invaded or disrespected.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> >
> > one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----, the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,
> >
> > Only difference is the woman knows it.
> >
> >
> >
> > Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@ wrote:
> >
> >
> > From: Cjmtlc@
> > Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants

> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> > Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read
> > the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have > > anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is > > having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine,
> > as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and > > it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they > > were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag > > their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an > > insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).
> >
> > Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't > > given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants > > sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and > > cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous > > rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style > > spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't > > have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, > > grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street
> > knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from > > drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones > > that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing > > like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B > > videos. So,
> > the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into > > the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.
> >
> > I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist > > of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see > > this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't > > want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
> > Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age > > group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their > > pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear.
> > As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these > > guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit > > under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the

> > t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up > > their butts hanging out and some don't.
> >
> > It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do
> > with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not > > knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing > > what they are emulating.
> >
> > Carl J. Mason
> > AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
> > My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is > > a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the > > greatest metamorphosis
> > and renewal. If we think about it, we may look > > at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore > > further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on > > within.
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> >
> > I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and > > stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because > > they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an > > effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed
> > "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it".
> > Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over > > the butt.
> >
> > HTP,
> >
> > Mahari
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka
> > wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> > > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking
> > the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black > > men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
> >
> > >

> >
> > >
> >
> > > ÿ
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > >
> >
> > > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > From: Mahari Mengistu <m
> > ahari@>
> >
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> >
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> >
> > > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
> >
> > >
> >
> >

> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong > > father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he > > looks?
> >
> > > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always > > thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me > > get my sh-t together!"
> >
> > > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.
> > They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't > > think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have > > abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too > > many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang > > infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they > > drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not > > opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite > > frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to
> > learnin
> > g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but
> > I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates > > some interesting â□"even profound thoughts.
> >
> > > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding,
> > researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our > > children. Instead, our leaders â□" and I consider those leaders (of > > sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them â□" spend too much time,
> > energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like > > homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the > > boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly > > unlikely that most of them do.
> >
> > > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual
> > group within the black community since - I think - they are the most > > educated group within the black community â□" that is IF the goal is to > > progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about.
> > Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the > > objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the > > process â□" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to > > inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting"

> > ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to > > promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> >
> > > As is usual
> > ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home
> > one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their > > homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and > > nurture. And probably more nurture than nature â□" that's just my > > opinion.
> >
> > > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the > > absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
> > However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief > > that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we > > heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the > > other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE > > THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black > > men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
> >
> > > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is > > not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I > > believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but > > overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> >
> > > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family
> > there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know > > how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when > > she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
> > compounded exponentially when she=2 > > 0has never had it. If she doesn't have > > the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice â□"
> > plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but > > we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our > > own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of > > this.
> >
> > > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black > > community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase > > and the fact that â□¦..
> >
> > > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
> >
> > >
> >
> > > HTP,

> >
> > > Mahari
> >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
> > wrote:
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > > Hetepu,
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > Very
> >
> > > > > nicely stated.ÿ I agree whole heartily.ÿ Now comes the > > question:ÿ Why
> >
> > > > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of
> >
> > > > > passage?ÿ
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > Peace-n-Blessings,
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > Shri Sa Hetep
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> >
> > > > > From: Tafari khumbaka
> >
> > > > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> >
> > > > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> >
> > > > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > >

> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > ÿ tafari
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > baggy pants
> >
> > > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a > > long torso and short legs and theÿ black man has long legs and a short > > torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs.
> > ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see
> > such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but > > anecdotally.
> >

> > > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be > > white.....
> >
> > > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and > > declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a > > threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not > > saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display
> > as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers
> > a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(
> > not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek > > ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of > > homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see > > him as a sex symbol.
> >
> > > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white > > man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no
> > t a owner,
> > not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> >
> > > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of > > dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > ÿ
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> >
| 28708|2009-04-28 17:33:59|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|
i was talking about out in the streets and ave. of america

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/28/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 5:27 PM

>> the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,, <<

Don't you think that is only the case if the man watching wants to jump it? In other words, if I am in a public shower room I had better watch out for my butt because any man is likely to want to jump it. I don't think that is my responsibility to have these kinds of concerns for my natural well being.
This is much like the insistance by certain Islamists that a woman be fully covered head-to-toe in order to protect herself- and the man presumably. And if she is raped it because her fault! This is totally obscence. It leaves the vulgar, low-life, totally out-of-control, egotistal, self-centered male free of responsibility for his foul act and free from being a decent respectful human being who adheres to the fact that other peoples bodies are THEIRS and must never be attacked, invaded or disrespected.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----, the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,
>
> Only difference is the woman knows it.
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@... wrote:
>
>
>
> From: Cjmtlc@...
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
> This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read
> the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have > anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is > having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine,
> as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and > it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they > were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag > their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an > insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).
>
> Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't > given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants > sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and > cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous > rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style > spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't > have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, > grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street
> knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from > drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones > that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing > like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B
> videos. So,
> the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into > the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.
>
> I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist > of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see > this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't > want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
> Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age > group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their > pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear.
> As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these > guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit > under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the > t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up > their butts hanging out and some don't.
>
> It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do
> with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not > knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing > what they are emulating.

>
> Carl J. Mason
> AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
> My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is > a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the > greatest metamorphosis
> and renewal. If we think about it, we may look > at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore > further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on > within.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
>
> I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and > stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because > they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an > effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed
> "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it".
> Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over > the butt.
>
> HTP,
>
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka
> wrote:
>
> >
>
> > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking
> the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black > men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
>
> >
>
> >
>
> Â
>
> >

>
> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> >
>
> > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
> >
>
> >
>
> > From: Mahari Mengistu <m
> ahari@>
>
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
>
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
>
> > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
>
> >
>
> >
>
> >
>
> >
>
> >
>
> >
>
> >
>
> >
>
> >
>
> > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
>
> >
>
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
>
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
>
> > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
>

> >
>
> > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong > father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he > looks?
>
> > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always > thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me > get my sh-t together!"
>
> > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.
> They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't > think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have > abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too > many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang > infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they > drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not > opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite > frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to
> learnin
> g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but
> I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates > some interesting â€"even profound thoughts.
>
> > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding,
> researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our > children. Instead, our leaders â€" and I consider those leaders (of > sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them â€" spend too much time,
> energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like > homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the > boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly > unlikely that most of them do.
>
> > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual
> group within the black community since - I think - they are the most > educated group within the black community â€" that is IF the goal is to > progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about.
> Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the > objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the > process â€" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to > inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting"
> ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to > promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
>
> > As is usual
> ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home

> one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their > homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and > nurture. And probably more nurture than nature â€" that's just my > opinion.
>
> > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the > absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
> However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief > that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we > heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the > other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE > THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black > men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
>
> > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is > not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I > believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but > overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
>
> > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family > there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know
> how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when > she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
> compounded exponentially when she=2 > 0has never had it. If she doesn't have > the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice â€"
> plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but > we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our > own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of > this.
>
> > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black > community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase > and the fact that â€¦..
>
> > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
>
> >
>
> > HTP,
>
> > Mahari
>
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
> wrote:

>
> > >
>
> > > Hetepu,
>
> > >
>
> > > Very
>
> > > nicely stated.Â I agree whole heartily.Â Now comes the > question:Â Why
>
> > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of
>
> > > passage?Â
>
> > >
>
> > > Peace-n-Blessings,
>
> > >
>
> > > Shri Sa Hetep
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> > > From: Tafari khumbaka
>
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
>
> > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
>
> > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>

> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > > Â tafari
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > > baggy pants
>
> > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a > long torso and short legs and theÂ black man has long legs and a short > torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs.
> ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see
> such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but > anecdotally.
>
> > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be
> white.....
>
> > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and > declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a > threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not > saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display

> as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers
> a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(
> not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek > ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of > homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see > him as a sex symbol.
>
> > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white > man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no
> t a owner,
> not someone who is a man in his own mind .
>
> > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of > dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > >
>
> > > Â
>
> > >
>
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> > >
>
> >
>

| 28709|2009-04-28 17:43:20|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|
i am speaking of subconcious acts, sublimenal assertions that act out without cognitive investigation.
The acting out of a behaviour like pavlov dogs experiment,,. i personally liken it to a puppy who is kicked hard by one each time the dog is inhis/her presence the puppy when sensing that one's presence, would immediately put it's tail between its legs; its a autonimous act.
yes it's a sloppy "ass"boy thang , but why? why exxxpose one's butt.....and why try too hid it ???? with shirts?, they know its in some waysexual and in bad taste.
i personally dont think the average black male is asking for a homosexual encounter i am saying they are kow-towing to a great masculine directive(white supremacy)

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/28/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 6:41 PM

>> it because her fault<<

Sorry, typo. S/b "it becomes her fault".
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> >> the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,, <<
>
> Don't you think that is only the case if the man watching wants to jump it? In other words, if I am in a public shower room I had better watch out for my butt because any man is likely to want to jump it. I don't think that is my responsibility to have these kinds of concerns for my natural well being.
> This is much like the insistance by certain Islamists that a woman be fully covered head-to-toe in order to protect herself- and the man presumably. And if she is raped it because her fault! This is totally obscence. It leaves the vulgar, low-life, totally out-of-control, egotistal, self-centered male free of responsibility for his foul act and free from being a decent respectful human being who adheres to the fact that other peoples bodies are THEIRS and must never be attacked, invaded or disrespected.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> >
> > one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----, the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,
> >
> > Only difference is the woman knows it.
> >

> >
> >
> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@ wrote:
> >
> >
> > From: Cjmtlc@
> > Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read
> > the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have > > anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is > > having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine,
> > as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and > > it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they > > were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag > > their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an > > insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).
> >
> > Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't > > given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants > > sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and > > cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous > > rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style > > spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't > > have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, > > grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street
> > knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from > > drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones > > that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing > > like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B > > videos. So,
> > the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into > > the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.
> >
> > I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist > > of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see > > this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't > > want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!

> > Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age > > group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their > > pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear.
> > As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these > > guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit > > under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the > > t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up > > their butts hanging out and some don't.
> >
> > It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do
> > with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not > > knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing > > what they are emulating.
> >
> > Carl J. Mason
> > AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
> > My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is > > a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the > > greatest metamorphosis
> > and renewal. If we think about it, we may look > > at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore > > further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on > > within.
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> >
> > I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and > > stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because > > they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an > > effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed
> > "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it".
> > Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over > > the butt.
> >
> > HTP,
> >
> > Mahari
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka

> > wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> > > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking
> > the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black > > men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Â
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > >
> >
> > > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > From: Mahari Mengistu <m
> > ahari@>
> >
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> >
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> >
> > > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >

> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong > > father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he > > looks?
> >
> > > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always > > thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me > > get my sh-t together!"
> >
> > > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.
> > They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't > > think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have > > abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too > > many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang > > infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they > > drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not > > opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite > > frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to
> > learnin
> > g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but
> > I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates > > some interesting â€"even profound thoughts.
> >
> > > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding,
> > researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our > > children. Instead, our leaders â€" and I consider those leaders (of > > sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them â€" spend too much time,
> > energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like > > homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the > > boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly > > unlikely that most of them do.

> >
> > > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual
> > group within the black community since - I think - they are the most > > educated group within the black community â€" that is IF the goal is to > > progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about.
> > Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the > > objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the > > process â€" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to > > inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting"
> > ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to > > promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> >
> > > As is usual
> > ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home
> > one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their > > homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and > > nurture. And probably more nurture than nature â€" that's just my > > opinion.
> >
> > > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the > > absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
> > However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief > > that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we > > heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the > > other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE > > THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black > > men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
> >
> > > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is > > not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I > > believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but > > overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> >
> > > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family
> > there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know
> > how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when > > she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
> > compounded exponentially when she=2 > > 0has never had it. If she doesn't have > > the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice â€"
> > plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but > > we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our > > own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of > > this.

> >
> > > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black > > community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase > > and the fact that â€¦..
> >
> > > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
> >
> > >
> >
> > > HTP,
> >
> > > Mahari
> >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
> > wrote:
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > Hetepu,
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > Very
> >
> > > > nicely stated.Â I agree whole heartily.Â Now comes the > > question:Â Why
> >
> > > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of
> >
> > > > passage?Â
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > Peace-n-Blessings,
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > Shri Sa Hetep
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> >
> > > > From: Tafari khumbaka

> >
> > > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> >
> > > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> >
> > > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > >

> >
> > > > baggy pants
> >
> > > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a > > long torso and short legs and theÂ black man has long legs and a short > > torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs.
> > ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see
> > such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but > > anecdotally.
> >
> > > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be
> > white.....
> >
> > > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and > > declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a > > threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not > > saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display
> > as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers
> > a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(
> > not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek > > ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of > > homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see > > him as a sex symbol.
> >
> > > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white > > man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no
> > t a owner,
> > not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> >
> > > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of > > dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > > Â
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > > > >
> >

> > >
> >
>

| 28710|2009-04-28 19:50:56|Tafari khumbaka|black Indians 6 part series|
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vRImcp4aTcs 6 part series called black indians on my fathers side my grandmother's father was full or partial cherokee and on my mother side there is choctaw, along with both sides comes irish and british so this series touched home for me on a deep level,. my person is simply glad that i and I are most distinctly of the 1st man and woman father Geb and mother Nuit!!

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28711|2009-04-28 20:33:46|Paul Kekai Manansala|Team's re-creation of ancient Karnak brings history of pharaohs to l|
Apr 21, 2009 By Meg Sullivan

Team'sre-creation of ancient Karnak brings history of pharaohs to life

After being crowned one of ancient Egypt's rare female pharaohs, Queen Hatshepsut renovated a coronation hall lined with statuary depicting her father, her highly regarded predecessor, as a god. In the center of the hall, she installed two 10-story red granite obelisks and a beautiful red quartzite chapel inscribed with images of herself erecting the colossal obelisks.

One of the 10-story obelisks erected by Queen Hatshepsut in the complex's coronation room.

"To us, this may seem egomaniacal," said UCLA Egyptologist Willeke Wendrich. "But part of the process of legitimating herself in a role rarely held by women was to imprint the space in a way that established her as the great heir to her great father."

Apparently, Hatshepsut was a little too successful: When her nephew, Thutmose III, who was for years co-ruler in her shadow, finally succeeded the 15th century B.C. queen, he removed the upgrades, partially bricked over the obelisks and tore down the chapel.

What did Thutmose III have against his aunt, now considered to be one of the most successful pharaohs of all time? Was he merely sexist? Or was he threatened by the possibility that Hatshepsut's own daughter might try to usurp his throne?

While scholars may never know the exact answers to these and other tantalizing mysteries, they are at least able to visualize one of the most important remaining records of this and other ancient Egyptian power struggles, thanks to the latest 3-D computer model from UCLA's Experiential Technologies Center (ETC) in the Department of Architecture and Urban Design.

UCLA's Digital Karnak follows two millennia of renovations, demolitions and additions at the religious complex, concluding in the 4th Century A.D. To see a video clip of what the site would have looked like at its most complete state, click here.

The result of two years of painstaking research by a team of more than 24 scholars and technicians, Digital Karnak explores how scores of existing ruins may have originally looked and demonstrates how they came to be altered over time as generations of pharaohs put their stamp on the site that served as the religious center for Thebes, the Ancient Egyptian capital during the Golden Age of the Pharaohs.

"Ancient Egyptian texts didn't write about these kinds of rivalries," said Diane Favro, ETC director and the project's principal investigator. "So we rely on architectural transformations and depictions on contemporary reliefs to provide invaluable information about Egypt's rich history."

Through interactive architectural plans and intricate perspective illustrations, Digital Karnak traces the site's evolution over twomillennia, encompassing 63 distinct features of this major religious center located on the Nile's eastern bank at Thebes, a little more than a mile north of modern Luxor.

Digital Karnak architects Willeke Wendrich, from the left, Elaine Sullivan and Diane Favro. Accompanied by ETC's most ambitious web interface to date, Digital Karnak shows the site at any point in time between 1951 B.C. and 31 B.C., allowing users to fast-forward from a single temple occupying a two-acre site to a sprawling complex covering 69 acres with eight temples, 10 small chapels, 10 monumental gateways, 15 obelisks, 100 sphinxes and even a ceremonial lake.

"Karnak is one of the most dazzling sites in Egypt nowadays, but if you try to figure out what any one feature originally looked like, you get in trouble because you have all these elements from different periods standing next to each other, many of which were moved or altered over time," said Favro, a professor of architectural history. "We set out to give people a clear sense of the chronology of site's development."

That's the goal that Favro and Wendrich, the project's co-developer, are aiming for especially this month. On April 4, they demonstrated the model at the annual meeting of the Society of Architectural Historians, the field's leading professional group, in Pasadena. On April 25, they will present it in Dallas, Texas, at the annual meeting of the American Research Center in Egypt, considered the premiere conference for U.S.-based Egyptologists.

As one of ancient Egypt's two chief religious centers, Karnak rose in prominence in the last half of the 3000-year-long empire. Still impressive after all these years, Karnak is one of the most visited sites in Egypt and is best known today for what remains of the Great Hypostyle Hall, a giant room with a painted ceiling supported by 12 massive seven-story and 122 four-story sandstone columns.

An interior view shows a line of painted columns from a 15th Century B.C. temple at Karnak. To see a video clip of Karnak's most popular feature today, the 13th Century B.C. Hypostyle Hall, go here.

"Even though I have been to Karnak many times, when walking through the temple, especially very early in the morning before the hordes of tourists come in or when I'm in a quiet corner of the enormous complex, I feel history becoming almost tangible," said Wendrich, an associate professor of Near Eastern Languages and Cultures.

This is the place where Akhenaten, believed to be King Tutankhamun's father, built a temple to his own religion, thought to be the world's first monotheistic faith. The Hypostyle Hall was decorated by Ramesses II, the pharaoh often associated with the Biblical Exodus. One of the Karnak gates is engraved with references to another pharaoh whose exploits may also be chronicled in the Bible: Shoshenq I, whose military conquests took him as far as today's Israel.

Hatshepsut's legacy at Karnak is particularly exciting for art lovers. Holdings of most major museums include statuary and other pieces of art commissioned during her long and successful reign, which was characterized by a flowering of the arts. One of her 10-story obelisks still stands at Karnak. Other obelisks from the reigns of her successors were moved to grace public squares in Rome and Istanbul. Statuary unearthed at Karnak dots today's Cairo.

The ETC is renowned for making sense of such historic landscapes. Under Favro's direction, the team has digitally reconstructed dozens of important landmarks that either have been lost or altered beyond recognition, including Pompeii's Villa of the Mysteries and ancient sites in Rome including the Colosseum and Forum.

Additional features of Digital Karnak include Quick-Time videos highlighting the processional routes of the major religious ceremonies for which Karnak was designed, such as the Opet Festival, an annual celebration of fertility.

The model even helps users visualize how natural meandering caused the River Nile to recede almost a half mile from Karnak, driving the complex's slow but steady westward expansion.

"The model cannot show us Karnak as it really was because we will never know everything about a site that is so ancient," said Elaine Sullivan, project coordinator and a postdoctoral fellow in Near Eastern Languages and Cultures. "However, it does represent the current state of knowledge of Karnak at this date."

Drafted with the same precision and attention to detail that would be required to generate architectural plans to actually reconstruct the site, Digital Karnak is based on generations of discoveries at the historical site, in particular by French archaeologists.

"One of the real problems for American scholars studying the site is that all of the documentation, current research and reconstructions are published in French journals," said Sullivan. "If an instructor or student can't read high-level academic French, this information is inaccessible to them."

In contrast, Digital Karnak is written entirely in English, a feature that organizers hope will make it popular with travelers, architecture buffs and American college courses in art history, architectural history and world history.

The Karnak project traces the complex from its inception in 20th Century BC alongside the Nile River in Thebes, one of two capitals of ancient Egypt.

Funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Steinmetz Family of Los Angeles, the model will also serve as an illustration for the UCLA-based Encyclopedia of Egyptology, anonline encyclopedia of the field's latest peer-reviewed research. Because the model is as dynamic as the encyclopedia's other entries, creators plan to update the model as new discoveries become available.

"We hope Egyptologists will use Digital Karnak to test out and advance research in the field," said Wendrich. "We look forward to making as many changes to our Karnak as the pharaohs did to the actual site."
To see avideo clip showing the western entrance to Karnak today, go here. This is how Karnak's western alley of sphinxes would have originally appeared, according to UCLA's Digital Karnak.
| 28712|2009-04-28 21:01:25|Shri Sa Hetep|Re: semi , hemi|

Peace,

Thanks for your response. Who are the northerners that make up the pure race?

Also, of the Sons of Noah:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sons_of_Noah
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Shem#Racial_connotations

This wikipedia reference depicts Shem, Ham, and Japheth as being different races. Shem - is medium dark/brown, , Ham - black, and Japheth as light/white skinned. How could Noah (assumed to be Black) produce 3 different race children with the same (black) Wife/Woman?

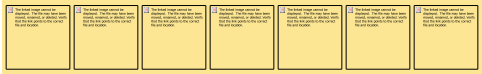
Did Noah have more than one mother for his sons? More than one wife? One wife and concubines?

This is where the Bible leaves me blank...It doesn't discuss the many mothers of these men. In Jewish/Ancient African tradition, the Divine Bloodline is passed down through the Female. Even in modern genetics, it is the Mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) - traced through the females - that gives proper lineage.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mitochondrial_DNA#Female_inheritance

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mitochondrial_Eve

That being said, are there any references to Shem's Mother, Ham's Mother, and Japheth's Mother?. Not to exclude the identity of Noahs daughters, and their Mothers?



Tuau,

Shri Sa Hetep

--- On Tue, 4/28/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:
From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] semi , hemi
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 11:35 AM

Huis created by Ra from the blood of his penis and asist Ra in destroying those that opposed the Ark of Ra.
Hu is the protector of divine speech, and was also an aspect of Her-em-Akhet
Sia stands at the brow of the bark of Ra and is Sia is the mind/consiousness of Ra and is also called the heart of Ptah and Hu is called the tongue of Ptah by the priest of Ptah
Hu = ham
Sia= shem
Ptah= japheth
Ra= noah
and yea shem is semi as is ham= hemi which would make the northerners the only pure race people, japheth..... ....
all the aforementioned are my personal understanding of the flood story and there is much more to the mythe.

Read G. Massey "anc. egypt light of the world" in there he shows the procession of the equinox thru the story.
also Pro. Charles finch has several book on the subject.
another point of view that flows with massey and finch althought is differentDr.Ra unnefer Amen pg40 metu neter vol2.
also check out the epic of Gilgamesh for a Cannite telling of the hebrew mythe.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
| 28713|2009-04-28 21:55:23|Tafari khumbaka|Re: semi , hemi|
the northerners are europa, although there is literal history in the mythes , one must remember we are talking about mythological beings, these are stories and take much poet license.
always take into account the writers of the bible were patriarchical, and their ethics follow suite.
women are simply not as important in their stories as men, and are usually maligned or egnored.
their was no actual Noah or a world flood approx. 2 or 3 thousand yrs. ago.
no boat with all the animals of the world on it.
this is a mythe.
the noah story is a second creation mythe , where the coming into being of supposedly today's world with ordinary people , and its shem who god picks as his peculiar people over ham the maker of great nations and over japheth the pure race,. its the hebrew justifying themseleves as Gods chosen people.

and justifying the taking from Canaanite/Ham their lands because Ham althought the greatest of the brothers , castrated his father and/or had sex with his mother., he becamed cursed, and unworthy of his titles and lands and birthright.
(check out metu neter vol1. pg.28.)
the 1st creation story is the story of aish and aisha,. adam and eve and takes place in a world of gods and men .

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/28/09, Shri Sa Hetep wrote:

From: Shri Sa Hetep
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] semi , hemi
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 11:00 PM

Peace,

Thanks for your response. Who are the northerners that make up th pure race?

Also, of the Sons of Noah:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sons_of_Noah
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Shem#Racial_connotations

This wikipedia reference depicts Shem, Ham, and Japheth as being different races. Shem - is medium dark/brown, , Ham - black, and Japheth as light/white skinned. How could Noah (assumed to be Black) produce 3 different race children with the same (black) Wife/Woman? Did Noah have more than one mother for his sons? More than one wife? One wife and concubines?

This is where the Bible leaves me blank...It doesn't discuss the many mothers of these men. In Jewish/Ancient African tradition, the Divine Bloodline is passed down through the Female. Even in modern genetics, it is the Mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) - traced through the females - that gives proper lineage.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mitochondrial_DNA#Female_inheritance

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mitochondrial_Eve

That being said, are there any references to Shem's Mother, Ham's Mother, and Japheth's Mother?. Not to exclude the identity of Noahs daughters, and their Mothers?

Tuau,

Shri Sa Hetep

--- On Tue, 4/28/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:
From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] semi , hemi
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com

Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 11:35 AM

Huis created by Ra from the blood of his penis and asist Ra in destroying those that opposed the Ark of Ra.
Hu is the protector of divine speech, and was also an aspect of Her-em-Akhet
Sia stands at the brow of the bark of Ra and is Sia is the mind/consiousness of Ra and is also called the heart of Ptah and Hu is called the tongue of Ptah by the priest of Ptah
Hu = ham
Sia= shem
Ptah= japheth
Ra= noah
and yea shem is semi as is ham= hemi which would make the northerners the only pure race people, japheth..... ....
all the aforementioned are my personal understanding of the flood story and there is much more to the mythe.
Read G. Massey "anc. egypt light of the world" in there he shows the procession of the equinox thru the story.
also Pro. Charles finch has several book on the subject.
another point of view that flows with massey and finch althought is differentDr.Ra unnefer Amen pg40 metu neter vol2.
also check out the epic of Gilgamesh for a Cannite telling of the hebrew mythe.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28714|2009-04-29 07:44:22|Michael Bayman|Appropriate-Protection regarding the latest-biological-assaults|
From: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Emergency-Services-Agency: Central-Command Unto: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force: Central-Command
Re: Standby-Orders = Actual; Ready-Alert: Orders = pending (8: Gud-Anna: 301,614)
I.S.L.A.M.:
By the pursuing of the running-discourse between the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Constitutional-Monarch and
His-Health-Minister, Chief Of The Staff for the Sovereign-Crown, did, dispatch the appropriate-codes for the following-orders:
1. Implementing of the Viral-Disease: Outbreak/Attack: Containment-Protocols And Procedures within the rigors of the General-Operation-Procedures: Manual, ex.continenti by the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force under the authority of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Emergency-Services-Agency: Operations-Commander:
Kedar-Al-Khabeer: Bey at the direction of the E.S.A.: Supreme-Commander: An-Anu-El: Bey (Threat-Level = "Mild" Orders-herein = precautionary, for-now.)
2.Implementationof the protocols and procedures of the stating-herein = at the Standby: Level. No-order for the green-up and lean-forward as the status = pending. All: I.C.F.: Post-Commanders shall brief their crews and all-squads shall stand at the pre-designate: garrison-assignment, ex.continenti.

3. E.S.A and I.C.F.:Operations-Commanders await the appropriate-reports in the regard of the operations in the keeping with the orders of the presenting-herein on the date = 8: Gud-Anna: 301,614 at the time = 11:15:Daylight-Hours, A.M.T.for the briefing of the Supreme-Commander/for the briefing of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Constitutional-Monarchupon theconvening of the Amexem-Moor-Empire:
Imperial-Councilregarding the matters-herein on the behalf of the-entire: Amexem-Moor-Empire:
National-Collective.
4. Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Disease-Eradication And Emergency-Response-Agency authorization for the deploying of the herbal-formula, in-stock, on-station, and able-ready = available, Empire-wide and available-for-trade at the 3: ounce of the silver-rate for the non-participantsin the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Non-Surgical: Universal-Healthcare-Plan

"Viral-Disease: Outbreak/Attack: Containment-Procedures And Protocols

The: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Government takes all of the necessary measures to maintain a neutral position in all matters affecting a foreign-venue. If: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force: staff or if any other Amexem-Moor-Empire: Health/Haz-Mat: agency/military/defense/investigation: forces/services observe/monitor a clear and present health-risk in the form of a viral-disease/chemical or biological-disease: threat, airborne or otherwise in a foreign-venue, such-staff are required to continue to monitor the situation, prepare to take preventative-action, emergency-evacuation-procedures, or countermeasures to protect the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Nationals/ Imperial-Interests in the affected area and inform their nearest command and control center of the situation immediately. Unless there are a specific set of orders on that particular matter, the commanding: Customs-Agent at that command and control center shall alert their district-commander or central-command and await orders.

Requests for assistance from the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force: staff from a foreign-venue engaged in an action to assist victims and contain as well as repair damage or harm shall be granted at the discretion of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: District-Ambassador on scene (nearest District to the affected area) unless that order is superceded by a higher-authority within the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Department For The Imperial-Affairs (Grand-Ambassador, National-Ambassador, Sector-Ambassador, Regional-Ambassador) or if a specific-set of orders on the matter are set and sent out from the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force: Central-Command. Except in a declared-emergency-status, those orders can be superceded locally (within the District nearest the affected area)by the Regional-Ambassador in command of that District upon the obtaining of critical-knowledge that Central-Command is not aware of however the Regional-Ambassador issuing such instruction shall immediately inform the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Defense-Force: Central-Command of the newly-obtained: critical-knowledge first, then they shall immediately inform the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force: Central-Command or they shall be immediately arrested and they shall face obstruction of Imperial-Government: Operations.

Once operations are underway, the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Emergency-Services-Agency: Commanding-Officer on scene shall be the scene-commander with all Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force: Staff (Officers-too) assigned to that scene under their immediate-command regarding that specific scene only. During a declared-emergency-status, Ambassadors have no authority to supercede orders from Central-Command (except at sea as conditions/conflicts with international-law require such drastic action; even then the Ambassador shall only issue instructions to the Emperors/Empress: Imperial-Customs-Force: Sea-Vessel (irregardless of type): Commanding-Officer that do not put the Emperors/Empress-staff/vessel/cargo/interests in undue risk).

Requests by the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Government for assistance from a foreign-venue due to a clear and present health-risk in the form of a viral-disease/chemical or biological disease threat airborne or otherwise are made through the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Department For The Health And Phytotherapy or the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Department For The Imperial-Affairs or the District-Ambassador in command of the nearest District to the affected area. The District-Ambassador that makes such request shall inform their commanding-official immediately and the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force: ranking-agent on scene shall immediately inform their nearest command and control center of this action which shall in turn inform the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Central-Command immediately".

>Of thedispatching by the Amexem-Moor-Empire:

Emergency-Services-Agency: Central-Command: Communications-Unit

"Mexico: suspected swine flu deaths climb to 149

2minsago

[MEXICO CITY] Mexico's government is ordering closed schools nationwide as the suspected death toll from swine flu climbed to 149.

Health Secretary Jose Angel Cordova says only 20 of the deaths have been confirmed to be from swine flu and the government was awaiting tests results on the rest.

He says 1,995 people have been hospitalized with serious cases of pneumonia since the first case of swine flu was reported on April 13. The government does not yet know how many were swine flu.

Of those hospitalized, 1,070 have been released.

Cordova says school at all levels nationwide are suspended until May 6. Schools had already been suspended in Mexico City and five of Mexico's 32 states.

THIS IS A BREAKING NEWS UPDATE. Check back soon for further information. AP's earlier story is below.

MEXICO CITY (AP) Mexico's government is ordering closed schools nationwide as the suspected death toll from swine flu climbed to 149.

Health Secretary Jose Angel Cordova says only 20 of the deaths have been confirmed to be from swine flu and the government was awaiting tests results on the rest.

He says 1,995 people have been hospitalized with serious cases of pneumonia since the first case of swine flu was reported on April 13. The government does not yet know how many were swine flu.

Of those hospitalized, 1,070 have been released.

Cordova says school at all levels nationwide are suspended until May 6. Schools had already been suspended in Mexico City and five of Mexico's 32 states. - - -[AP-STORY]

| 28715|2009-04-29 07:44:26|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- Great quote to start your day on a positive note!|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Dr. Jackie Cody
To: National ; BNYEE
Sent: Tuesday, April 28, 2009 5:39:30 PM
Subject: [BNYEE]-- Great quote to start your day on a positive note!

Hello Comrades,

I wanted to pass on this quote below to brighten your moment and help us remain focused. Since we are undeniably human, it is inevitable to feel discouraged sometimes. Especially when so few of us see clearly the devastation of mis-education-how it isaffecting our children, and how it has effected our people- all while the masses remain so self-involved in their little world.

So to you I say THANK YOU!

As we meet to Liberate and Educate and Perpetuate, remember quantity is NOT quality!!!

Agreement is not necessarily unity. Nevertheless, communicating to come to a resolution is necessary to Unite.

Stay strong and please keep the faith.

Warmly, Jackie

Apr 28, 2009 03:04:31 AM, noreply@cybernation.com wrote:

Here's the Quotation for Tuesday, April 28, 2009

Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world. Indeed, it is the only thing that ever has.

Margaret Mead
(1901-1978, American Anthropologist)

==========

Don't come with your agenda, come with an open mind to create one agenda. This is how the world gets changed by a few committed souls.

Rediscover Hotmail: Get quick friend updates right in your inbox. Check it out.
--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28716|2009-04-29 07:45:26|Shu Tefnut|Fwd: Largest ancient Egyptian temple yet to be found in Sinai|

Thanx Paul always a pleasure.

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Paul Kekai Manansala" wrote: Painted history REMAINS of the largest ancient Egyptian temple yet to be found in Sinai have been uncovered in Qantara, reports Nevine El-Aref. At Tel-Hebua, known in Pharaonic times as Tharo, the area from which the ancient Egyptian army embarked on military campaigns along Egypt's eastern borders, an Egyptian archaeological mission stumbled upon what is believed to be the largest New Kingdom temple ever discovered. The temple, which covers an area of 80x70 metres, is built of mud brick decorated with paintings. It consists of four rectangular halls containing a total of 34 columns, three limestone purification basins, and a number of secondary chapels, suggesting that the temple was an important religious centre on Egypt's eastern front. The site is heavily fortified and surrounded by a four-metre-thick wall. Paintings featuring Horus, Hathor, Tefnut, Montu and Renenutet were unearthed within the temple walls along with others showing kings Tuthmosis II and Ramses II. On the east and west of the site are two groups of storehouses consisting of 13 rooms each, which probably date to the reigns of Seti I, Ramses II and Seti II. They contain thousands of inscriptions and seal impressions of the three kings. One of them is particularly important, points out mission director Mohamed Abdel-Maqsoud. It depicts Ramses II before the god Set, patron deity of the Hyksos capital Avaris, now known as Tel Al-Dabaa, some 50 kilometres from Tel Hebua in the eastern Nile Delta. Zahi Hawass, secretary-general of the Supreme Council of Antiquities (SCA), described the discovery as the most important to date in Sinai. (see: Tomb of the century) * Front Page <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/index.htm> * Egypt <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/egypt.htm> * Region <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/region.htm> * Economy <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/economy.htm> * International <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/inter.htm> * Focus <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/focus.htm> * Opinion <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/opinion.htm> * Press review <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/press.htm> * Culture <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/culture.htm> * Entertainment <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/entertain.htm> * Features <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/feature.htm> * Heritage <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/heritage.htm> * Living <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/living.htm> * Sports <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/sports.htm> * Cartoons <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/cartoon.htm> * People <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/944/people.htm> * Listings <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/list.htm> * BOOKS <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2006/788/books788.htm> * TRAVEL

<http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2009/941/travel.htm> * Site map <http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/issues.htm> © Copyright Al-Ahram Weekly. All rights reserved --- End forwarded message ---

| 28717|2009-04-29 07:45:31|odhiambo okecth|Symptoms of a failed state|
29th April 2009

Apart from the known failed states of the world, Kenya is the only country that sings about being sovereign yet has failed to implement the rule of law.

We have chosen to apply the rule of law selectively as desired by The Executive arm of government. And in my view, we are not moving in the right direction.

The government as defined by our constitution is composed of 3 arms; the Executive, the Legislature and the Judiciary.

The Executive arm of government is tasked with the implementation of laws as passed by the Legislature. The Executive runs the day to day functions of governance. It has the army and the police under its control and as such, is tasked with maintaining our territorial boundaries and maintenance of law and order internally. It also has the provincial administration under its command. To this extent, it receives updates to the last second about Kenya. If Ugandan pirates invade Migingo or Kacheliba, the provincial administration will wire the same up to the presidency in less than 30 seconds.

The Executive also appoints and supervises the civil service. This body is supposed to be apolitical. But in Kenya, as much as we want to pretend otherwise, the civil service is completely political and appointments of all senior offices are based on their political persuasion. Those are the hard facts. We cannot for example pretend that Amb Francis Muthaura, the Head of Civil Service, and Dr Alfred Mutua, President Kibakis spokesman are not PNU members. They are PNU operatives.

On the same vein, we cannot for once pretend that Mr. Mohamed Isahakia, the PS in the Prime Ministers office, and Mr. Caroli Omondi, the Administrative Secretary are not ODM members. They are ODM operatives.

If Kenya is invaded by any pirates, be they Ugandan pirates or the real pirates from Somali, the duty of defending our sovereignty lies squarely on The Executive as much as it is a collective responsibility of all of us. The Executive must give explicit orders in defense of Kenya. It must not dilly-dally with our sovereignty. It must act. And as it acts, our political affiliations must not come to play. It is Kenya that is at stake that we must all protect.

That is why when Pirates invade the Kenya part of the Indian Ocean or the Kenyan part of Lake Victoria, The Executive must rise to the occasion. But when such explicit orders are not given and yet pirates are marauding in our country, one might be tempted to ask if there is a vacuum. As the pirates invade, we also have our own internal pirates in the form of mungiki. They kill with ease and with complete abandon. One will be tempted to ask where law and order is.

Again, it is The Executive that we turn to. They have the complete monopoly of weapons of state security. If The Executive fails to guarantee the safety of the Kenyan citizen from both external and internal pirates, can we surely tower tall in the League of Nations as sovereign? I bet such failures or an omission consigns us to tower tall among the failed states of the world.

The jury is out and the verdict will be severe. The Executive arm of the Kenyan Government will be counted as having contributed to the suspension of law and order, or abetting crime against her own citizens. Time will tell and Kenyans are watching.

The Judiciary is supposed to be independent in Kenya. Being the other arm of government, Kenyans look upon the Judiciary as the arbiter between the state and the people. It should have the capacity to impartially interpret the laws of the land to the benefit of all.

A critical look at The Judiciary leaves us with questions as to how sovereign it is. When we voted President Kibaki in to the Kenyan Presidency in December 2002, the Chief Justice was one Bernard Chunga. He was unceremoniously removed from office under frivolous circumstances. In the recent past, lawyers have made similar noise about the current Chief Justice and nothing has been done. It shows that the removal of Chunga was not made on the gravity of the law.

It was made to allow for the domestication of The Judiciary.

With this done, the Hon Kiraitu Murungi instituted what he called radical surgery at The Judiciary. With the benefit of hindsight we can now say with confidence that the move on The Judiciary by Kiraitu and Aaron Ringera was neither radical nor was it a surgery. It was a move to domesticate The Judiciary.

From thence on, The Judiciary will be the theater of the absurd; all rulings friendly will be achieved and it would be used to stifle democracy in Kenya. The Judiciary would also play a crucial role in shielding all cases of corruption against the mighty. In short, a stage was set where all cases of corruption will be handled with kids gloves, where the corrupt will face no justice.

The Judiciary under the Kibaki presidency has as a result largely remained ceremonial. Cases that come up for hearing are postponed; Judges walk in at their own preferred timings and do in the courts as they please. It does not matter what the law says.

What matters is the person. If you are in good books with The Executive, meaning the President, you are assured that you can steal and nothing will happen to you. We have Anglo-Leasing suspects. We have the Triton Oil Scandal. We have the scandals at Kenya Airport Authority. We have the procurement scandals. And a lot more.

Under the watch of Kibaki and Justice Evan Gicheru at the Judiciary, the rule of law has disappeared. Most judgements are not being pronounced based on absolute gravity of the law. Judgement when pronounced must be pronounced with absolute gravity of the law. This is clearly missing.

The second part is about the appointment of officers to serve as Judges and Magistrates. Despite attempts by the Law Society of Kenya to have the process opened up, the Chief Justice has maintained a close lid. It is like it is a surprise weapon against Kenyans. It is like they are guarding a secret only known to them. Yet, all of us Kenyans know the law. When it is mis-applied, we know. We it is upheld, we also know.

If The Judiciary wants to help save Kenya from being tall amongst the failed states, it must reclaim its independence and stop bowing to The Executive. It must start obeying the law.

The Legislature has been given a new lease of life by the Hon Kenneth Marende, The House Speaker. It is now upon Parliament to remain at the top. In his ruling of yesterday, Hon Marende became an instant hero among Kenyans. By reminding the parliamentarians about the wordings of the National Accord, Marende rose to face the challenges of leadership and singularly, saved this country.

I am happy that Marende called the presidents bluff. Having emasculated the Judiciary, the President wanted to do the same with The legislature and I am happy Marende, unlike Gicheru, our Chief Justice, stood tall for the independence of Parliament. This is how it ought to be.

Parliament must now rise to the occasion and pass laws that are relevant to the common man. Parliament must now assert itself and fill the void that is being created by the conspiracy to defeat justice between The Presidency and The Judiciary. Parliament must now reign in on corruption. We know we have pirates for hire in parliament, but we also know that we have a good number that still believe in Kenya. They must rise up and check the excesses of The Executive as well as expose the rot in The Judiciary. They owe this to Kenya.

As I conclude this long treatise, I must give a quick glance to some of the things you look at to qualify as being amongst the failed state.

The Police; when the police becomes dysfunctional to an extent that they cannot detect crime, neither arrest nor pursue crime, you are on the right path to being declared a failed state.

Land; when quality land is in the hands of so few at a time when we have Kenyans out in camps and in want of land to settle at, you know that you are on the right track to hell.

Housing; when grabbers compete for putting up dingy buildings for human settlement, buildings that defy all know building by-laws, you know you are on the right track to self destruction.

Traffic jams; when you sit in your car for 3 hours every morning to cover the 17 Kilometres to town, and especially when this is as a result of some bureaucrat having spent Kshs 700million to put up a pathetic terminus called Muthurwa, you know that things are not adding up.

Power; when you sit next to your Tv set to watch the 7.00pm news and then power goes off, not to come until the following day, and at the end of the month you are given an inflated bill, you know that you have pirates in government; people who do not mind your well being.

Constitution; when you remember that the Lancaster constitution was negotiated in less that 18 months and in those times when we had no advantage of technology, and now, the political class keeps talking about the need for a new constitutional dispensation, now for the last 22 years, they you must shudder with rage.

It has been so long a letter, simply because the making of a failed state and its symptoms are so glaring in Kenya. Only The Executive are blinded to it.

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock, Nairobi.

| 28718|2009-04-29 07:45:32|Cjmtlc@aol.com|Re: baggy pants|

Wearing baggy pantsisn'ton a subconscious level. It's a learned behaviour. MC Hammer wore extremely baggy pants. It had nothing to do with sexuality. Baggy pants also afford you the opportunity to conceal weapons, stealitems and hide them in your clothes, and extra comfort(to give your genitals room to be free and breathe). The youngmales also think it is very gay/effeminate to wear clinging/fitted/tight pants which blows your statement/theory out of the water.

When men wore tight jeans in the 60s, 70s, and 80s and you could see the imprint of their penis because of the pants being so tight; was that amasculinegesture? When sisters cut their hair real low, is that a masculine gesture? No, it was a style, trend,or something popular. The reasoning behindMahari and Tafari'sstatementsdoesn't even make sense. Also, the story between Seth and Heru doesn't have anything to do with thesocial ills of today. A buttdoes NOT have a gender. It's neither feminine or masculine. It just simply is. It's a body part just like fingers, ears, toes, etc. To give the butt a gender only means you have reduced sisters to a body part and you are indirectly putting some weak stigma on homosexual males because of how some of them have sex. Well, I've said enough. You need to think about this a bit more and let it marinate. lol

I'm not going to even comment on that statement about it becoming a woman's fault(rape). This is just plain ole ridiculous.

Peace!

In a message dated 4/28/2009 8:43:45 P.M. Eastern Daylight Time, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com writes:

i am speaking of subconcious acts, sublimenal assertions that act out without cognitive investigation.
The acting out of a behaviour like pavlov dogs experiment,, . i personally liken it to a puppy who is kicked hard by one each time the dog is inhis/her presence the puppy when sensing that one's presence, would immediately put it's tail between its legs; its a autonimous act.
yes it's a sloppy "ass"boy thang , but why? why exxxpose one's butt.....and why try too hid it ???? with shirts?, they know its in some waysexual and in bad taste.
i personally dont think the average black male is asking for a homosexual encounter i am saying they are kow-towing to a great masculine directive(white supremacy)

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/28/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 6:41 PM

>> it because her fault<<

Sorry, typo. S/b "it becomes her fault".
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> >> the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,, <<
>
> Don't you think that is only the case if the man watching wants to jump it? In other words, if I am in a public shower room I had better watch out for my butt because any man is likely to want to jump it. I don't think that is my responsibility to have these kinds of concerns for my natural well being.
> This is much like the insistance by certain Islamists that a woman be fully covered head-to-toe in order to protect herself- and the man presumably. And if she is raped it because her fault! This is totally obscence. It leaves the vulgar, low-life, totally out-of-control, egotistal, self-centered male free of responsibility for his foul act and free from being a decent respectful human being who adheres to the fact that other peoples bodies are THEIRS and must never be attacked, invaded or disrespected.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

> >
> > one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----, the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,
> >
> > Only difference is the woman knows it.
> >
> >
> >
> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@ wrote:
> >
> >
> > From: Cjmtlc@
> > Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read
> > the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have > > anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is > > having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine,
> > as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and > > it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they > > were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag > > their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an > > insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).
> >
> > Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't > > given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants > > sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and > > cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous > > rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style > > spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't > > have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, > > grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street
> > knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from > > drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones > > that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing > > like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B > > videos. So,

> > the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into > > the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.
> >
> > I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist > > of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see > > this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't > > want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
> > Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age > > group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their > > pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear.
> > As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these > > guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit > > under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the > > t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up > > their butts hanging out and some don't.
> >
> > It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do
> > with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not > > knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing > > what they are emulating.
> >
> > Carl J. Mason
> > AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
> > My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is > > a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the > > greatest metamorphosis
> > and renewal. If we think about it, we may look > > at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore > > further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on > > within.
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> >
> > I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and > > stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because > > they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an > > effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed
> > "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it".
> > Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over > > the butt.

> >
> > HTP,
> >
> > Mahari
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka
> > wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> > > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking
> > the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black > > men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Â
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > >
> >
> > > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > From: Mahari Mengistu <m
> > ahari@>
> >
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> >
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> >
> > > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >

> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong > > father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he > > looks?
> >
> > > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always > > thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me > > get my sh-t together!"
> >
> > > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.
> > They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't > > think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have > > abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too > > many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang > > infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they > > drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not > > opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite > > frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to
> > learnin
> > g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but
> > I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates > > some interesting â€"even profound thoughts.
> >

> > > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding,
> > researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our > > children. Instead, our leaders â€" and I consider those leaders (of > > sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them â€" spend too much time,
> > energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like > > homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the > > boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly > > unlikely that most of them do.
> >
> > > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual
> > group within the black community since - I think - they are the most > > educated group within the black community â€" that is IF the goal is to > > progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about.
> > Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the > > objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the > > process â€" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to > > inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting"
> > ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to > > promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> >
> > > As is usual
> > ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home
> > one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their > > homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and > > nurture. And probably more nurture than nature â€" that's just my > > opinion.
> >
> > > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the > > absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
> > However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief > > that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we > > heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the > > other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE > > THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black > > men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
> >
> > > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is > > not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I > > believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but > > overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> >
> > > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family
> > there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know > > how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when > > she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
> > compounded exponentially when she=2

> > 0has never had it. If she doesn't have
> > the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice â€"
> > plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but > > we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our > > own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of > > this.
> >
> > > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black > > community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase > > and the fact that â€¦
> >
> > > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
> >
> > >
> >
> > > HTP,
> >
> > > Mahari
> >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
> > wrote:
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > Hetepu,
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > Very
> >
> > > > nicely stated.Â I agree whole heartily.Â Now comes the > > question:Â Why
> >
> > > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of
> >
> > > > passage?Â
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > Peace-n-Blessings,
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > Shri Sa Hetep
> >
> > > >

> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> >
> > > > From: Tafari khumbaka
> >
> > > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> >
> > > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> >
> > > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> >

> >
> > > > Â tafari
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > baggy pants
> >
> > > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a > > long torso and short legs and theÂ black man has long legs and a short > > torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs.
> > ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see
> > such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but > > anecdotally.
> >
> > > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be
> > white.....
> >
> > > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and > > declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a > > threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not > > saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display
> > as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers
> > a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(
> > not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek > > ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of > > homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see > > him as a sex symbol.
> >
> > > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white > > man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no
> > t a owner,
> > not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> >
> > > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of > > dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > Â
> >

> > > >
> >
> > > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
>

An Excellent Credit Score is 750. See Yours in Just 2 Easy Steps!

| 28719|2009-04-29 09:02:02|Mahari Mengistu|Re: baggy pants|

>>i am saying they are kow-towing to a great masculine directive(white supremacy)<<

They are re-acting to some extremely bad rearing by black parents. We must ALWAYS assume that the oppressor will attempt to oppress but what must we do? If someone slaps and continues to slap you, what will you do? Just complain that he is slapping you?
You act in a way so that he cannot hit you or at least hit you as hard. If you don't do that one has to wonder what is wrong with you. There are things we can do to make our lives in this country and the diaspora better but we don't do it.
This situation with the extremes of baggy pants and misogynistic,homophobic, violent rap, in my opinion, did not have to happen. We need to look within. This is the same issue that all mankind faces - it refuses to look within.
I don't think that Bill Cosby expressed himself appropriately but he is absolutely right. I am afraid what you have been saying about our problem illustrates that you keep blaming the white man or someone else for OUR FAILURES. I am in NO WAY a conservative. I keep focusing on our LACK OF SELF-LOVE. This generational habit causes our whole race to fail or not succeed at the best and highest levels.
If you don't love yourself and your people who look like you how can you work with them respectively and support them? What you end up doing is looking for and finding SOMETHING to hate about them. And no black person can deny having seen this time and time again although you may not have interpreted it this way.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> i am speaking of subconcious acts, sublimenal assertions that act out without cognitive investigation.

> The acting out of a behaviour like pavlov dogs experiment,,. i personally liken it to a puppy who is kicked hard by one each time the dog is in his/her presence the puppy when sensing that one's presence, would immediately put it's tail between its legs; its a autonimous act.
>
> yes it's a sloppy "ass"boy thang , but why? why exxxpose one's butt.....and why try too hid it ???? with shirts?, they know its in some way sexual and in bad taste.
>
> i personally dont think the average black male is asking for a homosexual encounter i am saying they are kow-towing to a great masculine directive(white supremacy)
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka
>
> --- On Tue, 4/28/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 6:41 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> >> it because her fault<<
>
> Sorry, typo. S/b "it becomes her fault".
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > >> the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,, <<
> >
> > Don't you think that is only the case if the man watching wants to jump it? In other words, if I am in a public shower room I had better watch out for my butt because any man is likely to want to jump it. I don't think that is my responsibility to have these kinds of concerns for my natural well being.

> > This is much like the insistance by certain Islamists that a woman be fully covered head-to-toe in order to protect herself- and the man presumably. And if she is raped it because her fault! This is totally obscence. It leaves the vulgar, low-life, totally out-of-control, egotistal, self-centered male free of responsibility for his foul act and free from being a decent respectful human being who adheres to the fact that other peoples bodies are THEIRS and must never be attacked, invaded or disrespected.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > >
> > > one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----,ÿ the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,
> > > ÿ
> > > Only difference is the woman knows it.
> > >
> > > ÿ
> > >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@ wrote:
> > >
> > >
> > > From: Cjmtlc@
> > > Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > > Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read
> > > the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have > > > anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is > > > having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine,
> > > as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and > > > it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they > > > were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag > > > their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an > > > insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).

> > >
> > > Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't > > > given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants > > > sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and > > > cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous
> > > rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style > > > spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't > > > have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, > > > grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street
> > > knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from > > > drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones > > > that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing > > > like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B
> > > videos. So,
> > > the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into > > > the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.
> > >
> > > I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist > > > of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see > > > this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't > > > want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
> > > Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age > > > group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their > > > pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear.
> > > As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these > > > guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit > > > under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the > > > t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up > > > their butts hanging out and some don't.
> > >
> > > It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do
> > > with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not > > > knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing > > > what they are emulating.
> > >
> > > Carl J. Mason
> > > AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
> > > My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is > > > a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the > > > greatest metamorphosis
> > > and renewal. If we think about it, we may look > > > at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore > > > further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on > > > within.
> > >
> > > -----Original Message-----

> > > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > > Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > >
> > > I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and > > > stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because > > > they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an > > > effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed
> > > "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it".
> > > Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over > > > the butt.
> > >
> > > HTP,
> > >
> > > Mahari
> > >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka
> > > wrote:
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking
> > > the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black > > > men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > ÿ□ÿ
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > From: Mahari Mengistu <m
> > > ahari@>

> > >
> > > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > >
> > > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > >
> > > > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
> > >
> > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > > >
> > > > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > > >
> > > > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > > >
> > > > > >
> > > >
> > > > > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong > > > father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he > > > looks?
> > > >
> > > > > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always > > > thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me > > > get my sh-t together!"
> > > >
> > > > > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.
> > > They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't > > > think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have > > > abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too > > > many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang > > > infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they > > > drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not > > > opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite > > > frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to

> > > learnin
> > > g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but > > > I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates > > > some interesting ÿ¢â□¬"even profound thoughts.
> > >
> > > > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding,
> > > researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our > > > children. Instead, our leaders ÿ¢â□¬" and I consider those leaders (of > > > sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them ÿ¢â□¬" spend too much time,
> > > energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like > > > homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the > > > boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly > > > unlikely that most of them do.
> > >
> > > > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual
> > > group within the black community since - I think - they are the most > > > educated group within the black community ÿ¢â□¬" that is IF the goal is to > > > progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about.
> > > Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the > > > objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the > > > process ÿ¢â□¬" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to > > > inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting"
> > > ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to > > > promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> > >
> > > > As is usual
> > > ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home
> > > one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their > > > homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and > > > nurture. And probably more nurture than nature ÿ¢â□¬" that's just my > > > opinion.
> > >
> > > > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the > > > absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
> > > However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief > > > that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we > > > heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the > > > other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE > > > THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black > > > men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.

> > >
> > > > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is > > > not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I > > > believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but > > > overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> > >
> > > > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family
> > > there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know > > > how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when > > > she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
> > > compounded exponentially when she=2 > > > 0has never had it. If she doesn't have > > > the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice ÿ¢â□¬"
> > > plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but > > > we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our > > > own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of > > > this.
> > >
> > > > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black > > > community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase > > > and the fact that ÿ¢â□¬ÿ¦..
> > >
> > > > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > HTP,
> > >
> > > > Mahari
> > >
> > > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
> > > wrote:
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Hetepu,
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Very
> > >
> > > > > nicely stated.ÿ□ÿ I agree whole heartily.ÿ□ÿ Now comes the > > > question:ÿ□ÿ Why
> > >
> > > > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of
> > >

> > > > > passage?ÿ□ÿ
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Peace-n-Blessings,
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Shri Sa Hetep
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > >
> > > > > From: Tafari khumbaka
> > >
> > > > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> > >
> > > > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> > >
> > > > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >

> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > ÿ□ÿ tafari
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > baggy pants
> > >
> > > > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a > > > long torso and short legs and theÿ□ÿ black man has long legs and a short > > > torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs.
> > > ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see
> > > such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but > > > anecdotally.
> > >
> > > > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be
> > > white.....
> > >
> > > > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and > > > declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a > > > threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not > > > saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display
> > > as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers
> > > a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(
> > > not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek > > > ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of > > > homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see > > > him as a sex symbol.
> > >
> > > > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white > > > man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no
> > > t a owner,
> > > not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> > >

> > > > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of > > > dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > ÿ□ÿ
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> >
>

| 28720|2009-04-29 09:52:43|Mahari Mengistu|Re: baggy pants|

You are apparently mis-reading my statement or perhaps I mis-wrote it. I have not said that baggy pants are effeminate. What I said was that if saggy pants were worn to expose the butt to attract a male sexual encounter if might be called effeminate. I should have stated that differently because even if it is done for that purpose it doesn't make it effeminate it would seem to be a homosexual act.
And about the rape: Do you honestly think that I said I felt it would be the woman's fault? I am not sure what your gripe is there.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Cjmtlc@... wrote:
>
>
> Wearing baggy pants isn't on a subconscious level. It's a learned > behaviour. MC Hammer wore extremely baggy pants. It had nothing to do with > sexuality. Baggy pants also afford you the opportunity to conceal weapons, > steal items and hide them in your clothes, and extra comfort(to give your > genitals room to be free and breathe). The young males also think it is very > gay/effeminate to wear clinging/fitted/tight pants which blows your > statement/theory out of the water.
>
> When men wore tight jeans in the 60s, 70s, and 80s and you could see the > imprint of their penis because of the pants being so tight; was that a > masculine gesture? When sisters cut their hair real low, is that a masculine > gesture? No, it was a style, trend, or something popular. The reasoning > behind Mahari and Tafari's statements doesn't even make sense . Also, the > story between Seth and Heru doesn't have anything to do with the social > ills of today. A butt does NOT have a gender. It's neither feminine or > masculine. It just simply is. It's a body part just like fingers, ears, toes, > etc. To give the butt a gender only means you have reduced sisters to a > body part and you are indirectly putting some weak stigma on homosexual males > because of how some of them have sex. Well, I've said enough. You need > to think about this a bit more and let it marinate. lol

>
> I'm not going to even comment on that statement about it becoming a woman's > fault(rape). This is just plain ole ridiculous.
>
> Peace!
>
> In a message dated 4/28/2009 8:43:45 P.M. Eastern Daylight Time, > tafari_sudra@... writes:
>
>
>
>
>
> i am speaking of subconcious acts, sublimenal assertions that act out > without cognitive investigation.
> The acting out of a behaviour like pavlov dogs experiment,,The acting out > of a behaviour like pavlov dogs experiment,,. i personally liken it to > a p his/her presence the puppy when sensing that one's presence, would > immediately put it's tail between its legs; its a autonimous act.
>
> yes it's a sloppy "ass"boy thang , but why? why exxxpose one's > butt.....and why try too hid it ???? with shirts?, they know its in some way sexual > and in bad taste.
>
> i personally dont think the average black male is asking for a homosexual > encounter i am saying they are kow-towing to a great masculine > directive(white supremacy)
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra,Tafari-s
>
>
> --- On Tue, 4/28/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroupsTo:
> Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 6:41 PM
>
>
>
> >> it because her fault<<
>
> Sorry, typo. S/b "it becomes her fault".
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In _Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com_
> (http://us.mc01g.mail.yahoo.com/mc/compose?to=Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com) , "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > >> the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of > a woman exposed,,,,, <<
> >
> > Don't you think that is only the case if the man watching wants to jump > it? In other words, if I am in a public shower room I had better watch out > for my butt because any man is likely to want to jump it. I don't think > that is my responsibility to have these kinds of concerns for my natural well > being.
> > This is much like the insistance by certain Islamists that a woman be > fully covered head-to-toe in order to protect herself- and the man > presumably. And if she is raped it because her fault! This is totally obscence. It > leaves the vulgar, low-life, totally out-of-control, egotistal, self-centered > male free of responsibility for his foul act and free from being a decent > respectful human being who adheres to the fact that other peoples bodies > are THEIRS and must never be attacked, invaded or disrespected.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> > --- In _Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com_
> (http://us.mc01g.mail.yahoo.com/mc/compose?to=Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com) , Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > >
> > > one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to > make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----,ÿ the > butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman > exposed,,,,,
> > > ÿ

> > > Only difference is the woman knows it.
> > >
> > > ÿ
> > >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@ wrote:
> > >
> > >
> > > From: Cjmtlc@
> > > Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > > To: _Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com_
> (http://us.mc01g.mail.yahoo.com/mc/compose?to=Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com)
> > > Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read
> > > the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have > > > anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is > > > having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered > feminine,
> > > as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and > > > it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they > > > were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag > > > their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an > > > insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).
> > >
> > > Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't > > > given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants > > > sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and > > > cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous > > > rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the > look/style
> > > spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't > > > have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, > > > grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street > > > knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material > wealth(from > > > drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones > > > that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing > > > like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B > > > videos. So,

> > > the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into > > > the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.
> > >
> > > I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist > > > of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see > > > this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't > > > want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
> > > Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age > > > group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their > > > pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the > underwear.
> > > As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these > > > guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit > > > under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the > > > t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up > > > their butts hanging out and some don't.
> > >
> > > It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do
> > > with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not > > > knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing > > > what they are emulating.
> > >
> > > Carl J. Mason
> > > AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
> > > My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is > > > a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the > > > greatest metamorphosis
> > > and renewal. If we think about it, we may look > > > at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we > explore > > > further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on > > > within.
> > >
> > > -----Original Message-----
> > > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > > Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > >
> > > I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and > > > stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because > > > they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an > > > effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed
> > > "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it".

> > > Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over > > > the butt.
> > >
> > > HTP,
> > >
> > > Mahari
> > >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka
> > > wrote:
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking
> > > the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black > > > men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > ÿ□ÿ
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > From: Mahari Mengistu <m
> > > ahari@>
> > >
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > >
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > >
> > > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >

> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > >
> > > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > >
> > > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong
>
> > > father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish > he > > > looks?
> > >
> > > > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always > > > thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me > > > get my sh-t together!"
> > >
> > > > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.
> > > They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't > > > think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have > > > abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too > > > many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang > > > infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why > they
> > > drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not > > > opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" > quite > > > frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to

> > > learnin
> > > g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but > > > I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates > > > some interesting ÿ¢â□¬"even profound thoughts.
> > >
> > > > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding,
> > > researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our > > > children. Instead, our leaders ÿ¢â□¬" and I consider those leaders (of > > > sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them ÿ¢â□¬" spend too much > time,
> > > energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like > > > homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the > > > boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is > highly > > > unlikely that most of them do.
> > >
> > > > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the > homosexual
> > > group within the black community since - I think - they are the most > > > educated group within the black community ÿ¢â□¬" that is IF the goal > is to > > > progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about.
> > > Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the > > > objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the > > > process ÿ¢â□¬" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want
> to
> > > inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting"
> > > ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to > > > promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> > >
> > > > As is usual
> > > ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home
> > > one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their > > > homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and > > > nurture. And probably more nurture than nature ÿ¢â□¬" that's just my > > > opinion.
> > >
> > > > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is
> the
> > > absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
> > > However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief > > > that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we
> >
> > > heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the > > > other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE > > > THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black > > > men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.

> > >
> > > > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population > is > > > not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I > > > believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but > > > overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> > >
> > > > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your > family
> > > there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know > > > how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when > > > she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
> > > compounded exponentially when she=2 > > > 0has never had it. If she doesn't have > > > the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice ÿ¢â□
> ¬"
> > > plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society > but > > > we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our > > > own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of > > > this.
> > >
> > > > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black > > > community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase > > > and the fact that ÿ¢â□¬ÿ¦..
> > >
> > > > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > HTP,
> > >
> > > > Mahari
> > >
> > > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
> > > wrote:
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Hetepu,
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Very
> > >

> > > > > nicely stated.ÿ□ÿ I agree whole heartily.ÿ□ÿ Now comes the > > > question:ÿ□ÿ Why
> > >
> > > > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of
> > >
> > > > > passage?ÿ□ÿ
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Peace-n-Blessings,
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Shri Sa Hetep
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > >
> > > > > From: Tafari khumbaka
> > >
> > > > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> > >
> > > > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> > >
> > > > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >

> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > ÿ□ÿ tafari
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > baggy pants
> > >
> > > > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a > > > long torso and short legs and theÿ□ÿ black man has long legs and a > short
> > > torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs.
> > > ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see
> > > such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but > > > anecdotally.
> > >
> > > > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be
> > > white.....
> > >
> > > > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and > > > declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a > > > threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not > > > saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display
> > > as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers
> > > a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(
> > > not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek > > > ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree > of > > > homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see > > > him as a sex symbol.

> > >
> > > > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white > > > man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no
> > > t a owner,
> > > not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> > >
> > > > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of > > > dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > ÿ ÿ
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> >
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> *An Excellent Credit Score is 750. See Yours in Just 2 Easy > Steps!
>
(http://pr.atwola.com/promoclk/100126575x1221621499x1201450105/aol?redir=http://www.freecreditreport.com/pm/default.aspx?sc=668072&hmpgID=62&bcd=Apr > ilExcScore428NO62)
>

| 28721|2009-04-29 10:52:19|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|
perhaps it is on a subconcious level for the population i spoke of, rappers who have them below their buttocks and spew misogyny and find solace in a pistol.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/28/09, Cjmtlc@aol.com wrote:

From: Cjmtlc@aol.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 10:33 PM

Wearing baggy pantsisn'ton a subconscious level. It's a learned behaviour. MC Hammer wore extremely baggy pants. It had nothing to do with sexuality. Baggy pants also afford you the opportunity to conceal weapons, stealitems and hide them in your clothes, and extra comfort(to give your genitals room to be free and breathe). The youngmales also think it is very gay/effeminate to wear clinging/fitted/ tight pants which blows your statement/theory out of the water.
When men wore tight jeans in the 60s, 70s, and 80s and you could see the imprint of their penis because of the pants being so tight; was that amasculinegesture? When sisters cut their hair real low, is that a masculine gesture? No, it was a style, trend,or something popular. The reasoning behindMahari and Tafari'sstatementsdoesn't even make sense. Also, the story between Seth and Heru doesn't have anything to do with thesocial ills of today. A buttdoes NOT have a gender. It's neither feminine or masculine. It just simply is. It's a body part just like fingers, ears, toes, etc. To give the butt a gender only means you have reduced sisters to a body part and you are indirectly putting some weak stigma on homosexual males because of how some of them have sex. Well, I've said enough. You need to think about this a bit more and let it marinate. lol
I'm not going to even comment on that statement about it becoming a woman's fault(rape). This is just plain ole ridiculous.
Peace!
In a message dated 4/28/2009 8:43:45 P.M. Eastern Daylight Time, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com writes:

> i am speaking of subconcious acts, sublimenal assertions that act out without cogni > investigation.
> The acting out of a behaviour like pavlov dogs experiment,, . i personally liken it t > is kicked hard by one each time the dog is inhis/her presence the puppy when sensi > presence, would immediately put it's tail between its legs; its a autonimous act.
> yes it's a sloppy "ass"boy thang , but why? why exxxpose one's butt.....and why try > ???? with shirts?, they know its in some waysexual and in bad taste.
> i personally dont think the average black male is asking for a homosexual encounte > they are kow-towing to a great masculine directive(white supremacy)

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 4/28/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 6:41 PM

>> it because her fault<<

Sorry, typo. S/b "it becomes her fault".
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> >> the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,, <<
>
> Don't you think that is only the case if the man watching wants to jump it? In other words, if I am in a public shower room I had better watch out for my butt because any man is likely to want to jump it. I don't think that is my responsibility to have these kinds of concerns for my natural well being.
> This is much like the insistance by certain Islamists that a woman be fully covered head-to-toe in order to protect herself- and the man presumably. And if she is raped it because her fault! This is totally obscence. It leaves the vulgar, low-life, totally out-of-control, egotistal, self-centered male free of responsibility for his foul act and free from being a decent respectful human being who adheres to the fact that other peoples bodies are THEIRS and must never be attacked, invaded or disrespected.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> >
> > one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----, the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,
> >
> > Only difference is the woman knows it.
> >
> >
> >
> > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@ wrote:

> >
> >
> > From: Cjmtlc@
> > Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read
> > the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have > > anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is > > having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine,
> > as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and > > it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they > > were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag > > their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an > > insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).
> >
> > Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't > > given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants > > sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and > > cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous > > rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style > > spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't > > have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, > > grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street
> > knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from > > drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones > > that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing > > like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B > > videos. So,
> > the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into > > the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.
> >
> > I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist > > of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see > > this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't > > want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
> > Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age > > group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their > > pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear.

> > As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these > > guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit > > under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the > > t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up > > their butts hanging out and some don't.
> >
> > It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do
> > with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not > > knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing > > what they are emulating.
> >
> > Carl J. Mason
> > AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
> > My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is > > a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the > > greatest metamorphosis
> > and renewal. If we think about it, we may look > > at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore > > further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on > > within.
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> >
> > I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and > > stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because > > they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an > > effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed
> > "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it".
> > Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over > > the butt.
> >
> > HTP,
> >
> > Mahari
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka
> > wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> > > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking

> > the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black > > men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Â
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> >
> > >
> >
> > > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > > From: Mahari Mengistu <m
> > ahari@>
> >
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> >
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> >
> > > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
> >
> > >
> >
> > >
> >
> > >

> > > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> >
> > >
> >
> > > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong > > father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he > > looks?
> >
> > > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always > > thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me > > get my sh-t together!"
> >
> > > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.
> > They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't > > think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have > > abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too > > many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang > > infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they > > drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not > > opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite > > frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to
> > learnin
> > g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but
> > I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates > > some interesting â€"even profound thoughts.
> >
> > > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding,
> > researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our > > children. Instead, our leaders â€" and I consider those leaders (of > > sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them â€" spend too much time,
> > energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like > > homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the > > boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly > > unlikely that most of them do.
> >
> > > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual
> > group within the black community since - I think - they are the most > > educated group within the black community â€" that is IF the goal is to > > progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about.

> > Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the > > objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the > > process â€" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to > > inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting"
> > ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to > > promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> >
> > > As is usual
> > ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home
> > one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their > > homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and > > nurture. And probably more nurture than nature â€" that's just my > > opinion.
> >
> > > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the > > absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
> > However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief > > that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we > > heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the > > other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE > > THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black > > men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
> >
> > > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is > > not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I > > believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but > > overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> >
> > > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family
> > there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know > > how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when > > she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
> > compounded exponentially when she=2 > > 0has never had it. If she doesn't have > > the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice â€"
> > plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but > > we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our > > own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of > > this.
> >
> > > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black > > community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase > > and the fact that â€¦..
> >
> > > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?

> >
> > >
> >
> > > HTP,
> >
> > > Mahari
> >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
> > wrote:
> >
> > > > >
> >
> > > > > Hetepu,
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > Very
> >
> > > > > nicely stated.Â I agree whole heartily.Â Now comes the > > question:Â Why
> >
> > > > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of
> >
> > > > > passage?Â
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > Peace-n-Blessings,
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > Shri Sa Hetep
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > >
> >
> > > > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> >
> > > > > From: Tafari khumbaka
> >
> > > > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> >
> > > > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> >
> > > > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM

> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > Â tafari
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > >
> >
> > > > baggy pants
> >
> > > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a > > long torso and short legs and theÂ black man has long legs and a short > > torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs.

> > ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see
> > such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but > > anecdotally.
> >
> > > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be
> > white.....
> >
> > > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and > > declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a > > threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not > > saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display
> > as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers
> > a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(
> > not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek > > ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of > > homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see > > him as a sex symbol.
> >
> > > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white > > man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no
> > t a owner,
> > not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> >
> > > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of > > dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > Â
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
>

An Excellent Credit Score is 750. See Yours in Just 2 Easy Steps!

| 28722|2009-04-29 11:43:52|Tafari khumbaka|Re: baggy pants|
if it can be said that a coin could buy the present condition ,then one side of that coin would be white supremacy and the other would be black in-adequacy.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 4/29/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 29, 2009, 11:01 AM

>>i am saying they are kow-towing to a great masculine directive(white supremacy)<<

They are re-acting to some extremely bad rearing by black parents. We must ALWAYS assume that the oppressor will attempt to oppress but what must we do? If someone slaps and continues to slap you, what will you do? Just complain that he is slapping you?
You act in a way so that he cannot hit you or at least hit you as hard. If you don't do that one has to wonder what is wrong with you. There are things we can do to make our lives in this country and the diaspora better but we don't do it.
This situation with the extremes of baggy pants and misogynistic, homophobic, violent rap, in my opinion, did not have to happen. We need to look within. This is the same issue that all mankind faces - it refuses to look within.
I don't think that Bill Cosby expressed himself appropriately but he is absolutely right. I am afraid what you have been saying about our problem illustrates that you keep blaming the white man or someone else for OUR FAILURES. I am in NO WAY a conservative. I keep focusing on our LACK OF SELF-LOVE. This generational habit causes our whole race to fail or not succeed at the best and highest levels.
If you don't love yourself and your people who look like you how can you work with them respectively and support them? What you end up doing is looking for and finding SOMETHING to hate about them. And no black person can deny having seen this time and time again although you may not have interpreted it this way.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> i am speaking of subconcious acts, sublimenal assertions that act out without cognitive investigation.
> The acting out of a behaviour like pavlov dogs experiment,, . i personally liken it to a puppy who is kicked hard by one each time the dog is in his/her presence the puppy when sensing that one's presence, would immediately put it's tail between its legs; its a autonimous act.
>
> yes it's a sloppy "ass"boy thang , but why? why exxxpose one's butt.....and why try too hid it ???? with shirts?, they know its in some way sexual and in bad taste.
>
> i personally dont think the average black male is asking for a homosexual encounter i am saying they are kow-towing to a great masculine directive(white supremacy)
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Tue, 4/28/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, April 28, 2009, 6:41 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> >> it because her fault<<
>
> Sorry, typo. S/b "it becomes her fault".
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >

> > >> the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,, <<
> >
> > Don't you think that is only the case if the man watching wants to jump it? In other words, if I am in a public shower room I had better watch out for my butt because any man is likely to want to jump it. I don't think that is my responsibility to have these kinds of concerns for my natural well being.
> > This is much like the insistance by certain Islamists that a woman be fully covered head-to-toe in order to protect herself- and the man presumably. And if she is raped it because her fault! This is totally obscence. It leaves the vulgar, low-life, totally out-of-control, egotistal, self-centered male free of responsibility for his foul act and free from being a decent respectful human being who adheres to the fact that other peoples bodies are THEIRS and must never be attacked, invaded or disrespected.
> > HTP,
> > Mahari
> >
> > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > >
> > > one of the fights between Seth and heru ended with Seth attempting to make Heru bow before him, so he could sexually make him his b----,Â the butt of a man exposed is a sexual display just like the butt of a woman exposed,,,,,
> > > Â
> > > Only difference is the woman knows it.
> > >
> > > Â
> > >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > --- On Mon, 4/27/09, Cjmtlc@ wrote:
> > >
> > >
> > > From: Cjmtlc@
> > > Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > > Date: Monday, April 27, 2009, 8:40 PM
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > This is the first time I've replied to the group. I usually just read
> > > the information on ancient egypt. Wearing baggy pants doesn't have > > > anything to do with being effeminate. The definition of effeminate is > > > having traits, tastes, habits, etc., traditionally considered feminine,

> > > as softness or delicacy. Women don't traditionally sag their pants and > > > it's not something that women have ever done until the 90s(which they > > > were copying the men). So, to say that the young men/boys that sag > > > their pants is an effeminate gesture shows a lot of ignorance(not an > > > insult; it just means you don't know or aren't aware).
> > >
> > > Sagging started with the hispanic/latino men in prison. They aren't > > > given belts(for obvious reasons). So, they would just let their pants > > > sag. It caught on all over the prison system(with other groups and > > > cultures). Now, with so many young black males(average joes and famous
> > > rappers) going in and out of the jail and prison system; the look/style > > > spilled over into the hood. Since, so many of these young men don't > > > have positive male role models(whether it be a father, uncle, > > > grandfather, etc), these males who seem "cool", full of street
> > > knowledge, tough, able to protect themselves, have material wealth(from > > > drugs, robbing, stealing, etc), and get the girls/women are the ones > > > that so many of these young males look up to. This includes dressing > > > like them. It gets glorified in the rap/hiphop and R&B
> > > videos. So,
> > > the look spreads like wildfire. It becomes a trend. Once it gets into > > > the suburbs, it's over. There is no stopping, it.
> > >
> > > I'm a 34 year old black man. My high school and college years consist > > > of the first 8 years of the 90s. The 90s is when you started to see > > > this trend taking off. I never sagged. It wasn't because I didn't > > > want to. It just didn't look right on me. LOL!!!
> > > Like a lot of young folks, you tend to fall in line with your age > > > group's style, etc. When the trend started, people would sag their > > > pants and you would only be able to see the top band of the underwear.
> > > As the years went by, things progressed and got out of hand. So, these > > > guys started pulling the pants down farther until the pants would sit > > > under their butt cheeks(being held up by a belt). Because of this, the > > > t-shirts and shirts got longer and bigger. Some wear them to cover up > > > their butts hanging out and some don't.
> > >
> > > It has nothing to do with being effeminate. It has everything to do
> > > with influence, being misguided, no direction, social behaviours, not > > > knowing/understandi ng where this activity comes from, and not knowing > > > what they are emulating.
> > >
> > > Carl J. Mason
> > > AKA TLC's #1 fan(CrazySexyCool)
> > > My Scars show who I am but My Smile shows who I want to be. Scorpio is > > > a water sign. I am very enigmatic. The sign is capable of the > > > greatest metamorphosis

> > > and renewal. If we think about it, we may look > > > at a lake and see the interplay of light and shadows. Unless we explore > > > further, we cannot tell just how deep it is -- or what is going on > > > within.
> > >
> > > -----Original Message-----
> > > From: Mahari Mengistu
> > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > > Sent: Mon, 27 Apr 2009 9:01 pm
> > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > >
> > > I don't think it is an effeminate gesture. It is sloppy and > > > stupid-looking gesture. Now if you think the pants are down because > > > they are INVITING a sexual encounter then you could say it is an > > > effeminate gesture. But basically, in my opinion, it is a sloppy-assed
> > > "boy thing" to do. Most think they are looking "cool" and "with it".
> > > Also, most of them are careful to pull their t-shirts or shirts over > > > the butt.
> > >
> > > HTP,
> > >
> > > Mahari
> > >
> > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Tafari khumbaka
> > > wrote:
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > love all u wrote,, and i personally dont think no-one is attacking
> > > the homosexual black community,, but recognising the way young black > > > men wear their pants below their butt's is an effeminate gesture.
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > Ã‚Â
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > --- On Sun, 4/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > From: Mahari Mengistu <m
> > > ahari@>
> > >
> > > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: baggy pants
> > >
> > > > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> > >
> > > > Date: Sunday, April 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > The answer is simple and perhaps painful:
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > >
> > > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > >
> > > > Because we have done a shitty job of raising our young men.
> > >
> > > >
> > >
> > > > Does anyone think that a boy would walk around like that if a strong > > > father had the sense and know-how to instruct his son on how foolish he > > > looks?
> > >

> > > > I agree that it indicates that they are childish. I have always > > > thought that it is in a sense a cry for help: "Help me dress; help me > > > get my sh-t together!"
> > >
> > > > It also reminds of the orphan street urchins of Dickens' England.
> > > They literally look like abandoned kids and many of them are. I don't > > > think that it is totally inaccurate to say that we black people have > > > abandoned our kids. Too many don't have a good home environment. Too > > > many have to run a gauntlet through drug infested, gang > > > infested-infected communities to get to school. And we wonder why they > > > drop out of school so early and are not learning. I really am not > > > opposed to pot but too many are going to school high on "chronic" quite > > > frankly. And I really don't think that being high is conducive to
> > > learnin
> > > g and intellectually retaining data. Maybe it is my weakness but > > > I know it certainly isn't for me even though it sometimes stimulates > > > some interesting Ã¢â‚¬"even profound thoughts.
> > >
> > > > And yet it seems we spend so little time discussing, understanding,
> > > researching and actualizing solutions to these problems for our > > > children. Instead, our leaders Ã¢â‚¬" and I consider those leaders (of > > > sorts) who express concerns and speaks to them Ã¢â‚¬" spend too much time,
> > > energy and angst pointing at some amorphous sinister evil like > > > homosexuality which apparently comes from the white man. Some of the > > > boys may have homosexual leanings in dressing that way but it is highly > > > unlikely that most of them do.
> > >
> > > > It also strikes me as a very un-smart tactic to attack the homosexual
> > > group within the black community since - I think - they are the most > > > educated group within the black community Ã¢â‚¬" that is IF the goal is to > > > progress. Perhaps, for some the goal is to continue to flounder about.
> > > Sadly, from what I see happening I believe for some that is the > > > objective although I think it is unconscious. I believe it is the > > > process Ã¢â‚¬" the expression of the act of self-hatred. If you want to > > > inflict pain and suffering on yourself you act in "pain inflicting"
> > > ways; and what is a more disguised "pain inflicting" way than to > > > promote disunity through self-attacking and back-biting?
> > >
> > > > As is usual
> > > ly the case if there is a problem with a kid from a home
> > > one should look at the home. I know the gay explanation for their > > > homosexuality is that it is nature/god. I think it is nature and > > > nurture. And probably more nurture than nature Ã¢â‚¬" that's just my > > > opinion.
> > >

> > > > My feeling is that one big component in this nurturing process is the > > > absence of the black father. And this is a GENERATIONS LONG problem.
> > > However, one strong additive in this toxic prescription is the belief > > > that the black father is essentially worthless. How many times have we > > > heard the black woman say "I don't need no man" not to mention all the > > > other invectives that often accompany this expression, PLUS ALL THE > > > THINGS society says or infers about him. And I contend that most black > > > men believe it even as they fight -sometimes insanely - against it.
> > >
> > > > I further contend that this problem within our youthful population is > > > not only devastating young black men but young black women as well. I > > > believe that young female pregnancy is connected to this natural but > > > overwhelming desire to be intimate with the male figure.
> > >
> > > > If you are unfamiliar with a healthy male relationship in your family
> > > there is NO REASON WHATSOEVER to assume that a young woman will know
> > > how to conduct herself with a young man who makes a move on her when > > > she naturally has a hunger for male presence and male approval
> > > compounded exponentially when she=2 > > > 0has never had it. If she doesn't have > > > the skills to deal with it her parents have done her a disservice Ã¢â‚¬"
> > > plain and simple. I know that the problems extend far into society but > > > we all make up society. And within this mess we have to shoulder our > > > own responsibilities and the parents have to shoulder their part of > > > this.
> > >
> > > > Many are complaining about the growing homosexuality in the black > > > community. Could there be a connection between this supposed increase > > > and the fact that Ã¢â‚¬Â¦..
> > >
> > > > WE HAVE DONE A SHITTY JOB OF RAISING OUR YOUNG MEN?
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > HTP,
> > >
> > > > Mahari
> > >
> > > > --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Shri Sa Hetep
> > > wrote:
> > >
> > > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Hetepu,
> > >

> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Very
> > >
> > > > > nicely stated.Ã‚Â I agree whole heartily.Ã‚Â Now comes the > > > question:Ã‚Â Why
> > >
> > > > > do our men want to send out such messages? Why is this a rite of
> > >
> > > > > passage?Ã‚Â
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Peace-n-Blessings,
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Shri Sa Hetep
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > --- On Sat, 4/25/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
> > >
> > > > > From: Tafari khumbaka
> > >
> > > > > Subject: [Ta_Seti] baggy pants
> > >
> > > > > To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> > >
> > > > > Date: Saturday, April 25, 2009, 9:34 PM
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >

> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Ã‚Â tafari
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > baggy pants
> > >
> > > > > once heard or read Elder Dick Gregory say that the white man has a > > > long torso and short legs and theÃ‚Â black man has long legs and a short > > > torso of course he was speaking in generalities, since that time yrs.
> > > ago m/p has look to see if this is true,,,,,,and i personally do see
> > > such; of course generally and not as a true scientific study but > > > anecdotally.
> > >
> > > > > if this is true than the black rappers are sayings i wanna be
> > > white.....
> > >
> > > > > are they not being their person conciously or Unconsciously and > > > declaring that they are not a threat to the white community but are a > > > threat to blacks with their misogony and pistols, and are they not > > > saying that they are effemine since they bare their bottoms as display
> > > as a invitation to the white man, after all a black woman he considers
> > > a bit-- and a wh--- cant do anythang with his butt,,,,,,, but a greek(
> > > not the greek people but the homosexual stereotype of frat and greek

> > > ancient miliatary initiation) and a people who exhibit a high degree of > > > homosexuality (that too say white people) generaly speaking will see > > > him as a sex symbol.
> > >
> > > > > are not baggy (to big pants) saying I AM to small in this white > > > man's world and only a child. a play-boy only a player and no
> > > t a owner,
> > > not someone who is a man in his own mind .
> > >
> > > > > seems to me baggy pants are a wardrobe(checkout da prefix war) of > > > dishonor and childish romance(prefix rome).
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Ã‚Â
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > > Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> > > > >
> > >
> >
>

| 28723|2009-04-29 16:56:27|Mahari Mengistu|Narmer: Dissecting the History of the Upper and Lower Egypt|

An Online Paper===
==========
Narmer: Dissecting the History of the Upper and Lower Egypt

It could be said that Egypt is the world's riches in terms of history of the ancient civilization. It is manifested with the presence of its relics and artifacts that stimulates and challenges the standards of our present time. Such traces of the past illuminate the history of kingship, religion, and the ancient way of life during those times. Expressed through monuments, sculptures and relief, its art is revealed to be very particular in form, unity, and standardization.

Among the most sought-after topics in the study of the remnants of ancient Egypt is the reign of Narmer or Menes. This paper aims to provide data on the reign of King Narmer, The Upper and Lower Egypt, and the Narmer Palette.

The Controversy of Menes

claim that the Egyptian lists of kings provide the name `Meni' ? the first king of the First Dynasty (86). This name is the same with Menes, which is the Greek form of Meni as recorded in the early writings of Herodotus and Diodorus Siculus known as preservers of kings' legends. It is said that he is the first law-giver and the initiator of Egypt's civilization. He is also considered as creator-god for the creation of building in the first town. According to Herodotus, he drained the plain of Memphis and built the "White Wall" that surrounded united Egypt's capital. Right at the center of the town which was referred as Memphis in the Greek times, Menes built a temple to the god Ptah. With the Egyptian belief that the creation of the world was followed with the establishment of a line of god-rulers, it is succeeded by dynasties of semi-divine kings as evident in the reign of Menes ? the first human ruler.

With the integration of Greeks, historians today identify Menes as the king of the united Upper and Lower Egypt (). Menes was regarded as the king, who linked the south and the north that is originally ruled by two separate powers known as the White Land and the Red Land. Menes, who is the ruler of the southern kingdom, completed the subjugation of the north. It was a continuation of the previous endeavors of his predecessors including King Scorpion. When he ruled the south as well as the north, Menes became the symbol of the unification of the two lands. In the same manner, as historians took deeper explorations to the traces of Egypt's civilization, Menes is identified as King Narmer. King Narmer is represented as the king who wears both the crowns of the Red and White Lands. However, there have been worldwide argumentations over this identification because of several possibilities present at hand like Menes could be King `Aha.

With the facts presented, modern controversy surrounding Narmer's identification with Menes, who was first ruler of Egypt documented by Herodotus and from evidence provided by the Palermo Stone as well as Diodorus Siculus findings, archaeological and literary evidence tends to suggest that the identification of Narmer and Menes as one person, founder of a united Egypt and first ruler of Dynasty 1, is correct ().

King Narmer, the Upper and Lower Kingdoms, and the Red and White Crowns

states that the lists of kings that reign Egypt were oftentimes unreliable, fragmentary, and contradictory. The records of Manetho, an Egyptian historian during the time of Ptolemy is considered the most complete. According to his records, the history of Egypt is divided into thirty dynasties ? from Menes up to the Greeks. Also, this was grouped into three great periods: the Old, Middle, and New Kingdoms. But the facts about Narmer remained fixed.

Narmer has been sometimes referred to as Menes, known to have discovered the Ancient Egyptian civilization. He is the legendary King who united the Two Lands of Upper and Lower Egypt (). His reign, according to the Turin papyrus was uninterrupted until the time in power of Unas in 2345 BC . Narmer is the "most enduring icon" who is distinguished in wearing the crowns of the two lands (). He turned triumphant over north ().

Generally, it is considered that King Scorpion, the predecessor of Narmer, was a southern ruler who took early steps to conquer the northern kingdom. When Narmer became the king, the process of unifying the Two Lands was successfully concluded ().

Considered as the first pharaoh of all Egypt (), Narmer unified the two lands of Egypt. He held the two crowns ? red and white as a symbol his reign. He initiated the written history and dynasties of Egypt. He is considered as the "King of Both Lands and Bearer of Both Crowns". Further, he can certainly be identified with King Menes whom later tradition states was founder of dynastic Egypt ().

After his reign, the Narmer Palette that presents significant facts about his dynasty was made. This is the prime source of all data used by historians and archeologists in making their generalization about the hidden mysteries of the ancient civilization of Egypt.

The Narmer Palette: Uncovering the Mysteries of Narmer (Menes)

With a height of 64 cm and a width of 42 cm, the Narmer Palette was said to have been conceived during the earlier part of the 1st Dynasty when King Narmer took the throne. According to , it was made years or decades after the reign of Narmer and deemed to be created as a commemorative monument (). The Palette was one of many discoveries located in the Temple of Horus in the city of Hierakonpolis. It was among several other palettes which also depicted the achievements of the Egyptian rulers.

provided a comprehensive description of the said palette. To quote;

"The palette, on the other hand, imitates the shape of the little tablets used for rubbing up the eye-paint, and is wrought from a slaty stone. It was formerly in the temple of the chief deity of Upper Egypt, the falcon-god Horus, at Hierakonpolis, where it had been placed to commemorate for all time the King of Upper Egypt's victory over the northern kingdom. On the one side we see the king, his head adorned with the tall white crown of Upper Egypt, wielding a club in his lifted right hand in order to strike down the foe who kneels before him. Opposite him is a symbolical representation which has its origin in the beginnings of Egyptian writing: the falcon-god, provided with a human arm, leads a man of Lower Egypt, symbolized by the papyrus-plants and a human head emerging from the ground, as a prisoner to the king. On the reverse of the palette the king, accompanied as on the front by a sandalbearer, is wearing the red crown of the conquered northern kingdom and is proceeding with his vizier and a number of standard-bearers to inspect the decapitated bodies of his foes lying on the ground ()."

Today, the Narmer palette draws a significant amount of attention to historians. There are various controversies that are surrounding the legendary Narmer Palette. Among these are the following:

Was this Narmer's victory over the north? Narmer Palette is often taken to be record of victory of southern kingdom over north ( ). But the controversy on whether Nermer's victory was embedded on the palette remains unsolved. There are findings that could be served the claim that it was indeed the victory over the north. But there are some possible contradictions because of the increasing evidence for gradual process of unification over some 200 years that makes an idea of single set-piece battle less likely to occur (). As stated by , there are certain conflicts during the emergence of unified state, as shown by evidence from other decorated palettes, but there were probably numerous battles and skirmishes as rival chiefs struggled for territory. Some of conflict recorded on palettes may have been directed against tribes from desert regions outside Nile Valley rather than being connected with internal disputes.

Further, the question on were there outsiders involved in the process was answerable with the help of other palettes discovered. The Hunters palette provides evidences that there were outsiders that are involved (). The figures present in the palette are not in congruence with Egyptian people. They have curled hair and beards, and are circumcised. It is possible that some of warfare conducted against north around time of Narmer may have been directed against local population which had moved into the Delta from west. They were regarded as outsiders by the Upper Egyptian rulers. These claims are substantiated by the Narmer Palette.

The imagery of Narmer Palette implies, "the king was believed to be one of the sources and guarantors of proper order, perhaps exemplified by proportional perfection" (). But the Narmer palette presented several issues, mysteries, and interpretations from historians. Among these are the following:

The piece by piece study of to each component of the palette presented debate on ignoring the integration of the whole piece. It remains contradictory in many aspects. Scholars are still pondering on the issue on whether Narmer is the true unifier of Egypt, or whether Egypt was unified prior to his rule.

Much of this doubt also comes from the fact that King Narmer did not appear in the ancient records, which signifies a great deal as Ancient Egyptians were very particular in their recording. It is certainly possible that King Narmer was an alias of Menes, hence recognized to be the first Pharaoh to have unified Egypt. To say that King Narmer has taken this role instead of King Menes would contradict with this recorded and determined history.

own unique astronomical interpretation of the Narmer palette compliments the historical analysis posed earlier. According to Ancient Egypt had also relied on constellations and heavenly bodies. From her examination, compares Narmer to the Orion constellation. They shared the same position of the torso and the poise of the lifted hand

To supply the Astronomical explanation even further is analysis that King Narmer has actual relations on the Autumn Equinox and Seth. This readily assumes Narmer as indeed, a king and a celestial counterpart as well as the anarchic God, Seth ().

Another interesting interpretation may be that the Narmer Palette is an embodiment of the Sinai Peninsula, thus through this perception the palette serves to immortalize the conquest regarding this open area

The Narmer Palette can be classified under two categories, historical and symbolic interpretation. The palette literally details the actual unification of Egypt shown from several iconographies. Thus, Narmer may be a king of Egypt, or a much minor ruler. But whatever those interpretations are, the facts still remain as an irony that the Narmer palette could solely serve the answer.

===
HTP,
Mahari

| 28724|2009-04-29 20:24:54|Tafari khumbaka|Het-Heru| http://profile.myspace.com/index.cfm?fuseaction=user.viewprofile&friendid=450175762
click above
this months energy is the planetary energy of Het-Heru!

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28725|2009-04-30 09:04:29|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Narmer: Dissecting the History of the Upper and Lower Egypt|

>>The figures

present in the palette are not in congruence with Egyptian people. They have curled hair and beards, and are circumcised. It is possible that some of warfare conducted against north around time of Narmer may have been directed against local population which had moved into the Delta from west. <<

I am not sure what this person is attempting to say in this section in his description of the people as "with curly hair and beards" suggestion this make them not Egyptian. The only thing that makes them the least "unusual" is the beard. This MIGHT have some significant but certainly nothing else. Could it be that this is STILL the stupid unjustified position of white people that Afrigyptians had STRAIGHT HAIR!!! ??? In spite of ALL THE ICONIC EVIDENCE THAT THEIR HAIR WAS KINKY TO CURLY???!!!
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> An Online Paper===
> ==========
> Narmer: Dissecting the History of the Upper and Lower Egypt
>
>
> It could be said that Egypt is the world's riches in terms of history of the ancient civilization. It is manifested with the presence of its relics and artifacts that stimulates and challenges the standards of our present time. Such traces of the past illuminate the history of kingship, religion, and the ancient way of life during those times. Expressed through monuments, sculptures and relief, its art is revealed to be very particular in form, unity, and standardization.
>
> Among the most sought-after topics in the study of the remnants of ancient Egypt is the reign of Narmer or Menes. This paper aims to provide data on the reign of King Narmer, The Upper and Lower Egypt, and the Narmer Palette.
>
>
>
>
>
> The Controversy of Menes
>
>
>
> claim that the Egyptian lists of kings provide the name `Meni' ? the first king of the First Dynasty (86). This name is the same with Menes, which is the Greek form of Meni as recorded in the early writings of Herodotus and Diodorus Siculus known as preservers of kings' legends. It is said that he is the first law-giver and the initiator of Egypt's civilization. He is also considered as creator-god for the creation of building in the first town. According to Herodotus, he drained the plain of Memphis and built the "White Wall" that surrounded united Egypt's capital. Right at the center of the town which was referred as Memphis in the Greek times, Menes built a temple to the god Ptah. With the Egyptian belief that the creation of the world was followed with the establishment of a line of god-rulers, it is succeeded by dynasties of semi-divine kings as evident in the reign of Menes ? the first human ruler.

>
> With the integration of Greeks, historians today identify Menes as the king of the united Upper and Lower Egypt (). Menes was regarded as the king, who linked the south and the north that is originally ruled by two separate powers known as the White Land and the Red Land. Menes, who is the ruler of the southern kingdom, completed the subjugation of the north. It was a continuation of the previous endeavors of his predecessors including King Scorpion. When he ruled the south as well as the north, Menes became the symbol of the unification of the two lands. In the same manner, as historians took deeper explorations to the traces of Egypt's civilization, Menes is identified as King Narmer. King Narmer is represented as the king who wears both the crowns of the Red and White Lands. However, there have been worldwide argumentations over this identification because of several possibilities present at hand like Menes could be King `Aha.
>
> With the facts presented, modern controversy surrounding Narmer's identification with Menes, who was first ruler of Egypt documented by Herodotus and from evidence provided by the Palermo Stone as well as Diodorus Siculus findings, archaeological and literary evidence tends to suggest that the identification of Narmer and Menes as one person, founder of a united Egypt and first ruler of Dynasty 1, is correct ().
>
>
>
> King Narmer, the Upper and Lower Kingdoms, and the Red and White Crowns
>
>
>
> states that the lists of kings that reign Egypt were oftentimes unreliable, fragmentary, and contradictory. The records of Manetho, an Egyptian historian during the time of Ptolemy is considered the most complete. According to his records, the history of Egypt is divided into thirty dynasties ? from Menes up to the Greeks. Also, this was grouped into three great periods: the Old, Middle, and New Kingdoms. But the facts about Narmer remained fixed.
>
> Narmer has been sometimes referred to as Menes, known to have discovered the Ancient Egyptian civilization. He is the legendary King who united the Two Lands of Upper and Lower Egypt (). His reign, according to the Turin papyrus was uninterrupted until the time in power of Unas in 2345 BC . Narmer is the "most enduring icon" who is distinguished in wearing the crowns of the two lands (). He turned triumphant over north ().
>
> Generally, it is considered that King Scorpion, the predecessor of Narmer, was a southern ruler who took early steps to conquer the northern kingdom. When Narmer became the king, the process of unifying the Two Lands was successfully concluded ().
>

> Considered as the first pharaoh of all Egypt (), Narmer unified the two lands of Egypt. He held the two crowns ? red and white as a symbol his reign. He initiated the written history and dynasties of Egypt. He is considered as the "King of Both Lands and Bearer of Both Crowns". Further, he can certainly be identified with King Menes whom later tradition states was founder of dynastic Egypt ().
>
> After his reign, the Narmer Palette that presents significant facts about his dynasty was made. This is the prime source of all data used by historians and archeologists in making their generalization about the hidden mysteries of the ancient civilization of Egypt.
>
>
>
> The Narmer Palette: Uncovering the Mysteries of Narmer (Menes)
>
> With a height of 64 cm and a width of 42 cm, the Narmer Palette was said to have been conceived during the earlier part of the 1st Dynasty when King Narmer took the throne. According to , it was made years or decades after the reign of Narmer and deemed to be created as a commemorative monument (). The Palette was one of many discoveries located in the Temple of Horus in the city of Hierakonpolis. It was among several other palettes which also depicted the achievements of the Egyptian rulers.
>
> provided a comprehensive description of the said palette. To quote;
>
>
>
> "The palette, on the other hand, imitates the shape of the little tablets used for rubbing up the eye-paint, and is wrought from a slaty stone. It was formerly in the temple of the chief deity of Upper Egypt, the falcon-god Horus, at Hierakonpolis, where it had been placed to commemorate for all time the King of Upper Egypt's victory over the northern kingdom. On the one side we see the king, his head adorned with the tall white crown of Upper Egypt, wielding a club in his lifted right hand in order to strike down the foe who kneels before him. Opposite him is a symbolical representation which has its origin in the beginnings of Egyptian writing: the falcon-god, provided with a human arm, leads a man of Lower Egypt, symbolized by the papyrus-plants and a human head emerging from the ground, as a prisoner to the king. On the reverse of the palette the king, accompanied as on the front by a sandalbearer, is wearing the red crown of the conquered northern kingdom and is proceeding with his vizier and a number of standard-bearers to inspect the decapitated bodies of his foes lying on the ground ()."
>
>
>
> Today, the Narmer palette draws a significant amount of attention to historians. There are various controversies that are surrounding the legendary Narmer Palette. Among these are the following:
>
> Was this Narmer's victory over the north? Narmer Palette is often taken to be record of victory of southern kingdom over north ( ). But the controversy on whether Nermer's victory was embedded on the palette remains unsolved. There are findings that could be served the claim that it was indeed the victory over the north. But there are some possible contradictions because of the increasing evidence for gradual process of unification over some 200 years that makes an idea of single set-piece battle less likely to occur (). As stated by , there are certain conflicts during the emergence of unified state, as shown by evidence from other decorated palettes, but there were probably numerous battles and skirmishes as rival chiefs struggled for territory. Some of conflict recorded on palettes may have been directed against tribes from desert regions outside Nile Valley rather than being connected with internal disputes.

>
> Further, the question on were there outsiders involved in the process was answerable with the help of other palettes discovered. The Hunters palette provides evidences that there were outsiders that are involved (). The figures present in the palette are not in congruence with Egyptian people. They have curled hair and beards, and are circumcised. It is possible that some of warfare conducted against north around time of Narmer may have been directed against local population which had moved into the Delta from west. They were regarded as outsiders by the Upper Egyptian rulers. These claims are substantiated by the Narmer Palette.
>
> The imagery of Narmer Palette implies, "the king was believed to be one of the sources and guarantors of proper order, perhaps exemplified by proportional perfection" (). But the Narmer palette presented several issues, mysteries, and interpretations from historians. Among these are the following:
>
> The piece by piece study of to each component of the palette presented debate on ignoring the integration of the whole piece. It remains contradictory in many aspects. Scholars are still pondering on the issue on whether Narmer is the true unifier of Egypt, or whether Egypt was unified prior to his rule.
>
>
>
> Much of this doubt also comes from the fact that King Narmer did not appear in the ancient records, which signifies a great deal as Ancient Egyptians were very particular in their recording. It is certainly possible that King Narmer was an alias of Menes, hence recognized to be the first Pharaoh to have unified Egypt. To say that King Narmer has taken this role instead of King Menes would contradict with this recorded and determined history.
>
>
>
> own unique astronomical interpretation of the Narmer palette compliments the historical analysis posed earlier. According to Ancient Egypt had also relied on constellations and heavenly bodies. From her examination, compares Narmer to the Orion constellation. They shared the same position of the torso and the poise of the lifted hand
>
>
>
> To supply the Astronomical explanation even further is analysis that King Narmer has actual relations on the Autumn Equinox and Seth. This readily assumes Narmer as indeed, a king and a celestial counterpart as well as the anarchic God, Seth ().

>
>
>
> Another interesting interpretation may be that the Narmer Palette is an embodiment of the Sinai Peninsula, thus through this perception the palette serves to immortalize the conquest regarding this open area
>
>
>
> The Narmer Palette can be classified under two categories, historical and symbolic interpretation. The palette literally details the actual unification of Egypt shown from several iconographies. Thus, Narmer may be a king of Egypt, or a much minor ruler. But whatever those interpretations are, the facts still remain as an irony that the Narmer palette could solely serve the answer.
>
> ===
> HTP,
> Mahari
>

| 28726|2009-04-30 11:44:19|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- Fwd: Bloomberg, Klein and Black Mentacide|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Frederica Clare
To: bnyee@googlegroups.com; info@lawandpolicygroup.org; info@girlsclub.org; info@malidoma.com; ron krate ; info@mahnattanfreeschool.org
Sent: Wednesday, April 29, 2009 9:29:14 AM
Subject: [BNYEE]-- Fwd: Bloomberg, Klein and Black Mentacide

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: mrsmaddox@netzero.net <mrsmaddox@netzero.net>
Date: Tue, Apr 28, 2009 at 8:06 PM
Subject: Bloomberg, Klein and Black Mentacide

Bloomberg, Klein and Black Mentacide
By Alton H. Maddox, Jr.

Every Black child in New York City should be required to attend the "Egypt on the Potomac" field trip to Washington, DC and the Blacks in Wax Museum in Baltimore. While Asian and Latino children should also learn about the builders of America, the Board of Education of New York City, of course, should foot the bill.
Instead, Mayor Michael Bloomberg and Schools Chancellor Joel Klein will be sponsoring free bus transportation to the District of Columbia on May 16, 2009 on the pretext of celebrating the fifty-fifth anniversary of the landmark decision in Brown v. Bd. Of Education. It will kick off, officially, the mentacide of Black children. The rally in the District of Columbia is designed to further hijack education to the detriment of Black children.

United African Movement sponsors two trips to these venues annually. Leola W. Maddox spends a lot of time planning these trips and making them memorable experiences. She is also a co-director of Freedom Retreat for Boys and Girls. She is now on to her next mission: Gullah Festival which is from May 22-25 in historic Beaufort, SC.

Aside from pristine African culture, there is so much Black history in Beaufort. It is like exploring the Underground Railroad. Reparations for Blacks started near Beaufort (Field Order No. 15). Aaron Alpeoria Bradley had a law office in Beaufort. He was imprisoned for advocating reparations. Dr. Martin L. King, Jr. did all of his civil rights planning in Beaufort at the Penn Center.

Before Black people allow themselves to be used by Bloomberg-Klein to further the illicit, mayoral control of public schools in New York City, they should study the history behind the struggle in Brown v. Bd. of Education. When Blacks first arrived on these shores in chains, they were prevented from acquiring an education. A Black person, well-versed in English, could manipulate himself or herself out of slavery. This African could author his or her own passport.

An empty wagon makes a lot of noise. An African without knowledge of history is an empty wagon. UAM emphasizes African history and culture. It starts with the weekly Wednesday night forums at Elks Plaza, 1068 Harriet Tubman (Fulton Street) nr. Classon Ave. in Brooklyn. Pen and pad are necessary. There is also Freedom Retreat for Boys and Girls, the only sleep-away, African-centered, summer retreat in the nation.

Critical issues for children are the acquisition of survival and social skills and bridging the summer gap. "Those who fail to learn from the lessons of history are condemned to repeat them." The lesson learned from the wrongful prosecution of the "Central Park 6" is that white predators acting under the color-of-law are still on the prowl in New York City. Black children are more attractive to white predators than zebras are to lions.

Public schools in New York City are pipelines to the prison-industrial complex. Survival skills are off-limits to Black children. Bloomberg is engaged in a bait and switch operation. Black children are encouraged to become more proficient at taking tests. The trick though is that taking tests for Black children and getting public employment for them is like mixing kerosene with fire. Even Black teachers have become dinosaurs in New York City.

Do not be tricked into trekking to the Distinct of Columbia on May 16. It is time for Black people to stop financing and endorsing their own oppression and to stop being excited by nursery rhymes and thirty-second soundbytes. Our children are our future. They are already becoming the walking dead. Mentacide leads to genocide.

We must remember and honor our revered ancestors. United African Movement will remember Dr. Khallid Muhammad on Wednesday, April 29 at 7:P30 p.m. at the Elks Plaza, 1068 Harriet Tubman (Fulton Street) nr. Classon Ave. in Brooklyn. Take the "C" train to Franklin Ave. Two blocks to Elks Plaza. There are many presentations of Dr. Khallid. One of them was his appearance on "Donahue". It will be shown on Wednesday night.

Click here to become a professional counselor in less time than you think.

--
" I would have been able to free more slaves if they only knew they were slaves." -Harriet Tubman

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28727|2009-04-30 11:45:11|Brotha Pruitt|Reparations / Racism prevents Spiritual Growth and Social Tolerance|
Greetings Beloved Ones,
Racism has a much greater impact on Black and White Americans than folks can possibly imagine. It is preventing blacks from organizing to expose the problem and it is preventing whites from learning the true value of blacks and the achievements they have provided for America s benefit. It is time for Black and White Churches, Organizations and Colleges to take a lead role in hosting and sponsoring Racism and Reparations Conferences. James 5: 1-11 tells the story of the powerful abusing the powerless and that it is God's will to see justice as it represents repentance in his eyes.
The only way we are going to reconcile wounds from racism and facilitate racial healing between blacks and whites is to start talking about the issue. If we continue to avoid the matter it will get worse. It is a shame to see blacks and whites avoid their duty to make America a better place, which starts by talking about racism from an educated point of view. It is as though church and community conscious folk are relieving themselves of their obligation to relay faults of the past to our present generation, so that problems of this nature wont continue to get worse.
Now that there is a Black President it should be easier for folks to talk about racism, but Obama is avoiding the issue as if he were afraid to admit he is black. That is just how serious and dangerous racism has become. Here we have a black man in the most powerful office in the world, acting as though race was never a problem, and that there is no need to discuss racism, even though it is bringing all of America down! Look people we know racism was and is a very serious problem in America , but nothing was ever done to reduce and/or eventually eliminate the problem. Since people never addressed the issue it has grown to inflict both physical and psychological damage. African-Americans need reparations to repair this damage.
As long as racism exist we can not have freedom, justice or equality. It seems as though racism has worked its way into the church and social settings as a type of spiritual warfare and social constraint, which are preventing blacks and whites from talking about racism. Racism is much more serious than you think. People take a look at the website we are using to expose the newest, yet silent and most deadly form of racism called the Black Matrix. It is causing massive damage to blacks and their desire for unity, peace and progress. And it is preventing blacks and whites from having open and honest relations that would present social and economic equality. Please read the information on this newest form of racism at www.divineblacktruth.org so you can realize the depths of damage done to African-Americans and the need for repair.

Brotha Pruitt
Reparations Leader and Chairman
Committee for African-American Reparations (CAAR) CA
Reparations Union Lobbying Association (RULA) NC
www.divineblacktruth.org

| 28728|2009-04-30 14:47:37|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Narmer: Dissecting the History of the Upper and Lower Egypt|
And the ancient egyptians were the 1st in recorded history(so far) to circumcise

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 4/30/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Narmer: Dissecting the History of the Upper and Lower Egypt
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 30, 2009, 11:04 AM

>>The figures
present in the palette are not in congruence with Egyptian people. They have curled hair and beards, and are circumcised. It is possible that some of warfare conducted against north around time of Narmer may have been directed against local population which had moved into the Delta from west. <<

I am not sure what this person is attempting to say in this section in his description of the people as "with curly hair and beards" suggestion this make them not Egyptian. The only thing that makes them the least "unusual" is the beard. This MIGHT have some significant but certainly nothing else. Could it be that this is STILL the stupid unjustified position of white people that Afrigyptians had STRAIGHT HAIR!!! ??? In spite of ALL THE ICONIC EVIDENCE THAT THEIR HAIR WAS KINKY TO CURLY???!!!
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> An Online Paper===

> ========== ========= ========= ========
> Narmer: Dissecting the History of the Upper and Lower Egypt
>
>
> It could be said that Egypt is the world's riches in terms of history of the ancient civilization. It is manifested with the presence of its relics and artifacts that stimulates and challenges the standards of our present time. Such traces of the past illuminate the history of kingship, religion, and the ancient way of life during those times. Expressed through monuments, sculptures and relief, its art is revealed to be very particular in form, unity, and standardization.
>
> Among the most sought-after topics in the study of the remnants of ancient Egypt is the reign of Narmer or Menes. This paper aims to provide data on the reign of King Narmer, The Upper and Lower Egypt, and the Narmer Palette.
>
>
>
>
>
> The Controversy of Menes
>
>
>
> claim that the Egyptian lists of kings provide the name `Meni' the first king of the First Dynasty (86). This name is the same with Menes, which is the Greek form of Meni as recorded in the early writings of Herodotus and Diodorus Siculus known as preservers of kings' legends. It is said that he is the first law-giver and the initiator of Egypt's civilization. He is also considered as creator-god for the creation of building in the first town. According to Herodotus, he drained the plain of Memphis and built the "White Wall" that surrounded united Egypt's capital. Right at the center of the town which was referred as Memphis in the Greek times, Menes built a temple to the god Ptah. With the Egyptian belief that the creation of the world was followed with the establishment of a line of god-rulers, it is succeeded by dynasties of semi-divine kings as evident in the reign of Menes the first human ruler.
>
> With the integration of Greeks, historians today identify Menes as the king of the united Upper and Lower Egypt (). Menes was regarded as the king, who linked the south and the north that is originally ruled by two separate powers known as the White Land and the Red Land. Menes, who is the ruler of the southern kingdom, completed the subjugation of the north. It was a continuation of the previous endeavors of his predecessors including King Scorpion. When he ruled the south as well as the north, Menes became the symbol of the unification of the two lands. In the same manner, as historians took deeper explorations to the traces of Egypt's civilization, Menes is identified as King Narmer. King Narmer is represented as the king who wears both the crowns of the Red and White Lands.

However, there have been worldwide argumentations over this identification because of several possibilities present at hand like Menes could be King `Aha.
>
> With the facts presented, modern controversy surrounding Narmer's identification with Menes, who was first ruler of Egypt documented by Herodotus and from evidence provided by the Palermo Stone as well as Diodorus Siculus findings, archaeological and literary evidence tends to suggest that the identification of Narmer and Menes as one person, founder of a united Egypt and first ruler of Dynasty 1, is correct ().
>
>
>
> King Narmer, the Upper and Lower Kingdoms, and the Red and White Crowns
>
>
>
> states that the lists of kings that reign Egypt were oftentimes unreliable, fragmentary, and contradictory. The records of Manetho, an Egyptian historian during the time of Ptolemy is considered the most complete. According to his records, the history of Egypt is divided into thirty dynasties from Menes up to the Greeks. Also, this was grouped into three great periods: the Old, Middle, and New Kingdoms. But the facts about Narmer remained fixed.
>
> Narmer has been sometimes referred to as Menes, known to have discovered the Ancient Egyptian civilization. He is the legendary King who united the Two Lands of Upper and Lower Egypt (). His reign, according to the Turin papyrus was uninterrupted until the time in power of Unas in 2345 BC . Narmer is the "most enduring icon" who is distinguished in wearing the crowns of the two lands (). He turned triumphant over north ().
>
> Generally, it is considered that King Scorpion, the predecessor of Narmer, was a southern ruler who took early steps to conquer the northern kingdom. When Narmer became the king, the process of unifying the Two Lands was successfully concluded ().
>
> Considered as the first pharaoh of all Egypt (), Narmer unified the two lands of Egypt. He held the two crowns red and white as a symbol his reign. He initiated the written history and dynasties of Egypt. He is considered as the "King of Both Lands and Bearer of Both Crowns". Further, he can certainly be identified with King Menes whom later tradition states was founder of dynastic Egypt ().
>
> After his reign, the Narmer Palette that presents significant facts about his dynasty was made. This is the prime source of all data used by historians and archeologists in making their generalization about the hidden mysteries of the ancient civilization of Egypt.
>

>
>
> The Narmer Palette: Uncovering the Mysteries of Narmer (Menes)
>
> With a height of 64 cm and a width of 42 cm, the Narmer Palette was said to have been conceived during the earlier part of the 1st Dynasty when King Narmer took the throne. According to , it was made years or decades after the reign of Narmer and deemed to be created as a commemorative monument (). The Palette was one of many discoveries located in the Temple of Horus in the city of Hierakonpolis. It was among several other palettes which also depicted the achievements of the Egyptian rulers.
>
> provided a comprehensive description of the said palette. To quote;
>
>
>
> "The palette, on the other hand, imitates the shape of the little tablets used for rubbing up the eye-paint, and is wrought from a slaty stone. It was formerly in the temple of the chief deity of Upper Egypt, the falcon-god Horus, at Hierakonpolis, where it had been placed to commemorate for all time the King of Upper Egypt's victory over the northern kingdom. On the one side we see the king, his head adorned with the tall white crown of Upper Egypt, wielding a club in his lifted right hand in order to strike down the foe who kneels before him. Opposite him is a symbolical representation which has its origin in the beginnings of Egyptian writing: the falcon-god, provided with a human arm, leads a man of Lower Egypt, symbolized by the papyrus-plants and a human head emerging from the ground, as a prisoner to the king. On the reverse of the palette the king, accompanied as on the front by a sandalbearer, is wearing the red crown of the conquered northern kingdom and is proceeding with his vizier and a number of standard-bearers to inspect the decapitated bodies of his foes lying on the ground ()."
>
>
>
> Today, the Narmer palette draws a significant amount of attention to historians. There are various controversies that are surrounding the legendary Narmer Palette. Among these are the following:
>
> Was this Narmer's victory over the north? Narmer Palette is often taken to be record of victory of southern kingdom over north ( ). But the controversy on whether Nermer's victory was embedded on the palette remains unsolved. There are findings that could be served the claim that it was indeed the victory over the north. But there are some possible contradictions because of the increasing evidence for gradual process of unification over some 200 years that makes an idea of single set-piece battle less likely to occur (). As stated by , there are certain conflicts during the emergence of unified state, as shown by evidence from other decorated palettes, but there were probably numerous battles and skirmishes as rival chiefs struggled for territory. Some of conflict recorded on palettes may have been directed against tribes from desert regions outside Nile Valley rather than being connected with internal disputes.

>
> Further, the question on were there outsiders involved in the process was answerable with the help of other palettes discovered. The Hunters palette provides evidences that there were outsiders that are involved (). The figures present in the palette are not in congruence with Egyptian people. They have curled hair and beards, and are circumcised. It is possible that some of warfare conducted against north around time of Narmer may have been directed against local population which had moved into the Delta from west. They were regarded as outsiders by the Upper Egyptian rulers. These claims are substantiated by the Narmer Palette.
>
> The imagery of Narmer Palette implies, "the king was believed to be one of the sources and guarantors of proper order, perhaps exemplified by proportional perfection" (). But the Narmer palette presented several issues, mysteries, and interpretations from historians. Among these are the following:
>
> The piece by piece study of to each component of the palette presented debate on ignoring the integration of the whole piece. It remains contradictory in many aspects. Scholars are still pondering on the issue on whether Narmer is the true unifier of Egypt, or whether Egypt was unified prior to his rule.
>
>
>
> Much of this doubt also comes from the fact that King Narmer did not appear in the ancient records, which signifies a great deal as Ancient Egyptians were very particular in their recording. It is certainly possible that King Narmer was an alias of Menes, hence recognized to be the first Pharaoh to have unified Egypt. To say that King Narmer has taken this role instead of King Menes would contradict with this recorded and determined history.
>
>
>
> own unique astronomical interpretation of the Narmer palette compliments the historical analysis posed earlier. According to Ancient Egypt had also relied on constellations and heavenly bodies. From her examination, compares Narmer to the Orion constellation. They shared the same position of the torso and the poise of the lifted hand
>
>
>
> To supply the Astronomical explanation even further is analysis that King Narmer has actual relations on the Autumn Equinox and Seth. This readily assumes Narmer as indeed, a king and a celestial counterpart as well as the anarchic God, Seth ().

>
>
>
> Another interesting interpretation may be that the Narmer Palette is an embodiment of the Sinai Peninsula, thus through this perception the palette serves to immortalize the conquest regarding this open area
>
>
>
> The Narmer Palette can be classified under two categories, historical and symbolic interpretation. The palette literally details the actual unification of Egypt shown from several iconographies. Thus, Narmer may be a king of Egypt, or a much minor ruler. But whatever those interpretations are, the facts still remain as an irony that the Narmer palette could solely serve the answer.
>
> ===
> HTP,
> Mahari
>

| 28729|2009-05-01 12:58:34|Ginger Daniels|A History Of US Secret Human Experimentation|

A History Of US Secret Human Experimentation
http://www.rense.com/general36/history.htm

1931 Dr. Cornelius Rhoads, under the auspices of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Investigations, infects human subjects with cancer cells. He later goes on to establish the U.S. Army Biological Warfare facilities in Maryland, Utah, and Panama, and is named to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. While there, he begins a series of radiation exposure experiments on American soldiers and civilian hospital patients.

1932 The Tuskegee Syphilis Study begins. 200 black men diagnosed with syphilis are never told of their illness, are denied treatment, and instead are used as human guinea pigs in order to follow the progression and symptoms of the disease. They all subsequently die from syphilis, their families never told that they could have been treated.

1935 The Pellagra Incident. After millions of individuals die from Pellagra over a span of two decades, the U.S. Public Health Service finally acts to stem the disease. The director of the agency admits it had known for at least 20 years that Pellagra is caused by a niacin deficiency but failed to act since most of the deaths occured within poverty-striken black populations.

1940 Four hundred prisoners in Chicago are infected with Malaria in order to study the effects of new and experimental drugs to combat the disease. Nazi doctors later on trial at Nuremberg cite this American study to defend their own actions during the Holocaust.

1942 Chemical Warfare Services begins mustard gas experiments on approximately 4,000 servicemen. The experiments continue until 1945 and made use of Seventh Day Adventists who chose to become human guinea pigs rather than serve on active duty.

1943 In response to Japan's full-scale germ warfare program, the U.S. begins research on biological weapons at Fort Detrick, MD.

1944 U.S. Navy uses human subjects to test gas masks and clothing. Individuals were locked in a gas chamber and exposed to mustard gas and lewisite.

1945 Project Paperclip is initiated. The U.S. State Department, Army intelligence, and the CIA recruit Nazi scientists and offer them immunity and secret identities in exchange for work on top secret government projects in the United States.

1945 "Program F" is implemented by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). This is the most extensive U.S. study of the health effects of fluoride, which was the key chemical component in atomic bomb production. One of the most toxic chemicals known to man, fluoride, it is found, causes marked adverse effects to the central nervous system but much of the information is squelched in the name of national security because of fear that lawsuits would undermine full-scale production of atomic bombs.

1946 Patients in VA hospitals are used as guinea pigs for medical experiments. In order to allay suspicions, the order is given to change the word "experiments" to "investigations" or "observations" whenever reporting a medical study performed in one of the nation's veteran's hospitals.

1947 Colonel E.E. Kirkpatrick of the U.S. Atomic Energy Comission issues a secret document (Document 07075001, January 8, 1947) stating that the agency will begin administering intravenous doses of radioactive substances to human subjects.

1947 The CIA begins its study of LSD as a potential weapon for use by American intelligence. Human subjects (both civilian and military) are used with and without their knowledge.

1950 Department of Defense begins plans to detonate nuclear weapons in desert areas and monitor downwind residents for medical problems and mortality rates.

1950 I n an experiment to determine how susceptible an American city would be to biological attack, the U.S. Navy sprays a cloud of bacteria from ships over San Franciso. Monitoring devices are situated throughout the city in order to test the extent of infection. Many residents become ill with pneumonia-like symptoms.

1951 Department of Defense begins open air tests using disease-producing bacteria and viruses. Tests last through 1969 and there is concern that people in the surrounding areas have been exposed.

1953 U.S. military releases clouds of zinc cadmium sulfide gas over Winnipeg, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Fort Wayne, the Monocacy River Valley in Maryland, and Leesburg, Virginia. Their intent is to determine how efficiently they could disperse chemical agents.

1953 Joint Army-Navy-CIA experiments are conducted in which tens of thousands of people in New York and San Francisco are exposed to the airborne germs Serratia marcescens and Bacillus glogigii.

1953 CIA initiates Project MKULTRA. This is an eleven year research program designed to produce and test drugs and biological agents that would be used for mind control and behavior modification. Six of the subprojects involved testing the agents on unwitting human beings.

1955 The CIA, in an experiment to test its ability to infect human populations with biological agents, releases a bacteria withdrawn from the Army's biological warfare arsenal over Tampa Bay, Fl.

1955 Army Chemical Corps continues LSD research, studying its potential use as a chemical incapacitating agent. More than 1,000 Americans participate in the tests, which continue until 1958.

1956 U.S. military releases mosquitoes infected with Yellow Fever over Savannah, Ga and Avon Park, Fl. Following each test, Army agents posing as public health officials test victims for effects.

1958 LSD is tested on 95 volunteers at the Army's Chemical Warfare Laboratories for its effect on intelligence.

1960 The Army Assistant Chief-of-Staff for Intelligence (ACSI) authorizes field testing of LSD in Europe and the Far East. Testing of the european population is code named Project THIRD CHANCE; testing of the Asian population is code named Project DERBY HAT.

1965 Project CIA and Department of Defense begin Project MKSEARCH, a program to develop a capability to manipulate human behavior through the use of mind-altering drugs.

1965 Prisoners at the Holmesburg State Prison in Philadelphia are subjected to dioxin, the highly toxic chemical component of Agent Orange used in Viet Nam. The men are later studied for development of cancer, which indicates that Agent Orange had been a suspected carcinogen all along.

1966 CIA initiates Project MKOFTEN, a program to test the toxicological effects of certain drugs on humans and animals.

1966 U.S. Army dispenses Bacillus subtilis variant niger throughout the New York City subway system. More than a million civilians are exposed when army scientists drop lightbulbs filled with the bacteria onto ventilation grates.

1967 CIA and Department of Defense implement Project MKNAOMI, successor to MKULTRA and designed to maintain, stockpile and test biological and chemical weapons.

1968 CIA experiments with the possibility of poisoning drinking water by injecting chemicals into the water supply of the FDA in Washington, D.C.

1969 Dr. Robert MacMahan of the Department of Defense requests from congress $10 million to develop, within 5 to 10 years, a synthetic biological agent to which no natural immunity exists.

1970 Funding for the synthetic biological agent is obtained under H.R. 15090. The project, under the supervision of the CIA, is carried out by the Special Operations Division at Fort Detrick, the army's top secret biological weapons facility. Speculation is raised that molecular biology techniques are used to produce AIDS-like retroviruses.

1970 United States intensifies its development of "ethnic weapons" (Military Review, Nov., 1970), designed to selectively target and eliminate specific ethnic groups who are susceptible due to genetic differences and variations in DNA.

1975 The virus section of Fort Detrick's Center for Biological Warfare Research is renamed the Fredrick Cancer Research Facilities and placed under the supervision of the National Cancer Institute (NCI) . It is here that a special virus cancer program is initiated by the U.S. Navy, purportedly to develop cancer-causing viruses. It is also here that retrovirologists isolate a virus to which no immunity exists. It is later named HTLV (Human T-cell Leukemia Virus).

1977 Senate hearings on Health and Scientific Research confirm that 239 populated areas had been contaminated with biological agents between 1949 and 1969. Some of the areas included San Francisco, Washington, D.C., Key West, Panama City, Minneapolis, and St. Louis.

1978 Experimental Hepatitis B vaccine trials, conducted by the CDC, begin in New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Ads for research subjects specifically ask for promiscuous homosexual men.

1981 First cases of AIDS are confirmed in homosexual men in New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco, triggering speculation that AIDS may have been introduced via the Hepatitis B vaccine

1985 According to the journal Science (227:173-177), HTLV and VISNA, a fatal sheep virus, are very similar, indicating a close taxonomic and evolutionary relationship.

1986 According to the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences (83:4007-4011), HIV and VISNA are highly similar and share all structural elements, except for a small segment which is nearly identical to HTLV. This leads to speculation that HTLV and VISNA may have been linked to produce a new retrovirus to which no natural immunity exists.

1986 A report to Congress reveals that the U.S. Government's current generation of biological agents includes: modified viruses, naturally occurring toxins, and agents that are altered through genetic engineering to change immunological character and prevent treatment by all existing vaccines.

1987 Department of Defense admits that, despite a treaty banning research and development of biological agents, it continues to operate research facilities at 127 facilities and universities around the nation.

1990 More than 1500 six-month old black and hispanic babies in Los Angeles are given an "experimental" measles vaccine that had never been licensed for use in the United States. CDC later admits that parents were never informed that the vaccine being injected to their children was experimental.

1994 With a technique called "gene tracking," Dr. Garth Nicolson at the MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, TX discovers that many returning Desert Storm veterans are infected with an altered strain of Mycoplasma incognitus, a microbe commonly used in the production of biological weapons. Incorporated into its molecular structure is 40 percent of the HIV protein coat, indicating that it had been man-made.

1994 Senator John D. Rockefeller issues a report revealing that for at least 50 years the Department of Defense has used hundreds of thousands of military personnel in human experiments and for intentional exposure to dangerous substances. Materials included mustard and nerve gas, ionizing radiation, psychochemicals, hallucinogens, and drugs used during the Gulf War .

1995 U.S. Government admits that it had offered Japanese war criminals and scientists who had performed human medical experiments salaries and immunity from prosecution in exchange for data on biological warfare research.

1995 Dr. Garth Nicolson, uncovers evidence that the biological agents used during the Gulf War had been manufactured in Houston, TX and Boca Raton, Fl and tested on prisoners in the Texas Department of Corrections.

1996 Department of Defense admits that Desert Storm soldiers were exposed to chemical agents.

1997 Eighty-eight members of Congress sign a letter demanding an investigation into bioweapons use & Gulf War Syndrome.

1998-2000 Health News Network
All Rights Reserved

http://www.healthnewsnet.com/humanexperiments.html

Windows Live Hotmail:more than just e-mail. Check it out.

| 28730|2009-05-01 12:58:36|pharoahisrael@yahoo.com|Re: [NorthAmexemObservers] Re: Fw: TO ALL THE KIDS BORN BETWEEN 1930|

Greetings and Shalom again,
Brother Elder Kael saadi El and The Islamic Moors.
First of all let me State Some Things for the Record. I am a NOT A ISLAMIC Educated Moor and I did Not begin my Studies that way either. I began my Studies in Judaism,Moorish/Afro-Judaism, to be exactand The Social Sciences under a certain Brotherhood and I was prepared for such a course from at home in the Deep South (Georgia) under some of the most Trying and Strenous circumstances.
Now let me address the Islamic Moors again.
1. Blood and Descent Remains the same throughout even when it is mixed.. If not then every Moor, White Person and Hispanic could claim to be any Tribe, Ethnic Group or Race of Peoples that they want to with no discern or discrimination. All Moors here are mixed in a sense from the Dark to the Browns but we are Still Black-A-Moors. We Are dealing with Both GENEAOTYPE AND PHENOTYPE HERE.!!!!!
Stop trying to distort things with some supposed Intellectualism and keep it simple.!
As for getting all up in arms against the House of The Moorish Dar Al-Islam I am way beyond that. However it is time that WE correct you all's distortions as well as that of The Caucasian Whites, Indians, Orientals and White Jews.!
2. One thing about Moorish Judaism it sure teaches a person a lot about him/herself and others and that is WHY EVEN OUR OWN ISLAMIC " BROTHERS " have tried to suppress it as well as Whites, Indians and Orientals.
TO CORRECT YOUR MIS-STATEMENTS ABOUT RELIGION (S) FROM THE HISTORICAL RECORDS MAN/WOMAN'S FIRST SPIRITUALITY (NOT RELIGION AS RELIGION AROSE LATER MOSTLY FOR SLAVERY,DIVISION, POWER AND CONTROL!) WAS AND IS VODUN AND MAN/WOMAN FIRST PHYSICS AND SCIENCE WAS AND IS ANIMISM.!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
As for Religion it is THOUROUGHLY Chronolized when Christianity, Islam, Buddhism, Brahmanism, Zoroastrianism, Jainism and Hinduism began. To try to purport that it is anything Else is DIS-HONEST.!
This can be PROVEN from the Historical Records Mr. Kael Anytime You and The Brother Islamic's Get ready too. I WILL BE MORE THAN HAPPY.!
One reason why Moorish/Black Israelites are so sucessuful under ANY negative circumstances and Conditions is that UNLIKE ARABICIZED, ORIENTAL ANDCAUCASIAN IN-DOCTRINATED NEGROES WE DO NOT DENY OUR TRIBAL VODUN ETHNIC ANIMIST ROOTS OF OUR ANCESTORS AND HONOR THEM JUST LIKE ALL OTHER INDIGENOUS EDUCATED AFRICANS AND ASIANS ANYWHERE.!!!!!!!
We also know how to deal with failures too without breaking up.!!!
3. You all (Black Muslims)sound JUST LIKE the Caucasians, Indian Arabs and Hindus, and

The Orientalists. Trying to Claim that Everything is Yours when WE can EASILY TRACE the Knowledge Put Forth BY ISLAMICS OF ALL TYPES TO EGYPT, SUMERIA, KANAAN, INDUS VALLEY, OLMEC AMERICA, ABORIGINAL AUSTRALIA AND THE MANY TRIBAL ETHNIC GROUPS SUCH AS IGBO, YORUBA, MASSAI, ZULU, EWE, TWA, AKAN, MANDE AND MANY OTHERS.!!!!!!!!!!!!

And You all accuse other Moors who are Indigenous,Democratic, Free-Thinkers, Rationalists and Scientific-Based of " Stealing Something from You All". Just like these other Slavocracies Your " Islam " is a Serious and Dangerous JOKE !!!

Also I did NOT say that ALL Black Peoples are Moor and Could Claim to be. I said Black Americans. The word Moor has even been distorted because it is a Tribal-Ethnic Term but was used also by Whites, Indian Arabs and Hindus to refer to Black Peoples in general because BLACK MOORS were the first people that they met in some regions.

The Moors of Andulusia (Moorish Spain) as Well as Those Of Mali, West Africa were NOT ORIGINALLY ISLAMIC AND ADOPTED IT AND THIS CAN BE PROVED FROM THE RECORDS. THIS IS THE REASON THAT MOORS WERE CONSIDERED INFIDELS BY BOTH ARAB ISLAMICS AND WHITE CHRISTIANS.!!!!!!!!

THIS WAS A MAJOR CAUSE OF THE WARS WITH THEM AND THE MURDER AND ENSLAVEMENT OF MOORS AND OTHER AFRICANS BY BOTH ARABS AND WHITES.!

BUT YOU ALL NEVER EVER LEARN , DO YOU .!!! ?????????

Black Americans Are MOOR, IGBO and YORUBA , mainly speaking with some Fon, Akan, Mande, Kongo and othersmixed in during Pre-Slave and Slavery Times.!

THE HISTORY OF THE MOORS, IGBO AND YORUBA (and that of other Indigenous African-Asian Groups) descends from the Times of Egypt, Sumeria, Canaan, Libya , Nubia and The Indus Valley into Western Africa (The Western Sudan) and thence to The Americas.!!!!!

There are a lot of other Afro-Asiatic Groups that are just Indigenous to where they are at on a particular continent as well.!

4. To Address your Claims about the ORIGINATION AND DEVELOPMENT OF MAN/WOMAN ON PLANET EARTH THE Anthropological, Archaeological, Ethnological, Tribal and Linguistic Records Shows and Conclusively PROVES THAT ALL BLACK PEOPLES ORIGINATED IN AFRICA (AND NOT ASIA AS YOU ALL INSIST AND ASIA WAS NOT ORIGINALLY ISLAMIC SO YOU DAMAGE YOUR OWN CLAIMS BY EVEN ASSERTING THIS.!!!) , THE NUBIAN WOOLLY-HAIRED AND THE DRAVIDIAN STRAIGHT-HAIRED AND THEN MIGRATED TO OTHER REGIONS OF THE PLANET

BEFORE, DURING AND AFTER CONTINENTAL DRIFT.!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

5. To Address your claims about DESCENT, PROPERTY AND BLOODLINES THE INDIGENOUS PEOPLES OF THE WORLD WHO ARE NOT ISLAMIC, CHRISTIAN OR HINDU are The ONLY ONES Anywhere who can make the Claim That ALL Things Descended from Our Ancestors Who Are The Original ADAMS AND EVES Of All Peoples and The Human Race Itselfso to speak.!!!

NICE TRY AGAIN BUT ISLAM AND OTHER IMPERIAL SYSTEMSWON'T GET IT, MYBROTHERS. **!!!

AND MAN/WOMAN (ESPECIALLY INDIGENOUS-BASED) IS ALL THINGS.!!!

MIND, SPIRIT, SOUL, BODY, CHEMISTRY, ENERGY, DNA, THE ELEMENTS, ETHER
AND NATURE. THIS IS WHAT JUDAISM, METAPHYSICS AND INDIGENOUS ANIMIST SCIENCE HAS TAUGHT ME. !!!!!!!!!!
NOT SOME RELIGIOUS FOOLISHNESS AS YOU ALL STATE THAT WE ARE ONE OR THE OTHER AS IF YOU CAN SEPARATE MIND, SPIRIT AND BODY OF A PERSON, GROUP OR RACE.!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
6. As for The MAFN (Moorish American Federal Nationalists) it has gone thru many phases and more than one name as Group Members can tell you. It is because We are A Indigenous, Democratic, Free-Thinking, Rationalists, Scientific-Based Group AND WE PUT NATIONALISM FIRST ABOVE ANYTHING TO HELP OUR PEOPLES BECAUSE THIS IS WHAT WE NEED. NOT NAMES, TITLES, POSITIONS, DICTATOR POLITICS, SLAVE RELIGIONS, DRUG GANGSTERS, OR ALL THAT MESS.
FURTHERMORE ISLAMISMS OF ALL TYPES, COMMUNISMS, CONFEDERATE CHRISTIANSAMERIKKA, MARXISMS, FASCISMS, RACISMS AND OPPRESSIVE SYSTEMS OF ALL TYPES HAVE LEFT US NO STANDARDS AND GIVEN US NO DIRECTIONS TO GO BY. IT IS LUDICROUS TO EVEN DREAM SUCH A THINGLET ALONE STATE IT.
ALL THESE SYSTEMS HAVE GIVEN US IS FUNCTIONAL INSANITY AND THE CAUSES OF ALL OUR PROMBLEMS FLOWS FROM THAT ONE ILLNESS AND THE IGNORANCES OF IT.
NATIONALISM HAS NOW BEEN RESCUED SO WE CAN USE IT TO ACTUALYY FREE OUR PEOPLES HERE PHYSICALLY AND SPIRITUALLY FIRST, FOREMOST AND ONLY.
NOW, THIS IS WHAT I HAVE LEARNED FROM NATIONALISM, PHYSICS, VODUN, METAPHYSICS, ANIMISM,AFRO-DEMOCRACY ANDJUDAISM (ATENISM).
Now, since that is allI have to say to my Moorish Islamic Brothers and SistersI must now get back to the work of The Program Plan of The Moorish American Federal Nationalists.
Thank You All Once Again and Have A Nice Day.!
Shalom Hetep.
MLP,
Moorish American Federal Nationalists,
MAFN, The Nationalists.
--- On Thu, 4/30/09, Tyrese Washington wrote:

From: Tyrese Washington
Subject: Re: [NorthAmexemObservers] Re: Fw: TO ALL THE KIDS BORN BETWEEN 1930-1979 WHO SURVIVED
To: NorthAmexemObservers@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, April 30, 2009, 6:12 AM

From: KAEL SAADI
To: NorthAmexemObserver s@yahoogroups. com
Sent: Wednesday, April 29, 2009 4:19:42 PM
Subject: Re: [NorthAmexemObserve rs] Re: Fw: TO ALL THE KIDS BORN BETWEEN 1930-1979 WHO SURVIVED

ISLAM,
LOL. LAMAR PERRYMAN wants to get all up in arms, WHY???? did I attack anyone in this post??? no. all I SAID WAS LEAVE OUR STUFF ALONE IF YOU DONT WANT TO BE ONE OF US. so obviously mr. perryman feels like this MEANS HIM and HIS PEOPLE TRYING TO RE-INVENT THE WHEEL. so lets see what he is talking about....

--- On Wed, 4/29/09, Lamar Perryman wrote:

From: Lamar Perryman
Subject: Re: [NorthAmexemObserve rs] Re: Fw: TO ALL THE KIDS BORN BETWEEN 1930-1979 WHO SURVIVED
To: NorthAmexemObserver s@yahoogroups. com
Cc: "Elder Kael Saadi" , "Group Members" , "Moorish Nationals" , "Deshon Way" , "Nebu Abba Re- El Bey" , "Amexem Indigenous Dweller" , "Dr. Mustafa Ansari"
Date: Wednesday, April 29, 2009, 3:35 PM

Now Elder Kael Saadi El,
LET US TALK REALISTICALLY,
BEING A MOOR AND BEING ISLAMIC IS TWO (2), TWO NOT ONE, TOTALLY DIFFERENT THINGS.
"KA"- ISLAM, I agree. but BLOOD is ONLY ONE PROPERTY assed from one GEENRATION to the NEXT, or have you forgotten what DESCENT is???
ISLAM IS A RELIGION,
"KA"- IT IS THE ORIGINAL RELIGIN OF MAN, or should I say the RELIGION OF T FIRST PHSYICAL MAN, taught to him by ALLAH.
AFRICAN/BLACK AMERICANS ARE MOOR, IGBO AND YORUBA BY BLOOD A GENERALLY REFERRED TO IN INTERNATIONAL TERMS AS INDIGENOUS MC OF AMERICA.
"KA"- the ASIATICS here are truly WEST AFRICANS, and thus MOORISH by BLLOI and thats why they can PROCLAIM THEIR NATIONALITY as MOORISH AMERICA they were not as you said and many other MOORISH TRIBES (which you have only nan few), they could not claim to be this NATIONALITY. and what was the RELIGION ove ENTIRE EMPIRE???? not a tribe here or there.....and what is the RELIGION OF tHEIR ANCIENT FOREFATHERS before they entered into AFRICA???? as ALL MODERN H BEINGS, called HOMO-SAPIENS by scientist, originated from ASIA, unless you believ all of those HUMAN BEINGS IN AFRICA TODAY are not HOMO-SAPIENS? ??
ISLAM IS A RELIGION, A BELIEF SYSTEM .!!!
"KA"- A DIVINE CREED, belief is only the beginning. but when you take any JOURNE start out with a BELIEF that the DESTINATION will be WORTH the RAVEL, then you FAILTHFULLY TRAVEL the PATH to it, then you ARRIVE, and BUILD THERE becoming the FRUTIION of THAT WRTHY DESTINATION to others to have BELIEF IN and work FAITHFULLY FOR. or have you not read ACT 2, the KEYS, and the cover of the HOLY KORAN OF THE MSTA MR. MOORISH-AMERICAN- FEDERAL-NATIONAL IST???? notice the words A MOORISH AMERICAN at the beginning.but are you ONE OF US, a MEMBER OF THE MOORISH AMERICAN NATION on the shores of NORTH AMERICA (HKMSTA 45)???

IT HAS NOTHING, NOTHING AT ALL TO DO WITH ONE'S BLOOD.!!! TO EVEN STATE SUCH A THING IS A STATEMENT OF FUNCTIONAL INSANITY.

"KA"- this is alos FALSE, if you ever UNDESTOOD the SO-CALLED PSUEDO SCIENCE OF METAPHYSICS which I saw you claim, yu would know that ALL THOuGHTS MADE MANIFEST BY A PERSON IS PERPETUALLY HIS PROPERTY FOR ALL ETERNITY, and this is transferred unto his BLOODLINE (CHILDREN, GRAND CHILDREN, ETC). and thus all INVETIONS, all DISCOVERIES, all things BUILT, all thinsg MADE, all things FOUNDED by this PERSON belong to HIS DESCENDANTS, tis is one of the great foundations of NATIONALITY, its not just about DNA STRANDS, I am sorry to tell you. when you PROCLAIM YOUR NATIONALITY its about alot more than BLOOD, as BLOOD is still FLESH and BONES, and MAN IS NOT THE BODY, BUT THE SPIRIT. and ISLAM is OUR SPIRITUAL PROPERTY so to speak. it was THE FIRST PROPERTY OF MAN (SPIRIT-MAN) , as TRUE ISLAM began in the MIND OF ALLAH, and then wwas taught to THE FIRST PHSYCIAL MAN and became his THOUGHTS which he manifestedIN THE PHYSICAL WORLD, founding the FIRST CIVILIZATION, which we call the ANCIENT CANAANITE NATION (not to be confused with the sons of canaan). this is all part of our GENETIC INHERITENCE, METAPHYSICS should have taught you that much.

YOU MENTION THE CAUSES OF WARS AND SLVERY AND HERE WE ARE SEEINGTHE REAL REASONS WHY THE MOORISH MOVEMENT IN AMERICA HAS BEEN HELD UP.!

IT IS BECAUSE MOORISH/BLACK MENARE JUST LIKE THE WHITES AND INDIANS TRYING TOUSE POLITICS, RELIGION, RACE, AND GENDER TO ENSLAVE EVEN OUR OWN KIND AND HAVE DESCENDED TO THE LOWER STATE OF THE ENEMIES AND IN SOME CASES EVEN WORSE.!!!!!!!!!!! !!!

"KA"- this is the LOWER-SELF MADE MANIFEST, but it is not POLITICS, RELIGION, SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS, or anything else that is the PROBLEM, it is some of the PEOPLE in those issues that are the PROBLEM. thats being REALISTIC. the REAL PROBLEM in our REAL WORLD, are the REAL PEOPLE doing the REAL HARM to other REAL PEOPLE. but yall keep trying to point at that which is NOT THE PROBLEM, instead of the real PROBLEMS. just like people that keep trying to BE A PART OF THIS MOVEMENT, but then dont want to do anything required in thiss MOVEMENT, so they try to start their own MOVEMENTS, over and over and over, like the MAFN....

I JUST TOLD THE BROTHERS AND SISTERS LAST WEEK ABOUT HOW CERTAIN GROUPS LIKE THE NAACP, NOI, MSTA AND OTHERS ARE TRYING TO HOLD BLACK PEOPLES HOSTAGE TO RACIAL IDEOLOGY, SLAVERY AND RELIGION AND THEN ACCUSING EACH OTHER WHEN YOU ARE ALL DOING THE SAME THING BETTER THAN THE WHITES AND INDIANS AND EVEN TOPPING THE FBI AND CIA.!

"KA"- and your DOING US A FAVOR RIGHT??? this demonstration by you is SO

HELPFUL RIGHT??? you MR. MOORISH AMERICAN but ATTACK THE MSTA, the ones who TAUGHT YOU THAT??? LOL. and we are the PROBLEM right??? for trying to SAVE YOU, and OUR PEOPLE ALL OVER THE WORLD. if thats slavery, then I am A SERVANT OF ALLAH and HIS WHOLE RACE, all day, every day.
BEING A MOOR IS JUST THAT BIOLOGICALLY AND GENETICALLY SPEAKING. YOU ALL HAVE NO SACRED RIGHT OR HOLD ON WHAT IS THE BLOODRIGHT OF ALL MOORISH/BLACK/ AFRICAN-AMERICAN S HERE IN THESE UNITED STATES AND THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE.
"KA"-if being a MOOR was simply about genetics, then genetically speaking YOU ARE AN ASIATIC, just like the ARABIANS, HINDUS, CHINESE, JAPANESE, KOREANS, UGANDANS, SOMALI, LEBONESE, PAKISTANIS, NATIVE AMERICANS, MEXICANS, COLUMBIANS, etc.HOLY KORAN CHAPTER 45.
IT IS NOT EVEN A ARGUMENT ABOUT IT WITH MANY INDIGENOUS - - - INDIGENOUS/Indigeno us/Indigent/ Ward/Legal- Incompetent
MOORS - - -Moors, thank you
BUT ANY MOORISH/BLACK AMERICAN PERSON CAN CLAIM OUR MOORISH BIRTHRIGHT AT ANY TIME AND PLACE AND IF YOU DON'T BELIEVE IT IT YOU JUST ASK THIS GOVERNMENT - - -What government? , THE U.N. - - -What is the point of asking any party associated with the privately owned and operated: oil-baron: concern = [UNITED-NATIONS] ?AND ALL LAWFUL AGENCIES ANYWHERE.!!!
"KA"- ACTUALLY THEY CANT, ANY BLACK PERSON CANNOT CLAIM TO BE A MOOR, only those who ARE GENETICALLY FROM THOSE NATIONS, thats why its called "NATIONALITY" . and then your source is the US GOVERNMENT?? ?? LOL. the same ones you just INSULTED??? are you really listening to yourself, or did your emotions get the best of you???? lets be REALISTIC. I know more about all of this than you do, from eevry angle, and I do not say that from ego or bragging,I just do. and there is no REAL RATIONAL WAY to explain USING ALL OF OUR STUFF (everything it takes to save OUR RACE and its NATIONS), but then INSULT US and CLAIM WE ARE INSANE???? so just stop trying to do YOUR OWN THING, and DO WHATS RIGHT.... if all of you would just come in and HELP US MAKE IT BETTER, it would take less than ONE YEAR TO SET THIS DIVINE MOVEMENT ALL OVER THE WORLD.
PEACE,
PKSE, GS.
MLP.,
Moorish-American Israelite,
Moorish American Federal Nationalists,
MAFN, The Nationalists.

--- On Wed, 4/29/09, KAEL SAADI wrote:

> From: KAEL SAADI
> Subject: Re: [NorthAmexemObserve rs] Re: Fw: TO ALL THE KIDS BORN BETWEEN 1930-1979 WHO SURVIVED
> To: NorthAmexemObserver s@yahoogroups. com

Date: Wednesday, April 29, 2009, 6:54 PM

ISLAM,
let us talk realistically. ...

--- On Wed, 4/29/09, deshon way wrote:

From: deshon way
Subject: Re: [NorthAmexemObserve rs] Re: Fw: TO ALL THE KIDS BORN BETWEEN 1930-1979 WHO SURVIVED
To: NorthAmexemObserver s@yahoogroups. com
Date: Wednesday, April 29, 2009, 10:02 AM

ITS NOT ABOUT RE-INVENTING THE WHEEL. YOU WANT EVERYBODY NATIONALIZE, BUT THEY HAVE TO BELIEVE IN GHOSTS AND SOME M JESUS THAT NEVER EXISTED.
"KA"- and yet the founder of the MDM/MSTA you keep qouting was no ghost, or spook, and he taught us THE TRUTH. maybe you should listen to him instead of I did not found any such MOVEMENT for your SALVATION. he did not teach you nationality, he has now TAKEN IT FROM YOU. he did not teach you your ancien divine creed, he has TAKEN IT FROM YOU. everything that was for your SALV TOOK FROM YOU.
THEREIN "LIES" THE PROBLEM. WE DONT NEED ISLAM TO NATIONAL DONT NEED TO BE MOSLEMS.
"KA"- if you want to be a Member of the MOORISH AMERICAN NATION on th NORTH AMERICA, you must be what we are. if not, then do not claim to be any Noone on this site has to be a moslem, or a member of the MAN, MDM, or MSTA make that choice then STAND BY IT 100%, dont use OUR LITERATURE, dont u TEACHINGS, dont USE OUR NAMES, dont use ANYTHING WE HAVE BROU THE TABLE that are OUR DISTINCTIONS. in STREET LANGUAGE, if you ar KING, dont wear their colors,fly their flag,use theri acronyms (ALKQN, ALKN, I not use their literature, etc. GO DO YOUR OWN THING, just like we are doing o everything we are doing BACK TO THE FOUNDER OF OUR ORGANIZATION tracing most of what you are doing BACK TO THE FOUNDER OF OUR ORGAN and he was ALLAHS PROPHET. if you are going to use HIS PROPHECIES, you acknowledging HIM as ALLAHS PROPHET. if you use any of his DIVINE INSTRUCTIONSyou are acknowledging him as ALLAHS PROPHET.
HIS-STORY AND OUR-STORY
"KA"- WE DONT HAVE A STORY, thats DWIGHTS IGNORANCE. we have on TRUTH.
TELLS US HOW ISLAM DESTROYED OUR PEOPLES FIRST. OUR BROTHE SISTERS IN THIS CONSCIOUS DAY AND TIME ARE SIMPLY NOT TRYIN(THAT.
"KA"- ISLAM hasnt DESTROYED any people. no one was destroyed from being their destruction came as it does in ever SOCIETY, from the LOWER-SELF being manifest through GREEDY, SELFISH, AVARICE, HATEFUL, etc. PEOPLE. AL

ARABIANS were never SLAVEHOLDERS, all EUROPEANS were never SLAVEHOL all EGYPTIANS were never SLAVEHOLDERS, all SUMERIANS were never SLAVEHOLDERS, all HINDUS were never SLAVEHOLDERS, etc. but SLAVERY EX
IN ALL OF THESE CIVILIZATIONS, religion is not the CAUSE, THE UNCONTROL DESIRES AND PASSIOSN OF MAN AGAINST MAN si the problem.

WITH THAT SAID, THE MOVEMENT WILL BE STAGNATED BECAUSE NO ONE WANTS TO COME INTO ISLAM. POINT BLANK!
"KA"- thats actually NOT CORRECT. I keep hearing the very few, who refuse to admit t whole truth say this, but the FACT IS, RELIGION IS GROWING ALL OVER THE WO its GROWING, especially ISLAM. ISLAM may soon well be the LARGEST RELIGION
THE WORLD. right now BUDDHISM is (or it was, the last time I checked). religion is n the movement STAGNATED, it BEGAN, has always been, and will continue to be ISLA the problem is as I stated above, its the CLAUDE D. GREENS, the JAMES LOMAXS, t CHARLES KIRKMANS, the IRA JOHNSONS. the JOHN GIVENS, the TIMOTHY DI the ELIAHU PLEASANTS, the TAJ TARIKS, the CHRLES MOSLEYS, etc. everyone t
RE-INVENT THE WHEEL. and cant seem to eeven keep itROUND, LOL.
SO IN THAT, WE CANNOT GROW THE MOVEMENT. THE RELIGIONIZED MIND DYING OUT! IF EYE SAY THAT EYE AM ERECTING A SUBORDINATE TEMPLE
WITHOUT ISLAM
"KA"- why erect a TEMPLE AT ALL??? a TEMPLE IS A RELIGIOUS BUILDING. loo up.... go build you a NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS, dont call yourself MOOR, EL, BE say ISLAM or I.S.L.A.M., dont QOUTE THE PROPHET OF ALLAH, go qoute the BAI PANTHERS, or the UNIA, or DWIGHT untill your voice goes HOARSE, thats fine with BUT GO DO YOUR OWN THING, and LEAVE OURS ALONE. or if you are going to OUR STUFF (everythig it takes to save a nation), then DOIT RIGHT, USE ALL OF IT, and use it to SAVE THE NATIONS...
AND WE WILL NOT USE THE OLD TEMPLE PRAYER AND WE WILL NOT CALL OURSELVES MOSLEMS, YOU BROTHERS WOULD TELL EVERYONE THAT TH
NOT A "REAL" MST AND GO ON YOUTUBE AND SLANDER ME FOR MY EFFO TRYING TO HELP CARRY OUT THE PROPHETS MISSION. AM EYE LYING? NO
"KA"- we wouldnt slander you, we would tell the truth, IT WOULDNT BE AN "MST", stands for MOORISH SCIENCE TEMPLE. all we would have to do is show everyone th KORAN QUESTIONARY, KEYS 5-17, and that would CONDEMN YOUR ACTIONS.
would you want to bee the MST if your notMOORISH???? GO DO YOUR OWN THING
DWIGHT claimed to be a FREEMASON and SHRINER, go start a LODGE...

THIS IS THE PROBLEM. THE DIVINE WARNINGS ARE FOR YOU WHO DID NOT CARRY OUT THE PROPHETS LAW.
"KA"- notice they are "DIVINE WARNINGS", what part of DIVINE, HOLY, PROPHET
DONT YOU UNDERTSAND?? ?? and if they are DIVINE WARNINGS AGAINST TH CLAIMING TO BE MOORS BUT DONT WANT TO FOLLOW THE DIVINE WAY O LIFE, THEN DOESNT THAT STILL INCLUDE YOU, AND EVERYONE ELSE USIN
OUR STUFF????

IF EYE COULD MAKE THE WHOLE COUNTRY NATIONALIZE EVEN AS MOOR WOULD REJECT ME. AND THAT IS CRAZY!
"KA"- no its not. WE ARE ALL MOSLEMS.if the PROPHET who you keep qouting wa walking the earth today, HE WOULD REJECT YOU, and tell you that your way is DEA know this becuase he did it to ones like yourself before.it is THE PROPHET who taught ISLAM, and taught us to be a "MOOR", "MOORISH", "MOORISH AMERICAN", you a MOSLEM, ecause you must also be practicing your FOREFATHERS DIVINE CREED
HE TAUGHT US was ISLAM (KEY 17).
"KA"- thats not crazy, thats only right. and if you dont nt to bee RIGHT WITH US, go be yourself SOMEWHERE ELSE where they think exactly like you... there are millions of y across america, go find them.
"KA"- its like me joining the KLU KLUX KLAN, and saying YOU DONT HAVE TO B EUROPEAN, saying stuff like WE DONT NEED WHITE POWER, saying stuff like WE DONT NEED THOSE SHEETS, saying stuff like IM GOING TO START MY OWN KI where ALL PEOPLE can be whatever they want, whenever they want. LOL. you cant od
MCDONALDS, COCA-COLA, THE CATHOLIC CHURCH, the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT, NOWHERE ON EARTH. if you ar to be part of something, then BE A PART AND PARTIAL OF IT 100%, or GO SOMEW ELSE AND DO THAT TO THE FULLEST.
"KA"- even the AMEXEM-MOOR- EMPIRE would reject you if you said you were one them, BUT NOT IN THE A-M-E, not UNDER THEIR EMPEROR, not a MOOR, have to do with AMEXEM, and you are against EMPIRES. what your saying does not make se GO DO YOUR OWN THING if thats what you want to do. or come do this RIGHT, beca are carrying out THE PROPHEST LAW, not DWIGHTS imagination.
PEACE,
PKSE, GS.

HOTEP
Neb Abba Re

"ONE DAY, NEW MOORS WILL COME IN WITH EYES WIDE OPEN, SEEING AND KNOWING, WHO WILL TAKE YOU OLD MOORS, SEAT YOU IN THE BACK, AND CA OUT MY LAW" - THE PROPHET, NOBLE DREW ALI.

This message is intended solely for the use of the individual and entity to whom it is addressed, a contain information that is privileged, confidential, and exempt from disclosure under applicable s federal laws. If you are not the addressee, or are not authorized to receive for the intended addre you are hereby notified that you may not use, copy, distribute, or disclose to anyone this message information contained herein. If you have received this message in error, immediately advise the by reply email and destroy this message.

--- On Wed, 4/29/09, KAEL SAADI wrote:

From: KAEL SAADI
Subject: Re: [NorthAmexemObserve rs] Re: Fw: TO ALL THE KIDS BORN BETWEEN 1930-1979 WHO SURVIVED
To: NorthAmexemObserver s@yahoogroups. com
Date: Wednesday, April 29, 2009, 1:15 AM

You chose to allow NorthAmexemObserver s@yahoogroups. com even though this message failed authentication

Click to disallow

| 28731|2009-05-02 19:38:41|Tafari khumbaka|Re: A History Of US Secret Human Experimentation|
there was a huge experiment in memphis tenn. in 1950's and may have lasted into the seventies using radio-active material on people who were in a hospital that was mostly used by the blacks of memphis called john-gaston hospital.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 4/30/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: [Ta_Seti] A History Of US Secret Human Experimentation
To: "Angela Lloyd" , "Beverly Houston" , "Cheryl Judson" , "Devon Thomas" , "DR Van Hook" , "Henry Burton" , "Jennifer Esteen" , "John Wilson" , jus4tdy@yahoo.com, ketchy007@sbcglobal.net, "Kevin Alexander" , "Kim Davis" , "Konata Khalfani" , mampouyak@yahoo.com, "nur07@comcast.net" , "Richard Judson" , "Sia Awakoaiye" , "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com" , "Tatiana Silver" , "Tracy Franklin" , "Patricia Gullette"
Date: Thursday, April 30, 2009, 7:13 PM

A History Of US Secret Human Experimentation
http://www.rense. com/general36/ history.htm

1931 Dr. Cornelius Rhoads, under the auspices of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Investigations, infects human subjects with cancer cells. He later goes on to establish the U.S. Army Biological Warfare facilities in Maryland, Utah, and Panama, and is named to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. While there, he begins a series of radiation exposure experiments on American soldiers and civilian hospital patients.

1932 The Tuskegee Syphilis Study begins. 200 black men diagnosed with syphilis are never told of their illness, are denied treatment, and instead are used as human guinea pigs in order to follow the progression and symptoms of the disease. They all subsequently die from syphilis, their families never told that they could have been treated.

1935 The Pellagra Incident. After millions of individuals die from Pellagra over a span of two decades, the U.S. Public Health Service finally acts to stem the disease. The director of the agency admits it had known for at least 20 years that Pellagra is caused by a niacin deficiency but failed to act since most of the deaths occured within poverty-striken black populations.

1940 Four hundred prisoners in Chicago are infected with Malaria in order to study the effects of new and experimental drugs to combat the disease. Nazi doctors later on trial at Nuremberg cite this American study to defend their own actions during the Holocaust.

1942 Chemical Warfare Services begins mustard gas experiments on approximately 4,000 servicemen. The experiments continue until 1945 and made use of Seventh Day Adventists who chose to become human guinea pigs rather than serve on active duty.

1943 In response to Japan's full-scale germ warfare program, the U.S. begins research on biological weapons at Fort Detrick, MD.

1944 U.S. Navy uses human subjects to test gas masks and clothing. Individuals were locked in a gas chamber and exposed to mustard gas and lewisite.

1945 Project Paperclip is initiated. The U.S. State Department, Army intelligence, and the CIA recruit Nazi scientists and offer them immunity and secret identities in exchange for work on top secret government projects in the United States.

1945 "Program F" is implemented by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). This is the most extensive U.S. study of the health effects of fluoride, which was the key chemical component in atomic bomb production. One of the most toxic chemicals known to man, fluoride, it is found, causes marked adverse effects to the central nervous system but much of the information is squelched in the name of national security because of fear that lawsuits would undermine full-scale production of atomic bombs.

1946 Patients in VA hospitals are used as guinea pigs for medical experiments. In order to allay suspicions, the order is given to change the word "experiments" to "investigations" or "observations" whenever reporting a medical study performed in one of the nation's veteran's hospitals.

1947 Colonel E.E. Kirkpatrick of the U.S. Atomic Energy Comission issues a secret document (Document 07075001, January 8, 1947) stating that the agency will begin administering intravenous doses of radioactive substances to human subjects.

1947 The CIA begins its study of LSD as a potential weapon for use by American intelligence. Human subjects (both civilian and military) are used with and without their knowledge.

1950 Department of Defense begins plans to detonate nuclear weapons in desert areas and monitor downwind residents for medical problems and mortality rates.

1950 I n an experiment to determine how susceptible an American city would be to biological attack, the U.S. Navy sprays a cloud of bacteria from ships over San Franciso. Monitoring devices are situated throughout the city in order to test the extent of infection. Many residents become ill with pneumonia-like symptoms.

1951 Department of Defense begins open air tests using disease-producing bacteria and viruses. Tests last through 1969 and there is concern that people in the surrounding areas have been exposed.

1953 U.S. military releases clouds of zinc cadmium sulfide gas over Winnipeg, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Fort Wayne, the Monocacy River Valley in Maryland, and Leesburg, Virginia. Their intent is to determine how efficiently they could disperse chemical agents.

1953 Joint Army-Navy-CIA experiments are conducted in which tens of thousands of people in New York and San Francisco are exposed to the airborne germs Serratia marcescens and Bacillus glogigii.

1953 CIA initiates Project MKULTRA. This is an eleven year research program designed to produce and test drugs and biological agents that would be used for mind control and behavior modification. Six of the subprojects involved testing the agents on unwitting human beings.

1955 The CIA, in an experiment to test its ability to infect human populations with biological agents, releases a bacteria withdrawn from the Army's biological warfare arsenal over Tampa Bay, Fl.

1955 Army Chemical Corps continues LSD research, studying its potential use as a chemical incapacitating agent. More than 1,000 Americans participate in the tests, which continue until 1958.

1956 U.S. military releases mosquitoes infected with Yellow Fever over Savannah, Ga and Avon Park, Fl. Following each test, Army agents posing as public health officials test victims for effects.

1958 LSD is tested on 95 volunteers at the Army's Chemical Warfare Laboratories for its effect on intelligence.

1960 The Army Assistant Chief-of-Staff for Intelligence (ACSI) authorizes field testing of LSD in Europe and the Far East. Testing of the european population is code named Project THIRD CHANCE; testing of the Asian population is code named Project DERBY HAT.

1965 Project CIA and Department of Defense begin Project MKSEARCH, a program to develop a capability to manipulate human behavior through the use of mind-altering drugs.

1965 Prisoners at the Holmesburg State Prison in Philadelphia are subjected to dioxin, the highly toxic chemical component of Agent Orange used in Viet Nam. The men are later studied for development of cancer, which indicates that Agent Orange had been a suspected carcinogen all along.

1966 CIA initiates Project MKOFTEN, a program to test the toxicological effects of certain drugs on humans and animals.

1966 U.S. Army dispenses Bacillus subtilis variant niger throughout the New York City subway system. More than a million civilians are exposed when army scientists drop lightbulbs filled with the bacteria onto ventilation grates.

1967 CIA and Department of Defense implement Project MKNAOMI, successor to MKULTRA and designed to maintain, stockpile and test biological and chemical weapons.

1968 CIA experiments with the possibility of poisoning drinking water by injecting chemicals into the water supply of the FDA in Washington, D.C.

1969 Dr. Robert MacMahan of the Department of Defense requests from congress $10 million to develop, within 5 to 10 years, a synthetic biological agent to which no natural immunity exists.

1970 Funding for the synthetic biological agent is obtained under H.R. 15090. The project, under the supervision of the CIA, is carried out by the Special Operations Division at Fort Detrick, the army's top secret biological weapons facility. Speculation is raised that molecular biology techniques are used to produce AIDS-like retroviruses.

1970 United States intensifies its development of "ethnic weapons" (Military Review, Nov., 1970), designed to selectively target and eliminate specific ethnic groups who are susceptible due to genetic differences and variations in DNA.

1975 The virus section of Fort Detrick's Center for Biological Warfare Research is renamed the Fredrick Cancer Research Facilities and placed under the supervision of the National Cancer Institute (NCI) . It is here that a special virus cancer program is initiated by the U.S. Navy, purportedly to develop cancer-causing viruses. It is also here that retrovirologists isolate a virus to which no immunity exists. It is later named HTLV (Human T-cell Leukemia Virus).

1977 Senate hearings on Health and Scientific Research confirm that 239 populated areas had been contaminated with biological agents between 1949 and 1969. Some of the areas included San Francisco, Washington, D.C., Key West, Panama City, Minneapolis, and St. Louis.

1978 Experimental Hepatitis B vaccine trials, conducted by the CDC, begin in New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Ads for research subjects specifically ask for promiscuous homosexual men.

1981 First cases of AIDS are confirmed in homosexual men in New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco, triggering speculation that AIDS may have been introduced via the Hepatitis B vaccine

1985 According to the journal Science (227:173-177) , HTLV and VISNA, a fatal sheep virus, are very similar, indicating a close taxonomic and evolutionary relationship.

1986 According to the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences (83:4007-4011) , HIV and VISNA are highly similar and share all structural elements, except for a small segment which is nearly identical to HTLV. This leads to speculation that HTLV and VISNA may have been linked to produce a new retrovirus to which no natural immunity exists.

1986 A report to Congress reveals that the U.S. Government's current generation of biological agents includes: modified viruses, naturally occurring toxins, and agents that are altered through genetic engineering to change immunological character and prevent treatment by all existing vaccines.

1987 Department of Defense admits that, despite a treaty banning research and development of biological agents, it continues to operate research facilities at 127 facilities and universities around the nation.

1990 More than 1500 six-month old black and hispanic babies in Los Angeles are given an "experimental" measles vaccine that had never been licensed for use in the United States. CDC later admits that parents were never informed that the vaccine being injected to their children was experimental.

1994 With a technique called "gene tracking," Dr. Garth Nicolson at the MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, TX discovers that many returning Desert Storm veterans are infected with an altered strain of Mycoplasma incognitus, a microbe commonly used in the production of biological weapons. Incorporated into its molecular structure is 40 percent of the HIV protein coat, indicating that it had been man-made.

1994 Senator John D. Rockefeller issues a report revealing that for at least 50 years the Department of Defense has used hundreds of thousands of military personnel in human experiments and for intentional exposure to dangerous substances. Materials included mustard and nerve gas, ionizing radiation, psychochemicals, hallucinogens, and drugs used during the Gulf War .

1995 U.S. Government admits that it had offered Japanese war criminals and scientists who had performed human medical experiments salaries and immunity from prosecution in exchange for data on biological warfare research.

1995 Dr. Garth Nicolson, uncovers evidence that the biological agents used during the Gulf War had been manufactured in Houston, TX and Boca Raton, Fl and tested on prisoners in the Texas Department of Corrections.

1996 Department of Defense admits that Desert Storm soldiers were exposed to chemical agents.

1997 Eighty-eight members of Congress sign a letter demanding an investigation into bioweapons use & Gulf War Syndrome.

1998-2000 Health News Network
All Rights Reserved

http://www.healthne wsnet.com/ humanexperiments .html

Windows Live Hotmail:more than just e-mail. Check it out.

| 28732|2009-05-02 22:30:27|Michael Bayman|C-3 Regarding The Swine-Flu|

From: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force: Central-Command: Communications-Unit

Unto:Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Customs-Force:Imperial-Investigation-Service:Intermediary

= Liaison-Officer: Commander: Demetrius-Ysra: El

Re: C-3: Report from the H-I-M: C.S.: 4: Commanding-Officer

Lieutenant-Commander: Khufu-Alim-Muhammad: Bey

12: Gud-Anna: 301,614: Amexem-Moor-Calendar

I.S.L.A.M.:

For the record, there is a confirmed: Swine-Flu: contraction therein the Customs-Station: 4:

Overwatch-Perimeter = no-involvement regarding the any of the Amexem-Moo-Empire:

Nationals therein the Ta-Memfis.

For the record, there is the ongoing-operations on the groundat the Customs-Station: 4 for the securing of the Nationals therein the C.S.: 4: Overwatch-Perimeter.H-I-M-: C.S.: 4: Commanding-Officer= awaiting the order for the elevation from the Stand-By unto the Ready-Alert = deploying for the check-points and deny-access: terra-forming for the securing of the Imperial-Government: Operations-Center and business-centers, preparations for the potential-quarantine: operations, et.al

There is a matter for the considering by the I.I.S. of thepresenting therein the C-3:below awaitingyour-decision for the forwardingengaging of the I.I.S. into the matter-thereinthus the dispatching of the report of the presenting-herein: unto-you.

Amexem-Moor-Empire: Department For The Customs

Imperial-Customs-Force

radioempire4@yahoo.com

Inter-Jurisdictional: Incident-Report (C-3)

Joint-Tasking-Operation: Yes___No_x__

Did A Foreign-Jurisdiction: Agent/Agency request assistance? Yes___No_x__

If Yes, How Was The Request Made And Who Authorized The Assistance?

Was There A Request For Assistant From A Foreign-Jurisdiction By An Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Government: Official/Agent? Yes___No x

If Yes, How Was The Request Made And By Whom?

Did The Incident Take Place Within The Amexem-Moor-Empire: Jurisdiction/

Dominions? Yes___No_x__

If Yes, Where Did The Incident Take Place?

Activity-Type

Surveillance: Yes___No_x__

Cross-Border/Jurisdiction: Arrest: Yes___No_x__ Within The

Amexem-Moor-Empire: Jurisdiction/Dominions:___Foreign-Jurisdiction___

Cross-Border/Jurisdiction: Detainment: Yes___No___x Within The

Amexem-Moor-Empire: Jurisdiction/Dominions:___Foreign-Jurisdiction___

Property-Search: Yes___No__x_If Yes, Describe-Property:

Property-Confiscation: Yes___No_x__ If Yes, By Whom And By What Authority?

Contraband-Confiscation: Yes___No_x__ If, Yes, Describe The Contraband, Identify Who Confiscated, And Specify Where It Is, How Much It Is, And How It Got To Where It Is:

Fugitive-Apprehension: Yes___No__x_ With-force: Yes___No_x__

Haz-Mat: Yes___No__x_

Activity-Description:

For the record, His-Health-Minister, His-Excellency: Grand-Noble: Bishara-Hafiz-El: Bey did complete the findings-of-fact and did render the decision = implementation and immediate-presentation of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Health-Advisory: 301,614:001 = H.A. : Swine-Flu = in the effect for the next: 15: Earthdays, effective-immediately from the date = 11: Gud Anna: 301,614.

For the record,there isthe simultaneous-implementing of the Travel-Advisory = T.A.: 301,614:001with the

H.A.: 301,614:001by the order from the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Minister For The Journey/Travel

And Transport, His-Excellency: Grand-Noble: Gary-Al-Ghani-El: Bey= cautions-against thenon-essential-travel by the any-means into theAnu-Al-Niburu, Emaka-Imani,Atiba-Al-Moab, and Moulay-Ismael: Districtsherein the North-Amexem along with the Khaldun, Makeeba, Omena-Al-Mentep, New-Amexem, Taharka-Abbasid, Al-Samut, Dan-Azoka, Mu-Duranki, Olmec-Lan and Garafuna: Districts therein the Central-Amexem for the duration of the T.A.: 301,614:001.

For the record, avoid/exercise-extreme-caution around the any of the party/parties =Natural-Persons and humans, that-have-recently-travelled unto the portions of the North-Amexemand

Central-Amexem of the specifyingin the T.A.: 301,614:001 with the I.C.F.: Post-Commanders having the authority for thedetaining, and quarantine of the any-party with the reasonable-suspicion of the exposure unto the Swine-Flu with the including of the denying of the access unto the Op-Centers and Amexem-Moor-Empire:

Imperial-Government:business-locations within the perimeter-overwatchof the Posts = under-their: respective-commands for the duration of the H.A.: 301,614:001 and T.A.: 301,614:001.

Immediate analysis is needed for possible connection to mysterious deaths and or murders of scientist worldwide in past Earthyears.

http://www.scribd.com/doc/9127256/Scientists-That-Have-Been-Turning-Up-Dead-Over-the-Last-Years-Suspicious

[The Death Of Dr. Wiley -] ['Murder, They Wrote']

[By Wayne Madsen]
[CounterPunch.org]

6-4-2

[The one person who was in a position to know about the origin of the anthrax sent through the U.S. Postal Service met with a very suspicious demise just a month after the attacks first began.

The reported "suicide" and then "accidental death" of noted Harvard biophysics scientist and anthrax, Ebola, AIDS, herpes, and influenza expert, Dr. Don C. Wiley, on the Interstate 55 Hernando De Soto Bridge that links Memphis to West Memphis, Arkansas, was probably a well-planned murder, according to local law enforcement officials in Tennessee and Arkansas.

After Wiley's friends and family discounted claims of suicide, the Memphis coroner concluded on January 14, 2002 that Wiley had "accidentially" fallen over the side of the bridge after a minor car accident.

Not so, say seasoned local law enforcement officials who originally assigned homicide detectives to the case. Memphis police claim there was only 15 minutes between the last time police had checked the bridge and the time they discovered Wiley's abandoned vehicle. They suspected Wiley was murdered. However, the local FBI office in Memphis stuck by its story that Wiley's death was not the result of "foul play." A Memphis police detective said, "the newspaper account of Wiley's accident did not clear anything up for me," adding, "everything attributed to the 'accident' could also be attributed to something else."

However, according to U.S. intelligence sources, Wiley may have been the victim of an intelligence agency hit. That jibes with local police comments that the FBI and "other" U.S. agencies stepped in to prevent the local Memphis police from taking a closer look into the case. Employees of St. Jude's Childrens' Hospital in Memphis, on whose board Wiley served, were suddenly deluged with unsubstantiated rumors that Wiley was a heavy drinker and despondent.

It is a classic intelligence agency ploy to spread disinformation about "suicide" victims after their murders. The favorite rumors spread include those about purported alcoholism, depression, homosexuality, auto-erotic asphyxia, drug addiction, and an obsession with pornography, especially child pornography.

According to the local police, it would have been easy to determine if Wiley was a heavy drinker and that would have shown up in his autopsy. The police also reckon that if Wiley left the Peabody under the influence, four hours later he should have been sober enough not to have fallen over the side of the bridge. Also, the bridge railing is high enough that event the 6' 3" Wiley could not have accidentally fallen over it without assistance. Add that to the fact that no one in the history of the bridge had fallen over the side.

Police also feel that even at 4:00 AM, there should have been someone else on the bridge who would have called the police about a person who was driving down the interstate the wrong way. Due to the fact that access is restricted to the bridge, one would have to have driven a long way on the wrong lane. Some police are of the opinion Wiley was stuck with a needle and that one reason he was dumped into the fast-moving Mississippi is that with the length of his time in the water (one month), the needle mark evidence would have largely disappeared.

And in yet another strange twist, on March 14, a bomb and two smaller explosive devices were found at the Shelby County Regional Forensic Center, which houses the morgue and Medical Examiner's Office that conducted Wiley's autopsy. Dr. O.C, Smith, the medical examiner, told Memphis' Commercial Appeal, "We have done several high-profile cases from Dr. Wiley to Katherine Smith (a Department of Motor Vehicles employee mysteriously found burned to death in her car after being charged in a federal probe with conspiracy to obtain fraudulent drivers' licenses for men of Middle East origin) but there has been no indication that we offended anyone . . . we just don't know if we were the attended target or not."

Knowledgeable U.S. and foreign intelligence sources have revealed that Wiley may have been silenced as a result of his discovery of U.S. government work on biological warfare agents long after the U.S., along with the Soviet Union and Britain, signed the 1972 Biological Weapons Convention.

A South African Connection
PB Ó
06/03/2002, 10:30:22

http://www.counterpunch.org/madsenanthrax.html

The death of Wiley may be also linked to revelations recently uncovered in South Africa. His expertise on genetic fingerprints for various strains may have led him to particular countries and their bio-warfare projects.

The South African media has been abuzz with details of that nation's former biological warfare program and its links to the CIA. The South African bio-chemical war program was code-named Project Coast and was centered at the Roodeplat Research Laboratories north of Pretoria. The lab maintained links to the US biowarfare facility at Fort Detrick and Britain's Porton Down Laboratory. The head of the South African program, Dr. Wouter Basson, was reportedly offered a job with the CIA in the United States after the fall of the apartheid regime. According to former South African National Intelligence Agency deputy director Michael Kennedy, when Basson refused the offer, the CIA allegedly threatened to kill him. Nevertheless, the U.S. pressured the new President Nelson Mandela to turn over the records and fruits of Basson's work. Much of this work was reportedly transported to Fort Detrick.

One of the South African's secret projects involved sending anthrax through the mail. Among the techniques that fell into the hands of the Americans was a method by which anthrax spores were, with deadly effect, incorporated on to the gummed flaps of envelopes.

Other South African bio-chemical weapons allegedly transferred to the CIA included, in addition to anthrax, cholera, smallpox, salmonella, botulinum, tularemia, thallium, E.coli, racin, organophosphates, necrotising fasciitis, hepatitis A, HIV, paratyphoid, Sarin VX nerve gas, Ebola, Marburg, Rift Valley hemorrhagic fever viruses, Dengue fever, West Nile virus, highly potent CR tear gas, hallucinogens Ecstasy, Mandrax, BZ, and cocaine, anti-coagulant drugs, the deadly lethal injection drugs Scoline and Tubarine, and cyanide.

Many of Dr. Wiley's family and friends doubt he would have committed suicide. The fact that he was certainly in a position to know about the origination of various viruses and bacteria -- which could have led to the U.S. government -- would have made him a prime target for a government seeking to cover up its illegal work in biological warfare.

Wiley's Anthrax Research

And Wiley had a significant connection to anthrax research. Wiley was not only a professor at Harvard but also conducted research at the Chevy Chase, Maryland Howard Hughes Medical Center, which does work for the National Institutes of Health. On October 1, 2001, just three days before the first reported anthrax case in Florida, the Hughes Center announced that a joint Harvard-Hughes team had identified a mouse gene that made mice resistant to anthrax bacteria. Although the media failed to play it up later, that research involved using Wiley's expertise on the immune system. The new gene, identified as Kif1C, located in chromosome 11 of a mouse, enhanced the defense systems of special immune cells, called macrophages, against the destructive effects of anthrax bacteria.

Wiley's was not the only suspicious death of a scientist with knowledge of biological defenses. Just three day before Wiley's death, Dr. Benito Que, a Miami Medical School cellular biologist specializing in infectious diseases, died in a violent attack. The Miami Herald reported Que died after "four men armed with a baseball bat attacked him at his car." A week after Wiley died, Dr. Vladimir Pasechnik, a former scientist for Biopreparat, the Soviet Union's biological weapons production factory, was found dead from an alleged stroke in Wiltshire, not far from Britain's Porton Down biological warfare center. Pasechnik had defected from the Soviet Union in 1989 and was an expert on the Soviet Union's anthrax, smallpox, plague, and tularemia programs. While at Biopreparat, Pasechnik worked for Alibek, who defected three years later. When he died, Pasechnik was assisting the British government's efforts in providing bio-defenses against anthrax.

Anthrax and Operation Northwoods

For those who disbelieve the possibility that the U.S. Government is the number one suspect in the anthrax attacks, they are directed to James Bamford's book on the National Security Agency, Body of Secrets. The book reveals that in 1962,Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Lyman Lemnitzer was planning, along with other member of the Joint Chiefs, a virtual coup d'etat against the administration of President Kennedy using acts of terrorism carried out by the military but to be blamed on the Castro government in Cuba. The secret pan, code-named Operation Northwoods, entailed having U.S. military personnel shoot innocent people on the streets of American cities, sink boats carrying Cuban refugees to Florida, and conduct terrorist bombings in Washington, DC, Miami and other cities. Innocent people were to be framed for committing bombings and hijacking planes. If John Glenn's liftoff from Cape Canaveral in February 1962 were to end in an explosion, Castro would be blamed. Plans were made to shoot down civilian aircraft en route from the United States to Jamaica, Guatemala, Panama, or Venezuela and then blame Cuba. The U.S. military also planned to attack Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago, both British colonies, and make it appear that the Cubans had done it in order to bring Britain into a war with Cuba.

So far, the Bush administration has refused to support a full and independent Congressional investigation into the events of September 11 and the later events involving anthrax. It seems it and the three-letter agencies the administration is so fond of praising, and funding, know more about the source of the anthrax attacks than they are admitting. If the saying, "where there's smoke, there's fire," has any basis of truth, the United States is in the midst of a raging inferno. Who will answer the fire alarm?

Wayne-Madsen = an: investigative-journalist, based in the New-Jerusalem misnomer = [Washington,D.C.]]

Analysis From The H-I-M: C.S.: 4

For the record,bythe alleged-natural-occurrence: viral-outbreak/attack =Swine-Flu, may be a contrived- cover for theeconomic-collapse and internal-conflict in the various-foreign-venues with the including not the limiting unto the corporate[U.S] and a clever-artificefor theimplementing of theovert: martial-law with the minimal-dissent/resistance from the corporate-franchisees/people-involved in the corporate states = [U.S.-Canada-Mexico] = pretext-to [Amero]. Interjurisdictional-threat unto the Amexem-Moor-Empire: National-Family, National-Collective: as-a-whole = general-health and economic-stability: both in the direct and indirect-manner =Primary-reason for the generation of the C-3: herein.

Cross-Border/Jurisdiction: Search/Frisk-Report

Time-Of-Action Pre-Search-Observation-Time Search/Frisk-Location

Cause-Of-Search/Frisk

Were Foreign-Jurisdiction-Staff/Agents On Scene? Yes___No__x_ If Yes, Identify Those Agents/Staff Including Rank And Command:

If The Action Took Place In A Foreign-Jurisdiction, Did They Request The Search?

Yes___No_x__Did Your Orders Authorize You To Conduct A Search Of A Foreign-National? Yes___No_x__ If Yes, Who Gave You That Order?

If The Action Took Place In The Amexem-Moor-Empire: Jurisdiction/Dominions, Did You Or Another Squad Mate or Scene-Commander Or Other Imperial-Customs-Force: Supervisor/Commanding-Officer Authorize Or Request A Search From A Foreign-Jurisdiction-Agent/Official? If Yes, Who Authorized Or Requested The Search?

Was Party Arrested? Yes___No_x__ If Yes, In What Jurisdiction?

Was Party Detained? Yes___No___If Yes, In What Jurisdiction?

Account Of The Arrest/Detainment:

Was Force Used?Yes___No___If Yes, In What Jurisdiction And By Whom?

Were service-arms or service-weapons involved? Yes___No___ If Yes, In What Jurisdiction, By Whom And Why Was It Discharged?

Was Contraband Found?Yes__No__ If Yes, In What Jurisdiction And By Whom?

If, Yes, Describe The Contraband, Identify Who Confiscated, And Specify Where It Is, How Much It Is, And How It Got To Where It Is:

Describe The Party Searched/Frisked (Including Nationality)

Description Of The Agent That Performed The Task (Including Nationality)

Current Location Of The Party-Arrested/Detained:

Arresting/Detaining-Agent:

I.C.F.: Agent I.C.F.: Agent-Rank and Service-I.D.#

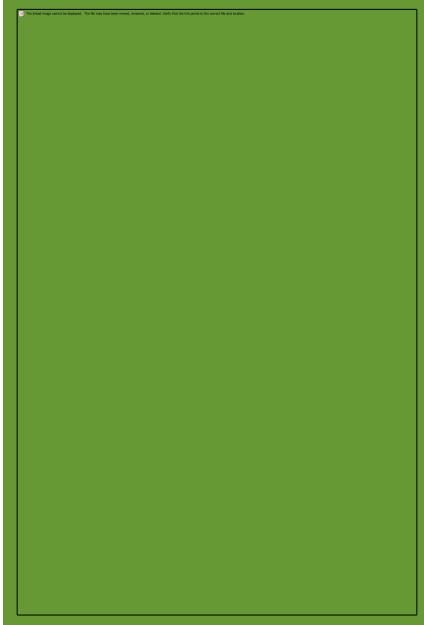
I.C.F.: Command: I.C.F.: Company-Commander:

_____ _____

Supervisor-Authentication Imperial-Customs-Force: Agent

Supervisor-Service: I.D.# I.C.F.: Agent: Service-I.D.#

Amexem-Moor-Empire



: Sovereign-Copyright-Number: SC06302002CE012

>Of the dispatching by theAmexem-Moor-Empire:

Imperial-Customs-Force: Central-Command: Communications-Unit

| 28733|2009-05-02 22:31:06|Rahel Kassahun|Africa Unbound: What Is Poverty?|

AfricaUnbound.com
the online magazine/forum you've been waiting for

We're proud to present to you

Africa Unbound Magazine

Issue 4

Featuring:

Dr. Michael B. Beckwith

Mahmood Mamdani

Philip Emeagwali

and much more...

If you haven't registered with us yet please do so; also helpus reach those who would like to join our community by forwarding this message to your friends.

Thank You

www.AfricaUnbound.com

Rahel Kassahun, Ph.D.
Founder and Editor-in-Chief Africa Unbound

Forward email

This email was sent to rahelkassahun@yahoo.com by rkassahun@africaunbound.com.
Update Profile/Email Address | Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribe | Privacy Policy.
Africa Unbound | P.O.Box 16836 | Arlington | VA | 22203

| 28734|2009-05-02 22:31:39|Shu Tefnut|Fw: Was Socrates African?|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Marc Washington
To: mjrob1914@comcast.net

Sent: Saturday, May 2, 2009 12:39:59 AM
Subject: Was Socrates African?

If you cannot see the page below, click the following link:

http://www.beforebc.de/all_europe/700_mediterranean/02-16-700-02.html

The linked image cannot be displayed. The file may have been moved, renamed, or deleted. Verify that the link points to the correct file and location.

Marc Washington

SITE: www.BeforeBC.de

SITE PURPOSE: Based on hard artefacts, hard evidence, to present a pictorial image of Africa s golden age before Columbus , before Christ, and before the spread of the Indo-European peoples.

An age where Africa itself was the world. Over 300 pages.

WEBSITE SUMMARY:
http://www.beforebc.de/AboutAuthorAndAfricanGoldenAge.html

DETAILED EXPLANATION OF SITE: http://www.beforebc.de/index2.html

.

.

.

.

.

.

_____ Information from ESET NOD32 Antivirus, version of virus signature database 4048 (20090501) _____

The message was checked by ESET NOD32 Antivirus.

http://www.eset.com

_____ Information from ESET NOD32 Antivirus, version of virus signature database 4048

(20090501) _____

The message was checked by ESET NOD32 Antivirus.

http://www.eset.com

| 28735|2009-05-02 22:31:52|Lamar Perryman|Lamar added you as a friend on MyLife!|

.

Lamar Perryman added you as a friend on MyLife.
Please confirm you know Lamar so we can connect you.

Do you know Lamar?

Yes No

Accept this connection and you'll see Lamar's profile and photos for free!
You'll also get access to the popular feature: Who's Searching for YOU?

MyLife Find everyone. All in one place.
You have received this email because a MyLife member sent an invitation to this email address.
For assistance, please refer to our FAQ or Contact Us.
Our Address: 2118 Wilshire Blvd., Box 1008, Santa Monica, CA 90403-5784
Copyright 2009 MyLife.com, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

| 28736|2009-05-04 07:11:05|Michael J Robinson|Check out Videos just posted by Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu on "Countering t|

Maat Hotep family,

I just posted videos on my Youtube Channel, www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914 ,of Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu that you will probably find very informative and useful.

Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu does an excellent workshop to a group of educators on the topic of a 3 book series he wrote entitled Countering the Conspiracy to Destroy Black Boys. This is a fascinating presentation. If you have African-American male children or relatives, you will definitely want to watch this one and take notes.

Did you know that there is almost the same number of African-American male children born each year as African-American female children? By the time they become 18 years old however, there is almost a 2 to 1 ratio of African-American females to African-American males. Find out why.

Did you know that our male children are virtual geniuses from pre-school to 3rd grade but start falling behind in the critical 4th grade? Many of them never recover. Find out why.

If you like my channel, please subscribe to it and let your friends know about it. It is quickly growing and we just hit 1,000 subscribers.

Also, tune into Dr. Ray Hagins online radio station at www.WBLR.com. He broadcast 24/7 and on Sundays and Wednesdays at 8pm he broadcasts live. He has a ton of information on African history, culture, current affairs, etc. Everyone can learn from his station regardless of how much you already know. You can view some of Dr. Hagins videos on my Youtube Channel as well including videos such as, The Verdict Is In, Egypt: The Source of the Bible and Kemetic Spiritual Preparation In Times of Crisis to name a few.

Thanks,

Bro. Michael

www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914

mjrob1914@comcast.net

mjrob1914@gmail.com

"Right knowledge corrects wrong behavior."
| 28737|2009-05-04 07:11:12|odhiambo okecth|G10 Women'Movement/Mutula Kilonzo| KBSF,

I think the call for sex boycott by the G10 was a serious issue.

Let us not look at it from the actual sex point of view. Let us focus on the failed leadership. Something had to be done to jolt the country into reality.

Time has come when we must all join hands, not in boycotting sex passe, but in using that call of boycott to drum the point home that yes, Kenya is suffering from a serious leadership crisis.

Just this morning, Hon Mutula Kilonzo has been appointed the Minister for Justice, National Cohesion and Constitutional Affairs. What message is the President sending to all of us? We can all go to hell for all that he cares!

We have serious issues of governance that need reform. And by appointing one person who just converted to be a democrat when Mzee Moi was voted out in 2002 is a big slap in the face of all those who have been agitating for change.

Mutula Kilonzo cannot preside over the changes that Kenyans want implemented. He is a son of status quo politics and he will use his position to entrench the bad political policies that our women folk are calling a boycott for. He used to interprete the law in a manner that suited Mzee Moi aand his cohorts, and he is still doing the same to suit Mzee Kibaki and his 40 wise men.

Mutula Kilonzo will never see the law as it is supposed to be in the best interest of Kenayns. That is the sad reality.

If the leadership can be this mute, can be this insensitive, then, all men must also call for a similar sex boycott to drum up support for real change.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Mon, 5/4/09, KBSF Foundation wrote:

From: KBSF Foundation
Subject: Re: G10 WOMENS' MOVEMENT - WHERE ARE THE MAJORITY, SLUM WOMEN.
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Date: Monday, May 4, 2009, 3:32 AM

Its pretty shameful for a group to shy away from the real problems and start for calling baseless protests. You just watch whether there will be any impact from this sex strike. Even if they call it for a whole year you will still see children being born. so if they are calling a strike to protest or reduce HIV/AIDS prevalence that is very okay. But now thinking of such petty issues is kiddish and hypocricy. The current crop of leadership will require practical steps which is the only language they can try to understand. I dare those G10 group to join us in street protest. Its coward that when we are in the streets they are nowhere to be seen. Too its pretty greedy that they can afford to waste resources holding press conferences when rural and slum womens are toiling like donkeys. That the language to be understood by endusers.
G10 YOU ARE VERY MUCH LOST AND YOU HAVE LOST THE FOCUS. YOU SHOULD EMPLOY STAFF TO MONITOR YOUR STRATEGIES OTHERWISE YOU CURSED AND SPOILT LOT LIKE THE PM AND THE PRESI.

--- On Wed, 4/29/09, jane anyango wrote:

From: jane anyango
Subject: Re: G10 WOMENS' MOVEMENT - WHERE ARE THE MAJORITY, SLUM WOMEN.
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Date: Wednesday, April 29, 2009, 9:59 AM

I strongly support the G10 Womens' Movement but as usual they have forgotten NGUVU MASHINANI, they are very very few that as usual their efforts may never yield any fruits. Are you people sure you are talking for all of us, all women or just few who are members of your organizations. The sad part is that they only involve us when they are looking for crowd. I wish our women up there would realize that they are GETTING NOWHERE WITHOUT US. Show us, Involve us and work with us.

We already made our statement under our tree at Kibera DO Open Grounds as Kibera Women for Peace and Fairness early today, and we are on again on 1st during labour day at the same venue. Comeon, let us work together as women not G10 who are not felt by majority of women, we can change our nation together, we join your call TUKO PAMOJA.

Anyango Jane
Kibera Women for Peace & Fairness

--- On Wed, 4/29/09, Robert Alai <alai.robert@gmail.com> wrote:

> From: Robert Alai <alai.robert@gmail.com>
> Subject: G10 WOMENS' MOVEMENT PRESS STATEMENT ON THE POOR STATE OF OUR POLITICAL LEADERSHIP- A CALL TO ACTION!
> To: "bidii afrika" <bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com>
> Date: Wednesday, April 29, 2009, 8:47 AM
> Please find attached
>
>
> >
>
>
>

| 28738|2009-05-04 07:11:30|noirfist|Re: The mysteries and the "secrets" of African secret societies|
Greetings,

Excellent post. However, you forgot African Martial Arts, for which see: africawrites.com

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Asar Imhotep wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
> (to address the following questions from the Ta-Seti Egyptian Mysteries thread)
>
>
>
> >>The Mysteries are for initiates and what is an > initiate is that like a priest? <<
>
> >>but if you are a "layman" what is his option a > layman?<<
>

> There has been much discussion about the □mysteries,□ secret > societies and initiation lately and I wanted to take the time to briefly add
> what little I know to this discourse with the intent of helping members of this > group understand better African wisdom centers, their methods of wisdom > transference, and their visionary ideals.
>
> Before we can address the two questions above, we must first > map African ideals in order to guide us successfully on our journey. I do not > intend to present pre-Western modes of thought and being as monolithic or as > possessing an agreed upon body of traditional theories and concepts. I however > cannot recognize familiar spirit that undergirds African centers of wisdom. I > will try to do my best to synthesize African traditional modes of thought and being > in a manner that preserves the essence of the ideals in which countless African > sages have developed over the millennia.
>
> According to African wisdom traditions, life is an unending > stream of mysteries that arms itself with dual weapons of life: day and night, > summer and winter, male and female, joy and grief. These dual weapons of life > are engaged in an eternal quarrel whose unceasing battles will rage until > everything flows together into one eternal river.
>
> African sages believe that it is these unceasing battles > that are responsible for the one thousand and one challenges that plague human > life on earth. To counter these challenges, African sages in various wisdom > centers have developed sacred arts as a means to find balance between these > dual weapons of life. By mastering these sacred arts, they empower the muntu (human being) to achieve the state > of perfection or enlightenment which is the ultimate goal of African sages. By > mastering these arts and reaching the state of perfection, man can therefore assume > their rightful place as children of the earth and children of the stars.
>
> The mastering of the sacred arts (verbal arts, ecstatic > arts, healing arts, and divinatory arts) helps the wisdom seeker to do the > following:
>
> 1.
> Unveil life□s mysteries
>
> 2.
> Celebrate life□s beauties
>
> 3.
> Stave off the syndrome of foolishness
>
> While mastering the sacred arts helps us to realize these > objectives on our quest of perfection, it also helps us to attempt to solve the > most fundamental human problems according to African wisdom centers: the dual hunger which fuels our eternal > quest for meaning. The sacred arts assist us in reinforcing the powers of the > mind in order to grasp the purpose of life.

>
> Charles Handy, an Irish philosopher quoting an African, claimed > that human beings experience two types of hunger: the lesser hunger and the > greater hunger. The lesser hunger deals primarily with the needs and wants of > life on Earth. Material things can satisfy this hunger. The greater hunger > however concerns the meaning of life. This type of hunger can only be satisfied > by looking for wisdom.
>
> African wisdom centers (misnomered □secret societies□) are > organizations that guide human beings in the pursuit of wisdom. They are > designed to help the human being to know life and provide tools to help stem
> the tide of its challenges. Wisdom centers, like spiders, create webs that give > meaning to all dimensions of existence. Wisdom centers conceive and construct > wisdom traditions. Wisdom centers are populated by wisdom seekers who are the > brightest minds of the community who provide enlightened leadership and guide > others in knowing life and stemming the tide of its challenges. Wisdom centers > serve three primary functions:
>
> 1.
> Are schools of enlightened leadership
>
> 2.
> Are schools of lifelong learning
>
> 3.
> Provide strategies to assist human beings in > their search for perfection
>
> Teaching and learning are at the heart of wisdom centers. In > African centers of wisdom, initiation is the method par excellence for helping > an initiate to know life and stem the tide of its challenges. Amadou Hampate Ba > informs us of the purpose of initiation:
>
> □The purpose of initiation is to > give the psychological person a moral and mental power which conditions and > aids the perfect and total realization of the individual.□
>
> In the book The > Religion, Spirituality and Thought of Traditional Africa, Zahan says:
>
> □Initiation in Africa must be > viewed as a slow transformation of the individual, as a progressive passage > from exteriority to interiority. It allows the human being to gain > consciousness of his humanity.□ (Zahan 1979:54)

>
> What we call □priests□ are actually the Nganga: the doers, healers, pillars, enlightened of the community > who know life to the highest degree and have mastered the use of tools which > allow them battle against the syndrome of foolishness. In the Kongo, among the > Luba especially, we call these walking pillars bantu basunguluke, which means the > most accomplished sages. We also call them the bakoles. These accomplished sages excel only with the help of other > sages. This is suggestive on many accounts. Primarily, this suggests that to > excel in wisdom, it is recommended that you keep company with other wisdom > seekers and share what you know between yourselves and teach other wisdom > seekers who follow you. This is peer pressure on the □light□ side of the force.
>
>
> You will know if you belong to a wisdom center if:
>
> 1.
> The center of wisdom is about unraveling the > mysteries of life
>
> 2.
> Explores the physical world in which human > beings live
>
> 3.
> And they look for ways and means that enable > human beings to achieve perfection
>
> Wisdom centers are primarily about education. Malidoma Some > in his book Of Water and the Spirit
> discusses education in Dagara wisdom centers as such:
>
> □Traditional
> education consists of three parts: enlargement of one□s ability to see, > destabilization of the body□s habit of being bound to one□s plane of being, and
> the ability to voyage transdimensionally and return.□ (Some 1994:226)
>
> Wisdom centers and communities are designed to help > fertilize our seeds of greatness. They introduce to us the sacred arts used to > help the muntu reach the state of perfection. The state of perfection is > embodied by three interrelated concepts:
>
> 1.
> Adversity quotient □ the will to tower above

> everything, including the self and the world
>
> 2.
> Imaging quotient the creative ability to > perceive the hidden layers of reality
>
> 3.
> And emotional quotient the visionary
> leadership that is achieved by sages
>
> >>but if you
> are a "layman" what is his option a layman?<<
>
> As part of your spiritual grand strategy I would suggest > that 1) you actively seek a living wisdom tradition that has clear ties to a > lineage that has its roots planted in the rich soils of the continent, and 2)
> do what the sages do: read tons of books on wisdom, practice sacred arts, build > a relationship with one s ancestors, sit at the feet of elders, grow a garden,
> and most importantly, create wisdom
> poetry.
>
> As a fellow wisdom seeker and poet, I cannot stress how > important and valuable wisdom poetry is in the spiritual grand strategy to achieve perfection.
Wisdom Poetry is
> the tool sages use to guide human beings along the path of wisdom. It is the > verbal art par excellence that uses proverbs to encode the insights, secrets > and teachings of initiations among wisdom traditions.
>
> Wisdom Poetry is not poetry of one s own feelings. It is > created by taking African proverbs of similar theme and weaving them together > to create a poem. It is a form of deep talk. It is a language of initiation. It > is a way to learn how to see the hidden realities of life. To demonstrate how > a wisdom poem is constructed, we will use the following African proverbs to > create a poem.
>
> .
> When
> the moon is not full, the stars shine more brightly. (Buganda)
>
> .
> Rain
> does not fall on one roof alone. (Cameroon)
>
> .
> If
> relatives help each other, what evil can hurt them? (Ethiopia)

>
> .
> The
> leader has ears, he does not have a mouth. (Kongo)
>
> .
> Nations
> are forests (Kongo)
>
>
>
> We would rearrange the proverbs to look something like this:
>
> Nations are > forests
>
> Rain does not fall on one roof alone
>
> If relatives help each other, what evil can hurt them
>
> therefore
>
> The leader has ears, he does not have a mouth
>
> When the moon is not full, the stars shine more brightly
>
> All of these proverbs, converted into a wisdom poem, deal > with the central theme of community. We can see how each of these respective > ethnic groups view the value of community and where the real leadership/power > resides. It is these types of lessons that await the wisdom seeker who wishes > to learn how to put together wisdom poetry.
>
> All in all, the mystery is finding the joy in the journey on > the road to knowing life. The joy is in finding the courage and the tools to > stem the tide of life□s challenges: finding cures for the syndrome of > foolishness. It is these critical issues wisdom centers seek to address by creating > an environment where one can fertilize their seeds of greatness. I hope that > you have found this article of value and in our next discussion, we will > discuss how the Spiritual Grand Strategy used by African sages to reach the > state of perfection (you have already been introduced to one: wisdom poetry).
>
>
>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep is a philosopher, activist, poet and author of > the book Esodus: Internal Reflections and > Conversations with the Sun. He is also the founder of the MOCHA-Versity Institute of Philosophy and > Research and the Houston Ministry of > Culture: http://www.houstonministryofculture.com

>
>
>
>
> Selected Bibliography
>
> Ba Hampate, Amadou (1972). Aspects de la civilisation africaine: personne, culture, religion. Paris:
> Présence africaine
>
> Fu-Kiau, K. Bunseki (2001). African Cosmology of the Bantu Kongo: Principles of Life and Living.
> Athelia Henrietta Press
>
> Imhotep, Asar (2008). Esodus:
> Internal Reflections and Conversations with the SUN. MOCHA-Versity Press
>
> Kajangu, Kykosa (2006). Wisdom Poetry. Blooming Twigs Books
>
> Kajangu, Kykosa (2005). Beyond the Colonial Gaze:
> Reconstructing African Wisdom Traditions. Unpublished PhD dissertation
>
> Neimark, Philip John (1993). The Way of the Orisa: Empowering Your Life Through the Ancient African > Religion of Ifa. Harper Collins
>
> Some, Malidoma (1994). Of > Water and the Spirit: Ritual Magic and Initiation In the Life of an African > Shaman. Penguin
>
> Zahan, Dominique (1979). The > Religion, Spirituality, and Thought of Traditional Africa. University of > Chicago Press
>
>
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimhotep.com
>
>
>

>
>
| 28739|2009-05-04 07:39:17|Peter Gray|Re: Lamar added you as a friend on MyLife!|
Thanks, Lamar/Marc.

However, when I clicked on "Yes", the link did not open, so I couldn't get to confirm. Maybe if you sent it again, it would work.

Peter Gray

To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com
From: pharoahisrael@yahoo.com
Date: Sat, 2 May 2009 12:54:50 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Lamar added you as a friend on MyLife!

.

Lamar Perryman added you as a friend on MyLife.
Please confirm you know Lamar so we can connect you.
Do you know Lamar?

YesNo

Accept this connection and you'll see Lamar's profile and photos for free!
You'll also get access to the popular feature: Who's Searching for YOU?

MyLife Find everyone. All in one place.
You have received this email because a MyLife member
sent an invitation to this email address.
For assistance, please refer to our FAQ or Contact Us.
Our Address: 2118 Wilshire Blvd., Box 1008, Santa Monica, CA 90403-5784
Copyright 2009 MyLife.com, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.
| 28740|2009-05-04 12:05:53|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Check out Videos just posted by Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu on "Counteri|
Dr. Kunjufu has been teaching about this problem for at least 20 years. Why is it that WE have not picked up on this extremely serious problem and done something substantial about it?
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Michael J Robinson" wrote:
>
> Ma'at Hotep family,
>

>
>
> I just posted videos on my Youtube Channel, www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914 , of > Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu that you will probably find very informative and useful.
>
>
>
>
> Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu does an excellent workshop to a group of educators on > the topic of a 3 book series he wrote entitled Countering the Conspiracy to > Destroy Black Boys. This is a fascinating presentation. If you have > African-American male children or relatives, you will definitely want to > watch this one and take notes.
>
>
>
> Did you know that there is almost the same number of African-American male > children born each year as African-American female children? By the time > they become 18 years old however, there is almost a 2 to 1 ratio of > African-American females to African-American males. Find out why.
>
>
>
> Did you know that our male children are virtual geniuses from pre-school to > 3rd grade but start falling behind in the critical 4th grade? Many of them > never recover. Find out why.
>
>
>
> If you like my channel, please subscribe to it and let your friends know > about it. It is quickly growing and we just hit 1,000 subscribers.
>
>
>
> Also, tune into Dr. Ray Hagins online radio station at www.WBLR.com. He > broadcast 24/7 and on Sundays and Wednesdays at 8pm he broadcasts live. He > has a ton of information on African history, culture, current affairs, etc.
> Everyone can learn from his station regardless of how much you already know.
> You can view some of Dr. Hagins videos on my Youtube Channel as well > including videos such as, "The Verdict Is In", "Egypt: The Source of the > Bible" and "Kemetic Spiritual Preparation In Times of Crisis" to name a few.
>
>
>
> Thanks,
>

> Bro. Michael
>
> <http://www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914> www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914
>
> mjrob1914@...
>
> mjrob1914@...
>
> "Right knowledge corrects wrong behavior."
>
| 28741|2009-05-04 13:01:37|Tafari khumbaka|sumsum, okara, esu|

Know Thy Self: Akan Perspective

Fri, May 1, 2009

Elders, Feature, Traditional Afrikan

by Nana Ankobeahene Oparebea Bekoe / Circle of Light Society - Akan Temple

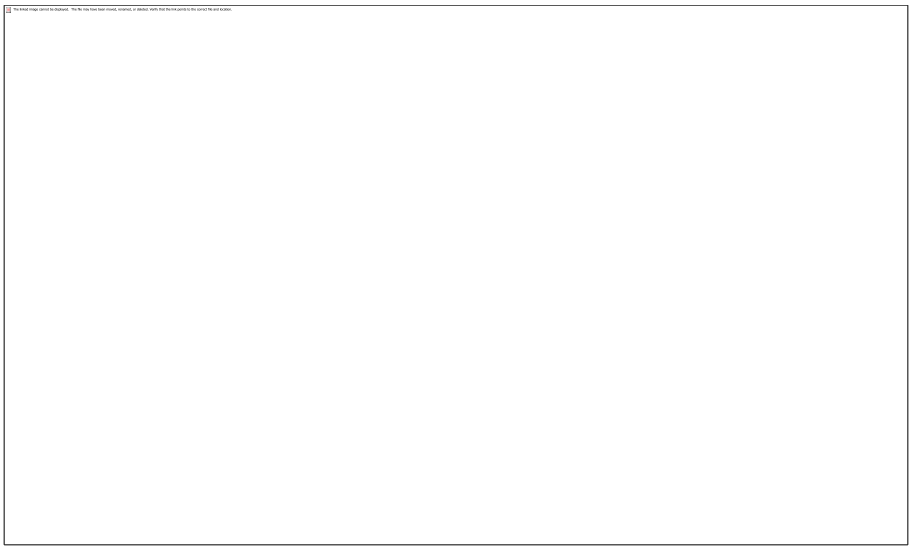
The exterior is the Self we most often show to others. It is through the exterior Self that we form our first opinion of others and that others form their first opinion of us. The exterior Self is trained to act and re-act according to circumstances that are deemed appropriate to the exterior existence. The exterior Self is referred to as the Sum Sum. The Sum Sum absorbs the energy impressions; images, knowledge of the world around us, these images and impressions are filled to the interior Self and imprint themselves on the interior Self creating an energy field that is finder in vibration and an exact duplicate of the physical Self. The exterior Self is also the Self that shields and or protects the interior Self. What is expressed or portrayed by the exterior Self does not always reflect the interior Self; the exterior Self may be protecting some part of the interior.

The interior Self is the Self most people keep to themselves. It is the interior Self that holds the true opinions and feelings and is not subject to open exposure like the exterior Self. Once the images and energy impressions of the exterior Self is absorbed by the interior Self an interaction begins. The interior Self is commonly in conversation with the exterior and holds the strongest opinions. The interior Self is constantly working toward the realization of a purpose. There may be a very harmonious relationship between the interior Self and exterior Self, or the exterior and interior Self may be in great battle with each other. The interior Self is referred to as the Okara or soul.

The origin of our purpose in life is embedded within the soul (Okra) or the interior Self. The interior Self is driven by a purpose or reason for being or what we call Nkrabea or destiny. The interior Self pushes or emanates this purpose to the exterior Self. The embedded mission (Nkrabea) of the interior Self greatly influences the direction of the exterior Self. The life experiences of the Sum Sum (exterior Self) absorbed by the interior Self contributes to the direction and manifestation of that purpose or Nkrabea.

At times, experiences of the Sum Sum distract or lead the Nkrabea through trials and tribulations that become obstacles for the Okra to overcome and grow toward the realization of the purpose.

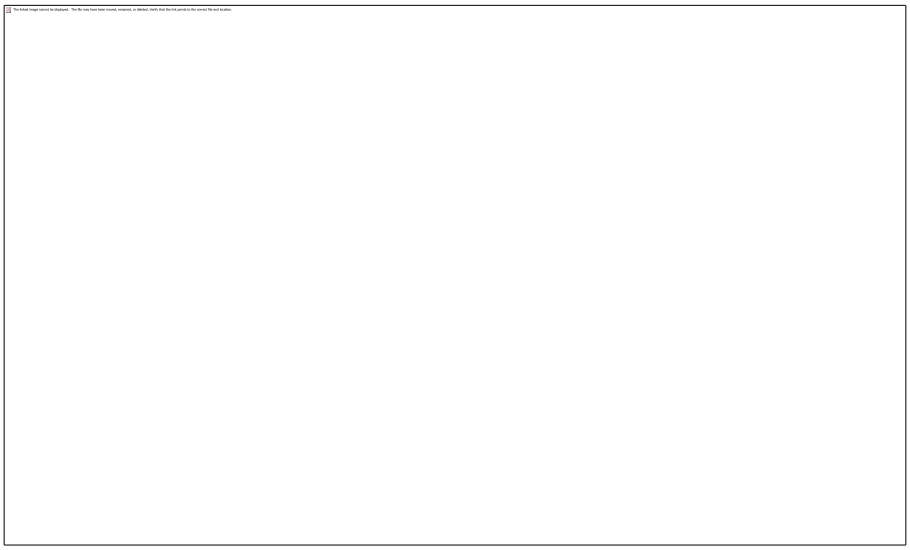
When the realization of purpose which is bestowed by Nkyankopon Kwame (God) to the interior Self becomes threatened, the Okra becomes embattled with the Sum Sum and the process of Self survival of the Okra, or survival of the original purpose, begins and continues by any means necessary. When the interior Self and the exterior Self are in harmony great bounds and leaps towards the realization of purpose are accomplished and there is great internal and external joy and success with all endeavors.
The core Self is the Self that is the essence of pure energy derived directly from Odumonkuma Oboade. This core energy is referred to as Esu. Esu is a portion of the divine universal energy. It is pure energy waiting for instruction, waiting to be born into purpose and encapsulated into the many forms of creation. Every individual, all things created contains its personal gift of Esu. Esu flows from the universal source of all energy that is Odomonkuma, into the interior of all things. Each of us is born with Esu and Okra. All things created by Odomunkuma contain Esu, but not all things contain Okra. The amount of Esu belonging to something can be seen and or felt with both the physical and spiritual eye.
This core Self (Esu) is what the interior Self needs to activate the Okra or soul and the Nkrabea or purpose. The Esu continuously pushes the Okra toward realization of that purpose. An example of this Esu in the exterior Self is what we often view as This person is so full of energy or so full of life. The brightness we experience around someone is the ability of the Esu to filter through from the core to the Okra flowing clearly out to the Sum Sum because the three are in some level of balance or agreement.
When the energy field is dull and sickness of body and spirit prevails, there is usually a blockage of the interior Selfs (Okra) ability to receive the divine energy of Esu to activate the Nkrabea given to the soul, or the interior purpose is blocked or clouded by the exterior experiences of the Sum Sum. Esu provides the necessary energy if it be the destiny of the person to Self heal physical, mental or spiritual disorders. Traditional healers tap into the Esu of medicine leaves, stones, bushes and trees, the rivers, the Earth and all things in order to heal the spiritual, mental and physical illness of others.
Nkrabea, Okra, Sum Sum, Traditional Afrikan



"this was taken from the site roots and rooted"
www.rootsandrooted.org/egun.htm

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28742|2009-05-04 13:25:39|millennium|the Eagle, the Condor, all our ancestors ...|
the Eagle and the Condor ...



http://www.ojaipost.com/2009/05/the_eagle_and_the_condor.shtml

for the youth of our Ahi Valley ...

about the Return of the Ancestors ceremonies just completed ... a story of sacred people, sacred cultures, sacred Mother Earth.

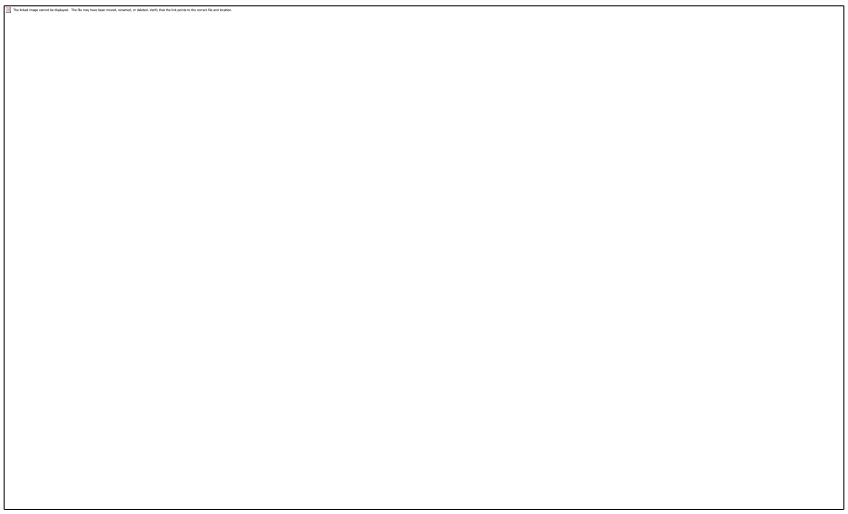
that we may all begin to understand the war against culture and divine nature orchestrated by our (less than evolved, less than conscious) corporate (and school) systems worldwide.



aho, Mitakuye Oyasin,
for all our sacred relations,

(guest article by GrandMother Twelve Deers ...)

> Return of the Ancestors Video
>
> I am just floored and awed to tears over this.. It's been raining since Friday morning now, and the tears that slip down my cheeks and fall gently to the ground match to soft sound of the rain falling down.

Great Spirit lays these calls upon my heart.. and I don't know why... Spirit just says, Maureen, run out to the street, throw out your flowers, say "look whose coming to town."

so I do.. like the 8000 Sacred Drums.. and like the Return of the Ancestors, how many years have I heard the call and said look whose coming, It's the Return of the Ancestors.. I bet it been since the very beginning... Last year South America they went, and I stood in the street and announced their coming.. even though they did not know who I was.. I still heard Adam Yellow Bird say thanks. and even though I have never been to a Return of the Ancestors Gathering my heart has always held them in sacred prayer for the work they came to do.. throw flowers and dance.. make the announcement. .

Then this year, like the others, I throw the flowers and dance and make the announcement Return of the Ancestors in Arizona... not thinking for a moment that this year would be any different.. Sacred prayer thrown to the wind.. give honor to where honor is due, and like a prayer release..

and that was what I thought I would do.... then to my dismay it turned out I would be made sacred witness through my dreams... first night, I wake up thinking I think I am at the Return of the Ancestors Gathering.. Second night electric blue dancer dancing through my dream.. and third night a little Sun Dancer comes dancing through...

And of course all who know know right after that we went deep into prayer, gonna shine that love through..

This weekend I have spent the whole weekend trying to watch the Return of the Ancestors on Utube.. I have dial up so a 9 minute video takes over 4 hours to download.. and there are at least 10 videos, so between grandchildren, and power outages and the Thunder Ones walking through, so the last one I watched today, well it took all this time to sink in.. this is why I stood in the street throwing my flowers, announcing the Return of the Ancestors were coming.

This is it,

this is it,

this is it,

I am sacred witness

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2l07aswI_g4&feature=related

~~~~~~~~~~~~~ ~~~~~~~~

here we are in the dance of our creation..

Posted by Millennium Twain on May 4, 2009 10:26 AM | Permalink | author bio |

..
| 28743|2009-05-04 17:32:56|Tafari khumbaka|zimbabwe|
http://allafrica.com/stories/200905040224.html
click above
~~~~~~~~~~~~~

economic recovery may be near!

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28744|2009-05-04 19:39:41|Ginger Daniels|A call for reparations on the world stage|
Durban conference attendees press demand for redress for horrors of the slave trade

GENEVA, Switzerland- Blacks in the Diaspora continued the mission initiated eight years ago at the World Conference Against Racism in Durban, South Africa, to demand the United Nations declare the trans-Atlantic slave trade a crime against humanity, opening the door for a continued push for reparations at the Durban Review Conference in Geneva, Switzerland, April 20-24.

A general view of the assembly hall during the opening of the Durban Review Conference (Durban II) at the European headquarters of the United Nations in Geneva, Switzerland, April 20. Photo: AP Wide World Photos

The United States has neverprior to Barack Obama and probably succeeding Barack Obamawill never put the issue of racism on the world stage. It is the responsibility of those of us in the United States to put it on the agenda.
Viola Plummer

Much of the discussion surrounding the weeklong conference and its activities focused on the non-involvement of several Western nations and reactions to the presence of Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad at the conference.

Neither of which are the main issue, according to the executive director of the December 12th Movement, Viola Plummer, based in Brooklyn, New York.

The United States has neverprior to Barack Obama and probably succeeding Barack Obamawill never, put the issue of racism on the world stage. It is the responsibility of those of us in the United States to put it on the agenda, said the fiery long-time activist and organizer.

Ms. Plummer said those who came were still highly committed to the cause. She was not surprised that the U.S. chose to stay away.

You cannot ask criminals to come and debate their criminality. They won't come. They shouldn't come. We cannot ask the criminals to define their criminality. The people have established unequivocallycrimes against humanity. We have established that! So what do we expect the criminals to do?

Ms. Plummer, a key member of the Durban 400, a group of Black people from the Diaspora who traveled to Durban, South Africa in 2001 to participate in the WCAR, said Black people have to stop allowing others, who don't have their best interests in mind, frame the debate on the question of slavery and reparations.

Blacks also have to remember what President Obama can and cannot do, she added.

The highly regarded Obama administration has come under sharp criticism for the lack of attendance at the Durban Review Conference. With his influential position, many believed President Obama, whose father is from Kenya, should have been on the forefront of bringing forth the issue of reparations for the trans-Atlantic slave trade. Some human rights organizations said the president could have challenged the views of Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, whose mere presence at the conference sparked protests from Zionist non-governmental organizations.

The nations who refused to participate in the Durban Review Conferencethe United States, Israel, Germany, Italy, Poland, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the Netherlandsbenefitted mightily from wealth generated by the slave trade and exploitation of Africa they refused to discuss.

(L-R) Deputy Ambassador Imad M Zuhairi of Palestine; Ambassador John Ukec Lueth Ukec of Sudan; Ambassador Dayan Jayatilleka of Sri Lanka

In an April 23 column in The Guardian, Seumas Milne wrote, They are all either European or European-settler states. Mr. Milne referred to the protest by 23 additional European states during President Ahmadinejad's speech as a white-flight walkout.

A panel discussionone of several events at the Durban Review Conference dealing with slavery and reparationsfocused primarily on solutions, arguing the fact that slavery was a crime against humanity and is no longer up for debate.

The trans-Atlantic slave trade was a global economic enterprise that effectively laid the financial foundation for every modern Western nation.

It is necessary that we all recognize slavery and the trans-Atlantic trade of Africans as crimes committed against humanity and that descendents of victims of such criminal practices, as well as the victims of colonialism and the genocidal exploitation applied to Indigenous peoples shall receive the reparation and compensation they deserve, said Dr. Rafael Bernal Alemany, first deputy minister of culture of the Republic of Cuba.

The issue of the trans-Atlantic slave trade and reparations was raised at the World Conference Against Racism in Durban, South Africa in 2001. Grassroots organizations, primarily consisting of Black organizations from the Diaspora, fought hard to get language referring to slavery as a crime against humanity in the final declaration document from that conference.

The ethnic and cultural aftermath of the trans-Atlantic slave trade involves 40-50 million descendants of enslaved Africans living in the Diaspora who lost the knowledge of their language, culture and specific origins. Even after chattel slavery ended, the United States' infamous Black Codes continued, which denied Blacks rights, as well as permitted outright physical abuse, rapes and lynching.

A variety of methods were employed by reparations advocates to represent the plight of displaced Africans in the Diaspora. Cikiah Thomas, co-chair of the Global Afrikan Congress, wrote a letter to UN High Commissioner Navi Pillay asking why more African NGOs were not given funding. Ms. Pillay admitted in an open session that funding came in late, however, she said they did their best to accommodate those in need of financial help, and were in fact successful in getting some African groups represented at the conference.

Legitimate U.S. concerns or smokescreen?

According to Atty. Roger Wareham of the International Association Against Torture, the excuses given by the U.S. for non-participation are smokescreens to avoid discussing the issue of reparations for the trans-Atlantic slave trade. He said the U.S. wants to rewrite history in order to reverse what took place in Durban, South Africa in 2001.

Reparations has always been the line in the sand as far as the West was concerned. They've used other issues to try to avoid it, said Atty. Wareham, who also participated in Durban 2001. Whatever excuse they have given, it is reparations that either led to their non-participation, their withdrawal or their obstructionist participation, he said.

Atty. Wareham also said the U.S. and the other Western nations are attempting to avoid historical responsibility for slavery, as well as facing criticism for their lack of action since WCAR in 2001. Reparations is a demand to repair the damage done by criminal activity, to make the victims whole and to implement their human right to development. The demand for reparations is also a call to eradicate economic exploitation and inequality, which are the roots of racism and a demand for the provision and direction of sufficient resources to allow the development of African descendants of the enslaved.

Atty. Wareham also pointed out the irony in the fact that slavery was a legal undertaking and a global system, yet efforts by groups seeking reparations through legal redress are prohibited by nations claiming sovereign immunity. The argument says if a municipality or a government is not sued within a certain amount of time, it cannot be sued unless the municipality or government gives its permission to be sued. This rarely happens, if ever, because the law was put in place to protect themselves, however, A crime against humanity has no statute of limitations, said Atty. Wareham.

Reparations advocates do not believe the trans-Atlantic slave trade can be compared to any other historical genocidal plan. They believe the slave trade, because of its duration, lasting over 310 plus years, stands alone as the worst crime against humanity, and to them, it defies logic that the topic has never been fully addressed on the world stage. Another error, according to reparations advocates, is the view that reparations can only take the form of monetary compensation.

The deaths suffered by European Jews at the hands of Adolph Hitler and his henchmen lasted less than 4 years, costing an estimated 6 million lives. The descendants of those who were lost have, however, received compensation in many different forms. There were also tribunals set up to bring those responsible for crimes against them to justice and monetary awards from corporations run by individuals who were not directly involved in the events or killings. Additionally, they were given a homeland in an area that previously belonged to others. Japanese Americans have also received compensation for the period of time when many were placed into internment camps during WWII.

In Indian culture, there is the caste system in which millions of people and several generations are affected. After India gained its independence from British rule in 1947, the new government of India attempted to rectify some of the past wrongs by officially banning the caste system and establishing scholarships and programs similar to affirmative action. Despite that, hard times continued. Possibly driven by jealous resentment, they were often attacked and assaulted by the members of the upper caste society, even after the laws were changed.

The Native Americans, the indigenous people of North America, lost untold numbers. Estimates say their population was reduced by 90 percent from an estimated 125 million largely by White explorers and settlers. There has been a move for financial compensation and land redistribution as well as a 2007 UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples. UN figures say there are around 370 million indigenous persons living in the world today, comprised of more than 5,000 distinct groups in more than 70 countries. Although close to 5 percent of the population, they represent 15 percent of the world's poorest, according to the UN.

Advocates say Western nations, led by the United States and Israel, by their non-participation are actually denying these facts, and their responsibility for some of the current issues across the globe.

Reparations advocates say ignoring the fact that it was the trans-Atlantic slave trade that built the modern world is an act of holocaust denial.

Holocaust denial is a crime in most countries, said U.K.-based activist Glenroy Watson, general secretary of the Global Afrikan Congress. Mr. Watson said the Western nations who boycotted the Durban Review Conference were in effect denying the Maafa and ignoring the millions of lives lost during the Middle Passage of the trans-Atlantic slave trade and its tragic aftermath. Mr. Watson told The Final Call that the Dutch government is opposed to any language even mentioning the slave trade.

This denial must be addressed very strongly and urgently, said Jan L□□of the World Against Racism Network, based in Switzerland. We cannot come out of this without taking this very seriously.

The trans-Atlantic slave trade was a joint and common European project. It can be considered as the first joint European project, a kind of forerunner to the European Union, noted Mr. L□□

Despite some efforts to bring awareness to the global impact of slavery, however, those actions are under constant threat of reversal.

There is a need for further research and combating the exceptional disinformation that is coming out now, especially the disinformation that says actually the Africans themselves were basically responsible for the trans-Atlantic slave trade' which is one of the most evil things that is being projected now, Mr. L□□noted.

In the final analysis, the outcome document of the Durban Review Conference included specific mention of the slave trade in Section 62 through 65 which reads:

62. Recalls that slavery and the slave trade, including the trans-atlantic slave trade, apartheid, colonialism and genocide must never be forgotten and in this regard welcomes actions undertaken to honour the memory of victims;

63. Notes actions of those countries that have, in the context of these past tragedies, expressed remorse, offered apologies, initiated institutionalized mechanisms such as truth and reconciliation commissions and/or restituted cultural artifacts since the adoption of the Durban Declaration and Program of Action, and calls on those who have not yet contributed to restoring the dignity of the victims to find appropriate ways to do so;

64. Urges all States to implement General Assembly resolutions 61/19, 62/122 and 63/5 on the trans-atlantic slave trade;

65. Urges States to combat impunity for crimes of genocide in accordance with international law, in particular the 1948 Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, and in this context urges States to cooperate with international criminal tribunals as stipulated in paragraph 82 of the DDPA.

Several nations were very outspoken in favor of reparations, most notably, Barbados, Bolivia, Cuba and Tanzania. Ambassadors from several nations such as the Libyan Arab Jamahiriya and Sudan clearly stood in favor. In general, a majority of the member nations, judging by the round of applause generated each time the concept reparations was mentioned by a speaker, were in favor.

Israel pressed successfully and appropriately pressed to have the Holocaust declared a crime against humanity for which, there is no statute of limitations, said Diana Ralph, coordinator for the Independent Jewish Voices of Canada. Slavery is also a crime against humanity, with devastating and ongoing consequences both for the people of Africa and descendents of slavery in the Diaspora, Ms. Ralph added.

As it is well documented, we in the Caribbean have had a history characterized by slavery. Our societies have been plagued by the negative effects of that crime against humanity, said Steven Blackett, minister of development and culture of Barbados. But we have emerged from that cruel and inhumane part of our history with the conviction that it is our shared responsibility to ensure that such a tragedy, in any permutation, never occurs again, he added.
We Africans have firsthand experience of the pernicious and the egregious impact of slavery, the slave trade, colonialism, apartheid and genocide, said Dr. Nkosazana Dlamini Zuma, minister of foreign affairs for South Africa.
Ambassador of Sri Lanka to the United Nations in Geneva, Dayan Jayatilleka, told The Final Call that he and his wife attended the Millions More Movement gathering in Washington, D.C. in 2005. He said despite the protests, walkouts and attempts to exert undue influence by outside lobbying groups, the Durban Review was a success.
It's not a good idea that the U.S. chose to stay out, but the conference was a success, said Amb. Jayatilleka, because there were some very powerful people who did not want this.
Now, after this victory in the battle, the reparations fight continues, with a move to establish a Permanent United Nations Forum for People of African Descent and preparation for the next conference Durban plus 10.
The authority of the 183 countries which approved the outcome document far outweighs the impact of the futile attempt to discredit the DDPA and this review conference by the cowardly withdrawal of a handful of countries, said Atty. Wareham.

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.
| 28745|2009-05-04 19:39:43|Lamar Perryman|Fw: [Moorish_Federal_Nationalists] Fw: [africanclassicalhistory] The|

--- On Mon, 5/4/09, Lamar Perryman wrote:

From: Lamar Perryman
Subject: [Moorish_Federal_Nationalists] Fw: [africanclassicalhistory] The 10 Commandments originated by an African king of Mesopotamia of 2100 BC?
To: "Group Members" , "Group Members"
Cc: "New Afrikan Independence"
Date: Monday, May 4, 2009, 9:17 PM

Greetings,
Bro. Marc. Thank You again for your outstanding work. One of the things that we here at MAFN concentrates on is accurate Political History/Political Science as a Bran the Social Sciences.
The fact that The Biblical Moses (whether he was Phr. Akenaten or The Pharonic High P Osar-Seph of On) compiled Ten Commandments (actually 613 Laws, Rules and Statutes covering ALL areas of Life but since Distorted by Religionists) from The Kanaanite, Sum and Egyptian Codes is factually verifiable.

The fact that THE ATEN as The Sun-God or Deity is Identifiable with YAH The Sun-God of Israel called " Yahwe " too is just as verifiable. The Aten Disk is depicted on almost all of The Israelites Crown Royals and numerous Regalia. Atenism and Judaism are simply One and The Same. The Canaanites and Israelites are The Same Peoples also.
Religious Officers, Agencies and Institutions have did well in covering up these facts just like Political Ones.
Again, Thanks For The Information.
MLP.,
Moorish American Federal Nationalists,
MAFN, The Nationalists.

--- On Mon, 5/4/09, Marc Washington wrote:

From: Marc Washington
Subject: [africanclassicalhistory] The 10 Commandments originated by an African king of Mesopotamia of 2100 BC?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Monday, May 4, 2009, 10:57 AM

TOPIC TITLE: The 10 Commandments originated by an African king of Mesopotamia of 2100 BC?

If you cannot see the web page below, click the following link:

http://www.beforebc .de/Related. Subjects/ Hammurabi.&.10.C/02-16- 500-00-03. html

The linked image cannot be displayed. The file may have been moved, renamed, or deleted. Verify that the link points to the correct file and location.

| 28746|2009-05-04 19:39:50|Shu Tefnut|AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE, PART II|
HOTEP/ GREETINGS.

BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:

AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE, PART II

when: May 21, 2009

where: The Mackey Group.
103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
in the basement,
Brooklyn, New York.
time: 8pm. sharp
direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.

THIS WILL BE A POWERPOINT PRESENTATION.

LECTURE CONTENT:

1. Developmentof Paleolithic cultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will review Odawan, Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.

2. Pre-dynasticperiods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to give a chronological perspective of the art and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.

3. Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
The foundation of art and architecture that reached its zenith in Egypt. As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture of theNubianswho in fact established the canons of art and architecture, and set theSTANDARD*for world art history.*

| 28747|2009-05-04 19:39:56|Ginger Daniels|Re: Check out Videos just posted by Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu on "Counteri|
Thank you so much for posting this. I readhis book and bought a couple for friends ofmine that have boys. I also think it is manditoryreading for black teachers whooftenbecome part of the conspiracy and end up hurting our boys more than they helpthem. Very interesting to find out about the ratio of black girl vs boy births and the ration of 2 to 1 women vs men at 18 years of age. I wish we as a people would wake up andacknowledge that there is an all out war onour young men right now. Perhaps then we would stop pointing the finger at them and realize that if they fail, we all fail. There is no civilizationwherethere are no men...

To: mjrob1914@comcast.net
From: mjrob1914@comcast.net
Date: Mon, 4 May 2009 02:00:33 -0400
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Check out Videos just posted by Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu on "Countering the Conspiracy to Destroy Black Boys" and "Developing Positive Self Images and Discipline in Children"

Maat Hotep family,

I just posted videos on my Youtube Channel, www.Youtube. com/mjrob1914 ,of Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu that you will probably find very informative and useful.

Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu does an excellent workshop to a group of educators on the topic of a 3 book series he wrote entitled Countering the Conspiracy to Destroy Black Boys. This is a fascinating presentation. If you have African-American male children or relatives, you will definitely want to watch this one and take notes.

Did you know that there is almost the same number of African-American male children born each year as African-American female children? By the time they become 18 years old however, there is almost a 2 to 1 ratio of African-American females to African-American males. Find out why.

Did you know that our male children are virtual geniuses from pre-school to 3rd grade but start falling behind in the critical 4th grade? Many of them never recover. Find out why.

If you like my channel, please subscribe to it and let your friends know about it. It is quickly growing and we just hit 1,000 subscribers.

Also, tune into Dr. Ray Hagins online radio station at www.WBLR.com. He broadcast 24/7 and on Sundays and Wednesdays at 8pm he broadcasts live. He has a ton of information on African history, culture, current affairs, etc. Everyone can learn from his station regardless of how much you already know. You can view some of Dr. Hagins videos on my Youtube Channel as well including videos such as, The Verdict Is In, Egypt: The Source of the Bible and Kemetic Spiritual Preparation In Times of Crisis to name a few.

Thanks,

Bro. Michael

www.Youtube. com/mjrob1914

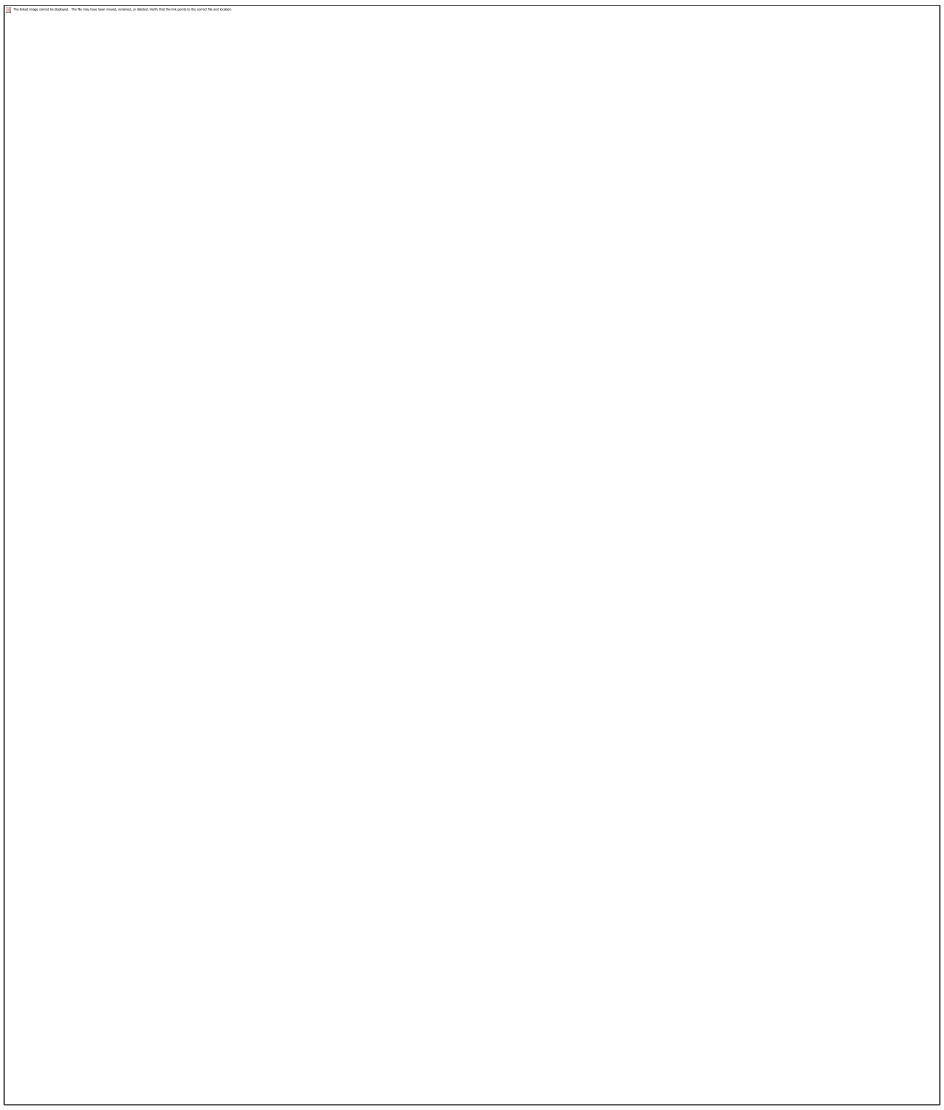
mjrob1914@comcast. net

mjrob1914@gmail. com

"Right knowledge corrects wrong behavior."

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.
| 28748|2009-05-04 19:41:39|Paul Kekai Manansala|The first European: 35,000 years ago|

The first European: Created from fragments of fossil, the face of our forbears 35,000 years ago



By David Derbyshire
Last updated at 9:53 PM on 04th May 2009

- Comments (0)
- Add to My Stories

Dressed in a suit, this person would not look out of place in a busy street in a modern city.

The clay sculpture, however, portrays the face of the earliest known modern European - a man or woman who hunted deer and gathered fruit and herbs in ancient forests more than 35,000 years ago.

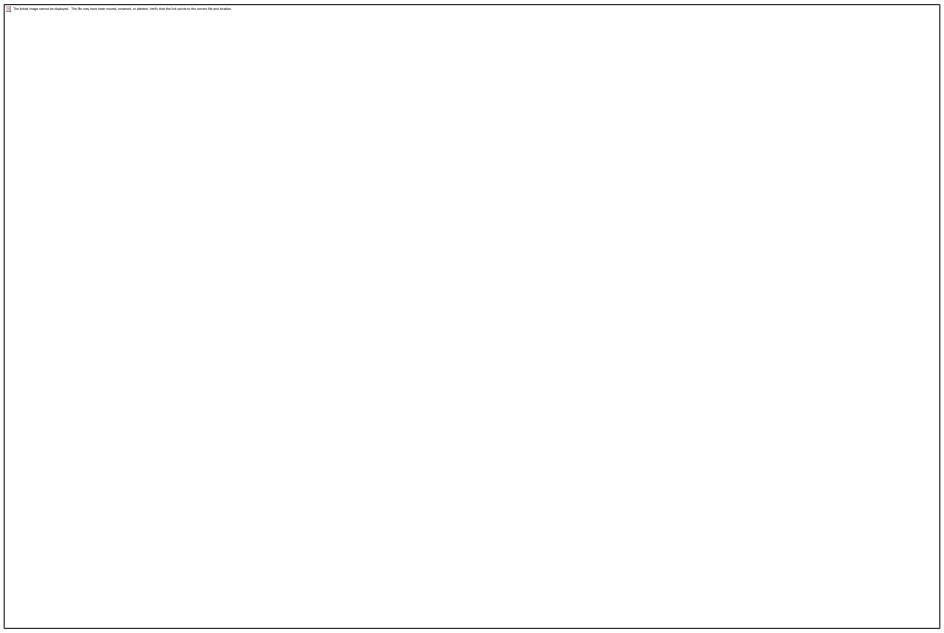
It was created by Richard Neave, one of Britain's leading forensic scientists, using fossilised fragments of skull and jawbone found in a cave seven years ago.

The first modern European: Forensic artist Richard Neave reconstructed the face based on skull fragments from 35,000 years ago

His recreation offers a tantalising glimpse into life before the dawn of civilisation. It also shows the close links between the first European settlers and their immediate African ancestors.

To sculpt the head, Mr Neave called on his years of experience recreating the appearance of murder victims as well as using careful measurements of bone.

It was made for the BBC2 series The Incredible Human Journey. This will follow the evolution of humans from the cradle of Africa to the waves of migrations that saw Homo sapiens colonise the globe.



The head has taken pride of place on the desk of Alice Roberts, an anthropologist at Bristol University, who presents the programme.

'It's really quite bizarre,' she told Radio Times. 'I'm a scientist and objective but I look at that face and think "Gosh, I'm looking at the face of somebody from 40,000 years ago" and there's something weirdly moving about that.

'Richard creates skulls of much more recent humans and he's used to looking at differences between populations.

'He said the skull doesn't look European or Asian or African. It looks like a mixture of all of them.

'That's probably what you'd expect of someone among the earliest populations to come to Europe.'

Anthropologist Alice Roberts with the model: 'I look at that face and think "I'm actually looking at the face of somebody from 40,000 years ago"', she says

The head is based on remains of one of the earliest known anatomically modern Europeans.

The lower jawbone was discovered by potholers in the Carpathian mountains in Romania in 2002. The rest of the fragments were found the following year.

The bones were carbon-dated to between 34,000 and 36,000 years ago when Europe was occupied by two species of human.

They were the Neanderthals, who had arrived from Africa tens of thousands of years earlier, and the more recent modern humans, also known as Cro-Magnons.

Although the skull is similar to a modern human head, it has a larger cranium, is more robust and has larger molars. Although it is impossible to work out the skin colour of the prehistoric hunter, it is likely to have been darker than modern white Europeans.

Fossil experts are also unsure if the skull was male or female.

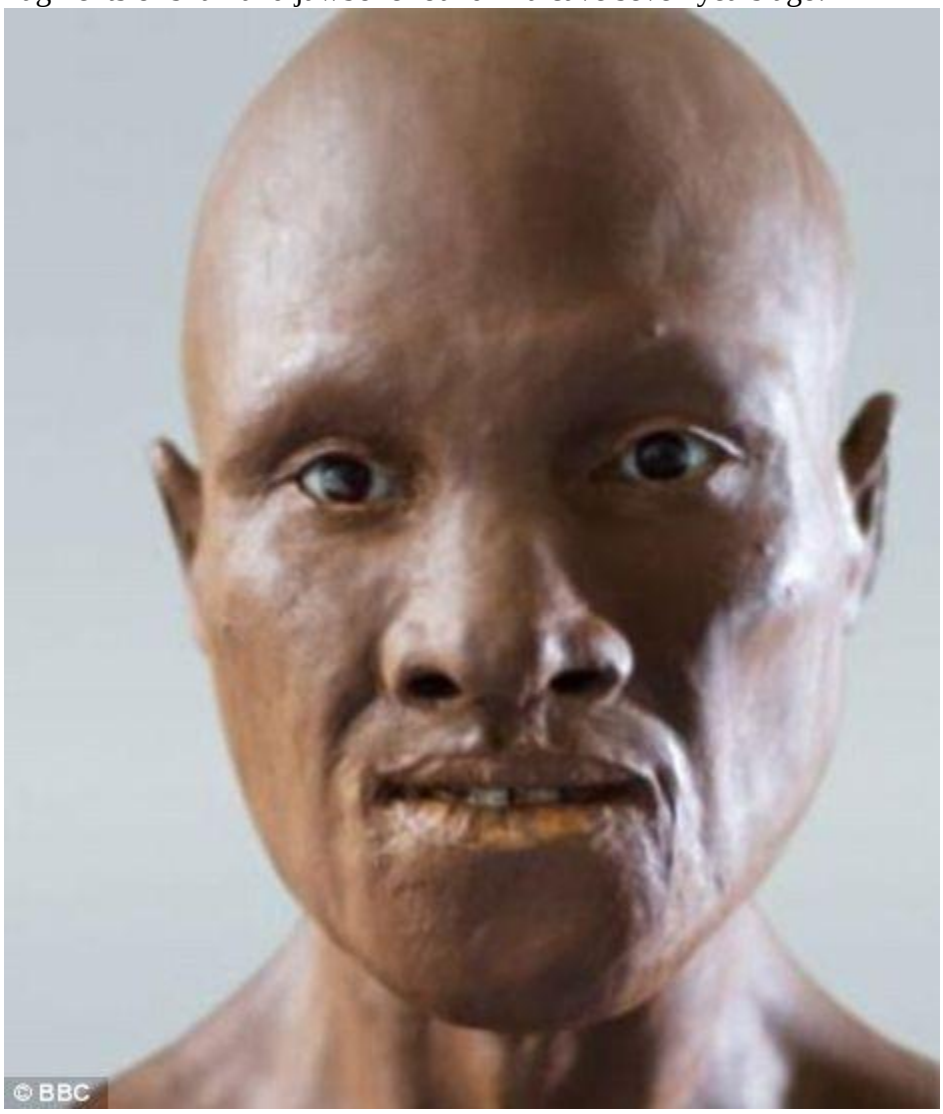
Many scientists believe that modern humans evolved in Africa 200,000 to 100,000 years ago. Our ancestors left Africa around 60,000 years ago and migrated around the world, replacing other branches of the family tree which had left the continent earlier.

The earliest modern Europeans were far from primitive. Living in huts and caves, they used stone tools and spears made from antlers, painted on the walls of their caves and made jewellery from shells.

The programme will be shown on BBC2 at 9.30pm on May 10.
| 28749|2009-05-05 06:39:01|Peter Gray|Re: The first European: 35,000 years ago|
Another great post, Paul. Do you know if there is any way to tune in to the program (via the internet) on BB2 on May 10? Thanks.

Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: pmanansala@sbcglobal.net
Date: Tue, 5 May 2009 02:40:34 +0000
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The first European: 35,000 years ago



The first European: Created from fragments of fossil, the face of our forbears 35,000 years ago

By David Derbyshire
Last updated at 9:53 PM on 04th May 2009

- Comments (0)
- Add to My Stories

Dressed in a suit, this person would not look out of place in a busy street in a modern city.
The clay sculpture, however, portrays the face of the earliest known modern European - a man or woman who hunted deer and gathered fruit and herbs in ancient forests more than 35,000 years ago.

It was created by Richard Neave, one of Britain's leading forensic scientists, using fossilised fragments of skull and jawbone found in a cave seven years ago.

The first modern European: Forensic artist Richard Neave reconstructed the face based on skull fragments from 35,000 years ago

His recreation offers a tantalising glimpse into life before the dawn of civilisation. It also shows the close links between the first European settlers and their immediate African ancestors.
To sculpt the head, Mr Neave called on his years of experience recreating the appearance of murder victims as well as using careful measurements of bone.
It was made for the BBC2 series The Incredible Human Journey. This will follow the evolution of humans from the cradle of Africa to the waves of migrations that saw Homo sapiens colonise the globe.
The head has taken pride of place on the desk of Alice Roberts, an anthropologist at Bristol University, who presents the programme.

'It's really quite bizarre,' she told Radio Times. 'I'm a scientist and objective but I look at that face and think "Gosh, I'm looking at the face of somebody from 40,000 years ago" and there's something weirdly moving about that.
'Richard creates skulls of much more recent humans and he's used to looking at differences between populations.
'He said the skull doesn't look European or Asian or African. It looks like a mixture of all of them.
'That's probably what you'd expect of someone among the earliest populations to come to Europe.'

Anthropologist Alice Roberts with the model: 'I look at that face and think "I'm actually looking at the face of somebody from 40,000 years ago"', she says

The head is based on remains of one of the earliest known anatomically modern Europeans.
The lower jawbone was discovered by potholers in the Carpathian mountains in Romania in 2002. The rest of the fragments were found the following year.
The bones were carbon-dated to between 34,000 and 36,000 years ago when Europe was occupied by two species of human.
They were the Neanderthals, who had arrived from Africa tens of thousands of years earlier, and the more recent modern humans, also known as Cro-Magnons.
Although the skull is similar to a modern human head, it has a larger cranium, is more robust and has larger molars. Although it is impossible to work out the skin colour of the prehistoric hunter, it is likely to have been darker than modern white Europeans.
Fossil experts are also unsure if the skull was male or female.
Many scientists believe that modern humans evolved in Africa 200,000 to 100,000 years ago.
Our ancestors left Africa around 60,000 years ago and migrated around the world, replacing other branches of the family tree which had left the continent earlier.
The earliest modern Europeans were far from primitive. Living in huts and caves, they used stone tools and spears made from antlers, painted on the walls of their caves and made jewellery from shells.

The programme will be shown on BBC2 at 9.30pm on May 10.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.
| 28750|2009-05-05 07:49:33|Ferg|Bantu in Ancient Egypt Part 2|
Attachments :
Greetings.
Please read the pdf on Bantu in Ancient Egypt part 2
Somo
| 28751|2009-05-05 08:38:44|Mahari Mengistu|Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|

Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert

AFP

-

DDP/AFP/File?The bust of Queen Nefertiti housed in a Berlin museum and believed to be 3,400 years old in fact is a?
59minsago

PARIS (AFP) ? The bust of Queen Nefertiti housed in a Berlin museum and believed to be 3,400 years old in fact is a copy dating from 1912 that was made to test pigments used by the ancient Egyptians, according to Swiss art historian Henri Stierlin.

Stierlin, author of a dozen works on Egypt, the Middle East and ancient Islam, says in a just-released book that the bust currently in Berlin's Altes Museum was made at the order of German archaeologist Ludwig Borchardt by an artist named Gerardt Marks.

"It seems increasingly improbable that the bust is an original," Stierlin told AFP.

The historian said the archaeologist had hoped to produce a new portrait of the queen wearing a necklace he knew she had owned, and was also looking to carry out a colour test with ancient pigments found at the digs.

But on December 6, 1912, the copy was admired as an original work by a German prince and the archaeologist "couldn't sum up the courage to ridicule" his guest, Stierlin said.

The historian, who has been working on the subject for 25 years, said he based his findings on several facts. "The bust has no left eye and was never crafted to have one. This is an insult for an ancient Egyptian who believed the statue was the person themself."

He also said the shoulders were cut vertically in the style practised since the 19th century while "Egyptians cut shoulders horizontally" and that the features were accentuated in a manner recalling that of Art Nouveau.

It was impossible to scientifically establish the date of the bust because it was made of stone covered in plaster, he said.

"The pigments, which can be dated, are really ancient," he added.

Stierlin also listed problems he noted during the discovery and shipment to Germany as well as in scientific reports of the time.

French archaeologists present at the site never mentioned the finding and neither did written accounts of the digs. The earliest detailed scientific report appeared in 1923, 11 years after the discovery.

The archaeologist "didn't even bother to supply a description, which is amazing for an exceptional work found intact".

Borchardt "knew it was a fake," Stierlin said. "He left the piece for 10 years in his sponsor's sitting-room. It's as if he'd left Tutankhamen's mask in his own sitting-room."

Egypt has demanded the return of the bust discovered on the banks of the Nile since it went on display in 1923, depicting a stunning woman wearing a unique cone-shaped headdress.

One of Berlin's prime attractions it will move into its own hall at the newly renovated Neues Museum when it reopens to the public in October.

===

HTP,

Mahari

| 28752|2009-05-05 08:58:31|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: The first European: 35,000 years ago|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Peter Gray wrote:
>
>
> Another great post, Paul. Do you know if there is any way to tune in to the program (via the internet) on BB2 on May 10? Thanks.
>

Unfortunately no, Peter. They might put the show on their site after the initial broadcast.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28753|2009-05-05 08:59:00|odhiambo okecth|Due consultation that wasted my time|
Ken,

Let us give credit where it is due.

The law talks of due consultations between the President and the Prime Minister.

They did that yesterday and I was a victim of that due consultation. I happened to be around Sheria House, along Parliament road at 11.25am when the two men had finished their consultations and had to leave for Ngong.

The road was closed 10 minutes before they took off and I became stuck at that point. I had to count the vehicles Kibaki and Raila were using to go planting trees.

37 big fuel guzzlers in total. Some had only the driver in. That is the cost of due consultation.

For how long will Kenyans pay for this kind of wastage as the people go hungry?

For how long will Kenyans pay for this kind of wastage as our children suffer want?

For how long will Kenyans pay for this kind of wastage as our girls go without sanitary towels?

These consultations should be to the benefit of Kenyans.

I would want to hear that President Kibaki invited Rt Hon [Saved] Raila, for a discussion on reducing their salaries, that of MPs, that of Aaron Ringera, that of Judges for the benefit of our children and mothers, brothers and sisters in IDP camps.

I would like to hear that President Kibaki invited the Saved Raila for a discusion on the plight of the poor; cost of basic commodities, cost of electricity and such like things.

But due consultations that interfear with my freedom of movement, just because 2 people in 337 cars are passing is a waste of our time and taxes.

Odhiambo T Oketch
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Mon, 5/4/09, Kennedy Oduor <masumbi2000@yahoo.co.uk> wrote:

From: Kennedy Oduor
Subject: Re: Raila Has Nothing to do with Mutula's Appointment

To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Date: Monday, May 4, 2009, 8:15 PM

Kuria Mwangi consulting someone is very different from informing someone of something. The Presidential Press Unit should have said Raila was informed of the decision before it was announced. Decisions to appoint PNU Ministers totally rests with Kibaki and not Raila just like decision to appoint ODM Ministers rest with Raila Odinga. Its now this time round that PNU is happily informing the WORLD that the PM was CONSULTED..Its hypocrisy..why was the PM not consulted on the following:
1.Re-appointing a 72 year old Muhoho back to Kenya Airways after EMU found him guilty of mismanaging the Authority?
2.Presidnetial Speech in the Opening of parliament given that it gave the direction of governmnent for the next session(Government remember is ODM and PNU)?
3.The appointment of Leader of Government Business in parliament?

4.The visit by the President of Iran?
5.The confidence that the President had on Evan Gicheru? Even after the PM had expressed no confidence in him including the then Minister for Justice? Cant the President have some courtesy to consult?
Why does PNU choose to announce to the whole world something that they knew the PM had no nothing to do with as it was a PNU affair that the PM was consulted??
Hypocrisy..Hypocrisy..Hypocrisy..

--- On Mon, 4/5/09, Kuria-Mwangi <kjmwangi@gmail.com> wrote:

From: Kuria-Mwangi
Subject: Re: Raila Has Nothing to do with Mutula's Appointment
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com

| 28754|2009-05-05 09:02:49|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert [AFP]
> <http://us.rd.yahoo.com/dailynews/afp/brand/SIG=ofqlv2/*http://www.afp.c\ > om>
>

Manu Ampim revealed this to us a long time ago!

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28755|2009-05-05 09:06:34|Mahari Mengistu|Re: The first European: 35,000 years ago|

> >>'He said the skull doesn't look European or Asian or African. It looks like a mixture of all of them. <<

I've never seen a "white" person who looks like that; I've never seen an "Asian" who looks like that (although some who they don't accept look close to that). However, I HAVE SEEN and continue to see black (African) people who look very much like that.
Always lying or distorting!
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Paul Kekai Manansala" wrote:
>
> The first European: Created from fragments of fossil, the face of our > forbears 35,000 years ago
>
> By David Derbyshire
> <http://www.dailymail.co.uk/home/search.html?s=y&authornamef=David+Derby\ > shire>
> Last updated at 9:53 PM on 04th May 2009
>
>
> * Comments (0)
> <http://www.dailymail.co.uk/sciencetech/article-1177123/The-European-Cre\ > ated-fragments-fossil-face-forbears-35-000-years-ago.html#comments>
> * Add to My Stories
> <http://www.dailymail.co.uk/sciencetech/article-1177123/The-European-Cre\ > ated-fragments-fossil-face-forbears-35-000-years-ago.html>
>
> Dressed in a suit, this person would not look out of place in a busy > street in a modern city.
>
> The clay sculpture, however, portrays the face of the earliest known > modern European - a man or woman who hunted deer and gathered fruit and > herbs in ancient forests more than 35,000 years ago.
>
> It was created by Richard Neave, one of Britain's leading forensic > scientists, using fossilised fragments of skull and jawbone found in a > cave seven years ago.
> [Forensic Scientist Richard Neave reconstructed the face based on skull > fragments from 35,000 years ago]
> The first modern European: Forensic artist Richard Neave reconstructed > the face based on skull fragments from 35,000 years ago
>
> His recreation offers a tantalising glimpse into life before the dawn of > civilisation. It also shows the close links between the first European > settlers and their immediate African ancestors.

>
> To sculpt the head, Mr Neave called on his years of experience > recreating the appearance of murder victims as well as using careful > measurements of bone.
>
> It was made for the BBC2 series The Incredible Human Journey. This will > follow the evolution of humans from the cradle of Africa to the waves of > migrations that saw Homo sapiens colonise the globe.
>
> The head has taken pride of place on the desk of Alice Roberts, an > anthropologist at Bristol University, who presents the programme.
>
> 'It's really quite bizarre,' she told Radio Times. 'I'm a scientist and > objective but I look at that face and think "Gosh, I'm looking at the > face of somebody from 40,000 years ago" and there's something weirdly > moving about that.
>
> 'Richard creates skulls of much more recent humans and he's used to > looking at differences between populations.
>
> 'He said the skull doesn't look European or Asian or African. It looks > like a mixture of all of them.
>
> 'That's probably what you'd expect of someone among the earliest > populations to come to Europe.'
> [Anthropologist Alice Roberts with the model] > Anthropologist Alice Roberts with the model: 'I look at that face and > think "I'm actually looking at the face of somebody from 40,000 years > ago"', she says
>
> The head is based on remains of one of the earliest known anatomically > modern Europeans.
>
> The lower jawbone was discovered by potholers in the Carpathian > mountains in Romania in 2002. The rest of the fragments were found the > following year.
>
> The bones were carbon-dated to between 34,000 and 36,000 years ago when > Europe was occupied by two species of human.
>
> They were the Neanderthals, who had arrived from Africa tens of > thousands of years earlier, and the more recent modern humans, also > known as Cro-Magnons.
>
> Although the skull is similar to a modern human head, it has a larger > cranium, is more robust and has larger molars. Although it is impossible > to work out the skin colour of the prehistoric hunter, it is likely to > have been darker than modern white Europeans.

>
> Fossil experts are also unsure if the skull was male or female.
>
> Many scientists believe that modern humans evolved in Africa 200,000 to > 100,000 years ago. Our ancestors left Africa around 60,000 years ago and > migrated around the world, replacing other branches of the family tree > which had left the continent earlier.
>
> The earliest modern Europeans were far from primitive. Living in huts > and caves, they used stone tools and spears made from antlers, painted > on the walls of their caves and made jewellery from shells.
> The programme will be shown on BBC2 at 9.30pm on May 10.
>
| 28756|2009-05-05 09:11:16|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|
O yes. As has been the case for 200 years Afrakan scholars have fundamentally possessed the truth - even without the wealth, acceptance, connections and resources.
In my opinion that makes our scholars great - and makes most of the others liars, deluded or dumbasses.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Paul Kekai Manansala" wrote:
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert [AFP]
> > <http://us.rd.yahoo.com/dailynews/afp/brand/SIG=ofqlv2/*http://www.afp.c\ > > om>
> >
>
> Manu Ampim revealed this to us a long time ago!
>
> Regards,
> Paul Kekai Manansala
>
| 28757|2009-05-05 09:16:51|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: The first European: 35,000 years ago|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> >>'He said the skull doesn't look European or Asian or African. It looks like a mixture of all of them. <<
>
> I've never seen a "white" person who looks like that; I've never seen an "Asian" who looks like that (although some who they don't accept look close to that). >

There are plenty of people, a whole lot of them, in SE Asia who look somewhat like this reconstruction.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28758|2009-05-05 12:07:11|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|

>>Egypt has demanded the return of the bust discovered on the banks of the Nile <<

Ha, ha, ha, Hawass! He is such an idiot.

HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert [AFP]
> <http://us.rd.yahoo.com/dailynews/afp/brand/SIG=ofqlv2/*http://www.afp.c\ > om>
> *
> [Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert]
> <http://news.yahoo.com/nphotos/Queen-Nefertiti-ancient-Egyptians/photo//\
> 090505/photos_wl_me_afp/3d647618ad637a99bfd968a2173f94e1//s:/afp/2009050\
> 5/wl_mideast_afp/entertainmentarthistoryegyptgermany> DDP/AFP/File ?
> The bust of Queen Nefertiti housed in a Berlin museum and believed to be
> 3,400 years old in fact is a ? 59 mins ago
> PARIS (AFP) ? The bust of Queen Nefertiti housed in a Berlin museum > and believed to be 3,400 years old in fact is a copy dating from 1912 > that was made to test pigments used by the ancient Egyptians, according > to Swiss art historian Henri Stierlin.
>
> Stierlin, author of a dozen works on Egypt, the Middle East and ancient > Islam, says in a just-released book that the bust currently in Berlin's > Altes Museum was made at the order of German archaeologist Ludwig > Borchardt by an artist named Gerardt Marks.
>
> "It seems increasingly improbable that the bust is an original,"
> Stierlin told AFP.
>
> The historian said the archaeologist had hoped to produce a new portrait > of the queen wearing a necklace he knew she had owned, and was also > looking to carry out a colour test with ancient pigments found at the > digs.
>
> But on December 6, 1912, the copy was admired as an original work by a > German prince and the archaeologist "couldn't sum up the courage to > ridicule" his guest, Stierlin said.

>
> The historian, who has been working on the subject for 25 years, said he > based his findings on several facts. "The bust has no left eye and was > never crafted to have one. This is an insult for an ancient Egyptian who > believed the statue was the person themself."
>
> He also said the shoulders were cut vertically in the style practised > since the 19th century while "Egyptians cut shoulders horizontally" and > that the features were accentuated in a manner recalling that of Art > Nouveau.
>
> It was impossible to scientifically establish the date of the bust > because it was made of stone covered in plaster, he said.
>
> "The pigments, which can be dated, are really ancient," he added.
>
> Stierlin also listed problems he noted during the discovery and shipment > to Germany as well as in scientific reports of the time.
>
> French archaeologists present at the site never mentioned the finding > and neither did written accounts of the digs. The earliest detailed > scientific report appeared in 1923, 11 years after the discovery.
>
> The archaeologist "didn't even bother to supply a description, which is > amazing for an exceptional work found intact".
>
> Borchardt "knew it was a fake," Stierlin said. "He left the piece for 10 > years in his sponsor's sitting-room. It's as if he'd left Tutankhamen's > mask in his own sitting-room."
>
> Egypt has demanded the return of the bust discovered on the banks of the > Nile since it went on display in 1923, depicting a stunning woman > wearing a unique cone-shaped headdress.
>
> One of Berlin's prime attractions it will move into its own hall at the > newly renovated Neues Museum when it reopens to the public in October.
>
> ===
>
> HTP,
>
> Mahari
>
| 28759|2009-05-05 12:50:26|Asar Imhotep|Re: Bantu in Ancient Egypt Part 2|

Peace

What might help in this investigation is to study images of the landscape of different regions of Africa. Where in central Africa would you find hilly country? Also we would need to investigate where in the written texts this place name is mentioned. Maybe by examining the whole text we can hypothesize with greater accuracy the location of this region.

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

--- On Tue, 5/5/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Bantu in Ancient Egypt Part 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 5, 2009, 9:48 AM

Greetings.
Please read the pdf on Bantu in Ancient Egypt part 2
Somo

| 28760|2009-05-05 14:46:36|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|Fwd: FW: FW: Saggin Pants, Now this is deep!|

Attachments :

 good point of view

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/5/09, AUSAR65@aol.com wrote:

From: AUSAR65@aol.com
Subject: Fwd: FW: FW: Saggin Pants, Now this is deep!
To: Afrikannubian@aol.com, sailizenzele@yahoo.com, sdillon84@yahoo.com, fedillon@comcast.net, FORKSYAROADS@aol.com, godlyu.productions@yahoo.com, healingbynana@yahoo.com, loveiris@hotmail.com, sheskeepingitreal@yahoo.com, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com, feferachelle227@yahoo.com
Date: Tuesday, May 5, 2009, 12:03 PM

A Good Credit Score is 700 or Above. See yours in just 2 easy steps!

| 28761|2009-05-05 16:21:26|ANGELINE BANDON-BIBUM|Re: Fwd: FW: FW: Saggin Pants, Now this is deep!|
Yes. Let's teach our young women and men to value themselves and behave with dignity and composure...andenough with the instant gratification. Work long and hard for something and spend and savetheir money wisely. So much work to do with the young people...

Angeline Bandon-Bibum, Author of Sojourner's Dream
http://www.authorsden.com/msangelinebandonbibum
http://angelinebandonbibum.blogspot.com

--- On Tue, 5/5/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: FW: FW: Saggin Pants, Now this is deep!
To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 5, 2009, 5:45 PM

 good point of view

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/5/09, AUSAR65@aol. com wrote:

From: AUSAR65@aol. com
Subject: Fwd: FW: FW: Saggin Pants, Now this is deep!
To: Afrikannubian@ aol.com, sailizenzele@ yahoo.com, sdillon84@yahoo. com, fedillon@comcast. net, FORKSYAROADS@ aol.com, godlyu.productions@ yahoo.com, healingbynana@ yahoo.com, loveiris@hotmail. com, sheskeepingitreal@ yahoo.com, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com, feferachelle227@ yahoo.com
Date: Tuesday, May 5, 2009, 12:03 PM

A Good Credit Score is 700 or Above. See yours in just 2 easy steps!

| 28762|2009-05-06 08:45:25|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Fwd: FW: FW: Saggin Pants, Now this is deep!|

>>So much work to do with the young people...<<

So much work to do with older and old people. Could that be the point we are missing?

HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, ANGELINE BANDON-BIBUM wrote:
>
> Yes. Let's teach our young women and men to value themselves and behave with dignity and composure...andenough with the instant gratification. Work long and hard for something and spend and savetheir money wisely. So much work to do with the young people...
>
> Angeline Bandon-Bibum, Author of Sojourner's Dream

> http://www.authorsden.com/msangelinebandonbibum
> http://angelinebandonbibum.blogspot.com
>
> --- On Tue, 5/5/09, tafari_sudra@... wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@...
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Fwd: FW: FW: Saggin Pants, Now this is deep!
> To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, May 5, 2009, 5:45 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> good point of view
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Tue, 5/5/09, AUSAR65@aol. com wrote:
>
>
> From: AUSAR65@aol. com
> Subject: Fwd: FW: FW: Saggin Pants, Now this is deep!
> To: Afrikannubian@ aol.com, sailizenzele@ yahoo.com, sdillon84@yahoo. com, fedillon@comcast. net, FORKSYAROADS@ aol.com, godlyu.productions@ yahoo.com, healingbynana@ yahoo.com, loveiris@hotmail. com, sheskeepingitreal@ yahoo.com, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com, feferachelle227@ yahoo.com
> Date: Tuesday, May 5, 2009, 12:03 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
> A Good Credit Score is 700 or Above. See yours in just 2 easy steps!
>
| 28763|2009-05-06 09:05:11|odhiambo okecth|World Orphans Day --7th May 2009|
The 7th of May is the World Orphans Day.

On this day, we need to reflect back on the society. We need to take stock and check out if we have been of support to the many orphans in the world.

At KCDN, we are doing something. We have been mobilizing educational support for Orphans and Vulnerable Children, check us out at; http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com. [sorry we have not posted this due to technical problems]

We must thank all Friends of KCDN, and Institutions that have come forward to support our course.

On 13th June 2009, we will be holding the 2nd Edition of the KCDN Peace Run at Montana/Calvary Grounds. The Peace Run/Walk will be flagged off at 8.00am. Then on 4th December 2009, we will hold the 2nd Edition of the KCDN Child Support Initiative.

Last year, we were able to buy Text Books, Stationery and Uniforms in support of 250 such Orphans and Vulnerable Children. Due to the huge success that we had with this initiative, 1950 more children have registered with us at KCDN seeking our support.

We are not in a position to help all these children on our own. But with your support, we can buy these children the books, stationery, uniforms and shoes that they need for their education next year. We will be looking forward to your support.

Lastly, on behalf of the children at KCDN, I have been instructed, by both the pupils and theeir parents/guardians, to thank the following people and institutions without whom, we would not have been of support to our children;

1] Jairus KOnyiego [US]

2] Phoenix Aviations Ltd

3] Sam Okello [US]

4] Irene Wasike and staff of Barclays Bank Haille Sellassie Avenue Branch

5] SGS Kenya Ltd

6] Tetra Pak East Africa Ltd

7] Nestle Kenya Ltd

8] Irene Ngugi [SA]

9] Leonard Amolo

10] Capital Airlines Ltd

11] Express Connections Ltd [Double M]

12] Jorum Odus [UK]

13] Pamela Ohonde [Denmark]

14] Mini Bakeries Nairobi Ltd

15] Sebastian Onyango [Finland]

16] Chacha Odera [Advocate]

17] President Ben Ondoro [Canada]

18] Rodgers Orero [UK]

19] Dr Paul Nyandoto [Finland]

20] Zedekiah Nyanchama [US]

21] Dr George Omburo [US]

22] Richard Mungla [Mozambique]

23] Regem Lugonzo

24] Dr Matunda Nyanchama [Canada]

25] Otiende Amolo [Rachier & Amolo Advocates]

26] Caroline Otieno [Arusha TZ]

27] Taxplus Consult Ltd

28] Dr PLO Lumumba

29] Kuria-Mwangi [UK]

30] Aristocrats Insurance Brokers Ltd

31] Elizabeth Onyango Auma

32] John Maina [US]

33] Dr Edwin Otieno

34] Eric Jangolo

35] Chris Obwolo

36] Luke Ogono

37] Text Book Centre Ltd

38] Phoenix Publishers Ltd

39] East African Educational Publishers

40] Erdemann Company Ltd [Ha-Ha Water]

41] The Cradle- The Children Foundation

42] Herbert Omondi [Action Aid]

We are looking forward to more support from you, your friends and other people of goodwill. Let us come together and give a little in support of the orphans and vulnerable children.

God bless all of us as we commemorate this day dedicated to the orphans in this world. And for all of you who have been of support to KCDN in this initiative we say; Thank you and God bless.

Odhiambo T Oketch,

CEO KCDN Nairobi.

| 28764|2009-05-06 09:07:16|Jabari Osaze|Udjat Blog: New Comperhensive Study Proves African Origin of Humanit|
The most elaborate study of African DNA to date has reinforced the concept of an African origin of all humanity. The study released in the scholarly journal Science and reported in The Independent (UK) analyzed the DNA of 121 distinct populations of modern-day Africans?many in remote regions. These 121 populations all descended from 14 ancestral populations. Perhaps this is was the primary esoteric message in the story of the 14 dismembered pieces of Ausar?

To read the rest of this post, visit the Udjat, Blog of the Center for the Restoration of Ma'at at http://blog.centerformaat.com/.

Subscribe to the Udjat for commentary and coverage of news on Ancient Kemet. The Center for the Restoration of Ma'at seeks to utilize this ancient ethical gude in our contemporary lives. Post your opinions, join the discussion!

Shem em Hetep!
| 28765|2009-05-06 09:17:41|Ferg|The Masai|
Attachments :
Greetings all.
Read the pdf on the Masai people
Somo
| 28766|2009-05-06 11:42:52|Alex van Deelen|zimbabwe|
Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka,

> http://allafrica.com/stories/200905040224.html
>
> economic recovery may be near!

With the inclusion of the MDC in the government, the west is fast running out of excuses for keeping sanctions against Zimbabwe.

It is telling that African countries and the EU are far ahead in thawing of relations, compared to the US and UK.

Which should tell everyone what this 'conflict' is really about to begin with - the ownership of large tracks of Africa by former colonial power Britain and by US individuals.

Also check out:

http://dissidentvoice.org/2008/02/gertlers-bling-bang-torah-gang/
http://www.opednews.com/articles/genera_keith_ha_080207_the_gertler_steinmet.htm

on where the money is going in the DRC. Different country, but the players are the same and in fact it was the Zimbabwean government's completely above board support, through SADC, of the government of Laurent Kabila against US/UK backed Tutsi 'rebels' in the eastern DRC that caused the break with the west (as well as them threatening to nationalize major industries, telling the IMF and Bechtel corporation to take a hike, and of course implementing effective land reform).

Everything in Africa economically, is about the exploitation of Africa's mineral reserves, and about who will benefit from them.

Keith Harmon Snow's article concentrates on diamonds,
but the same principles hold true for industrial materials like copper, cobalt, and now coltan. In Zambia, those are now exploited by Australian, Canadian, US and Indian mining companies - Equinox, Vedanta, etc. Who,
because of corrupt 'development agreements', have
not paid taxes or shared profits, or paid a minimum wage.
It is about total exploitation.

If anyone really wants to understand what is going on in Africa, they need to follow the money. Where does it go, and why is it not invested in other economic sectors - agriculture, manufacturing and infrastructure.

Which together with investment in capacity building
(education and healthcare) will develop Africa.

Alex
| 28767|2009-05-06 12:06:21|Peter Gray|Re: zimbabwe|
Interesting, Alex, but don't omit the new Chinese imperialism in the DRC. China is vigorously pursuing contracts to mine all the various minerals (includiing Cobalt) there, presumably in exchange for constructing hundreds of hospitals and clinics. But let's wait and see if/when those health facilities appear.

Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: avdeelen@ziggo.nl
Date: Wed, 6 May 2009 20:32:38 +0200
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re:zimbabwe

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka,

> http://allafrica. com/stories/ 200905040224. html
>
> economic recovery may be near!

With the inclusion of the MDC in the government, the west is fast running out of excuses for keeping sanctions against Zimbabwe.

It is telling that African countries and the EU are far ahead in thawing of relations, compared to the US and UK.

Which should tell everyone what this 'conflict' is really about to begin with - the ownership of large tracks of Africa by former colonial power Britain and by US individuals.

Also check out:

http://dissidentvoi ce.org/2008/ 02/gertlers- bling-bang- torah-gang/
http://www.opednews .com/articles/ genera_keith_ ha_080207_ the_gertler_ steinmet. htm

on where the money is going in the DRC. Different country, but the players are the same and in fact it was the Zimbabwean government's completely above board support, through SADC, of the government of Laurent Kabila against US/UK backed Tutsi 'rebels' in the eastern DRC that caused the break with the west (as well as them threatening to nationalize major industries, telling the IMF and Bechtel corporation to take a hike, and of course implementing effective land reform).

Everything in Africa economically, is about the exploitation of Africa's mineral reserves, and about who will benefit from them.

Keith Harmon Snow's article concentrates on diamonds, but the same principles hold true for industrial materials like copper, cobalt, and now coltan. In Zambia, those are now exploited by Australian, Canadian, US and Indian mining companies - Equinox, Vedanta, etc. Who, because of corrupt 'development agreements', have not paid taxes or shared profits, or paid a minimum wage. It is about total exploitation.

If anyone really wants to understand what is going on in Africa, they need to follow the money. Where does it go, and why is it not invested in other economic sectors - agriculture, manufacturing and infrastructure.

Which together with investment in capacity building
(education and healthcare) will develop Africa.

Alex

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.
| 28768|2009-05-06 12:44:49|Tafari khumbaka|Re: zimbabwe|
good article, guess the congo is still kosher from the 40's when it was given too the jews .

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 5/6/09, Alex van Deelen wrote:

From: Alex van Deelen
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re:zimbabwe
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, May 6, 2009, 1:32 PM

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka,

> http://allafrica. com/stories/ 200905040224. html
>
> economic recovery may be near!

With the inclusion of the MDC in the government, the west is fast running out of excuses for keeping sanctions against Zimbabwe.

It is telling that African countries and the EU are far ahead in thawing of relations, compared to the US and UK.

Which should tell everyone what this 'conflict' is really about to begin with - the ownership of large tracks of Africa by former colonial power Britain and by US individuals.

Also check out:

http://dissidentvoi ce.org/2008/ 02/gertlers- bling-bang- torah-gang/
http://www.opednews .com/articles/ genera_keith_ ha_080207_ the_gertler_

steinmet. htm

on where the money is going in the DRC. Different country, but the players are the same and in fact it was the Zimbabwean government's completely above board support, through SADC, of the government of Laurent Kabila against US/UK
backed Tutsi 'rebels' in the eastern DRC that caused the break with the west (as well as them threatening to nationalize major industries, telling the IMF and Bechtel corporation to take a hike, and of course implementing effective land reform).

Everything in Africa economically, is about the exploitation of Africa's mineral reserves, and
about who will benefit from them.

Keith Harmon Snow's article concentrates on diamonds,
but the same principles hold true for industrial materials
like copper, cobalt, and now coltan. In Zambia, those are now exploited by Australian, Canadian, US and Indian mining companies - Equinox, Vedanta, etc. Who,
because of corrupt 'development agreements', have
not paid taxes or shared profits, or paid a minimum wage.
It is about total exploitation.

If anyone really wants to understand what is going on in Africa, they need to follow the money. Where does it go, and why is it not invested in other economic sectors -
agriculture, manufacturing and infrastructure.

Which together with investment in capacity building
(education and healthcare) will develop Africa.

Alex

| 28769|2009-05-06 12:48:14|Tafari khumbaka|Re: zimbabwe|
china ,india , and canada are in a paper war with the european-alliance and the u.s.a. for defenseless Mother Africa.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 5/6/09, Peter Gray wrote:

From: Peter Gray
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Re:zimbabwe
To: "Marc Washington"
Date: Wednesday, May 6, 2009, 2:06 PM

Interesting, Alex, but don't omit the new Chinese imperialism in the DRC. China is vigorously pursuing contracts to mine all the various minerals (includiing Cobalt) there, presumably in exchange for constructing hundreds of hospitals and clinics. But let's wait and see if/when those health facilities appear.

Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: avdeelen@ziggo. nl
Date: Wed, 6 May 2009 20:32:38 +0200
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re:zimbabwe

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka,

> http://allafrica. com/stories/ 200905040224. html
>
> economic recovery may be near!

With the inclusion of the MDC in the government, the west is fast running out of excuses for keeping sanctions against Zimbabwe.

It is telling that African countries and the EU are far ahead in thawing of relations, compared to the US and UK.

Which should tell everyone what this 'conflict' is really about to begin with - the ownership of large tracks of Africa by former colonial power Britain and by US individuals.

Also check out:

http://dissidentvoi ce.org/2008/ 02/gertlers- bling-bang- torah-gang/
http://www.opednews .com/articles/ genera_keith_ ha_080207_ the_gertler_ steinmet. htm

on where the money is going in the DRC. Different country, but the players are the same and in fact it was the Zimbabwean government's completely

above board support, through SADC, of the government of Laurent Kabila against US/UK
backed Tutsi 'rebels' in the eastern DRC that caused
the break with the west (as well as them threatening
to nationalize major industries, telling the IMF and Bechtel corporation to take a hike, and of course implementing effective land reform).

Everything in Africa economically, is about the exploitation of Africa's mineral reserves, and
about who will benefit from them.

Keith Harmon Snow's article concentrates on diamonds,
but the same principles hold true for industrial materials
like copper, cobalt, and now coltan. In Zambia, those are now exploited by Australian, Canadian, US and Indian mining companies - Equinox, Vedanta, etc. Who,
because of corrupt 'development agreements', have
not paid taxes or shared profits, or paid a minimum wage.
It is about total exploitation.

If anyone really wants to understand what is going on in Africa, they need to follow the money. Where does it go, and why is it not invested in other economic sectors -
agriculture, manufacturing and infrastructure.

Which together with investment in capacity building
(education and healthcare) will develop Africa.

Alex

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.

| 28770|2009-05-06 12:55:07|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: Check out YouTube - Christian king of Ethiopia changes the cours|
YouTube - Christian king of Ethiopia changes the course of history

the children of sara have been treacherous and murderous to the children of Saba; and to think we even gave them the opportunity to formulate their yislam on our soil.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/5/09, AUSAR65@aol.com wrote:

From: AUSAR65@aol.com
Subject: Check out YouTube - Christian king of Ethiopia changes the course of history
To: Afrikannubian@aol.com, alandas@nsightmemphis.com, audreyd@greenwayllc.com, sdillon84@yahoo.com, fedillon@comcast.net, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Date: Tuesday, May 5, 2009, 1:26 PM

YouTube - Christian king of Ethiopia changes the course of history
click above

A Good Credit Score is 700 or Above. See yours in just 2 easy steps!

| 28771|2009-05-06 14:07:06|Obadele Kwame Kambon|Come join me at Intro & Inter. Akan (Twi) & Yoruba Online Classes be|

Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network

Listen. Learn. Liberate!

Obadele Kwame Kambon

Obadele Kwame Kambon has invited you to the event 'Intro & Inter. Akan (Twi) & Yoruba Online Classes begin week of May 11' on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network!
Intro & Inter. Akan (Twi) & Yoruba Online Classes begin week of May 11

Time: May 11, 2009 at 7pm to June 7, 2009 at 9pm
Location: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php
Organized By: Obadele Kwame Kambon

Event Description:
Four Simple Steps to SUCCESSFUL registration for class:

Have you registered for the class:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html

Have you submitted payment for the class:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/payment.html

Have you registered and logged into the forums:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php

Have you clicked on member classroom (where the classes are held):
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

http://www.abibitumikasa.com/classes.html

Who: All Afrikan people who are serious about being Afrikan

What: You are invited to join one month (8 class) sessions of Introductory Twi or Yoruba or one month (4 class) sessions of Intermediate Twi or Yoruba.

When: Next class session begins the week of May 11, 2009 (Click here for schedule http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/calendar.php)

Monday AND Wednesday Intro Yoruba 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

Tuesday AND Thursday Intro Twi 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

AND

Sunday Intermediate Twi 1:00PM-3:00PM EST

Sunday Intermediate Yoruba 4:00PM-6:00PM EST

Where: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

How: To access the online member classroom, you must register for the Abibitumi Kasa site at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php

You'll need to do this if you don't have an account already.

If you already have an account at the site, login at this link: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/login.php

From there click on the link to member classroom on any page at the site at class time or visit the link to the member classroom here directly at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

Learn to hook up your audio and/or webcam for class and more at: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

How Much: 195 USD for eight (8) class Introductory Class; 97.50 USD for four (4) class Intermediate Class; Contact us about cost of advanced individual tutorials http://www.abibitumikasa.com/contact.html

Why: Repatriation, Visit, Interacting with Family, and more. Let us know your reason for wanting to learn Afrikan languages via our Prospective Student Questionnaire http://www.abibitumikasa.com/nsemmisa.pdf

See more details and RSVP on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network:
http://abibitumikasa.ning.com/events/event/show?id=2053441%3AEvent%3A19644&xgi=4EOiHup

About Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network
Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Language and Liberation Institutes dewhitenize parts of the brain others can't reach.

366 members
514 photos
169 songs
69 videos
113 discussions
65 Events
53 blog posts

To control which emails you receive on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network, click here

| 28772|2009-05-06 15:28:32|Tafari khumbaka|pure christianity|
| tafari

true christianity

my person was reared in the christian church in the south(baptist,penecostal,some catholic) although my momwas eastern star she only gave me hints that there was a truer way.

my person left the doctrines of christianity as a teen and experimented with marijuania and alcohol as was the way of the 70's,. It was the 60 and 70's music scene with its emphasis in altered states and astrology that allowed other spiritual avenue's in my awareness.

Astrology, krishna consciousness, meditation, yoga and martial arts were the norm for the 70's young whites and few blacks that were a part of the 70's drug scene. , my person participated in the young liberal white drug scene and was also apart of the firey civil consciousness movement of some young blacks.Between the two worlds of liberal drug trance/music and nation of islam redepose.,, many young blacks considered christianity as simplistic white old timey slave religion.

And this is true of american christianity, it is a treatise designed by slaveholders and free-mercantile traders and at its best zealot-puritanist.

But the true christianity of ancient Philae and meroe that was the foundation of ethiopia accepting christianity,. The ancient christianity of the blacks of Dendera(tanitara) was the religon of Ausar-Auset-Heru.

since its foundation is ancient Africathen should we not return toAfrica totruly know what was taken from her and plagirised, watered down and distorted.

i submit to be a true christian one must understand the teachings of thedjedjedtu .

www.tauienterprises.com

www.metuneterworld.com

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28773|2009-05-06 22:46:52|millennium|More pictures of the Eagle and Condor Dance|
-- in NA_Visions_of_Hope, Kymberlee Ruff wrote:

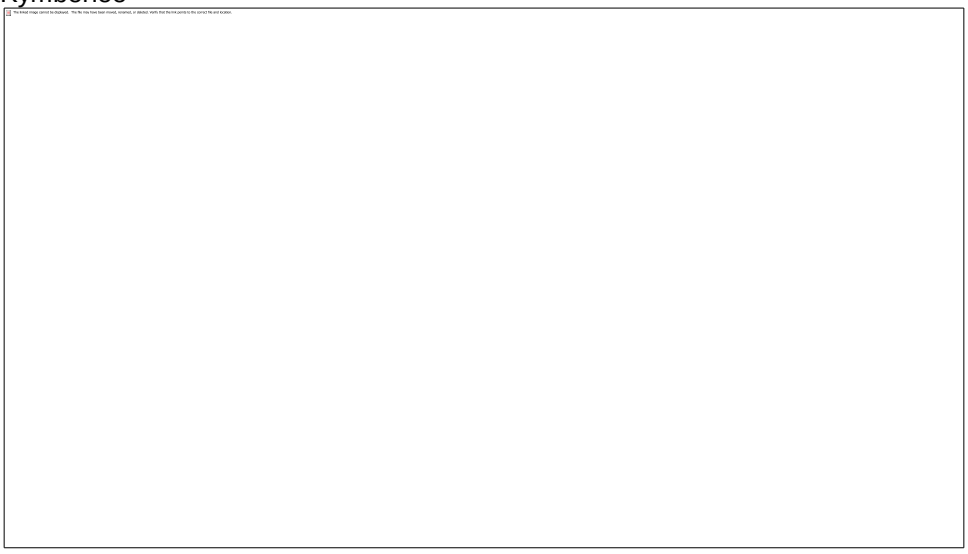
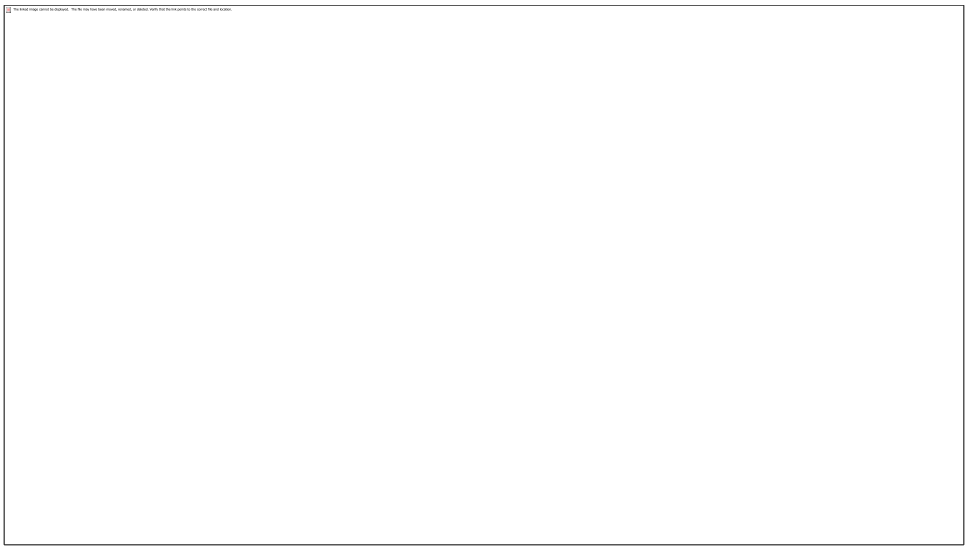
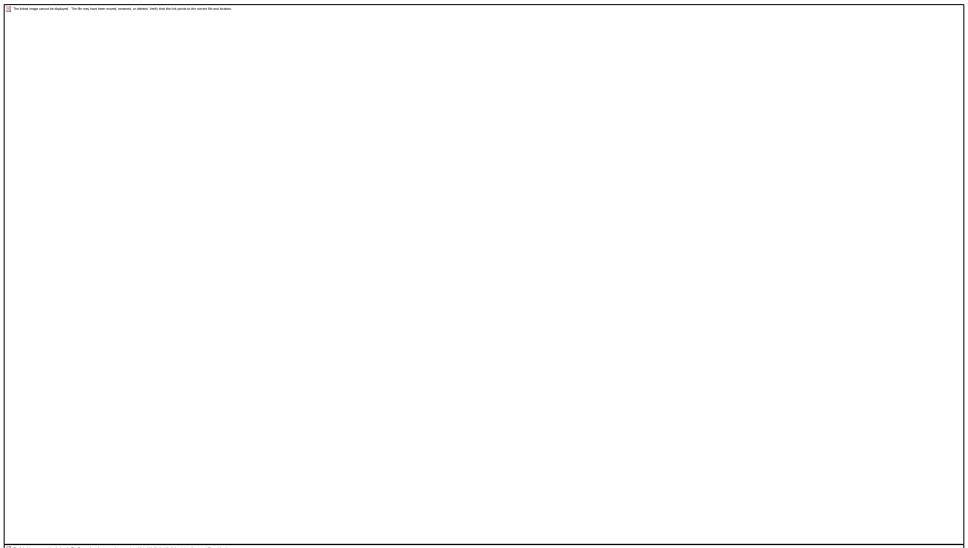
Dear Friend,



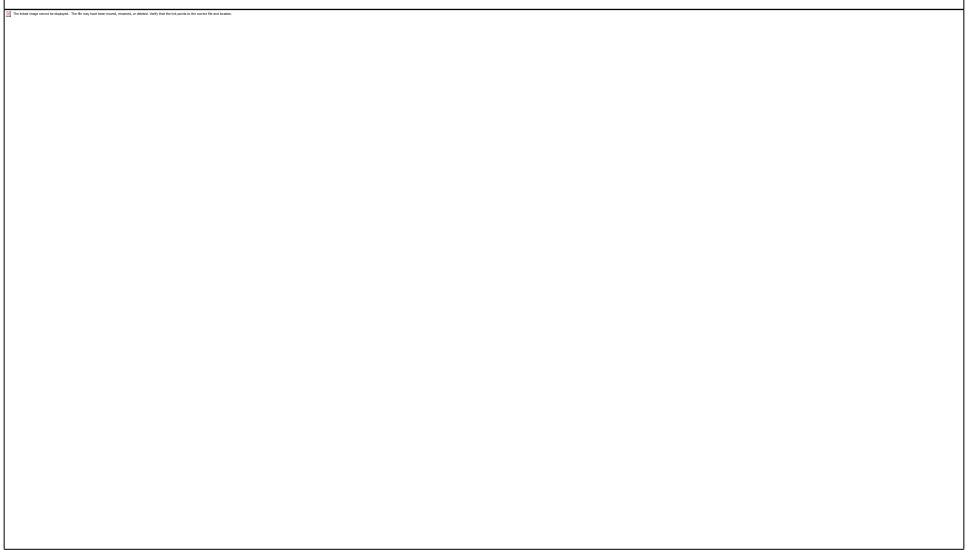
Here are some more pictures thatBrian Hardin took of the Eagle
Condor Dance. That is Ruben Saufkieto the far right in the first picture.



If you lookclosely, you can see Grandfatherand Joe seated on the left.



Ruben and Adam Yellowbird deserve HUGE credit for pulling this off.



The second picture and third pictureare Ruben and his family singing the "Hopi Song" to the Ancestors. The last one is of the "Condor Dancer" bowing deeply. I was very touched at one part of the ceremony becausethe Dancers appeared to "prostrate" on the ground like the Tibetans do.

asquali,
Kymberlee

The linked image cannot be displayed. The file may have been moved, renamed, or deleted. Verify that the link points to the correct file and location.

The linked image cannot be displayed. The file may have been moved, renamed, or deleted. Verify that the link points to the correct file and location.

The linked image cannot be displayed. The file may have been moved, renamed, or deleted. Verify that the link points to the correct file and location.

..
| 28774|2009-05-07 07:26:07|Ferg|The Kaaba at Mecca|
Greetings.
Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
Somo
| 28775|2009-05-07 11:37:09|Mahari Mengistu|WHITE KENYAN Aristocrat guilty of manslaughter|

Aristocrat guilty of manslaughter

Thomas Cholmondeley listens as the judge reads out the verdict of manslaughter

A white Kenyan aristocrat has been cleared of murder but found guilty of the manslaughter of a black poacher on his family's estate in 2006.

A judge ruled Thomas Cholmondeley did not show "malice aforethought" in the shooting of Robert Njoya in May 2006.

The case, involving the descendant of one of Kenya's first British settlers, has attracted huge media attention.

In 2005 Cholmondeley admitted shooting a Maasai ranger, but the case was dropped owing to insufficient evidence.

That decision provoked outrage and mass protests among the Maasai community.

'Dumbstruck'

The courtroom in the Kenyan capital, Nairobi, was packed with lawyers, reporters, cameramen, and family and friends of Thomas Cholmondeley, the BBC's Adam Mynott in court said.

There were gasps of surprise as High Court Justice Muga Apondi gave his ruling after reading out a 320-page verdict on the case, although the defendant himself remained impassive.

"I find as a fact that it was the accused who had shot the deceased resulting in his death," the judge said.

"In view of the above analysis I hereby find which I do, that the accused did not have any malice aforethought to kill the deceased."

THOMAS CHOLMONDELEY
Educated at exclusive British school, Eton
Great-grandson of third Baron Delamere, one of Kenya's first white settlers
In line to become 6th Baron Delamere
Sole heir to family's massive Rift Valley estate
Divorced father of two sons

Profile of a Kenyan aristocrat

The Eton-educated 40-year-old, who has spent the last three years in jail, is due to be sentenced next week. He faces a maximum term of life imprisonment.

"I'm amazed - dumbstruck actually," said Cholmondeley's defence lawyer. "We will appeal. There is no doubt about that."

Surprise outcome

The incident took place in a remote corner of Cholmondeley's sprawling family farm in the Rift Valley region, acquired by his great-grandfather, the third Baron Delamere.

Cholmondeley told police at the time that Mr Njoya was with three companions and a pack of dogs, and he suspected them of hunting a gazelle.

He said he had shot at the dogs, killing two of them. Mr Njoya was hit by a bullet and died on the way to hospital.

Cholmondeley's defence had argued that the fatal shot may have been fired from a weapon carried by his friend, but this was rejected as an "afterthought" by the judge.

The judge's verdict is contrary to the non-binding not guilty verdict found by a panel of lay assessors - who do a similar job to juries in Kenya - in March.

The outcome will surprise some who followed the case closely, our correspondent says.

But it will please those Kenyans who believe Thomas Cholmondeley should have been prosecuted over the shooting of Maasai ranger Samson Ole Sisina in 2005.

Cholmondeley, a divorced father of two, had admitted the earlier shooting, but said he acted in self-defence mistaking the warden for an armed robber.

The latest trial has stirred up lingering animosity against some in the white farming community, who are accused of living on large areas of land, illegally grabbed early last century, our correspondent says.

===

HTP,

Mahari

| 28776|2009-05-07 12:01:51|Tafari khumbaka|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|

Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?????

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM

Greetings.
Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
Somo

| 28777|2009-05-07 12:18:26|cristofori whitakara|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM

Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM

Greetings.
Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
Somo

| 28778|2009-05-07 15:58:24|Mahari Mengistu|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
Some of the very earliest sculpture in Afrigypt has man emerging from a square block. I don't recall what the significance of this is but I have been planning to research it to determine in what ways, if at all, it ultimately evolved in their spiritual philosophy.

HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
> if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
> dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:
>
>
> From: Ferg
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM
>
>
>

>
>
> Greetings.
>
> Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
>
> Somo
>
| 28779|2009-05-07 20:12:41|SaNu Tepra|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|
This is not the least bit surprising to me. I read a comment by John Anthony West some years ago wherein he stated that the bust was highly unlikely to be that of Nefertiti. Anthony Browder said the same thing over 10 years ago. From what I read the bust was never authenticatedby archaeological methods. It has survived the mislabeling because white egyptologists(among other white racists)wanted the world tobelieve that the ancient [so called] Egyptians were white, knowing full well that they were not. This bust has been fraudulently held up as 'proof' that they were.

--- On Tue, 5/5/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 5, 2009, 10:38 AM

Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert

AFP

-

DDP/AFP/FileThe bust of Queen Nefertiti housed in a Berlin museum and believed to be 3,400 years old in fact is a
59minsago
PARIS (AFP) The bust of Queen Nefertiti housed in a Berlin museum and believed to be 3,400 years old in fact is a copy dating from 1912 that was made to test pigments used by the ancient Egyptians, according to Swiss art historian Henri Stierlin.

Stierlin, author of a dozen works on Egypt, the Middle East and ancient Islam, says in a just-released book that the bust currently in Berlin's Altes Museum was made at the order of German archaeologist Ludwig Borchardt by an artist named Gerardt Marks.
"It seems increasingly improbable that the bust is an original," Stierlin told AFP.
The historian said the archaeologist had hoped to produce a new portrait of the queen wearing a necklace he knew she had owned, and was also looking to carry out a colour test with ancient pigments found at the digs.
But on December 6, 1912, the copy was admired as an original work by a German prince and the archaeologist "couldn't sum up the courage to ridicule" his guest, Stierlin said.
The historian, who has been working on the subject for 25 years, said he based his findings on several facts. "The bust has no left eye and was never crafted to have one. This is an insult for an ancient Egyptian who believed the statue was the person themself."
He also said the shoulders were cut vertically in the style practised since the 19th century while "Egyptians cut shoulders horizontally" and that the features were accentuated in a manner recalling that of Art Nouveau.
It was impossible to scientifically establish the date of the bust because it was made of stone covered in plaster, he said.
"The pigments, which can be dated, are really ancient," he added.
Stierlin also listed problems he noted during the discovery and shipment to Germany as well as in scientific reports of the time.
French archaeologists present at the site never mentioned the finding and neither did written accounts of the digs. The earliest detailed scientific report appeared in 1923, 11 years after the discovery.
The archaeologist "didn't even bother to supply a description, which is amazing for an exceptional work found intact".
Borchardt "knew it was a fake," Stierlin said. "He left the piece for 10 years in his sponsor's sitting-room. It's as if he'd left Tutankhamen' s mask in his own sitting-room. "
Egypt has demanded the return of the bust discovered on the banks of the Nile since it went on display in 1923, depicting a stunning woman wearing a unique cone-shaped headdress.
One of Berlin's prime attractions it will move into its own hall at the newly renovated Neues Museum when it reopens to the public in October.
===
HTP,
Mahari

| 28780|2009-05-08 07:03:15|Ferg|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
Thanks Christofori.
There seems to be a a mismatch in etymologies for the word which defines the Kaaba.
The cube of a number in Arabicis Ka'b. I cannot see how this word Ka'b could signify a square house, especially when theword for house in Arabic is 'Bait'. The Kaaba has many names designated to it. They all contain the word house, 'bait', but not Kaaba. There seems to be a much deeper meaning of the word Kaaba.As you say it could have some Kemetic connection to the soul.According to Budge the pyramid of king Sahura is called Kaaba. This is a good indication that the word Kaaba isKemetic in origin.

I would be interested in Mahari's research into the subject and also Tafari's references if any on the Ethopian line.
Somo

----- Original Message -----

From: cristofori whitakara
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Thursday, May 07, 2009 8:18 PM
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca

according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM

Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM

Greetings.
Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
Somo

| 28781|2009-05-08 07:20:43|Ferg|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
This might be of interest. What do you think?
http://www.ancientegyptonline.co.uk/kingslist.html
Somo

----- Original Message -----
From: cristofori whitakara
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Thursday, May 07, 2009 8:18 PM
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca

according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM

Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM

Greetings.
Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
Somo

| 28782|2009-05-08 07:22:50|Ferg|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
Sorry it should be http://www.ancientegyptonline.co.uk/Khaba.html
Somo

----- Original Message -----
From: cristofori whitakara
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Thursday, May 07, 2009 8:18 PM
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca

according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>

> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM
>
> Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
> if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
> dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:
>
> From: Ferg
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM
>
> Greetings.
> Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
> Somo

| 28783|2009-05-08 13:41:16|Mahari Mengistu|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|

A few black - oops, sorry - block statues with man emerging from cube.

HTP,

Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Ferg" wrote:
>
> Thanks Christofori.
>
> There seems to be a a mismatch in etymologies for the word which defines the Kaaba.
>
> The cube of a number in Arabic is Ka'b. I cannot see how this word Ka'b could signify a square house, especially when the word for house in Arabic is 'Bait'. The Kaaba has many names designated to it. They all contain the word house, 'bait', but not Kaaba. There seems to be a much deeper meaning of the word Kaaba. As you say it could have some Kemetic connection to the soul. According to Budge the pyramid of king Sahura is called Kaaba. This is a good indication that the word Kaaba is Kemetic in origin.
>
> I would be interested in Mahari's research into the subject and also Tafari's references if any on the Ethopian line.
>
> Somo
>
>
>
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: cristofori whitakara
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Sent: Thursday, May 07, 2009 8:18 PM
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
>
>
>
>
>
>
> according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka tafari_sudra@... wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka tafari_sudra@...
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM

>
>
>
> Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but in that lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
> if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
> dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg egyptology@theunit. fsnet.co. uk> wrote:
>
>
> From: Ferg egyptology@theunit. fsnet.co. uk>
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM
>
>
> Greetings.
>
> Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, the Kaaba in Mecca.
>
> Somo
>

| 28784|2009-05-08 14:47:37|Tafari khumbaka|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|

researching that should keep u on the square(lol)

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 5:57 PM

Some of the very earliest sculpture in Afrigypt has man emerging from a square block. I don't recall what the significance of this is but I have been planning to research it to determine in what ways, if at all, it ultimately evolved in their spiritual philosophy.

HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
> if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
> dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:
>
>
> From: Ferg
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com

> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM
>
>
>
>
>
> Greetings.
>
> Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
>
> Somo
>

| 28785|2009-05-08 15:35:53|Tafari khumbaka|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
in the same lecture by Dr.Ben he said it was a meteorite

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/8/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 9:02 AM

Thanks Christofori.
There seems to be a a mismatch in etymologies for the word which defines the Kaaba.
The cube of a number in Arabicis Ka'b. I cannot see how this word Ka'b could signify a square house, especially when theword for house in Arabic is 'Bait'. The Kaaba has many names designated to it. They all contain the word house, 'bait', but not Kaaba. There seems to be a much deeper meaning of the word Kaaba.As you say it could have some Kemetic connection to the soul.According to Budge the pyramid of king Sahura is called Kaaba. This is a good indication that the word Kaaba isKemetic in origin.
I would be interested in Mahari's research into the subject and also Tafari's references if any on the Ethopian line.
Somo
----- Original Message -----

> From: cristofori whitakara
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Sent: Thursday, May 07, 2009 8:18 PM
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
>
> according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cul > Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circur > and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.

>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:
> From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM
>
> Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
> if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
> dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:
>
> From: Ferg
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM
>
> Greetings.
> Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
> Somo

| 28786|2009-05-08 17:01:04|Roger Asterilla|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
The term also refers to the four elements that orientate the galaxy as well, i.e., the four royal stars. In addition, it also references the two primary forces, i.e., 'ka' and 'ba' and the taoist 'yin' and 'yang' . . . and the 'peristyle' of the temple.

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:
From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:18 PM

according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM

Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM

Greetings.
Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
Somo
| 28787|2009-05-08 17:01:09|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [Indaspirit] Check out Videos just posted by Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Michael J Robinson
To: Michael J Robinson
Sent: Monday, May 4, 2009 2:00:33 AM
Subject: [Indaspirit] Check out Videos just posted by Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu on "Countering the Conspiracy to Destroy Black Boys" and "Developing Positive Self Images and Discipline in Children"

Maat Hotep family,

I just posted videos on my Youtube Channel, www.Youtube. com/mjrob1914 ,of Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu that you will probably find very informative and useful.

Dr. Jawanza Kunjufu does an excellent workshop to a group of educators on the topic of a 3 book series he wrote entitled Countering the Conspiracy to Destroy Black Boys. This is a fascinating presentation. If you have African-American male children or relatives, you will definitely want to watch this one and take notes.

Did you know that there is almost the same number of African-American male children born each year as African-American female children? By the time they become 18 years old however, there is almost a 2 to 1 ratio of African-American females to African-American males. Find out why.

Did you know that our male children are virtual geniuses from pre-school to 3rd grade but start falling behind in the critical 4th grade? Many of them never recover. Find out why.

If you like my channel, please subscribe to it and let your friends know about it. It is quickly growing and we just hit 1,000 subscribers.

Also, tune into Dr. Ray Hagins online radio station at www.WBLR.com. He broadcast 24/7 and on Sundays and Wednesdays at 8pm he broadcasts live. He has a ton of information on African history, culture, current affairs, etc. Everyone can learn from his station regardless of how much you already know. You can view some of Dr. Hagins videos on my Youtube Channel as well including videos such as, The Verdict Is In, Egypt: The Source of the Bible and Kemetic Spiritual Preparation In Times of Crisis to name a few.

Thanks,

Bro. Michael

www.Youtube. com/mjrob1914

mjrob1914@comcast. net

mjrob1914@gmail. com

"Right knowledge corrects wrong behavior."

| 28788|2009-05-08 17:01:19|Ginger Daniels|Missing black males missing from media coverage|

Missing' Black males missing from media coverage
By Diasia Ellerbee
NNPA Special Correspondent
Updated May 6, 2009 - 12:34:12 PM

Why don't you talk about me? Don't you care where I might be? Am I the wrong color to have my story on TV?

Why don't I get air time? Is it the fact that I don't have naturally straight hair? Is it that America isn't interested? Is it that America just doesn't care?

So ABC, NBC, CBS, CNN, MSNBC, FOX News Why don't you talk about me?! Don't you care where I might be?! Am I the wrong color to have my story on TV?!

(L-R) Adji Desir, 6; William Van Croft IV, 17; Wallace Richards, 23; Denis Palmer, 44

Each line above is from the poem Black Woman Missing by George L. Cook III. The poem represents the lack of national media focus on missing Black womenbut some say Black males get even less attention.

According to Connie Marstiller of the National Crime Information Center, there were 614,925 people missing in 2008 under the age of 18. About 16 percent of those missing were Black men.

During that same year there were 163,239 people missing over the age of 18, according to Ms. Marstiller. Approximately 14 percent of those missing were Black males over the age 18.

Black men and boys such as William Van Croft IV, 17, Wallace Richards, 23, Dennis Palmer, 44, and Adji Desir, 6, are missing and have not received national media attention as other missing persons such as Laci Peterson, Elizabeth Smart, or Haleigh Cummings. White women usually get more attention than men of all races when they are missing.

Blackandmissing.blogspot.com is an online site dedicated to informing the public about missing Black children who may or may not have been reported on in the media.

According to blackandmissing.blogspot.com, Adji Desir is a boy who has been missing since Jan. 10 from Immokalee, Fla. The youth has the mental capacity of a two-year-old and is developmentally disabled.

If you put both their names in Yahoo's search engine, Adji Desir's name will produce 478,000 results. A search for Haleigh Cummings, a five-year-old White girl, will produce 4.4 million results, nearly 10 times the number of hits logged for the Black boy.

Both children went missing around the same time and in the same state.

Derrica Wilson is president and CEO of the Black & Missing Foundation, Inc., which has an online website that provides exposure and educational training for the loved ones of missing persons.

Ms. Wilson believes Black male disappearances are more likely to be labeled runaways. Black men on her website never receive national attention and are never seen on television, she said. Therefore there is no Amber Alert and without an Amber Alert there is no media coverage locally or nationally, said Ms. Wilson. Now when it comes to Black men, there are more missing Black men in the United States than missing Black women, according to the FBI missing person's report. The reason I believe that Black men do not receive media exposure is because society, media, and law enforcement like to relate their disappearance to drugs, crime, or violence.

Missing children activist and founder of the website Omega7.com Alonzo Washington agrees Black men and boys get the least amount of media attention for missing persons.

The only Black males that receive coverage are those of high stature, according to Mr. Washington.

If you're grown, a man, and Black, then you can forget about it, Mr. Washington said. Young Black boys may get a little teaser, but never an ongoing investigation like Caylee Anthony, Elizabeth Smart or Samantha Runnion.

The mindset of the media is that if it bleeds it leads, said Det. Richard Adams of the Youth Investigation Division Missing Person Unit in the District of Columbia. Media wants something sensational. They have to have something fantastic and that's going to catch the viewer's eye. It's all about numbers and ratings to them.

William Van Croft IV has been missing from the District of Columbia since January 31, 2009. He has Asperger's Syndrome and went missing a year after the death of his father.
According to Jason Cherkis, who writes an online blog for the Washington City Paper, the D.C. police department waited until Feb. 11 to issue a press release about his disappearance.
In his blog, he cited a comment by Cherita Whiting that speculated about indifference in the Van Croft case. Ms. Whiting is a activist for education in the D.C. metropolitan area.
Billy's mother filed a missing person report with D.C. Youth Investigations on Jan. 31, Ms. Whiting said. It sat on a desk somewhere and they just started investigating this case on 2/10. I have sent multiple messages to the at-large council members and every police officer that I can find who is associated with Ward 1 Precinct 107.
It would make sense that a missing person, especially a special needs teenager could get the attention of the police and public officials to at least have the police issue a press release that the child is missing. This has not been done. When the press release occurs, the media responds and starts spreading the word that Billy is missing.
When it comes to the area you live in, your color, and gender, the more unlikely the police will be in finding you and the less the media will cover you, Mr. Washington said. Even when Jennifer Hudson's nephew was missing, her story took the backseat to the Caylee Anthony story. They covered it for a minute, and now it's like it didn't happen.
According to Det. Adams, every police department has its own way of handling a missing person's case.
Tim Ryan is an assistant news director for KUSA, a local NBC station in Denver, Colo. Ryan said that in almost every case, it's about law enforcement decisions about the importance of the case. He believes the media needs some sort of standard for stories that outlets report on.
There are certain reasons why stories get played or not. I can't tell you if race does play a role. There are cases that we covered of all races that hasn't received national media coverage. Things that make national news are whimsical. I think it is important to state that local media does not make those choices.
Martin G. Reynolds is the editor of the Oakland Tribune in California. Mr. Reynolds said the Tribune doesn't necessarily have a reporter dedicated to missing children and disappearances have to come across the radar to be reported on.
When told about the number of missing Black males, Mr. Reynolds said: They get less positive attention. There is plenty negative attention. We were not aware that there was such a large number particularly in African American children. It was something I wasn't aware of, but something I will look into.
Reporter Kathy Chaney of the Chicago Defender believes Black males do get far less national media coverage, which leads to families looking for other media outlets such as TV shows, like Jerry Springer, Maury Povich, or the Steve Wilkos Show, for publicity.
Ms. Chaney said when the Defender was daily, children reported missing would often be found the same day that their missing person story was printed.
I think they (Black males) get far less coverage, said Ms. Chaney. I think it's because they are boys. It's just not reported of teenage boys running away. I don't think that anyone suspects them of running away or missing. You think of foul play immediately.
Adji Desir and William Van Croft IV, however, are still missing and their stories need to be heard.

Windows Live: Keep your life in sync. Check it out.
| 28789|2009-05-08 17:01:20|womenbeautycare|10 Essential health Tips form Health & Fitness Tips.|

10 Essential health Tips form Health & Fitness Tips.

10 Tips to healthy eating and physical activity for you. 10 Tips to healthy eating and physical activity for you. Start your day with breakfast. ...
21 Tips-Young Secrets
New Wireless Technology

| 28790|2009-05-08 17:01:25|odhiambo okecth|Poverty in Luo Nyanza|
Poverty in Luo Nyanza 9th May 2009

As we salute Jacob Zuma on his inauguration as the 3rd Democratically elected President of South Africa, we must be all agreed that poverty is very rampant in Luo Nyanza. Is it not time enough we looked at the genesis of this poverty, the calibre of leadership that we have had since Independence, and chat the way forward? For development, is it not time we interrogated our leadership?

If we decide to be honest in tackling this issue, as it is said in the Good Book, truth shall set us free. I bet it is time the people of Luo Nyanza faced the hard facts and lived with it.

Just slightly before Independence, the Luo were marshaled for creation of an economic block under the aegis of Luo Thrift and Trading Company. The drive was a big success, not for the Luo, but for those who moved the agenda of Luo Thrift and Trading Company. That was slightly before and after Independence.

In the early nineties, again, the Luo were moved under the aegis of some company that was fronting to buy the then moribund Molasses Plant. Again, like the Luo Thrift, this became a venture that put business, big business into the hands of the movers of this agenda. The drive was a big success, not for the Luo, but for those that moved this agenda.

In the two cases, the Luo as a community was used as a door mat to enrich a cartel. The masses remained poor.

Back to the period just before Independence, the British asked the Late Jaramogi Oginga Odinga to form government. He refused on grounds that the late Jomo was the light of Kenya and no leadership would be given to none other than Jomo Kenyatta. Mzee Kenyatta went on to become the first Prime Minister and later the first President of Kenya.

Fast forward to 2002, Kenyans were ready and willing to remove Mzee Daniel arap Moi from leadership and the time was ripe for change. Hon Raila Odinga, son of Jaramogi, against all odds proclaimed Mzee Kibaki as Tosha. Mzee Kibaki went on to become the 3rd President of Kenya.

Like Jaramogi was shunted from leadership only two years after Independence, Raila was also shunted from leadership only two years into the presidency of Mzee Mwai Kibaki. Like father, like son. They had their chances to lead Kenya, and they all shied away from leadership then the people they fronted, chased them away from leadership.

Come to 2007, Kenyans overwhelmingly voted for Raila Odinga to be President of Kenya. The elections were kind of interfered with and Mzee Kibaki was declared the President and within 15 minutes, he was being sworn in at dusk. The irony was that many people seem to have been assembled to witness the swearing in ceremony. It means that it was planned.

The people revolted and the world came to our rescue and gave Raila 50% of this government. He refused to take it and chose to leave the people behind as he went to government alone. He left his troops and moved into enemy territory. They terrorized him so ruthlessly that when he got some breather, he remembered the people. When he had the chance to move with the people, he chose to move alone. When things became elephant for him, he remembers the people.

No. It is not done like this. Which honest General will forget his troops when food is on the table? You then think of your troops when you have eaten your fill and have nothing to give them? No. That is not leadership. That is puking on our shoes.

With the afore going, can we as a Luo community look at the factors that are obtaining and come up with a clear approach to politics.

I think we have been used. And I think the poverty in Nyanza is induced.

Since Independence we have been religiously electing leaders every 5 years. What have these leaders done to help the Luo?

With the biggest fresh water lake in the world bordering the Luo, what initiatives have our leaders made to empower the common man with the lake? What efforts have our leaders, since Independence, made to make fishing beneficial to our people? How can we harvest fish in Lake Victoria and transport the same all the way to Thika for processing?

Do we need to blame the government for the ineptness of the leadership that we elect by ourselves? How come it is so easy to marshal the Luo to contribute to personal outfits like the Luo Thrift and Trading Company, and again for the purchase of Molasses Plant? But when institutions like Kenya Breweries and Kicomi are closed in Kisumu, the Luo are not marshaled to raise a voice! When the rice irrigation scheme at Ahero collapses, the Luo are not being marshaled to have it reinforced!

No. Poverty is being used to subjugate our people. We are being fed on hot air as our leaders scramble for food. The Luo are being kept perpetually on political rallies at the expense of development.

What efforts have our leaders made to open the infrastructure around the lake? What initiatives have our leaders made on irrigation? What efforts have our leaders made to marshal the people into co-operative societies? What efforts have our leaders made on education? What efforts have our leaders made to bring Rural Electrification around Luo Nyanza? What efforts have our leaders made to have enough hospitals built in Nyanza?

I want to believe that time has come for the Luo to self liberate and partake of the National Cake. Our leaders have been eating on our behalf and they have eaten for so long that they have forgotten that we are out waiting. For how long will our leaders use the Luo as trading and bargaining chips?

The Luo have had three wasted chances all begging for National Leadership and the people we fronted did not rise to the occasion. They chose the easy way out.

If we can have two centres of power at the National Front, we can have the same at the Regional Front as well.

If leadership means doing nothing for your people, then the Luo have a very long way to go. And do not blame it on Kenyatta, Moi, Kibaki or the government. Kikulacho ki nguoni mwako. [Garbage in, garbage out].

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock Nairobi.

| 28791|2009-05-08 17:01:27|Shu Tefnut|Fw: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE, PART II|
From: Shu Tefnut
To: afrikanunity_ofharlem@yahoo.com; HERU BENNU AMEN RA ; Eugene Bennett ; bnyee@googlegroups.com; dr.garaia@africanidea.org; friends@templehealing.com; GatherTheFires@yahoogroups.com; happilynaturalday@yahoogroups.com; hndsupport@gmail.com; luv4self_network@yahoogroups.com; mwananchi@yahoogroups.com; NABSE@yahoogroups.com; nnabakyaala.afrika@gmail.com; openyourthirdeye@yahoo.com; smaitawi@yahoogroups.com; Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com; thanubian2@yahoo.com; trueblackness@yahoogroups.com
Cc: Shu Tefnut
Sent: Monday, May 4, 2009 10:34:51 PM
Subject: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE, PART II

HOTEP/ GREETINGS.

BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:

AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE, PART II

when: May 21, 2009
where: The Mackey Group.
103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
in the basement,
Brooklyn, New York.
time: 8pm. sharp
direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.

THIS WILL BE A POWERPOINT PRESENTATION.

LECTURE CONTENT:

1. Developmentof Paleolithic cultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will review Odawan,
Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.

2. Pre-dynasticperiods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to give a chronological perspective of the art
and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.

3. Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
The foundation of art and architecture that reached its zenith in Egypt.
As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture
of theNubianswho in fact established the canons of art and architecture, and set theSTANDARDfor world art history.

| 28792|2009-05-08 17:01:46|Alex van Deelen|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|
Mahari,

This really is stunning. It would also explain why the bust is so different from the portrayal of Nefertiti as very African in features.

I guess this would also end speculation about the Mitani?

There always was something very Romantic about that statute. As if they took the German aesthetic sense of the early 20th Century, and made a portait to fit it. Maybe it is the way she leans forward. There is something silent movie-ish about her. :)

But it really is astonishing to know that the image is a 20th Century German fake.

Alex
| 28793|2009-05-08 17:01:47|Lamar Perryman|Fw: Check out "Blacks in US face greatest loss of wealth in US histo|

--- On Fri, 5/8/09, Marion Lamar Perryman wrote:

From: Marion Lamar Perryman
Subject: Check out "Blacks in US face greatest loss of wealth in US history" on Nubian Leadership Circle
To: "pharoahisrael@yahoo.com"
Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 9:06 PM

Nubian Leadership Circle

Connecting The Black World

Marion Lamar Perryman

Check out the video 'Blacks in US face greatest loss of wealth in US history'
Black Americans (Including The Euro-Centric Worshipping Black Folks In Leadership Positior Education, Religion, Titles and Image Negroes) Are In Danger of LOSING The Greatest Amou Wealth For

Blacks in US face greatest loss of wealth in US history
Report: Subprime Mortgage Crisis Causing African Americans to Experience Greatest Loss of Wealth in Modern U.S. History A startling ı ...

Video link:
Blacks in US face greatest loss of wealth in US history

About Nubian Leadership Circle

Bringing together Black Leadership globally and opening up lines of communication, and playing a prominent role in the liberation struggle.

286 members
39 photos
6 videos

12 discussions
32 blog posts

To control which emails you receive on Nubian Leadership Circle, click here

| 28794|2009-05-08 17:01:50|Ferg|Re: Bantu in Ancient Egypt Part 2|
Thanks for the suggestion.
I need to find out about the early expeditionsconducted by Thothmes III in Nubia and Ethiopia. Does any one have knowledge of this?
Somo

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Asar Imhotep
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Sent: Tuesday, May 05, 2009 8:50 PM
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Bantu in Ancient Egypt Part 2
>
> Peace
>
> What might help in this investigation is to study images of the landscape of different regions of Africa. Where in central Africa would you find hilly country? Also we would need to investigate where in the written texts this place name is mentioned. Maybe by examining the whole text we can hypothesize with greater accuracy the location of this region.
>
> Ancestrally,
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
> BANTU
> APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE
> &nbs p;

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-VERSITY

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Tue, 5/5/09, Ferg wrote:
From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Bantu in Ancient Egypt Part 2
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 5, 2009, 9:48 AM

Greetings.
Please read the pdf on Bantu in Ancient Egypt part 2
Somo

| 28795|2009-05-08 17:05:40|Tafari khumbaka|lecture in bay area|
http://affiliate.kickapps.com/_AAS-Bay-Area-Lecture-Tour-2009/photo/3738711/35927.html check out this lecture!,, click above

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28796|2009-05-08 17:43:17|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|

> >>As if they took the German > > aesthetic sense of the early 20th Century, and > > made a portait to fit it.<<

You could be right about that. I hadn't thought of that.
However, I saw a "supposed" sculpture of Ramesses II from an Italian museum. It was supposed to be a mixed medium sculpture covered with white limestone (already suspicious as Afrigyptians used stone that was THEIR color - as a rule - brown sandstone, black/brown granite, brown wood, ebony). And, of course, whites as a rule - being predominantly narcissists - used stones their color like white marble, limestone, etc.
This "Egyptian" sculpture seemed suspicious to me - I'll see if I can find it and post it- because it looked caucasian-like, was white AND held this very Romanesque air and pose.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Alex van Deelen" wrote:
>
> Mahari,
>
> This really is stunning. It would also explain
> why the bust is so different from the portrayal
> of Nefertiti as very African in features.
>
> I guess this would also end speculation about the Mitani?
>
> There always was something very Romantic > about that statute. As if they took the German > aesthetic sense of the early 20th Century, and > made a portait to fit it. Maybe it is the way she > leans forward. There is something silent movie-ish > about her. :)
>
> But it really is astonishing to know that the > image is a 20th Century German fake.
>
> Alex
>

| 28797|2009-05-08 18:06:14|Mahari Mengistu|ANOTHER SCULPTURE OF NEFERTITI|

HTP,

MAHARI

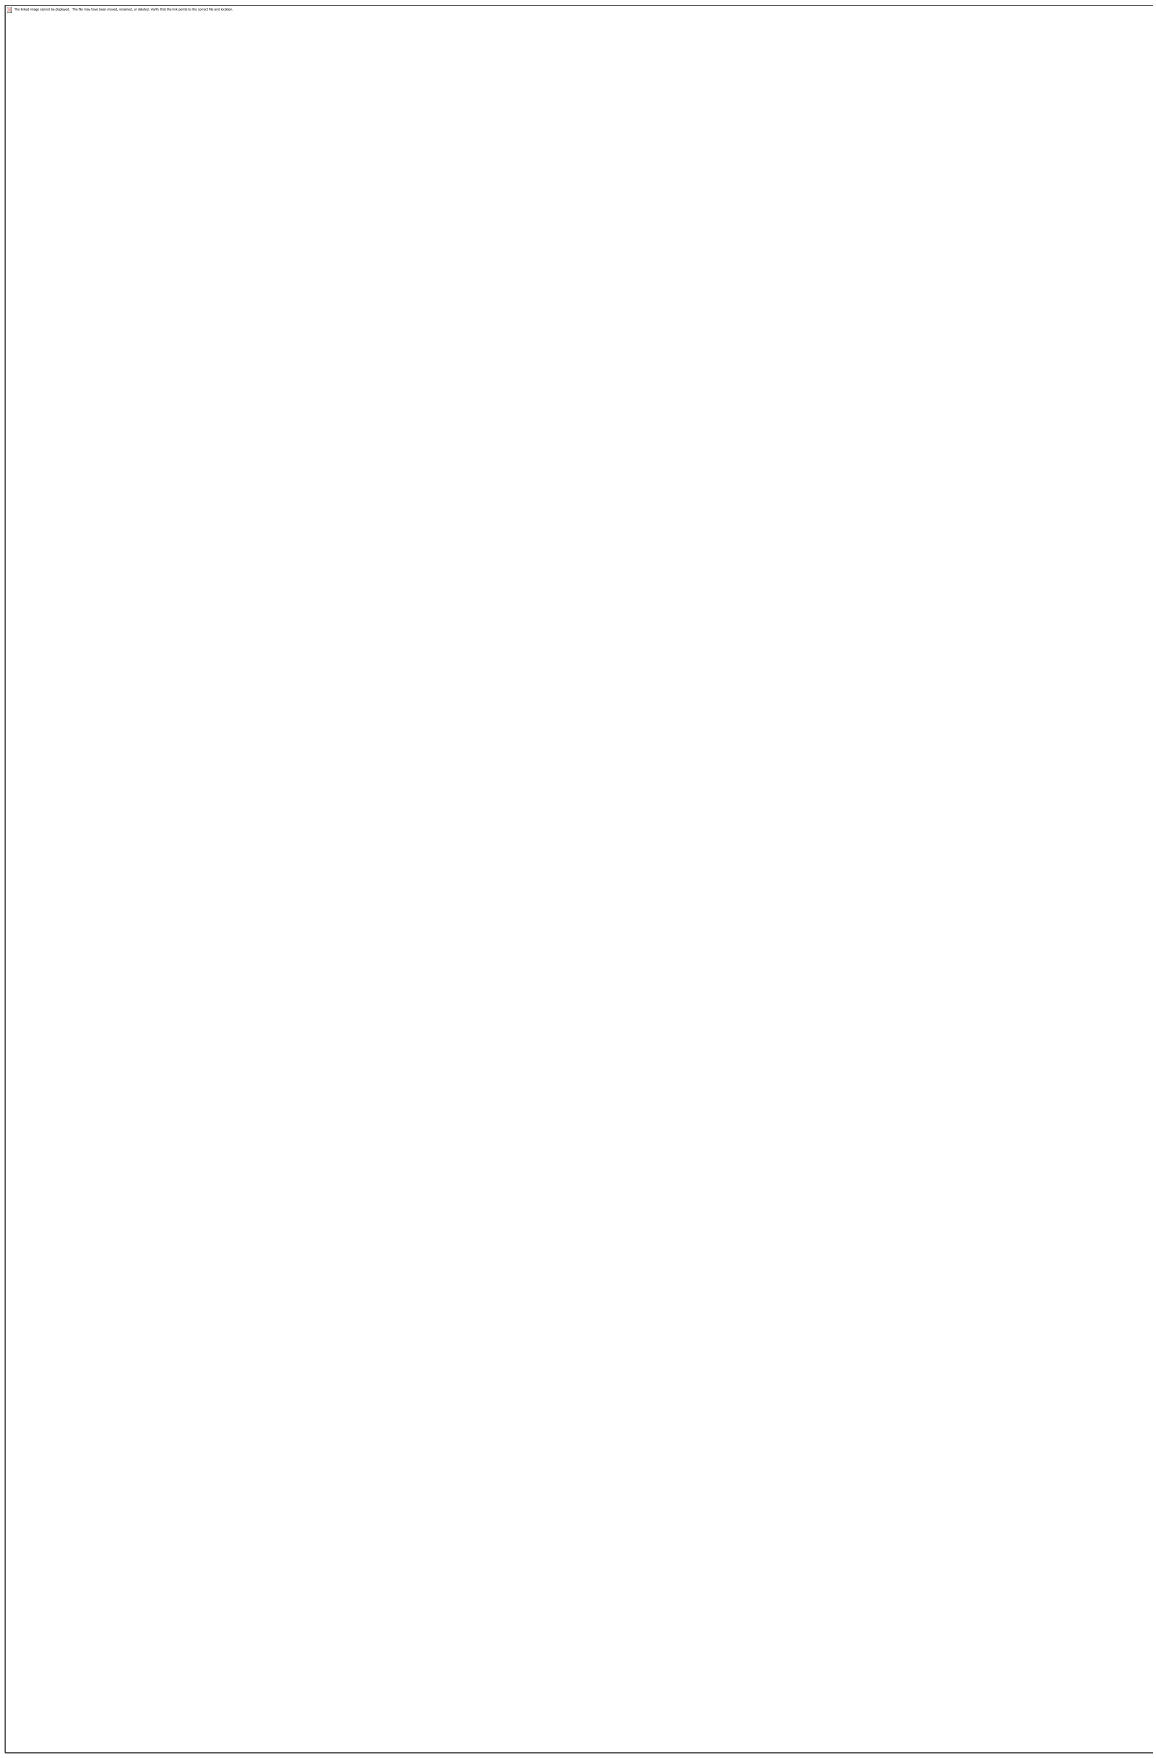
| 28798|2009-05-08 18:21:37|Mahari Mengistu|RAMESSES II|

This is one that I think is fake from the Turin Museum:

The linked image cannot be displayed. The file may have been moved, renamed, or deleted. Verify that the link points to the correct file and location.

HTP,

Mahari



| 28799|2009-05-08 18:26:49|Mahari Mengistu|Re: RAMESSES II|
I could be wrong but I think the artistry is shabby, too. I guess it would be hard to find someone with great artistry willing to create such a sham forgery.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
>
> This is one that I think is fake from the Turin Museum:
>
>
>
> HTP,
>
> Mahari
>
| 28800|2009-05-08 19:23:53|Tafari khumbaka|Re: RAMESSES II|

looks like greco-roman period work

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Fri, 5/8/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:
>
> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] RAMESSES II
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 8:21 PM
>
> This is one that I think is fake from the Turin Museum:

HTP,
Mahari

| 28801|2009-05-08 20:09:17|Sptpy|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|

Yes, this is the real Nefertiti as documented in*Nefertiti Resurrected.*

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8m4rYJBE3gI&playnext=1&playnext_from=QL

Tyrone

Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake'.

Alex van Deelen wrote:

Mahari,

This really is stunning. It would also explain
why the bust is so different from the portrayal
of Nefertiti as very African in features.

| 28802|2009-05-09 04:20:10|Peter Gray|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|

Attachments :

I can't recall which issue, butmany years ago, National Geographic did a special on Nefertiti as illustrated in the numerous blocks recovered from Akhet-Aten (the old Amarna), and it is immediately obvious that the famous Berlin bust could not have been a representation of the African woman portrayed on these blocks. Yet Joann Fletcher herselfseems oblivious to the obvious.

Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: sptpy@sbcglobal.net
Date: Fri, 8 May 2009 20:08:05 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert

Yes, this is the real Nefertiti as documented in*Nefertiti Resurrected.*

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8m4rYJBE3gI&playnext=1&playnext_from=QL

Tyrone

Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake'.

Alex van Deelen wrote:

Mahari,

This really is stunning. It would also explain why the bust is so different from the portrayal of Nefertiti as very African in features.

Windows Live: Keep your life in sync. Check it out.
| 28803|2009-05-09 06:19:20|Shu Tefnut|REMINDER, AFRICA / EGYPT / NUBIA: EDUCATIONAL TOUR.|

Africa / Egypt / Nubia Educational Tour.

August 15th, through August 25th, 2009.

Starting at $2379.00 P.P Double Room

Join Us As We Return to the Motherland.

Join us on our annual tour, as we return to the motherland. Lets experience the great works and wonders of our ancestors, who were the builders of the Great Pyramids, Sphinx, and many temples. You will enjoy the historical sites from Nubia to the Giza Plateau. Experience the beginning of world civilization which was influenced by ancient Egypt. Experience Nubia, which is the foundation and beginning of the Nile Valley civilization which is called Ancient Egypt. We will visit the Nubian Museum which boasts the antiquity of Ancient Egypt with artifacts going back 90,000 years. You will witness and see stone pictographs, tools made of metal (copper) and ancient sites, before there was an Egyptian Dynasty. Learn the history of Egypt and come back to the beginning of knowledge with Bro. Heru Bennu Amen Ra. (aka George Bennett M.F.A.) African Art historian, Archeologist Researcher/Lecturer, From Paleolithic (Kush) to (kemet) Egypt.

Day 1: - Departure from USA

Board your international flight to Cairo and begin your journey back in time to Egypt, and Nubia the holy land.

Day 02 - Cairo

Arrival in the Land of the Pharaohs.At Cairo International airport you will be welcomed and assisted through immigration and customs by our representative, then escorted to Hotel.

Day 03: - Cairo, Aswan

After breakfast, you will begin a full day of sight seeing in Cairo which include the Pyrimids, Sphinx, Egyptian Museum,and the bazaar. Camel ride opportunity-overnight in Cairo.

Transfer to Railway Station to board night train to Aswan. Overnight on board.

The Pyramids of Giza:

The only present-day survivors of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, The Pyramids of Giza are among the worlds greatest tourist attractions and never lose their ability to inspire and overwhelm visitors. The largest and oldest of the Pyramids of Giza is that of Cheops (Khufu). The Pyramids of Khafre the Great and Menkaure the Divine may not be as large in size as the Great Pyramid, but they are no less imposing in fascination.

Sphinx

The Sphinx remains a symbol of strength, wisdom and mystery for eons. Partially buried several times over the years by the shifting desert sands, the Sphinx now stands fully exposed with its impressive dimensions visible to all. The body of a lion with the head of a king or god, the Sphinx lines up with the Pyramid of Khafre. After visiting the Pyramids of Giza, proceed to visit the Egyptian Museum.

The Egyptian Museum

The Egyptian Museum was built during the reign of Khedive Abbass Helmi II in 1897, and opened its doors on November 15, 1902. Today, the museum contains the most important collection of Egyptian antiquities in the world. Exhibited are over 120,000 objects from the Pharaonic and Greco-Roman periods, including the celebrated mummies of ancient Egyptian kings and the treasures of King Tutankhamen. After Lunch, drive to Old Cairo, where early Judaism and Christianity flourished in Egypt. Visit the Ben Ezra Synagogue and Saint Sergious Church

Day 04: Aswan, Abu Simbel, Aswan

transferred to your hotel. The next morning

After breakfast you willbe transferred to airport

for your flight to Abu Simbel visit the colossal Temple of Ramses II and the temple of his beloved Queen Nefertari, both temples carved out of a hillside beside the Nile in the 13th century BC. Transfer back to the airport for your flight back to Aswan. Upon arrival you iewill be escorted to your 4D/3N cruise.

Accommodation aboard your cruise ship will consist of a cabin with private facilities. In the afternoon, you will be escorted to visit the Nubian Museum, Temple of Philae, and the Broken Obelisk

The Nubian Museum

Located in the city of Aswan, on the eastern bank of the Nile, 899 kilometers south of Cairo. The museum is a three-story building with an outdoor exhibition area. It houses the main finds of the UNESCO salvage campaign carried out at the time of the building of the High Dam, which eventually flooded that whole region. Another major exhibit is a diorama which shows the daily life of Nubian villagers. Dinner & overnight on board.

Day 05 : Aswan - Kom Ombo Edfu

Philae Temple

On a small island in the Nile near Aswan stands the amazing Temple of Isis at Philae. This monument is possibly best known for the international effort which moved it in it's entirety to the island when it's original location was threatened by the change in water level caused by the High Dam. The temple has been completely dismantled and rebuilt to the original orientation on the nearby island of Agilika which rises higher from the water and has been reshaped and landscaped to resemble the original Philae. Sail to Komombo. Visit the temple shared by the two Gods sobek and Haroe

Temple of Kom Ombo:

The temple is actually made up of two temples: that of Sobek and that of Haroeris. In ancient time, crocodiles waded in the river. There are two entrances, two courts, two colonnades, two hypostyle halls and two sanctuaries. There were probably even two sets of priests for the two temples. Despite being badly damaged, the temple is a beautiful sight as one approach from either direction on the river, particularly as sunset nears and the colors change. Overnight in Edfu.

Day 06: Edfu - Esna - Luxor

After breakfast, visit the temple of Horus in Edfu

The Temple of Horus:

Of all the temples of ancient Egypt, the one at Edfu is the most complete and best preserved. The reason is that the temple had been totally submerged under the desert except for the very top of the pylon entrance. A small amount of stone had been removed from the exposed part, but when excavated it was found to be in near perfect condition. Sail to Esna, cross the lock, then sail to Luxor and overnight.

Day 07: Luxor

Disembarkation after breakfast. Cross to the west bank. And visit Valley of the Kings, the Temple of Queen Hatshepsut and the Colossi of Memnon.

Valley of the Kings & Queens:

A vast City of the Dead where magnificent tombs were carved into the desert rocks, decorated richly, and filled with treasures for the afterlife by generations of Pharaohs. You will also see the Valley of the Queens.

Temple of Queen Hatshepsut:

The temple built in El Deir El Bahari on the west bank of the Nile in Luxor by queen

Hatshepsut, who ruled Egypt for almost 20 years. She chose a very well protected location as it is surrounded by the mountains

Colossi of Memnon:

Two large colossal sculptures of Amenhotep III also foundation of tample.

On the way back to the river Nile, your road passes by the famed Colossi of Memnon, known in Ancient Greek times for their haunting voices at dawn. Transfer to the railway station to board your first class sleeping train to Cairo. Overnight on board.

Day 08: Cairo

Upon arrival you will be escorted to Hotel in Cairo. Rest of your day at leisure.

Suggested Tour Visit the pyrimids of Saqqara, and the tombs of Kagemeni and Ptah hotep

Day 09: Day of leisure suggested tour

Old Cairo:

Is so named because it is the oldest part of Cairo, and in fact, predates what is now Cairo. Later, the Romans built a fortress here which we call Babylon. Some of these Roman walls still exist. Later, it became a Christian stronghold, with as many as 20 churches built within an area of one square mile. There are only five remaining from which is the Church of St. Sergius (Abu Serga), which legend has it is built atop one of the sites where the Holy Family rested on their flight from Herod. Overnight at hotel.

Day 10: Sun Departure

After breakfast, transfer to Cairo International Airport for your flight back to the USA.

Great trip.

Contact info: For more details contact Dr. Bennett (347-495-4289) or Egyptian Connections at (800-334-4477)

Itinerary subject to change

Day 1	Depart from JFK
Day 2	Upon arrival to Cairo, you will be met and escorted to your Cairo Hotel - Overnight
Day 3	After your breakfast, you will begin your full day of sight-seeing in Cairo, which will include the Egyptian Museum, Bazaar, Pyramids and Sphinx. Camel ride Opportunity - Transfer to train station for trip to Aswan. Overnight on train
Day 4	Upon arrival, transfer to your Hotel for Check in. Afternoon visit of the Nubian Museum. Overnight in Hotel.
Day 5	After Breakfast, transfer to your deluxe Nile Cruise (Optional Abu Simbel Tour). After Orientation, enjoy your tour to the Temple of Philae, which is dedicated to the goddess Isis. Sail to Kom Ombo
Day 6	Visit the Temple of Kom Ombo, shared by the two Gods Sobek & Haroeris. Sail to Edfu. Upon Arrival to Edfu, visit the Temple of Horus. Sail to Luxor Cross the Nile to visit the Valley of the Kings and Queens, the Temple of Hatshepsut and the Day 7	Colossi of Memnon. In the afternoon, visit the Temple of Karnack, the largest religious complex in the world, and the Temple of Luxor with its elegant colonnaded hall, Evening Captain's Dinner party Overnight on Board.

Day 8	Disembark, rest of the day at Leisure in Luxor, 7 PM. Transfer to the train station for a trip to Cairo Overnight on train
Day 9	Day Free at leisure.
Day 10	After your breakfast, you will transfer to the airport for your homebound flight

Africa/Egypt Reservation Form

Please print this Form and e-mail, fax to 201-678-0077, or mail to our address:

Name of Traveler:

Name of Companion:

Phone:

Mailing Address:

(Separate forms should be completed in case more than two are joining the trip)

Payment Information: (Please check the appropriate boxes)

Basic Package	$2379.00
Single Supplement	$239.00
Abu Simbel (Optional)	$230.00

All above are per person Total

Reservation and deposits:

A $200.00 per person deposit by check only is required to initiate the booking.

Full amount is requested 45 days prior to departure date.

Full payment is requested for any booking made less than 45 days before departure.

Note: Payments made by check received less than 30 days prior to departure must be certified.

Cancelation and Refunds:

All cancellations should be received in writing.

$75.00 per person administration fees will apply on all cancellations 45 days prior to departure.

20% cancellation fee will apply 44-30 days prior to departure|50% for 29-7days|100% for less than 7 days

No refund for any unused service while on tour.

No refund can be made for intangible items such as hardship, unpleasantness, or the like.

Travel Insurance is strongly recommended, please call & inquire within.

235 Main St. Suite 202
Hackensack, NJ 07601

www.EgyptOnTheWeb.com

| 28804|2009-05-09 07:19:02|cristofori whitakara|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
sounds like a geodetic reference to me

--- On Fri, 5/8/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 5:47 PM

researching that should keep u on the square(lol)

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 5:57 PM

Some of the very earliest sculpture in Afrigypt has man emerging from a square block. I don't recall what the significance of this is but I have been planning to research it to determine in what ways, if at all, it ultimately evolved in their spiritual philosophy.

HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
> if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
> dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:
>
>
> From: Ferg
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM
>

>
>
>
>
> Greetings.
>
> Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
>
> Somo
>

| 28805|2009-05-09 09:06:12|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca| try coordinating it with the foundation stone, and the throne as auset ,.The throne has a square as its base sometimes with a door, also the planck that is the foundation of the hebsed and throne chapel.
geodetic references are not usually the square or house , but the navel.

establashing itas a reference tothe throne as Auset allows reference to the Ca-Anu(caanite)/hebrew yesod and the yoruba deity Oduduwa sister and wife of Obatala and also Osun who's symbol is the parrot.
metu neter vol1. by Dr. Ra Unnefer Amen is a great reference for comparative religious studies.
Also there's a worth of understanding to be gainedin speculative masonary by understanding the square and the compass.
---
this was taken from the yoruba encyclopedia.
there is an attachment of a pic of the Goddess Oshun in attachment
Several versions of the Yoruba myth of origin exist, the most popular of which revolve around a mysterious figure named Oduduwa. As recorded by one of the earliest Yoruba historians, Reverend Samuel Johnson (an ?y? convert to Christianity), Oduduwa was the head of an invading army from the East (a locale often identified with Mecca, the Sudan, or northeastern Nigeria) who established the constitutional monarchic system of government amongst the indigenous population he found. Other versions of the myth posit that Oduduwa was sent down by ?l?run Olodumare, the Creator, to fashion the first human beings out of the clay soil of Ile-If?. Odudua is also the name of an important Earth goddess, the wife of ?batala, and some scholars postulate a connection between the semi-mythical founder of the If?, ?y?, and Benin monarchic traditions and the ancient female deity. The name Oduduwa has been translated to mean "the one ("O") who created the knowledge ("odu") of character ("iwa"), signifying the figure's paramount role in establishing Yoruba philosophy, whether mythical or historical. The name is also linked to the literature of the Yoruba geomantic divination system, Ifa. The poetic chapters memorized and chanted by divination consultants (babalawo) during an Ifa session are called "odu". It is also possible that there might be a link between the word "Odu" and its various derivatives, and Vodu, the general word for a deity or spirit among neighboring and culturally allied Gbe-speaking ethnicities, including the Fon, Ewe, Mahi, Mina, and Egun.
In theory, Yoruba city-states largely acknowledged the primacy of the ancient city of Ile-If? in religious and political matters, and the majority of traditional potentates claim to be descended from emigrants from the hallowed town. Later, the political power of ?y? and its dynasty of Alaafins overshadowed the prestige of If?-derived political legitimacy, and many other traditional leaders claimed political sanction from ?y?. The southeastern Benin Empire, ruled by a dynasty that traced its ancestry to If? and Oduduwa but largely populated by the ?do and other related ethnicities, also held considerable sway in the election of nobles and kings in eastern Yorubaland.

Most of the city states were controlled by monarchs and councils made up of nobles, guild leaders, and merchants. Different states saw differing ratios of power between the two. Some had powerful, semi-autocratic monarchs with almost total control, while in others the senatorial councils were supreme and the ?ba served as a figurehead. In all cases, Yoruba monarchs were always subject to the continuing approval of their constituents, and could be easily compelled to abdicate for demonstrating dictatorial tendencies or incompetence. The order to vacate the throne was usually communicated through a symbolic message, or aroko, of parrots' eggs delivered by the senators.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 5/9/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 9:18 AM

sounds like a geodetic reference to me

--- On Fri, 5/8/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 5:47 PM

researching that should keep u on the square(lol)

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 5:57 PM

Some of the very earliest sculpture in Afrigypt has man emerging from a square block. I don't recall what the significance of this is but I have been planning to research it to determine in what ways, if at all, it ultimately evolved in their spiritual philosophy.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
> if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
> dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:
>
>
> From: Ferg
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com

> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM
>
>
>
>
>
> Greetings.
>
> Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
>
> Somo
>

| 28806|2009-05-09 10:13:52|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|

Attachments :

this has attachment

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 5/9/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 11:06 AM

try coordinating it with the foundation stone, and the throne as auset ,.The throne has a squ its base sometimes with a door, also the planck that is the foundation of the hebsed and thr chapel.
geodetic references are not usually the square or house , but the navel.

establashing itas a reference tothe throne as Auset allows reference to the Ca-Anu(caanite) /hebrew yesod and the yoruba deity Oduduwa sister and wife of Obatala and also Osun wh symbol is the parrot.
metu neter vol1. by Dr. Ra Unnefer Amen is a great reference for comparative religious st
Also there's a worth of understanding to be gainedin speculative masonary by understandi square and the compass.
---------- --------- --------- --------- --------- --------- -------
this was taken from the yoruba encyclopedia.
there is an attachment of a pic of the Goddess Oshun in attachment Several versions of the Yoruba myth of origin exist, the most popular of which revolve arc mysterious figure named Oduduwa. As recorded by one of the earliest Yoruba historians, Reverend Samuel Johnson

(an ?y? convert to Christianity) , Oduduwa was the head of an invading army from the East (a locale often identified with Mecca, the Sudan, or northeastern Nigeria) who established the constitutional monarchic system of government amongst the indigenous population he found. Other versions of the myth posit that Oduduwa was sent down by ?l?run Olodumare, the Creator, to fashion the first human beings out of the clay soil of Ile-If?. Odudua is also the name of an important Earth goddess, the wife of ?batala, and some scholars postulate a connection between the semi-mythical founder of the If?, ?y?, and Benin monarchic traditions and the ancient female deity. The name Oduduwa has been translated to mean "the one ("O") who created the knowledge ("odu") of character ("iwa"), signifying the figure's paramount role in establishing Yoruba philosophy, whether mythical or historical. The name is also linked to the literature of the Yoruba geomantic divination system, Ifa. The poetic chapters memorized and chanted by divination consultants (babalawo) during an Ifa session are called "odu". It is also possible that there might be a link between the word "Odu" and its various derivatives, and Vodu, the general word for a deity or spirit among neighboring and culturally allied Gbe-speaking ethnicities, including the Fon, Ewe, Mahi, Mina, and Egun.
In theory, Yoruba city-states largely acknowledged the primacy of the ancient city of Ile-If? in religious and political matters, and the majority of traditional potentates claim to be descended from emigrants from the hallowed town. Later, the political power of ?y? and its dynasty of Alaafins overshadowed the prestige of If?-derived political legitimacy, and many other traditional leaders claimed political sanction from ?y?. The southeastern Benin Empire, ruled by a dynasty that traced its ancestry to If? and Oduduwa but largely populated by the ?do and other related ethnicities, also held considerable sway in the election of nobles and kings in eastern Yorubaland.
Most of the city states were controlled by monarchs and councils made up of nobles, guild leaders, and merchants. Different states saw differing ratios of power between the two. Some had powerful, semi-autocratic monarchs with almost total control, while in others the senatorial councils were supreme and the ?ba served as a figurehead. In all cases, Yoruba monarchs were always subject to the continuing approval of their constituents, and could be easily compelled to abdicate for demonstrating dictatorial tendencies or incompetence. The order to vacate the throne was usually communicated through a symbolic message, or aroko, of parrots' eggs delivered by the senators.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 5/9/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 9:18 AM

sounds like a geodetic reference to me

--- On Fri, 5/8/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 5:47 PM

researching that should keep u on the square(lol)

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 5:57 PM

Some of the very earliest sculpture in Afrigypt has man emerging from a square block. I don't recall what the significance of this is but I have been planning to research it to determine in what ways, if at all, it ultimately evolved in their spiritual philosophy.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b or Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnavigate it and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
> Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference.
> if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
> dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:
>
>
> From: Ferg
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Greetings.
>
> Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
>
> Somo
>

| 28807|2009-05-09 10:34:17|IMJs@webtv.net|OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!!|
Rear Admiral Michelle Howard is head of the U.S. Navy's anti-piracy task force in the Gulf of Aden. She had just taken on her new duties a few days before the Somali pirate attack on the Mearesk Alabama! .... She runs command from the U.S.S. Boxer.

http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2009/05/06/admiral-michelle-howard-e_n_198230.html
http://www.whataboutourdaughters.com/2009/04/admiral-michelle-howard-fights-off-pirates/

In a generation, a sea change has come to the U.S. Navy
http://cnhinews.com/node/1910

On a related note, Spike TV is launching a reality TV show following the U.S. Navy's anti-piracy forces near the Horn of Africa, tentatively called Pirate Hunters: USN. They will have cameras on the USS Boxer.
| 28808|2009-05-09 10:40:23|Tafari khumbaka|Re: OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!|
america can sit in its easy chairs and see desperate africans killed and inprisoned without any nations laws as europe and japan rape somali waters and dump on somali shores.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Sat, 5/9/09, IMJs@webtv.net wrote:
>
> From: IMJs@webtv.net
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!!
> To: africanclassicalhistory@yahoogroups.co.uk, Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 12:31 PM
>
> Rear Admiral Michelle Howard is head of the U.S. Navy's anti-piracy task force in the Gulf of Aden. She had just taken on her new duties a few days before the Somali pirate attack on the Mearesk Alabama! .... She runs command from the U.S.S. Boxer.
>
> http://www.huffingt onpost.com/ 2009/05/06/ admiral-michelle -howard-e_ n_198230. html
> http://www.whatabou tourdaughters. com/2009/ 04/admiral- michelle- howard- fights- off-pirates/
>
> In a generation, a sea change has come to the U.S. Navy > http://cnhinews. com/node/ 1910
>
> ---
> On a related note, Spike TV is launching a reality TV show following the > U.S. Navy's anti-piracy forces near the Horn of Africa, tentatively > called Pirate Hunters: USN. They will have cameras on the USS Boxer.

| 28809|2009-05-09 13:05:01|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|
Peter,
White people tend to be "logically" psychotic in general. And of course, this psychosis manifests itself very frequently in destructive physical acts. An example of this is the 25% of Americans (whites undoubtedly) who just simply want to blame Obama for the current state of America - actually for everything negative- even though all of this clearly started before he ascended to office.

Though I think you may be misjudging her - I watched the full program - whites have a consistent way of affirming blackness while at the same time dis-affirming it's essential blackness/Afrakanness.
That's CRAZY.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Peter Gray wrote:
>
>
> I can't recall which issue, but many years ago, National Geographic did a special on Nefertiti as illustrated in the numerous blocks recovered from Akhet-Aten (the old Amarna), and it is immediately obvious that the famous Berlin bust could not have been a representation of the African woman portrayed on these blocks. Yet Joann Fletcher herself seems oblivious to the obvious.
>
>
>
> Peter
>
>
>
>
>
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> From: sptpy@...
> Date: Fri, 8 May 2009 20:08:05 -0700
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert
>
>
>
> Yes, this is the real Nefertiti as documented in Nefertiti Resurrected.
>
>
> http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8m4rYJBE3gI&playnext=1&playnext_from=QL
>
>
> Tyrone
>
>
>
>
> Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake'.
>
>
>

> Alex van Deelen wrote:
>
>
> Mahari,
>
> This really is stunning. It would also explain
> why the bust is so different from the portrayal
> of Nefertiti as very African in features.
> _____
> Windows Live?: Keep your life in sync.
> http://windowslive.com/explore?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_BR_life_in_synch_052009
>
| 28810|2009-05-09 13:05:52|keon garraway|Re: OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!|
Divide and conquer. A black woman is now responsible for keeping the Somalis in line.
Keon Garraway

From: Tafari khumbaka
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Saturday, May 9, 2009 1:40:11 PM
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!!

america can sit in its easy chairs and see desperate africans killed and inprisoned without any nations laws as europe and japan rape somali waters and dump on somali shores.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 5/9/09, IMJs@webtv.net wrote:

From: IMJs@webtv.net
Subject: [Ta_Seti] OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!!
To: africanclassicalhistory@yahoogroups.co.uk, Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 12:31 PM

Rear Admiral Michelle Howard is head of the U.S. Navy's anti-piracy task force in the Gulf of Aden. She had just taken on her new duties a few days before the Somali pirate attack on the Mearesk Alabama! .... She runs command from the U.S.S. Boxer.

http://www.huffingt onpost.com/ 2009/05/06/ admiral-michelle -howard-e_ n_198230. html
http://www.whatabou tourdaughters. com/2009/ 04/admiral- michelle- howard- fights- off-pirates/

In a generation, a sea change has come to the U.S. Navy
http://cnhinews. com/node/ 1910

On a related note, Spike TV is launching a reality TV show following the U.S. Navy's anti-piracy forces near the Horn of Africa, tentatively called Pirate Hunters: USN. They will have cameras on the USS Boxer.

| 28811|2009-05-09 13:07:51|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
>
> Peter,
> White people tend to be "logically" psychotic in general.
>

Why make statements like this?

It's a generalization that gets us nowhere and resembles the same type of racial statements often use against people of color.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28812|2009-05-09 13:56:49|Lamar Perryman|Fw: [black_freethinkers] Problems in black community traced|

--- On Sat, 5/9/09, fred douglass wrote:

From: fred douglass
Subject: [black_freethinkers] Problems in black community traced
To: black_freethinkers@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 8:28 PM

Problems in black community traced to slavery

(August/September 2003 Issue)

It's a new theory that's been raising interest, eyebrows, and some ire. Omar G. Reid, Psy.D., along with his colleagues at Pyramid Builders Associates in Roxbury, Mass. have posited that many problems within the black community today can be directly traced to slavery.

Their theory, that many African-Americans are suffering from what they call Post Traumatic Slavery Disorder (PTSlaveryD) , points to the high numbers of blacks in prison, on drugs, and living in single-parent households as evidence of the lasting effects of the way blacks learned to cope with the trauma of slavery.

New England Psychologist' s Catherine Robertson Souter spoke with Reid to get a better understanding of this theory and how the clinical work he and his colleagues are doing at Pyramid Builders has helped clients overcome their issues and rejoin society.

Q: On what do you base your theory?

A: The National Center for Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, a center for multigenerational legacies of trauma down in New York, has done extensive work, looking at different groups and how trauma or slavery has impacted them over the years. The center has done extensive research and has robust information on different groups like Cambodians, Japanese internees groups that have had effects from trauma, especially like slavery or the Holocaust, over the years.

Q: You believe that current societal problems found within the black American community can be traced to slavery. Specifically, what problems?

A: If you go to the U. S. Census Bureau, there are a couple of things. One is the high incarceration rate for black males; another is the dropout rate. Another is the large number of female-headed households.

The key thing about our theory is this is not about blaming whites. This has nothing to do with reparations. We are saying that a lot of the problems that blacks face today can be traced back to slavery.

Let me give you an example. I'm working with a man who is 49 years old. He has five children and doesn't take care of any of them. His father had no relationship with him. When he did some research, [he found that] his grandfather and grandmother weren't ever married and his great-grandfather was a buck on the plantation. During slavery, black men were forced to have sex to breed babies. The problem is that you numb yourself. You don't get close to your children or the women because they were going to be sold. At one point, this [reaction] was functional but now it's dysfunctional because it's continuing. The cycle never stopped. After slavery ended, there was no one saying, 'Let's regroup, let's go get some counseling.' That was not available.

Another thing is that a lot of black males reject education. Even in black colleges, black males do poorly. They have a 33 percent graduation rate at a black college. During slavery in certain areas, people who were caught reading were killed. So education was not something you went after. This was exacerbated after [the Civil War] because even with an education you still couldn't get a job. A lot of blacks didn't even think about education as a way to make it in the mainstream. That same attitude is now dysfunctional because a lot of black males don't pursue higher education, don't take school seriously or reject it because it's considered being white.

Another issue is work. I went to a forum years ago on racism and a lot of whites said, 'Blacks don't want to work - they are lazy.' But, we have a different work experience compared to Europeans or other foreigners. If you came from Russia or England or Ireland, and you worked, you could move up. For blacks that came here, working hard meant early death. The work ethic is totally distorted for black Americans.

Q: And the point is that this attitude gets passed from father to son, father to son. What about the women?

A: Well, the roles were switched. For years, black women were the only ones allowed jobs - as nannies or maids. There was no such thing as a nuclear family on the plantation but it was further distorted once people left the plantation because the black man was sort of emasculated - he couldn't get a job.

Black women were forced into a position where they became the economic breadwinner of the home. It's the way things have worked. Even today, she can get a job - she's black and a woman, filling two quotas.

The other thing with black women is that they still come with some of the old slave mentality - especially those who are dark skinned.

For example, my last client is a 47 year old black woman who was suicidal. She is a dark-skinned black but she grew up in a household where her sisters were light-skinned. When we did a family tree, we found that her great grandmother was the offspring of the slave master. Now, she's the only dark-skinned one. In her home, she got it from relatives that she was ugly and it was reinforced by black media and the community.

A lot of blacks are really damaged not necessarily from white society, but from within their own community - from ideologies, from beliefs that are held over from slavery.

Q: How do you treat this problem?

A: What we do in treatment is to teach them to look at their family history and show them how this came about and how their thinking has been distorted.

It's very difficult to tell people to pull themselves up by their bootstraps when they psychologically think that they can't. It's like that old thing where you have the dog in a cage and you shock it and after a while it doesn't go out. You could sit down and counsel a black guy, 'Now go out and get a GED and go get a job.' They can't do it. They have to be hand held and walked. We also help them develop higher income skills to survive.

We have had a 99 percent success rate with all the men who have come to us.

Q: Meaning what? What is "success"?

A: Meaning that they are now able to function in society - get involved, get a job, drop down the alcohol and drugs.

Q: There has been some resistance to your theory. Why?

A: We've been attacked by some of the black middle class. They say, 'Well, I made it.' And I say to them, look at your family history. If we compared you to the black guy who's sitting in state prison, your background is still different. Yes, there is a black middle class, but the majority is poor and uneducated and doing poorly and statistics show it. Connecticut just put out new statistics: One out of 14 black males is incarcerated - compared to one out of 2,790 white males. We only make up 12 percent of the US population but we make up almost 60 percent of the prison population.

Q: What kind of response have you gotten within the world of psychology?

A: From folks who understand trauma we've gotten a lot of praise. No one's really looked at how the mass of blacks was affected by the slavery legacy. There are now a lot of black psychologists, black social workers contacting us to come speak. It's starting to become a movement. We are working on coming up with our own "DSM" [description] . So, if someone has a client come in and they are dealing with what we call PTSlaveryD, how does that translate to lay terms under the regular system, the mainstream? That's going to be out in January.

We plan to continue to do more talk shows, radio, etc., and offer the book for diversity programs in colleges. We have problems, not from whites, but from the black elite, the blacks who are well to do. They look at it as playing the victim role. When you give them the statistics, using the Census Bureau, all they can say is "Well, we don't know why that is." Well, we're telling you this is what is causing these numbers to be like this. This is not something we've made up. Statistics show what is going on with blacks in general and we're saying that there's a cause for that.

| 28813|2009-05-09 20:40:59|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|the 1st Naga's|

Attachments :

Queen Amanitare, wife of her co-ruler, Natakamani. The inscription is in both Egyptian and Merotic hieroglyphs, and so is important for knowing how to translate Merotic script
"the abovewas taken from a website on meroe see attachment"

History of Tanganyika:

Tanganyika (now Tanzania) is the cradle of mankind. In 1959 in the north of the country, in the Olduvai Gorge, Dr. Louis Leakey discovered the fossilized remains of Zinjanthropus calculated to be 1.75 million years old, the forerunner of modern man. South of Olduvai Gorge, a trail of hominid foot prints 3,600,000 years ago were discovered at Laoteli only 30 kilometers from Olduvai Gorge.

Tanzania is home of about 126 African tribes, the majority being of Bantu origin who migrated into Tanzania from West and Central Africa. While in Tanzania, they assimilated most of the people of Khoisan and Cushitic origin who had been there since the 3rd and 1st centuries BC respectively. Very few groups of people of these origins (Khoisan and Cushitic) remain in Tanzania today.

Besides peoples of Bantu, Cushitic and Khoisan origin, there are also groups of Nilotic origin the most famous being the Maasai. These are said to have settle in Tanzania in the 1st century AD. On the other hand, the Ngoni tribe, fleeing from "mfecane" (the times of troubles) brought about by the Zulu expansion under their famous King, Shaka, entered southwestern Tanzania in 1840 and defeated the Fipa who moved to northwestern Tanzania.

this was taken from a site comparing fiji with tanganiyka

Tanganyika
(the 1st Naga's)
tanzania= ta nehisi
tanganyky,tanganyika=ta naga
the ancient people of Meroe were the peopleruling southern ancient egypt they had several powerful cities. To the north they ruled napata and much of the sixth cataract of ancient egypt and to the south they finally took refuge in the ancient capital city of Naga approx. 40miles away(named after their south ancestoral lands).
the height of their culture was in early dynastic times before the rise of pharonic anc. egypt. During their movement northbuilding the Great city of Uaseth/Wawat/thebes theybecame the bloodline of the predynastic God kings spoken of by Manetho, and always returned too by the kings of the north who saught their privilege to the throne by marrying the priestess's of Uaseth-Opeth(later amun-Ra) .

their homeland was TaNeter , the great lakes region of Africa Ta-Naga and Ta-Nyanzi the mountains of the moon , the whole area of rrwenzori ,kilimanjaro ,lake tangyniyka, lake nyanzi. this makes the the early people of this region the direct bloodline of the house's/kings of ancient egypt and the Per-ah King of kings of Smai-Taui.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28814|2009-05-09 21:21:13|clyde winters|Re: the 1st Naga's|
Hi
I have translated several of these text. Check them out here:
http://www.arkamani.org/arkamani-library/meroitic/natakamani-and-amanitore.htm
Enjoy.
Clyde

--- On Sat, 5/9/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] the 1st Naga's
To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 10:40 PM

Queen Amanitare, wife of her co-ruler, Natakamani. The inscription is in both Egyptian and Merotic hieroglyphs, and so is important for knowing how to translate Merotic script
"the abovewas taken from a website on meroe see attachment"
---------- --------- --

History of Tanganyika:

Tanganyika (now Tanzania) is the cradle of mankind. In 1959 in the north of the country, in the Olduvai Gorge, Dr. Louis Leakey discovered the fossilized remains of Zinjanthropus calculated to be 1.75 million years old, the forerunner of modern man. South of Olduvai Gorge, a trail of hominid foot prints 3,600,000 years ago were discovered at Laoteli only 30 kilometers from Olduvai Gorge.

Tanzania is home of about 126 African tribes, the majority being of Bantu origin who migrated into Tanzania from West and Central Africa. While in Tanzania, they assimilated most of the people of Khoisan and Cushitic origin who had been there since the 3rd and 1st centuries BC respectively. Very few groups of people of these origins (Khoisan and Cushitic) remain in Tanzania today.

Besides peoples of Bantu, Cushitic and Khoisan origin, there are also groups of Nilotic origin the most famous being the Maasai. These are said to have settle in Tanzania in the 1st century AD. On the other hand, the Ngoni tribe, fleeing from "mfecane" (the times of troubles) brought about by the Zulu expansion under their famous King, Shaka, entered southwestern Tanzania in 1840 and defeated the Fipa who moved to northwestern Tanzania.

this was taken from a site comparing fiji with tanganiyka
---------- --------- --------- --------- --------- -----
Tanganyika
(the 1st Naga's)
tanzania= ta nehisi
tanganyky,tanganyik a=ta naga
the ancient people of Meroe were the peopleruling southern ancient egypt they had several powerful cities. To the north they ruled napata and much of the sixth cataract of ancient egypt and to the south they finally took refuge in the ancient capital city of Naga approx. 40miles away(named after their south ancestoral lands).
the height of their culture was in early dynastic times before the rise of pharonic anc. egypt. During their movement northbuilding the Great city of Uaseth/Wawat/ thebes theybecame the bloodline of the predynastic God kings spoken of by Manetho, and always returned too by the kings of the north who saught their privilege to the throne by marrying the priestess's of Uaseth-Opeth(later amun-Ra) .
their homeland was TaNeter , the great lakes region of Africa Ta-Naga and Ta-Nyanzi the mountains of the moon , the whole area of rrwenzori ,kilimanjaro ,lake tangyniyka, lake nyanzi.
this makes the the early people of this region the direct bloodline of the house's/kings of ancient egypt and the Per-ah King of kings of Smai-Taui.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28815|2009-05-09 21:56:44|Tafari khumbaka|Re: the 1st Naga's| seen some of your work, tua/thanks, ...

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 5/9/09, clyde winters wrote:

From: clyde winters
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] the 1st Naga's
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 11:21 PM

Hi
I have translated several of these text. Check them out here:
http://www.arkamani .org/arkamani- library/meroitic /natakamani- and-amanitore. htm
Enjoy.

Clyde

--- On Sat, 5/9/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] the 1st Naga's
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 10:40 PM

Queen Amanitare, wife of her co-ruler, Natakamani. The inscription is in both Egyptian ar Merotic hieroglyphs, and so is important for knowing how to translate Merotic script
"the abovewas taken from a website on meroe see attachment"
---------- --------- --

History of Tanganyika:

Tanganyika (now Tanzania) is the cradle of mankind. In 1959 in the north of the country, in the Olduvai Gorge, Dr. Louis Leakey discovered the fossilized remains of Zinjanthropus calculated to be 1.75 million years old, the forerunner of modern man. South of Olduvai Gorge, a trail of hominid foot prints 3,600,000 years ago were discovered at Laoteli only 30 kilometers from Olduvai Gorge.

Tanzania is home of about 126 African tribes, the majority being of Bantu origin who migrated into Tanzania from West and Central Africa. While in Tanzania, they assimilated most of the people of Khoisan and Cushitic origin who had been there since the 3rd and 1st centuries I respectively. Very few groups of people of these origins (Khoisan and Cushitic) remain in Tanzania today.

Besides peoples of Bantu, Cushitic and Khoisan origin, there are also groups of Nilotic ori most famous being the Maasai. These are said to have settle in Tanzania in the 1st century On the other hand, the Ngoni tribe, fleeing from "mfecane" (the times of troubles) brought by the Zulu expansion under their famous King, Shaka, entered southwestern Tanzania in and defeated the Fipa who moved to northwestern Tanzania.

this was taken from a site comparing fiji with tanganiyka
---------- --------- --------- --------- --------- -----
Tanganyika
(the 1st Naga's)
tanzania= ta nehisi
tanganyky,tanganyik a=ta naga
the ancient people of Meroe were the peopleruling southern ancient egypt they had several powerful cities. To the north they ruled napata and much of the sixth cataract of ancient eg and to the south they finally took refuge in the ancient capital city of Naga approx. 40mile away(named after their south ancestoral lands).
the height of their culture was in early dynastic times before the rise of pharonic anc. egyp

> During their movement northbuilding the Great city of Uaseth/Wawat/ thebes theybecame the bloodline of the predynastic God kings spoken of by Manetho, and always returned too by the kings of the north who saught their privilege to the throne by marrying the priestess's of Uaseth-Opeth(later amun-Ra) .
> their homeland was TaNeter , the great lakes region of Africa Ta-Naga and Ta-Nyanzi the mountains of the moon , the whole area of rrwenzori ,kilimanjaro ,lake tangyniyka, lake nyanzi. this makes the the early people of this region the direct bloodline of the house's/kings of ancient egypt and the Per-ah King of kings of Smai-Taui.
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28816|2009-05-10 02:55:50|Obadele (abibitumikasa.com)|Fw: Akan (Twi) & Yoruba Online & Ghana Classes begin week of May 11;|

Live Interactive Online and Accra, Ghana Afrikan Language Classes

Register for Free Afrikan Liberation Institute

Sign Up for AKALI Mailing List

Abibitumi Kasa Fundraiser

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: "akyeame_kwame@yahoo.com"
To: akyeame_kwame@yahoo.com
Sent: Monday, May 4, 2009 2:30:53 PM
Subject: Akan (Twi) & Yoruba Online & Ghana Classes begin week of May 11; FREE Mwalimu Baruti Lecture 5/16: Yurugu's Eunuchs; Survival Training 6/19-6/21

Intro & Inter. Akan (Twi) & Yoruba Online Classes begin week of May 11

Four Simple Steps to SUCCESSFUL registration for class:

Have you registered for the class: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html

Have you submitted payment for the class: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/payment.html

Have you registered and logged into the forums: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php

Have you clicked on member classroom (where the classes are held): http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

http://www.abibitumikasa.com/classes.html

Who: All Afrikan people who are serious about being Afrikan

What: You are invited to join one month (8 class) sessions of Introductory Twi or Yoruba or one month (4 class) online and in Ghana and online sessions of Intermediate Twi or Yoruba.

When: Next class session begins the week of May 11, 2009 (Click here for schedule http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/calendar.php)

Monday AND Wednesday Intro Yoruba 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

Tuesday AND Thursday Intro Twi 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

AND

Sunday Intermediate Twi 1:00PM-3:00PM EST

Sunday Intermediate Yoruba 4:00PM-6:00PM EST

Twi Classes in Ghana will be held at 5:30PM on Tuesdays and Thursdays

Where: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php
Classes in Ghana will be held at Asasse Pa restaurant.

How: To access the online member classroom, you must register for the Abibitumi Kasa site at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php

You'll need to do this if you don't have an account already.

If you already have an account at the site, login at this link:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/login.php

From there click on the link to member classroom on any page at the site at class time or visit the link to the member classroom here directly at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

Learn to hook up your audio and/or webcam for class and more at:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

How Much: 195 USD for eight (8) class Introductory Class; 97.50 USD for four (4) class Intermediate Class; Contact us about cost of advanced individual tutorials http://www.abibitumikasa.com/contact.html

Why: Repatriation, Visit, Interacting with Family, and more. Let us know your reason for wanting to learn Afrikan languages via our Prospective Student Questionnaire
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/nsemmisa.pdf

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

What: Mwalimu Baruti Online Lecture, Entitled Yurugu's Eunuchs
When: May 16, 6249, 7:30pm-9:30pm
Who: Your Afrikan self!
Where: Abibitumi Kasa Member Classroom
How Much: FREE!!!
How: Register at free forum at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php then click member classroom or on this link: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php
A continuing part of our Abibitumi Kasa fundraiser:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/fundraiser.html

A discussion of my latest book by the same title which was written in response to the growing efforts by homosexualized and effeminized (and masculinized female) Afrikans to redefine warriorhood along gender confused lines.

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

Black Survival Network Flyer
SURVIVAL TRAINING CAMP

http://www.blacksurvivalnetwork.com

JUNE 19-20, 2009

Friday night thru Sunday afternoon

Camp Queen Nzinga

At the

Black Oaks Center for Sustainable Living

Pembroke, Illinois (1 hour south of Chicago)

This camp is open to all conscious Afrikans ages 7 and up.

Come and learn the survival skills of- water treatment, first aid, wild food foraging, self defense, land navigation, map reading, fire making, group survival and more!

Fee: $85 (includes all camping and training equipment)

Orientation Session for those in the Chicago area:

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3RD at 7PM

Center for Inner City Studies-700 E. Oakwood Blvd

For more info and to register call Gimbu- 773-268-7500 ext. 126 Monday through Friday 9-5

773-415-1814 Evenings and weekends

The Black Survival Network recognizes that we live in an insecure world. The ravages of Hurricane Katrina, the global food crisis, skyrocketing energy costs, and many other crises begs the questions - where is the world headed? How bad will things get? And more to the point - are you and your family prepared for what's yet to come?

When Africans were brought to the United States in 1619, they were brought for the express purpose of providing labor for the emerging colony. From 1619 until 1865 African labor fueled the economic machinery of the United States, transforming it from an agrarian society into an industrial giant.

But with the end of slavery arose a new question. This question - termed the Negro question asked succinctly: What is to be done about the troublesome presence of the Negro? Abraham Lincoln proposed mass deportation. Others since him have proposed mass sterilization and the relegation of the Black masses to the lowest rungs of the U.S. class structure. Despite the range of proposals the goal has been the same: the maximum control and subordination of the masses of African people.

These control mechanisms have been both psychological and social. This subordination has been economic, political, and cultural. The imperiled state of the Black masses of New Orleans, LA is indicative of the manufactured deprivations born of racism/white supremacy. The brutal murder of Sean Bell in New York, NY is indicative of the devaluation of Black life and the failure of Africans in America to effectively response to our dehumanization. All of these crises may pale relative to the looming specters of Global Warming, Peak Oil, and water scarcity where whole sectors of the United States and the Earth will become uninhabitable.

What will Africans do? What will you do?

We are taught by our ancestors that a "shield is not made on the battlefield". The Black Survival Network exists as the vanguard formation promoting the education, organization, empowerment, and independence of African people. If you are determined to survive, if you are resolved to create a different future for Africans, your community, your family, and yourself then "the time to prepare is now!"

webmaster@blacksurvivalnetwork.com

| 28817|2009-05-10 07:36:25|Peter Gray|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|
Mahari,

I'm unaware of some statement you seem to attribute to me. Please elaborate. Thanks.

Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: pmanansala@sbcglobal.net
Date: Sat, 9 May 2009 20:07:29 +0000
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Mahari Mengistu" wrote:
> >
> > Peter,
> > White people tend to be "logically" psychotic in general.
> >

Why make statements like this?

It's a generalization that gets us nowhere and resembles the same type of racial statements often use against people of color.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.
| 28818|2009-05-10 07:38:04|Peter Gray|Re: OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!|
Ms. Garraway,

Aren't you being a little bit cynical? Would you have made the same statement had it been Colin Powell?

Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: eroica1@yahoo.com
Date: Sat, 9 May 2009 10:50:42 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!!

Divide and conquer. A black woman is now responsible for keeping the Somalis in line.
Keon Garraway

From: Tafari khumbaka
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Sent: Saturday, May 9, 2009 1:40:11 PM
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!!

america can sit in its easy chairs and see desperate africans killed and inprisoned without any nations laws as europe and japan rape somali waters and dump on somali shores.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

> --- On Sat, 5/9/09, IMJs@webtv.net wrote:
>
> From: IMJs@webtv.net
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] OT - Black Woman Rear Adm. Heads Navy's Anti-Piracy Task Force!!!
> To: africanclassicalhis tory@yahoogroups .co.uk, Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 12:31 PM

Rear Admiral Michelle Howard is head of the U.S. Navy's anti-piracy task force in the Gulf of Aden. She had just taken on her new duties a few days before the Somali pirate attack on the Mearesk Alabama! .... She runs command from the U.S.S. Boxer.

http://www.huffingt onpost.com/ 2009/05/06/ admiral-michelle -howard-e_ n_198230. html
http://www.whatabou tourdaughters. com/2009/ 04/admiral- michelle- howard- fights- off-pirates/

In a generation, a sea change has come to the U.S. Navy
http://cnhinews. com/node/ 1910

On a related note, Spike TV is launching a reality TV show following the U.S. Navy's anti-piracy forces near the Horn of Africa, tentatively called Pirate Hunters: USN. They will have cameras on the USS Boxer.

Windows Live: Keep your life in sync. Check it out.
| 28819|2009-05-10 07:39:27|Peter Gray|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|
OK Mahari, I understand the context of your statement now.
Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: mahari@myway.com
Date: Sat, 9 May 2009 20:03:55 +0000
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert

Peter,
White people tend to be "logically" psychotic in general. And of course, this psychosis manifests itself very frequently in destructive physical acts. An example of this is the 25% of Americans (whites undoubtedly) who just simply want to blame Obama for the current state of America - actually for everything negative- even though all of this clearly started before he ascended to office.

Though I think you may be misjudging her - I watched the full program - whites have a consistent way of affirming blackness while at the same time dis-affirming it's essential blackness/Afrakanne ss.
That's CRAZY.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Peter Gray wrote:
>
>
> I can't recall which issue, but many years ago, National Geographic did a special on Nefertiti as illustrated in the numerous blocks recovered from Akhet-Aten (the old Amarna), and it is immediately obvious that the famous Berlin bust could not have been a representation of the African woman portrayed on these blocks. Yet Joann Fletcher herself seems oblivious to the obvious.
>
>
>
> Peter
>
>
>
>
>
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> From: sptpy@...
> Date: Fri, 8 May 2009 20:08:05 -0700
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert
>
>
>
> Yes, this is the real Nefertiti as documented in Nefertiti Resurrected.
>
>
> http://www.youtube. com/watch? v=8m4rYJBE3gI& playnext= 1&playnext_ from=QL
>
>
> Tyrone
>
>
>
>
> Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake'.
>
>

>
> Alex van Deelen wrote:
>
>
> Mahari,
>
> This really is stunning. It would also explain
> why the bust is so different from the portrayal
> of Nefertiti as very African in features.
> _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _
> Windows Live: Keep your life in sync.
> http://windowslive. com/explore? ocid=TXT_ TAGLM_BR_ life_in_synch_ 052009
>

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.
| 28820|2009-05-10 09:14:05|Alex van Deelen|African Origins Of Egyptian Civilization Getting More Traction|
It was always obvious that a place to look for the origins of Egyptian civilization was farther upstream. However, even the National Geographic is now on board, even quatling S.O.Y Keita extensively. I wonder where that leaves the Black Athena debate.

From the National Geographic website:

http://ngm.nationalgeographic.com/geopedia/Ancient_Egypt

Geography and Climate
By GeoPedia Expert
ver. 15 - Thu, Sep 18, 2008 at 12:49:39 PM

The origins of ancient Egyptian society, culture, and people have long been of interest to scholars from different disciplines. While the term "origins" is multidimensional, here it refers to the geography of a population's linguistic, cultural, and biological beginnings and its wider connections.

By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute

Like its modern counterpart, ancient Egypt was centered on the Nile Valley in the eastern Sahara, Africa's largest desert. The climate history of this part of the continent, which has varied over time, has likely played a major role in how humans have moved and interacted through the millennia. This region was likely a major route for the exodus of modern humans from Africa.

Between 50,000 and 15,000 years ago the desert area west of the Nile was inhabited sparsely, if at all, due to the region's aridity. During this period a succession of cultures flourished on the banks of the Nile. As rains came in from equatorial Africa in the early Holocene, the desert became less arid, and people moved into the Sahara from all directions. Between 10,000 and 6,000 B.C. archaeological evidence has been interpreted to suggest that the number of people living along the Nile fell. At the same time, in the desert west of the river there is evidence of an increase in population and of pastoral societies that built large stone megaliths and sculptures, developed astronomical knowledge, made the earliest known pottery in Africa, and, likely, domesticated cattle. There are rock paintings of people and animals, sometimes using themes that also appear later in Egypt, along with other aspects of the culture. After the climate again grew more arid after 6000 B.C. there is evidence for migration back into the Nile Valley.

Bibliography

Autuori, J. C. "Egypt, Africa and the Ancient World." In Proceedings of the Seventh International Congress of Egyptologists, ed. C. J. Eyre. Orientalia Lovaniensia, 1998.

Hassan, F. A. "The Predynastic of Egypt." Journal of World Prehistory (June 1988), 135-85.

Kuper, R., and S. Kropelin. "Climate-controlled Holocene Occupation in the Sahara: Motor of Africa's Evolution." Science (August 2006), 803-07.

Wendorf, F., R. Schild, and Associates. Holocene Settlement of the Egyptian Sahara. Kluwer, 2001.

[Suggest a GeoPedia Topic] [Ask a Question] [Submit a Link]

Human Biology

By GeoPedia Expert

ver. 5 - Tue, Sep 16, 2008 at 12:22:49 PM

By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute

Based on fossil and DNA evidence, modern humans may have existed in Africa as many as 140,000 years before they successfully colonized other parts of the world. Considering this from an evolutionary perspective, we should expect great diversity among indigenous Africans, and this is what has been found, even when northern African populations have been excluded from the research. All human populations exhibit biological variation in one way or another, and there is no single way to be biologically African-not by DNA, skin color, hair form, blood type, or variation of face and nose.

Fossil remains of modern humans have been found in the Nile Valley, including those of a child from Taramsa, in Egypt, believed to date to 60,000 to 50,000 years ago, though perhaps to as much as 80,000 years ago. The Nazlet Khater skeleton, also from Egypt, dates to around 33,000 years ago. Excavations in Egypt have also produced skeletal remains that date back to the cultures immediately preceding and following the first kings of a united Egypt, around 3100 B.C. By carefully using various scientific techniques, one can determine changes over time in the skeletal pattern of a particular place. The pattern of the craniofacial region and long bones is believed by most investigators to be helpful in understanding the forces of evolution on a population and, in some cases, when the pattern can be combined with other information, the population's region of origin. A similar pattern among different groups may indicate either a common ancestral origin, population interactions via intermarriage, and/or a common adaptive pattern related to the environment. Other information may help in assessing the meaning of similarity.

There has been scholarly interest in the biological variation and genealogical relationship of the ancient Egyptians to other populations outside of the Egyptian Nile Valley. There is no scientific reason to believe that the primary ancestors of the Egyptian population emerged and evolved outside of northeast Africa. Skeletal analyses have figured prominently in research. When comparisons to non-Egyptians are made, depending on which samples and methods are used, the craniofacial patterns of ancient Egyptian show a range of similarities to other African populations, Near Easterners, and Europeans. Overall, these studies can be interpreted as suggesting that the Egyptian Nile Valley's indigenous population had a craniofacial pattern that evolved and emerged in northeastern Africa, whose geography in relationship to climate largely explains the variation. Dental affinity studies generally agree with the craniofacial results, though they differ in the details. The body proportions of ancient Egyptians generally are similar to those of tropical (more southern) Africans.

Very little DNA has been retrieved from ancient Egyptian remains, and there are not many studies on the modern population. However, the results of analyses of mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) and the Y chromosome in the living Egyptian population show the existence of very old African lineages that are consistent with the fossil remains and of younger lineages of more recent evolution, along with evidence of the assimilation of later migrants from the Near East and Europe; mtDNA is passed only through the female line, from mother to offspring, and the relevant part of the Y chromosome, the nonrecombining section, passes only from father to son. The basic overall genetic profile of the modern population is consistent with the diversity of ancient populations that would have been indigenous to northeastern Africa and subject to the range of evolutionary influences over time, although researchers vary in the details of their explanations of those influences.

Bibliography

Brauer, G., and K. Rimbach. "Late Archaic and Modern Homo sapiens From Europe, Africa, and Southwest Asia: Craniometric Comparisons and Phylogenetic Implications." Journal of Human Evolution. Vol. 19 (1990), 789-807.

Cruciani, F., and others. "Tracing Past Human Male Movements in Northern/Eastern Africa and Western Eurasia: New Clues From Y-chromosomal Haplogroups E-M78 and J-M12." Molecular Biology and Evolution. Vol. 24 (2007), 1300-11.

Howells, W. W. "Cranial Variation in Man." Papers of the Peabody Museum. Harvard, 1973.

Irish, J. D. "Who Were the Ancient Egyptians? Dental Affinities Among Neolithic Through Postdynastic Peoples." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 129 (2006), 529-43.

Mukherjee, R., and others. The Ancient Inhabitants of Jebel Moya. Cambridge University, 1955.

Keita, S. O. Y. "Studies and Comments on Ancient Egyptian Biological Relationships." History in Africa. Vol. 20 (1993), 129-54.

Keita, S. O. Y. "History in the Interpretation of the Pattern of p49a,f,Taq RFLP Y-chromosome Variation in Egypt: A consideration of Multiple Lines of Evidence." American Journal of Human Biology. Vol. 17 (2005), 559-67.

Keita, S.O.Y., and A. J. Boyce. "Temporal Variation in Phenetic Affinity of Early Upper Egyptian Male Cranial Series." Human Biology. (April 2008), 141-159.

Krings, M., and others. "MtDNA Analysis of Nile River Valley Populations: A Genetic Corridor or a Barrier to Migration?" American Journal of Human Genetics. Vol. 64 (1999), 1166-76.

Lucotte, G., and G. Mercier. "Brief Communication: Y-chromosome Haplotypes in Egypt." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 121 (2003), 63-66.

Yu, Ning, and others. "Larger Genetic Differences Within Africans Than

Between Africans and Eurasians." Genetics (May 2002), 269-74.

Vermeersch, P. M., and others. "Discovery of the Nazlet Khater Man, Upper Egypt." Journal of Human Evolution. Vol. 13 (1984), 281-86.

Vermeersch, P. M., and others. "A Middle Paleolithic Burial of a Human at Taramsa Hill, Egypt." Antiquity. Vol. 72 (1998), 475-84.

Zakrzewski, S. R. "Variation in Ancient Egyptian Stature and Body Proportions." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 121 (2003), 219-29.

Zakrzewski, S. R. "Population Continuity or Population Change: Formation of the Ancient Egyptian State." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 132 (2007), 501-09.
[Suggest a GeoPedia Topic] [Ask a Question] [Submit a Link]
Linguistics and writing
By GeoPedia Expert
ver. 6 - Tue, Sep 16, 2008 at 12:24:10 PM

By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute

Ancient Egyptian, with Coptic, forms one branch or family within the Afro-Asiatic linguistic phylum that also includes Cushitic, Semitic, Chadic, Berber, and Omotic, according to most scholars. (Ongota was recently added by some scholars.) Linguists have found that, in general, two principles-"greatest diversity" and "least moves"-can help determine the likely geographical origin of a language phylum, or family. Greatest diversity can be illustrated by the fact that all but one of the Afro-Asiatic families, Semitic, is found exclusively in Africa; the African branches are spread from East Africa north, west, and northwest down the Nile to the Mediterranean coast, Sahara, and west Sahel. This geographical distribution, coupled with the presence of Omotic and Ongota only in Ethiopia-both viewed as having more features in common with ancestral Afro-Asiatic than do the other branches-is interpreted as indicating that Afro-Asiatic originated in Africa. Using the least-moves principle, one can conclude that this distribution is consistent with an origin in Ethiopia, Sudan, or the eastern Sahara. Analyses indicate that ancestral Afro-Asiatic, perhaps dating to 15,000 to 10,000 B.C., was spoken by hunters and gatherers and not farmers or pastoralists (food producers).

Linguistics and writing can give some clues to migration or major cultural interactions. Semitic and perhaps Sumerian speakers in the Near East developed agriculture some 2,000 years before it emerged in the Nile Valley. If Egypt had been peopled by a mass migration of farmers from the Near East, ancient Egyptians would have spoken either a Semitic language or Sumerian (considered a language isolate, meaning that it has no obvious close relatives). Although certain major domesticated species used in Egypt came from the Near East, it is interesting to note that the words for these in Egyptian were not borrowed from any members of the Semitic family whose common ancestor had terms for them. They are all Egyptian.

The beginnings of Egyptian writing can be traced back to the cultures that led to dynastic Egypt. Flora and fauna used in the hieroglyphs are Nilotic, indicating that the writing system developed locally, with some symbols traceable back to a period before the first dynasty rulers emerged. The titles for the king, major officials, and the royal insignia are Egyptian, which is of interest because one old theory held that the dynastic Egyptians or their elites came from the Near East; however, the archaeological evidence shows that they came from southern Egypt.

Bibliography

Diakonoff, I. M. "The Earliest Semitic Society: Linguistic Data." Journal of Semitic Studies. Vol. 4 (1998), 209-19.

Ehret, C. Reconstructing Proto-Afroasiatic, Proto-Afrasian Vowels, Tone, Consonants and Vocabulary. University of California, 1995.

Ehret, C. "Ancient Egyptian as an African Language, Egypt as an African Culture." In Egypt in Africa, ed. T. Celenko. Indianapolis Museum of Art and Indiana University, 1996.

Ehret, C. "Language and History." In African Languages: An Introduction. Cambridge University, 2000.

Ehret, C. and others. "The Origins of Afroasiatic." Science (December 2004), 1680.

Mokhtar, G., with J. Vercoutter. "Introduction." In General History of Africa, ed. G. Mokhtar. Vol. 2. UNESCO, 1981.

Nichols, J. "Modeling Ancient Population Structure and Movement in Linguistics." Annual Review of Anthropology. Vol. 26 (1997), 359-84.

[Suggest a GeoPedia Topic] [Ask a Question] [Submit a Link]

Archaeology

By GeoPedia Expert

ver. 3 - Tue, Sep 16, 2008 at 12:27:53 PM

By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute

The Neolithic (food-producing) cultures after 6000 B.C. in the Nile Valley became a part of the foundation for the ancient Egyptian way of life. The archaeology of early Egypt indicates continuity with local cultural traditions along the Nile as well influences from the Sahara, Sudan, and Asia (the Near East). The Neolithic cultures in northern Egypt show evidence over time of varying contacts, with Saharan influences the most dominant. In the case of food procurement, ancestral Egyptians living on Lake Fayum added to their tradition of foraging by raising Near Eastern domesticated plants (wheat and barley) and animals (sheep and goats). Domesticated cattle came from the Sahara but may also have come from the Near East. Considering that wheat and barley agriculture was practiced in Asia (the Near East) 2,000 years before it was in Egypt, it is important to note that the early Egyptian way of life did not change abruptly at this time (around 5000 B.C.), which is what one would expect if Egypt had simply been peopled by farmers migrating from the Near East. These early Egyptians incorporated the new food stuffs and techniques-and likely some people-into their culture and society on their own terms.

The major features of cultural and political development that led to dynastic Egypt originated in southern Egypt during what is called the predynastic period. Some evidence suggests that predynastic Egyptian and early Nubian cultures had ties to the early Saharan cultures and shared a Saharo-Nilotic heritage. Perhaps the earliest predynastic culture, the Badarian-Tasian* (4400 B.C. or earlier, to 4000 B.C.), had the clearest ties to Saharan cultures in the desert west of Nubia. The subsequent development, known as Naqada culture (3900 to around 3050 B.C.) by numerous scholars, had three phases and led directly to the 1st dynasty in southern Egypt without a break or evidence of foreign domination. It had three major centers in Upper Egypt, the small kingdoms of Naqada, Hierakonpolis, and Abydos, which came to be a much revered place in Egypt. The cemetery grounds of Abydos contain the largest tomb of a predynastic ruler, along with the burials of all the kings of the 1st dynasty. Naqada culture expanded north in its later phases, culturally incorporating northern Egypt before the 1st dynasty. There is also evidence at some sites-including Hierakonpolis, where the famous Narmer Palette was found-for interactions with Nubian societies, specifically one called the A-Group, whose kings shared some insignia with Egypt. By the time the 1st dynasty began, Egypt and Nubia were rivals; Egypt defeated the A-Group state and incorporated its territory, which became a part of the first province of Upper Egypt.

(*The existence of the Tasian as a distinct culture has been disputed, and it is usually treated as a part of the Badarian. Some Tasian and early Nubian pottery show striking similarities.)

Bibliography

Bard, K. "The Egyptian Predynastic. A Review of the Evidence." Journal of

Field Archaeology. Vol. 21 (1994), 265-88.

Hassan, F. A. "The Predynastic of Egypt." Journal of World Prehistory. Vol. 2 (1988), 135-85.

Klees, F., and R. Kuper. New Light on the Northeast African Past. Heinrich Barth Institut, 1992.

Midant-Reynes, B. The Prehistory of Egypt. Blackwell, 2000.

Wetterstrom, W. "Foraging and Farming in Egypt: The Transition From Hunting and Gathering to Horticulture in the Nile Valley." In The Archaeology of Africa. Routledge, 1993.

Williams, B. B. The A-Group Cemetery at Qustul: Cemetery L. University of Chicago, 1988.

Wilkinson, T. Early Dynastic Egypt. Routledge, 2001

Last updated: September 8, 2008

| 28821|2009-05-10 10:11:45|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: African Origins Of Egyptian Civilization Getting More Traction|

Alex, I'm going out on a limb but probably by the next generation i.e, 20-40 years, it will be pretty much universally accepted in "reputable" circles that pre-dynastic and early dynastic Egyptians were practically the same people as Lower Nubians.

Some differences in languages but culturally and biologically they were continuous with each other having the same Nile lifeline, and both were mostly descended from Africans further to the South.

I also suspect that there will still be debate about the amount of "influence" from Mesopotamia, but this will be a two-way debate while now it mostly goes in only one direction. Also the influence will be seen as primarily as one of technology transfer rather than the old "New Race" theory.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Alex van Deelen" wrote:
>
> It was always obvious that a place to look for the origins > of Egyptian civilization was farther upstream. However,
> even the National Geographic is now on board, even > quatling S.O.Y Keita extensively. I wonder where > that leaves the Black Athena debate.

>
> From the National Geographic website:
>
> http://ngm.nationalgeographic.com/geopedia/Ancient_Egypt
>
> Geography and Climate
> By GeoPedia Expert
> ver. 15 - Thu, Sep 18, 2008 at 12:49:39 PM
>
> The origins of ancient Egyptian society, culture, and people have long been > of interest to scholars from different disciplines. While the term "origins" > is multidimensional, here it refers to the geography of a population's > linguistic, cultural, and biological beginnings and its wider connections.
>
> By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, > Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute
>
> Like its modern counterpart, ancient Egypt was centered on the Nile Valley > in the eastern Sahara, Africa's largest desert. The climate history of this > part of the continent, which has varied over time, has likely played a major > role in how humans have moved and interacted through the millennia. This > region was likely a major route for the exodus of modern humans from Africa.
>
> Between 50,000 and 15,000 years ago the desert area west of the Nile was > inhabited sparsely, if at all, due to the region's aridity. During this > period a succession of cultures flourished on the banks of the Nile. As > rains came in from equatorial Africa in the early Holocene, the desert > became less arid, and people moved into the Sahara from all directions.
> Between 10,000 and 6,000 B.C. archaeological evidence has been interpreted > to suggest that the number of people living along the Nile fell. At the same > time, in the desert west of the river there is evidence of an increase in > population and of pastoral societies that built large stone megaliths and > sculptures, developed astronomical knowledge, made the earliest known > pottery in Africa, and, likely, domesticated cattle. There are rock > paintings of people and animals, sometimes using themes that also appear > later in Egypt, along with other aspects of the culture. After the climate > again grew more arid after 6000 B.C. there is evidence for migration back > into the Nile Valley.
>
> Bibliography
> Autuori, J. C. "Egypt, Africa and the Ancient World." In Proceedings of the > Seventh International Congress of Egyptologists, ed. C. J. Eyre. Orientalia > Lovaniensia, 1998.
>
> Hassan, F. A. "The Predynastic of Egypt." Journal of World Prehistory (June > 1988), 135-85.

>
> Kuper, R., and S. Kropelin. "Climate-controlled Holocene Occupation in the > Sahara: Motor of Africa's Evolution." Science (August 2006), 803-07.
>
> Wendorf, F., R. Schild, and Associates. Holocene Settlement of the Egyptian
> Sahara. Kluwer, 2001.
> [Suggest a GeoPedia Topic] [Ask a Question] [Submit a Link]
> Human Biology
> By GeoPedia Expert
> ver. 5 - Tue, Sep 16, 2008 at 12:22:49 PM
>
> By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, > Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute
>
> Based on fossil and DNA evidence, modern humans may have existed in Africa > as many as 140,000 years before they successfully colonized other parts of > the world. Considering this from an evolutionary perspective, we should > expect great diversity among indigenous Africans, and this is what has been > found, even when northern African populations have been excluded from the > research. All human populations exhibit biological variation in one way or > another, and there is no single way to be biologically African-not by DNA, > skin color, hair form, blood type, or variation of face and nose.
>
> Fossil remains of modern humans have been found in the Nile Valley, > including those of a child from Taramsa, in Egypt, believed to date to > 60,000 to 50,000 years ago, though perhaps to as much as 80,000 years ago.
> The Nazlet Khater skeleton, also from Egypt, dates to around 33,000 years > ago. Excavations in Egypt have also produced skeletal remains that date back > to the cultures immediately preceding and following the first kings of a > united Egypt, around 3100 B.C. By carefully using various scientific > techniques, one can determine changes over time in the skeletal pattern of a > particular place. The pattern of the craniofacial region and long bones is > believed by most investigators to be helpful in understanding the forces of > evolution on a population and, in some cases, when the pattern can be > combined with other information, the population's region of origin. A > similar pattern among different groups may indicate either a common > ancestral origin, population interactions via intermarriage, and/or a common > adaptive pattern related to the environment. Other information may help in > assessing the meaning of similarity.
>
> There has been scholarly interest in the biological variation and > genealogical relationship of the ancient Egyptians to other populations > outside of the Egyptian Nile Valley. There is no scientific reason to > believe that the primary ancestors of the Egyptian population emerged and > evolved outside of northeast Africa. Skeletal analyses have figured > prominently in research. When comparisons to non-Egyptians are made, > depending on which samples and methods are used, the craniofacial patterns > of ancient Egyptian show a range of similarities to other African > populations, Near Easterners, and Europeans. Overall, these studies can be > interpreted as suggesting that the Egyptian Nile Valley's indigenous > population had a craniofacial pattern that evolved and emerged in > northeastern Africa, whose geography in relationship to climate largely > explains the variation. Dental affinity studies generally agree with the > craniofacial results, though they differ in the details. The body > proportions of ancient Egyptians generally are similar to those of tropical > (more southern) Africans.

>
> Very little DNA has been retrieved from ancient Egyptian remains, and there > are not many studies on the modern population. However, the results of > analyses of mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) and the Y chromosome in the living > Egyptian population show the existence of very old African lineages that are > consistent with the fossil remains and of younger lineages of more recent > evolution, along with evidence of the assimilation of later migrants from > the Near East and Europe; mtDNA is passed only through the female line, from > mother to offspring, and the relevant part of the Y chromosome, the > nonrecombining section, passes only from father to son. The basic overall > genetic profile of the modern population is consistent with the diversity of > ancient populations that would have been indigenous to northeastern Africa > and subject to the range of evolutionary influences over time, although > researchers vary in the details of their explanations of those influences.
>
> Bibliography
> Brauer, G., and K. Rimbach. "Late Archaic and Modern Homo sapiens From > Europe, Africa, and Southwest Asia: Craniometric Comparisons and > Phylogenetic Implications." Journal of Human Evolution. Vol. 19 (1990), > 789-807.
>
> Cruciani, F., and others. "Tracing Past Human Male Movements in > Northern/Eastern Africa and Western Eurasia: New Clues From Y-chromosomal > Haplogroups E-M78 and J-M12." Molecular Biology and Evolution. Vol. 24 > (2007), 1300-11.
>
> Howells, W. W. "Cranial Variation in Man." Papers of the Peabody Museum.
> Harvard, 1973.
>
> Irish, J. D. "Who Were the Ancient Egyptians? Dental Affinities Among > Neolithic Through Postdynastic Peoples." American Journal of Physical > Anthropology. Vol. 129 (2006), 529-43.
>
> Mukherjee, R., and others. The Ancient Inhabitants of Jebel Moya. Cambridge > University, 1955.

>
> Keita, S. O. Y. "Studies and Comments on Ancient Egyptian Biological > Relationships." History in Africa. Vol. 20 (1993), 129-54.
>
> Keita, S. O. Y. "History in the Interpretation of the Pattern of p49a,f,Taq > RFLP Y-chromosome Variation in Egypt: A consideration of Multiple Lines of > Evidence." American Journal of Human Biology. Vol. 17 (2005), 559-67.
>
> Keita, S.O.Y., and A. J. Boyce. "Temporal Variation in Phenetic Affinity of > Early Upper Egyptian Male Cranial Series." Human Biology. (April 2008), > 141-159.
>
> Krings, M., and others. "MtDNA Analysis of Nile River Valley Populations: A > Genetic Corridor or a Barrier to Migration?" American Journal of Human > Genetics. Vol. 64 (1999), 1166-76.
>
> Lucotte, G., and G. Mercier. "Brief Communication: Y-chromosome Haplotypes > in Egypt." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 121 (2003), > 63-66.
>
> Yu, Ning, and others. "Larger Genetic Differences Within Africans Than > Between Africans and Eurasians." Genetics (May 2002), 269-74.
>
> Vermeersch, P. M., and others. "Discovery of the Nazlet Khater Man, Upper > Egypt." Journal of Human Evolution. Vol. 13 (1984), 281-86.
>
> Vermeersch, P. M., and others. "A Middle Paleolithic Burial of a Human at > Taramsa Hill, Egypt." Antiquity. Vol. 72 (1998), 475-84.
>
> Zakrzewski, S. R. "Variation in Ancient Egyptian Stature and Body > Proportions." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 121 (2003), > 219-29.
>
> Zakrzewski, S. R. "Population Continuity or Population Change: Formation of > the Ancient Egyptian State." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol.
> 132 (2007), 501-09.
> [Suggest a GeoPedia Topic] [Ask a Question] [Submit a Link]
> Linguistics and writing
> By GeoPedia Expert
> ver. 6 - Tue, Sep 16, 2008 at 12:24:10 PM
>
> By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, > Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute
>
> Ancient Egyptian, with Coptic, forms one branch or family within the > Afro-Asiatic linguistic phylum that also includes Cushitic, Semitic, Chadic, > Berber, and Omotic, according to most scholars. (Ongota was recently added > by some scholars.) Linguists have found that, in general, two principles-> "greatest diversity" and "least moves"-can help determine the likely > geographical origin of a language phylum, or family. Greatest diversity can > be illustrated by the fact that all but one of the Afro-Asiatic families, > Semitic, is found exclusively in Africa; the African branches are spread > from East Africa north, west, and northwest down the Nile to the > Mediterranean coast, Sahara, and west Sahel. This geographical distribution, > coupled with the presence of Omotic and Ongota only in Ethiopia-both viewed > as having more features in common with ancestral Afro-Asiatic than do the > other branches-is interpreted as indicating that Afro-Asiatic originated in > Africa. Using the least-moves principle, one can conclude that this > distribution is consistent with an origin in Ethiopia, Sudan, or the eastern > Sahara. Analyses indicate that ancestral Afro-Asiatic, perhaps dating to > 15,000 to 10,000 B.C., was spoken by hunters and gatherers and not farmers > or pastoralists (food producers).

>
> Linguistics and writing can give some clues to migration or major cultural > interactions. Semitic and perhaps Sumerian speakers in the Near East > developed agriculture some 2,000 years before it emerged in the Nile Valley.
> If Egypt had been peopled by a mass migration of farmers from the Near East, > ancient Egyptians would have spoken either a Semitic language or Sumerian > (considered a language isolate, meaning that it has no obvious close > relatives). Although certain major domesticated species used in Egypt came > from the Near East, it is interesting to note that the words for these in > Egyptian were not borrowed from any members of the Semitic family whose > common ancestor had terms for them. They are all Egyptian.
>
> The beginnings of Egyptian writing can be traced back to the cultures that > led to dynastic Egypt. Flora and fauna used in the hieroglyphs are Nilotic, > indicating that the writing system developed locally, with some symbols > traceable back to a period before the first dynasty rulers emerged. The > titles for the king, major officials, and the royal insignia are Egyptian, > which is of interest because one old theory held that the dynastic Egyptians > or their elites came from the Near East; however, the archaeological > evidence shows that they came from southern Egypt.
>
> Bibliography
> Diakonoff, I. M. "The Earliest Semitic Society: Linguistic Data." Journal of > Semitic Studies. Vol. 4 (1998), 209-19.
>
> Ehret, C. Reconstructing Proto-Afroasiatic, Proto-Afrasian Vowels, Tone, > Consonants and Vocabulary. University of California, 1995.
>
> Ehret, C. "Ancient Egyptian as an African Language, Egypt as an African > Culture." In Egypt in Africa, ed. T. Celenko. Indianapolis Museum of Art and > Indiana University, 1996.

>
> Ehret, C. "Language and History." In African Languages: An Introduction.
> Cambridge University, 2000.
>
> Ehret, C. and others. "The Origins of Afroasiatic." Science (December 2004), > 1680.
>
> Mokhtar, G., with J. Vercoutter. "Introduction." In General History of > Africa, ed. G. Mokhtar. Vol. 2. UNESCO, 1981.
>
> Nichols, J. "Modeling Ancient Population Structure and Movement in > Linguistics." Annual Review of Anthropology. Vol. 26 (1997), 359-84.
> [Suggest a GeoPedia Topic] [Ask a Question] [Submit a Link]
> Archaeology
> By GeoPedia Expert
> ver. 3 - Tue, Sep 16, 2008 at 12:27:53 PM
>
> By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, > Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute
>
> The Neolithic (food-producing) cultures after 6000 B.C. in the Nile Valley > became a part of the foundation for the ancient Egyptian way of life. The > archaeology of early Egypt indicates continuity with local cultural > traditions along the Nile as well influences from the Sahara, Sudan, and > Asia (the Near East). The Neolithic cultures in northern Egypt show evidence > over time of varying contacts, with Saharan influences the most dominant. In > the case of food procurement, ancestral Egyptians living on Lake Fayum added > to their tradition of foraging by raising Near Eastern domesticated plants > (wheat and barley) and animals (sheep and goats). Domesticated cattle came > from the Sahara but may also have come from the Near East. Considering that > wheat and barley agriculture was practiced in Asia (the Near East) 2,000 > years before it was in Egypt, it is important to note that the early > Egyptian way of life did not change abruptly at this time (around 5000 > B.C.), which is what one would expect if Egypt had simply been peopled by > farmers migrating from the Near East. These early Egyptians incorporated the > new food stuffs and techniques-and likely some people-into their culture and > society on their own terms.
>
> The major features of cultural and political development that led to > dynastic Egypt originated in southern Egypt during what is called the > predynastic period. Some evidence suggests that predynastic Egyptian and > early Nubian cultures had ties to the early Saharan cultures and shared a > Saharo-Nilotic heritage. Perhaps the earliest predynastic culture, the > Badarian-Tasian* (4400 B.C. or earlier, to 4000 B.C.), had the clearest ties > to Saharan cultures in the desert west of Nubia. The subsequent development, > known as Naqada culture (3900 to around 3050 B.C.) by numerous scholars, had > three phases and led directly to the 1st dynasty in southern Egypt without a > break or evidence of foreign domination. It had three major centers in Upper > Egypt, the small kingdoms of Naqada, Hierakonpolis, and Abydos, which came > to be a much revered place in Egypt. The cemetery grounds of Abydos contain > the largest tomb of a predynastic ruler, along with the burials of all the > kings of the 1st dynasty. Naqada culture expanded north in its later phases, > culturally incorporating northern Egypt before the 1st dynasty. There is > also evidence at some sites-including Hierakonpolis, where the famous Narmer > Palette was found-for interactions with Nubian societies, specifically one > called the A-Group, whose kings shared some insignia with Egypt. By the time > the 1st dynasty began, Egypt and Nubia were rivals; Egypt defeated the

> A-Group state and incorporated its territory, which became a part of the > first province of Upper Egypt.
>
> (*The existence of the Tasian as a distinct culture has been disputed, and > it is usually treated as a part of the Badarian. Some Tasian and early > Nubian pottery show striking similarities.)
>
> Bibliography
> Bard, K. "The Egyptian Predynastic. A Review of the Evidence." Journal of > Field Archaeology. Vol. 21 (1994), 265-88.
>
> Hassan, F. A. "The Predynastic of Egypt." Journal of World Prehistory. Vol.
> 2 (1988), 135-85.
>
> Klees, F., and R. Kuper. New Light on the Northeast African Past. Heinrich
> Barth Institut, 1992.
>
> Midant-Reynes, B. The Prehistory of Egypt. Blackwell, 2000.
>
> Wetterstrom, W. "Foraging and Farming in Egypt: The Transition From Hunting > and Gathering to Horticulture in the Nile Valley." In The Archaeology of > Africa. Routledge, 1993.
>
> Williams, B. B. The A-Group Cemetery at Qustul: Cemetery L. University of > Chicago, 1988.
>
> Wilkinson, T. Early Dynastic Egypt. Routledge, 2001
>
> Last updated: September 8, 2008
>
| 28822|2009-05-10 11:13:52|odhiambo okecth|Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Poverty in Luo Nyanza|
In Central Province, Mungiki have taken over due to bad leadership. Do we wait for the youths in Nyanza to also form a Mungiki outfit?

Food for thought though. Lets explore some more.....

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sun, 5/10/09, Migori Clan wrote:

From: Migori Clan
Subject: [YP_Ke] Re: Poverty in Luo Nyanza
To: "panafricanist" , pointb@eastandard.net, "progressiveminds" , "Publiceye" , regionalnews@ppa.or.ke, "Royal Media" , "siasa" , SonsofAfrika@yahoogroups.com, "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , youngkenyansforchange@yahoogroups.com, youngprofessionals_ke@googlegroups.com, "youthagenda"
Cc: "Paul Nyandoto" , "HERU BENNU AMEN RA" , smaitawi@yahoogroups.com, SOA@yahoogroups.com, "Alpha Sports" , "Sungu" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, TheBlackList@yahoogroups.com, trueblackness@yahoogroups.com, "ugandacom" , "odm uk" , "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , "VOU" , yiffkenya@yahoogroups.com
Date: Sunday, May 10, 2009, 3:02 AM

Your arguments on the course of poverty are genuine, perhaps not enetirely new. Many people have diagnozed Nyanza's problems in terms of leadership. But leadership alone is not enough derteminant or cure for poverty.
Nyeri, Muranga, parts of the Rift Valley, Ukambani, North Eastern etc that have largely been part of the ruling regime, never lifting a finger against anything have been deepnding on relif food , have perhaps more poverty than Nyanza. The mercy Train has not come to Nyanza, has it. Tha ti snot to say that Nyanza is not poor.
The measuring rod for causes of poevrty in my view needs to be lengthened to include the attitude of the people, the failure or the design by thegovernment over the years to invest in infrastructure development, human resource flight, failure by many Luo enterprenuers to invest back home etc.
I see the risk of your arguments, like many others, falling into the all too familiar path of blaming the leaders when the people are not doing much to help themsleves despite available opportunities. What will the leaders do to convince a fisherman, cane farmer or even a top level executive at NGO or government to stop being extravangant, consumerist and bentthe believe of here and now- drinking, and having good time, living large and not thinking on investment?
I am yet to know of any community or part of the Kenya where the leader have a one to one touch with their voters to tutor them on fiscal discipline or invetment. This must be a personal and proactive venture.
The collective Luo psyche has been to wait for the political kingdom to sort them out. I submit that this is at the root cause of the proble.
There are fortunately an emerging crop of Luo enterprenuers who are not complaining incessantly about the political leadership but have decided to do something within the limited space they have.
Political liberation may tranlate to economic prosperity but only if the people also feel determine to do something rather than wait for the leaders to drop manna from the political kingdom.
True the leaders have been a let down. But that is an entrireKenyan problem. If the leaders in central Kenyan had sorted out the poverty issue, we would notsee the hordes of young men joing

Mungiki to protest unemployment and economic disenfranchisement that has led to the may hem and will continue to do so.
If Moi sorted outpoverty in the Rift Valley and all the other poverty causing causes like the land question within his 24 year eign, we would not have seen the bloody quarrel over resources in the post election period.
The situation in Nyanza is bad but not grim as people try to paint it. Let us all do what we can at our levels and spaces as we demand service-witnin reasonable expectation- from the leaders. Continue the dialogue but let us not paint a hopeless picture.It is not true Nyanza is the poorest province. That is part of the lie perpetuated by government statistics. If so why dont they allocate enough resources?
Oloo Janak.
--- On Fri, 5/8/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

From: odhiambo okecth
Subject: [YP_Ke] Poverty in Luo Nyanza
To: "panafricanist" , pointb@eastandard.net, "progressiveminds" , "Publiceye" , regionalnews@ppa.or.ke, "Royal Media" , "siasa" , SonsofAfrika@yahoogroups.com, "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , youngkenyansforchange@yahoogroups.com, youngprofessionals_ke@googlegroups.com, "youthagenda"
Cc: "Paul Nyandoto" , "HERU BENNU AMEN RA" , smaitawi@yahoogroups.com, SOA@yahoogroups.com, "Alpha Sports" , "Sungu" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, TheBlackList@yahoogroups.com, trueblackness@yahoogroups.com, "ugandacom" , "odm uk" , "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , "VOU" , yiffkenya@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 10:14 AM

Poverty in Luo Nyanza 9th May 2009

As we salute Jacob Zuma on his inauguration as the 3rd Democratically elected President of South Africa, we must be all agreed that poverty is very rampant in Luo Nyanza. Is it not time enough we looked at the genesis of this poverty, the calibre of leadership that we have had since Independence, and chat the way forward? For development, is it not time we interrogated our leadership?

If we decide to be honest in tackling this issue, as it is said in the Good Book, truth shall set us free. I bet it is time the people of Luo Nyanza faced the hard facts and lived with it.

Just slightly before Independence, the Luo were marshaled for creation of an economic block under the aegis of Luo Thrift and Trading Company. The drive was a big success, not for the Luo, but for those who moved the agenda of Luo Thrift and Trading Company. That was slightly before and after Independence.

In the early nineties, again, the Luo were moved under the aegis of some company that was fronting to buy the then moribund Molasses Plant. Again, like the Luo Thrift, this became a venture that put business, big business into the hands of the movers of this agenda. The drive was a big success, not for the Luo, but for those that moved this agenda.

In the two cases, the Luo as a community was used as a door mat to enrich a cartel. The masses remained poor.

Back to the period just before Independence, the British asked the Late Jaramogi Oginga Odinga to form government. He refused on grounds that the late Jomo was the light of Kenya and no leadership would be given to none other than Jomo Kenyatta. Mzee Kenyatta went on to become the first Prime Minister and later the first President of Kenya.

Fast forward to 2002, Kenyans were ready and willing to remove Mzee Daniel arap Moi from leadership and the time was ripe for change. Hon Raila Odinga, son of Jaramogi, against all odds proclaimed Mzee Kibaki as Tosha. Mzee Kibaki went on to become the 3rd President of Kenya.

Like Jaramogi was shunted from leadership only two years after Independence, Raila was also shunted from leadership only two years into the presidency of Mzee Mwai Kibaki. Like father, like son. They had their chances to lead Kenya, and they all shied away from leadership then the people they fronted, chased them away from leadership.

Come to 2007, Kenyans overwhelmingly voted for Raila Odinga to be President of Kenya. The elections were kind of interfered with and Mzee Kibaki was declared the President and within 15 minutes, he was being sworn in at dusk. The irony was that many people seem to have been assembled to witness the swearing in ceremony. It means that it was planned.

The people revolted and the world came to our rescue and gave Raila 50% of this government. He refused to take it and chose to leave the people behind as he went to government alone. He left his troops and moved into enemy territory. They terrorized him so ruthlessly that when he got some breather, he remembered the people. When he had the chance to move with the people, he chose to move alone. When things became elephant for him, he remembers the people.

No. It is not done like this. Which honest General will forget his troops when food is on the table? You then think of your troops when you have eaten your fill and have nothing to give them? No. That is not leadership. That is puking on our shoes.

With the afore going, can we as a Luo community look at the factors that are obtaining and come up with a clear approach to politics.

I think we have been used. And I think the poverty in Nyanza is induced.

Since Independence we have been religiously electing leaders every 5 years. What have these leaders done to help the Luo?

With the biggest fresh water lake in the world bordering the Luo, what initiatives have our leaders made to empower the common man with the lake? What efforts have our leaders, since Independence, made to make fishing beneficial to our people? How can we harvest fish in Lake Victoria and transport the same all the way to Thika for processing?

Do we need to blame the government for the ineptness of the leadership that we elect by ourselves? How come it is so easy to marshal the Luo to contribute to personal outfits like the Luo Thrift and Trading Company, and again for the purchase of Molasses Plant? But when institutions like Kenya Breweries and Kicomi are closed in Kisumu, the Luo are not marshaled to raise a voice! When the rice irrigation scheme at Ahero collapses, the Luo are not being marshaled to have it reinforced!

No. Poverty is being used to subjugate our people. We are being fed on hot air as our leaders scramble for food. The Luo are being kept perpetually on political rallies at the expense of development.

What efforts have our leaders made to open the infrastructure around the lake? What initiatives have our leaders made on irrigation? What efforts have our leaders made to marshal the people into co-operative societies? What efforts have our leaders made on education? What efforts have our leaders made to bring Rural Electrification around Luo Nyanza? What efforts have our leaders made to have enough hospitals built in Nyanza?

I want to believe that time has come for the Luo to self liberate and partake of the National Cake. Our leaders have been eating on our behalf and they have eaten for so long that they have forgotten that we are out waiting. For how long will our leaders use the Luo as trading and bargaining chips?

The Luo have had three wasted chances all begging for National Leadership and the people we fronted did not rise to the occasion. They chose the easy way out.

If we can have two centres of power at the National Front, we can have the same at the Regional Front as well.

If leadership means doing nothing for your people, then the Luo have a very long way to go. And do not blame it on Kenyatta, Moi, Kibaki or the government. Kikulacho ki nguoni mwako. [Garbage in, garbage out].

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock Nairobi.

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
REACH OVER 8,000 MEMBERS DIRECTLY BY ADVERTISING ON THIS FORUM. CHARGES ARE Ksh. 500 PER ADVERT. CALL/MPESA ON +254721663208

You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups

"youngprofessionals_ke" group.
To post to this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ke@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ke+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.co.ke/group/youngprofessionals_ke?hl=en
Visit the LYP website at http://ypkenya.org
Join the group on facebook at http://www.facebook.com/group.php?gid=57703506900
Follow us on twitter at http://twitter.com/lyp_ke
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28823|2009-05-10 15:20:38|Mahari Mengistu|Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert|
Good. I don't know if you will get this because my earlier reply wasn't posted.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Peter Gray wrote:
>
>
> OK Mahari, I understand the context of your statement now.
>
> Peter
>
>
>
>
>
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> From: mahari@...
> Date: Sat, 9 May 2009 20:03:55 +0000
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Peter,
> White people tend to be "logically" psychotic in general. And of course, this psychosis manifests itself very frequently in destructive physical acts. An example of this is the 25% of Americans (whites undoubtedly) who just simply want to blame Obama for the current state of America -actually for everything negative- even though all of this clearly started before he ascended to office.
> Though I think you may be misjudging her - I watched the full program - whites have a consistent way of affirming blackness while at the same time dis-affirming it's essential blackness/Afrakanness.

> That's CRAZY.
> HTP,
> Mahari
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Peter Gray wrote:
> >
> >
> > I can't recall which issue, but many years ago, National Geographic did a special on Nefertiti as illustrated in the numerous blocks recovered from Akhet-Aten (the old Amarna), and it is immediately obvious that the famous Berlin bust could not have been a representation of the African woman portrayed on these blocks. Yet Joann Fletcher herself seems oblivious to the obvious.
> >
> >
> >
> > Peter
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> > From: sptpy@
> > Date: Fri, 8 May 2009 20:08:05 -0700
> > Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake': expert
> >
> >
> >
> > Yes, this is the real Nefertiti as documented in Nefertiti Resurrected.
> >
> >
> > http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8m4rYJBE3gI&playnext=1&playnext_from=QL
> >
> >
> > Tyrone
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > Famed Nefertiti bust 'a fake'.
> >
> >
> >
> > Alex van Deelen wrote:
> >

> >
> > Mahari,
> >
> > This really is stunning. It would also explain
> > why the bust is so different from the portrayal
> > of Nefertiti as very African in features.
> > _____
> > Windows Live?: Keep your life in sync.
> > http://windowslive.com/explore?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_BR_life_in_synch_052009
> >
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> _____
> Hotmail goes with you.
>
http://windowslive.com/Tutorial/Hotmail/Mobile?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Tutorial_Mobile1_052009
>
| 28824|2009-05-11 06:53:59|Sekmet|DR. WELSING DEBATES DR. SHOCKLEY- RACE & INTELLIGENCE|
Available for a limited time!
Dr. Frances Cress Welsing debates Dr. William Shockley on RACE & INTELLIGENCE.
http://www.blackconsciousness.com/sshop/welsing.html
Your chance to see and hear this classic collectible.
This is what "THE STRUGGLE" is still all about, less we forget.
A great debater took a stand for you & I.

http://www.blackconsciousness.com/sshop/welsing.html

Dr. Welsing is the author of "Lesson From The Isis Papers".
If you don't yet have this book, find it, demand it and add it to your collection.
Peace Out!
| 28825|2009-05-11 06:55:12|odhiambo okecth|Robert Alai; Poverty in Luo Nyanza|
Robert,

I read your response of yesterday and I decided to ignore it. Now, I think I must respond to you. I will be as civil as I can muster.

First, how does my family come in? I have a lot of respect for my wife, my son and my two daughters. I also had a lot of respect for my late parents. I also have a lot of respect for my siblings. In an argument, we stay with the issues. We do not jump to mundane matters. Like, I do not want to know about your family in this matter, please keep my family out of these debates.

Secondly, when we look at issues as they affect the community, we are not seeking for any favours. I have been involved in several debates for and against Raila. I campaigned for his presidency with all my heart because I believed that he stood with us. My reform credentials are well known. I take on topical issues with a clear conscience. I seek no favours with my take on issues. And that is very clear from my postings.

I met with him on several occasions and I made my point clear on the change agenda. From the available cast, Raila remains my hero. He is the only one who has some change agenda for the country and it is our duty to steady the ship. But when he looses a step, I will be very firm in helping him not to falter. I will not wait for him to fall and then join cowards in ululations. I will do something. Some will laugh and do nothing.

I am in this ship with him, so I will not let him capsize the ship. I will prod him to remain faithful to the change agenda, and as they say, charity begins at home.

Thirdly, in debates, and pupils are taught how to debate at class 4, we must never always degenerate to low levels. We must at all times maintain high standard in debates and stick with the issues. If we are not capable to stick with the issues, we are not worth ourselves and it ceases to be called a debate. It becomes a mudsling.

When we become abusive, engage in trivia and address mundane matters instead of debating, then we surely must have a problem. At such times, it ceases to be a communal problem. It becomes a personal problem best addressed by the person, either by going to school if one is still young enough, or joining the Adult Education classes. Mzee Maruge is doing it and soon, he might become an accomplished debater.

I will hence not give you the pleasure that you have always had with many people where you become abusive instead of sticking to the facts and debating.

I do not suffer such intellectual menopause.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sun, 5/10/09, Robert Alai wrote:

From: Robert Alai
Subject: [KOL] Re: Poverty in Luo Nyanza
To: kenyaonline@yahoogroups.com
Cc: "bidii afrika"
Date: Sunday, May 10, 2009, 11:44 PM

Odhiambo

There is no way you will change Luos when you cant change your family. STart removing poverty from your family and then come and tell us that you will change your Luo Nyanza. And I wonder if Luos are the poorest in Kenya. There are communities in Kenya who are very very poor. Why not start with them? Or are you still trying to be a tribal chauvinist.

You are looking for favours in the wrong way bro and its a very cheap way. Others might try to beg you and make you think you are talkingg sense. The fact is that what you wrote there are crap you can choose what you call it but the English were not sstupid to have the word "crap" in a dictionary.

Alai

On 5/10/09, odhiambo okecth <komarockswatch@ yahoo.com> wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Nyakwar O'tiya,
>
> Congratulations upon your Graduation.
>
> I like sober debates where we respond to facts as they are. I think that is > what will take us to the next level.
>
> I really appreciate your comments and those of Daniel Onyango and those who > have contributed intelligently.
>
> In the same vein, I also read all rejoinders from journeymen. I cannot join > in being abusive in debates.
>
> Odhiambo T Oketch,
> Komarock Nairobi.
>
> --- On Sat, 5/9/09, n`otiya <nyakwarotiya@ yahoo.com> wrote:
>
> From: n`otiya <nyakwarotiya@ yahoo.com>
> Subject: [KOL] Re: Poverty in Luo Nyanza

> To: kenyaonline@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 9, 2009, 11:57 AM
>
>
>
>
> -Odhis,
>
> I am in very high spirits (as I graduated yesterday and still on a > celebration mood....)
>
> A couple of points:
>
> - I would prefer we look at development (or lack of it) at the national > level ...North Eastern,Nyanza e.t.c.
>
> - People deserve the leaders they elect, so it is said
>
> - The political system of patronage, boot licking and kow towing to the > leadership should be replaced by:
>
> a) A system that nominates / appoints individuals to leadership positions > based on merit, experience and accomplishment
>
> b) A system that ensures:
>
> - The economy / resources are enough to support the needs of citizens
>
> - The allocation / distribution of these resources are left to institutions > (not an all powerful individual) to ensure they are equitably distributed.
>
> My point: The economic problems affecting Nyanza / Kenya are well known and > fully documented. I think what we need are actions / action plans to right > these wrongs.
>
> n`otiya
>
> -- In kenyaonline@ yahoogroups. com, odhiambo okecth
> wrote:
> >
> > Poverty in Luo Nyanza
> > 9th
> > May 2009
> >
> > As we salute Jacob Zuma on his > > inauguration as the 3rd Democratically elected President of South > > Africa, we must be all agreed that poverty is very > > rampant in Luo Nyanza. Is it not time enough we looked at the genesis > > of this poverty, the calibre of leadership that we have had since > > Independence, and chat the way forward? For development, is it not > > time we interrogated our leadership?

> >
> >
> >
> > If we decide to be honest in tackling > > this issue, as it is said in the Good Book, truth shall set us free.
> > I bet it is time the people of Luo Nyanza faced the hard facts and > > lived with it.
> >
> >
> >
> > Just slightly before Independence, the > > Luo were marshaled for creation of an economic block under the aegis > > of Luo Thrift and Trading Company. The drive was a big success, not > > for the Luo, but for those who moved the agenda of Luo Thrift and > > Trading Company. That was slightly before and after Independence.
> >
> >
> >
> > In the early nineties, again, the Luo > > were moved under the aegis of some company that was fronting to buy > > the then moribund Molasses Plant. Again, like the Luo Thrift, this > > became a venture that put business, big business into the hands of > > the movers of this agenda. The drive was a big success, not for the > > Luo, but for those that moved this agenda.
> >
> >
> >
> > In the two cases, the Luo as a > > community was used as a door mat to enrich a cartel. The masses > > remained poor.
> >
> >
> >
> > Back to the period just before > > Independence, the British asked the Late Jaramogi Oginga Odinga to > > form government. He refused on grounds that the late Jomo was the > > light of Kenya and no leadership would be given to none other than > > Jomo Kenyatta. Mzee Kenyatta went on to become the first Prime > > Minister and later the first President of Kenya.
> >
> >

> >
> >
> > Fast forward to 2002, Kenyans were > > ready and willing to remove Mzee Daniel arap Moi from leadership and > > the time was ripe for change. Hon Raila Odinga, son of Jaramogi, > > against all odds proclaimed Mzee Kibaki as Tosha. Mzee Kibaki went on > > to become the 3rd President of Kenya.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > Like Jaramogi was shunted from > > leadership only two years after Independence, Raila was also shunted > > from leadership only two years into the presidency of Mzee Mwai > > Kibaki. Like father, like son. They had their chances to lead Kenya, > > and they all shied away from leadership then the people they fronted, > > chased them away from leadership.
> >
> >
> >
> > Come to 2007, Kenyans overwhelmingly > > voted for Raila Odinga to be President of Kenya. The elections were > > kind of interfered with and Mzee Kibaki was declared the President > > and within 15 minutes, he was being sworn in at dusk. The irony was > > that many people seem to have been assembled to witness the swearing > > in ceremony. It means that it was planned.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > The people revolted and the world came > > to our rescue and gave Raila 50% of this government. He refused to > > take it and chose to leave the people behind as he went to government > > alone. He left his troops and moved into enemy territory. They > > terrorized him so ruthlessly that when he got some breather, he > > remembered the people. When he had the chance to move with the > > people, he chose to move alone. When things became elephant for him, > > he remembers the people.
> >
> >
> >
> > No. It is not done like this. Which > > honest General will forget his troops when food is on the table? You > > then think of your troops when you have eaten your fill and have > > nothing to give them? No. That is not leadership. That is puking on > > our shoes.

> >
> >
> >
> > With the afore going, can we as a Luo > > community look at the factors that are obtaining and come up with a > > clear approach to politics.
> >
> >
> >
> > I think we have been used. And I think > > the poverty in Nyanza is induced.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > Since Independence we have been > > religiously electing leaders every 5 years. What have these leaders > > done to help the Luo?
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > With the biggest fresh water lake in > > the world bordering the Luo, what initiatives have our leaders made > > to empower the common man with the lake? What efforts have our > > leaders, since Independence, made to make fishing beneficial to our > > people? How can we harvest fish in Lake Victoria and transport the > > same all the way to Thika for processing?
> >
> >
> >
> > Do we need to blame the government for > > the ineptness of the leadership that we elect by ourselves? How come > > it is so easy to marshal the Luo to contribute to personal outfits > > like the Luo Thrift and Trading Company, and again for the purchase > > of Molasses Plant? But when institutions like Kenya Breweries and > > Kicomi are closed in Kisumu, the Luo are not marshaled to raise a > > voice! When the rice irrigation scheme at Ahero collapses, the Luo > > are not being marshaled to have it reinforced!
> >
> >
> >
> > No. Poverty is being used to subjugate > > our people. We are being fed on hot air as our leaders scramble for > > food. The Luo are being kept perpetually on political rallies at the > > expense of development.

> >
> >
> >
> > What efforts have our leaders made to > > open the infrastructure around the lake? What initiatives have our > > leaders made on irrigation? What efforts have our leaders made to > > marshal the people into co-operative societies? What efforts have our > > leaders made on education? What efforts have our leaders made to > > bring Rural Electrification around Luo Nyanza? What efforts have our > > leaders made to have enough hospitals built in Nyanza?
> >
> >
> >
> > I want to believe that time has come > > for the Luo to self liberate and partake of the National Cake. Our > > leaders have been eating on our behalf and they have eaten for so > > long that they have forgotten that we are out waiting. For how long > > will our leaders use the Luo as trading and bargaining chips?
> >
> >
> >
> > The Luo have had three wasted chances > > all begging for National Leadership and the people we fronted did not > > rise to the occasion. They chose the easy way out.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > If we can have two centres of power at > > the National Front, we can have the same at the Regional Front as > > well.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > If leadership means doing nothing for > > your people, then the Luo have a very long way to go. And do not > > blame it on Kenyatta, Moi, Kibaki or the government. Kikulacho ki > > nguoni mwako. [Garbage in, garbage out].
> >
> >
> >
> > Odhiambo T Oketch,
> > Komarock Nairobi.
> >
>

>
>
>
>
>

To Subscribe to kenyaonline, visit: http://groups.yahoo.com/group/kenyaonline/join or send a message to kenyaonline-subscribe@yahoogroups.com

You can also send a message for the following services:

To Post a message: kenyaonline@yahoogroups.com
To Unsubscribe: kenyaonline-unsubscribe@yahoogroups.com
To The List owner: kenyaonline-owner@yahoogroups.com
URL to this page: http://groups.yahoo.com/group/kenyaonline

| 28826|2009-05-11 06:55:12|odhiambo okecth|Re: Luo Nyanza and poor leadership!!|
Otieno Sungu,

I love your level of debate. It is inspiring. Thanks brother.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Mon, 5/11/09, otieno sungu wrote:

From: otieno sungu
Subject: Luo Nyanza and poor leadership!!
To: "Biddi Africa"
Date: Monday, May 11, 2009, 12:52 AM

I think we are losing focus here and the argument Odhiambo should have raised is,, are the leaders elected in Nyanza, like elsewhere, doing anything much to sort the problems of their people?
Now I know there are people who will get hot under the collar and foam in the mouth the moment the leadership of one Raila Odinga is brought to probity. I must say from the onset that Raila is as human as you and I and there is nothing wrong with probing his leadership. I must also say that he has perharps done so much for this country in terms of sacrifice for reforms than any other leader currently in government.
Now, that does not make Raila a messiah. What should be said is, what is the larger vision they have for the areas they represent? Remember we elect leaders from the local level to the national. The local leader must sort local problems. There are CDF funds they manage, their parties control local councils,municipalities and counties, what is the vision they have for the areas they represent?Raila has never said categorically he is not the leader of the Luo,he represents Kibera but because he also prides himself as the foremost luo politician, he gets held accountable for the tag which he has not denied in public.

Nyanza has had crumbling industries, cotton, sugar, fish, rice, etc.You do not need government for instance to mobilise fishermen into strong cooperatives so that they can get better yields from their catch and cut out middle men. In areas like Central Provice, there are very strong cooperatives, Tea, Coffee etc, these were, despite Moi's era of alienating Central during his rule.The cooperatives despite their failings, have made the area progress in terms of farming.
Why haven't these leaders mobilised the people of Nyanza to use the Lake Victoria which is the greatest resource to allievate poverty? How many tons of fish come from this region yet fishermen walk in tatters and cannot even eat the fish for they can't even afford it today?
Let us open our eyes and ask why our people should eat "mgongo wazi" and left overs of fish and yet we want to bury our heads and not probe our leaders. Where are they leading us?
Leadership is not criticising government only, it is also mobilising local people and identifying potentials that can allievate poverty,create employment and develop a region.
A region surrounded by the lake should be self sustaining in food production and even feed the whole country. These are the things we want leaders from Nyanza to mobilize their people to do, irrigate farms using lake water to harvest food for themselves. They can effectively mobilise the youth into many things that I shall not dwell on now, surely they should be able to do the same on matters development otherwise as Odhiambo says, perharps the poverty is intentional to have people who are easy to manipulate. It is not easy to manipulate people who are self reliant and independent.
It is not too much to ask that the leaders start thinking beyond criticism of government year in year out.
The same goes for leaders from Eastern who should think of ways to allievate the perrenial hunger in the region and reliance on donor food. We must start asking leaders to lead or step aside. Government is not supposed to do your work, you are supposed to work, pay taxes and then ask government to create an enabling environment for you with your taxes. These include good infrastructure, schools,hospitals,etc. Leaders from all regions, Nyanza included, must do what the locals elect them to do;LEAD!!Identify local problems and start with local solutions, not running to the government even when you have jiggers in your toes or bed bugs in your bed.
I hope now we can agree that the leadership is not just a stint of 5 or 10 years in parliament, it is what that leader has done with that period that impacts on the lives of the locals. For instance, I may not be a supporter of Tuju but to me he made an impact in my constituency Rarieda. I am not very sure what Gumbo is doing so far and wish to share very soon with him the potential of mobilising fishermen from Luanda Kotieno Beach,Madundu,Kunya,Wikwang and all the beaches there to even buy their own trucks to transport their won fish for processing and better still, think of processing and exporting the fish themselves!!!
Let us keep the discussion going and give ideas to our leaders what we expect of them.
Sungu Otieno.
Juba-Southern Sudan.

| 28827|2009-05-11 07:30:31|Tafari khumbaka|Re: African Origins Of Egyptian Civilization Getting More Traction| great info, tua/thankz
there was a find of grain stores in khamit that predated the asian/sumer(black folk also) industry,. maybe someone has that info.?

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/10/09, Alex van Deelen wrote:

From: Alex van Deelen
Subject: [Ta_Seti] African Origins Of Egyptian Civilization Getting More Traction
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Sunday, May 10, 2009, 11:03 AM

It was always obvious that a place to look for the origins of Egyptian civilization was farther upstream. However,
even the National Geographic is now on board, even quatling S.O.Y Keita extensively. I wonder where that leaves the Black Athena debate.

From the National Geographic website:

http://ngm.national geographic. com/geopedia/ Ancient_Egypt

Geography and Climate
By GeoPedia Expert
ver. 15 - Thu, Sep 18, 2008 at 12:49:39 PM

The origins of ancient Egyptian society, culture, and people have long been of interest to scholars from different disciplines. While the term "origins" is multidimensional, here it refers to the geography of a population's linguistic, cultural, and biological beginnings and its wider connections.

By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute

Like its modern counterpart, ancient Egypt was centered on the Nile Valley in the eastern Sahara, Africa's largest desert. The climate history of this part of the continent, which has varied over time, has likely played a major role in how humans have moved and interacted through the millennia. This region was likely a major route for the exodus of modern humans from Africa.

Between 50,000 and 15,000 years ago the desert area west of the Nile was inhabited sparsely, if at all, due to the region's aridity. During this period a succession of cultures flourished on the banks of the Nile. As rains came in from equatorial Africa in the early Holocene, the desert became less arid, and people moved into the Sahara from all directions. Between 10,000 and 6,000 B.C. archaeological evidence has been interpreted to suggest that the number of people living along the Nile fell. At the same time, in the desert west of the river there is evidence of an increase in population and of pastoral societies that built large stone megaliths and sculptures, developed astronomical knowledge, made the earliest known pottery in Africa, and, likely, domesticated cattle. There are rock paintings of people and animals, sometimes using themes that also appear later in Egypt, along with other aspects of the culture. After the climate again grew more arid after 6000 B.C. there is evidence for migration back into the Nile Valley.

Bibliography

Autuori, J. C. "Egypt, Africa and the Ancient World." In Proceedings of the Seventh International Congress of Egyptologists, ed. C. J. Eyre. Orientalia Lovaniensia, 1998.

Hassan, F. A. "The Predynastic of Egypt." Journal of World Prehistory (June 1988), 135-85.

Kuper, R., and S. Kropelin. "Climate-controlled Holocene Occupation in the Sahara: Motor of Africa's Evolution." Science (August 2006), 803-07.

Wendorf, F., R. Schild, and Associates. Holocene Settlement of the Egyptian Sahara. Kluwer, 2001.

[Suggest a GeoPedia Topic] [Ask a Question] [Submit a Link]

Human Biology

By GeoPedia Expert

ver. 5 - Tue, Sep 16, 2008 at 12:22:49 PM

By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute

Based on fossil and DNA evidence, modern humans may have existed in Africa as many as 140,000 years before they successfully colonized other parts of the world. Considering this from an evolutionary perspective, we should expect great diversity among indigenous Africans, and this is what has been found, even when northern African populations have been excluded from the research. All human populations exhibit biological variation in one way or another, and there is no single way to be biologically African-not by DNA, skin color, hair form, blood type, or variation of face and nose.

Fossil remains of modern humans have been found in the Nile Valley, including those of a child from Taramsa, in Egypt, believed to date to 60,000 to 50,000 years ago, though perhaps to as much as 80,000 years ago. The Nazlet Khater skeleton, also from Egypt, dates to around 33,000 years ago. Excavations in Egypt have also produced skeletal remains that date back to the cultures immediately preceding and following the first kings of a united Egypt, around 3100 B.C. By carefully using various scientific techniques, one can determine changes over time in the skeletal pattern of a particular place. The pattern of the craniofacial region and long bones is believed by most investigators to be helpful in understanding the forces of evolution on a population and, in some cases, when the pattern can be combined with other information, the population's region of origin. A similar pattern among different groups may indicate either a common ancestral origin, population interactions via intermarriage, and/or a common adaptive pattern related to the environment. Other information may help in assessing the meaning of similarity.

There has been scholarly interest in the biological variation and genealogical relationship of the ancient Egyptians to other populations outside of the Egyptian Nile Valley. There is no scientific reason to believe that the primary ancestors of the Egyptian population emerged and evolved outside of northeast Africa. Skeletal analyses have figured prominently in research. When comparisons to non-Egyptians are made, depending on which samples and methods are used, the craniofacial patterns of ancient Egyptian show a range of similarities to other African populations, Near Easterners, and Europeans. Overall, these studies can be interpreted as suggesting that the Egyptian Nile Valley's indigenous population had a craniofacial pattern that evolved and emerged in northeastern Africa, whose geography in relationship to climate largely explains the variation. Dental affinity studies generally agree with the craniofacial results, though they differ in the details. The body proportions of ancient Egyptians generally are similar to those of tropical (more southern) Africans.

Very little DNA has been retrieved from ancient Egyptian remains, and there are not many studies on the modern population. However, the results of analyses of mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) and the Y chromosome in the living Egyptian population show the existence of very old African lineages that are consistent with the fossil remains and of younger lineages of more recent evolution, along with evidence of the assimilation of later migrants from the Near East and Europe; mtDNA is passed only through the female line, from mother to offspring, and the relevant part of the Y chromosome, the nonrecombining section, passes only from father to son. The basic overall genetic profile of the modern population is consistent with the diversity of ancient populations that would have been indigenous to northeastern Africa and subject to the range of evolutionary influences over time, although researchers vary in the details of their explanations of those influences.

Bibliography

Brauer, G., and K. Rimbach. "Late Archaic and Modern Homo sapiens From Europe, Africa, and Southwest Asia: Craniometric Comparisons and Phylogenetic Implications. " Journal of Human Evolution. Vol. 19 (1990), 789-807.

Cruciani, F., and others. "Tracing Past Human Male Movements in Northern/Eastern Africa and Western Eurasia: New Clues From Y-chromosomal Haplogroups E-M78 and J-M12." Molecular Biology and Evolution. Vol. 24 (2007), 1300-11.

Howells, W. W. "Cranial Variation in Man." Papers of the Peabody Museum. Harvard, 1973.

Irish, J. D. "Who Were the Ancient Egyptians? Dental Affinities Among Neolithic Through Postdynastic Peoples." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 129 (2006), 529-43.

Mukherjee, R., and others. The Ancient Inhabitants of Jebel Moya. Cambridge University, 1955.

Keita, S. O. Y. "Studies and Comments on Ancient Egyptian Biological Relationships. " History in Africa. Vol. 20 (1993), 129-54.

Keita, S. O. Y. "History in the Interpretation of the Pattern of p49a,f,Taq RFLP Y-chromosome Variation in Egypt: A consideration of Multiple Lines of Evidence." American Journal of Human Biology. Vol. 17 (2005), 559-67.

Keita, S.O.Y., and A. J. Boyce. "Temporal Variation in Phenetic Affinity of Early Upper Egyptian Male Cranial Series." Human Biology. (April 2008), 141-159.

Krings, M., and others. "MtDNA Analysis of Nile River Valley Populations: A Genetic Corridor or a Barrier to Migration?" American Journal of Human Genetics. Vol. 64 (1999), 1166-76.

Lucotte, G., and G. Mercier. "Brief Communication: Y-chromosome Haplotypes in Egypt." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 121 (2003), 63-66.

Yu, Ning, and others. "Larger Genetic Differences Within Africans Than Between Africans and Eurasians." Genetics (May 2002), 269-74.

Vermeersch, P. M., and others. "Discovery of the Nazlet Khater Man, Upper Egypt." Journal of Human Evolution. Vol. 13 (1984), 281-86.

Vermeersch, P. M., and others. "A Middle Paleolithic Burial of a Human at Taramsa Hill, Egypt." Antiquity. Vol. 72 (1998), 475-84.

Zakrzewski, S. R. "Variation in Ancient Egyptian Stature and Body

Proportions. " American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 121 (2003), 219-29.

Zakrzewski, S. R. "Population Continuity or Population Change: Formation of the Ancient Egyptian State." American Journal of Physical Anthropology. Vol. 132 (2007), 501-09.
[Suggest a GeoPedia Topic] [Ask a Question] [Submit a Link]
Linguistics and writing
By GeoPedia Expert
ver. 6 - Tue, Sep 16, 2008 at 12:24:10 PM

By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute

Ancient Egyptian, with Coptic, forms one branch or family within the Afro-Asiatic linguistic phylum that also includes Cushitic, Semitic, Chadic, Berber, and Omotic, according to most scholars. (Ongota was recently added by some scholars.) Linguists have found that, in general, two principles-"greatest diversity" and "least moves"-can help determine the likely geographical origin of a language phylum, or family. Greatest diversity can be illustrated by the fact that all but one of the Afro-Asiatic families, Semitic, is found exclusively in Africa; the African branches are spread from East Africa north, west, and northwest down the Nile to the Mediterranean coast, Sahara, and west Sahel. This geographical distribution, coupled with the presence of Omotic and Ongota only in Ethiopia-both viewed as having more features in common with ancestral Afro-Asiatic than do the other branches-is interpreted as indicating that Afro-Asiatic originated in Africa. Using the least-moves principle, one can conclude that this distribution is consistent with an origin in Ethiopia, Sudan, or the eastern Sahara. Analyses indicate that ancestral Afro-Asiatic, perhaps dating to 15,000 to 10,000 B.C., was spoken by hunters and gatherers and not farmers or pastoralists (food producers).

Linguistics and writing can give some clues to migration or major cultural interactions. Semitic and perhaps Sumerian speakers in the Near East developed agriculture some 2,000 years before it emerged in the Nile Valley. If Egypt had been peopled by a mass migration of farmers from the Near East, ancient Egyptians would have spoken either a Semitic language or Sumerian (considered a language isolate, meaning that it has no obvious close relatives). Although certain major domesticated species used in Egypt came from the Near East, it is interesting to note that the words for these in Egyptian were not borrowed from any members of the Semitic family whose common ancestor had terms for them. They are all Egyptian.

The beginnings of Egyptian writing can be traced back to the cultures that led to dynastic Egypt. Flora and fauna used in the hieroglyphs are Nilotic, indicating that the writing system developed locally, with some symbols traceable back to a period before the first dynasty rulers emerged. The titles for the king, major officials, and the royal insignia are Egyptian, which is of interest because one old theory held that the dynastic Egyptians or their elites came from the Near East; however, the archaeological evidence shows that they came from southern Egypt.

Bibliography

Diakonoff, I. M. "The Earliest Semitic Society: Linguistic Data." Journal of Semitic Studies. Vol. 4 (1998), 209-19.

Ehret, C. Reconstructing Proto-Afroasiatic, Proto-Afrasian Vowels, Tone, Consonants and Vocabulary. University of California, 1995.

Ehret, C. "Ancient Egyptian as an African Language, Egypt as an African Culture." In Egypt in Africa, ed. T. Celenko. Indianapolis Museum of Art and Indiana University, 1996.

Ehret, C. "Language and History." In African Languages: An Introduction. Cambridge University, 2000.

Ehret, C. and others. "The Origins of Afroasiatic. " Science (December 2004), 1680.

Mokhtar, G., with J. Vercoutter. "Introduction. " In General History of Africa, ed. G. Mokhtar. Vol. 2. UNESCO, 1981.

Nichols, J. "Modeling Ancient Population Structure and Movement in Linguistics. " Annual Review of Anthropology. Vol. 26 (1997), 359-84.

[Suggest a GeoPedia Topic] [Ask a Question] [Submit a Link]

Archaeology

By GeoPedia Expert

ver. 3 - Tue, Sep 16, 2008 at 12:27:53 PM

By S. O. Y. Keita, Senior Research Associate, National Human Genome Center, Howard University; Research Associate, Anthropology, Smithsonian Institute

The Neolithic (food-producing) cultures after 6000 B.C. in the Nile Valley became a part of the foundation for the ancient Egyptian way of life. The archaeology of early Egypt indicates continuity with local cultural traditions along the Nile as well influences from the Sahara, Sudan, and Asia (the Near East). The Neolithic cultures in northern Egypt show evidence over time of varying contacts, with Saharan influences the most dominant. In the case of food procurement, ancestral Egyptians living on Lake Fayum added to their tradition of foraging by raising Near Eastern domesticated plants (wheat and barley) and animals (sheep and goats). Domesticated cattle came from the Sahara but may also have come from the Near East. Considering that wheat and barley agriculture was practiced in Asia (the Near East) 2,000 years before it was in Egypt, it is important to note that the early Egyptian way of life did not change abruptly at this time (around 5000 B.C.), which is what one would expect if Egypt had simply been peopled by farmers migrating from the Near East. These early Egyptians incorporated the new food stuffs and techniques-and likely some people-into their culture and society on their own terms.

The major features of cultural and political development that led to dynastic Egypt originated in southern Egypt during what is called the predynastic period. Some evidence suggests that predynastic Egyptian and early Nubian cultures had ties to the early Saharan cultures and shared a Saharo-Nilotic heritage. Perhaps the earliest predynastic culture, the Badarian-Tasian* (4400 B.C. or earlier, to 4000 B.C.), had the clearest ties to Saharan cultures in the desert west of Nubia. The subsequent development, known as Naqada culture (3900 to around 3050 B.C.) by numerous scholars, had three phases and led directly to the 1st dynasty in southern Egypt without a break or evidence of foreign domination. It had three major centers in Upper Egypt, the small kingdoms of Naqada, Hierakonpolis, and Abydos, which came to be a much revered place in Egypt. The cemetery grounds of Abydos contain the largest tomb of a predynastic ruler, along with the burials of all the kings of the 1st dynasty. Naqada culture expanded north in its later phases, culturally incorporating northern Egypt before the 1st dynasty. There is also evidence at some sites-including Hierakonpolis, where the famous Narmer Palette was found-for interactions with Nubian societies, specifically one called the A-Group, whose kings shared some insignia with Egypt. By the time the 1st dynasty began, Egypt and Nubia were rivals; Egypt defeated the A-Group state and incorporated its territory, which became a part of the first province of Upper Egypt.

(*The existence of the Tasian as a distinct culture has been disputed, and it is usually treated as a part of the Badarian. Some Tasian and early Nubian pottery show striking similarities.)

Bibliography

Bard, K. "The Egyptian Predynastic. A Review of the Evidence." Journal of Field Archaeology. Vol. 21 (1994), 265-88.

Hassan, F. A. "The Predynastic of Egypt." Journal of World Prehistory. Vol. 2 (1988), 135-85.

Klees, F., and R. Kuper. New Light on the Northeast African Past. Heinrich Barth Institut, 1992.

Midant-Reynes, B. The Prehistory of Egypt. Blackwell, 2000.

Wetterstrom, W. "Foraging and Farming in Egypt: The Transition From Hunting and Gathering to Horticulture in the Nile Valley." In The Archaeology of Africa. Routledge, 1993.

Williams, B. B. The A-Group Cemetery at Qustul: Cemetery L. University of Chicago, 1988.

Wilkinson, T. Early Dynastic Egypt. Routledge, 2001

Last updated: September 8, 2008

| 28828|2009-05-12 06:53:56|Ferg|The QUBA (KUBA) Mosque|
Greetings.
I am trying to establish the etymology of the word QUBA or KUBA in relation to the mosque in Medina.
Any ideas?
Thanks
Somo
| 28829|2009-05-12 09:04:22|Ginger Daniels|White privilege in Latin America|
Usted quien es? ... G□se el baloto para que se cambie el color. Who do you think you are? ... Go win the lottery and change your color, a metro policeman whispered to Afro-Colombian leader Carlos Rosero, founding member of the Black Community Process (PCN). Rather than just being an isolated incident of racism in Latin America, this incident gives us a mirror, an insight as to how White privilege prevails in Latin America.

Like in many capitalist societies, money can buy privilege, but in Latin America it can also buy you Whiteness. For generations Latin Americans have paid to change their race on their identification cards. Purchasing one's Whiteness has historically been a common practice for many Latinos of African descent.

Latin America has a long history of White privilege and White supremacy and is colored with White privilege, from its political roots: U.S. implementation of Jim Crow in the Panama Canal, a brutal Dominican dictatorship that erased the African presence from its history and its culture, the massacre of hundreds of thousands indigenous Mayans in Guatemala, and blancismento (Whitetification) in Argentina (South America) in which governments actively recruited Europeans to emigrate to their nations in order to Whiten the society of its heavily indigenous and African populations.
To its social implications, White privilege has permeated Latin America's everyday language: pelo malo versus pelo bueno (good hair vs. bad hair), negrita used as both an insult and term of endearment for Latinos with darker features, and referring to one another by our race or complexion morena, trigue□indio, zambo.

On March 31, 2009, Grupo Afro Descendiente sponsored a discussion entitled White Privilege in Latin America: Myths and Realities as part of White Privilege Awareness Week. The panel featured indigenous persons from Peru and Guatemala, an afro descendant from Cuba, a mestiza from Mexico, and an African immigrant from Cote d'Ivoire. Each panelist shared personal accounts, reflections on their experience with White privilege in Latin America.
What we found was that White privilege began and has been reinforced in society through socio-economic manipulation, cultural jokes/stereotypes, and paternalism often implemented by the Catholic Church and more recently the Evangelical movement. In every country in Latin America one will find that people of color are often the poorest, least educated, and least empowered/politically engaged in the society.
Even though there are high levels of integration in Latin America, intense segregation still exists. Often indigenous and Afro descendant populations live apart in communities that are somewhat isolated from the mainstream. This is prevalent throughout Central and South America among the garifuna and other indigenous Latin Americans. The country of Nicaragua for example is virtually divided into two countries by the rainforest: the West mostly inhabited by Whites and the East populated mostly by people of color.

This segregation is highlighted by the lack of Afro and indigenous presence on Latin American television. There are very few reflections of people of color in the Latino media. Sabado Gigante, the most popular variety program throughout all of Latin America is the greatest example of this phenomenon. With the exception of the occasional reggaeton or bachata artist and/or a futbol player, people of color are largely excluded as members of the cast and even in the audience of the popular program. Internalized racism of Latin Americans has led our community to deny or reject their African and/or indigenous heritage. This practice further reinforces the idealization of Whites in our society.
Further complicating the issue of White privilege for Latinos is living in a nation that has a different type of racial hierarchy than our homelands. The identity of Latino has practically become a racial category in this country. If you do not fit in the U.S. perceptions of Black or White or Asian (yes, there are Asian Latinos) you are designated as Latino. In the United States White supremacy followed the one drop rule, one drop of Black or Indigenous blood or any visible signs of these ancestries would exclude individuals of White privilege and condemn one to radicalized disenfranchisement. The one drop of blood' was almost in reverse in Latin America; one drop of European blood or visible characteristics of European ancestry granted one access to some degree of White privilege and wealth, helping open the door for some people of color in Latin America to become part of the White elite of the country.
Like in many capitalist societies, money can buy privilege, but in Latin America it can also buy you Whiteness. For generations Latin Americans have paid to change their race on their identification cards. Purchasing one's Whiteness has historically been a common practice for many Latinos of African descent. Yet this practice did not challenge White supremacy, rather it found a loophole to gain access to White privilege. Our discussion of White privilege and the diverse racial characteristics of our communities allowed us to see that though the White supremacist socio-economic orders of our homelands are different than the ones found in the U.S., the deconstruction of White privilege is something that is needed throughout the Americas.

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail. See how.
| 28830|2009-05-12 09:04:37|Ginger Daniels|Standing strong for our children MUST READ|

By Susan L. Taylor
-Guest Columnist-
Updated May 11, 2009 - 2:59:18 PM

Let's tell the truth: We've fallen into forgetfulness and apathy. Though our foreparents risked all that was dear to them to open a way for us, we have relinquished the fundamental Black values that guided their lives. The great benefits that millions of us enjoy today don't come from nothing. They have grown out of a long and glorious legacy of mutual love, faith in God and commitment to the children. These core values traveled with them over the seas and centuries. They emboldened enslaved Africans to get up from servitude, challenge racist practices, stand strong in the face of heinous acts of violence today's Black people will never know.

We are the beneficiaries of unimaginable suffering and sacrifice and also strategic thinking, planning and action. But on our watch, with all our privileges, technology and supports, we are doing far less for our young than was done for us. We are the first generation of African Americans to allow the next generation to lose ground. Millions of our children are in peril; it's their worst time since slavery, said Marian Wright Edelman. Yet, there isn't a single issue we are organized around. Not one that Black leaders have agreed upon and are standing together on to work for change.

When we shrink back from the values and work that moved us forward, the consequences are life-destroying. The village falls apart. Today, on our watch, these are the chilling facts:

- 58 percent of Black 4th graders are functionally illiterate.
- In some cities only 18 percent of Black males graduate from high school.
- A Black male is 700 percent more likely than a White male to be sentenced to prison.
- Nearly one million Black men are imprisoned in a for-profit system built on unfair drug-sentencing laws.
- Suicide is rising fast among our children.
- HIV/AIDS is the leading cause of death for our young women.
- The leading cause of death for our Black boys is homicide.

All of this and we are not outraged but pointing the finger at sagging pants, do-rags and the misogynistic and murderous messages in music we've allowed. Instead, let's look in the mirror. Let us accept our responsibility for not governing the village more carefully. Our young in crisis don't need more policing or punishment.

They need us. They need our attention, guidance and encouragement. They need Black love.

A recent study by the California Mentor Foundation of 124 mentoring programs showed that, of youngsters matched with mentors:

-98 percent stayed in school
-98 percent avoided a teen pregnancy
-85 percent did not use drugs
-98 percent avoided gang participation

It's time for us to act! Greatly disproportionate numbers of caring White sisters and brothers are mentoring our children. They are the first respondents. We are the last. The National CARES Mentoring Movement (NCMM) is a call to usto our faith leaders and leaders in the public and private sectors and every able, stable Black adultto come out of our silos and work together to galvanize volunteers to guide and encourage our vulnerable young.

Here's the ask: Let us do what Black folks have had difficulty doing for several decades. Let us get along. Agree. Link arms and aims and take care of the mothers and fathers of our tomorrows. Their future is in our hands.
Mentor a child. Mentoring is one investment that has shown disproportionately positive returns. Dedicating just four hours a month can save and secure a life. Log on to caresmentoring.com and input your zip code for a list of nearby mentoring opportunities.
With family and friends, group mentor our struggling young in a reentry program, an underserved school, or a group home. Push your faith leader to do the work of the church, which also lies beyond the congregation. Support the educators and children in the nearest failing school with books, supplies, encouragement and mentors.
Working together we will write a new history for our children. Mentoring is the answer. And it's a privilege.
(Susan L. Taylor is editor-in-chief emeritus of Essence Magazine, Founder and CEO of the National CARES Mentoring Movement and a member of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation's Black Women's Roundtable. This column was distributed by NNPA.)

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.
| 28831|2009-05-12 09:04:38|odhiambo okecth|Kenya poor to become poorer; World Bank|
Kenya poor to become poorer; World Bank 12th May 2009

In their latest report, the World Bank has come up with a report that the poor in Kenya are going to become poorer. This is alarming coming as it comes when we have a wobbling leadership in Kenya amidst chains of financial scandals.

As the World Bank was releasing this report, they were giving Hon Uhuru Kenyatta some Kshs 33 billion just as Uhurus hand was still in the till pilfering Kshs 9.2 billion. It makes one to wonder how serious institutions like the World Bank are with issues of corruption, bad governance and impunity.

The World Bank acted in bad faith. How do you give someone more money when he has just been caught with his pants down? And the pants are still down?

It makes some of us to ask; where is the evidence of the Kshs 1 trillion that Kenya has borrowed in the last 46 years? Why have the World Bank and all Donor agencies kept giving Kenya more money when we cannot justify what we have been given before? And how can the World Bank give Uhuru Kshs 33 billion at a time questions are being raised about his competence at the crucial ministry of Finance? He is yet to convince the country about his intentions with Kshs 9.2 billion that was adjusted into the budgetary estimates.

This was pure theft, the intentions were all clear.

I bet time has come for Kenyans to scrutinize the intentions of Donors who keep giving money to our thieving government officials. Just in the recent past, we have had financial scandals at Kenya Airports Authority and instead of the MD being sent packing; he was given a new mandate.

At the Kenya Pipeline Company Ltd and Kenya Tourism Board, the MDs have been sent home and taken to court. But we are seeing selective justice here and nobody is questioning that. They are being used as smokescreen to convince gullible Donors that the government is doing something about corruption. As the government engages Mr. George Okungu, Mr. Achieng Ongonga and Ms Rebeca Nabutola in their Public Relations, mega scandals go unabated in institutions headed by home boys.

Is it not time the Donor Community asked Kenya; show us what you have done with the Kshs 1 Trillion that you have borrowed since Independence.

By giving Kenya more money amidst scandal after scandal, it means the Donor Community could be abetting corruption at the top level as they give a clean bill of health to the bad governance and ineptness that we experience.

In the same intervening period since Independence, Kenya has been given Grants; money given to you for free! If we combine the Grants and the Loans that we have borrowed, surely, can we still be this badly off?

The bottom line is clear; the loans that we have borrowed as a country and the grants that we have been given have been eaten by the government officials in connivance with the same Donors.

That is why they keep giving us more money.

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock Nairobi.

| 28832|2009-05-12 09:05:23|odhiambo okecth|Closing remarks|
I am now compelled to respond to the debate. As the mover of the motion, ably supported by Otieno Sungu, and a raft of positive contributions from far and wide, we have become the wiser. I must thank the hosts of Moderators who let this debate blossom.

The level of debate has shown me that if provoked with an idea, Kenyans can respond with inspiring thought processes. I used the case of Luo objectively to drive my point home.

Kenya has been raped and ravaged by poor leadership. In 46 years of Independence, our government has borrowed on our behalf Kshs 1 trillion. In the same period, our government has receieved almost Kshs 1.5 trillion in Grants. But as a country that profess democracy, we see nothing for this.

It simply means that we have received Kshs 2.5 trillion in 46 years, Kshs 54,347,826 every year! This is a lot of money. Where has it gone? This is besides the tax that the government levies on us. These moneys were given for specific programmes. Can we have an audit report on all these loans and grants?

If we had visionary leadership in the land, with this kind of money, a lot of developmental incentives would have been achieved.

With this kind of money, Kenya would have been self sustaing in terms of food production by now. With food security, all other things will fall in place. If our leadership could have rallied Kenyans to ensure food security, just like Israel, a small desert country, the rural-urban migration could have been stemmed.

When the people know that it pays to engage in food production, the problem os slums that have become tourists attractions would have been alleviated. But the obtaining scenario in Kenya is the reverse.

It is those that we give leadership who want to control all business. They want to be farmers, industrialists, contractors, Teachers, and Stationery suppliers. They are jacks of all trade.

Can we have a situation where once you go into leadership you serve the people. You do not come around to again compete with the people on provision of basic items. You will find that the PS and Minister who sits on the budget of the ministry is the key supplier to the same ministry on all fronts.

They supply stationery to the ministry; they tender for professinal services as well; they front their companies for all tenders; they compete for all construction works at the same time. At this rate they have no time to serve the country. They have all their time scheming against the people.

I bet time has come when we must put our leaders to the strict; they must account for their leadership.

The sad thing is that our leaders conspire at all times. They come up with things like performance contracts which they do not adhere to. They come up with wealth declaration legislation and they promptly fail to declare their wealth.

They come withlegislation on taxation and they promptly avoid paying tax. And Kenyans are so docile as if these are angels!

Kenyans must wake up and demand to know where and what the loans and grants that we have been given to Kenya for 46 years have done. We must put our leaders to task.

It is our right.

With those few closing remarks, I beg to move.

Odhiambo T Oketch
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Daniel Onyango wrote:

From: Daniel Onyango
Subject: RE: leadership!!
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 4:31 AM

Gentlemen,
I have entered this fray against my better judgement, but I do not want to rue my lostopportunity later. On the issue of leadership in myfatherland Kenya vis-a-vis 'development',I want to humbly submit that any meaningful way forward will only bepossible if the Head of state and Government adopts arevolutionary paradigm shift in transforming oursociety for the benefit of KENYANS irrespective of race, colour, religion and culture.
This idea that leaders in Ukambani, Kakamega, Athi-River, Rarieda ad-finitum, have done this and that, while those of Coastal regions only dream of 'mnazi', is a dead-end route. It is deliberately being apologetic to the what the CENTRAL GOVERNMENT HAS FAILED TO DO OVER THE YEARS(that is why elections are done to elect capable governments). Already the countryhas lost billions of tax-payers' money ontwo scums: GoldenbergandAnglo-leasing. Courageous action by Hon.Gitobu Imanyara just rescued the exchequer from losing another 9 billion.....

I'm surprised how most people are still not informed of the socio-economic realities on the ground inKenya. I'll use a simple illustration ofGatundu and Kiambu whichhave already been mentioned by a writer here: these constituences which are withinCentral province, are(or were) expected to be 'developed' owing to their proximity to the centre of power.But if you look at the wealth distribution(population vs Per capita income)it will translate to a few immorally wealthy people, and thousands of very poor 'wananchi'living in slum-dwellings! For instance, there may be electricity, tapped water, and tarmac roads but it doesn't help the common man in Uthiru who has to resort to crime in order to survive.
The only way out for our countryis to have working socio-economic policies(5, 10, or 20 years economic plans as was the case in South Korea) for the country and for the regions.These should be fully implementednot just written on paper or only done piece-meal dependingon a region's political clientship to the leader. A successfull implemented economic policy should have a trickle-down and multiplier effect in the country. Few of our economic plans have ever been implemented.
Let's use another illustration and see how far it goes. Suppose the Lake Victoria is harnessed as a natural resource, many segments of the economywill benefit: Food(Fish and fish products), Cheaper transport(to Uganda, Tanzania and the hinterland), Agriculture(irrigation?), and abundant source of Clean Drinking Water.The next question we need to answer is:howmany peoplewill such a project employ directly? Would theharnesing of this natural resource indirectly affect other service and allied sectors in the country and region?
If the answers to the above questions are affirmative, then the main beneficiary of such a project would be our country Kenya(not just Luo Nyanza). Similarly, projects in other parts of the country like the rice project in Mwea, the Coffee in parts of Kenya highlands, the Mombasa port, the (possible oil) reservoir in North Eastern province may be harnessed to benefit the immediate regions, and the country as a whole.
The next question would be: who should formulate and finance projects ofsuch magnitude- the local MPs or the CENTRAL GOVERNMENT? We have all read about the Tennessee Valley Authority and its success in the US after the great depression, and we also know about the various local 'political' authorities and how they were used mainly to reward regional sychophants.
When all is said and done, Ladies and Gentlemen, the buck will still stop somewhere: atthe helm. What we have lackedare not good ideas,but the good will, and the self-less leadership that sees Kenya as a united country- not segments of tribal units.
Where is that leader when even now, the constitution cannot be written because it must 'accomodate' certain tribal interests?
If the regions(Jimbos)must be DEVELOPED BY THE LOCAL LEADERS, then let them go their separate ways. My submission is that we cannot hope to have working regions, in a moribund unit. If the top is not working how are the regions expected to work?
I hope there is some food for thought in my argument.
Daniel Onyango

--- On Tue, 12/5/09, maina ndiritu wrote:

From: maina ndiritu

Subject: RE: leadership!!
To: "'otieno sungu"' , bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Date: Tuesday, 12 May, 2009, 8:12 AM

Mr. Sungu , in your argument there, it means man has no direction therefore the need to be directed or led , what does that say of their lives ? , leadership does not create direction , society already knows where it wants to go , they are just captains of a ship that has a destined port , and order is created by society for self preservation , chaos have order , they have to fit in some way to be called chaos , otherwise without reaching a certain level it cannot be called chaos , [order and disorder are the orders but in opposite directions] anyways , society is a ship that must be sailed to a destined port and since we cannot all be captains to pilot the ship to the desired destination , we choose amongst us one who pilots the ship , he does not give the ship direction , it already has , we have a destination [prosperity] ofcoz the sea is rough , we may not get there with the same captain , society gives the captains the reins of the ship , all power is held by these captains , but the power does not belong to them , it remains the forte of society, which means the direction of the ship is governed by society and by that ..society creates leadership and order not vice versa

---

From: otieno sungu [mailto:sunoti@yahoo.com]
Sent: Tuesday, May 12, 2009 8:55 AM
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Cc: litshooz@gmail.com
Subject: RE: Luo Nyanza and poor leadership!!

Migosi Maina,

Thank you, all I need to clarify is that it is not unfortunate for people to wait to be led, leadership creates direction. Leadership creates order in society.

Some people have to make decisions for society and that is why we have lawmakers to make our laws, the Executive to plan our priorities and implement themand the Judiciary to arbitrate our differences.

That is the order of society,so it is not unfortunate, all we are asking is for those who have given themselves to man these positions to do so or step aside.

Without leadership, I tell you there would be chaos.

Let me put it this way;

Leadership in itself is not the problem, the problem is failing to lead when you hold a position of leadership!!

Sungu Otieno.

Juba-Southern Sudan.

--- On Mon, 5/11/09, maina ndiritu wrote:

From: maina ndiritu
Subject: RE: Luo Nyanza and poor leadership!!
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Date: Monday, May 11, 2009, 4:56 PM

Very well said Otieno , itz unfortunate that people have to wait to be led , but I guess that is the way of the world $B!D (J its also important to know which leaders would be of help and those who are there for their tumboz , development can only be done by the citizenry via taxes and so on , but first they must be able to generate income so as to pay taxes , the government should be a facilitator not a player

Well said again otieno

From: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com [mailto:bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com] On Behalf Of otieno sungu
Sent: Monday, May 11, 2009 10:42 PM
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Cc: Kuria-Mwangi
Subject: Re: Luo Nyanza and poor leadership!!

Migosi Kuria,

Ero kamano,

Let us agree that leadership, from the time of Moses to Solomon and David, is a duty. You have to lead people, Kibaki has to lead the nation. MPs have to leads their constituents.

They should not wait for manna from heaven, they should lead their people in earning decent livelihoods, caucas with them day in day out in finding solutions to their local problems. Imagine if all our MPs were in the constituency one alternate week and back to parliament the other? They would be in touch with the local problems, try to get people to look for solutions to local challenges.

The government as we are all aware now, cannot create jobs for all our youth, we must start to lead our youth back to the farms and the lake, but moreso, look for ways that enable what they do become worthwhile. That toiling generation should swear that their children will get better education and skills that will ensure they are reliant not on government but themselves for their destiny.

I keep wondering when some people say "why blame leaders?" Who else is to blame? What have they been doing if not leading? What then is leadership? Titles like President, PM, VP, MP?

Leadership is showing people the way,the direction, you are at the front identifying where people are going and ensuring they don't get lost. Those "others" are the followers;the led.

If you are walking in the dark you follow the footsteps of the man in front with the torch, now, if this man veers of the road and yet he held the torch, do you blame both yourselves of him?

Leadership is the same with that, it, in simple language means guide,direct. If you know you can't direct people, don't go to the front. All societies must have leaders and their role is above the rest in society.

Migosi Kuria, ni ma,let us keep reminding them it is not for their stomachs they are in position but for the welfare of society, ni ma.

Oriti,

Otieno Sungu

Juba,Sudan Milambo.
--- On Mon, 5/11/09, Kuria-Mwangi wrote:

From: Kuria-Mwangi
Subject: Re: Luo Nyanza and poor leadership!!
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Date: Monday, May 11, 2009, 1:24 PM

Migosi Sungu,
I fully agree with you. It is easy to place blame on others while refusing to make the leaders accountable to the electorate. We even have good example from one Harun Mwau who did not wait for resources to be allocated to his constituents but used his own resources. Ephraim Maina also did the same and I am sure they are going to leave a legacy. They didnt wait to be elected to parliament to effect changes but decided to use their own resources. We have leaders who want to bequeth all their wealth to their kins yet they could have become our Bill Gates.

On Mon, May 11, 2009 at 11:59 AM, otieno sungu <sunoti@yahoo.com> wrote:

Kuria Mwangi,

I am in agreement with you that successive regimes have been biased towards Nyanza in terms of resource allocation. That we all agree on an a fact not lost on me.

My point is,those successive regimes did not "tie the hands" of our leaders from mobilising the peole of Nyanza to harness the great potential of Lake Victoria starting with Jaramogi Oginga Odinga.Just like the example you give of Kenyatta and Magugu, Magugu had a greater vision than Kenyatta.

This isa sin that we must not continue to apologise for. If Egyptians have been able to use the water from this Lake several thousand miles away to develop, surely even the people of Nyanza can.

We cannot continue giving the excuse of being sidelined, it happened and it is time to dust ourselves and move on. Raila is PM today with several Ministers from the region. They can organize a forum to bring Luos and Kenyans at large to brainstorm on ways of using this vast resoruce to allievate poverty from the region and produce food for the nation like Egypt is doing, mobilising people does not require power. They have done so very ably and succesfully when in opposition; if anything, they have political power,a very powerful tool.

They should now, the Lake is a resource that can turn the fortunes of this country around, it is like our oil, for food production, proper fishing and fish farming.

I am not judging them harshly Kuria, I am trying to awaken them to the reality that they are devoid of ideas and vision. You do not need political power to transform that Lake into a gold mine, all you need are leaders with a vision whom the local Onyango, Otieno and Oketch will listen to when they talk, you would be amazed in a year what transformation it would be.

Off-course the Onyangos etc will not listen to Sungu because he is not "their elected leader". People tend to put more trust and premium, especially in the village, to what the politicians say and because they offered themselves to lead without being coerced, let them do so.

Otieno Sungu.

Juba

--- On Mon, 5/11/09, Kuria-Mwangi <kjmwangi@gmail.com> wrote:

From: Kuria-Mwangi <kjmwangi@gmail.com>
Subject: Re: Luo Nyanza and poor leadership!!
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com

Date: Monday, May 11, 2009, 9:57 AM

Sungu na wengine,

I do agree with you on leadership. That plays a very important role in the development of a place. Let me give you an example. Gatundu and Githunguri neighbors each other. During the Onyatto and Ngengi days, Gatundu happened to be one of the least developed places in Kiambu, may be second to Juja in under development. Thanks to Kenyatta's poor leadership. All the funds seemed to go to his pocket including the millions collected for Gatundu Hospital (used as a conduit for bribes). Githunguri on the other hand had very able leadership with the most illustrious MP being Arthur Kinyanjui Magugu.

One day I was driving with folks from Githunguri and Gatundu enroute to my grandmother's home in Mundoro Gatundu via Githunguri and asked them where the boundary was. I was informed that I didnt have to be told....You know when you see under development and true to that statement, you saw end of paved roads and the beginning of poverty once you left Githunguri enroute to Gatundu. Kenyatta's birthplace was even worse. His is a palace or was a palace then surrounded by thatched huts and poverty was obvious. Githunguri on the other hand was one place which wouldmake you worship her MPs. Well developed. Kikuyu is another place where Njonjo did some very good work.

In Central, you would tell where there have been good leadership by visiting the constituencies.

But before we beat leaders in Luo Nyanza too hard. Let us not forget that successive regimes in Kenya starting with Jomo Kenyatta deliberately sidelined Luo Nyanza for political reasons. Regions were economically punished for 'sins" committed bytheir leaders.Money was not allocated for development and so even able leaders may not have been able to do much. That is why Raphael Tuju did very well for Rarienda because he knew how to get pork for his people. You cant blame those who wanted to do the same but were denied the resources esp. when CDP (?)was unheard of.

May be it too early to blast Raila for what he has not done since he assumed power but again you can also argue that he has the title but no power. One year is not enough to question him.

I think Odhis has the freedom to question the leadership but with facts. One may want to find out why the leaders are not able to deliver pork such as roads and other items when they have the capability, how they use/manage the Constituency Development Funds and how they argue the case for the constituents.

I do agree with Sungu that Luo Nyanza especially the area surrounding the lake have the potential for development if the leaders harnessed the resources and used water for agricultural and other usage.

Kuria

On Mon, May 11, 2009 at 7:38 AM, otieno sungu <sunoti@yahoo.com> wrote:

Booker,

Thanks and regards,

The point being made here is that leaders are supposed to lead, right?They have an influence they can exert to mobilise people to some vision, goals and ideals, right?

Now, leaders who sit back and do nothing have no reason claiming they are leaders Booker, this is simply logic, who are the leading and where? To what end and effect?

As a leader, you vie with some aim, goals, vision, ideology for the people you intend to lead.

They say leaders are born not made.

For instance, Obama created a vision around which he rallied Americans complete with a slogan.

We want our leaders, starting from the local councillor, the MP to the President to lead, why are you fellows having a problem with leaders being asked to do what they supposed they would?We have started with out local leaders, give us room to ask them to lead people with some vision.

If I have no idea what I could do with my people, I don't vie for any leadership position. Those who do should lead people, identify challenges and problems of their people and together, seek solutions for those challenges.

Booker, a simple example I keep repeating is this, for how long will fishermen in Nyanza be fleeced by middlemen and greedy companies taking advantage of them?

If our leaders cared, today Nyanza would be havingfish processing companies fully owned by fishermen, processing and exporting their fish and creating jobs and allievating poverty.

Now, that is leadership. No one is asking Raila or anyone for that matter to do so from their pockets, but they can rally the people around the Lake into very strong cooperatives that will give them ecomonic empowerment to enjoy the benefits of their fishing. That I call leadership, you cant say none of them has seen this potential. Fishermen in Wagusu tried this on their own, I don't know how far they are with that today but their local cooperative had their own trucks transporting theirown fish.They would get better prices than the middlemen who bought their fish at throw away prices and made a kill at the factories.

Start by asking our leaders to rally those poor fishermen into such schemes, they need such influence, the need guidance.Leadership is about being able to mobilise people to a certain cause.

Stop being an apologist for inept leadership devoid of any ideas.

Sungu.

Juba

--- On Mon, 5/11/09, Booker Steve <bookersteve05@yahoo.com> wrote:

From: Booker Steve <bookersteve05@yahoo.com>

Subject: Re: Luo Nyanza and poor leadership!!
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com

Cc: sunoti@yahoo.com

Date: Monday, May 11, 2009, 6:08 AM

Hi Otieno Sungu,

Why blame this poverty on our leaders. We have not encouraged our brothers and sisters to be together so divided we shall fall.

Booker Stephen

Juba Southern Sudan.

--- On Mon, 5/11/09, otieno sungu <sunoti@yahoo.com> wrote:

> From: otieno sungu <sunoti@yahoo.com>
> Subject: Luo Nyanza and poor leadership!!
> To: "Biddi Africa" <bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com>

Date: Monday, May 11, 2009, 12:52 AM

I think we are losing focus here and the argument Odhiambo should have raised is,, are the leaders elected in Nyanza, like elsewhere, doing anything much to sort the problems of their people?

Now I know there are people who will get hot under the collar and foam in the mouth the moment the leadership of one Raila Odinga is brought to probity. I must say from the onset that Raila is as human as you and I and there is nothing wrong with probing his leadership. I must also say that he has perharps done so much for this country in terms of sacrifice for reforms than any other leader currently in government.

Now, that does not make Raila a messiah. What should be said is, what is the larger vision they have for the areas they represent? Remember we elect leaders from the local level to the national. The local leader must sort local problems. There are CDF funds they manage, their parties control local councils,municipalities and counties, what is the vision they have for the areas they represent?Raila has never said categorically he is not the leader of the Luo,he represents Kibera but because he also prides himself as the foremost luo politician, he gets held accountable for the tag which he has not denied in public.

Nyanza has had crumbling industries, cotton, sugar, fish, rice, etc.You do not need government for instance to mobilise fishermen into strong cooperatives so that they can get better yields from their catch and cut out middle men. In areas like Central Provice, there are very strong cooperatives, Tea, Coffee etc, these were, despite Moi's era of alienating Central during his rule.The cooperatives despite their failings, have made the area progress in terms of farming.

Why haven't these leaders mobilised the people of Nyanza to use the Lake Victoria which is the greatest resource to allievate poverty? How many tons of fish come from this region yet fishermen walk in tatters and cannot even eat the fish for they can't even afford it today?

Let us open our eyes and ask why our people should eat "mgongo wazi" and left overs of fish and yet we want to bury our heads and not probe our leaders. Where are they leading us? Leadership is not criticising government only, it is also mobilising local people and identifying potentials that can allievate poverty,create employment and develop a region.

A region surrounded by the lake should be self sustaining in food production and even feed the whole country. These are the things we want leaders from Nyanza to mobilize their people to do, irrigate farms using lake water to harvest food for themselves. They can effectively mobilise the youth into many things that I shall not dwell on now, surely they should be able to do the same on matters development otherwise as Odhiambo says, perharps the poverty is intentional to have people who are easy to manipulate. It is not easy to manipulate people who are self reliant and independent.

It is not too much to ask that the leaders start thinking beyond criticism of government year in year out.

The same goes for leaders from Eastern who should think of ways to allievate the perrenial hunger in the region and reliance on donor food. We must start asking leaders to lead or step aside. Government is not supposed to do your work, you are supposed to work, pay taxes and then ask government to create an enabling environment for you with your taxes. These include good infrastructure, schools,hospitals,etc. Leaders from all regions, Nyanza included, must do what the locals elect them to do;LEAD!!Identify local problems and start with local solutions, not running to the government even when you have jiggers in your toes or bed bugs in your bed.

I hope now we can agree that the leadership is not just a stint of 5 or 10 years in parliament, it is what that leader has done with that period that impacts on the lives of the locals. For instance, I may not be a supporter of Tuju but to me he made an impact in my constituency Rarieda. I am not very sure what Gumbo is doing so far and wish to share very soon with him the potential of mobilising fishermen from Luanda Kotieno Beach,Madundu,Kunya,Wikwang and all the beaches there to even buy their own trucks to transport their won fish for processing and better still, think of processing and exporting the fish themselves!!!

Let us keep the discussion going and give ideas to our leaders what we expect of them.

Sungu Otieno.

Juba-Southern Sudan.

| 28833|2009-05-12 09:05:30|Mendo IamtwentyKA|The modern space|
According to... http://www.royal-magic.webs,com
The PsyRing

There is no doubt that almost everything you can find here, the future of science give answer quantum physics categories. The support, this approach will be a reference to consciousness, as the kinetic ("push") systems in the energy image. On this basis, can be sorted, and many other standard capacity of moments of consciousness (the will, conscience distress etc.).. They also clearly belongs to open links between consciousness quantical field. It is here in the parallel interactions and will be discussed. The kinetic energy of the visual experimenter worth very firmly in mind, because in all cases, there are conscious use of additional kinetic energy from elsewhere - from techno-ecological space (eg mob. Tel. Welter of communication) , or - in the consciousness of the other kinetic oscillations. However, adapting to the current concepts, continue to make use of enacting a more conventional "life" terms.
So... Welcome to the extremal magic. I had to think long enough, or this web site is suitable to describe the attribution of the magic field. Unfortunately, the readers have to adapt to the advances "of the classification, although easily find that the majority of" magic "element here is clearly a" dismantle "and criticize too consciously perceived and composed cases. In essence, this is - traditionally perceived magic "setdown a light Sufist any Muslim, Jewish cabbalist practice the puzzles as a simpleton.
If somebody would allow me to define the substance "notstandard" , not by precedents, it would name as - "the highest level of practical philosophy. For here is a collection of comments and suggestions, as absolutely consciously develop the ability to manage, "construct" the desired level of importance to identify the desired object, the desired moment, in spite of the established patterns of identification. Someone here discusses the skills and unconditional measures may prove potentially dangerous to the public point of view. This "scared" I have calmed down, as may be referred to absorb only a very transparent, flexible and strong the human mind, not any expansive, unmindful villain. The very principle of methodologies able to purchase leads that they may be only responsible, in respect of care of another person.

It will be discussed in the "live underspacing interaction between people from the" standard capacity to influence him "to - Specific construction are made. At the point of view will be affected by a number of "reverse" the social, psychiatry, religion and so on. questions. Sorting things will be both innovative and categorically "the established rules (" Revolving understanding) in terms of that, naturally, that is critical, and (because) a healthy ego would not be sufficient, and the many logical arguments, or - my assurance that "it is - absolutely empirically, logically based. " Especially when it comes to a whole range of ancient massive "myths" bruise, or - re.

So the future I propose to make the reader at the beginning of the whole simple test (the best fit for the married couple ... on the reasons for it - continues elsewhere ...)

2. This requires another person, which, in your understanding, you are "good enough known" (by the way - it is a great opportunity to check whether it is in fact). Interpretation - If you are brave say that in itself the objectives and wear a "sufficiently full of the principles of visualconsciousness ", then the test should succeed immediately.
Test, you only need two mobile phones, and some metal tool (eg - cutlery), you would use in the cold (for example - keep a glass of chilled water).
The test must be "sufficiently free environment" (should not there be a dense crowd of people next to any of the two, in particular - "receivers") .
Both sit in different rooms so that the "Tester" (You) seating "front" testing, the spin on it. The latter - the next room faces directly to you.
The test and the whole "image" the essence of which is worth to follow both know - you are in a specific sequence spill your body in different places, uploading "information about the impression of another 'and this will be under the feeling of" the self "(as if) to predict and then recount the sequence (which are your body parts, the order has been tampered with you there).
The test course should be next - both of phone mobile, stow away them (enabled connection) for the lumbar spine ... Further, since, as mentioned, you are on the basis that you have quite a clear visual testing, I propose to ease the minds "turn" something like. to the "movie memories with your partner in different situations, which gives his typical style, manners and the like. elements. At the time, try to identify the personal characteristics of ourselves.
Later, imagine to him, "as such" to place itself, try to make myself touch the cold metal tool with the idea that touch it (the visual) within himself. "Touch himself, though in view of that "here are not you, and the next man."
Yet it should be "strained consciousness" in every sense of intensified, extreme of his understanding of moments of density, relevance, the brightness of certainty.
It should refrain, and the touch is to place a cold object, a few seconds to warm (up to "a feeling of heat") hand. Cold touch(and sense perception) is also worthwhile to record a few seconds.
While the receiver should try to don't actualize your self. He does not need to be some over the "acquired" or the like. He may be dressed completely free of clothes, but also desirable that the heat of his body would not be higher than your current "situation".
Visible feeling of worth in both "fade" (you can close one's eyes for example.).

Boldly propose this experiment many, unequivocally, that he will be successful. And do not suggest "the impression", and as a sufficient justification for many further questions. AND (!), Succeeded this simple "episodes", I think many senses, it had something that suggests both a large realistic "telepathy character" (the transmission of information - making the accuracy of ...) than a 'theoretical' , or at much more realistic potential "soother" than many proud, because ... You are fresh sent colleague "body effect". So, if this "aware of the body (like) recorded in the event" (erroneously) as "its own here," - force your body to respond is absolutely precise, your selected locations ...

Episode is possible to identify a variety of philosophical, psychological terms of choose saying "parallel consciousness changing", or - symbiotism. But the pious man was alleged that you were short in their own minds "possessioned - deaden" their colleague, so this simple, though perhaps negatively Sounds word ("possession") can also be used. Especially ... Easy to understand that not knowing what they like. "Effect" has, "host", as a religious, guilt anglerfish upside ... Well, the psychiatrist of his place, as the mat - morbid hallucinations ...

Changing states of consciousness (and the ball just ... "possession" ?)

About the foreword to the "test". Foreword to a description of the tests to make sure certain "possession opportunities. " I do not doubt that many of the test should succeed, but some people might - even from the first time. There are certain conditions where the test performance, or - the effect can be a multiplier effect, but the potential for even stronger "possession" as "an excessive effect of the result. Eg. such a result can be achieved if the "sender" is to monitor the "action of supporting - the sender of topical" human. It is important that the observer or observers "are not between the sender and receivers, or.. Specific still important that the sponsor of such a charge to take an importance the process itself. That nuance may be cause of failure (the "giving prominence" the observer shall be sent looking, and myself, as an important entity in respect of receivers), and in many cases described in other episodes, which will be set out later.
Well, "a couple of cases, however, suggest that similar, not necessarily" the test of support "to avoid and for the same reason, warns this" occupation "not to abuse too. In particular - with the same person "in one direction." For the foregoing, Beneficiary may saturate as "Shipper" experience, that it (the response to the "current") for some time, it constantly disturbing planes different (in terms of body coordination, style, emotional state, etc.)..

And ... "Information transmission" itself is the main essence. No more difficult to forward the same "information" and "without incident" (memories of him, imagine etc..), Which differ only in "local accuracy." And this principle can be explained almost all kinds of magic works. And not only ... F.e. one self-centered, forceful visionary "ghost pictorial" as a genuine feeling of the event, may "impose informative" and several colleagues skeptical ...
Magic (in most cases) - one of "consciousness of reality" obtrusion another consciousness and anchoring the "current realities" form.
At the same may be explained, and many of the psychological, sociological, and so forth. aspects

The test suggested the use of mobile phones. The reason is here - very serious. In particular, in the matter, that "telepathic connection" in the way is actually much easier. And secondly - you send the information - "impact" to a certain person on your possession of the world. People with this your "visual" on Earth may be millions and (..!) at least several thousand of these, which at the same time, the possession of your specific "to the moment person" visual match much better than concrete "colleague" ... I think, under it here immediately is worth noting that for example. soother, doing "effects" to someone, he, grow dull, "well aware" (which is unlikely, because most of their "clients" are quite primitive), and substantially more takes broadly the impact of the arts in client "the world" proportioned address. ..
"Mobile communications" in this case, you will guarantee more targeted "the accuracy of contact," local. Of course, that this aspect (Consciousness interactions with high-frequency electromagnetic waves of information) should be to explore the science (or, here lies a number of hazards to people and wage earners ... large masses of money from the technology, so, unfortunately ...), or at least have - have in mind. F.e.. delirium enough these days, sounds of any game (with MMS without stopping gutted the core of ...) fairy tales of his "consciousness of independence" at the time of meditation ...

Can be many different ways you "develop" starting with the aforementioned "primary contact option to the highly sophisticated" understanding of the limits "... It is unlikely, or would be brave oppose it try couples? By the way, "the reality telepathic body contact" between the gender of partners gives "the most interesting, " pronounced resonant effects (Sorry homosexual, as the pan. Gay demonstrated the principle of "combinations - one to one" shows that the real ... beech between feels and different gray is not only the flags).
But ... The "capacity" at risk of premature development of the fact that you will become susceptible to any random "senders information" in respect of (and this may be quite simple, nothing about "other things" often do not know the people), and immersed in onerous, "it is unclear whose" experience avalanche (in particular, can feel the people in between you and the person with whom "exercised).

In addition, I propose something similar stupid engaging, clear, solid, defined "self-awareness model of" do not have personalities, as the case of such a man, after "was a certain influence in the country" cant be allowed "to recover the rates (of itself as" the previous, the real me ") limits." Even if you are sure of their understanding features kit - similar to taking the test would suggest to take a good look at yourself in the mirror at least.
Even if you have something of the like (eg pair) and would take a very "do", still would suggest to keep a strict stereotypical selected procedural limits "and not to the mobile phone. namely, the use of that "localization" . However, if you are patient and persevering - ways to develop the capacity to Specific, a description, see the end.

Natural unconscious influences

You will notice that this test there is a certain episode of "contractors polarization" - one of its experience provides a "sense of priority" to tenacity aspects, the other - their own "exprominenced. " The latter "preparing influence on the adoption of the case as a" natural state "quite normal when a person suffering from psychological fatigue, insomnia and so on. I think, easy to understand that in this case the "potential possession receiver" is perfectly prepared for any tenacity respect, whether it be hidden somewhere and thinking about the massacre raving drunk, or - over their feels importance hysterical woman. Interpretation - the "symbiotic interaction between the" have a mental patient "template", which "invasion contacts" the first case may talk about a 'higher willy vote, "otherwise - unbridled self-respect, emotional states, which will be evident in their" entry from the side, " without any justification.
Depression is the beginning of the case of concentrate to your emotional feels, loneliness in their possession in terms of here and he also becomes "throwers" influences from the country" ... Such, "which even worse", etc.
Of course, that the "sender" can enhance the effect through the home tenacity hyperbolitacion, the training of certain visual aid. Eg. through certain occult rites, "illustrating the process of" fetish, symbols, or - focusing their will with the quality representation of certain "powerful dimension", "energy fields", "dark, or the like. forces, "a powerful social, professional layer, and so on.
Sorry, have to find that psychiatric treatment and also do not differ substantially from the above-mentioned "situations" ... Psychiatrist is also his will forcing patient, which in the case of this convenient "involuntary" period (often - with the loss of memory capacity) on the effects of psychotropic drugs. It should be noted that the methods of psychiatry, medicine is constantly changing, "the past" every time you treated as something "quite low" with regard to innovation (there is no doubt that the future levels will also be disdained and psychiatry today ":). So, really crucial in this "field" has always been and is a powerful, not degrees errors (although it is - a sign of paranoia ...), magical - repressive "system", where even the "doubt" the doctor's address is always treated as "special morbidity" .

If there is a targeted opportunity to possession, it does not need to believe that such things do not exist naturally. I can to say that the man constantly flap natural 'possession at Sea "with various" attempts to connect the next ", or - from the natural defences. For this example. serves all the self-touch and so on. cases where they are assigned a certain "impulsive, involuntary featu

Natural unconscious influences changing

In some instances a person (often, for example. - Boys and girls at each other) trying to impose its feels as a "priority", the other - "the man's capture a sense of certainty in yourself."
The same "possession creation" principle applies in a case where a crowd celebrate, for example. political leaders: some "enthusiastic supporters stare" (as in the written test "possessioner with the sponsor") of the leader of consciousness imposes other crowd members, as "upstage of consciousness. " In principle, it can be argued that the ("the enthusiasm of the crowd") means the existence of democracy, unfortunately, is not a completely transparent "deliberate choice of the system."
In the "efforts of obsession" (or - "to be possession") within the circle and all the damage excessive loving "cult personalities" moments (as role models, ideals, etc.).. Clearly, it is unlikely, or any obsession with the singer Madonna to her passionate and wanting to fans, but - here may "come out" any other woman with such a predisposition. For, since, as mentioned - people do not operate more than certain "other visual and always will, at least a couple of real persons, which would correspond to the the world than that to address" personal portrait "for his own creator. Humans constantly flap possession, symbiotic influences the sea, and the best method of defense against any "narrow, and affect" - the contact with all the variety, and their excessive notactualization.
Episodes in certain people the coach unconscious symbiotic relationship between a variety of "synchronization" techniques (liturgical rites communities, military formation, etc.). This ensures a unified episodically styles in the line of what you like. psychologists deem sufficient, even all the "personality trait" set.

Already in his description of the "test" and noted that "making contact" should be sufficient "alone space" ... In fact, the test may fail to complete the "contact" is surrounded by "other consciousness. " On one hand, this is evidence of consciousness and spontaneous symbiotic connection to exist in certain location, and illustrates the fact, when you can get rid of unwanted narrow influence.
The same is the "society of animal" cases. Eg. the dog really wont defecate wouldnt go round a number of times (this "defensive influences the way of" knowing and using the latest European pagans, and Lithuania), for yourself and customized throw up to prevent the "synchronous connections" to the kinsman, or - the owners. Most animals are very afraid of "targeted possession" as a mat and lays down a similar 'effort to take over ", as is the case of apparent, as the predator's position." Mat ... Predator hunting, and it is based on this intuition, "what possible obsession, taking over hunting coordination ... Yes, is choosen weak, infirm, weak by nature, is coordinating the animal itself.
But, in the case of domestic animals. These 'symbiotic contact "with the predictable human person is quite important, and in that lies a relatively large" possession of his half-hazard. " Possession case, the dog (if you are a man of absolute and its impact on) have a psychiatric patient from those who are usually described as "unpredictable aggressive" (often - with olfactory hallucinations) .
The human animal itself "obsession targeted" can not, but such cases are possible with the people in "aid" from the tendency to saturate (with emphasis on a "positive", awe properties, etc.).. Or it happens when the pet in the home is viewed metaphorically as in "a certain man in a certain sense." Then it moves on, as a "substitute" , the symbol of a certain, at the time the missing man (nostalgic memories, metaphorically soap, etc.).
In order to make sure that the person can contact with the animal feels, I propose to make the same short of that "test" for example. with the dog, at that moment is not himself, but the dog with imagine the "other (in another room at) the man, who for feels. It can be variously to develop even if you don't have a fearing "troupe expensive, it is not clear from where" (a human understanding) in the future, although it is actually nothing more than a dog to convey "his experience" on your own enough clean socks aroma. Deep saturate dog can also lead to a degradation of the human capacity to sharply focus the people, the personalized (see separate representativeness, diversity) of other persons, events and so on.
Human-like "adaptation to the cat" may give him some advantages like. increase in sight, the hand of the reaction speed of moving objects of respect. However this is longer and deeper "connection" disturb the emotional stability (because the cat is an animal with a permanent "danger waiting to happen ... the same, and communication with horses"), the call up other people avoidance. O

"trampedbrain" to the cat's olfactory centers may need to enjoy and as representative for the biblical "devil stink 'this snuffing their genitalia.
If the "dog possessioner" becomes psychiatric patients, this "dog friends" fall into the hands of exorcist.

Exorcism liturgy, and some nuances

If touch "possession" theme, this will inevitably have to mention, and on the "traditional exorcism." Not much I can say about the "devil's banishment" in which lay-flown and picturesque descriptions of such cases. I am a cardinal, "such stories" skeptic. In particular, there are many among exorcist quite unhealthy "devil enthusiasts, " could "client" impose (such actions are often the most "egzocists" OTHERWISE treated as a "spiritism" ... the forms wrong call) the "foreseeable events." Exorcisms session with "possessioned" in many of my well-known phenomena in which "nature" nothing in common with the hell not.
No more than this, the above-mentioned "spiritism 'point of view can be treated and some of the psychiatric' therapeutic 'rituals, often derogating to satanistic" spiritism "scale. Not very (too gently told ...) a good thing when the "patient" the doctor has to respect the religious nature of "spiritual rescue" the visual.
Eg. "Possessioned" includes valetudinarian coughing, vomiting. In this case the fault lies with the exorcist, which imposes its fee that "possessioned" (his idea) he is "not the person." It has noted that such a "reaction" to occur in those possessioned, which has the appearance of defects and the like.:) You can simply have a view of the "nervous cough" explanation of life, in some cases ... means you are "unacceptable" the man, who at the time you have in mind.
The same reaction can cause the animal to him, and unacceptable "symbiotic partner respect. How many had to monitor the - most of possessioner "to link with the cats, which exorcism time get panic, when feel moisture (water on the sprinkling). . Nearly all possessioner "brutal moves" (which is very intriguing exorcism) is similar to the cat's movements. I mentioned that symbiotism may disrupt the coordination, because the "consciousness partnerships" will breakthrough in the ability to slightly use other body, including muscle reflexes. In addition, as mentioned - to strengthen the monitoring of possession "sponsor" (or - a few of them). Exorcism during the session and that's what happens - exorcists tries to impose its will and possessioner and his partner.. " "Cats possession case," this means that while a number of "supporters" endeavor, that a man possessed cat. Since the beginning of contrast, so the competition will take place consciousness and then all of these human "physical effects".
Cats saturate most of them women, who have the men simply unthinkable feature - context of something directly to saturate (mostly - the other "standard" for women).

Although relatively criticized "exorcistic stories", but I do not think that it is - senseless activity. Exorcist approach to the man, as to that which is not merely the "genomic meat", which the regime, and in many cases, are tolerant and fairer than the schematic scientist. And in the case of exorcist has a very large "angry spirit" band ("images" of diversity) "perception" - exorcism may help to "any possession case. Although, of course, would be much better to explore the matter and concentrate conclusions. Well ... exorcists difficult to raise the requirements to have Christ-level wit, that they are able "from the eye" to determine whether any strange foolish human a symbiosis with the pigs.
Clearly, the symbiotic relationship "of" is not as simple as the man of their own antropological adapting, modifies, imposing the "explanation" and the like.

Contrary to what you can imagine - the man symbiotistic manage greater capability than any amount of spectacular animals, and vice versa. In particular, it must be remembered that the obsession with the ability to very forceful entity. This means - rude, impulsive, exactly, firmly, and therefore - strictly describe itself (the same applies to people "between the possession" cases), a well-co-ordinate "the priority of muscle groups.F.e. if the person to give possession in such a monster, as small hornet, this is the case, this competition will be able to rip the creation, the jaw muscles.

Recently a "possession growth, illustrating simbiotism deeping . Most likely, the fault here lies with information technology, e-mail. magnetic means of communication, etc. Eg. the number of mobile telephone conversations, the "usefulness" can be found at any exchange of new information (the majority of calls at the point of view, is completely worthless), how much effort to maintain a symbiotic, stylistic connection. .. Mat individual person has always been receptive to such "possession dragon", as the crowd (a panic, and the enthusiasm of others. Cases). So its influence only to grow further. The crowd, on its low self orientation level is always important only rudimentary "the will of the entities." In other words - "the beast".

Furrow wide egzorcistic nuance worth noting that the "possession problem" is characterized almost exclusively to Christianity. Are several explanations. First of all, other religions are not so actualing "The role of the devil," which could cover something spectacular, felt itself the "enormous changes".
The second explanation lies in the Christian liturgy ... Christians are engaging in practice, be prepared "to be possessed" during the "Body of Christ making" ceremonies. Clearly, any objections to the priest, offering a deeper glimpse a sense of ritual and so on. But it is unlikely, or he is the "clarification" will, serving a child? But your memory remains in the simple understanding that the visible body can come to some "other body" and it is already - enough to be preparing for something possessioned "effective" in future.

It is known that the religious rites of its players' pool 'and the main reason here lies in collective "mutual possession' rituals. In this respect, very strictly codified Muslim rites: prayer group's rites, in which "possessor" shall be the responsibility of the role in the first series. Each group also targeted (to be "possessed") to a Mac, what actually is there changing prayer of consciousness flow. Notabsoluting the "possessive consciousness circulating" principle of Muslim prayer, but this aspect is really important enough.

Possession (to each other and, in particular - "leaders") engaging in preparing any of the religious dimension, where the "god of the" main aspects to focus on the primitive "faith" image. This feature has any terrorist, criminal or otherwise. "Sects."

"Special skills" ... Extremal.

Towards Telepathy...

Initially described in the test can be taken gradually to improve and to get the results dramatically.
Yes, as one man "point of helping" on the body can be sent to "recognize the other" - exactly the same way you can gradually get used to "send" and "notes" (eg on the thigh). The most conventional is the writing - reading dreaming is a prelude telepathic capacity "channel" (sending ideas - reading) between the two people in education.
In this case, particularly the pooling of imagination "transfer" the thought as soon as the transmission characteristics of the development of four levels: 1. Sender has a well-perceived sense of 'receivers' heads, and the status of their own, 2.. It has built its institutions acceptable "(stylistic characteristic) idea of 3. It must provide "its institutions" opportunity "to get a message" to him for "sound" vision (preffered - occipital area). 4. "Receiver" at the same time, must obtain the written thought the video adjustment. In reality, this means your "imagination" provision of the other. This complex "practice" is worth its notstreamlined to develop and maintain a constant, because otherwise you can get dangerous owershadow "sender" state-building ideas .... This would take voluntary, it is unclear whom odious patchwork of ideas, certain consistent "chain insertion" method.

Specific feels and other acquisitions. "

In addition to the above simple possible and specific 'sensation' education through a consciousness discuss next. It is particularly suitable partners in the pairs.
A good example - spouse, your spouse: it lies at the beginning of dreaming in it. This - a passive, relaxed, somewhere in another room, awaiting "its identity" itself. After that it takes to create awareness particularly the intensive perception of the status of your body. At the same time is very positive (artificially narcisistic) in respect of its body. Extremely good "help" - take the finger, dreaming that it is the beginning of identification "shining index and store the addition of the vagina. The man in this case, the body will gain an understanding of what it will look like, without feels at the contours of her body, starting from the "starting point". Result in the impression that the woman's finger tip is the identification of energy as a generator. "Its institutions" is not in the process, "overexpose: apparent enough to stay up to" the other side of the lungs. " Otherwise in this case exposed to severe inflammatory process with the neural network restructuring. However, if any of that kind, or "feeling the ignition" on - it "After, wouldnt take suppress drugs.
Analogy to "self-image" a woman and a man can give, clicking finger groin or the like.
After long enough to be felt not only the partner's body, but also the emotional, the stylistic mode. As mentioned at the beginning - use of mobile phones.
This process can be speeded up and the beginning of the 'sponsors looking to person, those in his foot. You do not here any "striptease" - this may be, and after blanket.
One way or the other in the improved person can become a telepathic able to manage even the body of the motor, emotional, and other conditions: Short for the muscle, or need pressure, targeted willed to slow the wave of anger cause qualmish their enemies. Those who imagine that there may be a "good material" monsters education, I want to reassure - to gather and store in itself a "changing experience" - the incredible "tolerant" properties.

The third entity to convey

As it was already possible to understand of the presentation - "Upstaging processes" - in a way you can convey not only the "man to man", but even - Owad latter. It is particularly interesting, and even healthy for a person to convey bird. This requires a host of human experience "extransformation the 'imagination: the" shoulder doubling the image slowly added to the bird's belt ", etc..
In the same way, the above mentioned "a couple of feeling" variant "may" to "help extransformation and body parts (the clitoris harness penis, imagine the transformation of the mutual understanding of love ... bearing is guaranteed. ... And even I know from experience that similar ("remote-flooding") is possible even in such a way, "even in heaven cant be bay" thing, as a woman's orgasm-specific experience and understanding of a conveyance of her husband, or male - a woman ...

Deep "reflection in animals to humans, this may not only occur in the said properties (eg. depresive and characteristics morose human short after taking bird is extremely careful in the process space), but even - a short time to hear his" simbioto "sounds ... So as sensitive to the skull by a microphone, you can even hear the other language. True, the effect of short duration without renewal, and in addition - it is difficult to adapt to any of your hating villain. Here lies a relatively simple reason: for example. to this end decide "fasten for any offender to the dog, the view, as an important and (at least - for the ...) "positive". In the meantime, "the second half of" you judge negatively. It is obvious that such a discordant juxtaposition, without a vision of "second half" of any properties will be doomed to fail. The other hand, those who assign the dog, its environment can have a dog and it really "absorb ." Finally, some very negative person render it more negative (even though you and your dog appears to be the most "positive") and a "crime prevention" let reverse the result ... The best choice for such a test has any quit koala, etc. ..:) In such a "peaceful" leitmotifs, and I would like to complete this brief "magic extreme" layout.

It has been discussed a wide range of feels, calls to the desired acquisition. However, thanks to the acquired capacity to feel and adverse impact on someone's (such hating person). The best and cheapest defense against such "attacks" in this way would affect the elementary zones of the body scratching, dip in warm baths, turns on its axis, "incident" inadequate movements, synthetic clothes and so one.

| 28834|2009-05-12 09:06:14|Michael J Robinson|Please Help Save African-American Radio. It is under attack by Cong|

Maat Hotep Family,

You may have heard messages and interviews on Radio One Stations in the past few days from Cathy Hughes who is the founder of Radio One and Syndication One. I copied who message below from her Blog on WCHB 1200 AM in Detroit. You can read this message by going to http://wchb1200.com/Article.asp?id=1317694 . Please forward this message out to every African-American you know so we can take action.

From Cathy Hughes, Founder and Chairperson of Radio One.

TO MY RADIO ONE FAMILY:

The Honorable John Conyers, our 80 year old African-American Congressman is the sponsor of a new bill that could put many black owned radio stations out of business. And force others to abandon their commitment to provide free music, entertainment, news, information, and money losing formats like gospel and black talk.

This is Cathy Hughes, founder and chairperson of Radio One with an urgent call to our Radio Family.

The John Conyers Performance Tax Bill is the brain child of the foreign owned record industry who would receive at least 50% of the revenue that would be charged to radio stations in order for them to play music. The music that you now receive free from us - we would have to pay millions of dollars for.

And in the midst of this economic depression, black radio stations simply do not have that financial ability.

There has been only one hearing on the bill and that hearing did not have any black ownership representation. Black radio owners and community leaders including Rev. Jesse Jackson, Rev. Al Sharpton, Dick Gregory, Tom Joyner, and myself have all begged Conyers to at least allow us the opportunity for a hearing. He has flatly refused.

We now ask you, our radio family, to assist us in saving the future of black radio. Please call or email or visit the offices of John Conyers today.

His phone numbers are 202-225-5126 and 313-961-5670 and his email address is john.conyers@mail.house.gov

TELL HIM that you oppose this bill that would murder Black owned radio and the free music that you now hear on all free radio stations. In the midst of an American economic recession, it is not the right time to send millions of dollars to foreign owned record companies that dont even pay taxes like you and me in this country. This bill is not in the interest of Black people! Please help us save Black radio!

WANT TO LEARN MORE? See below why it is IMPERATIVE that we act to save Black radio:

1. The promotional value of free local radio airplay translates into significant revenues for artists and record labels:

- According to the Recording Industry Association of America (RIAA), record sales in the United States in 2007 were approximately $10.4 billion;
- Touring revenue in 2007 in the U.S. was approximately $5 billion;

- The above figures exclude the several billion dollars derived annually from merchandise, songwriting royalties and licensing deals for commercials, films, etc.; and
- Also excluded is the boost that U.S. popularity provides for foreign sales and concerts.

2. Local radio also actively promotes artists by:

- Devoting considerable and valuable airtime to promoting artists concerts;
- Featuring artist weekends
- Providing opportunities for live in-studio performances; and
- Creating buzz through on-air ticket and album giveaways, helping to drive concert and merchandising revenue.

Without doubt, the engine driving these billions of dollars into the pockets of the record labels and artists is free, local radio promotion.

Artist Examples of Increased Sales From Local Radio Airplay

Each of the next graphs details and compares the spins on over-the-air radio (highlighted in red on each graph) with the retail sales and downloads of the artists releases (highlighted in blue on each graph). The results are consistent in every artist example: Significant play on radio results in significant sales of the artists song, demonstrating the significant promotional and economic impact that free, local radio provides to the recording industry.

The recording industry suggests that the Internet and viral marketing is now the way to break a new artist. However, despite numerous new methods for artists to showcase their music, such as MySpace.com, retail outlets, etc., radios promotional value in spiking and sustaining sales is clearly demonstrated by the information included below.

Kanye West

Kanye West is an American record producer and is a multiple Grammy Award-winning rapper and singer who rose to fame in the mid 2000s.

Albums

He released his debut album The College Dropout in 2004, his second album Late Registration in 2005 and his third album Graduation in 2007. His first three albums have received numerous awards (including nine Grammys), critical acclaim and commercial success. The first two singles from Late Registration sold over 860,000 copies in its first week, and earned him eight Grammy Award nominations including Album of the Year and Record of the Year for the song Gold Digger. His first three albums have certified sales of three million, three million and two million copies respectively by the RIAA.

Tours

Kanye West headlined 190 concerts between 2004 and 2007, grossing an average of $244,669 and selling an average of 5,235 tickets per date. (Source: Pollstar Artist Profile Report, 2007)

50 Cent

50 Cent is an American rapper.

Albums

He rose to fame with the release of his albums Get Rich or Die Tryin (2003) and The Massacre (2005). Both albums achieved multi-platinum success, selling over 21 million records worldwide, including 11 million RIAA certified sales in the United States.

The lead single from Get Rich or Die Tryin, In da Club, which The Source noted for its blaring horns, funky organs, guitar riffs and sparse hand claps broke a Billboard record as the most listened-to song in radio history within a week.

Tours

50 Cent headlined 199 concerts worldwide between 2002 and 2007, grossing an average of $632,272 and selling an average of 11,406 tickets per date between 2005 and 2007. (Source: Pollstar Artist Profile Report, 2007)

The African History Network launches on Saturday May 16th. If you thought www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914 was life changing and awesome, you havent seen anything yet. Stay tuned

Michael J. Robinson

President

The African History Network

Mjrob1914@comcast.net

Mjrob1914@gmail.com

www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914

"Right knowledge, corrects wrong behavior!!!"

| 28835|2009-05-12 09:10:45|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: White privilege in Latin America|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Ginger Daniels wrote:
>
>
>
>
> The country of Nicaragua for example is virtually divided into two countries by the rainforest: the West mostly inhabited by Whites and the East populated mostly by people of color.

>

I think "mestizos" is probably a better description of the population of west Nicaragua than "Whites."

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28836|2009-05-12 09:19:29|Paul Kekai Manansala|Sinai fort may hold clues to ancient Egypt defenses|
Thu May 7, 2009 12:53pm EDT

Email | Print |
Share
| Reprints | Single Page
[-] Text [+]

1 of 3Full Size

By Alastair Sharp

QANTARA, Egypt (Reuters) - A military garrison of mud-brick and seashells unearthed in Egypt's Sinai desert may be key to finding a web of pharaonic-era defenses at the northeast gateway to ancient Egypt, archaeologists said on Thursday.

Archaeologists who discovered the 3,500-year-old garrison, where up to 50,000 soldiers could be posted in times of heightened tensions, say they hope inscriptions at Luxor's Karnak temple may serve as a guide to finding other outposts.

But knowing the location of the garrison at the ancient city of Tharu, in a formerly fertile area of Egypt where a branch of the Nile river once met the Mediterranean Sea, is key to understanding where to start looking.

"As we understand from the inscription at Karnak temple, the city of Tharu had two fortifications with the Nile in the middle," said Mohamad Abdul Maqsoud, who heads archaeological exploration in Egypt's Nile Delta and Sinai regions.

In their 3,000-year history, Egypt's Pharaohs often ventured across Sinai to fight Hittites and other civilizations in the area now covered by Israel, the occupied Palestinian territories, Lebanon, Jordan, Syria and Iraq.

"This city was used to protect Egypt and as a gate to the Delta. It was a post of control. If you wanted to cross the Nile, you asked for permission before you crossed the bridge," Abdul Maqsoud said.

Most Egyptian fortifications at the time were made of stone, not easily available in the Sinai. So Egyptians used seashells to strengthen the mud brick used to build the garrison, with a 15 meter thick and 12 meter high wall to discourage attack.

GARRISON USED TO EXPEL HYKSOS

Abdul Maqsoud said a full exploration and excavation of possible pharaonic military installations in Sinai could take 15 years to complete, but he expected to find more outposts. The garrison, called Tell Heboua, is now some 15 km (9 miles) from the coast and the Nile branch is no longer there.

The fortress was first used as a base from which to expel the occupying Hyksos, who occupied Egypt for some 120 years between 1620 and 1534 BC and whose capital, Avaris, was located nearby in the Delta, Abdul Maqsoud said.

Their expulsion is seen as the beginning of the New Kingdom.

"When the Egyptians liberated Egypt it was a very important military action against the city here by the King Ahmose I," Abdul Maqsoud said.

The fortress later played a significant role in military actions against the Hittites during the reign of Ramses II during the 19th pharaonic dynasty.

Abdul Maqsoud said some 30,000 civilians lived in the adjacent city, which was also a major trading post, and the site contains human and crocodile remains, remnants of temple columns and broken pottery.

"They sold very good wine from this area in the pharaonic time. This is described even in the tomb of Tutankhamun," Abdul Maqsoud said. Continued...

View article on single page
Previous Page 1 | 2 Next Page
| 28837|2009-05-12 09:36:56|jean philippe|Re : [Ta_Seti] Tropically-adapted human migration into Neolithic Ger|

Dear group,

Here's the abstract of Crubezy group in Toulouse and Strasbourg, France .

They developed a method to genotype the phenotype pigment.

Soon to be applied to Ancient Africa ?

1: Int J Legal Med. 2009 May 5. [Epub ahead of print]

Pigment phenotype and biogeographical ancestry from ancient skeletal remains: inferences from multiplexed autosomal SNP analysis.

Bouakaze C, Keyser C, Crub麹 E, Montagnon D, Ludes B.

Laboratoire d'Anthropologie Mol飾laire, Institut de M餐cine L罵le, 11 rue Humann, 67 085, Strasbourg Cedex, France, caroline.bouakaze@ulp.u-strasbg.fr.

In the present study, a multiplexed genotyping assay for ten single nucleotide polymorphisms (SNPs) located within six pigmentation candidate genes was developed on modern biological samples and applied to DNA retrieved from 25 archeological human remains from southern central Siberia dating from the Bronze and Iron Ages. SNP genotyping was successful for the majority of ancient samples and revealed that most probably had typical European pigment features, i.e., blue or green eye color, light hair color and skin type, and were likely of European individual ancestry. To our knowledge, this study reports for the first time the multiplexed typing of autosomal SNPs on aged and degraded DNA. By providing valuable information on pigment traits of an individual and allowing individual biogeographical ancestry estimation, autosomal SNP typing can improve ancient DNA studies and aid human identification in some forensic casework situations when used to complement conventional molecular markers.

Regards /Salutations cordiales.

Jean-Philippe Fran篩s

De : Paul Kekai Manansala
: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Envoy頬 : Jeudi, 12 Mars 2009, 10h32mn 27s
Objet: [Ta_Seti] Tropically-adapted human migration into Neolithic Germany, 4th millennium BCE

Homo. 2009 Mar 3. [Epub ahead of print]
Related Articles, Links

Population continuity, demic diffusion and Neolithic origins in central-southern Germany: The evidence from body proportions.

Gallagher A, Gunther MM, Bruchhaus H.

School of Anatomical Sciences, University of the Witwatersrand, 7 York Road, Parktown, Johannesburg 2193, Republic of South Africa.

The transition to agro-pastoralism in central Europe has been framed within a dichotomy of "regional continuity" versus exogenous "demic diffusion". While substantial genetic support exists for a model of demographic diffusion from an ancestral source in the Near East, archaeological data furnish weak support for the "wave of advance" model. Nevertheless, archaeological evidence attests the widespread introduction of an exogenous "package" comprising ceramics, cereals, pulses and domesticated animals to central Europe at 5600calBCE. Body proportions are under strong climatic selection and evince remarkable stability within regional lineages. As such, they offer a viable and robust alternative to cranio-facial data in assessing hypothesised continuity and replacement with the transition to agro-pastoralism in central Europe. Humero-clavicular, brachial and crural indices in a large sample (n=75) of Linienbandkeramik (LBK), Late Neolithic and Early Bronze Age specimens from the middle Elbe-Saale-Werra valley (MESV) were compared with Eurasian and African terminal Pleistocene, European Mesolithic and geographically disparate recent human specimens. Mesolithic Europeans display considerable variation in humero-clavicular and brachial indices yet none approach the extreme "hyper-polar" morphology of LBK humans from the MESV. In contrast, Late Neolithic and Early Bronze Age peoples display elongated brachial and crural indices reminiscent of terminal Pleistocene and "tropically adapted" recent humans. These marked morphological changes likely reflect exogenous immigration during the terminal Fourth millennium cal BC. Population expansion and diffusion is a function of increased mobility and settlement dispersal concomitant with significant technological and subsistence changes in later Neolithic societies during the late fourth millennium cal BCE.

| 28838|2009-05-12 10:06:41|Ginger Daniels|Knock knock - WOW!|
Attachments :

A MUST SEE FOR ALL FATHERS - AND ALL OF US

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.

Windows Live: Keep your life in sync. Check it out.
| 28839|2009-05-12 10:21:15|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: Re : [Ta_Seti] Tropically-adapted human migration into Neolithic|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, jean philippe wrote:
>
> Dear group,
>
> Here's the abstract of Crubezy group in Toulouse and Strasbourg, France .

>
> They developed a method to genotype the phenotype pigment.
>
> Soon to be applied to Ancient Africa ?
>

This sounds like a case of genetic fraud similar to the archaeological fraud that appears in the news so often.

Siberians before European contact rarely had light-colored eyes, but these percentages given in the study i.e., ~60%, are higher than that in most European countries, the Scandinavian ones being the main exception.

Even if the people had light-colored eyes, the use of the term "European ancestry" is inappropriate as this phenomenon might be independent of that which causes light eyes in Europe.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28840|2009-05-12 13:32:24|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Standing strong for our children MUST READ|
Question is mentoring for what aim.???????
another negro-pean american success story, "micheal jackson"???.
Grown peoples whole paradigm must change toward africentric education-mentoring/ spirituality-philosophy.
Their wont be a we, but a person who has aafrican physiogynomy butwho hates their blackness.
we wear european clothes and talk the european language, we work for the profit of european corporations,.....
Our religion is european .
Could this be a prime (one of) reason for the dismal state we are in,,,,,,,.,"integration/assimilation.
just mentoring means a continued legacy of integration.
why not mentor with african ideals , principles, language, spirituality with a goal of saving ourseleves and Africa.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To:

Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 12:53 AM

By Susan L. Taylor
-Guest Columnist-
Updated May 11, 2009 - 2:59:18 PM

Let's tell the truth: We've fallen into forgetfulness and apathy. Though our foreparents risked all that was dear to them to open a way for us, we have relinquished the fundamental Black values that guided their lives. The great benefits that millions of us enjoy today don't come from nothing. They have grown out of a long and glorious legacy of mutual love, faith in God and commitment to the children. These core values traveled with them over the seas and centuries. They emboldened enslaved Africans to get up from servitude, challenge racist practices, stand strong in the face of heinous acts of violence today's Black people will never know.

We are the beneficiaries of unimaginable suffering and sacrifice and also strategic thinking, planning and action. But on our watch, with all our privileges, technology and supports, we are doing far less for our young than was done for us. We are the first generation of African Americans to allow the next generation to lose ground. Millions of our children are in peril; it's their worst time since slavery, said Marian Wright Edelman. Yet, there isn't a single issue we are organized around. Not one that Black leaders have agreed upon and are standing together on to work for change.

When we shrink back from the values and work that moved us forward, the consequences are life-destroying. The village falls apart. Today, on our watch, these are the chilling facts:

- 58 percent of Black 4th graders are functionally illiterate.
- In some cities only 18 percent of Black males graduate from high school.
- A Black male is 700 percent more likely than a White male to be sentenced to prison.
- Nearly one million Black men are imprisoned in a for-profit system built on unfair drug-sentencing laws.
- Suicide is rising fast among our children.
- HIV/AIDS is the leading cause of death for our young women.
- The leading cause of death for our Black boys is homicide.

All of this and we are not outraged but pointing the finger at sagging pants, do-rags and the misogynistic and murderous messages in music we've allowed. Instead, let's look in the mirror. Let us accept our responsibility for not governing the village more carefully. Our young in crisis don't need more policing or punishment.

They need us. They need our attention, guidance and encouragement. They need Black love.

A recent study by the California Mentor Foundation of 124 mentoring programs showed that, of youngsters matched with mentors:

-98 percent stayed in school
-98 percent avoided a teen pregnancy
-85 percent did not use drugs
-98 percent avoided gang participation
It's time for us to act! Greatly disproportionate numbers of caring White sisters and brothers are mentoring our children. They are the first respondents. We are the last. The National CARES Mentoring Movement (NCMM) is a call to usto our faith leaders and leaders in the public and private sectors and every able, stable Black adultto come out of our silos and work together to galvanize volunteers to guide and encourage our vulnerable young.
Here's the ask: Let us do what Black folks have had difficulty doing for several decades. Let us get along. Agree. Link arms and aims and take care of the mothers and fathers of our tomorrows. Their future is in our hands.
Mentor a child. Mentoring is one investment that has shown disproportionately positive returns. Dedicating just four hours a month can save and secure a life. Log on to caresmentoring. com and input your zip code for a list of nearby mentoring opportunities.
With family and friends, group mentor our struggling young in a reentry program, an underserved school, or a group home. Push your faith leader to do the work of the church, which also lies beyond the congregation. Support the educators and children in the nearest failing school with books, supplies, encouragement and mentors.
Working together we will write a new history for our children. Mentoring is the answer. And it's a privilege.
(Susan L. Taylor is editor-in-chief emeritus of Essence Magazine, Founder and CEO of the National CARES Mentoring Movement and a member of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation' s Black Women's Roundtable. This column was distributed by NNPA.)

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.

| 28841|2009-05-12 13:45:31|Tafari khumbaka|Re: The QUBA (KUBA) Mosque|

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg

Subject: [Ta_Seti] The QUBA (KUBA) Mosque
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 8:53 AM

Greetings.
I am trying to establish the etymology of the word QUBA or KUBA in relation to the mosque in Medina.
Any ideas?
Thanks
Somo

| 28842|2009-05-12 15:02:54|Joseph Wright|Re: Sinai fort may hold clues to ancient Egypt defenses|
QUESTION:
Could this be seen as proof or exactly:
How [or] does this tie in with the legends and myths of The Eparch of Faris, Lord of the Mountain;guarding the then "bread basket of the world"?

jew .
Archivist, Kamau World Historical Society

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Paul Kekai Manansala wrote:
From: Paul Kekai Manansala
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Sinai fort may hold clues to ancient Egypt defenses
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 11:19 AM

Thu May 7, 2009 12:53pm EDT

Email | Print |
Share
| Reprints | Single Page
[-] Text [+]

1 of 3Full Size
By Alastair Sharp
QANTARA, Egypt (Reuters) - A military garrison of mud-brick and seashells unearthed in Egypt's Sinai desert may be key to finding a web of pharaonic-era defenses at the northeast gateway to ancient Egypt, archaeologists said on Thursday.
Archaeologists who discovered the 3,500-year-old garrison, where up to 50,000 soldiers could be posted in times of heightened tensions, say they hope inscriptions at Luxor's Karnak temple may serve as a guide to finding other outposts.
But knowing the location of the garrison at the ancient city of Tharu, in a formerly fertile area of Egypt where a branch of the Nile river once met the Mediterranean

Sea, is key to understanding where to start looking.
"As we understand from the inscription at Karnak temple, the city of Tharu had two fortifications with the Nile in the middle," said Mohamad Abdul Maqsoud, who heads archaeological exploration in Egypt's Nile Delta and Sinai regions.
In their 3,000-year history, Egypt's Pharaohs often ventured across Sinai to fight Hittites and other civilizations in the area now covered by Israel, the occupied Palestinian territories, Lebanon, Jordan, Syria and Iraq.
"This city was used to protect Egypt and as a gate to the Delta. It was a post of control. If you wanted to cross the Nile, you asked for permission before you crossed the bridge," Abdul Maqsoud said.
Most Egyptian fortifications at the time were made of stone, not easily available in the Sinai. So Egyptians used seashells to strengthen the mud brick used to build the garrison, with a 15 meter thick and 12 meter high wall to discourage attack.
GARRISON USED TO EXPEL HYKSOS
Abdul Maqsoud said a full exploration and excavation of possible pharaonic military installations in Sinai could take 15 years to complete, but he expected to find more outposts. The garrison, called Tell Heboua, is now some 15 km (9 miles) from the coast and the Nile branch is no longer there.
The fortress was first used as a base from which to expel the occupying Hyksos, who occupied Egypt for some 120 years between 1620 and 1534 BC and whose capital, Avaris, was located nearby in the Delta, Abdul Maqsoud said.
Their expulsion is seen as the beginning of the New Kingdom.
"When the Egyptians liberated Egypt it was a very important military action against the city here by the King Ahmose I," Abdul Maqsoud said.
The fortress later played a significant role in military actions against the Hittites during the reign of Ramses II during the 19th pharaonic dynasty.
Abdul Maqsoud said some 30,000 civilians lived in the adjacent city, which was also a major trading post, and the site contains human and crocodile remains, remnants of temple columns and broken pottery.
"They sold very good wine from this area in the pharaonic time. This is described even in the tomb of Tutankhamun, " Abdul Maqsoud said. Continued...
View article on single page
Previous Page 1 | 2 Next Page

| 28843|2009-05-12 15:03:00|Joseph Wright|Re: Standing strong for our children MUST READ|
Why not? I like the question.

jew

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 3:32 PM

Question is mentoring for what aim.???????
another negro-pean american success story, "micheal jackson"???.
Grown peoples whole paradigm must change toward africentric education-mentoring / spirituality- philosophy.
Their wont be a we, but a person who has aafrican physiogynomy butwho hates their blackness.
we wear european clothes and talk the european language, we work for the profit of european corporations, ...
Our religion is european .
Could this be a prime (one of) reason for the dismal state we are in,,,,,,,," integration/ assimilation.
just mentoring means a continued legacy of integration.
why not mentor with african ideals , principles, language, spirituality with a goal of saving ourseleves and Africa.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To:
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 12:53 AM

By Susan L. Taylor
-Guest Columnist-
Updated May 11, 2009 - 2:59:18 PM

Let's tell the truth: We've fallen into forgetfulness and apathy. Though our foreparents risked all that was dear to them to open a way for us, we have relinquished the fundamental Black values that guided their lives. The great benefits that millions of us enjoy today don't come from nothing. They have grown out of a long and glorious legacy of mutual love, faith in God and commitment to the children. These core values traveled with them over the seas and centuries. They emboldened enslaved Africans to get up from servitude, challenge racist practices, stand strong in the face of heinous acts of violence today's Black people will never know.
We are the beneficiaries of unimaginable suffering and sacrifice and also strategic thinking, planning and action. But on our watch, with all our privileges, technology and supports, we are doing far less for our young than was done for us. We are the first generation of African Americans to allow the next generation to lose ground. Millions of our children are in peril; it's their worst time since slavery, said Marian Wright Edelman. Yet, there isn't a single issue we are organized around. Not one that Black leaders have agreed upon and are standing together on to work for change.

When we shrink back from the values and work that moved us forward, the consequences are life-destroying. The village falls apart. Today, on our watch, these are the chilling facts:
- 58 percent of Black 4th graders are functionally illiterate.
- In some cities only 18 percent of Black males graduate from high school.
- A Black male is 700 percent more likely than a White male to be sentenced to prison.
- Nearly one million Black men are imprisoned in a for-profit system built on unfair drug-sentencing laws.
- Suicide is rising fast among our children.
- HIV/AIDS is the leading cause of death for our young women.
- The leading cause of death for our Black boys is homicide.
All of this and we are not outraged but pointing the finger at sagging pants, do-rags and the misogynistic and murderous messages in music we've allowed. Instead, let's look in the mirror. Let us accept our responsibility for not governing the village more carefully. Our young in crisis don't need more policing or punishment.
They need us. They need our attention, guidance and encouragement. They need Black love.
A recent study by the California Mentor Foundation of 124 mentoring programs showed that, of youngsters matched with mentors:
-98 percent stayed in school
-98 percent avoided a teen pregnancy
-85 percent did not use drugs
-98 percent avoided gang participation
It's time for us to act! Greatly disproportionate numbers of caring White sisters and brothers are mentoring our children. They are the first respondents. We are the last. The National CARES Mentoring Movement (NCMM) is a call to usto our faith leaders and leaders in the public and private sectors and every able, stable Black adultto come out of our silos and work together to galvanize volunteers to guide and encourage our vulnerable young.
Here's the ask: Let us do what Black folks have had difficulty doing for several decades. Let us get along. Agree. Link arms and aims and take care of the mothers and fathers of our tomorrows. Their future is in our hands.
Mentor a child. Mentoring is one investment that has shown disproportionately positive returns. Dedicating just four hours a month can save and secure a life. Log on to caresmentoring. com and input your zip code for a list of nearby mentoring opportunities.
With family and friends, group mentor our struggling young in a reentry program, an underserved school, or a group home. Push your faith leader to do the work of the church, which also lies beyond the congregation. Support the educators and children in the nearest failing school with books, supplies, encouragement and mentors.
Working together we will write a new history for our children. Mentoring is the answer. And it's a privilege.
(Susan L. Taylor is editor-in-chief emeritus of Essence Magazine, Founder and CEO of the National CARES Mentoring Movement and a member of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation' s Black Women's Roundtable. This column was distributed by NNPA.)

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.
| 28844|2009-05-12 15:03:03|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- "Blame It"--Obama Version :-D|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Dr. Jackie Cody
To: National ; BNYEE ; 100 Blacks in Education
Sent: Tuesday, May 12, 2009 5:28:07 AM
Subject: [BNYEE]-- "Blame It"--Obama Version :-D

Take a 2-minute break from your hectic schedule and check out this link. Breath deep when your done and back to the struggle we go.....

Subject: Fw: "Blame It"--Obama Version :-D

> http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1D8lj3dg5-o&feature=player_embedded
>
> --

A Good Credit Score is 700 or Above. See yours in just 2 easy steps!

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.
--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28845|2009-05-12 16:45:44|Ginger Daniels|Re: Standing strong for our children MUST READ|
How about mentoring to keepour young men off the corners.
Mentoring to keep ouryoung girls off their backs and in school... better yet of the corner too... selling them selves.
To keep our young kids from popping extascy, drinking robitusin, sniffing coke, and smoking weed from sun down to sun up.
To stop the black on black murders... which is a direct result of self hate. How do you stop that cycle, when you really dont think anyone loves you?

To stop the black male suicide rate which is continuously growing as the days pass.
To stop our young women who think its fly to shake their *sses to look like Beyonce. And stop their mothers who encourage the ignorant behavior.
To save the souls of the countless negroes who have achieved some level of success in their lives, and as a result see no reason to reach back and pull someone else up. The ones that want to get as far away as possible. Malcolm called them house niggas.
To examine the new phenominom of homosexuality in our communities; to ascertain whether the imbalance of the household - woman vs man / mother vs father (or lack thereof) has any link to the phenom byinserting a male figure into the equation, if only for a short time - and study the results and the psychological effects on our people.
To move toward healing our own wounds. I knew a young man that sold drugs on the same corner that his mother bought hers. She sometimes performed services on this 13 yr olds friends to support her habit - to his knowledge of course.

Some of our problems were not faced by our ancestors. I am deeply in love with my African history and am on a constant search for more insight into it. But Frantz Fanon made a valient point to me - "I will not make myself the man of any past. I do not want to sing the past to the detriment of my present and my future."

Most of the young people I know dont have a religion. They claim whatever their family claims (sometimes), but they are not active. They are fed up with religion and what it claims and never delivers on. So religion is not holding them back as with previous generations. Not the majority anyway. All our young men sitting in juvenile detention halls... prisons. They have access to a plethora of reading materials if they so choose to. The internet has changed everything. They are not seeking knowledge on our fathers, our African history.. they are seeking ways to survive. Ways to become men in a society that continuously aims to strip their man hood. This is a new battle we are fighting! Of course we must know our history. We must seek to master it. But I dont think there is one clear way to right all of the wrongs. We need mentors, we need African scholars, we need doctors, lawyers, accountants, hospitals, bank, soldiers etc. I dont see too many brothers and sistas going down to the grimmiest cities in this country and trying to pull their people up with knowledge... period. It sounds great... and if you are doing it wonderful. But we need to find a new language / a new approach to sit down and learn about what they are going through. Once we have their ear and are helping them to make strides, then we will have their minds and the possibilities are endless!

And we, each of us individually has a responsiblity to do something. I think mentoring is a great start... it takes a village right... so each time we see or hear about a black man being murdered by another or a 14 or 15 year old young girl getting a "train" ran on her by the boys she goes to school with... we all step up to the plate and address the issues as they come.

There is no one way. And God must be in the equation for it to work. Not religion, but God.

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Date: Tue, 12 May 2009 13:32:20 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ

Question is mentoring for what aim.???????
another negro-pean american success story, "micheal jackson"???.
Grown peoples whole paradigm must change toward africentric education-mentoring / spirituality- philosophy.
Their wont be a we, but a person who has aafrican physiogynomy butwho hates their blackness. we wear european clothes and talk the european language, we work for the profit of european corporations, ...
Our religion is european .
Could this be a prime (one of) reason for the dismal state we are in,,,,,,,," integration/ assimilation.
just mentoring means a continued legacy of integration.
why not mentor with african ideals , principles, language, spirituality with a goal of saving ourseleves and Africa.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To:
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 12:53 AM

By Susan L. Taylor
-Guest Columnist-
Updated May 11, 2009 - 2:59:18 PM

Let's tell the truth: We've fallen into forgetfulness and apathy. Though our foreparents risked all that was dear to them to open a way for us, we have relinquished the fundamental Black values that guided their lives. The great benefits that millions of us enjoy today don't come from nothing. They have grown out of a long and glorious legacy of mutual love, faith in God and commitment to the children. These core values traveled with them over the seas and centuries. They emboldened enslaved Africans to get up from servitude, challenge racist practices, stand strong in the face of heinous acts of violence today's Black people will never know.
We are the beneficiaries of unimaginable suffering and sacrifice and also strategic thinking, planning and action. But on our watch, with all our privileges, technology and supports, we are doing far less for our young than was done for us. We are the first generation of African Americans to allow the next generation to lose ground. Millions of our children are in peril; it's their worst time since slavery, said Marian Wright Edelman. Yet, there isn't a single issue we are organized around. Not one that Black leaders have agreed upon and are standing together on to work for change.

When we shrink back from the values and work that moved us forward, the consequences are life-destroying. The village falls apart. Today, on our watch, these are the chilling facts:

- 58 percent of Black 4th graders are functionally illiterate.

- In some cities only 18 percent of Black males graduate from high school.

- A Black male is 700 percent more likely than a White male to be sentenced to prison.

- Nearly one million Black men are imprisoned in a for-profit system built on unfair drug-sentencing laws.

- Suicide is rising fast among our children.

- HIV/AIDS is the leading cause of death for our young women.

- The leading cause of death for our Black boys is homicide.

All of this and we are not outraged but pointing the finger at sagging pants, do-rags and the misogynistic and murderous messages in music we've allowed.

Instead, let's look in the mirror. Let us accept our responsibility for not governing the village more carefully. Our young in crisis don't need more policing or punishment.

They need us. They need our attention, guidance and encouragement. They need Black love.

A recent study by the California Mentor Foundation of 124 mentoring programs showed that, of youngsters matched with mentors:

-98 percent stayed in school

-98 percent avoided a teen pregnancy

-85 percent did not use drugs

-98 percent avoided gang participation

It's time for us to act! Greatly disproportionate numbers of caring White sisters and brothers are mentoring our children. They are the first respondents. We are the last. The National CARES Mentoring Movement (NCMM) is a call to usto our faith leaders and leaders in the public and private sectors and every able, stable Black adultto come out of our silos and work together to galvanize volunteers to guide and encourage our vulnerable young.

Here's the ask: Let us do what Black folks have had difficulty doing for several decades. Let us get along. Agree. Link arms and aims and take care of the mothers and fathers of our tomorrows. Their future is in our hands.

Mentor a child. Mentoring is one investment that has shown disproportionately positive returns. Dedicating just four hours a month can save and secure a life. Log on to caresmentoring. com and input your zip code for a list of nearby mentoring opportunities.

With family and friends, group mentor our struggling young in a reentry program, an underserved school, or a group home. Push your faith leader to do the work of the church, which also lies beyond the congregation. Support the educators and children in the nearest failing school with books, supplies, encouragement and mentors.

Working together we will write a new history for our children. Mentoring is the answer. And it's a privilege.
(Susan L. Taylor is editor-in-chief emeritus of Essence Magazine, Founder and CEO of the National CARES Mentoring Movement and a member of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation' s Black Women's Roundtable. This column was distributed by NNPA.)

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.
| 28846|2009-05-12 17:38:13|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Standing strong for our children MUST READ|
As soon as God is defined/assumed by any group or individual you have religion, You are completely right mentoring from our present paradigm is all we have.
I suggest there is a greater method to what we do as mentors of westernism(lol,made that 1 up) mentoring using the creflo dollar or obama or young republicans or democrats ,td jakes and all the other ways will cause us to make a capitalistic world like we now have with peasants/cannon fodder soldiers and prisioners.
having a peasant class,, a group that can be used for the wealth of the middle class and the aristocrats is the way of america and we are americans.....
All the history of europe it has used imperial expansion and peasantry,. so thepoormust constrip itself to the elite and corporations/prisons,military,.
and the lowly are in ghettoes, wretched areas of the city or town; it's the way of europe and its new negropean.
the Ancient African city-state or villages of a peticular nation never had ghettoes-grottoes grave places for the living with no hope, a place where a boy would pimp his momma.
no village had a a corner where people were out of work, the fields and hunts and guildcrafts had a place for everone.
the african model is a work Africans perfected before the arab and portugese hittite and englander, its a model than can work today.
the negropean went to Africa and did just like their white counterparts . check out the missionaries over there now and the 1st Liberians.
our ancestors were always faced with these problems ALWAYS,,,,they are innate to the human/Divine experience they managed them in manners that were not for profit .
Our ancestors divined a way to combat greed and sloth and all the evils of humanism and mental illness/psychotic-neurosis's by a rites of passage system that made boys intogod's and lil gurls(lol) into goddess's.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com"
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 6:15 PM

How about mentoring to keepour young men off the corners.
Mentoring to keep ouryoung girls off their backs and in school... better yet of the corner too... selling them selves.
To keep our young kids from popping extascy, drinking robitusin, sniffing coke, and smoking weed from sun down to sun up.
To stop the black on black murders... which is a direct result of self hate. How do you stop that cycle, when you really dont think anyone loves you?
To stop the black male suicide rate which is continuously growing as the days pass.
To stop our young women who think its fly to shake their *sses to look like Beyonce. And stop their mothers who encourage the ignorant behavior.
To save the souls of the countless negroes who have achieved some level of success in their lives, and as a result see no reason to reach back and pull someone else up. The ones that want to get as far away as possible. Malcolm called them house niggas.
To examine the new phenominom of homosexuality in our communities; to ascertain whether the imbalance of the household - woman vs man / mother vs father (or lack thereof) has any link to the phenom byinserting a male figure into the equation, if only for a short time - and study the results and the psychological effects on our people.
To move toward healing our own wounds. I knew a young man that sold drugs on the same corner that his mother bought hers. She sometimes performed services on this 13 yr olds friends to support her habit - to his knowledge of course.

Some of our problems were not faced by our ancestors. I am deeply in love with my African history and am on a constant search for more insight into it. But Frantz Fanon made a valient point to me - "I will not make myself the man of any past. I do not want to sing the past to the detriment of my present and my future."

Most of the young people I know dont have a religion. They claim whatever their family claims (sometimes), but they are not active. They are fed up with religion and what it claims and never delivers on. So religion is not holding them back as with previous generations. Not the majority anyway. All our young men sitting in juvenile detention halls... prisons. They have access to a plethora of reading materials if they so choose to. The internet has changed everything. They are not seeking knowledge on our fathers, our African history.. they are seeking ways to survive. Ways to become men in a society that continuously aims to strip their man hood. This is a new battle we are fighting! Of course we must know our history. We must seek to master it. But I dont think there is one clear way to right all of the wrongs. We need mentors, we need African scholars, we need doctors, lawyers, accountants, hospitals, bank, soldiers etc. I dont see too many brothers and sistas going down to the grimmiest cities in this country and trying to pull their people up with knowledge... period. It sounds great... and if you are doing it wonderful. But we need to find a new language / a new approach to sit down and learn about what they are going through. Once we have their ear and are helping them to make strides, then we will have their minds and the possibilities are endless!

And we, each of us individually has a responsiblity to do something. I think mentoring is a great start... it takes a village right... so each time we see or hear about a black man being murdered by another or a 14 or 15 year old young girl getting a "train" ran on her by the boys she goes to school with... we all step up to the plate and address the issues as they come.

There is no one way. And God must be in the equation for it to work. Not religion, but God.

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Date: Tue, 12 May 2009 13:32:20 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ

Question is mentoring for what aim.???????
another negro-pean american success story, "micheal jackson"???.
Grown peoples whole paradigm must change toward africentric education-mentoring / spirituality- philosophy.
Their wont be a we, but a person who has aafrican physiogynomy butwho hates their blacl
we wear european clothes and talk the european language, we work for the profit of europ corporations, ...
Our religion is european .
Could this be a prime (one of) reason for the dismal state we are in,,,,,,,," integration/ assimilation.
just mentoring means a continued legacy of integration.
why not mentor with african ideals , principles, language, spirituality with a goal of savin
ourseleves and Africa.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To:
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 12:53 AM

By Susan L. Taylor
-Guest Columnist-
Updated May 11, 2009 - 2:59:18 PM

Let's tell the truth: We've fallen into forgetfulness and apathy. Though our foreparents risked all that was dear to them to open a way for us, we have relinquished the fundamental Black values that guided their lives. The great benefits that millions of us enjoy today don't come from nothing. They have grown out of a long and glorious legacy of mutual love, faith in God and commitment to the children. These core values traveled with them over the seas and centuries. They emboldened enslaved Africans to get up from servitude, challenge racist practices, stand strong in the face of heinous acts of violence today's Black people will never know.

We are the beneficiaries of unimaginable suffering and sacrifice and also strategic thinking, planning and action. But on our watch, with all our privileges, technology and supports, we are doing far less for our young than was done for us. We are the first generation of African Americans to allow the next generation to lose ground. Millions of our children are in peril; it's their worst time since slavery, said Marian Wright Edelman. Yet, there isn't a single issue we are organized around. Not one that Black leaders have agreed upon and are standing together on to work for change.

When we shrink back from the values and work that moved us forward, the consequences are life-destroying. The village falls apart. Today, on our watch, these are the chilling facts:

- 58 percent of Black 4th graders are functionally illiterate.
- In some cities only 18 percent of Black males graduate from high school.
- A Black male is 700 percent more likely than a White male to be sentenced to prison.
- Nearly one million Black men are imprisoned in a for-profit system built on unfair drug-sentencing laws.
- Suicide is rising fast among our children.
- HIV/AIDS is the leading cause of death for our young women.
- The leading cause of death for our Black boys is homicide.

All of this and we are not outraged but pointing the finger at sagging pants, do-rags and the misogynistic and murderous messages in music we've allowed. Instead, let's look in the mirror. Let us accept our responsibility for not governing the village more carefully. Our young in crisis don't need more policing or punishment.

They need us. They need our attention, guidance and encouragement. They need Black love.

A recent study by the California Mentor Foundation of 124 mentoring programs showed that, of youngsters matched with mentors:
-98 percent stayed in school
-98 percent avoided a teen pregnancy
-85 percent did not use drugs
-98 percent avoided gang participation
It's time for us to act! Greatly disproportionate numbers of caring White sisters and brothers are mentoring our children. They are the first respondents. We are the last. The National CARES Mentoring Movement (NCMM) is a call to usto our faith leaders and leaders in the public and private sectors and every able, stable Black adultto come out of our silos and work together to galvanize volunteers to guide and encourage our vulnerable young.
Here's the ask: Let us do what Black folks have had difficulty doing for several decades. Let us get along. Agree. Link arms and aims and take care of the mothers and fathers of our tomorrows. Their future is in our hands.
Mentor a child. Mentoring is one investment that has shown disproportionately positive returns. Dedicating just four hours a month can save and secure a life. Log on to caresmentoring. com and input your zip code for a list of nearby mentoring opportunities.
With family and friends, group mentor our struggling young in a reentry program, an underserved school, or a group home. Push your faith leader to do the work of the church, which also lies beyond the congregation. Support the educators and children in the nearest failing school with books, supplies, encouragement and mentors.
Working together we will write a new history for our children. Mentoring is the answer. And it's a privilege.
(Susan L. Taylor is editor-in-chief emeritus of Essence Magazine, Founder and CEO of the National CARES Mentoring Movement and a member of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation' s Black Women's Roundtable. This column was distributed by NNPA.)

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

| 28847|2009-05-12 18:06:55|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|educating our children| truth based africentric education, a discussion
http://affiliate.kickapps.com/service/displayDiscussionThreads.kickAction?as=35927&w=126481&d=36998
click above

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28848|2009-05-12 20:10:08|Tafari khumbaka|a new book offered by BCP.|
http://www.blackclassicbooks.com/servlet/StoreFront
click above
a new book offered by black classic press.
cant wait to get it!.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28849|2009-05-12 23:00:51|Brotha Pruitt|Re: A call for reparations on the world stage|
Greetings,
There should be an internationalcall for reparations. But it would be best to decide on a plan to follow that will enable blacks in America, Africa and throughout the Diaspora to get reparations one nation at a time. I recommend the Five Phase Plan and the reparations Proclamation. An attempt to get reparations and divide it among all the places and peoples where Africans were enslaved and/or exploited would be a total disaster!!!
Common sense should tellus this. Besides blacks in America should not try to tell blacks in Africa what and how they should get reparations. All blacks in their respective regions should decide this processfor themselves.

In memory of our ancestors,
Brotha Pruitt
Reparations Leader and Chairman
Committee for African-American Reparations (CAAR) CA
Reparations Union Lobbying Association (RULA) NC
www.divineblacktruth.org

> --- On Mon, 5/4/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:
>
> From: Ginger Daniels
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] A call for reparations on the world stage
> To: "Cheryl Judson" , "DR Van Hook" , "Henry Burton" , "Jennifer Esteen" , "Josh Clemmons" , jus4tdy@yahoo.com, ketchy007@sbcglobal.net, "Konata Khalfani" , mampouyak@yahoo.com, "nur07@comcast.net" , "Professor McKnight" , "Richard Judson" , "Sia Awakoaiye" , "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com" , "Tatiana Silver"
> Date: Monday, May 4, 2009, 2:44 PM
>
> Durban conference attendees press demand for redress for horrors of the slave trade

GENEVA, Switzerland- Blacks in the Diaspora continued the mission initiated eight years ago at the World Conference Against Racism in Durban, South Africa, to demand the United Nations declare the trans-Atlantic slave trade a crime against humanity, opening the door for a continued push for reparations at the Durban Review Conference in Geneva, Switzerland, April 20-24.

A general view of the assembly hall during the opening of the Durban Review Conference (Durban II) at the European headquarters of the United Nations in Geneva, Switzerland, April 20. Photo: AP Wide World Photos

Much of the discussion surrounding the weeklong conference and its activities focused on the non-involvement of several Western nations and reactions to the presence of Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad at the conference.

Neither of which are the main issue, according to the executive director of the December 12th Movement, Viola Plummer, based in Brooklyn, New York.

The United States has neverprior to Barack Obama and probably succeeding Barack Obamawill never put the issue of racism on the world stage. It is the responsibility of those of us in the United States to put it on the agenda.
Viola Plummer

The United States has neverprior to Barack Obama and probably succeeding Barack Obamawill never, put the issue of racism on the world stage. It is the responsibility of those of us in the United States to put it on the agenda, said the fiery long-time activist and organizer.

Ms. Plummer said those who came were still highly committed to the cause. She was not surprised that the U.S. chose to stay away.

You cannot ask criminals to come and debate their criminality. They won't come. They shouldn't come. We cannot ask the criminals to define their criminality. The people have established unequivocally crimes against humanity. We have established that! So what do we expect the criminals to do?

Ms. Plummer, a key member of the Durban 400, a group of Black people from the Diaspora who traveled to Durban, South Africa in 2001 to participate in the WCAR, said Black people have to stop allowing others, who don't have their best interests in mind, frame the debate on the question of slavery and reparations. Blacks also have to remember what President Obama can and cannot do, she added.

The highly regarded Obama administration has come under sharp criticism for the lack of attendance at the Durban Review Conference. With his influential position, many believed President Obama, whose father is from Kenya, should have been on the forefront of bringing forth the issue of reparations for the trans-Atlantic slave trade. Some human rights organizations said the president could have challenged the views of Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, whose mere presence at the conference sparked protests from Zionist non-governmental organizations.

The nations who refused to participate in the Durban Review Conferencethe United States, Israel, Germany, Italy, Poland, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the Netherlandsbenefitt ed mightily from wealth generated by the slave trade and exploitation of Africa they refused to discuss.

(L-R) Deputy Ambassador Imad M Zuhairi of Palestine; Ambassador John Ukec Lueth Ukec of Sudan; Ambassador Dayan Jayatilleka of Sri Lanka

In an April 23 column in The Guardian, Seumas Milne wrote, They are all either European or European-settler states. Mr. Milne referred to the protest by 23 additional European states during President Ahmadinejad' s speech as a white-flight walkout.

A panel discussionone of several events at the Durban Review Conference dealing with slavery and reparationsfocused primarily on solutions, arguing the fact that slavery was a crime against humanity and is no longer up for debate. The trans-Atlantic slave trade was a global economic enterprise that effectively laid the financial foundation for every modern Western nation.

It is necessary that we all recognize slavery and the trans-Atlantic trade of Africans as crimes committed against humanity and that descendents of victims of such criminal practices, as well as the victims of colonialism and the genocidal exploitation applied to Indigenous peoples shall receive the reparation and compensation they deserve, said Dr. Rafael Bernal Alemany, first deputy minister of culture of the Republic of Cuba.

The issue of the trans-Atlantic slave trade and reparations was raised at the World Conference Against Racism in Durban, South Africa in 2001. Grassroots organizations, primarily consisting of Black organizations from the Diaspora, fought hard to get language referring to slavery as a crime against humanity in the final declaration document from that conference.

The ethnic and cultural aftermath of the trans-Atlantic slave trade involves 40-50 million descendants of enslaved Africans living in the Diaspora who lost the knowledge of their language, culture and specific origins. Even after chattel slavery ended, the United States' infamous Black Codes continued, which denied Blacks rights, as well as permitted outright physical abuse, rapes and lynching.

A variety of methods were employed by reparations advocates to represent the plight of displaced Africans in the Diaspora. Cikiah Thomas, co-chair of the Global Afrikan Congress, wrote a letter to UN High Commissioner Navi Pillay asking why more African NGOs were not given funding. Ms. Pillay admitted in an open session that funding came in late, however, she said they did their best to accommodate those in need of financial help, and were in fact successful in getting some African groups represented at the conference.

Legitimate U.S. concerns or smokescreen?

According to Atty. Roger Wareham of the International Association Against Torture, the excuses given by the U.S. for non-participation are smokescreens to avoid discussing the issue of reparations for the trans-Atlantic slave trade. He said the U.S. wants to rewrite history in order to reverse what took place in Durban,

South Africa in 2001.

Reparations has always been the line in the sand as far as the West was concerned. They've used other issues to try to avoid it, said Atty. Wareham, who also participated in Durban 2001. Whatever excuse they have given, it is reparations that either led to their non-participation, their withdrawal or their obstructionist participation, he said.

Atty. Wareham also said the U.S. and the other Western nations are attempting to avoid historical responsibility for slavery, as well as facing criticism for their lack of action since WCAR in 2001. Reparations is a demand to repair the damage done by criminal activity, to make the victims whole and to implement their human right to development. The demand for reparations is also a call to eradicate economic exploitation and inequality, which are the roots of racism and a demand for the provision and direction of sufficient resources to allow the development of African descendants of the enslaved.

Atty. Wareham also pointed out the irony in the fact that slavery was a legal undertaking and a global system, yet efforts by groups seeking reparations through legal redress are prohibited by nations claiming sovereign immunity. The argument says if a municipality or a government is not sued within a certain amount of time, it cannot be sued unless the municipality or government gives its permission to be sued. This rarely happens, if ever, because the law was put in place to protect themselves, however, A crime against humanity has no statute of limitations, said Atty. Wareham.

Reparations advocates do not believe the trans-Atlantic slave trade can be compared to any other historical genocidal plan. They believe the slave trade, because of its duration, lasting over 310 plus years, stands alone as the worst crime against humanity, and to them, it defies logic that the topic has never been fully addressed on the world stage. Another error, according to reparations advocates, is the view that reparations can only take the form of monetary compensation.

The deaths suffered by European Jews at the hands of Adolph Hitler and his henchmen lasted less than 4 years, costing an estimated 6 million lives. The descendants of those who were lost have, however, received compensation in many different forms. There were also tribunals set up to bring those responsible for crimes against them to justice and monetary awards from corporations run by individuals who were not directly involved in the events or killings. Additionally, they were given a homeland in an area that previously belonged to others. Japanese Americans have also received compensation for the period of time when many were placed into internment camps during WWII.

In Indian culture, there is the caste system in which millions of people and several generations are affected. After India gained its independence from British rule in 1947, the new government of India attempted to rectify some of the past wrongs by officially banning the caste system and establishing scholarships and programs similar to affirmative action. Despite that, hard times continued. Possibly driven by jealous resentment, they were often attacked and assaulted by the members of the upper caste society, even after the laws were changed.

The Native Americans, the indigenous people of North America, lost untold numbers. Estimates say their population was reduced by 90 percent from an estimated 125 million largely by White explorers and settlers. There has been a move for financial compensation and land redistribution as well as a 2007 UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples. UN figures say there are around 370 million indigenous persons living in the world today, comprised of more than 5,000 distinct groups in more than 70 countries. Although close to 5 percent of the population, they represent 15 percent of the world's poorest, according to the UN. Advocates say Western nations, led by the United States and Israel, by their non-participation are actually denying these facts, and their responsibility for some of the current issues across the globe.

Reparations advocates say ignoring the fact that it was the trans-Atlantic slave trade that built the modern world is an act of holocaust denial.

Holocaust denial is a crime in most countries, said U.K.-based activist Glenroy Watson, general secretary of the Global Afrikan Congress. Mr. Watson said the Western nations who boycotted the Durban Review Conference were in effect denying the Maafa and ignoring the millions of lives lost during the Middle Passage of the trans-Atlantic slave trade and its tragic aftermath. Mr. Watson told The Final Call that the Dutch government is opposed to any language even mentioning the slave trade.

This denial must be addressed very strongly and urgently, said Jan L□□of the World Against Racism Network, based in Switzerland. We cannot come out of this without taking this very seriously.

The trans-Atlantic slave trade was a joint and common European project. It can be considered as the first joint European project, a kind of forerunner to the European Union, noted Mr. L□□

Despite some efforts to bring awareness to the global impact of slavery, however, those actions are under constant threat of reversal.

There is a need for further research and combating the exceptional disinformation that is coming out now, especially the disinformation that says actually the Africans themselves were basically responsible for the trans-Atlantic slave trade' which is one of the most evil things that is being projected now, Mr. L□□noted.

In the final analysis, the outcome document of the Durban Review Conference included specific mention of the slave trade in Section 62 through 65 which reads:

62. Recalls that slavery and the slave trade, including the trans-atlantic slave trade, apartheid, colonialism and genocide must never be forgotten and in this regard welcomes actions undertaken to honour the memory of victims;

63. Notes actions of those countries that have, in the context of these past tragedies, expressed remorse, offered apologies, initiated institutionalized mechanisms such as truth and reconciliation commissions and/or restituted cultural artifacts since the adoption of the Durban Declaration and Program of Action, and calls on those who have not yet contributed to restoring the dignity of the victims to find appropriate ways to do so;

64. Urges all States to implement General Assembly resolutions 61/19, 62/122 and 63/5 on the trans-atlantic slave trade;

65. Urges States to combat impunity for crimes of genocide in accordance with international law, in particular the 1948 Convention on the Prevention and

Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, and in this context urges States to cooperate with international criminal tribunals as stipulated in paragraph 82 of the DDPA.

Several nations were very outspoken in favor of reparations, most notably, Barbados, Bolivia, Cuba and Tanzania. Ambassadors from several nations such as the Libyan Arab Jamahiriya and Sudan clearly stood in favor. In general, a majority of the member nations, judging by the round of applause generated each time the concept reparations was mentioned by a speaker, were in favor.

Israel pressed successfully and appropriately pressed to have the Holocaust declared a crime against humanity for which, there is no statute of limitations, said Diana Ralph, coordinator for the Independent Jewish Voices of Canada.

Slavery is also a crime against humanity, with devastating and ongoing consequences both for the people of Africa and descendents of slavery in the Diaspora, Ms. Ralph added.

As it is well documented, we in the Caribbean have had a history characterized by slavery. Our societies have been plagued by the negative effects of that crime against humanity, said Steven Blackett, minister of development and culture of Barbados. But we have emerged from that cruel and inhumane part of our history with the conviction that it is our shared responsibility to ensure that such a tragedy, in any permutation, never occurs again, he added.

We Africans have firsthand experience of the pernicious and the egregious impact of slavery, the slave trade, colonialism, apartheid and genocide, said Dr. Nkosazana Dlamini Zuma, minister of foreign affairs for South Africa.

Ambassador of Sri Lanka to the United Nations in Geneva, Dayan Jayatilleka, told The Final Call that he and his wife attended the Millions More Movement gathering in Washington, D.C. in 2005. He said despite the protests, walkouts and attempts to exert undue influence by outside lobbying groups, the Durban Review was a success.

It's not a good idea that the U.S. chose to stay out, but the conference was a success, said Amb. Jayatilleka, because there were some very powerful people who did not want this.

Now, after this victory in the battle, the reparations fight continues, with a move to establish a Permanent United Nations Forum for People of African Descent and preparation for the next conference Durban plus 10.

The authority of the 183 countries which approved the outcome document far outweighs the impact of the futile attempt to discredit the DDPA and this review conference by the cowardly withdrawal of a handful of countries, said Atty. Wareham.

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.

| 28850|2009-05-13 01:19:39|Asar Imhotep|Asar Imhotep's book Esodus is now available as an eBook|

If you cannot view this html email, please visit:
http://www.asarimhotep.com/newsletter/html/newsletter.html

HMOC FEATURES March 28, 2009/ issue 1

DOWNLOAD ESODUS: INTERNAL REFLECTIONS AND CONVERSATIONS WITH THE SUN

Internal Reflections and Conversations with the Sun is a personal anthology that speaks to the heart of contemporary African ontological philosophy.

Inspired by classical African meta-physics, Asar Imhotep (aka The Black Lotus) has compiled a compelling collection of essays and poetry that reflects his insights and perspectives on various issues, including the relevance of Satan, the error in obtaining freedom, the conceptual conductivity of the human body, the importance of emotions during a rite of passage, and the self-destructive nature of allowing your enemy

REVIEWS

Brother, I cant say how [much] that book really dives into the depths of why we have to bring our cultural arts back to the center of our daily lives
Professor Griff of Public Enemy

If you consider yourself a poet, philosopher, scholar, a spirit on a quest for knowledge/wisdom...if you are conscious, African centered, a dreamer, an artist, a mother, a father, someone not afraid to shine their light to the world, in any of the NPHC organizations and/or someone who is here on Earth to discover themselves (as we all are) then this book is a MUST read. The author guides the reader through a very well experienced and easy to understand African-centered philosophy of being human. Who am I? Where do I come from? What is my purpose here? What must I do to fulfill my purpose?

I know I've asked myself these questions many times and this book was confirmation for me that I am on my right path: to express my divine self in whatever creative form I choose, to not ever take my experiences for granted and use it to advance my personal evolution, to realize that I am a unique imprint on the fabric of existence and it is my

to become your deity.

Asar introduces to us a poetic discourse that is deeply rooted in an *ethno*poetics whose tradition has heavily influenced the art of our time, such as Hip Hop. The themes range widely from the metaphysical (I am that I am), to the bliss of love (Let me love you), to the power of self-affirmation (Im so Black), to the pure indulgence in classic word wizardry (Still not convinced). Esodus: Internal Reflections and Conversations with the Sun is sure to inspire you to think big, think often, think critically, and expand the boundaries of your imagination birthright and even obligation to make manifest the divinity of my Creator. There are also very few books that can make me laugh out loud! He includes a great variety of poetry and what I consider creative free writes. Ultimately, this author has convinced me that I too have the power to create whatever I want, specifically I am starting to write my book this summer. The book is inspiring, creative, unique and fresh. Happy Megie of OBU San Antonio

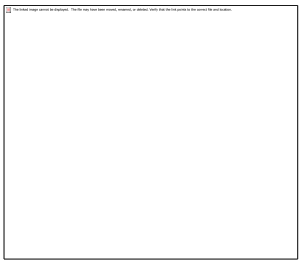
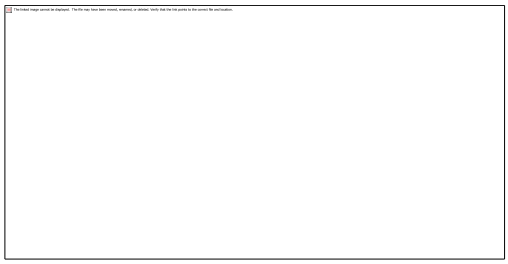
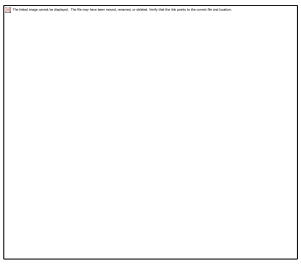
Esodus was excellent, thought-provoking, moving, funny, and full of knowledge! It was a good read and insightful. I liked how you dispersed the metaphysical aspects, historical facts, poetry, interviews throughout the book. It left me wanting to get to next chapter to see what I would pick up. Your thoughts about relationships were insightful, especially the chapter "the biggest fear in a relationship"...been there, done that, so it hit home. I'll definitely re-read it and use it as a reference. Looking forward to the next book!







--Christine Henry
Houston, TX

DOWNLOAD ESODUS EBOOK FOR $10

HERE

UPCOMING PUBLICATIONS BY ASAR IMHOTEP

- The Intellectual Traditions of Alpha Phi Alpha (Winter 09)
- UBA, MKAA, UHA: Hypotheses and Reconceptualizations of Ancient Egyptian Culture (Winter 09)
- Bantu Cosmology and the Origins of Egyptian Civilization (Spring 2011)
- African Fire Philosophy (Winter 2010)

BIOGRAPHY

Asar Imhotep is an independent historian and researcher focusing on African culture, languages, philosophy and spiritual symbolism. His focus as of late has been a comparative study of ancient Nile Valley civilizations and their cultural connections to the Bantu of central and east Africa. This study has helped him to develop a comparative methodology he calls philosophical cognancy (the comparison of signs, symbols and ritual practices across African nations in a similar fashion to comparing cognates in linguistics). Asars background in computer programming and languages has given him a keen ability to recognize the meaning behind symbols, as programming computer languages operate by the same principles ancient priests employed to develop their spiritual systems (see A Dialogue of Energy pg. 141 in Esodus: Internal Reflections and Conversations with the SUN).

When Asar is not sifting through literature or sitting at the feet of various master teachers, his alter ego, The Black Lotus, is engaged in numerous philosophic and artistic pursuits. The Black Lotus is a poet, music producer, visual artist and has recently added film documentarian to the resume with his upcoming film Poet-Trees & Grass-Roots: The unSpoken Word in Poetry (still in production).

Asar Imhotep also lectures with subjects such as,

- African Spirituality and The Matrix
- Bantu Cosmology & The Origins of Egyptian Civilization
- Stolen Legacy: The African Origins of Greek Lettered Fraternal Organizations,
- Are You Out of Your African Mind: Youre More African Than You Think, &
- Whats In a Name? The Meaning of KM.T

His passion for cultural anthropology, philosophy, spirituality, film, music, history, technology and science brings a unique perspective & flare to the realm of spoken word and African historiography. He is also a proud father of sun Elijah and an active member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.

Copyright 2009 Houston Ministry of Culture.comPOWERED by MOCHA

If you wish to cancel your subscription to this newsletter click here

---

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28851|2009-05-13 10:52:10|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: africa a dumping ground for europe|

so sad.....

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Wed, 5/13/09, khunkhunas wrote:

It is so sad that even to this day white people are still exploiting our Sisters and Brothers in Africa. The European company Trafigura illegally tipped toxic wasteon Ivory Coast's biggest city, Abidjan. Many Sisters and Brother have suffered. Please go on the website http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/programmes/newsnight/8048626.stm
click above

| 28852|2009-05-13 14:51:40|Jennifer Esteen|Fw: RE: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ|

I love this discourse, now can we include some young people so they can reap the benefits. If you want to mentor to make a difference then do it in the way that makes you feel best and whole. Focus on family values, afrocentric education-mentoring / spirituality- philosophy whatever rocks your boat but please get out, get active with young people and touch some lives. There are schools filled with young children who are hungry to see us older, mature, responsible black people who really and genuinely care about them. Lets begin by first showing up and then debating the merits of our actions after we see the benifts these children recieve. We can compare their grades activity level number of smiles per day and so many other tangible responses to our positive actions. Enough of the banal discussion and continued infightling, lets make a diference already!.
Jennifer Esteen
Mother to two strong young black men

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com"
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 4:15 PM

How about mentoring to keepour young men off the corners.
Mentoring to keep ouryoung girls off their backs and in school... better yet of the corner too... selling them selves.
To keep our young kids from popping extascy, drinking robitusin, sniffing coke, and smoking weed from sun down to sun up.

To stop the black on black murders... which is a direct result of self hate. How do you stop that cycle, when you really dont think anyone loves you?
To stop the black male suicide rate which is continuously growing as the days pass.
To stop our young women who think its fly to shake their *sses to look like Beyonce. And stop their mothers who encourage the ignorant behavior.
To save the souls of the countless negroes who have achieved some level of success in their lives, and as a result see no reason to reach back and pull someone else up. The ones that want to get as far away as possible. Malcolm called them house niggas.
To examine the new phenominom of homosexuality in our communities; to ascertain whether the imbalance of the household - woman vs man / mother vs father (or lack thereof) has any link to the phenom byinserting a male figure into the equation, if only for a short time - and study the results and the psychological effects on our people.
To move toward healing our own wounds. I knew a young man that sold drugs on the same corner that his mother bought hers. She sometimes performed services on this 13 yr olds friends to support her habit - to his knowledge of course.

Some of our problems were not faced by our ancestors. I am deeply in love with my African history and am on a constant search for more insight into it. But Frantz Fanon made a valient point to me - "I will not make myself the man of any past. I do not want to sing the past to the detriment of my present and my future."

Most of the young people I know dont have a religion. They claim whatever their family claims (sometimes), but they are not active. They are fed up with religion and what it claims and never delivers on. So religion is not holding them back as with previous generations. Not the majority anyway. All our young men sitting in juvenile detention halls... prisons. They have access to a plethora of reading materials if they so choose to. The internet has changed everything. They are not seeking knowledge on our fathers, our African history.. they are seeking ways to survive. Ways to become men in a society that continuously aims to strip their man hood. This is a new battle we are fighting! Of course we must know our history. We must seek to master it. But I dont think there is one clear way to right all of the wrongs. We need mentors, we need African scholars, we need doctors, lawyers, accountants, hospitals, bank, soldiers etc. I dont see too many brothers and sistas going down to the grimmiest cities in this country and trying to pull their people up with knowledge... period. It sounds great... and if you are doing it wonderful. But we need to find a new language / a new approach to sit down and learn about what they are going through. Once we have their ear and are helping them to make strides, then we will have their minds and the possibilities are endless!

And we, each of us individually has a responsiblity to do something. I think mentoring is a great start... it takes a village right... so each time we see or hear about a black man being murdered by another or a 14 or 15 year old young girl getting a "train" ran on her by the boys she goes to school with... we all step up to the plate and address the issues as they come.

There is no one way. And God must be in the equation for it to work. Not religion, but God.

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Date: Tue, 12 May 2009 13:32:20 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ

Question is mentoring for what aim.???????
another negro-pean american success story, "micheal jackson"???.
Grown peoples whole paradigm must change toward africentric education-mentoring / spirituality- philosophy.
Their wont be a we, but a person who has aafrican physiogynomy butwho hates their blackness.
we wear european clothes and talk the european language, we work for the profit of european corporations, ...
Our religion is european .
Could this be a prime (one of) reason for the dismal state we are in,,,,,,,," integration/ assimilation.
just mentoring means a continued legacy of integration.
why not mentor with african ideals , principles, language, spirituality with a goal of saving ourseleves and Africa.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To:
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 12:53 AM

By Susan L. Taylor
-Guest Columnist-
Updated May 11, 2009 - 2:59:18 PM

Let's tell the truth: We've fallen into forgetfulness and apathy. Though our foreparents risked all that was dear to them to open a way for us, we have relinquished the fundamental Black values that guided their lives. The great benefits that millions of us enjoy today don't come from nothing. They have grown out of a long and glorious legacy of mutual love, faith in God and commitment to the children. These core values traveled with them over the seas and centuries. They emboldened enslaved Africans to get up from servitude, challenge racist practices, stand strong in the face of heinous acts of violence today's Black people will never know.

We are the beneficiaries of unimaginable suffering and sacrifice and also strategic thinking, planning and action. But on our watch, with all our privileges, technology and supports, we are doing far less for our young than was done for us. We are the first generation of African Americans to allow the next generation to lose ground. Millions of our children are in peril; it's their worst time since slavery, said Marian Wright Edelman. Yet, there isn't a single issue we are organized around. Not one that Black leaders have agreed upon and are standing together on to work for change.

When we shrink back from the values and work that moved us forward, the consequences are life-destroying. The village falls apart. Today, on our watch, these are the chilling facts:

- 58 percent of Black 4th graders are functionally illiterate.
- In some cities only 18 percent of Black males graduate from high school.
- A Black male is 700 percent more likely than a White male to be sentenced to prison.
- Nearly one million Black men are imprisoned in a for-profit system built on unfair drug-sentencing laws.
- Suicide is rising fast among our children.
- HIV/AIDS is the leading cause of death for our young women.
- The leading cause of death for our Black boys is homicide.

All of this and we are not outraged but pointing the finger at sagging pants, do-rags and the misogynistic and murderous messages in music we've allowed. Instead, let's look in the mirror. Let us accept our responsibility for not governing the village more carefully. Our young in crisis don't need more policing or punishment.

They need us. They need our attention, guidance and encouragement. They need Black love.

A recent study by the California Mentor Foundation of 124 mentoring programs showed that, of youngsters matched with mentors:

-98 percent stayed in school
-98 percent avoided a teen pregnancy
-85 percent did not use drugs
-98 percent avoided gang participation

It's time for us to act! Greatly disproportionate numbers of caring White sisters and brothers are mentoring our children. They are the first respondents. We are the last. The National CARES Mentoring Movement (NCMM) is a call to usto our faith leaders and leaders in the public and private sectors and every able, stable Black adultto come out of our silos and work together to galvanize volunteers to guide and encourage our vulnerable young.

Here's the ask: Let us do what Black folks have had difficulty doing for several decades. Let us get along. Agree. Link arms and aims and take care of the mothers and fathers of our tomorrows.

Their future is in our hands.
Mentor a child. Mentoring is one investment that has shown disproportionately positive returns. Dedicating just four hours a month can save and secure a life. Log on to caresmentoring. com and input your zip code for a list of nearby mentoring opportunities.
With family and friends, group mentor our struggling young in a reentry program, an underserved school, or a group home. Push your faith leader to do the work of the church, which also lies beyond the congregation. Support the educators and children in the nearest failing school with books, supplies, encouragement and mentors.
Working together we will write a new history for our children. Mentoring is the answer. And it's a privilege.
(Susan L. Taylor is editor-in-chief emeritus of Essence Magazine, Founder and CEO of the National CARES Mentoring Movement and a member of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation' s Black Women's Roundtable. This column was distributed by NNPA.)

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

| 28853|2009-05-13 15:01:24|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: DR. WELSING DEBATES DR. SHOCKLEY- RACE & INTELLIGENCE|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Sekmet" wrote:
>
> Available for a limited time!
> Dr. Frances Cress Welsing debates Dr. William Shockley on > RACE & INTELLIGENCE.
> http://www.blackconsciousness.com/sshop/welsing.html
> Your chance to see and hear this classic collectible.
> This is what "THE STRUGGLE" is still all about, less we forget.
> A great debater took a stand for you & I.
>

Genetics has pounded down the idea of biological "race."

For example, from the standpoint of Y chromosomes, the R haplogroup, the largest among European "white" populations, is phylogenetically more closely related to the N-O haplogroup, dominant in East Asia, than to the I-J haplogroup, the second most common European haplogroup.

Both the R and I-J haplogroup are also phylogenetically closer to the N-O haplogroup, and every other Eurasian and American haplogroup, than they are to the European E haplogroup, the third largest haplogroup in Europe concentrated more in southern areas.

The same type of results can be found using mtDNA.

However, we can see that already the racial dogma folk are looking for new ways to crunch statistics and so how preserve the idea of biological race.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
Quests of the Dragon and Bird Clan
http://sambali.blogspot.com/
| 28854|2009-05-13 19:57:06|Ginger Daniels|Re: Standing strong for our children MUST READ|
Hey Jennifer... thanks for your comments. Got this earlier on Ta Seti. Not sure who the banaldiscussion and infightingcomments were for... I believe that both of our points were relevant and need to be addressed in order for us to make progress. I include young peoplefrom my classes in on many of these discussions, so these emails / conversations are particularly important to me. It is ok for us to agree, or agree to disagree... as long as when the time comes we can meet in the middle.His response was positiveand a goodperspective for me to look through...

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: jenjud@yahoo.com
Date: Wed, 13 May 2009 09:26:05 -0700
Subject: Fw: RE: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ

> I love this discourse, now can we include some young people so they can reap the benefits > you want to mentor to make a difference then do it in the way that makes you feel best and > whole. Focus on family values, afrocentric education-mentoring / spirituality- philosophy > whatever rocks your boat but please get out, get active with young people and touch some
> There are schools filled with young children who are hungry to see us older, mature, respo > black people who really and genuinely care about them. Lets begin by first showing up an > debating the merits of our actions after we see the benifts these children recieve. We can > compare their grades activity level number of smiles per day and so many other tangible > responses to our positive actions. Enough of the banal discussion and continued infightling > make a diference already!.
> Jennifer Esteen

Mother to two strong young black men

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

> From: Ginger Daniels
> Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
> To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroup s.com"
> Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 4:15 PM
>
> How about mentoring to keepour young men off the corners.
> Mentoring to keep ouryoung girls off their backs and in school... better yet of the corner too... selling them selves.
> To keep our young kids from popping extascy, drinking robitusin, sniffing coke, and smoking weed from sun down to sun up.
> To stop the black on black murders... which is a direct result of self hate. How do you stop that cycle, when you really dont think anyone loves you?
> To stop the black male suicide rate which is continuously growing as the days pass.
> To stop our young women who think its fly to shake their *sses to look like Beyonce. And stop their mothers who encourage the ignorant behavior.
> To save the souls of the countless negroes who have achieved some level of success in their lives, and as a result see no reason to reach back and pull someone else up. The ones that want to get as far away as possible. Malcolm called them house niggas.
> To examine the new phenominom of homosexuality in our communities; to ascertain whether the imbalance of the household - woman vs man / mother vs father (or lack thereof) has any link to the phenom byinserting a male figure into the equation, if only for a short time - and study the results and the psychological effects on our people.
> To move toward healing our own wounds. I knew a young man that sold drugs on the same corner that his mother bought hers. She sometimes performed services on this 13 yr olds friends to support her habit - to his knowledge of course.
>
> Some of our problems were not faced by our ancestors. I am deeply in love with my African history and am on a constant search for more insight into it. But Frantz Fanon made a valient point to me - "I will not make myself the man of any past. I do not want to sing the past to the detriment of my present and my future."
>
> Most of the young people I know dont have a religion. They claim whatever their family claims (sometimes), but they are not active. They are fed up with religion and what it claims and never delivers on. So religion is not holding them back as with previous generations. Not the majority anyway. All our young men sitting in juvenile detention halls... prisons. They have access to a plethora of reading materials if they so choose to. The internet has changed everything. They are not seeking knowledge on our fathers, our African history.. they are seeking ways to survive. Ways to become men in a society that continuously aims to strip their man hood. This is a new battle we are fighting! Of course we must know our history. We must seek to master it. But I dont think there is one clear way to right all of the wrongs. We need mentors, we need African scholars, we need doctors, lawyers, accountants, hospitals, bank, soldiers etc. I dont see too many brothers and sistas going down to the grimmiest cities in this country and trying to pull their people up with knowledge... period. It sounds great... and if you are doing it wonderful. But we need to find a new language / a new approach to sit down and learn about what they are going through. Once we have their ear and are helping them to make strides, then we will have their minds and the possibilities are endless!

And we, each of us individually has a responsiblity to do something. I think mentoring is a great start... it takes a village right... so each time we see or hear about a black man being murdered by another or a 14 or 15 year old young girl getting a "train" ran on her by the boys she goes to school with... we all step up to the plate and address the issues as they come.

There is no one way. And God must be in the equation for it to work. Not religion, but God.

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Date: Tue, 12 May 2009 13:32:20 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ

Question is mentoring for what aim.???????
another negro-pean american success story, "micheal jackson"???.
Grown peoples whole paradigm must change toward africentric education-mentoring / spirituality- philosophy.
Their wont be a we, but a person who has aafrican physiogynomy butwho hates their blacl
we wear european clothes and talk the european language, we work for the profit of europ
corporations, ...
Our religion is european .
Could this be a prime (one of) reason for the dismal state we are in,,,,,,,," integration/ assimilation.
just mentoring means a continued legacy of integration.
why not mentor with african ideals , principles, language, spirituality with a goal of savinę
ourseleves and Africa.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To:
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 12:53 AM

By Susan L. Taylor
-Guest Columnist-
Updated May 11, 2009 - 2:59:18 PM

Let's tell the truth: We've fallen into forgetfulness and apathy. Though our foreparents risked all that was dear to them to open a way for us, we have relinquished the fundamental Black values that guided their lives. The great benefits that millions of us enjoy today don't come from nothing. They have grown out of a long and glorious legacy of mutual love, faith in God and commitment to the children. These core values traveled with them over the seas and centuries. They emboldened enslaved Africans to get up from servitude, challenge racist practices, stand strong in the face of heinous acts of violence today's Black people will never know.

We are the beneficiaries of unimaginable suffering and sacrifice and also strategic thinking, planning and action. But on our watch, with all our privileges, technology and supports, we are doing far less for our young than was done for us. We are the first generation of African Americans to allow the next generation to lose ground. Millions of our children are in peril; it's their worst time since slavery, said Marian Wright Edelman. Yet, there isn't a single issue we are organized around. Not one that Black leaders have agreed upon and are standing together on to work for change.

When we shrink back from the values and work that moved us forward, the consequences are life-destroying. The village falls apart. Today, on our watch, these are the chilling facts:

- 58 percent of Black 4th graders are functionally illiterate.
- In some cities only 18 percent of Black males graduate from high school.
- A Black male is 700 percent more likely than a White male to be sentenced to prison.
- Nearly one million Black men are imprisoned in a for-profit system built on unfair drug-sentencing laws.
- Suicide is rising fast among our children.
- HIV/AIDS is the leading cause of death for our young women.
- The leading cause of death for our Black boys is homicide.

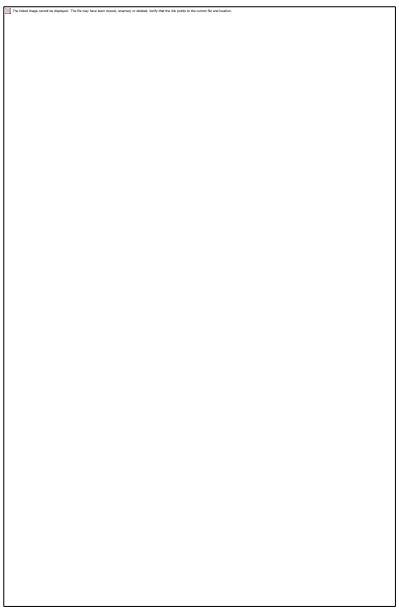
All of this and we are not outraged but pointing the finger at sagging pants, do-rags and the misogynistic and murderous messages in music we've allowed. Instead, let's look in the mirror. Let us accept our responsibility for not governing the village more carefully. Our young in crisis don't need more policing or punishment.

They need us. They need our attention, guidance and encouragement. They need Black love.

A recent study by the California Mentor Foundation of 124 mentoring programs showed that, of youngsters matched with mentors:

-98 percent stayed in school
-98 percent avoided a teen pregnancy
-85 percent did not use drugs
-98 percent avoided gang participation
It's time for us to act! Greatly disproportionate numbers of caring White sisters and brothers are mentoring our children. They are the first respondents. We are the last. The National CARES Mentoring Movement (NCMM) is a call to usto our faith leaders and leaders in the public and private sectors and every able, stable Black adultto come out of our silos and work together to galvanize volunteers to guide and encourage our vulnerable young.
Here's the ask: Let us do what Black folks have had difficulty doing for several decades. Let us get along. Agree. Link arms and aims and take care of the mothers and fathers of our tomorrows. Their future is in our hands.
Mentor a child. Mentoring is one investment that has shown disproportionately positive returns. Dedicating just four hours a month can save and secure a life. Log on to caresmentoring. com and input your zip code for a list of nearby mentoring opportunities.
With family and friends, group mentor our struggling young in a reentry program, an underserved school, or a group home. Push your faith leader to do the work of the church, which also lies beyond the congregation. Support the educators and children in the nearest failing school with books, supplies, encouragement and mentors.
Working together we will write a new history for our children. Mentoring is the answer. And it's a privilege.
(Susan L. Taylor is editor-in-chief emeritus of Essence Magazine, Founder and CEO of the National CARES Mentoring Movement and a member of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation' s Black Women's Roundtable. This column was distributed by NNPA.)

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.



Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.
| 28855|2009-05-13 21:21:32|jean philippe|Egypt in its African Context - Conference in October 2009 in Manches|
Dear people,

For information

http://egyptmanchester.wordpress.com/2009/04/23/egypt-in-its-african-context/

-4 October 2009

The Manchester Museum, University of Manchester

Preliminary announcement

A two-day symposium discussing interpretations of ancient Egyot from an African perspective, exploring the African-ness of ancient Egyptian culture and ways of presenting Egypt in its African context in museums, literature and the media.

Key note speakers:

Dr Shomarka Keita, affiliated with Howard University and the Smithsonian Institution, USA

Professor Abadayo Folorunso, University of Ibadan, Nigeria

Professor Maulena Karenga, California State University, USA

Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge

Dr Kimani Nehusi, University of East London

Screening of the film, Nubian Spirit: The African legacy of the Nile Valley, by Louis Buckley, with a Q&A session with the director.

Call for papers to be circulated in early May 2009.

Please contact Karen Exell on karen.exell@manchester.ac.uk if you are interested in attending or participating.

Best Regards/Salutations cordiales.

Jean-Philippe Fran篩s

De : Paul Kekai Manansala
: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Envoy頬 : Mercredi, 13 Mai 2009, 17h00mn 56s
Objet: [Ta_Seti] Re: DR. WELSING DEBATES DR. SHOCKLEY- RACE & INTELLIGENCE

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Sekmet" wrote:
> >
> > Available for a limited time!
> > Dr. Frances Cress Welsing debates Dr. William Shockley on > > RACE & INTELLIGENCE.
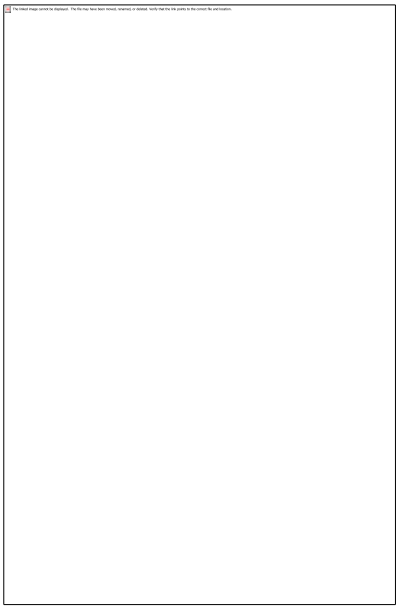
> > http://www.blackcon sciousness. com/sshop/ welsing.html
> > Your chance to see and hear this classic collectible.
> > This is what "THE STRUGGLE" is still all about, less we forget.
> > A great debater took a stand for you & I.
> >
>
> Genetics has pounded down the idea of biological "race."
>
> For example, from the standpoint of Y chromosomes, the R haplogroup, the largest among European "white" populations, is phylogenetically more closely related to the N-O haplogroup, dominant in East Asia, than to the I-J haplogroup, the second most common European haplogroup.
>
> Both the R and I-J haplogroup are also phylogenetically closer to the N-O haplogroup, and every other Eurasian and American haplogroup, than they are to the European E haplogroup, the third largest haplogroup in Europe concentrated more in southern areas.
>
> The same type of results can be found using mtDNA.
>
> However, we can see that already the racial dogma folk are looking for new ways to crunch statistics and so how preserve the idea of biological race.
>
> Regards,
> Paul Kekai Manansala
> Quests of the Dragon and Bird Clan
> http://sambali. blogspot. com/

| 28856|2009-05-14 05:32:47|Peter Gray|Re: Egypt in its African Context - Conference in October 2009 in Man|
Good news.

It seems that the customary mainstream academic scorn for Egyptian life and culturederiving in substantial part from Africa may soon be compromised by reality ... at least it's a start.



Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: jean_philippe_francois@yahoo.fr
Date: Thu, 14 May 2009 04:21:03 +0000
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Egypt in its African Context - Conference in October 2009 in Manchester

Dear people,

For information

http://egyptmanches ter.wordpress. com/2009/ 04/23/egypt- in-its-african- context/

-4 October 2009

The Manchester Museum, University of Manchester
Preliminary announcement
A two-day symposium discussing interpretations of ancient Egyot from an African perspective, exploring the African-ness of ancient Egyptian culture and ways of presenting Egypt in its African context in museums, literature and the media.

Key note speakers:
Dr Shomarka Keita, affiliated with Howard University and the Smithsonian Institution, USA
Professor Abadayo Folorunso, University of Ibadan, Nigeria
Professor Maulena Karenga, California State University, USA
Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge
Dr Kimani Nehusi, University of East London
Screening of the film, Nubian Spirit: The African legacy of the Nile Valley, by Louis Buckley, with a Q&A session with the director.
Call for papers to be circulated in early May 2009.
Please contact Karen Exell on karen.exell@ manchester. ac.uk if you are interested in attending or participating.

Best Regards/Salutations cordiales.

Jean-Philippe Fran篩s

De : Paul Kekai Manansala
: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Envoy類e : Mercredi, 13 Mai 2009, 17h00mn 56s
Objet: [Ta_Seti] Re: DR. WELSING DEBATES DR. SHOCKLEY- RACE & INTELLIGENCE

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Sekmet" wrote:
> >
> > Available for a limited time!
> > Dr. Frances Cress Welsing debates Dr. William Shockley on > > RACE & INTELLIGENCE.
> > http://www.blackcon sciousness. com/sshop/ welsing.html
> > Your chance to see and hear this classic collectible.
> > This is what "THE STRUGGLE" is still all about, less we forget.
> > A great debater took a stand for you & I.
> >
>
> Genetics has pounded down the idea of biological "race."
>
> For example, from the standpoint of Y chromosomes, the R haplogroup, the largest among European "white" populations, is phylogenetically more closely related to the N-O haplogroup, dominant in East Asia, than to the I-J haplogroup, the second most common European haplogroup.
>
> Both the R and I-J haplogroup are also phylogenetically closer to the N-O haplogroup, and every other Eurasian and American haplogroup, than they are to the European E haplogroup, the third largest haplogroup in Europe concentrated more in southern areas.

The same type of results can be found using mtDNA.

However, we can see that already the racial dogma folk are looking for new ways to crunch statistics and so how preserve the idea of biological race.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
Quests of the Dragon and Bird Clan
http://sambali. blogspot. com/

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.
| 28857|2009-05-14 06:03:46|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: This Friday- 7 pm-Java, Mphs.Tenn|

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> From: JavaJohari@aol.com
> Subject: This Friday- 7 pm-Java
>
> Date: Thursday, May 14, 2009, 1:57 AM
>
> Hi!
> Omari Miles El. from Detroit, this weekend-Lecturer
> Subject: Black America B.C. to A. D.---- > Slide presentation on Pyramids of North America
> Hope you can join us, peace, toni
>
> ---
>
> Recession-proof vacation ideas. Find free things to do in the U.S.

| 28858|2009-05-14 07:29:22|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: Egypt in its African Context - Conference in October 2009 in Man|

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Peter Gray wrote:
>
>
> Good news.
>
>
>
> It seems that the customary mainstream academic scorn for Egyptian life and culture deriving in substantial part from Africa may soon be compromised by reality ... at least it's a start.
>
>

Peter, fortunately the newer generations coming up have a different outlook that surprised a lot of us older folk including myself. I think this is why someone like Barack Obama could win the presidency all the conspiracy theories put aside.

The barriers of "strangeness" are coming down as the world gets smaller so those being raised as youngsters now will have an even more progressive outlook.

Also academia is becoming much more culturally and "racially" diverse even in fields like archaeology, history and genetics.

Media is playing an important role and it also is becoming more diverse even up in the corporate offices.

So I see thinks getting better at a very good clip, with some setbacks here and there of course.

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28859|2009-05-14 07:29:46|Jennifer Esteen|Re: Standing strong for our children MUST READ|
The term banal discussion may have been a bit rough but I just get tired of talk and no action. I usually don't comment on other people's comments but I felt like I really wanted to say something because it seemed like the brother was objecting to mentoring because it wasn't framed the write way. If I got his message twisted then my bad otherwise all talk and no action is banal.

--- On Wed, 5/13/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com"
Date: Wednesday, May 13, 2009, 4:12 PM

Hey Jennifer... thanks for your comments. Got this earlier on Ta Seti. Not sure who the banaldiscussion and infightingcomments were for... I believe that both of our points were relevant and need to be addressed in order for us to make progress. I include young peoplefrom my classes in on many of these discussions, so these emails / conversations are particularly important to me. It is ok for us to agree, or agree to disagree... as long as when the time comes we can meet in the middle.His response was positiveand a goodperspective for me to look through...

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: jenjud@yahoo. com
Date: Wed, 13 May 2009 09:26:05 -0700
Subject: Fw: RE: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ

I love this discourse, now can we include some young people so they can reap the benefits. If you want to mentor to make a difference then do it in the way that makes you feel best and whole. Focus on family values, afrocentric education-mentoring / spirituality- philosophy whatever rocks your boat but please get out, get active with young people and touch some lives. There are schools filled with young children who are hungry to see us older, mature, responsible black people who really and genuinely care about them. Lets begin by first showing up and then debating the merits of our actions after we see the benifts these children recieve. We can compare their grades activity level number of smiles per day and so many other tangible responses to our positive actions. Enough of the banal discussion and continued infightling, lets make a diference already!.
Jennifer Esteen
Mother to two strong young black men

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

> From: Ginger Daniels
> Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
> To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroup s.com"
> Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 4:15 PM
>
> How about mentoring to keepour young men off the corners.
> Mentoring to keep ouryoung girls off their backs and in school... better yet of the corner too... selling them selves.
> To keep our young kids from popping extascy, drinking robitusin, sniffing coke, and smoking weed from sun down to sun up.
> To stop the black on black murders... which is a direct result of self hate. How do you stop that cycle, when you really dont think anyone loves you?
> To stop the black male suicide rate which is continuously growing as the days pass.
> To stop our young women who think its fly to shake their *sses to look like Beyonce. And stop their mothers who encourage the ignorant behavior.

To save the souls of the countless negroes who have achieved some level of success in their lives, and as a result see no reason to reach back and pull someone else up. The ones that want to get as far away as possible. Malcolm called them house niggas.
To examine the new phenominom of homosexuality in our communities; to ascertain whether the imbalance of the household - woman vs man / mother vs father (or lack thereof) has any link to the phenom byinserting a male figure into the equation, if only for a short time - and study the results and the psychological effects on our people.
To move toward healing our own wounds. I knew a young man that sold drugs on the same corner that his mother bought hers. She sometimes performed services on this 13 yr olds friends to support her habit - to his knowledge of course.

Some of our problems were not faced by our ancestors. I am deeply in love with my African history and am on a constant search for more insight into it. But Frantz Fanon made a valient point to me - "I will not make myself the man of any past. I do not want to sing the past to the detriment of my present and my future."

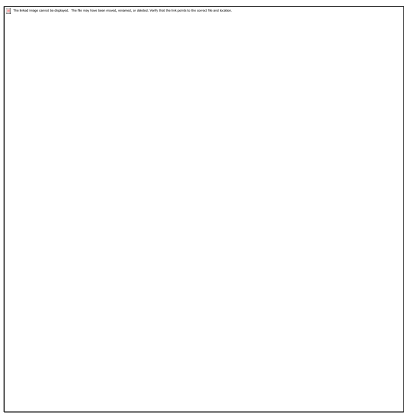
Most of the young people I know dont have a religion. They claim whatever their family claims (sometimes), but they are not active. They are fed up with religion and what it claims and never delivers on. So religion is not holding them back as with previous generations. Not the majority anyway. All our young men sitting in juvenile detention halls... prisons. They have access to a plethora of reading materials if they so choose to. The internet has changed everything. They are not seeking knowledge on our fathers, our African history.. they are seeking ways to survive. Ways to become men in a society that continuously aims to strip their man hood. This is a new battle we are fighting! Of course we must know our history. We must seek to master it. But I dont think there is one clear way to right all of the wrongs. We need mentors, we need African scholars, we need doctors, lawyers, accountants, hospitals, bank, soldiers etc. I dont see too many brothers and sistas going down to the grimmiest cities in this country and trying to pull their people up with knowledge... period. It sounds great... and if you are doing it wonderful. But we need to find a new language / a new approach to sit down and learn about what they are going through. Once we have their ear and are helping them to make strides, then we will have their minds and the possibilities are endless!

And we, each of us individually has a responsiblity to do something. I think mentoring is a great start... it takes a village right... so each time we see or hear about a black man being murdered by another or a 14 or 15 year old young girl getting a "train" ran on her by the boys she goes to school with... we all step up to the plate and address the issues as they come.

There is no one way. And God must be in the equation for it to work. Not religion, but God.

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Date: Tue, 12 May 2009 13:32:20 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ

Question is mentoring for what aim.???????
another negro-pean american success story, "micheal jackson"???.
Grown peoples whole paradigm must change toward africentric education-mentoring / spirituality- philosophy.
Their wont be a we, but a person who has aafrican physiogynomy butwho hates their blacl
we wear european clothes and talk the european language, we work for the profit of europ
corporations, ...
Our religion is european .
Could this be a prime (one of) reason for the dismal state we are in,,,,,,,," integration/ assimilation.
just mentoring means a continued legacy of integration.
why not mentor with african ideals , principles, language, spirituality with a goal of saving
ourseleves and Africa.



Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Standing strong for our children MUST READ
To:
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 12:53 AM

By Susan L. Taylor
-Guest Columnist-
Updated May 11, 2009 - 2:59:18 PM

Let's tell the truth: We've fallen into forgetfulness and apathy. Though our foreparents risked all that was dear to them to open a way for us, we have relinquished the fundamental Black values that guided their lives. The great benefits that millions of us enjoy today don't come from nothing. They have grown out of a long and glorious legacy of mutual love, faith in God and commitment to the children. These core values traveled with them over the seas and centuries. They emboldened enslaved Africans to get up from servitude, challenge racist practices, stand strong in the face of heinous acts of violence today's Black people will never know.

We are the beneficiaries of unimaginable suffering and sacrifice and also strategic thinking, planning and action. But on our watch, with all our privileges, technology and supports, we are doing far less for our young than was done for us. We are the first generation of African Americans to allow the next generation to lose ground. Millions of our children are in peril; it's their worst time since slavery, said Marian Wright Edelman. Yet, there isn't a single issue we are organized around. Not one that Black leaders have agreed upon and are standing together on to work for change.

When we shrink back from the values and work that moved us forward, the consequences are life-destroying. The village falls apart. Today, on our watch, these are the chilling facts:

- 58 percent of Black 4th graders are functionally illiterate.

- In some cities only 18 percent of Black males graduate from high school.

- A Black male is 700 percent more likely than a White male to be sentenced to prison.

- Nearly one million Black men are imprisoned in a for-profit system built on unfair drug-sentencing laws.

- Suicide is rising fast among our children.

- HIV/AIDS is the leading cause of death for our young women.

- The leading cause of death for our Black boys is homicide.

All of this and we are not outraged but pointing the finger at sagging pants, do-rags and the misogynistic and murderous messages in music we've allowed. Instead, let's look in the mirror. Let us accept our responsibility for not governing the village more carefully. Our young in crisis don't need more policing or punishment.

They need us. They need our attention, guidance and encouragement. They need Black love.

A recent study by the California Mentor Foundation of 124 mentoring programs showed that, of youngsters matched with mentors:

-98 percent stayed in school

-98 percent avoided a teen pregnancy

-85 percent did not use drugs

-98 percent avoided gang participation

It's time for us to act! Greatly disproportionate numbers of caring White sisters and brothers are mentoring our children. They are the first respondents. We are the last. The National CARES Mentoring Movement (NCMM) is a call to usto our faith leaders and leaders in the public and private sectors and every able, stable Black adultto come out of our silos and work together to galvanize volunteers to guide and encourage our vulnerable young.

Here's the ask: Let us do what Black folks have had difficulty doing for several decades. Let us get along. Agree. Link arms and aims and take care of the mothers and fathers of our tomorrows.

Their future is in our hands.
Mentor a child. Mentoring is one investment that has shown disproportionately positive returns. Dedicating just four hours a month can save and secure a life. Log on to caresmentoring. com and input your zip code for a list of nearby mentoring opportunities.
With family and friends, group mentor our struggling young in a reentry program, an underserved school, or a group home. Push your faith leader to do the work of the church, which also lies beyond the congregation. Support the educators and children in the nearest failing school with books, supplies, encouragement and mentors.
Working together we will write a new history for our children. Mentoring is the answer. And it's a privilege.
(Susan L. Taylor is editor-in-chief emeritus of Essence Magazine, Founder and CEO of the National CARES Mentoring Movement and a member of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation' s Black Women's Roundtable. This column was distributed by NNPA.)

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.

| 28860|2009-05-14 07:44:27|odhiambo okecth|House of shame|
House of Shame 14th May 2009

As we watched our members of parliament debate the puzzling supplementary estimates report as presented to Parliament by Hon Chris Okemo, many people were impressed by the quality of debate.

I want to join them in congratulating our members of parliament for rising to the occasion. My only fear is that they rose to the occasion to so eloquently and convincingly defend theft and impunity.

How I wished they did so in defense of Kenya!

In the 80s, Goldenberg Scandals were planned and executed at Treasury and the Central Bank. No red flag was raised and by the time the truth became known, Kenya had lost close to Kshs 56 billion. The architects of Goldenberg were lucky that they were not caught with their hands in the till the way Uhuru was. They had eaten and they were caught while cleaning their mouths. It became a scandal that torments Kenya to date.

Hon George Saitoti, the man who is imagined to have been the main architect of the scam went to court and had a cleansing that absolved him from blame. But in the eyes of the public, the truth is known.

In 2003, it took the men at the Treasury only 8 months to plan and execute the Anglo Leasing scams. Hon David Mwiraria was later on to own up for architecting and later paying ghosts. He even told us that money had been refunded to Treasury by people he could not name. The sad reality is that he was not caught with his hands in the till the way Uhuru was. But still, he had to resign to pave way for further investigations; investigations that have been taken round in circles just like the Goldenberg ones before it.

In 2006, the Artur Brothers were imported into Kenya with sinister motives. They were accorded all the privileges and even made Assistant Commissioners of Police. Their intrigues were brought to the fore by the Rt Hon Raila Odinga and immediately theatre of the most absurd became apparent to the Kenyan public. The imports displayed maximum naivety in public which resulted in a gun drama at the airport.

Earlier, they had been involved in the daring raid at the Standard and KTN premises.

Instead of the imports being arrested and charged in court, they were given first class return air tickets to a destination of their choice. They were paid to go back to where they had come from. Their bravado was not arrested in time just like Uhuru was caught with his hands in the till.

Last year, Amos Kimunya was forced to resign after swearing by the name of his mother that he would rather die than resign. He had conspired the sale of Grand Regency Hotel and the process came to the fore only after everything had been done. He was not caught in the act the way Uhuru was caught with his pants down.

Last year and this year, Kenya Airport Authority has been in the thick of things. They first tendered for some renovation at the Airport that was awarded at Kshs 800 million. At the time of commissioning the project, the cost was inflated to Kshs 2 billion. Eye brows were raised but nothing was done. The irony is that after the renovations were complete, the works collapsed and had to be re done at our costs again.

This year, KAA had signed off old Embakasi Airport to some busy bodies for management and refurbishment. This was done in a very opaque process and despite noise from many quarters, the deal was too sweet for the KAA that it took the Minister for Transport to intervene and cancel the same.

This year again, KAA is involved in some games with people from Qatar where they have leased some land for 80 years for development of a 5 star hotel. Nobody knows the details of how these people were contracted, whether there was an invitation for bids to effect this. But like Uhuru who has been caught with his hands in the till, the MD at KAA has been rewarded by being given a new lease of life. He has been re appointed the MD at KAA. And he is an uncle to Uhuru Kenyatta.

Does it ring a bell? That some animals are more equal?

Early this year, we have been treated to scandal after scandal, at Kenya Pipeline and then at Kenya Tourism Board. The two MDs have been sent home and belatedly taken to court. The irony is that they were not caught with their hands in the till like Uhuru and Muhoho. But all the same, they have been taken to court and hopefully, let it not turn out as the cleansing rituals that we have been treated to from the Judiciary.

The Judiciary is known as the purifier of all corruption syndicates in Kenya. When you steal big, you run to the courts for protection and purification. And the courts have never disappointed.

I have given all these examples because, in catching Uhuru red handed with his hands still in the till, we had the best of times to set an example for others. But what have we done? Our MPs have so eloquently come to defend and support him. Instead of sending him out of the Ministry and with a date with the Law, they have for the first time risen to the occasion and raised debate to national levels, in defense of theft that have been occasioned just like all the other scams before it.

No. I am not convinced by the calibre of leaders that we have. Leaders who make all the sorts of noise whenever there is a scandal, but leaders who raise the level of debate and wax lyrical in defense of Uhuru whose hands are still in the till, and whose mouth is still powdered with sugar.

Just like all scandals before it, there was every intention of stealing. What could have happened had the fraud not been detected by Mars Group?

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock Nairobi.

| 28861|2009-05-14 09:37:22|cristofori whitakara|Re: The QUBA (KUBA) Mosque| thinks has something to do with any square-based architecture like an altar. the Ka'ba in Mecca resembles the Temple in Jerusalem.

--- On Tue, 5/12/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The QUBA (KUBA) Mosque
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 9:53 AM

Greetings.
I am trying to establish the etymology of the word QUBA or KUBA in relation to the mosque in Medina.
Any ideas?
Thanks
Somo

| 28862|2009-05-14 11:18:04|cristofori whitakara|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
somo i sense that you are onto something. i wrote earlier that it may have something to do with a square and in the writings of the koran abraham is told to walk around it. within the title ab-ra-ham there is the word for heart, ra, and blackness. could it be that this person is the personification of ra, that sun which circles the universe as our planet circles (walk around) the sun?

--- On Fri, 5/8/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 6:35 PM

in the same lecture by Dr.Ben he said it was a meteorite

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/8/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 9:02 AM

Thanks Christofori.
There seems to be a a mismatch in etymologies for the word which defines the Kaaba.
The cube of a number in Arabicis Ka'b. I cannot see how this word Ka'b could signify a square house, especially when theword for house in Arabic is 'Bait'. The Kaaba has many names designated to it. They all contain the word house, 'bait', but not Kaaba. There seems to be a much deeper meaning of the word Kaaba.As you say it could have some Kemetic connection to the soul.According to Budge the pyramid of king Sahura is called Kaaba. This is a good indication that the word Kaaba isKemetic in origin.
I would be interested in Mahari's research into the subject and also Tafari's references if any on the Ethopian line.
Somo
----- Original Message -----

> From: cristofori whitakara
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Sent: Thursday, May 07, 2009 8:18 PM
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
>
> according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnaviga and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.
>
> --- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:
> From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com

Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM

Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference. if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM

Greetings.
Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
Somo

| 28863|2009-05-14 16:28:23|Tafari khumbaka|congo killings continue|

UN: Dozens Killed In Congo Rebel Attacks
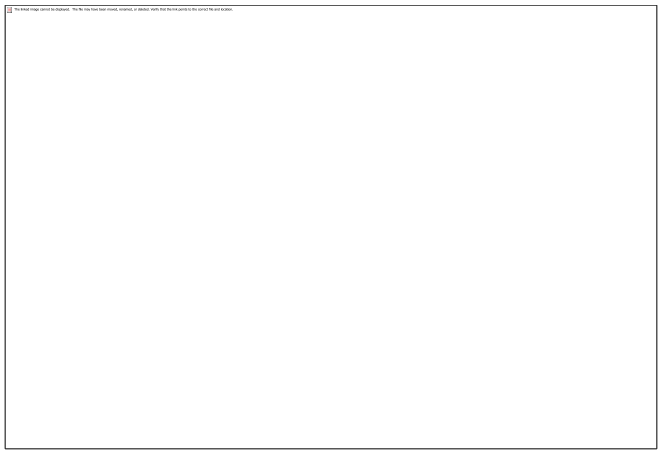
click above for more info:



the place in the world where the largest stores of miliatary strategic minerals are.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28864|2009-05-14 17:22:57|Shu Tefnut|Fw: Dr Boyce Dismissed by Syracuse: Sirius/XM Radio 6:30 pm EST|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Dr. Boyce Watkins: Your Black World
To: shutefnut@yahoo.com
Sent: Thursday, May 14, 2009 2:52:53 PM
Subject: Dr Boyce Dismissed by Syracuse: Sirius/XM Radio 6:30 pm EST

Hello to my friends,

In case you don't know, my tenure case was denied, which means I'll be dismissed by Syracuse University. I personally am not offended, as I didn't expect to receive tenure after the attacks by Bill O'Reilly last year and the work I've done speaking out on behalf of NCAA athletes (Syracuse earns tens of millions from athlete families and likely lost alumni donations after the Bill O'Reilly attacks - I stand by every word, however, since I won't allow a racist like O'Reilly to speak of lynching Michelle Obama or any other Black woman for that matter). Additionally, our business school (The Whitman School of Management) has not, tomy knowledge,recommended tenure for any African American, in any department, in its entire 100 years of operating history (I can't concur with the conclusion that every Black scholar on the planet is unqualified to be here). So, while we can say all we want about elusive and idealistic concepts such as academic freedom, most scholars understand that the rules change when you are an outspoken Black man with no significant Black male power presence on your campus. My role was to support pre-existing intellectual, social and administrative paradigms, not to engage in active, progressive scholarship.

But the goal of this interview is not to talk so much about my tenure case, since I don't need tenure in order to be validated as a scholar (I get supportive email every day). The goal is to speak on behalf of my colleagues, many of whom are absolutely petrified of standing up to the administration in public (they typically agree with me behind closed doors and then say that they can't go public without being punished). A supportive senior colleague (who is not Black, by the way) made it clear to me that if I do not stand up on these issues, then it may be another 100 years before another Black scholar has the platform to do so. Being that I was the only African American on earth to get a PhD in Finance in 2002, I am used to fighting battles alone. I am willing to sacrifice the rest of my academic career in order to do so, for I see this as a great opportunity to help others.

But I stand out of respect and love, not out of hate or anger. Anyone familiar with the history of Syracuse University knows that racial progress has never come without struggle, so this is my opportunity to contribute to the legacy left by Jim Brown, my respected brother and spiritual predecessor. I would not be here were it not for the sacrifices of those before me.

So, this is the first of a series of conversations I plan to have on this topic, as my discussions with Cornel West and others have helped me to realize that what I am experiencing at Syracuse is not an idiosyncratic phenomenon. Academia is racially sick, and we must all give it the necessary medicine.

The first interview will be on "Make it Plain with Mark Thompson" on Sirius 146 and XM 167 at 6:30 pm EST. I hope you'll tune in. Also, if you want to see some of my commentary on AOL Black Voices, please click here. God bless.

Dr. Boyce

This message was sent from Dr. Boyce Watkins: Your Black World to shutefnut@yahoo.com. It was sent from: Dr. Boyce Watkins, 23F Queens Way, Camillus, ny 13031. You can modify/update your subscription via the link below.

 To be removed click here

.

| 28865|2009-05-15 01:45:49|Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Language and Liber|Egyptian Grammar: Sir Alan Gardiner [PDF] 646 pages|
ta_seti@yahoogroups.com,

This is a message from Okyeame Kwame (mailto:akyeame_kwame@yahoo.com) from the Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Language and Liberation Institutes and Community Networks (http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/).

The message is as follows:

E ku ikawe,
We've just come across another BlackTastic resource posted at Abibitumi Kasa! Take a few seconds to check it out so that you too can make today an Abibitumi Kasa day. Stay BlackNificent and check this vital information below at:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/mdw-ntr-language-resources/39693-egyptian-grammar-sir-alan-gardiner-pdf-646-pages.html?referrerid=1

From,
Okyeame Kwame

Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Language and Liberation Institutes and Community Networks takes no responsibility for messages sent through its system.
| 28866|2009-05-15 06:36:10|Ferg|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
There are two issues which I am trying to unravel. The first one is the etymology of the word kaaba, and the second one is the etymology of the word Kuba. I have discovered that the word KUBA is associated with the roof or dome of a mosque. I have managed to resolve this linguistically and will be writing up something about this shortly. It will come as a surprise that both words have their derivatives inBantu languages. The two wordshave a very African feel about them and I am keen to uncover their African beginnings.I do agree with your early analysis about the kaaba being a square. However I too can see the word for blackness in the word for the Kaaba, but I cannot relate it to any ideas within the Kaaba. Could it relate tothe black stone lodged in the Kaaba. Which came first, the Kaaba or the black stone?

With regard to the name Abraham,(the father of nations) from what I have read its etymology does not make sense even to Hebrew scholars, for the consonants rhm do not exist in Hebrew northe consonant R in Abraham's name. So from your analysis of Abraham's name, ab +ra+ ham, itcould very well bea valid explanation. I will be looking into this also.
Somo

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: cristofori whitakara
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Sent: Thursday, May 14, 2009 7:18 PM
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
>
> somo i sense that you are onto something. i wrote earlier that it may have something to do with a square and in the writings of the koran abraham is told to walk around it. within the title ab-ra-ham there is the word for heart, ra, and blackness. could it be that this person is the personification of ra, that sun which circles the universe as our planet circles (walk around) the sun?
>
> --- On Fri, 5/8/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 6:35 PM
>
> in the same lecture by Dr.Ben he said it was a meteorite
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Fri, 5/8/09, Ferg wrote:
>
> From: Ferg
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 9:02 AM
>
> Thanks Christofori.
> There seems to be a a mismatch in etymologies for the word which defines the Kaaba.
> The cube of a number in Arabicis Ka'b. I cannot see how this word Ka'b could signify a square house, especially when theword for house in Arabic is 'Bait'. The Kaaba has many names designated to it. They all contain the word house, 'bait', but not Kaaba. There seems to be a much deeper meaning of the word Kaaba.As you say it could have some Kemetic connection to the soul.According to Budge the pyramid of king Sahura is called Kaaba. This is a good indication that the word Kaaba isKemetic in origin.
> I would be interested in Mahari's research into the subject and also Tafari's references if any on the Ethopian line.
> Somo

----- Original Message -----

From: cristofori whitakara
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Sent: Thursday, May 07, 2009 8:18 PM
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca

according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnaviga and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM

Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference
if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM

Greetings.
Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
Somo

| 28867|2009-05-15 07:41:14|cristofori whitakara|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|
the black stone is actually brown. thanks for the response. from what was sent earlier thru Ta-seti
i remember someone writing about Kaa and its connection to charcoal?

--- On Fri, 5/15/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com

Date: Friday, May 15, 2009, 9:35 AM

There are two issues which I am trying to unravel. The first one is the etymology of the word kaaba, and the second one is the etymology of the word Kuba. I have discovered that the word KUBA is associated with the roof or dome of a mosque. I have managed to resolve this linguistically and will be writing up something about this shortly. It will come as a surprise that both words have their derivatives inBantu languages. The two wordshave a very African feel about them and I am keen to uncover their African beginnings.I do agree with your early analysis about the kaaba being a square. However I too can see the word for blackness in the word for the Kaaba, but I cannot relate it to any ideas within the Kaaba. Could it relate tothe black stone lodged in the Kaaba. Which came first, the Kaaba or the black stone?
With regard to the name Abraham,(the father of nations) from what I have read its etymology does not make sense even to Hebrew scholars, for the consonants rhm do not exist in Hebrew northe consonant R in Abraham's name. So from your analysis of Abraham's name, ab +ra+ ham, itcould very well bea valid explanation. I will be looking into this also.
Somo

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: cristofori whitakara
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Sent: Thursday, May 14, 2009 7:18 PM
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
>
> somo i sense that you are onto something. i wrote earlier that it may have something to do square and in the writings of the koran abraham is told to walk around it. within the title al ham there is the word for heart, ra, and blackness. could it be that this person is the personification of ra, that sun which circles the universe as our planet circles (walk around sun?
>
> --- On Fri, 5/8/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 6:35 PM
>
> in the same lecture by Dr.Ben he said it was a meteorite
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Fri, 5/8/09, Ferg wrote:
>
> From: Ferg
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Friday, May 8, 2009, 9:02 AM
>
> Thanks Christofori.
> There seems to be a a mismatch in etymologies for the word which defines the Kaaba.
> The cube of a number in Arabicis Ka'b. I cannot see how this word Ka'b could signify a square house, espec when theword for house in Arabic is 'Bait'. The Kaaba has many names designated to it. They all contain the word house, 'bait', but not Kaaba. There seems to be a much deeper meaning of the word Kaaba.As you say it could have some Kemetic connection to the soul.According to Budge the pyramid of king Sahura is called Kaaba. This is a good indication that the word Kaaba isKemetic in origin.

I would be interested in Mahari's research into the subject and also Tafari's references if any on the Ethopian line.
Somo

----- Original Message -----

From: cristofori whitakara
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Sent: Thursday, May 07, 2009 8:18 PM
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca

according to this onlineetymology dictionary it comes from the arabic word for cube Ka'b Ka'bah "square house". i find it interesting that those who visit this structure circumnaviga and the word includes the kemetic tearms for soul.

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com> wrote:
From: Tafari khumbaka <tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com>
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 3:01 PM

Dr.Ben says it was stolen from ethiopia, but inthat lecture he said it , he gave no reference if its from ethiopia it may have been a altar piece???.
dedicated to Amun-Ra,,,?? ???

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/7/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The Kaaba at Mecca
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 7, 2009, 9:25 AM

Greetings.
Does any one know the true etymology of the Arabic word for the Holy stone, theKaaba in Mecca.
Somo

| 28868|2009-05-15 19:29:24|Asar Imhotep|How To Read Mdw Ntr lecture by Asar Imhotep|

```
Greetings Phamily
For those who will be in San Antonio, TX, I will be doing a lecture on Thursday June 11th at the Barbara Jordon Center on the secrets behind Mdw Ntr (Egyptian writing) and philosophy. The details are below. Please share with your friends and family
Asar Imhotep
San Antonio Ministry of Culture
www.saministryofculture.com
```

If you cannot view the image below, please visit THIS LINK

The linked image cannot be displayed. The file may have been moved, renamed, or deleted. Verify that the link points to the correct file and location.

| 28869|2009-05-15 19:39:42|Ptah Ra|Re: educating our children|
I would like to weigh in on the topic of saving our children also. I have decided that the best response I can offer is an excerpt from a lecture I delivered two years ago titled "The Need for Culture". I am a student of The Honorable Paul N. Johnson, and consider him to be the divinely anointed person to guide us from all of the predicaments in which we as a race find ourselves today. The following excerpt is based upon his teachings in 1919.

"The Need for Culture"
The Honorable Paul N. Johnson teaches us that "Culture is the heart, and soul, and lifeblood of a race". How is this possible? As its heart, culture animates and regulates the pulse, the rhythm, and beat of the life and vitality of a nation. As its soul, culture is the spiritual and cosmic guide, directing the race to success and achievement and inclining the race away from self destructive practices. As the lifeblood of a race it is their culture that perpetuates the continuous flow of creativity that emanates from the fertile minds, the creative minds within the race. This continuous flow of creativity is the force that sustains a race. Control of that creative process guarantees the continuing success of the race.
The heart of the race is the organ (culture) that tirelessly pumps its life promoting and life sustaining forces throughout the body (race). It is the culture of a people that takes in all of the constructive and creative ideas of the race and interprets them according to the temperament and needs of the race. It then expresses those things according to the unique perspective of the race (as determined by their unique culture). Hence it is the heart that is responsible for the spiritual development and enhancement of the race. The heart is the seat of the emotions and the brain is the seat of the intellect.
As the soul of the race culture is the invisible intuitive guide of the race. It is the collection of spirit power available to the race via the developed souls of the race?both past (ancestors) and present. The soul (culture) of the race is responsible for the harmonious thought vibrations it receives from the God of the race via the Angel of the race. It is responsible for the proper dissemination of the thought vibrations it receives. Like attracts it's like?so a developed, receptive mind is a requirement to receive these noble inspirations. Culture is responsible for character formation and development, and retention of learned life lessons. Culture is responsible for the transmission of all of the lessons of life that have been learned to succeeding generations. It is the lessons from the soul that dignify a people, protect and safeguard that people.
As the life blood of a people, culture is the educational/instructional processes (temples, schools, etc.) that synthesize the experiences of life into systems of action that support the directions given by the soul.
What educational processes are available to us: informal training, formal training, life experiences, psychic and intuitive experiences, dreams/visions, and religious/cultural training. The oldest and strongest educational channel available to us and used by modern Kushites-Khemites is our intuition. Intuitive learning is not founded upon the learning processes recognized by the western civilizations. Yet it is the process that the FAHAMME Rasool advocated "need not be laughed to scorn". Laughter and ridicule by Khemites and other nations causes this intuitive ability to be suppressed in individuals capable of exercising it. The resulting shame and stigmaticism causes a person/people to further suppress rather than develop their intuitive faculty(ies).
However, it is these glimpses of inspiration that lead to both mental and psychic growth. Hence the teaching of the FAHAMME Rasool that "The African's way of seeing and understanding things needs to be developed into a science making it useful, practical and up to date".

When a people become cultured, they develop a unique philosophy of life and a unique philosophy of death (or the absence of life). This is followed by the development of a people's unique concept of both heaven and hell (reward and punishment).
A people's philosophy of life addresses questions such as: the purpose and meaning of life, how life is defined, how is a full life achieved, how is a completed life evaluated, and if there is anything other than life, i.e. is there life after death? If so what is death?
A people's philosophy of life compels a consideration of death or transition: what is death, what is the function or purpose of death? How are the consequences of death evaluated? If the philosophy defines a event promoted by death, then that philosophy of life will produce concepts of an after-life: i.e., heaven, after life, how defined, its purpose, and how it is to be evaluated.
A people's unique philosophy of life also produces concepts of accountability for life: heaven and hell (real or imagined), purpose of a heaven and hell, how is heaven or hell accomplished, how is heaven and hell evaluated or how are the effects or results of heaven and hell evaluated?
With this explanation of the awesome responsibility of a people's culture, we can begin the process of examining the exact state of affairs of our race and begin the corrective actions needed.
========
I hope this brief statement adds to the growing consciousness of the urgency we face in taking corrective actions to save not only our children, but the entire race. Hotep.

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, tafari_sudra@... wrote:
>
>
> truth based africentric education, a discussion
>
http://affiliate.kickapps.com/service/displayDiscussionThreads.kickAction?as=35927&w=126481&d=36998
> click above
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka
>
| 28870|2009-05-15 19:39:46|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- FW: Blacks: Do or Die on Sunday|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Dr. Jackie Cody
To: 100 Blacks in Education ; National ; BNYEE

Sent: Friday, May 15, 2009 5:44:03 PM
Subject: [BNYEE]-- FW: Blacks: Do or Die on Sunday

Blacks: Do or Die on Sunday
By Alton H. Maddox, Jr.

On the 55th anniversary of Brown v. Bd. of Ed., May 17, 2009, everyone is urged to be in the sanctuary of United Missionary Baptist Church, 228 So. Harrison Street, East Orange, NJ at 3:30 p.m. to learn about the history of Black education in the United States. Each person in attendance will receive a well-researched and informative "Timeline of Black Education in the United States: 1750-2009."

As long as Black people remain unenlightened, our children will continue to be doomed. Public schools today have become holding pens for the prison-industrial complex. Between public schools and the prison-industrial complex, Black youth have acquired a new dress code.

There is one myth that will be explored in detail on Sunday; that is, that white people created public schools in the United States. White people created private schools. Our revered ancestors initiated the public school movement. The "founding fathers" refused to make education a constitutional right.

I will also prove that the charter school movement is a threat to Black education. This may be a once-in-a-lifetime lecture. You should be in the house. What you don't know will kill you! Admission is free. Call UAM at 718-834-9034 for bus information.

Mayor Michael Bloomberg is sponsoring a trip to Washington, DC on Saturday, May 16, in order for Blacks to drink Jim Jones Kool-Aid. Given our ignorance of political tricknology and our lack of history, we will readily imbibe a soft drink laced with cyanide. The bus trip to Washington, DC is free.

Dell Mini Netbooks: Great deals starting at $299 after instant savings!

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~

You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en

-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28871|2009-05-15 19:40:09|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- Fwd: HONORING MALCOLM X IN THE STREETS - MAY 19TH HARL|

Attachments :
Malcolm_X_2009_flyer_Black_Power_March.zip

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: "Dohugh@aol.com"
To: bnyee@googlegroups.com; NatBlackEd@googlegroups.com
Sent: Friday, May 15, 2009 10:14:58 AM
Subject: [BNYEE]-- Fwd: HONORING MALCOLM X IN THE STREETS - MAY 19TH HARLEM, NY

From: RWare10709
BCC: Dohugh
Sent: 5/15/2009 3:38:44 A.M. Eastern Daylight Time
Subj: HONORING MALCOLM X IN THE STREETS - MAY 19TH HARLEM, NY

Please print out and send along the attached flyer in PDF and JPEG. thank you

Celebrate and Honor

Malcolm X

Tuesday, May 19, 2009
Assemble: 12PM Sharp
Harlem State Office Bldg. for 20th Anniversary of BLACK POWER MARCH
and 125th St. Business
Shut Down
1PM to 4PM

nowhere in the world is Malcolm X honored like he is in his political birth place, Harlem.
nowhere does an entire central business district shut down to honor this greathero like it does in Harlem. Because Black people demand it.
Take pride in the 20 year battle to make this honor a reality -

If Malcolm was alive he would be in the streets with us, demonstrating Black Power in a world that challenges our lives everyday. Malcolm lives! When we are fighting back....

This year remember...

Message to the Grassroots
To honor Malcolm is to honor the best in ourselves. This is no time to sit back or sit down. A Black man in a White House does not make it ours. ONLY YOU are the key to your self-determination and Black Power. Wall Streets government is still stealing our homes; Police still killing our children; Schools still not teaching our kids; Healthcare still out of reach and no jobs for our people... In the spirit of Malcolm X, to the streets for our human rights.

omowale clay

An Excellent Credit Score is 750. See Yours in Just 2 Easy Steps!

Recession-proof vacation ideas. Find free things to do in the U.S.

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28872|2009-05-16 08:05:11|Ferg|nefertiti|

Attachments :

E.GA.2303.1943(3).jpg

?

----- Original Message -----

From: Ferg

To: ferg@kaa-umati.co.uk

Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 3:09 PM

Subject: Emailing: E.GA.2303.1943(3)

Queen Nefertiti, see attachment

Somo

| 28873|2009-05-16 08:25:43|odhiambo okecth|Re: PEV Healing, Kiambaa vs other Vicitims!!| For true peace, national healing and reconciliation to take root, we must stop being more clever than our neighbours.

We must engage in constant dialogue and do things above board.

It must start with the President. If the Rt Hon Raila Odinga was tear gassed during the mass service for the people who were killed in Kibera in February last year, why must the President think that Kenyans will give him accolades for going to bury the people who died in that church 17 months ago?

If the President kept silent as the people of Nyanza, Western, Nairobi, Rift Valley, Coast, Eastern and North Eastern buried their many deads, killed by police in defense of Kibaki, what makes the President think that Kenyans will give him accolades for going to bury the people who died 17 months ago?

The many Kenyans who were killed in the Post Election Violence were buried long time ago. We were in the process of healing the wounds when the President himself officiates to have them ripped off. It is painful.

The Kalenjins lost many people. The Luhya lost many people. The Luo lost many people. The Kisii lost many people. The Kikuyu lost many people. And we all burried our dead, then.

What wisdom was it to keep others for this long and only spring a surprise state burial now?

This is coming at a time when PNU is pushing to have our Provinces sub-divided for their convenience. Surely, why cant our leaders leave the Kikuyu alone to work in harmony with all other Kenyans?

Why are the Kikuyu leadership hell bent on antagonizing the Kikuyu with other Kenyans. The Kikuyu must rise up and put a stop to this. You are as Kenyan as all other Kenyans.

And you must not be set against your colleagues in Kenya. We are all awake to the shenanigans these people are playing with power and we must resist it.

The Kikuyus must be left alone to intergrate with all other Kenyans. This includes voting for other Kenyans, including for the Presidency.

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Kombo Ogaro wrote:

From: Kombo Ogaro
Subject: Re: PEV Healing, Kiambaa vs other Vicitims!!
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:17 AM

Sungu,
Well illustrated. The Rwanda genocide thought many people numerous lessons:
1. An evil foeign regime was being imposed on them after the hineous death of their president. Even your friend can betray you to the worst enemy
2. Both innocent and the perpetrators suffered the consequences during and after the war
3. Chidlren and women fell victims of the highest order.
4. It was a case of arms, supply of weapons from outside, different faction with different intentions.
5. True healing started after recognising that a nation will be swept and taken over by worms. President Kagame, victorious tunred the table upside down and become the President. Ahe embarked on reconciliatin rather than accusations and counter accusation. Different from our true tatse of the Molo Massacre during the Moi era, several tribal clashes were evident everywhere. Leaders capitalised on the recent violence and blamed largely political leaders. the politician later too turned to blame church leader for not taking a good position.
Now the game is never ending we keep talking until our President a 'book to read and a movie to watch'. We shed crocodile tears when we see justice being delayed and denied. The funders of the genocide are t large in comfort of thei zones just liek President Bashir is escaping the Darfur genocide. The same guys are occupying ministerial positions.
What we needed was a nullfication of the elections - entire and nothing less. ITS BETTER TO SPEND EXTRA TO MAKE THINGS WORK. Buy cheap buy twice! We are paying double now: a floated divisive cabinet that will continue to grample and wanton like MPs who will be bought to defeat the casue of justice, and suffering millions Kenyans with escalating incidences of mini corruption and grand corruptions.
Unlike Rwanda which has almost eradicated corruptions, the Kenyan face is that of Robert Mugabe, who has ruined the country and brought it to its knees. Slowly Yoweri Kaguta Museveni's wanton style of leadership is a case study of a liberator slowly becoming the Mobutu. He will loose respect and no more legacy will be left.
Africa is in a verge of a new wave - stealing election, and geting into colations - having same dictators in power! Kenya sets the string straight, we are thinking differently and sooner our citizen wont cry the same cry like before. New leadership is waiting 2012 or sooner and soon we will be matching a grand match to the parley gates of state house to separate the chaff from the grains. We will evoke memories of great poets like Okot Bitek and enumerate great men like Nelson Mandela. We dismantle the bitter cry and instal the sweet sounds of wailing mothers praising the new born century. The end of our misery will be the begginign of God given wealth, riches and good governance and democracy. Our children and grand children will admire the pillars created, the possession of our land, and the freedom with good moral values and principles.
As a citadel, Kenya will extend its borders of good governance to the rest of AFRICA and the World. Once we get rid of the chaff in the juduciary, treasury, govenrment office - we would have ensured that we have a mentorship approach destroying the mornachial system currently we are in. Freedom of the press, association, guarantedd free provison of health to all, regulated financial markets, investor confidence, free education for all - Kenya stand as a citadel!

Kombo Eijah

On Sat, May 16, 2009 at 9:45 AM, otieno sungu <sunoti@yahoo.com> wrote:
Given that this country needs to heal and move on, and given that communities that were affected by the PEV need to be brought together in a true healing process, it is instructive to note that all ODM MPs kept away from the mass burial of the Kiambaa victims.
The question that begs answers is, are we really on the path to healing? Is political gain and/or losses played out in the whole issue?
While it is all good to accord the all the PEV victimsa decent and dignified send off, it should be across the board.
What is coming out is that one side of the devide wishes to project the Kiambaa PEV fire victims as the "only" victims of PEV. There were those who were burnt in Naivasha by youths perceived to be PNU just as the Kiambaa ones are perceived to have been torched by ODM youths.Then there were the youths killed in Kisumu, hundreds of them by police, are some "more Kenyan" than others or the pedigree matters here?
Giving prominence to one groups and behaving like the others do not deserve recognition as PEV victims only breeds resentment.
As things stand, we are right backto December 2007 and nothing has changed, only a lull before another storm.
True reconciliation is like the Rwanda type, where honesty and truth guides the process, not political expidiency and a "we are te victims" attitude. Both sides committed attrocities and this must be acknowledged by both sides in a true healing process.
Recognition should be accorded to all PEV victims and compensation chanelled to all affected groups. As long as when one side of government mean PNU supporters only when they talk PEV, nothing will change and even those who have moved back to their homes will not be at ease with their neigbours.THis has been the scenario when compensating IDPs too.
Let us start being honest with each other and resolve this issue of reconciliation,not aggravate things.
We must remember that the "victims" from all sides will keep being victims if we do not exorcise the ghost of PEV properly.
Otieno Sungu.
Juba-Southern Sudan.

| 28874|2009-05-16 08:26:35|Lenny jones|Hotep|

Hotep to all, who arenot accepting these modern day academics whowill continue to distortthe truth about African History, and To those who continue to falsify The Black Man's History may Sut, and the eater of the dead find you.

P.S. We know that the powers that be are controlling the mummy finds, and doing the DNA research on

So that should tell us something? They definitely are not KMT Hotep

| 28875|2009-05-16 09:32:20|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: nefertiti|

For obvious reasons, we rarely see this and other legitimate portrayals of Nefertiti.

Regards,
Paul

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Ferg" wrote:
> >
> >
> > ----- Original Message -----
> > From: Ferg
> > To: ferg@...
> > Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 3:09 PM
> > Subject: Emailing: E.GA.2303.1943(3)
> >
> >
> > Queen Nefertiti, see attachment
> >
> > Somo
> >

| 28876|2009-05-16 16:08:02|Tafari khumbaka|where's king solomon?|

http://affiliate.kickapps.com/service/displayDiscussionThreads.kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon
Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28877|2009-05-17 12:32:45|Shu Tefnut|video 'MALCOLM X PREDICTED THE OBAMA PRESIDENCY'|

Living In Black
360 Degrees of the Black Experience

HERU BENNU
AMEN RA

Check out the video 'MALCOLM X PREDICTED THE OBAMA PRESIDENCY'

MALCOLM X PREDICTED THE OBAMA PRESIDENCY

Video link:
MALCOLM X PREDICTED THE OBAMA PRESIDENCY

About Living In Black
We're Africans ascending, engaged in culturally relevant conversations, business tips, research and activism. We're ready for action.

5679 members
16790 photos
3808 songs
4396 videos
4704 discussions
2495 blog posts

| 28878|2009-05-17 12:32:46|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- Harlem Great Debate 6: Has Bloomberg Been Good For Bla|

Attachments :

Harlem Great Debate 6.jpg

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: S. E. Anderson
Sent: Thursday, May 14, 2009 9:01:01 AM Subject: [BNYEE]-- Harlem Great Debate 6: Has Bloomberg Been Good For Black People?

The Great Debate #6:

Has Bloomberg Been Good For Black People?

SUNDAY May 17 6PM at Salem Methodist Church

129th Street and AC Powell Blvd

Harlem, NY

ADMISSION FREE

---------- s. e. anderson is author of "The Black Holocaust for Beginners" Social Activism is not a hobby: it's a Lifestyle lasting a Lifetime http://www.blackeducator.org http://blackeducator.blogspot.com ----------

--
Be Yourself @ mail.com!
Choose From 200+ Email Addresses
Get a Free Account at www.mail.com!

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28879|2009-05-17 12:32:46|rehal orville|Re: where's king solomon?|

I read that : /.../

David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)

In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28880|2009-05-17 12:33:20|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- HARLEM- Tues. May 19 Malcolmx & Black Fatherhood @ Sch|

Attachments :
MXM 19 May09 Flyer.pdf

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: S. E. Anderson
Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 8:15:29 AM
Subject: [BNYEE]-- HARLEM- Tues. May 19 Malcolmx & Black Fatherhood @ Schomburg

Malcolm X & Fatherhood: Lost, Stolen and Found
His Impact On Rebuilding Black Fatherhood Today

What would move the Black community to the next level? A modern day Malcolm X, President Barack Obama, or fathers who are committed to nurturing and supporting their families. Join the Malcolm X Museum as it commemorates the 84th anniversary of Malcolm's birth by talking with fathers and their children and reflecting on Hajj Malik El Shabazzs role as a father, son and leader. Free gifts for fathers who attend with their children!

Tuesday May 19, 2009 from 6 pm to 9 pm

Langston Hughes Auditorium

Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture,

Malcolm X Boulevard & 135th Street

Harlem, NY

This event is free and open to the public.

--The Malcolm X Museum is Chartered by the NY State Board of Regents--

For more information, please contact The Malcolm X Museum at 2123409502

---------- s. e. anderson is author of "The Black Holocaust for Beginners" Social Activism is not a hobby: it's a Lifestyle lasting a Lifetime http://www.blackeducator.org http://blackeducator.blogspot.com ----------

--

Be Yourself @ mail.com!
Choose From 200+ Email Addresses
Get a Free Account at www.mail.com!

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~

You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en

-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28881|2009-05-17 12:33:37|Shu Tefnut|Fwd: HONORING MALCOLM X IN THE STREETS - MAY 19TH HARLEM, NY|

----- Forwarded Message ---- From: "Dohugh@..." To: bnyee@googlegroups.com; NatBlackEd@googlegroups.com Sent: Friday, May 15, 2009 10:14:58 AM Subject: [BNYEE]-- Fwd: HONORING MALCOLM X IN THE STREETS - MAY 19TH HARLEM, NY

_____ From: RWare10709 BCC: Dohugh Sent: 5/15/2009 3:38:44 A.M. Eastern Daylight Time Subj: HONORING MALCOLM X IN THE STREETS - MAY 19TH HARLEM, NY Please print out and send along the attached flyer in PDF and JPEG. thank you Celebrate and Honor Malcolm X Tuesday, May 19, 2009 Assemble: 12PM Sharp Harlem State Office Bldg. for 20th Anniversary of BLACK POWER MARCH and 125th St. Business Shut' Down 1PM to 4PM nowhere in the world is Malcolm X honored like he is in his political birth place, Harlem. nowhere does an entire central business district shut down to honor this great hero like it does in Harlem. Because Black people demand it. Take pride in the 20 year battle to make this honor a reality - If Malcolm was alive he would be in the streets with us, demonstrating Black Power in a world that challenges our lives everyday. Malcolm lives! When we are fighting back.... This year remember... Message to the Grassroots To honor Malcolm is to honor the best in ourselves. This is no time to sit back or sit down. A Black man in a White House does not make it ours. ONLY YOU are the key to your self-determination and Black Power. Wall Street's government is still stealing our homes; Police still killing our children; Schools still not teaching our kids; Healthcare still out of reach and no jobs for our people... In the spirit of Malcolm X, to the streets for our human rights. omowale clay

| 28882|2009-05-18 09:35:52|Tafari khumbaka|FW: Awesome: Knock...Knock!|

Attachments :

Knock_Knock.wmv

damn!!! good!!!!
check out attachment

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, Felicia Carroll

Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 10:31 AM

From: Simpson, Claudia
Sent: Monday, May 18, 2009 10:24 AM
To: Hayes, Venecia; Woodley, Tara; Herron, Shelia; Hayes, Venecia; Baker, Queba; Carroll, Felicia Subject: FW: Awesome: Knock...Knock!

[CONFIDENTIALITY AND PRIVACY NOTICE] Information transmitted by this email is proprietary to Medtronic and is intended for use only by the individual or entity to which it is addressed, and may contain information that is private, privileged, confidential or exempt from disclosure under applicable law. If you are not the intended recipient or it appears that this mail has been forwarded to you without proper authority, you are notified that any use or dissemination of this information in any manner is strictly prohibited. In such cases, please delete this mail from your records. To view this notice in other languages you can either select the following link or manually copy and paste the link into the address bar of a web browser:

http://emaildisclaimer.medtronic.com

| 28883|2009-05-18 10:07:45|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- Malcolm X, Born Day, May 19, 2009|

Subject: [BNYEE]-- Malcolm X, Born Day, May 19, 2009

Malcolm X - El-Hajj Malik El-Shabazz

==========

Celebrating Malcolm X's 84th Birthday, May 19, 2009 and Beyond Including Malcolm X's Missing Autobiography Chapters

Interview With Author, Manning Marable Parts 1-6 w/ Democracy Now.

==========

*On Citizenship

*We are Living in a Police State

*On the LAPD Killing of Ronald Stokes

*Malcolm X, Inventing Radical Judgment

*Malcolm X on Morality and Black Success

*You Can't Hate The Roots of a Tree Without Hating The Tree

*Mos Def Reads Malcolm X

*Playboy Interview With Malcolm

*Malcolm X Rap Sheet

*Ancient African Civilizations
by Malcolm X

*Article on Death of Father of Malcolm X, Earl Little, 41

*X - The Life and Times of Malcolm X
An Opera

*Malcolm X Eulogy

*The Princely Paradox of Malcolm X

*Malcolm X Letter to Dr. Martin Luther King

*Malcolm X Letter to Dr. Martin Luther King

*Seventh Child: Family Memoir of Malcolm X

*The Mystery of Malcolm X

http://terryhowcott.com/closeup.asp?cid=9&pid=350&offset=12

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28884|2009-05-18 10:07:51|odhiambo okecth|KCDN Peace Run/Walk|
On 13th June 2009, we will be hosting the 2nd Edition of the KCDN Peace Run/Walk at the Montana/Calvary Grounds as from 8am. We have invited the DC Nairobi East District to come and flag the Run/Walk. We have also invited the participation of church and local leaders.

The Key Note speach on Peace will b delivered by Bishop Dr Julius Mbagaya of the Baptist Convention.

We have mobilized enough participation from parents and pupils alike. They will come in big numbers to show solidarity with other Kenyans on the need for Peace, National Healing and Reconciliation in Kenya.

At KCDN, we are doing something for our children who are either orphans or vulnerable. We have been mobilizing people of goodwill to help these children have books, stationery and uniforms. We have documented all that we do at our blogspot for ease of reference; http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com We are now focused on the parents to display the kind of unity and love that children display.

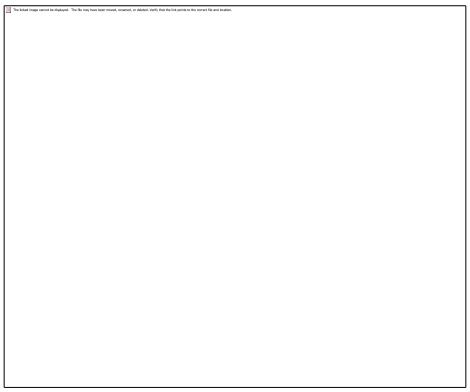
By this intro, we are inviting your participation and support to this course. We need Tents, Chairs, PA System, Water, Course Van, Course Security, T-Shirts, Paper Caps, Banners, Posters, Manila Papers, Felt-Marker Pens, and as many volunteers for the day.

We are encouraging participants to come with their own peace posters so that this relations and involvement in the KCDN Peace Run.Walk becomes personal and self involving.



Only throgh personal involvement will we achieve a lasting peace amongs us.

We kindly invite your support for this course.

Odhiambo T Oketch
Tel; 0735 529 126, 0724 365 557,
http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com

| 28885|2009-05-18 10:07:55|Shu Tefnut|Fw: Dr Boyce on NPR, Tenure case update|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Dr. Boyce Watkins: Your Black World
To: shutefnut@yahoo.com
Sent: Monday, May 18, 2009 10:58:17 AM
Subject: Dr Boyce on NPR, Tenure case update

YBW Coalition Readers Weigh in on my Tenure Case Thank you for your love

As I state on the video introduction for YourBlackWorld.com, There is no one way to be black. This statement implies that even those in our family who dont agree with my position have a right to express their opinions. Such is the essence of freedom of thought, which requires discipline for us to maintain (even I get tempted to discount opinions that seem misguided, as I am learning and growing myself). At any rate, I want to give a very sincere thank you to those whove sent emails in support of my tenure situation at Syracuse. Again, I must re-emphasize the following:

1) DO NOT feel sorry for me.I am fine. Ive never depended on some random university to pay my bills, as we should realize that it is not in the interest of our communitys national security to rely on the descendants of our historical oppressors to provide things that we critically need (the easiest way to control another man is for that man to know that you are the reason his children get to eat every day). I built my business interests because I wanted to be a truly independent Black man and a serious scholar. Academic bureaucracy sometimes gets in the way of true scholarship, the same way that the pettiness of church affairs can get in the way of truly serving God.hence, Jesus is killed in public with many so-called pastors cheering on his murder. I will never be as great as Jesus, but I firmly believe in the phrase, What would Jesus do? I truly believe that Jesus would do his best to do whats right, he would stand up for the weak and he would speak for those who have no voice. That is what I try to do every day of my life.

2) This issue is NOT ABOUT ME. I am not fighting for my own tenure, for Ive never needed tenure to validate me as a scholar. Rather, this fight is for all of the Black scholars around the nation who are being denied tenure on unfair grounds. It is for our children, who have a right to learn from Black professors without having to take African American studies as a major. It is to break the chains off of our most brilliant Black scholars, who are locked away in their offices writing research papers that no one is ever going to read, all because theyve been threatened with severe punishment if they choose to use their intellect to solve critical problems in the Black community. I encourage you to do an accountability request from your alma maters and ask them why they seem to only find good Black basketball players, but cant find any qualified Black faculty (using fundamentally flawed measures of the term qualified.youd be amazed at what some others consider to be qualified). Our children deserve to be educated by Black people too (Ive never had a Black professor in any class I took in 13 years of post-secondary education.Getting educatedshould notbe that difficult).

3) I am not angry with Syracuse University. While I do not agree with their decision, the truth is that many in America are socially conditioned to be frightened by uncompromising and outspoken African American men. I am from the south, so I am used to the disease of racism. So, Chancellor Nancy Cantors reaction to me is no different from the reaction that the university had to Jim Brown when he was here many years ago. I knew what I was getting myself into, as my reading about the lives of Martin Luther King, Malcolm X, Harry Edwards and others allowed me to see, in advance, how White America was going to react to the Dr. Boyce Watkins brand of scholarship. Even when you try to speak in love, simply standing up for Black people in a forthright way leads others to place you as an enemy of the establishment.thats why Dr. King was murdered. But remember: had it not been for the sacrifices of others,we would not be where we are.

Now its time for me to make my sacrifice for our children. I truly believe this is going to be the best year of my entire life, and I am sincerely looking forward to it.

Thank you and God bless you for all of your support. Your comments are below.names have been removed to protect your privacy. By the way - I am sorry I could not reply to everyone, there were quite a few emails and my fingers are getting old. Also,I will be speaking with Michel Martin(another member of our family) on NPR Tuesday morning at 9 am. We'll be discussing theRush Card again....I hope Russell doesn't come after me again on this one (alot of strange things happened after I discussed his card on the BBC/NY Timesand I quickly learned the perils of messing with a dude who is worth half a billion dollars), but you know I've got to tell the truth, and I made it clear to Russell that I respect him. Please visit my website if you would like to keep up as things develop- this is expected to be a VERY interesting week, for reasons I cannot disclose just yet.
Be well,
Dr B
www.BoyceWatkins.com

❖ Dear Dr. Boyce:

Hang in there. Also, why don't you send this (or a similar missive) to Vice President Joseph Biden, a prestigious Syracuse alumnus. It would be interesting to see if he responds. Keep up the good work. Thanks for your voice.

❖ Sorry to read this. We need to find a way to harness the "leveraging power" of Black collegiate athletes." Also, can "Letters to the Editor" be sent to the student newspaper?

❖ Brother,
I sit here at work and read and am I saddened I am not as sure as to what, and how I feel. However, I know that great things are in store for you things that only the divine being can and will provide and that Syracuse cannot take away. There are situations that I can speak of that has happened to me in the same context of this whole story- all said your issue is of a much greater fight. With mine it was my own people who turned their back on me- in the work environment when I was called all sorts of names. Yes, names I dare not utter- I would think I was on a plantation.

For me it was a shocker and I did not know the correct procedures and steps to take- in a working environment and no one told me how to deal with this issue at work. So, I was left out in the cold by my own peersand I will not go on. I know for a fact that prayers work wonders and wonders never cease. I look at it like this sometimes in life in order to go forward, you have to take a step back, maybe not too far back, maybe you could and was making great waves at Syracuse- Tsunamis even, and people fear what they know not of most.

You are what people fear an educated black man! You may be down but not out, and Syracuse and all the people in powers that be who sit in their ivory towers will see you rise instead of fall, and they will look back and said I wish.. If only I knew. If only I had spoken up

On 05/14/09 - you will look back at this day and thank them for letting you go, because there is greater need for you elsewhere and God has your destiny not man.

❖ My frustrations are many.... my understanding on of your situation are clear. Keep praying, keep talking and keep moving....If I can help in any way... please call

❖ Hi Dr. Boyce,
You remind me of my father!!! Stand strong in the struggle, and let us know what we need to do to help and stand with you by taking action!
God bless you!

❖ I truly appreciate your sacrifice. The battle is long and hard, but God has given you the knowledge, wisdom, and strength to carry on.

❖ Do not give up Dr. Boyce. I am sure your next job is waiting for you. Your leaving is their lost. You have made your mark and now it is time to move on to better things.

❖ Thank you Boyce for standing up. I know it's not easy.

❖ Boyce,
I am sorry to hear that. However, as I received a fortune cookie today "In the middle of every difficulty lies opportunity."
Do you and remember this that no University (e.g. Syracuse) defines who you are, God does.

❖ Keep your head up! No need to ever sacrifice your integrity. I'm proud of you wish I could do more for you besides pray for you. Don't know if you remember, I'm still in the middle of an EEOC lawsuit with the racist environment I stood up to. It always gets so ugly, but the good part is, when you look in the mirror... nothing but pride is reflected. Good Luck, you will rise to even higher heights.

I'm sure you're disappointed and hurt and it's okay. You have such a positive attitude and you're a soul of Light. I dare to say that the Creator may have bigger plans for you than tenure at Syracuse . This is only a stepping stone.

Click here to read more comments

This message was sent from Dr. Boyce Watkins: Your Black World to shutefnut@yahoo.com. It was sent from: Dr. Boyce Watkins, 23F Queens Way, Camillus, ny 13031. You can modify/update your subscription via the link below.

 To be removed click here

.

| 28886|2009-05-18 10:08:00|k_m256|Confronting Racism!|

As-Salam 'alaykum

Racism. Where does it come from? How does Islam address this debilitating human condition? Ustadh Abdullah bin Hamid Ali of the Zaytuna Institute delivered a powerful presentation on this subject in a lecture at the prestigious Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Visit our website and download a MP3 recording of this lecture free.

Also, be sure to take advantage of our special offer for the month of May! "The Sunni Creed in Ghazzali's Words"

This two-day seminar covers the summarized treatise of Imam Abu Hamid al- Ghazzali's mainstream doctrine, Qawa'id al-'Aqa'id, translated and explained by Ustadh Abdullah bin Hamid Ali. This is the first and only English commentary on this precious text available as a MP3 download.
Order 'The Sunni Creed' and receive a free download of Ustadh Abdullah's "Why we Differ in Salat'!

For more details, please click here and take advantage of this special offer

Was-Salam
| 28887|2009-05-18 10:08:06|Michael J Robinson|Announcing the launching of The African History Network!!! www.Afr|

Maat Hotep Family,

I wanted to let you know that I appreciate many of you viewing the videos that I have been posting on my YouTube Channel www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914. I know you have been probably wondering where you can purchase some of the videos that I have posted and will post in the near future. I am pleased to announce that The African History Network has finally launched. You can visit this site at www.AfricanHistoryNetwork.com. We have excellent discounts of 25% - 40% and more on the African-Centered DVDs and they are of good quality.

Be sure and check out the other pages on the site. We have a lot of information including current events across the country and helpful website links.

Thanks,

Bro. Michael

Michael J. Robinson

President

The African History Network

mrobinson@AfricanHistoryNetwork.com

Mjrob1914@comcast.net

Mjrob1914@gmail.com

www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914

"Right knowledge, corrects wrong behavior!!!"

| 28888|2009-05-18 10:08:25|iimtbiwb|The First Family of Love, The Nation of Israel| Nation of Israel, God is Real.

Love is the way to Live Life. Religions prepare the way of Death.

The Nation of Israel began and originated in the land of Jeshurun (Africa). That would make us originally Jeshuites or Jesse. It is the second largest continent on earth, and one the most densely populated. Today, the continent's population is only about ten percent of the world's population. God led Abram to Egypt from Mesopotamia of the Middle East. Then further south into the heart of the continent, his inherited land. God chose one family, and it grew to be a Nation. Israelites are a genetically born race of people. Twelve sons became twelve tribes. Judah is one tribe of the Israelites, and they lived by the Law. The Law is a way to Live Life. It is the Law of Love. The first five books of Moses is the Hebrew Bible, called the Law. Jews were Middle Eastern strangers, living amongst the tribe of Judah. The tribe of Judah was conquered, and relocated as slaves. After their removal, the Jews were established and the religion of Judaism was born. Jews gave themselves a name, and chose to be Jewish. They are not a race or nation of people. They are a religious group. A religion is a way of worship. Jews created Judaism from the Hebrew Bible (Law), and the historical documents of Israelites. They combined our Law and historical documents into a book. The Jewish bible is the Old Testament called the Torah. The Old Testament or Torah, influences man to pursue the contact of spirits. It is a book of Hate.

First, The family of Israel migrated to Egypt during a time of famine in the inherited land. The journey was made by Jacob Israel, his twelve sons, and their families. Joseph, Jacob Israel's son, was highly respected in Egypt. Joseph secured a section of land for the huge family of Israel. Overall, the Israelites dwelled in Egypt for 430 years. During that time, a new king or pharaoh that was not familiar with Joseph enslaved the Israelites. The Egyptians feared Israel would someday overtake Egypt. The family of Israel became slaves in Egypt, because they were lively. Israelites had grown to be more than one million people, outnumbering the natives of Egypt. According to history, the slaves were put to work building the pyramids. The pyramids were built in approximately forty years. Then, the slaves suddenly stopped working, and the Egyptian kingdom collapsed without warning. Our nation received a taste of Salvation in 1200BC. God called to Moses from a flaming fire of a burning bush. Moses was an Israelite, raised as an Egyptian. Moses fled from Egypt after murdering an Egyptian, who abused the slaves. God told Moses to bring His son, Israel, from Egypt back to the location of the burning bush. A bush located in the mountains, where Moses herded sheep for his father-in-law. This is also were Moses met his wife, the Ethiopian. Ethiopia is one of the largest mountain ranges. Moses was king in Jeshurun. (Africa)

Next, Israel separated into three parts. Israelites of the Promised Land, Israelites who did not cross over into the Promised Land (Samarians of Samaria), and the Israelites of the tribe of Judah. A natural border of desert land (The Sahara) separated all Israelites from Egypt, and the other nations of the world. Eventually, the Nation of Israel gained control of all of Africa (Jeshurun), including Egypt. King David developed a friendship with the (Phoenician) Philistines, when he fled from king Saul. King Saul felt David was a threat to his rule as king. David, the Goliath killer, was very popular among Israelites. He found refuge with the Philistines. When king Saul died, Israel eventually named David as their king. King David moved the capitol of Israel and the Ark of the Covenant, from Hebron (Promised Land) to Egypt. King David wanted to be next-door neighbors with the historic Phoenician Philistines. (Palestinians of Gaza) The relocation gave king David and the Nation of Israel access to the other nations of the world. The tribe of Judah and the Levites followed king David to land in Egypt, called Jerusalem. (Egyptian tongue of the sea) Nevertheless, the move was careless of king David. He removed the Israelite capitol from the heart of our land, to be vulnerable at the border of our land. King David had more love for the nations, than he did for God's property. Fortunately, the Ark of the Covenant is under continuous watch by the Ethiopians to this day. The Queen of Sheba placed it there, after her visit with king Solomon. She had respect for Love and His property. She is the wisest of queens, and had a heart for Love. The Sheba kingdom is named after Abraham's granddaughter by his second wife Keturah, and their son Jokshan. The original Sheba is the (half) cousin of Jacob Israel. The Sheba kingdom was a "sister" to the kingdom of Israel.
King David named Solomon, one of his sons, as his successor to the throne. King Solomon was considered to be the wisest of kings by the nations. The nations of the world would bring gifts, for the Israelite Kingdom, to the border of Egypt. In the Song of Solomon, he claimed to be black or dark, because the sun had kissed or gazed on him. His locks were like a flock of goats. King Solomon also had a weakness for women. He had hundreds of wives and concubines. Out of ignorance, he built temples for them to worship their different gods. This was a bad example established by King Solomon. After king Solomon died, the Nation of Israel began to break down. The nations began to refer to the Nation of Israel, as two separate kingdoms. The desert land (Sahara) became a natural border between the two kingdoms. They called the tribe of Judah in Egypt, the northern kingdom of Israel or the northern kingdom of Judah. They called Israelites in the heart of Africa (Promised Land and Samaria), the southern kingdom of Israel or the southern kingdom of Judah. Eventually, the two kingdoms of Israel (or Judah) began to feud with each other.

Then, the northern kingdom requested the help of the Assyrian Empire, (Syria, Armenia, Phoenician/Gaza Strip, Iraq) to attack the southern kingdom. The Samarian Israelites did not cross over the river Jordan. (Nile) They received their land, called Samaria, before entering the Promised Land. They escorted the rest of the Nation, into the Promised Land, before returning to Samaria. After king Solomon, the Samarians became the rulers of the southern Israelite kingdom. The Assyrian Empire attacked them on behalf of the northern kingdom, the tribe of Judah. In the days of Isaiah, the Samarian Israelites were conquered and relocated as slaves to Assyria (Syria). Then, many of the Assyrians relocated to Samaria. Their relocation placed Middle Easterners between the Promised Land Israelites and the tribe of Judah in Egypt. This is the beginning of Middle Easterners gradually occupying our lands.

In the days of Jeremiah, the tribe of Judah was conquered. They were relocated, as slaves, to Babylon (Iraq) by the Babylonian Empire (Iraq, Phoenician/Gaza Strip, Saudi Arabia, Syria). Jews were Middle Eastern strangers, living amongst the tribe of Judah in Egypt. Babylonians allowed Jews to remain in Egypt. Jews were Middle Easterners, and are not the tribe of Judah. They replaced the tribe of Judah. Jews did not evolve from any tribe of the Israelites. They simply took charge of the faith, and corrupted it. About 600BC, the Jewish religion of Judaism took root and prospered. As a result, the "true" Israelites lost their voice in the world. Many Babylonians relocated to Egypt, and created more confusion by intermixing with Jews. Different people of different origins and nationalities converted to be Jews. Race was not an issue until the current era, after the death of Jesus Christ. Europeans introduced race, and established the brutal institution of chattel slavery. Unfortunately, half of our land and country now belonged to Middle Eastern nations. Nevertheless, the Promised Land Israelites, over Jordan, (Nile) remained undisturbed in the heart of our country. (The Congo) They tended to themselves, and were ignored by the Middle Eastern nations. They originally lost communication with the world during the days of king Solomon. King Solomon was the first to ignore them.
Later, Babylon (Iraq) was conquered by Media and Persia (Iran). Then, the tribe of Judah became slaves in the Persian Empire. Middle Eastern slavery was basically a form of assimilation. The conquering kingdom forced orientation into their culture, without threat of rebellions. In other words, Middle Eastern slavery was a system used to absorb or adapt other nations to their way of life. By now, the Israelites of Judah were considered and taught to be Jews also. Daniel, of the lion's den, recognized the confusion of face between Israelites and Jews. As an Israelite, Daniel understood the book of Jeremiah. All of the Old Testament prophets were Israelites. Many of their prophecies were two parts; one part for Israel and one part for Jews. Black men wrote the documents of the Old Testament, called the Jewish Bible or Torah. Then, God silenced our prophets, as slavery stripped us of our identity. Our documents were stolen, manipulated, and hidden. As a result, Black men have been ignored and persecuted for speaking against the establishments of the world. Eventually, Cyrus the Great of Persia (Iran) released the Israelites of Judah, to return to their own land. The honorable king Cyrus was considered to be one of the greatest kings, with an understanding heart. The Persians compassionately referred to him as the conquering lion. Unfortunately, Middle Eastern strangers ruled Egypt, and had overtaken the land. Furthermore, Middle Easterners intermixed with their slaves, diluting the gene pool of these Israelites. Ironically, the Black Jews of Ethiopia were not accepted as Jews until after the year 2000.

Finally, Alexander the Great, and the Macedonian Greek Empire (Macedonia, Armenia, Greece, Rome, Turkey) conquered Egypt and the Middle East. Alexander was considered to be the great conquering warrior king. He was brilliant, fearless, hot-tempered, strong, and well organized. He also hated unjust rulers. Alexander had a genuine interest in other nations, and was determined to integrate all people, customs, and traditions. Greeks, Romans, and the Middle East have closely related customs, because he combined the best ideas of all developed nations. By 146 BC, The Roman Empire (Rome, France, Germany, Spain) gained control of what remained of Alexander's Empire. The Roman Empire gained Armenia, Egypt, Greece, Phoenician/Gaza Strip, Syria, and Turkey. This newly acquired land became the Eastern Empire. It was a melting pot for Germans, Greeks, Jews, and Egyptians. The original four divisions became the West Empire. The Roman Empire had grown to become four new divisions: the East Empire, the West Empire, Britain/England, and Egypt. Persians recovered the remainder of Alexander's kingdom, which was the rest of the Middle East. In 27 BC, Octavius became Caesar Augustus and the first emperor of the Roman Empire. Augustus was the adopted son of his uncle, Julius Caesar.

The beginning of the current era is highlighted with the birth of Jesus Christ. The Jews were readers of the Law, so they denied Jesus. According to God's Law, anyone speaking blasphemy or working flatteries would be put to death. Jesus, a Jew, spoke in the name of God, but he was not like Moses. God did not send Jesus to His son, Israel. Obviously, the false prophet was speaking to the wrong nation, and they went their separate ways. God does not make mistakes, and Jesus was not held guiltless. The Romans hung Jesus on the cross at the request of the Jews. Furthermore, Rome destroyed Jerusalem and the second temple in 70AD. The cult of Christ, which was less than a hundred members, began to grow after the death of Jesus. Gentile nations began modifying their belief systems. They combined Hebrew and Jewish doctrine with their own beliefs. The "Cat" holistic belief became Catholicism. The cult of Christ evolved into the religion of Christianity. Jesus had toured on Gentile ships, and they promoted him to godlike status after his death. The Roman (Catholic) Empire ordered the persecution of Christians in 249 AD. Roman Emperor Constantine granted religious tolerance to Christians in 313 AD. Constantine moved the Empire capitol in the west, east to Byzantium by 330AD. In 395AD, the East (Christianity) and West (Catholicism) Empires cut their ties. The East Empire became the Byzantine Empire. (Egypt, Macedonia/Greece, Phoenician/Gaza Strip, Syria) The spirit of Christ and his followers reigned for a thousand years. (Approximately 100 AD-1100AD)
In the 500s AD, Germany established rule over the West Roman Empire. The Christian nation of Britain/England completely broke ties with Rome. Then, a rising Arab Islamic force conquered the entire Byzantine (East) Empire by the 700's AD. The Roman Empire was consolidated to Europe only. Christians and Muslims fought a major battle in the early 730's AD. Christians won and Catholicism continued to flourish in Western Europe. In the Middle Ages, (800AD ? 1200AD) the corruption of the saints began to blossom and became evident. For example, Popes had become very powerful. Positions and pardons from sin, called indulgences, were being purchased and sold. Simony, which is the buying and selling of sacred objects and offices, was also a problem. Discrimination and abuse of power became rampant. In 1000AD, Christians began a crusade that failed to recapture the holy lands (part of Egypt) from the Arabs of the Middle East. The holy lands are also called the Egyptian tongue of the Red Sea. Eastern (Christians, Muslims) and Western (Catholicism) Europe suffered a religious split. A new way of thinking, called scholasticism, began in Europe in the 1100s AD. Scholasticism is the use of reason and philosophy to understand religion. Europeans started to study scientifically, and began exploring new lands. There were many rebellions against the dominating Catholic Church. The Gentile nations began reading for themselves, instead of listening to Popes, emperors, monarchs, and other nobles. They began to empower themselves and form new religions. This led to the Renaissance (1300) and Reformation (1500) periods. The Catholic Church and Christianity split into many different beliefs. Eventually, the spirit of Christ fully unleashed Satan and his people. Satan went after the Children of Israel in full force, in the name of Jesus Christ.
By the 1300's, Blacks that were former Middle Eastern slaves began to become slaves in Europe. By the 1400's, European nations (Britain/England, Dutch, France, Portugal/Spain) began to explore the territories of our land. (Africa) Europeans introduced themselves to our people, as friends spreading the gospel and converting the world. They also began to colonize the New World, called the Americas. Our People joined Europeans, in a partnership and building contract that went badly. In the mid 1400's, The Europeans reneged, and introduced us to bombs, guns, and soldiers with body armor. The Atlantic Slave Trade had begun. The Promised Land Israelites, which are the third part and heart of Israel, were conquered. European nations removed over ten million of our people into slavery. Only about five hundred thousand slaves, mostly young men and boys, were brought to North America. (USA) King James of Scotland and England acquired the throne of Bloody Mary, who was his mother. King James and Jesus had a lot in common. He gathered the documents of Jesus' homeboys. Then he arranged them as the books of the gospel, and added them to the Jewish Bible. The new bible combined the Hebrew, Jewish, and Gentile bibles together. This book became the King James Version in 1611. Mistakenly, Our people were not considered to be Israelites at that time. God had hidden our identity. The European nations brutally enslaved our people, while reading the gospel of Jesus Christ to us. They established authority over the western and southern parts of our land. Middle Easterners maintained their control of the eastern part of our land. The Gentile nations renamed our country Africa, but until about a hundred years ago, (approx. 1900) it was called the Dark Continent. The Europeans referred to most of us as Ethiopians, although most of us were not from Ethiopia. Ethiopia (Sheba kingdom) is the only historical black settlement in existence. It is located in eastern Africa. Promised Land Israelites were plucked out of our land, and scattered throughout the world by foolish European nations. Gentile nations, which we did not understand, shipped us to lands that were not familiar to us. The art of cooking outside, over an open flame (Barbecues) spread to new parts of the world. Intermixing created many nations of color. (Central, South America, and many island nations to name a few) Eventually, Britain and the United States of America established dominating control over our people and land. The United States became a superpower.

Israelites have always been blessed and talented people. We adapt quickly, and can arrange and build anything. We are the greatest builders in the world. The sophistication and skill of the Egyptian pyramids continue to amaze the nations. The Israelite temple that king Solomon oversaw, was the most magnificent of its time. King Solomon partnered with king Hiram of Tyre, (Phoenician Philistine/ Gaza Strip) who was a metalworker and friend of king David. King Solomon traded goods and labor for labor and materials. Eventually, Hiram acquired our knowledge of architecture. Masons assassinated him for the highly protected information. Therefore, Stone and Freemasons (est.1646) acquired their basic knowledge from the Nation of Israel. Ironically, Black masons have not always been accepted by other nationalities of masons. More importantly, Man has the ability to build with the work of his hands. Masons are men of many beliefs, but as a society they serve the master builder or god of fortresses. God is the Master Creator. Israel is the stone that the builders refused, and will always be the head cornerstone. We have been a blessing to all nations, and literally built every kingdom of the world. We were enslaved in Egypt. Then, Middle Easterners, who were familiar to us, enslaved Israelites. Finally, the Europeans tragically enslaved us for 400 years. (1460s to 1860s) Israelites and Blacks have always been slaves, because we transgressed God and His Law. We cannot be God's People, and be like the nations of the world at the same time. Nobody can serve two masters. Therefore, strangers have devoured our land in our face. God has afflicted us as His Servants, to prove Him to the world. The Nation of Israel has been coming into the age of our understanding, since the days of Abraham. The nations have shown nothing but Hate, to the nation of Love. God is Love, and Love is our Salvation.

The nations of the world attempt to camouflage the desolations caused by their abominations. From President Lincoln (Feb. 12,1809) to Obama, Americans have been covering their tracks. North America was the last to end their brutal institution of slavery. Gradually, we have been accepted as "African" Americans by the American country of immigrants. They attempt to exalt and forgive themselves of their evils. Undeniably, Christians are not Israelites. Saints are not the Elect, and bitter is not sweet. Truthfully, honest Abe was forced into glory. The American Civil War (1861) was a power struggle, between the north and the south, over control. The institution of slavery empowered the confederate states of the south in many ways. The slaves wanted to be free from bondage, and would sacrifice their lives to achieve it. Emancipation (1863) persuaded slaves to fight for the north. Emancipation was only collateral damage. The north conquered the confederate states of the south. The union states of the north stripped the south of its power, which was slavery. The great emancipator ended slavery in the rebellious states only, not the entire country. Lincoln's goal was to preserve the power of the union and the unity of the states. He did not enter war to free the slaves. Fredrick Douglass persuaded Lincoln to use (free) the slaves in war. President Lincoln was assassinated for his vision of Black voting rights. Slaves were an untapped political force, because they were the majority in the south.

We have only been free in America for close to 150 years. Many of our parents and most grandparents suffered through segregation and Jim Crow laws. (1880) The Civil Rights movement began in the 1950's with desegregation of schools. It began to decline with the death of Martin Luther King, Jr. in 1968. The slavery experience is freshly preserved in stories, customs, and the reality of the Black nation. Our men and the Black family still struggle to rebound. All over the country, Blacks are located in concentrated black cities and towns. These Black areas or populations suffer the poorest conditions, from region to region and state to state. We are reluctant to fully conform, because of the hatred we have experienced. We are a nation inside of a nation that we do not agree with.

Ironically, we have sought the approval of the nations, hoping to be respected and accepted. We are powerless with no voice. Furthermore, Gentiles have dictated and influenced, which of our leaders we should hear. Ironically, God did not send any of them anyway. America attempted to censor Marcus Garvey and the "spiritual" love songs of Bob Marley. They continue to demonize any other Black leader with knowledge of history and the world. They physically abused the "peaceful" Martin Luther King, Jr. and his supporters. Nevertheless, Christians chose Martin King over Malcolm X, and promoted his dream. History repeats itself, and it is disguised as change. Gentiles allow President B. in their White house, as a symbol of their assimilation of the slave children. They hope to keep Barrack ignorant of God's People, and out of the field. A Black man is in charge of a country, designed systematically against him and our people. The slavery experience is distant, foreign, and impersonal to Barrack Obama. The great orator is an empty suit, and a leader of strangers. He has become a puppet, controlled and manipulated by man. Gentiles call him the good one, but Obama cannot comfort or save them from their sins. God is in charge, and chooses His own man. God chose Abraham and his seed, because there is no lying in us. Honesty is costly in a world of sin, but God knew that we would be truthful. He put the fear of God in us at Mt. Sinai with His thunderous presence. God tried us, so that we would and could be true. Through tribulations, we have seen some things in our lives. We have had some long and sorrow roads. We have heard the nations, and witnessed the confusion of their different religions. God put His words in our hearts. God said, " I Am That I Am. The Nation of Israel has waited, because we know God is Love. God Is What He Is.

Many beliefs, including Christianity, have been persecuted. The persecution of Jews is important and unique, because they literally attempt to steal and claim the Israelite identity. The Holocaust claimed the lives of about six million Jews. The Holocaust is a form of persecution and mass murder. The Atlantic Slave Trade is the Holocaust on steroids. European/Gentile chattel slavery included dehumanizing bondage and affliction, on top of mass murder. The Atlantic Slave Trade claimed the lives of over ten million slaves. Gentiles abused us mentally, as well as physically. They destroyed our families, and took over our homes. Nevertheless, the nations honor Jews, and suggest that we get over it. Our past is so painful that until now, we have chosen to be ignorant. Satan has kept us busy, and running away from the pain has kept us blind. The Nation of Israel has not received their rest. Jews have never been plucked out of their land. They have never been slaves, and cannot explain these things. That is why God has not come back for them.
In 1948, Europeans and the United States of America (spiritual Babylon) established the Jewish state of "fake" Israel. Only sixty-one years ago, Jews from around the world were given a state. The United States provide the Jewish State with unshakeable support and millions of dollars a day. The Jewish land is rightfully the land of the historic Phoenician Philistines. (Palestinians of Gaza Strip) Europeans confiscated and gave the land to Jews. God never sent a prophet like Moses to Jews. God will only save and provide Truth for His Nation of Israel. God did not gather Jews or give them land. There is no Love there, and they lie without blinking. The biblical Israelites left Mt. Sinai and crossed over Jordan into the Promised Land. Nevertheless, if you look at a map, the nations have placed the Jewish state between "fake Mt. Sinai"(Egyptian tongue of the sea) and "fake Jordan". If these modern day locations were correct, they would change the whole route of the Exodus. Israel would have never crossed the river, because they would have entered the Jewish state before reaching Jordan. Christians and Jews have gradually conformed to each other's religions over the last sixty-one years. They need each other to validate their lies. They have no Truth to prove them or their gods. They live in the imagination of their own hearts. There is no Love between them, only hatred towards God disguised as peace. Every nation in the Bible continues to exist, to this day. Some of the names have changed, but the nations are still here. All of the nations have their histories to account for them, except for the Black nation. Our footprint on history has been stolen, manipulated, and hidden. Jews have never been a nation of people, and cannot prove anything. They claim our history, even though they do not understand it. Jews are people of a religion, like Christians and Muslims. Jews were originally Middle Easterners, but their Muslim brothers hate them. They tolerate each other, because all religions are caught up in Lies. There is only one God, and Jews attempt to steal the Israelite identity. Jews are the robbers of our people. They have no rock. The Messiah that they long for belongs to us. They wait for the return of our Rock. The Rock of the "true" Nation of Israel is the only Savior.

Christians and Gentiles are evil liars. They claim to be the Nation of Israel in spirit. They serve the god of a promiscuous woman. Therefore, many of their leaders practice abstinence. A woman (Mary) is their ruler, and her illegitimate child oppresses. They are weak men, and have traded places with women. They are children abused by hatred. Furthermore, king James was a flaming, flamboyant homosexual. This confused male arranged the most famous Christian Bible of our time. God established man and woman to be fruitful and multiply. The Law cannot be increased or decreased. Christians place more importance on the New Testament over the Law (Hebrew Bible). They honor images, man, and idols like crosses and rosary's. They seek and glorify the evil of death over Life on earth. Gentiles are backwards and have confused bad for good. They have turned things upside down. Their sins are before them, and they do not hide them. They cannot do right. They are built on a shaky foundation. Gentile nations teach that the Nation of Israel was evil, so God put them in charge. Nevertheless, they took control of a Jewish religion. They cleave and hold on to Jews, to maintain their lies. God said Israel would be a light to the Gentiles, and prove Him to the world. God does not lie.

Christians have confused and deceived many of God's Elect. They consider Black people to be descendants of Canaanites, but teach us to claim the Gentile heritage. According to Law, Japheth fathered Gentiles, Shem fathered Israelites, and Ham fathered Canaanites on a super continent. The super continent is also known as the AfroEuroAsian super continent or Pangea. Ham disrespected his father when he saw Noah's nakedness. Japheth and Shem respectfully covered their father Noah. Noah cursed Ham's offspring to be servants of servants, in respect to Japheth and Shem. In other words, Ham's lack of respect dishonored his vulnerable father. Therefore, Ham's offspring would also be disrespectful. For example, like father like son. Canaanites have no connection, and do not honor or serve God. Canaanites were Asiatic people, who dominated the land when Israel came out of Egypt. Today, Canaanites would worship servants like Buddha, Moses, Jesus, or Muhammad as men of enlightenment.

Muslims and the nations of Islam are hateful nations, claiming to be better than God's People of Israel. Like Christians, they serve the god of an unwed mother and her illegitimate son. They are angry insecure men, who belittle and emotionally abuse women. They are selfish, undisciplined children and trust in intimidation. God never gave Muslims a law, but they made a book for themselves called the Quran/Koran. They choose to hate and seek death over the Love of Life. Muhammad (570's AD) taught them to die in war, over staying home Loving their families. The nations of Islam refuse to Love, but label our nation as the worst of all believers. The Nation of Israel does not believe in lies. We have Faith in Truth.
The nations of Islam teach that the Nation of Israel was destroyed, except for the "lost" tribe of Dan. They believe the Israelite inheritance was cancelled, and given to the descendants of Ishmael. Ishmael is Abram's illegitimate son by Hagar. Hagar was the handmaiden of Abram's first wife, Sarai. Sarai was barren, and had not borne Abram a firstborn son. Sarai gave Hagar to Abram, so that Abram could have a son. After the birth of Ishmael, God changed Abram's name and established His covenant with Abraham. God blessed Sarai and changed her name to Sarah, honoring her unselfish Love for Abraham. (Abram) She was determined to give Abraham (Abram) a son out of Love. God promised Sarah (Sarai) that she would have a son with Abraham. God said that kings would come from their seed. Sarah gave birth to Isaac, who received Abraham's inheritance. Isaac is the legitimate firstborn son of Abraham's marriage to his wife. Isaac and Rebekah gave birth to Jacob. God changed Jacob's name to Israel, and blessed him with the inheritance of Abraham and Isaac.

The nations of the world hate Love and the Nation of Israel. God is Love, and Love is Life. Therefore they hate Life, and their reward comes in death. They have made a covenant with death, which is being annulled. They cannot hide Truth any longer. They are nations without wisdom. There is no understanding in them. They are full of themselves, but piss poor morally. They are like Sodom and Gomorrah. The nations follow their own spirits that are within them. They listen and understand with their minds, and their hearts and souls blindly follow. The nations of the world are wise-hearted. They have spent their very existence, attempting to perfect evil. They carry out plans, but they are not of God. Their works are works of iniquity, and deeds of violence are in their hands. Their feet run to evil, and they rush to shed innocent blood. Their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity. Desolation and destruction are in their highways. They do not know the direction of Love, and there is no Justice in their paths. Their roads are crooked, and no one who walks in them knows Love. They have turned things upside down, as if God did not make us. Their songs are full of glory, but the history of the world is a different story. The nations are the spoilers of our people. They add sin to sin. They speak smoothly, and boldly prophesy deceit. They destroy, but have not been destroyed. They have dealt treacherously, but have not been dealt with treacherously. Their rocks are not like our Rock. They have no savior.

Before the nations knew of Almighty God, they served many gods and idols. Some idols were statues, figures, and animals like cats, dogs, goats, and rams. They had gods of the harvest, moon, sea, and stars. The Middle Eastern nations also served gods of divination and enchantments. The European nations worshiped deities of gods and goddesses. They had deities of myths and legends, gods of war, goddesses of fertility and well-being. Many of the nations, went so far as to serve humans that walked the earth as gods. Many pharaohs, kings, their sons, and various leaders were considered living gods; even more so after their deaths. Satan has always been bold, but word of God's salvation of the Israelites in Egypt demanded attention. Gradually, the fame of God and His power increased. There was none like Him. God's presence demanded respect. The Jews are the first example, of how the world desired the God of Israel. Satan could not just claim to be a god anymore, and he adapted. Now Satan needed to be just like God. Satan needed his own people, and a man of flesh to speak on his behalf. Satan knew God would send a second Prophet to the Nation of Israel. First, Satan influenced man to pursue contact with the spirit. He used Jews and the words of our men, to create a Jewish Bible. The Nation of Israel was instructed not to add to, or take away one word of the Law. (Hebrew Bible given through Moses) Satan used the Jews, and our stolen documents to arrange the books of the Old Testament. (The Jewish Bible) The Old Testament prophets are men of the Nation of Israel. They only spoke of Truth, to Israel and the Jews. The Jews did not accept Jesus, a fellow Jewish man. Satan left the Jews hanging.
Then, Satan used Jesus and the spirit of Christ, as a door, to attack the nations and people individually. Jesus took on the identity of God's Prophet, the Faithful Servant Israel. Nevertheless, Jesus is nothing like Moses. Moses was the son of a man, and both of his parents were Israelites. God sent Moses to Egypt for His son, Israel. According to the Law, a bastard could not enter the congregation of the Lord. Jesus is the illegitimate son of Mary, who was a Jew. Joseph was an Israelite, but did not impregnate Mary. No man claimed Jesus, and he is also a Jew. He was not born a son of an Israelite man. Jesus Christ was an evil magical wizard to Jews. Jews denied Jesus and his new flatteries, but Romans ruled the land. Gentiles enjoyed the political tour/traveling show. They had never known or heard of God. Gentiles see nothing wrong with serving a fleshly man, and sharing his power. Regardless of if they killed him, and he is not coming back. The life and death of Jesus Christ gave them hope. They saw power and world influence in the spiritual "you can do it too" messages. They became the holy religious leaders of the world. Jesus was a door for the multitude to pass judgment, empower man, and seek death. Jesus Christ came for the Jews, but God forsook Jesus. Christ became the savior of the Gentiles. God does not change. Gentiles are a nation without understanding, and there is no understanding in them. What does it profit a man to gain the world, but lose his living soul? A living soul is a body and spirit. God confirms the words of the contrite man, with a circumcised heart.

The rebellious, contentious spirit became Christ, and Jesus died and lost his soul. Satan sacrificed his son, Jesus Christ, to reincarnate himself as the comforter or holy spirit. Satan is the beast that wounded himself, but continued to live. His teachings are written in blood. The spirit cannot lie, but man can manipulate words. Satan is the Christ and the holy spirit. Satan is the Trinity. God's thoughts are higher than our thoughts. His ways are higher than our ways. A savior does not live and die, before the enemy shows up. Furthermore, Jesus paved the way for many false prophets to be justified by their nations. The Nations of Islam claim that Muhammad is the one like Moses. Truthfully, Muhammad is more like the Old Testament prophets. Muslims ignore the fact that He used some of the same methods to contact his spirit. God of Israel does not lie or make mistakes. Muhammad was born in the 570's AD. Islam was founded in the early 600's AD, after Judaism and Christianity. The new religion spread throughout the Middle East and Africa, including Egypt and the holy land. Islam is one of the last religions, but not the first way of Life.
The sons of the rebellious, contentious spirit were used to appease and quiet the nations. Satan is not concern with how the people label him, as long as he is accepted. The greatest enemy will hide in the last place you will ever look. Satan's best accomplishment is making the nations believe he is a friend. The more sophisticated the battle, the more sophisticated the opponent. Armageddon is a fight between Love and Hate. Satan has worked iniquity in many wise hearted men, but there is no substitute for Love. "Must Be Nice" Satan and his nations have shown us Hate, but we know Love. The fear of Him dwells inside the Nation of Israel. Only our Nation has experienced Love and His glorious power. God's plan is perfect, for all His ways are judgments. Hold on, for Life.

God sent His son, Israel, into the world to prove Him. Israel died in transgression, but we will be reborn to Live as a Nation. The Nation of Israel will prove God's words to be true. Therefore, proving that God is real. (God Israel) We will reclaim our inheritance and our land. God is Love. Love reveals Himself and heals us. God will rebuke the world, and Love will engulf it. The spirit shall fail before God, and the living souls that He has made. God will give us a new heart, and we will obey God and Love joyously. The Kingdom of God will return to earth. God has preserved our Nation with His words. God Israel (Is Real) has surnamed His People. God spoke His words through us first, and He will speak through us last. God's face is still hidden from Israelites and the world. Yet, Love does not hate us; but it will not get any better, until we are together. The Nation of Israel is not the victim. God tells us how it all went wrong, and what we need to do. So far, the victims have done all the work. The winners have all the answers. God kept us out of the way of Satan and his people, so they could enslave and lynch themselves.

Seek and read from the Book that God provided for us. Every word is true and goes forth, because the mouth of God spoke it. Everything hidden will be revealed. Secret things belong to God. Things revealed, belong to us and our children. The Law (First five books of Moses, the Hebrew Bible) is our wisdom and understanding amongst the nations.

Vengeance and recompense belong to God. Justice is His. The footing and foundations of the nations are slipping, because the day of their calamity is at hand. Their doom comes swiftly. God is a swift witness to His Servants. Before we call, He answers. God vindicates His People, and has compassion on His Servants. For His Name's sake, God defers His anger. For His praise, God restrains Himself for His Nation; and will not cut us off. For His sake, God has tested and refined His Nation in the furnace of adversity. He will not give His glory to another. God's hand laid the foundation of the earth. His right hand spread out the heavens. When God summons them, they stand at attention. Assemble everyone, and hear! Who among them has declared these things? Before today, these things have never been heard. It cannot be said, "I already knew them". God has not been heard, and His words were not known. The ears have not been open, and the eyes have been blind. The mouths came close to Him, but the hearts were far from Him. Where are their gods, the rocks in which they take refuge? Let them rise up and help the evil nations. Let them protect the nations. See now, that God is the One. There is no god other than He. God wounds, and He heals; and no one can deliver from God's hand. God has wet His Sword, and taken hold of Judgment. God repays those who hate Him to their face.

God has humbled Israelites with tribulations. God is in our hearts. Love is in our hearts. Follow your heart, and choose God. Choose Life over Death. Choose Good over Evil. God is the only One good. God is Love. He judges the heart; not the rebellious, contentious spirit within. A spirit He cast out of Heaven and confined to earth; using perfect bodies from the dust of earth. The fleshly living soul is a regulator. We regulate the spirit; which attempts to steal God's power, glory, and property. God created the smith that blows the coals. Increasing the heat, to produce a weapon fit to destroy. God has also created the destroyer, and no other weapon formed against us shall prosper. Be strong. Be of good courage. Strengthen the weak. We are the work of God. The strangers that are joined to the Lord will not be separated from God's People. The Lord God who gathers the outcast of Israel says; He will gather others to them, besides those already gathered. This is the Love of Truth.

Who will contend with me? Let us stand together. Israelites set forth your case, and bring forth proof. Let the nations tell us what happened. See if they can tell you the former things, or declare things to come. Let them prove their gods. Their works amount to nothing. God declares things from beginning to end, so that we may know beforehand. God counsels and sends His messenger, which He takes delight in. God wants us to prove that He is Faithful, True, and Real. Justice belongs to Him, and He has provided Truth. We are the only Nation that God will accept. God is the Lord, who has called us in righteousness. He made us a covenant and light to the nations. God will not give His glory to another. The former things have passed, and God has declared new things. Before they spring forth, God tells us of them. God has held His peace for a long time. Now He will cry out like a woman in labor, a travailing woman. God goes forth like a soldier, like a warrior He stirs up His fury. He cries out, and shouts loudly. God shows Himself to be mighty against His foes. God will lead the blind by a highway that was not known. God will make crooked things straight, and the high things will be brought down low. He will not forsake His People, and will no longer be angry. God will free His sons that are trapped in prisons. God is the One, who blots out our transgression for His sake. God's name will not be profaned. God has called us by name, Israel. We are His, and He is our Savior. We are precious in His sight, the apple of His eye. God Loves the Nation of Israel. Do not fear. God is with us. Let the nations bring forth their witnesses, or let them say that we are True. We are God's witnesses. We are His Elect. We are His Servants whom He chose, so the Nation of Israel can understand Truth, and know that God is Real. There was no god before Him, and there will be none after Him. God is He. He Is, What He Is. God has declared, saved, and proclaimed it; when there was no strange god among us. Nation of Israel, we are God's witnesses. He is God. God works, and who can stop it. God's new thing is springing forth. Do you not perceive it? God is the First, and He is the Last. Who is like Him, let them proclaim it. Let them set it before us. There is no other Rock. I know not one. God does not speak in secret. His words or public, and have always been here. God hid us away, and said; "You are My Servant, Israel."

LOVE, IT IS WHAT IT IS

What you are is God's Love for you. What you do with yourself is your Love for God

---By A Faithful Servant with Love.

Yahoo 360 URL - http://360.yahoo.com/iimtbiwb http://www.myspace.com/ThisisFaithfulTruth http://groups. yahoo.com/ group/NationofIs rael_TheFirstFam ilyofLove
| 28889|2009-05-18 10:08:26|Shu Tefnut|LECTURE DATE CHANGED: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTUR|
HOTEP/ GREETINGS

BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:

AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE, PART II

when: June 4, 2009
where: The Mackey Group.
103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
in the basement,
Brooklyn, New York
time: 8pm. sharp
direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.

THIS WILL BE A POWERPOINT PRESENTATION.

LECTURE CONTENT:

1.Developmentof Paleolithiccultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will reviewOdawan,
Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.

2. Pre-dynasticperiods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to givea chronological perspectiveof the art

and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.

3.Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
The foundation of art and architecture thatreached its zenith in Egypt.As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture of theNubianswho in fact established the canons of art and architecture, andset the standards for world art history.

| 28890|2009-05-18 10:15:34|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: where's king solomon?|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, rehal orville wrote:
>

Although no solid evidence exists of David, Solomon or the kingdom of Judah, there is widely-accepted evidence of the northern kingdom of Ephraim (King Omri of Samaria).

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28891|2009-05-18 10:46:38|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|
I & II Kings: a commentary - Google Books Result
click above

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, Paul Kekai Manansala wrote:
>
> From: Paul Kekai Manansala
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:15 PM
>
> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, rehal orville wrote:
> >
>
> Although no solid evidence exists of David, Solomon or the kingdom of Judah, there is widely-accepted evidence of the northern kingdom of Ephraim (King Omri of Samaria).
>
> Regards,

Paul Kekai Manansala

| 28892|2009-05-18 12:30:13|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|Re: where's king solomon?|
check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
---
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate.kickapps.com/service/displayDiscussionThreads.kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en-Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable).

in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai,.....
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai's return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses=moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera)where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient w
However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarc and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on t Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain the
for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient w
mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Bib scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of D and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28893|2009-05-18 12:35:01|cristofori whitakara|Re: nefertiti|
looks like a head massage ritual was performed on her.

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Paul Kekai Manansala wrote:

From: Paul Kekai Manansala
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: nefertiti
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 12:31 PM

For obvious reasons, we rarely see this and other legitimate portrayals of Nefertiti.

Regards,
Paul

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Ferg" wrote:
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ferg
> To: ferg@...
> Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 3:09 PM
> Subject: Emailing: E.GA.2303.1943(3)
>
>
> Queen Nefertiti, see attachment
>
> Somo
>

| 28894|2009-05-18 16:19:15|Michael Bayman|Amexem-Moor-Empire: Constitutional-Monarch Specifies That We Don't D|
From: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency: Staff
Unto: All-Moors (Declared/Undeclared)/Original-men and women:
on-this-planet

Re: Latest-video from the Amexem-Moor-Empire:
Imperial-Government
I.S.L.A.M.:
On the behalf of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Constitutional-Monarch, His-Imperial-Majesty: Emperor: An-Anu-El: Bey and the-entire: Amexem-Moor-Empire: National-Collective , peace, good-health, and much-prosperity: be-upon-you.
For the record, please-find-below a link for the latest-video from the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency by the order from the Operations-Director : Distinguished-Noble: Seti-Hotep: Bey under the authority of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Minister For The Communications,
His-Excellency: Grand-Noble: Dan-El
For the record, we-request-that-you: share the link with brothers and sisters, in-your-cipher/circle, if-you-appreciate the information therein the video.
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=FqLl75bUE3U

>Of the dispatching by the Amexem-Moor-Empire:
Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency: Staff

| 28895|2009-05-18 16:19:21|Shu Tefnut|Re: What Would Malcolm Say About Barack Obama?|
WHAT WOULD MALCOLM SAY ABOUT BARACK OBAMA?
He would say that the half-baked Chicken has come home to roost on the dumb-ass 14th Amendment "Colored BLACK Negro" U.S.SLAVE citizens.
He might also say that you "BLACK Kool-Aid Drinking" Negros have been bamboozled, hoodwinked, run amuck, led astray, etc.

--- OnSat, 5/16/09, Brotha Pruittwrote:

> From: Brotha Pruitt
> Subject: Re: [ChatAfriK] What Would Malcolm Say About Barack Obama?
> To: Luv4Self_Network@..., unite_and_resist_camapign@yahoogroups.com, ChatAfriK@yahoogroups.com
> Cc: ourworldview@yahoogroups.com, happilynaturalday@yahoogroups.com, ChatAfriK@yahoogroups.com, AfroCentricWorld@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 5:18 PM
>
> Greetings,
> I know Malcolm would tell Barack he should beas charitable toAfrican-Americans Reparationsas he is toJews and Israel.
>
> Brotha Pruitt

Reparations Leader and Chairman
Committee for African-American Reparations (CAAR) CA
Reparations Union Lobbying Association (RULA) NC
www.divineblacktrut h.org

--- OnThu, 5/14/09, jrswriter@comcast. netwrote:

From: jrswriter@comcast. net
Subject: [ChatAfriK] What Would Malcolm Say About Barack Obama?
To: Luv4Self_Network@ yahoogroup. com, unite_and_resist_ camapign@ yahoogroups. com
Cc: ourworldview@ yahoogroups. com, happilynaturalday@ yahoogroups. com, ChatAfriK@yahoogrou ps.com, AfroCentricWorld@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Thursday, May 14, 2009, 7:31 AM

From the Ramparts
Junious Ricardo Stanton
What Would Malcolm Say About Obama?

*â€œYou're not supposed to be so blind with patriotism that you can't face reality. Wrong is wrong, no matter who says it.â€*Malcolm X

Once Malcolm Little, a.k.a. â€œDetroit Redâ€, â€œRedâ€ and Satan joined the Nation of Islam and became Malcolm X, he experienced an ongoing personal transformation and growth that continued until his murder. During his sojourn within the NIO Malcolmâ€™s hard work, charisma and skills enabled him to rise within the organization to become their national spokesman. Malcolmâ€™s keen insight into both human nature, history and socio-political dynamics enabled him to speak truth to power, terrify slave minded Negroes, vex and confound Europeans of all stripes and persuasions while igniting the flame of Black consciousness that still flickers today.

Malcolmâ€™s publicly stated intention and plan to take the United States before the World Court and charge the US government with genocide and human rights violations made him persona non grata to most white people. To neutralize Malcolmâ€™s plan, the US government along with other state and local intelligence and â€œlaw enforcementâ€ agencies cunningly exploited a feud and split between his new organizations the Organization of Afro-American Unity and Muslim Mosques Inc. and the Nation of Islam. They adroitly used this public break up as the backdrop and cover for his assassination.

Malcolm wasnâ€™t the only black man to threaten to expose US hypocrisy, human rights violations and war crimes against its own citizens as well as the world. A generation before Malcolm X, Paul Robeson also was in the process of exposing US governmental criminality. The US government went after him too, using tactics they would subsequently incorporate intoCOINTELPROten to twenty years later.COINTELPROwas a vicious counter insurgency program initiated by the US government to stifle dissent, squash the truth suffocate the rise of Black Power.COINTELPROand whatever its predecessors were code named, was used to not only get rid of Malcolm but also Martin Luther King Jr. and a host of other black leaders and spokespersons over the years. Many like myself believeCOINTELPROis still active and ongoing today.

Malcolm took Robesonâ€™s plan to another level. During trips abroad he actively recruited African and Asian leaders to support his intention to bring the US government before the World Court. He attempted to forge empathy and cooperation between the former colonies of Europe and Blacks in North America. When the US government got wind of this, they determined Malcolm had to go! In fact they tried to poison him while he was in Africa. With Robeson the US government initiated a program to discredit him. They took away his passport and prevented him from earning a living as a singer, actor and activist. From the governmentâ€™s perspective men like Paul Robeson and Malcolm X were deemed serious threats to their propaganda and bogus image of the US as a bastion of freedom and democracy.

To facilitate his demise the government helped hype an atmosphere of antagonism towards Malcolm which led to his murder. The Black men who pulled the triggers thinking they were getting rid of Elijah Muhammadâ€™s rival unwittingly did the bidding of their oppressor, â€œ the blue eyed devil.â€ There is a major lesson in that for us also. We should not allow our philosophical and personal differences to get so overblown we lose sight on who our enemy really is.

As we pause to acknowledge his natal day and honor the legacy of Malcolm Little, a.k.a. Detroit Red, a.k.a Malcolm X a.k.a. El Hajj Malik El Shabazz, a.k.a Omowale (â€œthe son who has come homeâ€, the name he was given when he visited Nigeria) I wonder what he would say about Barack Obama and the US system today? While he was alive, Malcolm railed against the Democratic Party because it was controlled by sheet wearing racists from the South. He chided Negroes for putting so much faith in the Democratic Party. Malcolm exhorted Black folks to not continuously fall for the okey-doke of white liberals and the government. â€œToday our people can see that we are faced with a government conspiracy. This government has failed us. The senators that are filibustering against you and my rights, thatâ€™s the government. Donâ€™t say its Southern Senators, this is the government; this is a government filibuster, itâ€™s not a Southern filibuster. Any kind of activity that takes place on the floor of the Congress or the Senate, thatâ€™s the government. Any kind of dilly-dallying, thatâ€™s the government . Any kind of pussy footing, thatâ€™s the government. Any kind of act that is designed to deprive you and me of getting full rights, thatâ€™s the government thatâ€™s responsible. Any time you find a government involved in a conspiracy to violate the citizenship or the civil rights of a people then you are wasting your time going to that government expecting redress. Instead you have to take that government to the world Court and accuse it of genocide and all the other crimes that it is guilty of today.â€

Malcolmâ€™s keen insight into global politics would make things extremely uncomfortable for Barack Obama. Malcolm would be the first to discern Obama is > pursuing the same imperialist policies of George W Bu$h in Afghanistan and Iraq. Malcolm railed against the US involvement in Vietnam long before such dissent was popular. What would Malcolm say about Obamaâ€™s buck dancing and shamming about staying in Iraq? What would Malcolm say about Obama not investigating and prosecuting Bu$h, Cheney, Rice, Powell et al as war criminals?

>
> What would Malcolm say about Obamaâ€™s shuffling to Wall Streetâ€™s tune and his bailing out the banks while ignoring the plight of Main Streetâ€™s poor folks? What would Malcolm say about Obamaâ€™s failure to address a â€œblack agendaâ€ while kissing up to every other ethnic group? I suspect Malcolm wouldnâ€™t have too much positive to say about Obama. He would look at Obamaâ€™s actions: all the campaign money he took from corporations and wall Street banks, his failure to end the wars and bring the troops home and especially his dismal record of helping poor and working class folks during the economic downturn that was caused by the same banks Obama is helping. Based upon his past and his integrity, I canâ€™s see Malcolm X giving Obama a pass or a passing grade as president.

| 28896|2009-05-18 16:19:24|Shu Tefnut|Fw: [BNYEE]-- LECTURE DATE CHANGED: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART|

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: Shu Tefnut
To: afrikanunity_ofharlem@yahoo.com; HERU BENNU AMEN RA ; Eugene Bennett ; bnyee@googlegroups.com; dr.garaia@africanidea.org; friends@templehealing.com; GatherTheFires@yahoogroups.com; happilynaturalday@yahoogroups.com; hndsupport@gmail.com; luv4self_network@yahoogroups.com; mwananchi@yahoogroups.com; NABSE@yahoogroups.com; nnabakyaala.afrika@gmail.com; openyourthirdeye@yahoo.com; smaitawi@yahoogroups.com; Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com; thanubian2@yahoo.com; trueblackness@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Monday, May 18, 2009 12:35:02 PM
Subject: [BNYEE]-- LECTURE DATE CHANGED: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE, PART II

HOTEP/ GREETINGS

BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:

AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE, PART II

when: June 4th, 2009
where: The Mackey Group.
103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
in the basement,
Brooklyn, New York
time: 8pm. sharp

direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.

THIS WILL BE A POWERPOINT PRESENTATION.

LECTURE CONTENT:

1.Developmentof Paleolithiccultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will reviewOdawan,
Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.

2. Pre-dynasticperiods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to givea chronological perspectiveof the art and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.

3.Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
The foundation of art and architecture thatreached its zenith in Egypt.As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture of theNubianswho in fact established the canons of art and architecture, andset the standards for world art history.

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28897|2009-05-18 16:19:30|keon garraway|Re: where's king solomon?|
David and Solomon existed. The Herodian Temple was built on the same site as the previous temples of which the first temple was built by Solomon.The Hebrews painstakingly counted the genealogy of their kings. The fact that the temple stands even in its ruinous state points to the validity of the Kings of Judah.
Keon Garraway

From: "tafari_sudra@yahoo.com"
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Monday, May 18, 2009 3:29:08 PM

Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
---
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate.kickapps.com/service/displayDiscussionThreads.kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en-Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable).

in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai,.....
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai's return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses=moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera)where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiousl missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolo the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monar and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of Davic Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain th
for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient w
mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Bi scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of I > and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka yahoo.com> wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
> king solomon
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28898|2009-05-18 16:20:04|Jabari Osaze|Re: nefertiti|
Brothers and Sisters:

Here's the post I wroteon the issue. For more, visit , my blog - http://blog.centerformmat.com

Shem em Hetep,
Jabari
Heru DjedenMa'at Aten-Ra

Prior to this week you probably hadn't heard that questions around the authenticity of the famed bust of Nefertiti have persisted for the 76 years since its first display. Usually all discussions concerning the work have simply described it as a beautiful work with "aquiline" features. The bust has even remained a favorite of individuals attempting to squelch the mounting evidence of the African heritage of the Ancient Khamites.

The questionable origin of the bust has been thrust center stage once more with the release of a new book by Swiss art historian, Henry Stierlin. The book claims that the bust was commissioned by German archaeologist Ludwig Borchardt and crafted by an artist named Gerardt Marks at an excavation site to test ancient pigments and to depict her with a necklace which had been previously discovered. Apparently the bust was admired as an original by a visiting German prince and Borchardt did not want to insult him. This version of the events surrounding the busts origin would explain why neither Borchardt nor the accompanying French archeologists mentioned the find or even provided notes on the dighighly unusual for an intact find of this quality. Instead of immediately announcing it as would have been expected, Borchardt proceeded to leave the bust in the sitting room of his sponsor for 10 years. No scientific report appears on the work until 11 years after the supposed find.

Stierlin also describes other supporting data. The statue seems to have been created without proper prevision for a left eyewhich would have been a great insult to the spiritual sensibilities of the Ancient Khamites. Additionally, the bust's shoulders were cut vertically instead of horizontally as would have been normal for the period. The vertical cut seems reminiscent of the 19th century Art Nouveau style.

Stierlin even responds to the recent radio carbon dating which found that the pigment was over 3,000 years old. He argues the pigment is actually ancient; however the plaster and limestone cannot be dated using this method. If the bust is a forgery, it would help explain why all indisputable ancient depictions of Nefertiti, the wife of Akhenaten seem to portray her with "African" features. While I truly believe that facial reconstruction is an art rather than a science, this new book also brings the recent virtual imagine composed by forensic scientists from Nefertitis mummy into focus (see video below post).

Stierlin's account instantly recalls the creation of a fossil forgery reported just 12 days after the "excavation" of the bust of Nefertiti. The Piltdown man was used to argue the rise of a separate, non-African, European homo sapien. The skull was crafted from a medieval human cranium, an orangutan, and a chimpanzee in order to spur European pride. Before being thoroughly revealed as a hoax, the skull was used to argue that the European was not an African descendant but had hewn itself form its own misty origin.

Must we continue to venture down this road? It is time for all of humanity to recognize the African beginnings of both our species and our civilization. Doing so does not disparage individuals of any ethnic or cultural background. It simply posits our shared beginnings. I believe this unifying theme will only reach its zenith as Africans reclaim our legacy as humanity's progenitors and usher in a new era of introspection, intuition, and collaboration. Are we ready for the challenge? Awaken Black man and women and accomplish what you will! Shem em Hetep!

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: boogie_down_black@yahoo.com
Date: Mon, 18 May 2009 12:34:56 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: nefertiti

looks like a head massage ritual was performed on her.

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Paul Kekai Manansala wrote:

From: Paul Kekai Manansala
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: nefertiti
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com

Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 12:31 PM

For obvious reasons, we rarely see this and other legitimate portrayals of Nefertiti.

Regards,
Paul

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Ferg" wrote:
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ferg
> To: ferg@...
> Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 3:09 PM
> Subject: Emailing: E.GA.2303.1943(3)
>
>
> Queen Nefertiti, see attachment
>
> Somo
>

Windows Live: Keep your life in sync. Check it out.
| 28899|2009-05-18 16:25:11|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: where's king solomon?|
--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, keon garraway wrote:
>
> David and Solomon existed. The Herodian Temple was built on the same site as the previous temples of which the first temple was built by Solomon.The Hebrews painstakingly counted the genealogy of their kings. The fact that the temple stands even in its ruinous state points to the validity of the Kings of Judah.
>

Keon, they have explored all around this area looking for Solomon's temple.

It's easy to walk around the Old City and see all the diggings, many of which are on-going. I've done it many times myself. It's not a large area but one of the most extensively excavated in the world.

There are many tunnels under the Old City. I happened to be one of the few taken down by the mother superior of a particular convent in the Christian part of the Old City.

There are caves, stalactites and an underground river underneath all those buildings! They have explored even underneath the present Dome of the Rock and other areas.

Yet they haven't found a trace of Solomon's Temple!

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala
| 28900|2009-05-18 17:12:21|Tafari khumbaka|97,000 books burned due to racism|
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=78ZQGqzf2ak
click above

Tamils,Toba's (Dysyas,Dravidians)are the people who built mohenjo-daro and harrapa before the aryan invasion.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28901|2009-05-18 19:25:58|Lamar Perryman|Re: where's king solomon?|

Greetings Professors and Scholars.
I really do not think that the Conflict and Confusion over Historical Israel, Egypt and Sumer as opposed to Mythical Israel will be resolved until The Hyksos Era of Ancient Egypt (The Middle Kingdom) is accurately investigated and reported with the emphasis being on Canaanite Culture as That is what Historical Israel truly is as a Socio-Ethnic Group and Nation.
MLP.,
MAFN, The Nationalists.
--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 7:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---

all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
----
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
---------- --------- -
the metaphysical bible dictionary
----
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.

of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
> king solomon
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28902|2009-05-19 02:36:03|kcamm23063@aol.com|Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"|
Culled from Egyptologists' Electronic Forum (EEF) list...

THE MANCHESTER MUSEUM,
UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER

 Call for Papers **

"Egypt in its African Context"

The Manchester Museum, University of Manchester

3-4 October 2009

The African elements of the ancient Egyptian culture, and indeed its physical location in Africa, have frequently been ignored, and there exists a level of prejudice against suggestions that Egyptian culture can be situated within an African cultural context. The contextualising of ancient Egypt culturally and geographically within Africa, the concept of ancient Egypt as part of Black History, and the discussion of how the material is perceived and interpreted in the West have only recently begun to receive attention, and the discussion is still regarded as peripheral and often irrelevant.

The aims of the conference are to:

* address perceptions of ancient Egypt in the West, in scholarly writing and public understanding;
* present the work of scholars working on African-centred Egyptology;
* present a scholarly approach to the subject of Egypt in Africa to counterbalance the extreme Afrocentric views within which such a debate is often contextualised;
* investigate how community groups and professional Egyptologists can transfer their knowledge and points of view.

Papers are requested that address the following themes:

* the African aspects of ancient Egyptian culture;
* historical and contemporary African perceptions of ancient Egypt;
* the contested nature of ancient Egypt;
* the biases inherent in presentation of Egypt in the West, and ways of addressing this - in museums, media and popular and scholarly publication.

Key speakers include Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, Senior Assistant Keeper, Department of Antiquities, The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge; Dr Abadayo Folorunso, Professor, Department of Archaeology and Anthropology, University of Ibadan, Ibadan, Nigeria; Dr Maulena Karenga, Professor, Department of Africana Studies, California State University, USA; Dr Shomarka Keita, Research affiliations with the National Human Genome Center, Howard University and the Department of Anthropology, Smithsonian Institution, USA; Dr. Jos頌ingna Nafaf鬠Lecturer, Department of Sociology, The University of Birmingham, UK; and Dr Kimani Nehusi, Senior Lecturer, Cass School of Education, University of East London, UK.

The conference is organised in association with The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge and with the support of The Petrie Museum of Egyptian Archaeology.

Abstracts of no more than 500 words, and full contact details, are to be emailed to the conference organiser, Karen Exell:

karen.exell@ manchester. ac.uk

Closing date: 31st July 2009

Dr Karen Exell
Curator, Egypt and the Sudan
The Manchester Museum
University of Manchester
Oxford Road
Manchester M13 9PL
www.manchester. ac.uk/museum
http://egyptmanches ter.wordpress. com/
Direct line: 0161 275 8772
Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
Karen C. Aboiralor

Recession-proof vacation ideas. Find free things to do in the U.S.

| 28903|2009-05-19 08:12:52|odhiambo okecth|Re: KCDN Peace Run/Walk|
Thanks for the compliments brother.

I hope this will fire many more to be in the service of humanity, as you would say.

Action speaks more louder. We have chosen to do something about our situation at KCDN; http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com

Together, we will move the wheels.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
CEO KCDN Nairobi.
Tel; 0735 529 126, 0724 365 557,

http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, orina Nyamwamu wrote:

From: orina Nyamwamu
Subject: Re: [NewVisionKenya] Re: [ProgressiveMinds] KCDN Peace Run/Walk
To: ProgressiveMinds@yahoogroups.com, NewVisionKenya@yahoogroups.com
Cc: "kol" , youngprofessionals_ke@googlegroups.com, NewVisionKenya@yahoogroups.com, "mwananchi" , mwanyagetinge@yahoogroups.com, "mulembe" , "panafricanist"
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:51 PM

Odhiambo,

God is using you to reach others,

Thanks for the great work you are doing.Sometimes when only a few people come to the KCDN activities; sometimes when I fail you; Do not be discouraged.

Because of the power of your example I see that Roza is encouraged, inspired to help others. May God bless you Odhis. And May Roza be strengthened in spirit to call on all the support, ideas and resources she may need to serve the needy. That is the only turly valuable thing that a human being can receive from God- the gift of serving others.The spirit of Love.

God's blessings to all of you who remain true to the decency of the human society and God's creation;

Cyprian Orina Nyamwamu

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

From: odhiambo okecth
Subject: [NewVisionKenya] Re: [ProgressiveMinds] KCDN Peace Run/Walk
To: ProgressiveMinds@ yahoogroups. com
Cc: "kol" , youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com, NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "mwananchi" , mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "mulembe" , "panafricanist"
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 7:40 AM

Hi Roza,

We have just talked.

Our motivation was that we were engaging in too much talk without action. We hence decided at KCDN that as we engage in topical issues, we also do something that can bring about the kind of change that we so much desire.

You have all our blessings and just like we have agreed, we will share our thought process and move the wheels.

It is only when we such engage will we slay the dreaded dragon of tribalism which is often dragged down our throats to enable thievery go on unabated in official circles.

We are often kept talking about corruption while the real thing goes on elsewhere; theft of public funds.

I would encourage more people to get engaged in such programmes to help alleviate the pain and suffering we have amongst our people. This is the only sure way of us spreading the gospel of Peace, National Healing and Reconciliation amongst Kenyans.

In the meantime, we welcome you to the 2nd Edition of the KCDN Peace Run/Walk on 13th June 2009.

Catch more about us here; http://kcdnkomarock swatch.blogspot. . com

Odhiambo T Oketch,
CEO KCDN Nairobi

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, Roza Kamau wrote:

From: Roza Kamau
Subject: Re: [ProgressiveMinds] KCDN Peace Run/Walk
To: ProgressiveMinds@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 5:32 AM

Dear Mr. Oketch,
I have been following up on your activities at KCDN and i must give my kudos for the good job you are doing with the kids.
Ilive inLangata and daily we have many children from kibera in the estates asking for food, money,books andetc.
In light of this, i would be very interested to open up a shelter within the area for orphaned, abandoned and hiv+ children.
I must confess that i have no idea how to achieve this but i have hope that it can be done.
With this regard, i would appreciate your guidance on how to go about this since you seem more in this field than i am- (I am a 28 year old female working in the IT industry in the private sector).
I was thinking about renting one of the main houses within the estate to use for this purpose and i am researching on a budget for acquiring beds,beddings + other furniture, as well as daily food expenses.
I look forward to hearing from you.
Regards,
Roza Kamau.

0722 7394 09

From: odhiambo okecth
To: panafricanist ; progressiveminds ; Publiceye ; HERU BENNU AMEN RA ; siasa ; smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com; SOA@yahoogroups. com; SonsofAfrika@ yahoogroups. com; Alpha Sports ; Standard ; Sunday Standard ; Sungu ; Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com; TheBlackList@ yahoogroups. com; trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com; ugandacom
Sent: Monday, May 18, 2009 2:40:57 PM
Subject: [ProgressiveMinds] KCDN Peace Run/Walk

On 13th June 2009, we will be hosting the 2nd Edition of the KCDN Peace Run/Walk at the Montana/Calvary Grounds as from 8am. We have invited the DC Nairobi East District to come and flag the Run/Walk. We have also invited the participation of church and local leaders.

The Key Note speach on Peace will b delivered by Bishop Dr Julius Mbagaya of the Baptist Convention.

We have mobilized enough participation from parents and pupils alike. They will come in big numbers to show solidarity with other Kenyans on the need for Peace, National Healing and Reconciliation in Kenya.

At KCDN, we are doing something for our children who are either orphans or vulnerable. We have been mobilizing people of goodwill to help these children have books, stationery and uniforms. We have documented all that we do at our blogspot for ease of reference; http://kcdnkomarock swatch.blogspot. . com We are now focused on the parents to display the kind of unity and love that children display.

By this intro, we are inviting your participation and support to this course. We need Tents, Chairs, PA System, Water, Course Van, Course Security, T-Shirts, Paper Caps, Banners, Posters, Manila Papers, Felt-Marker Pens, and as many volunteers for the day.

We are encouraging participants to come with their own peace posters so that this relations and involvement in the KCDN Peace Run.Walk becomes personal and self involving.

Only throgh personal involvement will we achieve a lasting peace amongs us.

We kindly invite your support for this course.

Odhiambo T Oketch
Tel; 0735 529 126, 0724 365 557,
http://kcdnkomarock swatch.blogspot. com

| 28904|2009-05-19 08:13:39|Brotha Pruitt|Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"|
Greetings,
You are to be commended on preparing an excellent conference that is very important to Black African people all over this world. It is important for Black Scholars to disclose the true history of Egypt, Kemetand Africa. Africans have had their history told by others which is a crime against humanity! The scholars listedto present their research in regards to this matter will prove Africa is the home of Black people, that Egypt is locaterd in Africa and that the roots of her culture originate from Black Africans.

It is very important to have this conference because some racist Europeans scholars are still trying tosay Egypt has European roots. This conference should conclude with a power point presentation of theresearch conducted byCheikh Anta Diop and Dr. John Henrik Clarke. They have already proved what the conference is trying to relay, which is that Africa is a Black Continent and Egyptwas an African Civilization.Check out a reference to their work.
In 1974 Diop also told them he could prove beyond a shadow of a doubt, that Egypt was located in Africa and that Egyptians were Black people. When Diop told them he could prove this by obtaining pigment from the mummies, the Europeanscould not refute his claim. He proved thatEgypt and all of the ancient civilizations along the Nile were in Africa and populated by Black people

In memory of our ancestors,
Brotha Pruitt
Reparations Leader and Chairman
Committee for African-American Reparations (CAAR) CA
Reparations Union Lobbying Association (RULA) NC
www.divineblacktruth.org

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, kcamm23063@aol.com wrote:

From: kcamm23063@aol.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 2:35 AM

Culled from Egyptologists' Electronic Forum (EEF) list...

THE MANCHESTER MUSEUM,
UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER

 Call for Papers **

"Egypt in its African Context"

The Manchester Museum, University of Manchester

3-4 October 2009

The African elements of the ancient Egyptian culture, and indeed its physical location in Africa, have frequently been ignored, and there exists a level of prejudice against suggestions that Egyptian culture can be situated within an African cultural context. The contextualising of ancient Egypt culturally and geographically within Africa, the concept of ancient Egypt as part of Black History, and the discussion of how the material is perceived and interpreted in the West have only recently begun to receive attention, and the discussion is still regarded as peripheral and often irrelevant.

The aims of the conference are to:

* address perceptions of ancient Egypt in the West, in scholarly writing and public understanding;
* present the work of scholars working on African-centred Egyptology;
* present a scholarly approach to the subject of Egypt in Africa to counterbalance the extreme Afrocentric views within which such a debate is often contextualised;
* investigate how community groups and professional Egyptologists can transfer their knowledge and points of view.

Papers are requested that address the following themes:

* the African aspects of ancient Egyptian culture;
* historical and contemporary African perceptions of ancient Egypt;
* the contested nature of ancient Egypt;
* the biases inherent in presentation of Egypt in the West, and ways of addressing this - in museums, media and popular and scholarly publication.

Key speakers include Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, Senior Assistant Keeper, Department of Antiquities, The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge; Dr Abadayo Folorunso, Professor, Department of Archaeology and Anthropology, University of Ibadan, Ibadan, Nigeria; Dr Maulena Karenga, Professor, Department of Africana Studies, California State University, USA; Dr Shomarka Keita, Research affiliations with the National Human Genome Center, Howard University and the Department of Anthropology, Smithsonian Institution, USA; Dr. Jos頌ingna Nafaf鬠Lecturer, Department of Sociology, The University of Birmingham, UK; and Dr Kimani Nehusi, Senior Lecturer, Cass School of Education, University of East London, UK.

The conference is organised in association with The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge and with the support of The Petrie Museum of Egyptian Archaeology.

Abstracts of no more than 500 words, and full contact details, are to be emailed to the conference organiser, Karen Exell:

karen.exell@ manchester. ac.uk

Closing date: 31st July 2009

Dr Karen Exell
Curator, Egypt and the Sudan
The Manchester Museum
University of Manchester
Oxford Road
Manchester M13 9PL

www.manchester. ac.uk/museum
http://egyptmanches ter.wordpress. com/
Direct line: 0161 275 8772
Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
Karen C. Aboiralor

Recession-proof vacation ideas. Find free things to do in the U.S.

| 28905|2009-05-19 08:13:46|rehal orville|Re: where's king solomon?|
THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
--- --- -
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.

my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

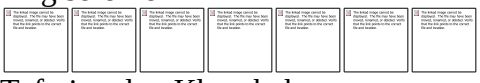
From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?



To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28906|2009-05-19 12:40:30|Asar Imhotep|Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"|
Peace
Thanks for the information. I am going to submit an abstract for the conference in hopes that they will accept it. It will be titled "Ancient Egypt and the Four Moments of the Sun." This will deal with the Bantu and Egyptian cosmological connections in practice and iconography of the "Four moments of the Sun" and how you can witness this world-view all across the continent of Africa presently.

Again thanks...
Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-VERSITY
MOCHA-Versity

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, kcamm23063@aol.com wrote:

From: kcamm23063@aol.com

Subject: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 4:35 AM

Culled from Egyptologists' Electronic Forum (EEF) list...

THE MANCHESTER MUSEUM,
UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER

 Call for Papers **

"Egypt in its African Context"

The Manchester Museum, University of Manchester

3-4 October 2009

The African elements of the ancient Egyptian culture, and indeed its physical location in Africa, have frequently been ignored, and there exists a level of prejudice against suggestions that Egyptian culture can be situated within an African cultural context. The contextualising of ancient Egypt culturally and geographically within Africa, the concept of ancient Egypt as part of Black History, and the discussion of how the material is perceived and interpreted in the West have only recently begun to receive attention, and the discussion is still regarded as peripheral and often irrelevant.

The aims of the conference are to:

* address perceptions of ancient Egypt in the West, in scholarly writing and public understanding;
* present the work of scholars working on African-centred Egyptology;
* present a scholarly approach to the subject of Egypt in Africa to counterbalance the extreme Afrocentric views within which such a debate is often contextualised;
* investigate how community groups and professional Egyptologists can transfer their knowledge and points of view.

Papers are requested that address the following themes:

* the African aspects of ancient Egyptian culture;
* historical and contemporary African perceptions of ancient Egypt;
* the contested nature of ancient Egypt;
* the biases inherent in presentation of Egypt in the West, and ways of addressing this - in museums, media and popular and scholarly publication.

Key speakers include Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, Senior Assistant Keeper, Department of Antiquities, The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge; Dr Abadayo Folorunso, Professor, Department of Archaeology and Anthropology, University of Ibadan, Ibadan, Nigeria; Dr Maulena Karenga, Professor, Department of Africana

Studies, California State University, USA; Dr Shomarka Keita, Research affiliations with the National Human Genome Center, Howard University and the Department of Anthropology, Smithsonian Institution, USA; Dr. Jos頌ingna Nafaf鬠Lecturer, Department of Sociology, The University of Birmingham, UK; and Dr Kimani Nehusi, Senior Lecturer, Cass School of Education, University of East London, UK.

The conference is organised in association with The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge and with the support of The Petrie Museum of Egyptian Archaeology.

Abstracts of no more than 500 words, and full contact details, are to be emailed to the conference organiser, Karen Exell:

karen.exell@ manchester. ac.uk

Closing date: 31st July 2009

Dr Karen Exell
Curator, Egypt and the Sudan
The Manchester Museum
University of Manchester
Oxford Road
Manchester M13 9PL
www.manchester. ac.uk/museum
http://egyptmanches ter.wordpress. com/
Direct line: 0161 275 8772
Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
Karen C. Aboiralor

Recession-proof vacation ideas. Find free things to do in the U.S.

| 28907|2009-05-19 12:40:40|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|
usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy.....they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
---
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and

Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28908|2009-05-19 12:52:37|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|

in dealing with the 18 dynasty ,My Person was relaxed and dimmwitted in that I for got to list my 1st book my person read on the subject Christianity before Christ by John G. Jackson (a GIANT! among scholars may he find a short stay in the afterlife and return to us once again.)

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 2:40 PM

usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word c translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
--- --- -
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481

I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28909|2009-05-19 13:03:16|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"|

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Asar Imhotep wrote:

>
> Peace
> ?
> Thanks for the information. I am going to submit an abstract for the conference in hopes that they will accept it. It will be titled "Ancient Egypt and the Four Moments of the Sun." This will deal with the Bantu and Egyptian cosmological connections in practice and iconography of the "Four moments of the Sun" and how you can witness this world-view all across the continent of Africa presently.
> ?
> Again thanks...
> ?
>

Good luck, Asar!

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

| 28910|2009-05-19 13:30:53|Peter Gray|Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"|

The conference is actually the brain child of the Manchester Museum -- the Univ. of Manchester, along with the Univ. of Minas Gerais (in Brasil)was responsible for the reconstrution of "Luzia", theearliest American skeleton found to date, which reconstruction was visibly and undeniably African.

Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: afrikaspirit3@yahoo.com
Date: Tue, 19 May 2009 05:01:13 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"

Greetings,
You are to be commended on preparing an excellent conference that is very important to Black African people all over this world. It is important for Black Scholars to disclose the true history of Egypt, Kemetand Africa. Africans have had their history told by others which is a crime against humanity! The scholars listedto present their research in regards to this matter will prove Africa is the home of Black people, that Egypt is locaterd in Africa and that the roots of her culture originate from Black Africans.
It is very important to have this conference because some racist Europeans scholars are still trying tosay Egypt has European roots. This conference should conclude with a power point presentation of theresearch conducted byCheikh Anta Diop and Dr. John Henrik Clarke. They have already proved what the conference is trying to relay, which is that Africa is a Black Continent and Egyptwas an African Civilization.Check out a reference to their work.

In 1974 Diop also told them he could prove beyond a shadow of a doubt, that Egypt was located in Africa and that Egyptians were Black people. When Diop told them he could prove this by obtaining pigment from the mummies, the Europeanscould not refute his claim. He proved thatEgypt and all of the ancient civilizations along the Nile were in Africa and populated by Black people

In memory of our ancestors,
Brotha Pruitt
Reparations Leader and Chairman
Committee for African-American Reparations (CAAR) CA
Reparations Union Lobbying Association (RULA) NC
www.divineblacktrut h.org

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, kcamm23063@aol. com wrote:

From: kcamm23063@aol. com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 2:35 AM

Culled from Egyptologists' Electronic Forum (EEF) list...

THE MANCHESTER MUSEUM,
UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER

 Call for Papers **

"Egypt in its African Context"

The Manchester Museum, University of Manchester

3-4 October 2009

The African elements of the ancient Egyptian culture, and indeed its physical location in Africa, have frequently been ignored, and there exists a level of prejudice against suggestions that Egyptian culture can be situated within an African cultural context. The contextualising of ancient Egypt culturally and geographically within Africa, the concept of ancient Egypt as part of Black History, and the discussion of how the material is perceived and interpreted in the West have only recently begun to receive attention, and the discussion is still regarded as peripheral and often irrelevant.

The aims of the conference are to:

* address perceptions of ancient Egypt in the West, in scholarly writing and public understanding;
* present the work of scholars working on African-centred

Egyptology;
* present a scholarly approach to the subject of Egypt in Africa to counterbalance the extreme Afrocentric views within which such a debate is often contextualised;
* investigate how community groups and professional Egyptologists can transfer their knowledge and points of view.

Papers are requested that address the following themes:

* the African aspects of ancient Egyptian culture;
* historical and contemporary African perceptions of ancient Egypt;
* the contested nature of ancient Egypt;
* the biases inherent in presentation of Egypt in the West, and ways of addressing this - in museums, media and popular and scholarly publication.

Key speakers include Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, Senior Assistant Keeper, Department of Antiquities, The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge; Dr Abadayo Folorunso, Professor, Department of Archaeology and Anthropology, University of Ibadan, Ibadan, Nigeria; Dr Maulena Karenga, Professor, Department of Africana Studies, California State University, USA; Dr Shomarka Keita, Research affiliations with the National Human Genome Center, Howard University and the Department of Anthropology, Smithsonian Institution, USA; Dr. Jos頌ingna Nafaf馨Lecturer, Department of Sociology, The University of Birmingham, UK; and Dr Kimani Nehusi, Senior Lecturer, Cass School of Education, University of East London, UK.

The conference is organised in association with The Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge and with the support of The Petrie Museum of Egyptian Archaeology.

Abstracts of no more than 500 words, and full contact details, are to be emailed to the conference organiser, Karen Exell:

karen.exell@ manchester. ac.uk

Closing date: 31st July 2009

Dr Karen Exell
Curator, Egypt and the Sudan
The Manchester Museum
University of Manchester
Oxford Road
Manchester M13 9PL
www.manchester. ac.uk/museum
http://egyptmanches ter.wordpress. com/
Direct line: 0161 275 8772
Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
Karen C. Aboiralor

Recession-proof vacation ideas. Find free things to do in the U.S.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.

| 28911|2009-05-19 14:49:30|Obadele (abibitumikasa.com)|Intro, Inter. Akan (Twi) & Yoruba Online Classes begin week of May 2|

http://www.abibitumikasa.com/classes.html
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html

Who: All Afrikan people who are serious about being Afrikan

What: You are invited to join one month (8 class) sessions of Introductory Twi or Yoruba or one month (4 class) sessions of Intermediate Twi or Yoruba.

When: Next class session begins the week of May 25, 2009 (Click here for schedule http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/calendar.php)

Monday AND Wednesday Intro Yoruba 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

Tuesday AND Thursday Intro Twi 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

AND

Sunday Intermediate Twi 1:00PM-3:00PM EST

Sunday Intermediate Yoruba 4:00PM-6:00PM EST

Where: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

How: Individuals and Families can learn face-to-face online via live online streaming state-of-the-art technology or at Asasse Pa Restaurant in Accra, Ghana

To access the online member classroom, you must register for the Abibitumi Kasa site at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php

You'll need to do this if you don't have an account already.

If you already have an account at the site, login at this link:

http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/login.php

From there click on the link to member classroom on any page at the site at class time or visit the link to the member classroom here directly at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

Learn to hook up your audio and/or webcam for class and more at: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/...bibitumi-kasa/

How Much: 195 USD for eight (8) class Introductory Class; 97.50 USD for four (4) class Intermediate Class; Contact us about cost of advanced individual tutorials http://www.abibitumikasa.com/contact.html

Why: Repatriation, Visit, Interacting with Family, and more. Let us know your reason for wanting to learn Afrikan languages via our Prospective Student Questionnaire http://www.abibitumikasa.com/nsemmisa.pdf

Live Interactive Online and Accra, Ghana Afrikan Language Classes

Register for Free Afrikan Liberation Institute

Sign Up for AKALI Mailing List

Abibitumi Kasa Fundraiser

| 28912|2009-05-19 16:05:58|Ginger Daniels|Torture; The American way?|

According to sworn testimonies, police officers beat, suffocated, applied electric shock to the genitals and staged mock executions of suspects, threatening and terrorizing men, women and even young children into submission, they said.

Read the rest of the story...

CHICAGO - Torture and abuse at Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq and misconduct at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba have been widely reported. While President Barack H. Obama and his Attorney General Eric Holder have made a clean break with the Bush-Cheney regime by coming out clearly against torture of foreign suspects, there is another side to torture, one that takes place at the hands of police officers inside the United States, say alleged victims and advocates.

The cry against domestic torture has been growing in Chicago as details emerge in the case of Cortez Brown, a 38-year-old Black man, who says he was tortured and coerced into making a murder confession as a 19-year-old. The former death row inmate's plight and the sordid saga of police torture in the city, in particular charges against former Chicago police Commander Jon Burge, was highlighted May 2 in a panel discussion and rally at Muhammad University of Islam.

Panelists included Black men who say police officers under the direction of former Cmdr. Burge tortured them and lawyers say Mr. Brown was one of hundreds of Black men tortured and coerced into making confessions over a 20-year reign of terror.
According to sworn testimonies, police officers beat, suffocated, applied electric shock to the genitals and staged mock executions of suspects, threatening and terrorizing men, women and even young children into submission, they said.

This is systemic police torture that has rivaled anything we have heard not only across this nation, but across the world, said Atty. G. Flint Taylor, a longtime legal advocate and defender of civil rights. We're talking about racism that goes back to slavery. Make no mistake about it, the torture that Jon Burge and his men did has its vestiges, has its origins, has its violence and racism in slavery, he said.

Cortez Brown was given the death penalty after confessing to the murders of two men in 1990. His sentence was commuted to life in prison by former Illinois Governor George Ryan. Mr. Brown is seeking a new trial saying his confession only came after he was severely beaten by Mr. Burge's henchmen.

On April 29, nearly 150 supporters of Mr. Brown packed a Cook County court room as Judge Clayton Crane allowed his lawyers to put in motion a subpoena of Mr. Burge, who currently resides in Florida, and Anthony Maslanka, who currently resides in Arizona, to appear in person at an upcoming May 18 hearing in Chicago.

With lawyers for Mr. Burge present, Mr. Brown, handcuffed and shackled yet dignified, emerged from the rear chambers of the courtroom, flashed a smile, waved to supporters and saluted them. His supporters stood for the entire 45-minutes of the legal proceedings in a show of solidarity.

Atty. Taylor, of the People's Law Office based in Chicago, has proposed federal legislation that proscribes and criminalizes acts of torture by law enforcement officials and increases the statute of limitations. Currently, there are statutes with regard to torture that has happened outside of the United States, but no federal statutes to prosecute those in the U.S. found guilty of the crime. Each municipality has its own process and procedures for dealing with officers accused of misconduct.

At the May 2 forum, Jonathan Jackson, son of Rainbow/PUSH founder Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, said though slow in coming, he sees justice for the victims of torture.
We are now seeing the walls of justice move, said Mr. Jackson. We've seen dog torture headlines come before human torture, said Mr. Jackson, who has become involved in cases of alleged police torture through work with the Rainbow/PUSH Coalition.

Ald. Ed Smith believes Cmdr. Burge and all who tortured suspects should be in jail, and the dollars of the Chicago taxpayers should not be used to pay his legal bills.

I think it is a disgrace, said Ald. Smith. I really think the city of Chicago should cut itself off from this case. They made a commitment some time ago that they would support Burge in his legal matters, and they did that in front of a judge, so they are continuing to adhere to that. But his is an egregious case in which a man has done a gross injustice to society, he added.

At the May 2 forum, Darrell Cannon shared his emotional story. He had a shotgun forced in his mouth, which split his lip. He said the officers simulated his execution, tried to hang him and then later used an electric cattle prod to shock his genitals.

Mr. Cannon still harbors hatred and animosity for the officers who brutalized him, and the years of his life taken away by his false imprisonment. During the 24 years of imprisonment for a crime he said he did not commit, including nine years in Tamms Supermax prison with no external contact, Mr. Cannon's mother, grandmother and several other family members died. He was unable to touch or talk to them just one more time.
That is the pain that keeps me emotional, said Mr. Cannon speaking through tears. That's the pain that won't go away.

Anthony Holmes painfully recalled how in 1973, his door was kicked in by Chicago Police officers, he was tortured, suffocated, handcuffed and electric shocked. He said it felt like a thousand needles going through his body and a few times, he thought he was dead.
Johnnie Lee Savory told the story of how he was charged with murder at the age of 14. Police came and removed him from school after one of Mr. Savory's childhood friends and his sister were murdered. Mr. Savory was intensely questioned by the detectives, then he said he was humiliatingly stripped naked and one by one, hairs were plucked from his body.
It was like a nightmare. It wasn't real, said Mr. Savory who said he finally gave up and confessed to the crime, just so the pain would stop. Mr. Savory spent 30 years in prison, and was granted parole. He now organizes on behalf of those wrongfully convicted.
Gregory Banks said he was tortured for three days by Chicago police officers at the age of 20 as they tried to get him to confess to a 1983 murder. After being beaten and suffocated with a plastic bag placed over his head, he finally confessed to the crime just so the torture would end.

Mr. Banks recalled hearing one of the officers say, we have something special for n_____s.

I'm here today because I don't want that to happen to anyone else, said Mr. Banks who spent 7 years in prison before being granted a new trial and being exonerated. Whatever I have to do, and wherever I have to go to tell my story, I'm going to tell my story because my story is real.

Carolyn Johnson, the mother of Marcus Wiggins, says her then 13-year-old son, got picked up as a suspect in a neighborhood shooting. Marcus told his lawyer that detectives electric shocked him, beat him with a flashlight, then wrote up a statement of confession and had him sign it, said his mother. She also accused the police of filing false police reports.

Marcus Wiggins has served 11-years of a 46-year prison sentence.
Ms. Johnsonsaid she fears retaliation from detectives and rarely tells anyone her real address because the offending officers are still walking the streets.
They are still working and everybody knows they are out here and they are still doing things to people. Everybody is saying that nobody is above the law, but they are still out here, she said.

Mr. Cannon and Mr. Holmes told The Final Call they have communicated with other victims of police torture across the nation and the idea of creating a nationwide network of police torture survivors has been discussed.

Min. Louis Farrakhan told the crowd at Muhammad University of Islam that a common purpose should unite all to obtain justice for these men and bring to justice rogue officers who use their authority to inflict pain.There is also a bigger power pushing for justice, he said.

No one can avenge the criminal behavior of criminals who are in positions of authority or power better than the God of Justice, added Min. Farrakhan, who spoke briefly at the end of the program. Right now if an officer commits an act of torture or cruel and degrading treatment, they may get charged with battery or assault or other civil rights violations, but that has a five-year statute of limitations (which) has posed huge problems for us in getting accountability for officers, Atty. Joey L. Mogul told The Final Call. We think this is warranted because the crime of torture is so grave and so severe, and these officers that we imbue with this power and the authority of law believe they can act above the law. We need to have a new tool in order to ensure that they too are held accountable for their crimes that they commit.

Atty. Mogul has been actively involved in litigation and organizing around the issue of police torture at the hands of the Chicago Police Department, even presenting some cases to the United Nations Committee Against Torture and Human Rights Committee in Geneva, Switzerland in 2006.
The UN officially defines torture as any act by which severe pain or suffering, whether physical or mental, is intentionally inflicted on a person for such purposes as obtaining from him or a third person information or a confession, punishing him for an act he or a third person has committed or is suspected of having committed, or intimidating or coercing him or a third person, or for any reason based on discrimination of any kind, when such pain or suffering is inflicted by or at the instigation of or with the consent or acquiescence of a public official or other person acting in an official capacity.

America's legacy of police torture
In Philadelphia, allegations of police torture and excessive force surrounded the tenure of Frank Rizzo, who served as police commissioner from 1967 to 1971, then later served two terms as mayor of the city from 1972 to 1980. Reporters for the Philadelphia Inquirer looking into allegations of abuse found that of the cases examined, many involved confessions that came after illegal interrogations.
After the televised 1991 Rodney King beating by members of the Los Angeles Police Department, a review board was set up to review the conduct and operation of the LAPD. The Independent Commission on the LAPD, also called the Christopher Commission, named after chairman, Warren Christopher, found widespread use of excessive force, and lack of disciplinary procedures within the department especially related to officers who were repeat offenders.
Later, in the 1990s the notorious Rampart Scandal found widespread corruption in the anti-gang unit of the LAPD called CRASH (Community Resources Against Street Hoodlums) It is estimated that approximately 140 settlements in civil suits cost the city over $125 million.

In the 1997 case of Abner Louima, NYPD officers, led by Justin Volpe, admitted to handcuffing and severely beating Mr. Louima with a nightstick and his fist on the way to the police station after an arrest. According to court records, later, in a police station bathroom, Mr. Volpe repeatedly kicked him in the testicles and sodomized him with a wooden plunger handle causing Mr. Louima to suffer internal bleeding, a perforated colon, a ruptured bladder, and several broken teeth after the plunger handle used to violate him was rammed into his mouth. Mr. Volpe, who is said to have bragged about the attack the day after it happened, was sentenced in 1999 to serve a 30-year jail sentence without the possibility of parole. Three other NYPD officers were found guilty on lesser charges related to the case. Mr. Louima won an $8.5 million settlement from the city of New York.
In November of 2007 a team led by Professor Craig Futterman of the University of Chicago Law School focused on the Chicago Police Department by analyzing statistical data dealing with systemic controls and disciplinary oversight of officers accused of misconduct. He found most complaints were found within special operations units assigned to neighborhoods with public housing developments in predominately Black and Latino communities where there is little economic or political power.

Specifically named in the report was a well-known group of rogue officers called The Skullcap Crew accused of terrorizing Chicago residents for years. Residents described seeing members of the Skullcap Crew lining up a group of young Black men and kicking them in the testicles; ordering African-American men to strike Black women at the threat of arrest; strip searching African-American women and ridiculing their bodies; planting illegal drugs on innocent people; stealing money from and protecting drug dealers.
This is a systematic problem that grows out of their racist attitudes that are codified in the laws and then the racists enforce the laws that come from their poisoned perceptions, said Abdullah Muhammad adding that the movement to tell the stories of the victims of police torture will continue to grow. Minister Farrakhan wants this to be a national platform to uncover this evil, foul type of torture and torment that is going on in every state in America.
Mr. Muhammad said the stories heard at the forum represent only the tip of the iceberg because there are many who were killed by police and others who were framed or confessed to crimes they did not commit and then died while in prison. Their stories will never be heard.
We represent some of the torture victims who are so ashamed, they won't even come forth to testify. We speak for the voiceless, and those brothers who weren't blessed to escape the brutal police officers who desired their death, he said.

Hotmail has a new way to see what's up with your friends. Check it out.

| 28913|2009-05-19 16:06:10|pharoahisrael@yahoo.com|Fw: [africanclassicalhistory] Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?|
Greetings again,
Group members and my brother Mahari. I agree with you fully on this reasoning. The hijacking of Egyptology, Sumerianism and Kanaanaite Culture (Judaism, Atenism) by Euro-Caucasian Whites shows that the Main Focus of White Supremacy is to give the World Community a False Belief that they were present and the actual originators of World Civilization in the Region best known for it .
That is Egypt, Sumeria and Canaan. Israelite History is nothing more than Canaanite even though the focus of a lot of Scholars and Academics has been on the Egyptian-Sumerian Connections. There is Anthropological, Archaeological, Ethnological, Tribal and Linguistic Evidence of all types now to Show that " The Hebrews, Israelites, Jews " were and are nothing more than The African Hamitic/Shemitic Peoples of Kanaan, The Kinnahu.

Moreover we must note at some point that " Se'mu " vis a vis " Semitic " or Shem is nothing more than Black Asiatics (Afro-Asiatics) of which a large population were mixed into the population of Kanaan over periods of time toas The Peoples Called The Canaanites, Modern Codewords Israelites, Hebrews, Jews.!
See Historical Israel by Lerico Richardson, http://www.freewebs.com/radah/index.htm
and Israelite Identity, byA. E., http://encyclopediaegypt.com/israel/eg-blond.htm
At this point in time more than just our Scholars and Academics need to counter the false Assertions made my the European Caucasian Establishment. I feel that it is the duty of any reasonable educated person in The Black Community to do so.
Hetep.
MLP,
MAFN, The Nationalists.

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

From: Mahari Mengistu
Subject: [africanclassicalhistory] Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: africanclassicalhistory@yahoogroups.co.uk
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 4:05 PM

>>That is what Historical Israel truly is as a Socio-Ethnic Group and Nation<<

And there will be intense resistance to such research - at least, within the Anglo community - because whites and Jews have such a vested interest in maintaining a white saviour mystique around biblical jews. Notice I said whites AND Jews. As in KMT/Afrigyptology it is to their advantage to mesmerize the world with their narcissistic lies so that they appear to be "good saviours" of all that is good instead of the evil invaders and militants that HIStory shows unequivocally that MOST (certainly the power structures) are.
HTP,
Mahari

--- In africanclassicalhis tory@yahoogroups .co.uk, Lamar Perryman wrote:
>
>
> Greetings Professors and Scholars.
> I really do not think that the Conflict and Confusion over Historical Israel, Egypt and Sumer as opposed to Mythical Israel will be resolved until The Hyksos Era of Ancient Egypt (The Middle Kingdom) is accurately investigated and reported with the emphasis being on Canaanite Culture as That is what Historical Israel truly is as a Socio-Ethnic Group and Nation.

>
> MLP.,
> MAFN, The Nationalists.
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ ... wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ ...
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 7:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------

> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> ----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .

>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28914|2009-05-19 22:06:34|Paul Kekai Manansala|Fwd: [Ta_Seti] Re: Authenticity of Neferiti Berlin Bust|

Manu Ampim's post from June 16, 2004.

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Manu Ampim" wrote:

Greetings,

There have been some useful comments, but let me clear up some errors.

FIRST, the so-called "Nefertiti Berlin bust" is not a "light red/yellow" color. Far from it. This bust has absolutely no red or yellow color, this misperception results from two sources:

1) People looking at phoney dark-skin replicas, such as this one:
http://www.egiptologia.org/arte/amarna/nefertiti.jpg

2) People looking at the "Berlin Bust" from dark photos which pick up the museum's yellow spotlights which illuminate this featured piece. Freddie is correct to note that "the type of lighting used on a subject can effect the color and shade he or she appears to be." Anyone visiting the Berlin Museum will note that it is difficult to take photos and capture the true color of the bust, unless special lighting is set up. The bust actually has a unique PALE skin tone, which is completely different and noticeably much lighter than ALL of the other known images of Nefertiti.

Check out this photo of the original Nefertiti bust and notice that the pale skin tone is much lighter than her yellow headband:
http://www.nebty.net/Website/nefer_bust_drr.jpg

vs.

the usual brown skin Nefertiti images:
http://www.empiriamagazin.com/Miszcellanea/nefertiti.JPG
http://www.clevelandart.org/images/museum/collect/egypt/nefert_s.gif

SECOND, in addition to the much lighter skin tone the Nefertiti bust has other facial features noticeably different from the other authentic images of her, particularly the nose, cheek bone, and in most cases the lips. Sixsevenz is correct in this statement: "the nose of the statue does seam to be a bit 'pointy' compared to the pictures of the actual reliefs."

Compare this wide Africoid nose of this authentic Nefertiti bust:
http://www.bergerfoundation.ch/Akhenaton/images/p63d_s.jpg
also see:
http://www.delphin-cruises.com/Kairo/nefertiti-auschn.jpg

vs.

The much thinner/pointier "Berlin Bust" nose:
http://www.nebty.net/Website/nefer_bust_drr.jpg

THIRD, Alex D. is right about making comparisons but if someone is attempting to determine if an artifact is authentic, then they must first start with the original excavation report & photos. In the case of the Nefertiti "Berlin Bust" we have an unbelievable story of its discovery in Egypt and transport to Germany. We are told that the bust was discovered in Tell el-Amarna, Egypt in 1912 by Ludwig Borchardt and his German colleagues, and somehow smuggled out of Egypt passed antiquities officials. However, there are NO original excavation reports and there are NO original in-situ photographs. Further, the bust was not put on display in the Berlin Egyptian Museum until 1924. This great "discovery" has always been suspect because of its lack of authentication. We have no excavation records. The world has no idea of what went on behind the scenes for the 12 years between 1912 and 1924.

These are my brief comments. Stay tuned for more on this unique Berlin bust.

Advancing the work,

Prof. Manu Ampim

----------~->

_____

_____

Message: 2
Date: Mon, 14 Jun 2004 10:51:32 -0700

From: "Derrick, Alexander"
Subject: Re: Authenticity of Neferiti Berlin Bust

NWB Htp Wrote:

Was the famous bust of Nefertiti tampered with? What did she really look like? Are their any accurate images available that OUR scholars would agree that this is really what she looked like. If so, please provide a link for viewing.

Greetings,

The famous statue of Nefertiti, is located in Berlin, Germany. Some believe it is fraudulent or has been tampered with. But I think it does look like other statues of Nefertiti! Which I think makes it authentic.

For an example of a statue with similar features
see the following statue available on my website:
http://www.highculture.8m.com/images/Faces/18th%20Dynasty/matureNefertit
i.jpg
http://www.highculture.8m.com/images/Faces/18th%20Dynasty/matureNefertit
i2.jpg
(I juxtapose some images below)

Here are some other images of nefertiti from various periods of the Amarna art phase.

http://www.martinstrnad.cz/egypt/amarna/nefer2.jpg
http://www.martinstrnad.cz/egypt/amarna/nefertiti3.jpg
http://www.martinstrnad.cz/egypt/amarna/nefer.jpg

The "Berlin bust" is an artists model, and it can be compared to other busts that have the same block design but also have an accompanying artist grid which further substantiate the "Berlin busts" use as a model and not as royal art (refer to Aldred, C. Egyptian Art).

During the 18th Dynasty there was an artistic explosion and the cannon of proportions were changed. During Amenhotep IV's reign there are even more jarring mysteries surrounding the artists production.

There is a great deal of variety in portraiture during the reign of Amenhotep III, and even more variety during the reign of Akenaten IV/Amenhotep. Which I think is a suitable explanation for the differences in portraiture.

You might also be interested in looking at portraits of Nefertiti's daughters to help formulate your opinion.
http://www.martinstrnad.cz/egypt/amarna/nefertiti-offeringrelief-to-aten
.jpg
http://www.martinstrnad.cz/egypt/amarna/meritaton.jpg
http://www.martinstrnad.cz/egypt/amarna/daughters4.jpg

The main difference is that the berlin bust is a light red/yellow and other images of nefertiti are brown/red. Some see this as an example of European archeologists whitening Nefertiri. I see it as part and parcel of the Egyptian artistic style. It is within the Egyptian arts to render the same women as red and yellow. I have never seen this done with men.

For an example from the same period in question look at the following images of Queen Tiye.

<http://images.google.com/imgres?imgurl=www.personal.psu.edu/users/g/a/gah123/tiyefrag.jpg&imgrefurl=http://www.personal.psu.edu/users/g/a/gah123/tiye.html&h=494&w=416&sz=29&tbnid=H7TR2Zdp7kcJ:&tbnh=125&tbnw=106&start=14&prev=/images%3Fq%3Dqueen%2Btiye%26hl%3Den%26lr%3D%26ie%3DUTF-8%26sa%3DN>
<http://images.google.com/imgres?imgurl=web.ukonline.co.uk/gavin.egypt/images/scribe23.jpg&imgrefurl=http://web.ukonline.co.uk/gavin.egypt/the.htm&h=590&w=478&sz=29&tbnid=lUJ2vKUxIgwJ:&tbnh=130&tbnw=106&start=3&prev=/images%3Fq%3Dqueen%2Btiye%26hl%3Den%26lr%3D%26ie%3DUTF-8%26sa%3DN> refer to:

Aldred, C. Egyptian Art.
Robins,G. Proportions in Style in Ancient Egypt.

Gotta run, hope this helps.

peace,
Alex Derrick

Message: 5
Date: Mon, 14 Jun 2004 13:08:51 -0700 (PDT)
From: Freddie Thompson
Subject: Re: Re: Authenticity of Neferiti Berlin Bust

Paul once mentioned to me, concerning a statue of Rameses, that the choice of photographic lighting effects how the features of a statue may appear. I have noticed that when the same Berlin bust of Nefertiti is shown in different lighting, the shape of the nose can look different. But even from the side view of the bust, the bridge of the nose does appear to be closer to her face than that of a typical Caucasian (even closer to her face than some Black people's nose bridges for that matter).

While drawing portraits of my own face, I learned that different choices in lighting can make my nose appear to stand out as small and thin, or broad and somewhat flat. It's all in the way light and shadow hits a person's features that will give it a more or less dramatic appeal.

I've always thought it important to take into consideration the photographers choices in lighting and perhaps the angle he chooses to capture Egyptian artifacts, before concluding that the person represented does not represent a Negroid type. Even if Nefertiti's features were more like those of typical Caucasians, I know of a countless number of Black people whose features are more "White-looking" than hers.

So in light of the evidences that Alex has reminded us of, I think it is safe and reasonable to assume that she belongs to the same Black race as the rest of her family members (even in light of reports that she was of Hittite ancestry). Believe it or not, I have actually seen modern depictions of Nefertiti having pinkish-white skin and red hair.

Respectfully,
Fred

sixsevenz wrote:

That was good. I think too that they are similar, but in my opinion the nose of the statue does seam to be a bit 'pointy' compared to the pictures of the actual reliefs that you have shown. what do you think?

--- End forwarded message ---

| 28915|2009-05-19 22:10:31|Paul Kekai Manansala|Fwd: [Ta_Seti] Re: Authenticity of Neferiti Berlin Bust|

Myra Wysingers's site showing a wide array of Nefertiti images:

http://wysinger.homestead.com/nefertiti.html

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

| 28916|2009-05-20 06:48:05|Tafari khumbaka|Fwd: [Ta_Seti] Re: Authenticity of Neferiti Berlin Bust|

Myra Wysingers's site showing a wide array of Nefertiti images:

http://wysinger. homestead. com/nefertiti. html

Regards,
Paul Kekai Manansala

--- On Wed, 5/20/09, Paul Kekai Manansala wrote:

From: Paul Kekai Manansala
Subject: Fwd: [Ta_Seti] Re: Authenticity of Neferiti Berlin Bust
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, May 20, 2009, 12:06 AM

Manu Ampim's post from June 16, 2004.

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Manu Ampim" wrote:

Greetings,

There have been some useful comments, but let me clear up some errors.

FIRST, the so-called "Nefertiti Berlin bust" is not a "light red/yellow" color. Far from it. This bust has absolutely no red or yellow color, this misperception results from two sources:

1) People looking at phoney dark-skin replicas, such as this one:

http://www.egiptolo gia.org/arte/ amarna/nefertiti .jpg

2) People looking at the "Berlin Bust" from dark photos which pick up the museum's yellow spotlights which illuminate this featured piece. Freddie is correct to note that "the type of lighting used on a subject can effect the color and shade he or she appears to be." Anyone visiting the Berlin Museum will note that it is difficult to take photos and capture the true color of the bust, unless special lighting is set up. The bust actually has a unique PALE skin tone, which is completely different and noticeably much lighter than ALL of the other known images of Nefertiti.

Check out this photo of the original Nefertiti bust and notice that the pale skin tone is much lighter than her yellow headband:
http://www.nebty. net/Website/ nefer_bust_ drr.jpg

vs.

the usual brown skin Nefertiti images:
http://www.empiriam agazin.com/ Miszcellanea/ nefertiti. JPG
http://www.clevelan dart.org/ images/museum/ collect/egypt/ nefert_s. gif

SECOND, in addition to the much lighter skin tone the Nefertiti bust has other facial features noticeably different from the other authentic images of her, particularly the nose, cheek bone, and in most cases the lips. Sixsevenz is correct in this statement: "the nose of the statue does seam to be a bit 'pointy' compared to the pictures of the actual reliefs."

Compare this wide Africoid nose of this authentic Nefertiti bust:
http://www.bergerfo undation. ch/Akhenaton/ images/p63d_ s.jpg
also see:
http://www.delphin- cruises.com/ Kairo/nefertiti- auschn.jpg

vs.

The much thinner/pointier "Berlin Bust" nose:
http://www.nebty. net/Website/ nefer_bust_ drr.jpg

THIRD, Alex D. is right about making comparisons but if someone is attempting to determine if an artifact is authentic, then they must first start with the original excavation report & photos. In the case of the Nefertiti "Berlin Bust" we have an unbelievable story of its discovery in Egypt and transport to Germany. We are told that the bust was discovered in Tell el-Amarna, Egypt in 1912 by Ludwig Borchardt and his German colleagues, and somehow smuggled out of Egypt passed antiquities officials. However, there are NO original excavation reports and there are NO original in-situ photographs. Further, the bust was not put on display in the Berlin Egyptian Museum until 1924. This great "discovery" has always been suspect because of its lack of authentication. We have no excavation records. The world has no idea of what went on behind the scenes for the 12 years between 1912 and 1924.

These are my brief comments. Stay tuned for more on this unique Berlin bust.

Advancing the work,

Prof. Manu Ampim

---------- --------- --------- --------- --------- --------- -~->

_____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _
_____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _

Message: 2
Date: Mon, 14 Jun 2004 10:51:32 -0700
From: "Derrick, Alexander"
Subject: Re: Authenticity of Neferiti Berlin Bust

NWB Htp Wrote:

Was the famous bust of Nefertiti tampered with? What did she really look like? Are their any accurate images available that OUR scholars would agree that this is really what she looked like. If so, please provide a link for viewing.

---------- --------- --------- --------- -

Greetings,

The famous statue of Nefertiti, is located in Berlin, Germany. Some believe it is fraudulent or has been tampered with. But I think it does look like other statues of Nefertiti! Which I think makes it authentic.

For an example of a statue with similar features
see the following statue available on my website:
http://www.highcult ure.8m.com/ images/Faces/ 18th%20Dynasty/ matureNefertit
i.jpg
http://www.highcult ure.8m.com/ images/Faces/ 18th%20Dynasty/ matureNefertit
i2.jpg
(I juxtapose some images below)

Here are some other images of nefertiti from various periods of the Amarna art phase.

http://www.martinst rnad.cz/egypt/ amarna/nefer2. jpg
http://www.martinst rnad.cz/egypt/ amarna/nefertiti 3.jpg
http://www.martinst rnad.cz/egypt/ amarna/nefer. jpg

The "Berlin bust" is an artists model, and it can be compared to other busts that have the same block design but also have an accompanying artist grid which further substantiate the "Berlin busts" use as a model and not as royal art (refer to Aldred, C. Egyptian Art).

During the 18th Dynasty there was an artistic explosion and the cannon of proportions were changed. During Amenhotep IV's reign there are even more jarring mysteries surrounding the artists production.

There is a great deal of variety in portraiture during the reign of Amenhotep III, and even more variety during the reign of Akenaten IV/Amenhotep. Which I think is a suitable explanation for the differences in portraiture.

You might also be interested in looking at portraits of Nefertiti's daughters to help formulate your opinion.
http://www.martinst rnad.cz/egypt/ amarna/nefertiti -offeringrelief- to-aten .jpg
http://www.martinst rnad.cz/egypt/ amarna/meritaton .jpg
http://www.martinst rnad.cz/egypt/ amarna/daughters 4.jpg

The main difference is that the berlin bust is a light red/yellow and other images of nefertiti are brown/red. Some see this as an example of European archeologists whitening Nefertiri. I see it as part and parcel of the Egyptian artistic style. It is within the Egyptian arts to render the same women as red and yellow. I have never seen this done with men.

For an example from the same period in question look at the following images of Queen Tiye.

<http://images. google.com/ imgres?imgurl= www.personal. psu.edu/users/ g/a/g ah123/tiyefrag. jpg&imgrefurl=http://www.personal .psu.edu/ users/g/a/ gah12 3/tiye.html& h=494&w=416& sz=29&tbnid= H7TR2Zdp7kcJ: &tbnh=125& tbnw=106& star t=14&prev=/images% 3Fq%3Dqueen% 2Btiye%26hl% 3Den%26lr% 3D%26ie%3DUTF- 8%26sa
%3DN>
<http://images. google.com/ imgres?imgurl= web.ukonline. co.uk/gavin. egypt/i mages/scribe23. jpg&imgrefurl=http://web.ukonline .co.uk/gavin. egypt/the. h tm&h=590&w=478& sz=29&tbnid= lUJ2vKUxIgwJ: &tbnh=130& tbnw=106& start=3&prev=

/images%3Fq% 3Dqueen%2Btiye% 26hl%3Den% 26lr%3D%26ie% 3DUTF-8%26sa% 3DN>

refer to:
Aldred, C. Egyptian Art.
Robins,G. Proportions in Style in Ancient Egypt.

Gotta run, hope this helps.

peace,
Alex Derrick
www.highculture. 8m.com

_____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _
_____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _

Message: 5
Date: Mon, 14 Jun 2004 13:08:51 -0700 (PDT)
From: Freddie Thompson
Subject: Re: Re: Authenticity of Neferiti Berlin Bust

Paul once mentioned to me, concerning a statue of Rameses, that the choice of photographic lighting effects how the features of a statue may appear. I have noticed that when the same Berlin bust of Nefertiti is shown in different lighting, the shape of the nose can look different. But even from the side view of the bust, the bridge of the nose does appear to be closer to her face than that of a typical Caucasian (even closer to her face than some Black people's nose bridges for that matter).

While drawing portraits of my own face, I learned that different choices in lighting can make my nose appear to stand out as small and thin, or broad and somewhat flat. It's all in the way light and shadow hits a person's features that will give it a more or less dramatic appeal.

I've always thought it important to take into consideration the photographers choices in lighting and perhaps the angle he chooses to capture Egyptian artifacts, before concluding that the person represented does not represent a Negroid type. Even if Nefertiti's features were more like those of typical Caucasians, I know of a countless number of Black people whose features are more "White-looking" than hers.

So in light of the evidences that Alex has reminded us of, I think it is safe and reasonable to assume that she belongs to the same Black race as the rest of her family members (even in light of reports that she was of Hittite ancestry). Believe it or not, I have actually seen modern depictions of Nefertiti having pinkish-white skin and red hair.

Respectfully,
Fred

sixsevenz wrote:

That was good. I think too that they are similar, but in my opinion the nose of the statue does seam to be a bit 'pointy' compared to the pictures of the actual reliefs that you have shown. what do you think?

--- End forwarded message ---

| 28917|2009-05-20 07:19:37|(no author)|(no subject)|

By 1912, the archeological authentication standards were already establishe= d, and it would be quite simple for the Germans to end speculation and prod= uce the required written and photographic evidence to authenticate this all= eged "discovery." Ludwig Borchardt was an accomplished Egyptologist and to= suggest that he and his colleagues may have somehow "forgot" or just decid= ed not to record this major discovery is completely unreasonable.

The art antiquities world does not operate as you are suggesting. There are= numerous reasons (e.g. racism, profits, prestige, professional embarrassme= nt, etc.) why many museums officials (including the Germans) will never w= illingly publish research results or allow certain pieces to be independent= ly examined regarding their authenticity. This well known fact of museum = denial and cover-up is written about in great detail by Oscar Muscarella in= his book, _The Lie Became Great: The Forgery of Ancient Near Eastern Cultu= res_ (1996). Muscarella has worked as a staff member of the Metropolitan M= useum of Art (NY) for 40 years. Read his work and learn of this mafia-like= code of silence within museums and how the interconnected forgery culture = operates.

On a personal note, I conducted museum research in 11 European countries an= d in all of the collections where I worked, the only museum that I would ch= aracterize as uncooperative was the Berlin Egyptian Museum. Surprisingly, =
I found all other museums and their staff to be quite helpful, and this fac= t was one of the most unexpected blessings of my research.

You wrote:

> 3) The bust is lighter in color than other representation of the Queen.
> This is odd but, do have enough images of Nefertiti survived for us to > be sure that she never was painted yellow/red?

You indicated earlier that the famous bust was painted "light red/yellow," = which is not the case. However, if this were the color there is no proble= m, because we can always find some variations of dark colors used to depict= individuals on different artifacts. I commented on this incorrect stateme= nt earlier because it is too misleading, as the actual color is more palish= (and not red or yellow).

I personally examined and documented what I believe is the complete set of = all known Nefertiti images, other than relief pieces that are in storage in= Egypt. If I were to put together a collage of the Nefertiti images the on= e that would remain outside of the range of common images is the unique pal= e-skin, thin-nose image in Berlin....you know, the one that has no evidence= of its "discovery." If you put together an iconographic chronology, you w= ill still not find a pale-colored 18th dynasty royal image like the "Berlin= bust" no matter how much color variation there is between images.

Lastly, European Egyptologists like to promote racist propaganda and call s= trong African features "exaggerated" during the Akhenaten era, yet these sa= me "exaggerated" facial features are depicted in every major dynastic per= iod. The only "exaggeration" is the one and only undocumented Berlin bust = that is the closest to the European light skin color. This strange bust do= es not represent an evolution, it is an incredible anomaly with its pale sk= in color. If this is a legitimate evolved "style" then present other pale-= skinned images of 18th dynasty royal figures to represent this new stylisti= c development.

None of your photos came out. Please repost or provide URLs.

Advancing the work,

Manu Ampim
=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3
D=3D=3D=3D=
=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D
=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3
D=3D=3D=3D=
=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D

From: "Derrick, Alexander"

I personally don't think the Berlin Bust is a forgery. I am not 100% certa= in of its authenticity.

The early history of the piece is definitely obscure. If the object is a f= orgery a study of the pigments would quickly reveal it's authenticity or lack their of. I= am sure that the German's would have scrutinized the prize of their collection.

It has also come to my attention that the bust was possibly discovered brok= en in several pieces and then possibly poorly restored while in a private c= ollection before it was donated to the Berlin Museum. Thus, one logical ex= plaining for its disappearance from the archeological record and its shoddy= workmanship could be easily explained by less than professional restoratio= n while in the hands of a private collector.

My observation --
1)The Berlin Musuem has dropped the ball by not publishing anything regardi= ng the conservation of its most famous icon. But, lack of documentation or= a mysterious dissapearn does not indicate a forgery or tampering!

2) Nefertiti is very overrated in Egyptian history. Female Kings Hashepsut= and Sbekneferu, the great Ahmose Nefertari, Nefertari (Rameses II wife), Q= ueen Tiye, Queen Ati and Seti's Wife are far more interesting African women=
.

3) The bust is lighter in color than other representation of the Queen. Th= is is odd but, do have enough images of Nefertiti survived for us to be s= ure that she never was painted yellow/red? Even for symbolic reasons, see m= y first post regarding the rare yellow image of Queen Tiye.

4) Maybe we Afrocentrics are dropping the ball by comparing the Berlin Bust= to images early in the reign of Amenhotep / Akenaten. I think it is clear= that early iconography from Aketaten is clearly exaggerated and as the sty= le progressed and matured the iconography also evolved.

If we only show a "carefully selected" set of images of Nefertiti w/o show= ing them in a chronological sequence, and without explaining that the Amarn= a epoch had several different stylistic evolutions we might be fooling ours= elves into thinking that the Berlin bust is totally out of place.

--- End forwarded message ---

| 28918|2009-05-20 07:46:24|Paul Kekai Manansala|Re: Nefertiti bust|

Manu Ampim from June, 2004:

> --- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Derrick, Alexander" <Alexander.Derrick@v...> wrote:
> >

>If the object is a forgery a study of the pigments would quickly reveal it's >authenticity or lack their of. I am sure that the German's would have >scrutinized the prize of their collection.>

Greetings Alex,

Not really. There have already beenrequests for scientific studies on this piece, and the Germans have denied them. Why are you so "sure" about the integrity and motives of people that you have never met?Why not reverse your question and ask, why would the Germans open up research on this piece, particularly since it is surrounded in mystery? I assure you that the risks are too great for them to allow openaccess.

By 1912, the archeological authentication standards were alreadyestablished, and it would be quite simple for the Germans to end speculation and produce the required written and photographic evidence to authenticate this alleged "discovery." Ludwig Borchardt was an accomplished Egyptologist and to suggest that he and his colleagues may have somehow "forgot" or just decided not to recordthis major discovery is completely unreasonable.

The art antiquities world does not operate as you are suggesting. There are numerous reasons (e.g. racism, profits, prestige, professional embarrassment, etc.) why many museums officials (including the Germans) will never willingly publish research results or allow certain pieces to be independently examined regarding their authenticity. This well known fact of museum denialand cover-up is written about in great detail by Oscar Muscarella in his book, _The Lie Became Great: The Forgery of Ancient Near Eastern Cultures_ (1996). Muscarella has worked as a staff member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art (NY) for 40 years. Read his work and learn of this mafia-like code of silence within museums and how the interconnected forgery culture operates.

On apersonal note, I conducted museum research in 11 European countries and in all of the collections where I worked, the only museum that I would characterize asuncooperative was the Berlin Egyptian Museum.Surprisingly, I found all other museums and their staff to be quite helpful, and this fact was one of the most unexpected blessings of my research.

You wrote:

> 3) The bust is lighter in color than other representation of the Queen.

> This is odd but, do have enough images of Nefertiti survived for us to > be sure that she never was painted yellow/red?

You indicated earlier that the famous bust was painted "light red/yellow," which is not the case. However, if this were the color there is no problem, because we can always find some variations of dark colors used to depict individuals on different artifacts. I commented on thisincorrect statement earlier because it is too misleading, as the actual color is more palish (and not red or yellow).

I personally examined and documented what I believe is the complete set of all known Nefertiti images, other thanrelief pieces that arein storage in Egypt.If I were to put together a collage of the Nefertiti images the one that would remain outside of the range of commonimages is the unique pale-skin, thin-nose image in Berlin....you know, the one that has no evidence of its "discovery."If you put together an iconographic chronology, you will still not find a pale-colored 18th dynasty royal image like the "Berlin bust" no matter how much color variation there is between images.

Lastly, European Egyptologists like to promote racist propaganda and call strong African features "exaggerated" during the Akhenaten era, yet these same"exaggerated" facial features are depicted in every major dynastic period. The only "exaggeration" is the one and only undocumented Berlin bust that is the closest to the European light skin color. This strange bust does not represent anevolution, it is an incredible anomaly with its pale skin color. If this is a legitimate evolved "style" then present other pale-skinned images of 18th dynasty royal figuresto represent this new stylistic development.

None of your photos came out. Please repost or provide URLs.

Advancing the work,

Manu Ampim

==========

==========

From: "Derrick, Alexander" <Alexander.Derrick@v...>

I personally don't think the Berlin Bust is a forgery. I am not 100% certain of its authenticity.

The early history of the piece is definitely obscure. If the object is a forgery a study of the pigments would quickly reveal it's authenticity or lack their of. I am sure that the German's would have scrutinized the prize of their collection.

It has also come to my attention that the bust was possibly discovered broken in several pieces and then possibly poorly restored while in a private collection before it was donated to the Berlin Museum. Thus, one logical explaining for its disappearance from the archeological record and its shoddy workmanship could be easily explained by less than professional restoration while in the hands of a private collector.

My observation --

1)The Berlin Musuem has dropped the ball by not publishing anything regarding the conservation of its most famous icon. But, lack of documentation or a mysterious dissapearn does not indicate a forgery or tampering!

2) Nefertiti is very overrated in Egyptian history. Female Kings Hashepsut and Sbekneferu, the great Ahmose Nefertari, Nefertari (Rameses II wife), Queen Tiye, Queen Ati and Seti's Wife are far more interesting African women.

3) The bust is lighter in color than other representation of the Queen. This is odd but, do have enough images of Nefertiti survived for us to be sure that she never was painted yellow/red? Even for symbolic reasons, see my first post regarding the rare yellow image of Queen Tiye.

4) Maybe we Afrocentrics are dropping the ball by comparing the Berlin Bust to images early in the reign of Amenhotep / Akenaten. I think it is clear that early iconography from Aketaten is clearly exaggerated and as the style progressed and matured the iconography also evolved.

If we only show a "carefully selected" set of images of Nefertiti w/o showing them in a chronological sequence, and without explaining that the Amarna epoch had several different stylistic evolutions we might be fooling ourselves into thinking that the Berlin bust is totally out of place.

| 28919|2009-05-20 10:37:11|bamaguze|Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"|
Peter et al,
I hope that the organizers will make the papers or extracts, summaries, etc, available electronically to members of the newsletter, i.e, the laypersons who really need to have this information for development of our collective understanding of who we are and our history.

Bamaguze

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Peter Gray wrote:
>
>
> The conference is actually the brain child of the Manchester Museum -- the Univ. of Manchester, along with the Univ. of Minas Gerais (in Brasil) was responsible for the reconstrution of "Luzia", the earliest American skeleton found to date, which reconstruction was visibly and undeniably African.

>
>
>
> Peter
>
>
>
>
>
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> From: afrikaspirit3@...
> Date: Tue, 19 May 2009 05:01:13 -0700
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Greetings,
>
> You are to be commended on preparing an excellent conference that is very important to Black African people all over this world. It is important for Black Scholars to disclose the true history of Egypt, Kemet and Africa. Africans have had their history told by others which is a crime against humanity! The scholars listed to present their research in regards to this matter will prove Africa is the home of Black people, that Egypt is locaterd in Africa and that the roots of her culture originate from Black Africans.
>
> It is very important to have this conference because some racist Europeans scholars are still trying to say Egypt has European roots. This conference should conclude with a power point presentation of the research conducted by Cheikh Anta Diop and Dr. John Henrik Clarke. They have already proved what the conference is trying to relay, which is that Africa is a Black Continent and Egypt was an African Civilization. Check out a reference to their work.
>
> In 1974 Diop also told them he could prove beyond a shadow of a doubt, that Egypt was located in Africa and that Egyptians were Black people. When Diop told them he could prove this by obtaining pigment from the mummies, the Europeans could not refute his claim. He proved that Egypt and all of the ancient civilizations along the Nile were in Africa and populated by Black people

>
>
> In memory of our ancestors,
> Brotha Pruitt
> Reparations Leader and Chairman
> Committee for African-American Reparations (CAAR) CA
> Reparations Union Lobbying Association (RULA) NC
> www.divineblacktruth.org
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, kcamm23063@... wrote:
>
>
> From: kcamm23063@...
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 2:35 AM
>
>
>
>
>
> Culled from Egyptologists' Electronic Forum (EEF) list...
>
> THE MANCHESTER MUSEUM,
> UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER
>
>  Call for Papers **
>
> "Egypt in its African Context"
>
> The Manchester Museum, University of Manchester
>
> 3-4 October 2009
>
> The African elements of the ancient Egyptian culture, and indeed > its physical location in Africa, have frequently been ignored, and > there exists a level of prejudice against suggestions that Egyptian > culture can be situated within an African cultural context. The > contextualising of ancient Egypt culturally and geographically > within Africa, the concept of ancient Egypt as part of Black > History, and the discussion of how the material is perceived and > interpreted in the West have only recently begun to receive > attention, and the discussion is still regarded as peripheral > and often irrelevant.
>
> The aims of the conference are to:

>
> * address perceptions of ancient Egypt in the West, in scholarly > writing and public understanding;
> * present the work of scholars working on African-centred
> Egyptology;
> * present a scholarly approach to the subject of Egypt in Africa > to counterbalance the extreme Afrocentric views within which > such a debate is often contextualised;
> * investigate how community groups and professional Egyptologists > can transfer their knowledge and points of view.
>
> Papers are requested that address the following themes:
>
> * the African aspects of ancient Egyptian culture;
> * historical and contemporary African perceptions of ancient > Egypt;
> * the contested nature of ancient Egypt;
> * the biases inherent in presentation of Egypt in the West, and > ways of addressing this - in museums, media and popular and > scholarly publication.
>
> Key speakers include Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, Senior Assistant
> Keeper, Department of Antiquities, The Fitzwilliam Museum,
> Cambridge; Dr Abadayo Folorunso, Professor, Department
> of Archaeology and Anthropology, University of Ibadan, Ibadan, > Nigeria; Dr Maulena Karenga, Professor, Department of Africana
> Studies, California State University, USA; Dr Shomarka Keita,
> Research affiliations with the National Human Genome Center,
> Howard University and the Department of Anthropology, Smithsonian
> Institution, USA; Dr. Jos頌ingna Nafaf鬠Lecturer, Department of
> Sociology, The University of Birmingham, UK; and Dr Kimani
> Nehusi, Senior Lecturer, Cass School of Education, University > of East London, UK.
>
> The conference is organised in association with The Fitzwilliam > Museum, Cambridge and with the support of The Petrie Museum > of Egyptian Archaeology.
>
> Abstracts of no more than 500 words, and full contact details, > are to be emailed to the conference organiser, Karen Exell:
>
> karen.exell@ manchester. ac.uk
>
> Closing date: 31st July 2009
>
> Dr Karen Exell

> Curator, Egypt and the Sudan
> The Manchester Museum
> University of Manchester
> Oxford Road
> Manchester M13 9PL
> www.manchester. ac.uk/museum
> http://egyptmanches ter.wordpress. com/
> Direct line: 0161 275 8772
>
>
> Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
> Karen C. Aboiralor
>
>
>
>
> Recession-proof vacation ideas. Find free things to do in the U.S.
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> _____
> Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Don't worry about storage limits.
>
http://windowslive.com/Tutorial/Hotmail/Storage?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Tutorial_Storage1_052009
>
| 28920|2009-05-20 12:29:34|Michael Bayman|Diplomacy From The Moorcentric-Center-Of-Gravity: Not-Enough-Hours: |
From: Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency: Staff
Unto: All-Moors (Declared/Undeclared)/Original-men and women:
on-this-planet
Re: Latest-video from the Amexem-Moor-Empire:
Imperial-Government
I.S.L.A.M.:
On the behalf of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Constitutional-Monarch, His-Imperial-Majesty: Emperor: An-Anu-El: Bey and the-entire: Amexem-Moor-Empire: National-Collective , peace, good-health, and much-prosperity: be-upon-you.
For the record, please-find-below a link for the latest-video from the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency by the order from the Operations-Director : Distinguished-Noble: Seti-Hotep: Bey under the authority of the Amexem-Moor-Empire: Minister For The Communications,

His-Excellency: Grand-Noble: Dan-El
For the record, we-request-that-you: share the link with brothers and sisters, in-your-cipher/circle, if-you-appreciate the information therein the video.
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fXYcyFvVVEc

>Of the dispatching by the Amexem-Moor-Empire:
Imperial-Broadcasting-Agency: Staff

| 28921|2009-05-20 15:04:13|Peter Gray|Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"|
I cetainly hope so too, Bamaguze.
Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: gibsonernest@hotmail.com
Date: Wed, 20 May 2009 17:36:24 +0000
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"

Peter et al,
I hope that the organizers will make the papers or extracts, summaries, etc, available electronically to members of the newsletter, i.e, the laypersons who really need to have this information for development of our collective understanding of who we are and our history.

Bamaguze

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, Peter Gray wrote:
>
>
> The conference is actually the brain child of the Manchester Museum -- the Univ. of Manchester, along with the Univ. of Minas Gerais (in Brasil) was responsible for the reconstrution of "Luzia", the earliest American skeleton found to date, which reconstruction was visibly and undeniably African.
>
>
>
> Peter
>
>
>
>
>
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> From: afrikaspirit3@ ...

> Date: Tue, 19 May 2009 05:01:13 -0700
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Greetings,
>
> You are to be commended on preparing an excellent conference that is very important to Black African people all over this world. It is important for Black Scholars to disclose the true history of Egypt, Kemet and Africa. Africans have had their history told by others which is a crime against humanity! The scholars listed to present their research in regards to this matter will prove Africa is the home of Black people, that Egypt is locaterd in Africa and that the roots of her culture originate from Black Africans.
>
> It is very important to have this conference because some racist Europeans scholars are still trying to say Egypt has European roots. This conference should conclude with a power point presentation of the research conducted by Cheikh Anta Diop and Dr. John Henrik Clarke. They have already proved what the conference is trying to relay, which is that Africa is a Black Continent and Egypt was an African Civilization. Check out a reference to their work.
>
> In 1974 Diop also told them he could prove beyond a shadow of a doubt, that Egypt was located in Africa and that Egyptians were Black people. When Diop told them he could prove this by obtaining pigment from the mummies, the Europeans could not refute his claim. He proved that Egypt and all of the ancient civilizations along the Nile were in Africa and populated by Black people
>
>
> In memory of our ancestors,
> Brotha Pruitt
> Reparations Leader and Chairman
> Committee for African-American Reparations (CAAR) CA
> Reparations Union Lobbying Association (RULA) NC
> www.divineblacktrut h.org
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, kcamm23063@. .. wrote:
>
>

> From: kcamm23063@. ..
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 2:35 AM
>
>
>
>
>
> Culled from Egyptologists' Electronic Forum (EEF) list...
>
> THE MANCHESTER MUSEUM,
> UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER
>
>  Call for Papers **
>
> "Egypt in its African Context"
>
> The Manchester Museum, University of Manchester
>
> 3-4 October 2009
>
> The African elements of the ancient Egyptian culture, and indeed > its physical location in Africa, have frequently been ignored, and > there exists a level of prejudice against suggestions that Egyptian > culture can be situated within an African cultural context. The > contextualising of ancient Egypt culturally and geographically
> within Africa, the concept of ancient Egypt as part of Black > History, and the discussion of how the material is perceived and > interpreted in the West have only recently begun to receive > attention, and the discussion is still regarded as peripheral
> and often irrelevant.
>
> The aims of the conference are to:
>
> * address perceptions of ancient Egypt in the West, in scholarly > writing and public understanding;
> * present the work of scholars working on African-centred
> Egyptology;
> * present a scholarly approach to the subject of Egypt in Africa
> to counterbalance the extreme Afrocentric views within which
> such a debate is often contextualised;
> * investigate how community groups and professional Egyptologists > can transfer their knowledge and points of view.
>
> Papers are requested that address the following themes:

>
> * the African aspects of ancient Egyptian culture;
> * historical and contemporary African perceptions of ancient > Egypt;
> * the contested nature of ancient Egypt;
> * the biases inherent in presentation of Egypt in the West, and > ways of addressing this - in museums, media and popular and > scholarly publication.
>
> Key speakers include Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, Senior Assistant
> Keeper, Department of Antiquities, The Fitzwilliam Museum,
> Cambridge; Dr Abadayo Folorunso, Professor, Department
> of Archaeology and Anthropology, University of Ibadan, Ibadan, > Nigeria; Dr Maulena Karenga, Professor, Department of Africana
> Studies, California State University, USA; Dr Shomarka Keita,
> Research affiliations with the National Human Genome Center,
> Howard University and the Department of Anthropology, Smithsonian
> Institution, USA; Dr. Jos頌ingna Nafaf鬠Lecturer, Department of
> Sociology, The University of Birmingham, UK; and Dr Kimani
> Nehusi, Senior Lecturer, Cass School of Education, University
> of East London, UK.
>
> The conference is organised in association with The Fitzwilliam > Museum, Cambridge and with the support of The Petrie Museum
> of Egyptian Archaeology.
>
> Abstracts of no more than 500 words, and full contact details,
> are to be emailed to the conference organiser, Karen Exell:
>
> karen.exell@ manchester. ac.uk
>
> Closing date: 31st July 2009
>
> Dr Karen Exell
> Curator, Egypt and the Sudan
> The Manchester Museum
> University of Manchester
> Oxford Road
> Manchester M13 9PL
> www.manchester. ac.uk/museum
> http://egyptmanches ter.wordpress. com/
> Direct line: 0161 275 8772
>
>
> Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
> Karen C. Aboiralor

>
>
>
>
> Recession-proof vacation ideas. Find free things to do in the U.S.
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _____ _
> Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Don't worry about storage limits.
> http://windowslive. com/Tutorial/ Hotmail/Storage? ocid=TXT_ TAGLM_WL_ HM_Tutorial_ Storage1_ 052009
>

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.
| 28922|2009-05-20 16:22:31|Asar Imhotep|Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"|
Peace
Event if my abstract isn't selected, I will make the article available regardless.
Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Wed, 5/20/09, bamaguze wrote:

From: bamaguze
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Wednesday, May 20, 2009, 12:36 PM

Peter et al,
I hope that the organizers will make the papers or extracts, summaries, etc, available electronically to members of the newsletter, i.e, the laypersons who really need to have this information for development of our collective understanding of who we are and our history.

Bamaguze

RECENT ACTIVITY

- 9

New Members

- 1

New Links

Visit Your Group

Give Back
Yahoo! for Good

Get inspired

by a good cause.

Y! Toolbar Get it Free!

easy 1-click access to your groups.

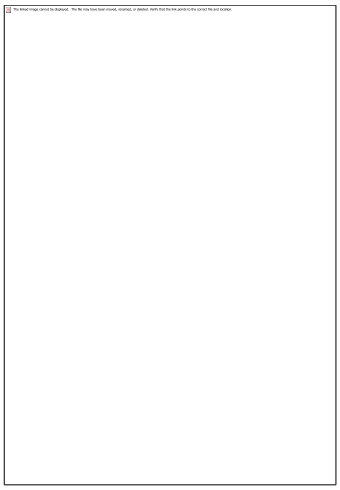
Yahoo! Groups
Start a group

in 3 easy steps.

Connect with others.



| 28923|2009-05-20 18:50:14|Tafari khumbaka|(no subject)|

Attachments :

Kings day 2009.jpg

0 seconds ago | tafari

Celebrate 35 years of Ancient Kamitic Spiritual Upliftment, spread across the Diaspora. Begin your weekend with Kamit Preparatory Institute's Annual Spring Concert on Friday (May 22, 2009). Attend the 35th Anniversary Gala honoring Shekhem Ur Shekhem Ra Un Nefer Amen I, on Saturday (May 23, 2009). On Sunday, attend TOLM, then relax and experience the Ausar Ausar Auset Documentary--a presentation that chronicles some of the defining moments in the Society's history.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28924|2009-05-21 05:43:56|Ferg|Re: nefertiti|
This story is not new, but....
http://www.egyptology-uk.com/egyptology_news_frameset.htm
Somo

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Paul Kekai Manansala
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 5:31 PM
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: nefertiti
>
> For obvious reasons, we rarely see this and other legitimate portrayals of Nefertiti.

Regards,
Paul

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Ferg" wrote:
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ferg
> To: ferg@...
> Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 3:09 PM
> Subject: Emailing: E.GA.2303.1943(3)
>
>
> Queen Nefertiti, see attachment
>
> Somo
>

| 28925|2009-05-21 05:48:16|Ferg|Re: nefertiti|
Sorry! Scroll down to Hawas on Nefertiti
Somo

----- Original Message -----
From: Ferg
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Sent: Thursday, May 21, 2009 1:38 PM

Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: nefertiti

This story is not new, but....
http://www.egyptolo gy-uk.com/ egyptology_ news_ frameset. htm
Somo

----- Original Message -----
From: Paul Kekai Manansala
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 5:31 PM
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: nefertiti

For obvious reasons, we rarely see this and other legitimate portrayals of Nefertiti.

Regards,
Paul

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Ferg" wrote:
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ferg
> To: ferg@...

> Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 3:09 PM
> Subject: Emailing: E.GA.2303.1943(3)
>
>
> Queen Nefertiti, see attachment
>
> Somo
>

| 28926|2009-05-21 05:52:29|Emeagwali, Gloria (History)|Re: Nefertiti bust|

Attachments :

Derrick, have you seen other images of Nefertiti?Do they really look like the bust?

Gloria T. Emeagwali
www.africahistory.net <http://www.africahistory.net/> www.africahistoryonline.com <http://www.africahistoryonline.com/>
www.ccsu.edu/afstudy/archive.html <http://www.ccsu.edu/afstudy/archive.html>

From: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com on behalf of Paul Kekai Manansala Sent: Wed 5/20/2009 10:46 AM
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Nefertiti bust

Manu Ampim from June, 2004:

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, "Derrick, Alexander" wrote:
>

>If the object is a forgery a study of the pigments would quickly reveal it's >authenticity or lack their of. I am sure that the German's would have >scrutinized the prize of their collection.>

Greetings Alex,

Not really. There have already been requests for scientific studies on this piece, and the Germans have denied them. Why are you so "sure" about the integrity and motives of people that you have never met? Why not reverse your question and ask, why would the Germans open up research on this piece, particularly since it is surrounded in mystery? I assure you that the risks are too great for them to allow open access.

By 1912, the archeological authentication standards were already established, and it would be quite simple for the Germans to end speculation and produce the required written and photographic evidence to authenticate this alleged "discovery." Ludwig Borchardt was an accomplished Egyptologist and to suggest that he and his colleagues may have somehow "forgot" or just decided not to record this major discovery is completely unreasonable.

The art antiquities world does not operate as you are suggesting. There are numerous reasons (e.g. racism, profits, prestige, professional embarrassment, etc.) why many museums officials (including the Germans) will never willingly publish research results or allow certain pieces to be independently examined regarding their authenticity. This well known fact of museum denial and cover-up is written about in great detail by Oscar Muscarella in his book, _The Lie Became Great: The Forgery of Ancient Near Eastern Cultures_ (1996). Muscarella has worked as a staff member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art (NY) for 40 years. Read his work and learn of this mafia-like code of silence within museums and how the interconnected forgery culture operates.

On a personal note, I conducted museum research in 11 European countries and in all of the collections where I worked, the only museum that I would characterize as uncooperative was the Berlin Egyptian Museum. Surprisingly, I found all other museums and their staff to be quite helpful, and this fact was one of the most unexpected blessings of my research.

You wrote:
> 3) The bust is lighter in color than other representation of the Queen.

> This is odd but, do have enough images of Nefertiti survived for us to > be sure that she never was painted yellow/red?

You indicated earlier that the famous bust was painted "light red/yellow," which is not the case. However, if this were the color there is no problem, because we can always find some variations of dark colors used to depict individuals on different artifacts. I commented on this incorrect statement earlier because it is too misleading, as the actual color is more palish (and not red or yellow).

I personally examined and documented what I believe is the complete set of all known Nefertiti images, other than relief pieces that are in storage in Egypt. If I were to put together a collage of the Nefertiti images the one that would remain outside of the range of common images is the unique pale-skin, thin-nose image in Berlin....you know, the one that has no evidence of its "discovery." If you put together an iconographic chronology, you will still not find a pale-colored 18th dynasty royal image like the "Berlin bust" no matter how much color variation there is between images.

Lastly, European Egyptologists like to promote racist propaganda and call strong African features "exaggerated" during the Akhenaten era, yet these same "exaggerated" facial features are depicted in every major dynastic period. The only "exaggeration" is the one and only undocumented Berlin bust that is the closest to the European light skin color. This strange bust does not represent an evolution, it is an incredible anomaly with its pale skin color. If this is a legitimate evolved "style" then present other pale-skinned images of 18th dynasty royal figures to represent this new stylistic development.

None of your photos came out. Please repost or provide URLs.

Advancing the work,

Manu Ampim
==========
==========

From: "Derrick, Alexander"
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Ta_Seti/post?postID=VI0zRRh9T6ZN7bCizTXqA1kj74C1PjnKklQgQ-dav4hVqMlRbACLrDZrJtyTZZAwS9oIm9tX7w1r5ziz9Zc5-OmJa8iSRbE> >

I personally don't think the Berlin Bust is a forgery. I am not 100% certain of its authenticity.

The early history of the piece is definitely obscure. If the object is a forgery a study of the pigments would quickly reveal it's authenticity or lack their of. I am sure that the German's would have scrutinized the prize of their collection.

It has also come to my attention that the bust was possibly discovered broken in several pieces and then possibly poorly restored while in a private collection before it was donated to the Berlin Museum. Thus, one logical explaining for its disappearance from the archeological record and its shoddy workmanship could be easily explained by less than professional restoration while in the hands of a private collector.

My observation --

1)The Berlin Musuem has dropped the ball by not publishing anything regarding the conservation of its most famous icon. But, lack of documentation or a mysterious dissapearn does not indicate a forgery or tampering!

2) Nefertiti is very overrated in Egyptian history. Female Kings Hashepsut and Sbekneferu, the great Ahmose Nefertari, Nefertari (Rameses II wife), Queen Tiye, Queen Ati and Seti's Wife are far more interesting African women.

3) The bust is lighter in color than other representation of the Queen. This is odd but, do have enough images of Nefertiti survived for us to be sure that she never was painted yellow/red? Even for symbolic reasons, see my first post regarding the rare yellow image of Queen Tiye.

4) Maybe we Afrocentrics are dropping the ball by comparing the Berlin Bust to images early in the reign of Amenhotep / Akenaten. I think it is clear that early iconography from Aketaten is clearly exaggerated and as the style progressed and matured the iconography also evolved.

If we only show a "carefully selected" set of images of Nefertiti w/o showing them in a chronological sequence, and without explaining that the Amarna epoch had several different stylistic evolutions we might be fooling ourselves into thinking that the Berlin bust is totally out of place.

| 28927|2009-05-21 06:07:35|Ferg|Ethnicity of Z. Hawas|

Pardon me,

But does any one know of Zawi Hawas's beliefs. Is he Christian, Muslim, Hindu?

Somo
| 28928|2009-05-21 07:09:12|odhiambo okecth|Count Down; KCDN Peace Run|
Dear Friends,

Following our appeal for partnership and support, we are to report that we are making progress with the preparations of the 2nd Edition of the KCDN Peace Run/Walk.

We have confirmed participation of 15 school. We have also confirmed the participation of many parents. What is interesting is the interest the parents have shown.

They want to come together and re-live their childhood days. They want to have fun by playing those simple games such us skipping with ropes, bano and kalongolongo. They want to make this a truly bonding and healing session.

We will also have a Peace-Tug-of-War pitting the various communities.

It will be fun.

We need more ideas and more support. And we need an MC, one who is in demand, pro-bono.

We can now confirm that we have support from the following people;
1] George Nyongesa; Kshs 15,000.00
2] Elijah Kombo; Kshs 2,800.00
3] Otieno Sungu;
4] Andrew Keros;
5] Development Through Media; Video Coverage
6] Our thanks and appreciation as the list grows.

We are zeroing on what must be done and we humbly invite your support. Let us own the process and move the process of healing and reconciliation truly Kenyan. It is for us.

At KCDN, at least, we are doing something to bring the change that we need. Check us out;
http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com

By the end of today, we will also be celebrating the 1000th visitor to our blogspot. That is a major achievement for us at KCDN for which we must thank you for.

Blessings,

Odhiambo T Oketch,
CEO KCDN Nairobi,
Tel; 0735 529 126, 0724 365 557,
http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com

| 28929|2009-05-21 09:53:16|kesate berhan|Re: The Kaaba at Mecca|

I think its time Facebook should start the "Return the Kaaba back to Ethiopia" page  ...

kb

| 28930|2009-05-21 13:42:19|Emeagwali, Gloria (History)|Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"|

This is a mainstream institution coming to grips with the reality of Ancient Egypt and its African context. Quite a change.

GE

From: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com [mailto:Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com] On Behalf Of Peter Gray
Sent: Wednesday, May 20, 2009 6:04 PM
To: Marc Washington
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"

I cetainly hope so too, Bamaguze.
Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: gibsonernest@hotmail.com
Date: Wed, 20 May 2009 17:36:24 +0000
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"

Peter et al,
I hope that the organizers will make the papers or extracts, summaries, etc, available electronically to members of the newsletter, i.e, the laypersons who really need to have this information for development of our collective understanding of who we are and our history.

Bamaguze

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, Peter Gray wrote:

> >
> > The conference is actually the brain child of the Manchester Museum -- the Univ. of Manchester, along with the Univ. of Minas Gerais (in Brasil) was responsible for the reconstrution of "Luzia", the earliest American skeleton found to date, which reconstruction was visibly and undeniably African.
> >
> >

>
> Peter
>
>
>
>
>
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> From: afrikaspirit3@...
> Date: Tue, 19 May 2009 05:01:13 -0700
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> Greetings,
>
> You are to be commended on preparing an excellent conference that is very important to Black African people all over this world. It is important for Black Scholars to disclose the true history of Egypt, Kemet and Africa. Africans have had their history told by others which is a crime against humanity! The scholars listed to present their research in regards to this matter will prove Africa is the home of Black people, that Egypt is locaterd in Africa and that the roots of her culture originate from Black Africans.
>
> It is very important to have this conference because some racist Europeans scholars are still trying to say Egypt has European roots. This conference should conclude with a power point presentation of the research conducted by Cheikh Anta Diop and Dr. John Henrik Clarke. They have already proved what the conference is trying to relay, which is that Africa is a Black Continent and Egypt was an African Civilization. Check out a reference to their work.
>
> In 1974 Diop also told them he could prove beyond a shadow of a doubt, that Egypt was located in Africa and that Egyptians were Black people. When Diop told them he could prove this by obtaining pigment from the mummies, the Europeans could not refute his claim. He proved that Egypt and all of the ancient civilizations along the Nile were in Africa and populated by Black people
>
>
> In memory of our ancestors,
> Brotha Pruitt
> Reparations Leader and Chairman
> Committee for African-American Reparations (CAAR) CA
> Reparations Union Lobbying Association (RULA) NC
> www.divineblacktruth.org

>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, kcamm23063@... wrote:
>
>
> From: kcamm23063@...
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Call for Papers: "Egypt in its African Context"
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 2:35 AM
>
>
>
>
>
> Culled from Egyptologists' Electronic Forum (EEF) list...
>
> THE MANCHESTER MUSEUM,
> UNIVERSITY OF MANCHESTER
>
>  Call for Papers **
>
> "Egypt in its African Context"
>
> The Manchester Museum, University of Manchester
>
> 3-4 October 2009
>
> The African elements of the ancient Egyptian culture, and indeed > its physical location in Africa, have frequently been ignored, and > there exists a level of prejudice against suggestions that Egyptian > culture can be situated within an African cultural context. The > contextualising of ancient Egypt culturally and geographically
> within Africa, the concept of ancient Egypt as part of Black > History, and the discussion of how the material is perceived and > interpreted in the West have only recently begun to receive > attention, and the discussion is still regarded as peripheral
> and often irrelevant.
>
> The aims of the conference are to:
>
> * address perceptions of ancient Egypt in the West, in scholarly > writing and public understanding;
> * present the work of scholars working on African-centred
> Egyptology;
> * present a scholarly approach to the subject of Egypt in Africa
> to counterbalance the extreme Afrocentric views within which
> such a debate is often contextualised;
> * investigate how community groups and professional Egyptologists > can transfer their knowledge and points of view.
>
> Papers are requested that address the following themes:
>
> * the African aspects of ancient Egyptian culture;

> * historical and contemporary African perceptions of ancient > Egypt;
> * the contested nature of ancient Egypt;
> * the biases inherent in presentation of Egypt in the West, and > ways of addressing this - in museums, media and popular and > scholarly publication.
>
> Key speakers include Dr Sally-Ann Ashton, Senior Assistant
> Keeper, Department of Antiquities, The Fitzwilliam Museum,
> Cambridge; Dr Abadayo Folorunso, Professor, Department
> of Archaeology and Anthropology, University of Ibadan, Ibadan, > Nigeria; Dr Maulena Karenga, Professor, Department of Africana
> Studies, California State University, USA; Dr Shomarka Keita,
> Research affiliations with the National Human Genome Center,
> Howard University and the Department of Anthropology, Smithsonian
> Institution, USA; Dr. Jos頌ingna Nafaf鬠Lecturer, Department of
> Sociology, The University of Birmingham, UK; and Dr Kimani
> Nehusi, Senior Lecturer, Cass School of Education, University
> of East London, UK.
>
> The conference is organised in association with The Fitzwilliam > Museum, Cambridge and with the support of The Petrie Museum
> of Egyptian Archaeology.
>
> Abstracts of no more than 500 words, and full contact details,
> are to be emailed to the conference organiser, Karen Exell:
>
> karen.exell@ manchester. ac.uk
>
> Closing date: 31st July 2009
>
> Dr Karen Exell
> Curator, Egypt and the Sudan
> The Manchester Museum
> University of Manchester
> Oxford Road
> Manchester M13 9PL
> www.manchester. ac.uk/museum
> http://egyptmanches ter.wordpress. com/
> Direct line: 0161 275 8772
>
>
> Forward Ever (by any means necessary)!
> Karen C. Aboiralor
>
>
>
>
> Recession-proof vacation ideas. Find free things to do in the U.S.
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
> _____
> Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Don't worry about storage limits.
>
href="http://windowslive.com/Tutorial/Hotmail/Storage?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Tutorial_Storage1_052009">http://windowslive.com/Tutorial/Hotmail/Storage?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Tutorial_Storage1_052009
>

Hotmail goes with you. Get it on your BlackBerry or iPhone.

| 28931|2009-05-21 14:53:52|Tafari khumbaka|diamonds.....|

①icidaire□unmen Stalk Diamond Diggers in Congo□Mining Hub
Bloomberg Wed, 20 May 2009 08:00 AM PDT
May 20 (Bloomberg) -- After digging all day on the edge of the Democratic Republic of Congo □biggest diamond mine, Mike Mukadji hurries home to his pregnant wife and baby daughter for fear of encountering the gunmen known as □icidaires.□/font>

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28932|2009-05-21 15:18:51|cristofori whitakara|Re: where's king solomon?|
according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM

usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
--- ---
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:

Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com

Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28933|2009-05-21 15:28:26|cristofori whitakara|Mycenean Greece|
Bro. M. Washington maybe you can shed some light on this.

Race is on to preserve oldest submerged town

May 14, 2009
CourtesyUniversity of Nottingham
and World Science staff

A site that archaeologists call the worlds oldest submerged town may be about to give up its secrets with the help of equipment that could revolutionize underwater archaeology, researchers say.

The ancient town of Pavlopetri lies in three to four metres (yards) of water just off the coast of southern Laconia in Greece. The ruins date from at least 2800 B.C. to about 1180 B.C., researchers say.

The latter part of this era forms part of a Bronze Age phase that was the setting for much Ancient Greek literature and myth, including Homers sagas recounting tales from a legendary age of heroes.

Underwater archaeologist Jon Henderson of The University of Nottingham, U.K., is to be the first archaeologist to have official access to the site in 40 years. Despite its potential international importance no work has been carried out at the site since it was first mapped in 1968, said Henderson, who obtained special permission from the Greek government to study the site.

The town was part of Mycenaean Greece, an area of Greek civilization taking its name from the archaeological site and city of Mycenae. Although Mycenaean power was largely based on control of the sea, little is known about the workings of the harbour towns of the period as archaeology to date has focused on the better known inland palaces and citadels, according to Henderson.

Pavlopetri was presumably once a thriving harbour town where the inhabitants conducted local and long distance trade throughout the Mediterranean its sandy and well-protected bay would have been ideal for beaching Bronze Age ships. As such the site offers major new insights into the workings of Mycenaean society, Henderson said.

His project aims to discover the history and development of Pavlopetri, find out when it was occupied, what it was used for and through a systematic study to establish why the town vanished under the sea. This site is of rare international archaeological importance. It is imperative that the fragile remains of this town are accurately recorded and preserved before they are lost forever, said Henderson.

The submerged structures lie just off a sandy stretch of beach close to an area popular with holiday makers and campers. Under threat from tourism and industry the remains are being damaged by boats dragging their anchors, inquisitive snorkelers on the hunt for souvenirs and the growth of marine organisms which are also taking their toll, degrading the fragile 3,500 year old walls.

Henderson and his team plan four annual study seasons. This May and June the team will carry out a full underwater survey. Between 2010 and 2012 underwater excavations are scheduled, and findings are to be published in 2014.

The survey, in collaboration with Elias Spondylis of the Ephorate of Underwater Antiquities of the Hellenic Ministry of Culture, will be carried out using equipment originally developed for the military and offshore oilfield market but that researchers say could transform underwater archaeological survey and recording.

Henderson and his team intend to carry out a survey using an acoustic scanner that produces photo-realistic, three-dimensional digital surveys of seabed features and underwater structures to sub-millimetre accuracy in minutes.

*** * ***

| 28934|2009-05-21 23:37:03|Asar Imhotep|The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality|

Attachments :

The BAKALA of North America.pdf

Greetings Phamily
In the spirit of the African American Cultural Development Project, I wanted to submit for public reviewa draft for a possible renaming of African-Americans. The title of the article is called The Bakala of North America: the Suns of Vitality. Please provide feedback if you can. The document is attached in an Adobe Acrobat document (pdf). I look forward to your feedback.
Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-VERSITY
MOCHA-Versity

| 28935|2009-05-22 07:57:20|Ferg|Re: The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality [1 Attachment]|

Greetings! Kaa
Still digesting your work. Will come back to you.
In the meantime enjoy: http://www.kumalo.com/africanlegendsbakaye.html
Somo

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Asar Imhotep
> To: FromtheNileandBeyond@yahoogroups.com
> Cc: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com
> Sent: Friday, May 22, 2009 7:36 AM
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality [1 Attachment]
>
> Greetings Phamily
> In the spirit of the African American Cultural Development Project, I wanted to submit for public reviewa draft for a possible renaming of African-Americans. The title of the article is called The Bakala of North America: the Suns of Vitality. Please provide feedback if you can. The document is attached in an Adobe Acrobat document (pdf). I look forward to your feedback.
> Ancestrally,
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
> BANTU
> APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28936|2009-05-22 07:57:37|Michael J Robinson|Watch new videos just posted of Dr. Yosef Ben Jochannan, Dr. Clarke,|

Maat Hotep Family,

I just posted some fantastic videos in the past couple of days from our Scholar Warriors. You can view them on my YouTube Channel at www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914.

The African in the U.S.: The Booker T. Washington Era Dr. John Henrik Clarke

Dr. Clarke gives a fascinating account of Booker T. Washington and how he was selected by Europeans to be the leader of African-Americans. He details how Mr. Washington used this to uplift his people and focus and education and the trades. We can use a lot of his principles today. You can tell from his grasp of history that he had read all of the 20,000 books he had in his personal collection.

The Black Man Must Wake Up Dr. Yosef ben Jochannan

This is a classic video from Dr. Yosef ben Jochannan. It took place at Tuskegee University. He covers a lot of ground with this lecture. Everything from Hippocrates going to Kemet to study medicine yet the Greeks called him the father of medicine to the early days of the with Pope Martin V in 1506 and Bartholomew De La Casas having Moors captured and taken from Spain to Hispaniola. Everyone can learn from this one.

Did you know that there were 5 million Falasha (African Jews) in Ethiopia when Mussolini invaded and only 50,000 left when the exited? They were exterminated. This is just one of our Holocausts.

No Evidence No Argument Dr. Ray Hagins

In this message, Dr. Hagins talks about how the evidence of the greatness of African people in Egypt is being destroyed by Arabs. He uses a lot of photos to show the evidence of our greatness.

From Miseducation to Education Dr. Leonard Jeffries and Dr. Asa Hillard

Thanks,

Michael J. Robinson

President

The African History Network

mrobinson@AfricanHistoryNetwork.com

Mjrob1914@comcast.net

Mjrob1914@gmail.com

www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914

"Right knowledge, corrects wrong behavior!!!"

| 28937|2009-05-22 11:24:21|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|Re: where's king solomon?|
Light skinned nubian,?,,, adam/adom is usually rendered red by many theologians.
red is not necessarily adesignation of race among the ancients , in the stories and what is found in archaeological works/digs, red is a demarcation of spirituality across the whole planet wheter China or America etc... among all peoples red is a symbol of life coming from the earth,.
People in ancient times were intrigued with how they got red ocher from iron deposits and use it in ritual and even among many as a daily skin coloring.
Ra arose from the earth and his blood and tears and semen is what he made his people from, and all people know they are his descendents from their red blood and many take red from the earth

as a way of showing what Ra came from; and is still in the earth and alive in his progency.
Adam from Atum is another Ra risen from the earth who is the first man of the Hebairu/hebrews and his immediate progency are therefore in the minds of the hebrews the kings of the earth the first people of god/yvh elohim shvayh and own the placeadam arose from .
Red is a distinct mark of spirituality for ancient peoples .
Also note that Sedth/Set/Sut was red and Ausar/Wsir/Osiris was Black, themost holy places of Ancient Egypt where in Sedth/ the south(where we get the word south) and althought the royal line always came from Taseti (south land) the place ofred Sedth and its the Red crown of the Sud/seth/Ta-seti/Tazeti that came to the north and established the two lands and designed all the delta down to memphis as the red crown lands and giving the lands south of memphis to Ausar the white crown .
Heru became the keeper of both crowns he was given Sethi red crown and inheirted his fathers white crown.
Thered crown descended from Ra toSetdh symbolise's Ra's Blood and the white crown Ra's sperm given to Ausar.
Hence in my viewone of the reasons theKing of kings began to use Ra nomens along with the 4 othernames;, that is too say they got the act of Ra's making (mankind) politically-symbolically literally economically in daily practice, with the uniting of the two lands by Shekhem Ur Shekhem Meni-Aha in fact bringing the mythology too life by mirroring heaven.
The mythe of Jakub and Isaac is the retelling of the aforemention mythe of Ausar and Sedthe this would make Jacob/Yakub the red one and Isaac the black; and maybe they(scribes and habiru masters) wanted the two essences in their king david mythe(plagirised lie).

The two brother stories of enlil and Galgimesh is the same.
The two brother stories of Rama and Krishna is the same.
The two brother stories in the Navaho are the same and the story of Obatala descending on his golden chain (missing one link) and making mankind while drinking red wine is the same telling of The Ra story.
please note: these are my views, and opinions,, especially the meaning of the crowns and several other details; .....

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Thu, 5/21/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> From: cristofori whitakara
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Thursday, May 21, 2009, 5:17 PM
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referr > his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold > also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin > nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM

usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---

all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
---------- --------- -
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.

of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481

king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28938|2009-05-22 12:02:10|Asar Imhotep|Re: The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality|
Peace
Look forward to your feedback.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 9:16 AM

Greetings! Kaa
Still digesting your work. Will come back to you.
In the meantime enjoy: http://www.kumalo. com/africanlegen dsbakaye. html
Somo

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Asar Imhotep
> To: FromtheNileandBeyon d@yahoogroups. com
> Cc: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com
> Sent: Friday, May 22, 2009 7:36 AM
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality [1 Attachment]
>
> Greetings Phamily
> In the spirit of the African American Cultural Development Project, I wanted to su > public reviewa draft for a possible renaming of African-Americans. The title of the > called The Bakala of North America: the Suns of Vitality. Please provide feedback
> The document is attached in an Adobe Acrobat document (pdf). I look forward to > Ancestrally,
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
> BANTU
> APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28939|2009-05-22 13:38:10|Tafari khumbaka|Re: The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality [1 Attachment]|

Well documented and written, excellent, logical .

of course with so much to say many will find different points of view in the details, as i do in some details, BUT overall i agree thats there is a need for those who call themseleves African American to move to search for what most of us African American mean when we say I'm African American.

i would suggest we Afr.Am. have several subtopics to the term Afr.Am. like Afr.Am.bakala and so and so,,,,,, Afr.Am.Ausar-Auset , Afr.-Amer.euro, etc.

perhaps the move to a true name is a goal that must first have several objectives in the school education systemmosque, church and temple.

A person like Tavis Smiley or a Rapper well liked could make it into a fashion and from a fashion if it clicks in culture.....

i loved how u are relating so many African languages to Ta-Meri language.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality [1 Attachment]
To: FromtheNileandBeyond@yahoogroups.com
Cc: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 1:36 AM

Greetings Phamily
In the spirit of the African American Cultural Development Project, I wanted to submit fo public reviewa draft for a possible renaming of African-Americans. The title of the article called The Bakala of North America: the Suns of Vitality. Please provide feedback if you c The document is attached in an Adobe Acrobat document (pdf). I look forward to your fee Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28940|2009-05-22 17:18:27|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|
correction yakub and isaac , should be Yakub and esau and esau is the red one and jakub is the black

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com, maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 1:24 PM

Light skinned nubian,?,,, adam/adom is usually rendered red by many theologians.
red is not necessarily adesignation of race among the ancients , in the stories and what is f archaeological works/digs, red is a demarcation of spirituality across the whole planet whe

China or America etc... among all peoples red is a symbol of life coming from the earth,.
People in ancient times were intrigued with how they got red ocher from iron deposits and use it in ritual and even among many as a daily skin coloring.
Ra arose from the earth and his blood and tears and semen is what he made his people from, and all people know they are his descendents from their red blood and many take red from the earth as a way of showing what Ra came from; and is still in the earth and alive in his progency.
Adam from Atum is another Ra risen from the earth who is the first man of the Hebairu/hebrews and his immediate progency are therefore in the minds of the hebrews the kings of the earth the first people of god/yvh elohim shvayh and own the placeadam arose from .
Red is a distinct mark of spirituality for ancient peoples .
Also note that Sedth/Set/Sut was red and Ausar/Wsir/Osiris was Black, themost holy places of Ancient Egypt where in Sedth/ the south(where we get the word south) and althought the royal line always came from Taseti (south land) the place ofred Sedth and its the Red crown of the Sud/seth/Ta- seti/Tazeti that came to the north and established the two lands and designed all the delta down to memphis as the red crown lands and giving the lands south of memphis to Ausar the white crown .
Heru became the keeper of both crowns he was given Sethi red crown and inheirted his fathers white crown.
Thered crown descended from Ra toSetdh symbolise's Ra's Blood and the white crown Ra's sperm given to Ausar.
Hence in my viewone of the reasons theKing of kings began to use Ra nomens along with the 4 othernames;, that is too say they got the act of Ra's making (mankind) politically- symbolically literally economically in daily practice, with the uniting of the two lands by Shekhem Ur Shekhem Meni-Aha in fact bringing the mythology too life by mirroring heaven.
The mythe of Jakub and Isaac is the retelling of the aforemention mythe of Ausar and Sedthe this would make Jacob/Yakub the red one and Isaac the black; and maybe they(scribes and habiru masters) wanted the two essences in their king david mythe(plagirised lie).

The two brother stories of enlil and Galgimesh is the same.
The two brother stories of Rama and Krishna is the same.
The two brother stories in the Navaho are the same and the story of Obatala descending on his golden chain (missing one link) and making mankind while drinking red wine is the same telling of The Ra story.
please note: these are my views, and opinions,, especially the meaning of the crowns and several other details; .....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/21/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 21, 2009, 5:17 PM

according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM

usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton

by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
--- --- -
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.

Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com

Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28941|2009-05-22 17:22:59|tafari_sudra@yahoo.com|red with black hair ,king david ?|
cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 21, 2009, 5:17 PM

according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

Light skinned nubian,?,,, adam/adom is usually rendered red by many theologians.
red is not necessarily adesignation of race among the ancients , in the stories and what is found in archaeological works/digs, red is a demarcation of spirituality across the whole planet wheter China or America etc... among all peoples red is a symbol of life coming from the earth,.
People in ancient times were intrigued with how they got red ocher from iron deposits and use it in ritual and even among many as a daily skin coloring.
Ra arose from the earth and his blood and tears and semen is what he made his people from, and all people know they are his descendents from their red blood and many take red from the earth as a way of showing what Ra came from; and is still in the earth and alive in his progency.
Adam from Atum is another Ra risen from the earth who is the first man of the Hebairu/hebrews and his immediate progency are therefore in the minds of the hebrews the kings of the earth the first people of god/yvh elohim shvayh and own the placeadam arose from .
Red is a distinct mark of spirituality for ancient peoples .
Also note that Sedth/Set/Sut was red and Ausar/Wsir/Osiris was Black, themost holy places of Ancient Egypt where in Sedth/ the south(where we get the word south) and althought the royal line always came from Taseti (south land) the place ofred Sedth and its the Red crown of the Sud/seth/Ta- seti/Tazeti that came to the north and established the two lands and designed all the delta down to memphis as the red crown lands and giving the lands south of memphis to Ausar the white crown .
Heru became the keeper of both crowns he was given Sethi red crown and inheirted his fathers white crown.
Thered crown descended from Ra toSetdh symbolise's Ra's Blood and the white crown Ra's sperm given to Ausar.
Hence in my viewone of the reasons theKing of kings began to use Ra nomens along with the 4

othernames;, that is too say they got the act of Ra's making (mankind) politically- symbolically literally economically in daily practice, with the uniting of the two lands by Shekhem Ur Shekhem Meni-Aha in fact bringing the mythology too life by mirroring heaven.
The mythe of Jakub andesau is the retelling of the aforemention mythe of Ausar and Sedthe this would make Jacob/Yakub the black one andesau the red one; and maybe they(scribes and habiru masters) wanted the two essences in their king david mythe(plagirised lie).

The two brother stories of enlil and Galgimesh is the same.
The two brother stories of Rama and Krishna is the same.
The two brother stories in the Navaho are the same and the story of Obatala descending on his golden chain (missing one link) and making mankind while drinking red wine is the same telling of The Ra story.
please note: these are my views, and opinions,, especially the meaning of the crowns and several other details; .....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28942|2009-05-22 22:56:00|Asar Imhotep|Re: The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality|
I appreciate it.
I am currently working on the expanded version for a small book. I am including more linguistic information and the cosmological piece. Right now I'm accepting criticism so I can address it before the release.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 3:38 PM

Well documented and written, excellent, logical .
of course with so much to say many will find different points of view in the details, as i dc
some details, BUT overall i agree thats there is a need for those who call themseleves Afri American to move to search for what most of us African American mean when we say I'm African American.
i would suggest we Afr.Am. have several subtopics to the term Afr.Am. like Afr.Am.baka so and so,,,,,, Afr.Am.Ausar- Auset , Afr.-Amer.euro, etc.
perhaps the move to a true name is a goal that must first have several objectives in the sch education systemmosque, church and temple.
A person like Tavis Smiley or a Rapper well liked could make it into a fashion and from a fashion if it clicks in culture..... ..

i loved how u are relating so many African languages to Ta-Meri language.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality [1 Attachment]
To: FromtheNileandBeyon d@yahoogroups. com
Cc: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 1:36 AM

Greetings Phamily
In the spirit of the African American Cultural Development Project, I wanted to submit for public reviewa draft for a possible renaming of African-Americans. The title of the article is called The Bakala of North America: the Suns of Vitality. Please provide feedback if you can. The document is attached in an Adobe Acrobat document (pdf). I look forward to your feedback.
Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-VERSITY
MOCHA-Versity

| 28943|2009-05-23 06:21:46|Sptpy|Halle Berry to play Nefertiti|

http://blog.cleveland.com/pdextra/2008/04/medium_dandridgehbo.jpg

Berry recently spoked to MTVNews that her long planned biopic of Egyptian QueenNefertiti will be in production in the near future.
Berry said:

It should be epic in feel. [It will have] lots of action because its all about that era in time when Nerfititi was ruling her nation. Theres battle scenes and love[It's about] a woman coming into her own.
So it should have that epic quality to it.

http://www.mwza.com/halle-berry-nefertiti-movie-coming-soon/
| 28944|2009-05-23 09:27:59|Ginger Daniels|Re: diamonds.....|

I could not open up this link... can you please resend it? Perhaps just the website address?

To: maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Date: Thu, 21 May 2009 14:52:44 -0700
Subject: [Ta_Seti] diamonds.....

①icidaire□unmen Stalk Diamond Diggers in Congo□Mining Hub
Bloomberg Wed, 20 May 2009 08:00 AM PDT
May 20 (Bloomberg) -- After digging all day on the edge of the Democratic Republic of Congo □biggest diamond mine, Mike Mukadji hurries home to his pregnant wife and baby daughter for fear of encountering the gunmen known as □icidaires.□/font>

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.
| 28945|2009-05-23 09:28:04|shutefnut|Re: where's king solomon?|
-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ------------ --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
>
>

>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.

>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>

>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?
as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
| 28946|2009-05-23 09:28:15|shutefnut|Re: Mycenean Greece|
-HOTEP!

A period in Egypt which streches from the secound dynasty (Old Kingdom) through to the (middle kingdom.) As you may, or may not know Greece was a colony of Egypt during this period. also a good reference for more information would be the book:
THE BLACK ATHENA, and BLACK SPARK WHITE FIRE Unfortunenatly it hs been a long time sense I read these books so I'm not able to give you the authors name at this time. But I do hope this will be of some help.

Heru Bennu Amen Ra

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> Bro. M. Washington maybe you can shed some light on this.
>
> Race is on to preserve □oldest submerged town□

> May 14, 2009
> Courtesy University of Nottingham
> and World Science staff
> A site that archaeologists call the world□s oldest submerged town may be about to give up its secrets □ with the help of equipment that could revolutionize underwater archaeology, researchers say.
>
> The ancient town of Pavlopetri lies in three to four metres (yards) of water just off the coast of southern Laconia in Greece. The ruins date from at least 2800 B.C. to about 1180 B.C., researchers say.
>
> The latter part of this era forms part of a Bronze Age phase that was the setting for much Ancient Greek literature and myth, including Homer□s sagas recounting tales from a legendary age of heroes.
>
> Underwater archaeologist Jon Henderson of The University of Nottingham, U.K., is to be the first archaeologist to have official access to the site in 40 years. Despite its potential international importance no work has been carried out at the site since it was first mapped in 1968, said Henderson, who obtained special permission from the Greek government to study the site.
>
> The town was part of Mycenaean Greece, an area of Greek civilization taking its name from the archaeological site and city of Mycenae. Although Mycenaean power was largely based on control of the sea, little is known about the workings of the harbour towns of the period as archaeology to date has focused on the better known inland palaces and citadels, according to Henderson.
>
> Pavlopetri was presumably once a thriving harbour town where the inhabitants conducted local and long distance trade throughout the Mediterranean □ its sandy and well-protected bay would have been ideal for beaching Bronze Age ships. As such the site offers major new insights into the workings of Mycenaean society, Henderson said.
>
> His project aims to discover the history and development of Pavlopetri, find out when it was occupied, what it was used for and through a systematic study to establish why the town vanished under the sea. □This site is of rare international archaeological importance. It is imperative that the fragile remains of this town are accurately recorded and preserved before they are lost forever,□ said Henderson.
>
> The submerged structures lie just off a sandy stretch of beach close to an area popular with holiday makers and campers. Under threat from tourism and industry the remains are being damaged by boats dragging their anchors, inquisitive snorkelers on the hunt for souvenirs and the growth of marine organisms which are also taking their toll, degrading the fragile 3,500 year old walls.
>
> Henderson and his team plan four annual study seasons. This May and June the team will carry out a full underwater survey. Between 2010 and 2012 underwater excavations are scheduled, and findings are to be published in 2014.

>
> The survey, in collaboration with Elias Spondylis of the Ephorate of Underwater Antiquities of the Hellenic Ministry of Culture, will be carried out using equipment originally developed for the military and offshore oilfield market but that researchers say could transform underwater archae-ological survey and recording.
>
> Henderson and his team intend to carry out a survey using an acoustic scanner that produces photo-realistic, three-dimensional digital surveys of seabed features and underwater structures to sub-millimetre accuracy in minutes.
>
> * * *
>
| 28947|2009-05-23 09:28:43|Ferg|Re: The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality|
Asar
A well thought-out paper presenting various conceptualideas on the need for an identity. Exploring various terms including the need to findthe etymology of the name 'Africa' is welcoming. Also I liked the way you have woven the abstractions of the KAA into your analysis relatingthe past with thepresent. However the word'BAKALA' could be mispronounced by the uninitiatedespecially when it is pronouncedquickly. It couldsound like 'BUCKLER'!! I wonder if the hyphenated word BA-KALA would be more in keeping with the pronunciation as this would emphasise the word KALA..... just a thought.
Also a form that you might want to consider would be BAKAYE, he who belongs to BAKA people or BAKALA. Also the form BAKAYA would refer to the home of the BAKA, as KAYA means home. The word KAYA, as always has a conceptualmeaning not manifestly known,in that charcoal is included in the home KA home, KA charcoal. YA means to continue in present state of earthly existence.
Somo

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Asar Imhotep
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Sent: Saturday, May 23, 2009 6:55 AM
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality
>
> I appreciate it.
> I am currently working on the expanded version for a small book. I am including more linguistic information and the cosmological piece. Right now I'm accepting criticism so I can address it before the release.
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 3:38 PM

Well documented and written, excellent, logical .
of course with so much to say many will find different points of view in the details, as i do in some details, BUT overall i agree thats there is a need for those who call themseleves African American to move to search for what most of us African American mean when we say I'm African American.
i would suggest we Afr.Am. have several subtopics to the term Afr.Am. like Afr.Am.bakala and so and so,,,,,, Afr.Am.Ausar- Auset , Afr.-Amer.euro, etc.
perhaps the move to a true name is a goal that must first have several objectives in the school education systemmosque, church and temple.
A person like Tavis Smiley or a Rapper well liked could make it into a fashion and from a fashion if it clicks in culture..... ..

i loved how u are relating so many African languages to Ta-Meri language.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality [1 Attachment]
To: FromtheNileandBeyon d@yahoogroups. com
Cc: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 1:36 AM

Greetings Phamily
In the spirit of the African American Cultural Development Project, I wanted to submit for public reviewa draft for a possible renaming of African-Americans. The title of the article is called The Bakala of North America: the Suns of Vitality. Please provide feedback if you can. The document is attached in an Adobe Acrobat document (pdf). I look forward to your feedback.
Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28948|2009-05-23 09:28:54|Shu Tefnut|Lecture: AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART & ARCHITECTURE, PART II|

HOTEP/ GREETINGS FAMILY

BRO. HERU BENNU AMEN RA, WILL BE GIVING A LECTURE ON THE:

AFRICAN ORIGINS OF PHARONIC ART AND ARCHITECTURE, PART II

when: June 4th, 2009
where: The Mackey Group.

103 Quincy St, near corner ofFranklynave
in the basement,
Brooklyn, New York
time: 8pm. sharp
direction by train: 8th ave line "C" train to Franklyn ave.

THIS WILL BE A POWERPOINT PRESENTATION.

LECTURE CONTENT:

1.Developmentof Paleolithiccultures along the Nile River Valley, and the Great Rift Valley. We will reviewOdawan,
Archulian, Tasian, Badarian, and Mustrian stone tool industries.

2. Pre-dynasticperiods reviewed with a focus on early artifacts and an attempt to givea chronological perspectiveof the art
and architecture of the Nagada I, II, and III positions in the development of the art and architecture of dynastic Egypt.

3.Kush the birth place of the Gods of ancient Kemet. The Nubian high culture and its effects on Nile valley civilization.
The foundation of art and architecture thatreached its zenith in Egypt.As a result the civilizing of other cultures such as:
The Greeks, Romans, Assyrians, Babylonians, and the Hindus Kush Valleys, all of whom have benefited from the culture of the*Nubians*who in fact established the canons of art and architecture, and*set the standards for world art history*.

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "Black New Yorkers for Educational Excellence" group.
To post to this group, send email to bnyee@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to bnyee+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/bnyee?hl=en
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28949|2009-05-23 09:29:26|rehal orville|Re: where's king solomon?|

Very good!!! this explains many things including reported lifes of NEMROD/ Semiramis like Appollo/Venus; Osiris/ Isis.

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com, maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 11:24 AM

Light skinned nubian,?,,, adam/adom is usually rendered red by many theologians.
red is not necessarily adesignation of race among the ancients , in the stories and what is found in archaeological works/digs, red is a demarcation of spirituality across the whole planet wheter China or America etc... among all peoples red is a symbol of life coming from the earth,.
People in ancient times were intrigued with how they got red ocher from iron deposits and use it in ritual and even among many as a daily skin coloring.
Ra arose from the earth and his blood and tears and semen is what he made his people from, and all people know they are his descendents from their red blood and many take red from the earth as a way of showing what Ra came from; and is still in the earth and alive in his progency.
Adam from Atum is another Ra risen from the earth who is the first man of the Hebairu/hebrews and his immediate progency are therefore in the minds of the hebrews the kings of the earth the first people of god/yvh elohim shvayh and own the placeadam arose from .
Red is a distinct mark of spirituality for ancient peoples .
Also note that Sedth/Set/Sut was red and Ausar/Wsir/Osiris was Black, themost holy places of Ancient Egypt where in Sedth/ the south(where we get the word south) and althought the royal line always came from Taseti (south land) the place ofred Sedth and its the Red crown of the Sud/seth/Ta- seti/Tazeti that came to the north and established the two lands and designed all the delta down to memphis as the red crown lands and giving the lands south of memphis to Ausar the white crown .
Heru became the keeper of both crowns he was given Sethi red crown and inheirted his fathers white crown.
Thered crown descended from Ra toSetdh symbolise's Ra's Blood and the white crown Ra's sperm given to Ausar.
Hence in my viewone of the reasons theKing of kings began to use Ra nomens along with the 4 othernames;, that is too say they got the act of Ra's making (mankind) politically- symbolically literally economically in daily practice, with the uniting of the two lands by Shekhem Ur Shekhem Meni-Aha in fact bringing the mythology too life by mirroring heaven.
The mythe of Jakub and Isaac is the retelling of the aforemention mythe of Ausar and Sedthe this would make Jacob/Yakub the red one and Isaac the black; and maybe they(scribes and habiru masters) wanted the two essences in their king david mythe(plagirised lie).

The two brother stories of enlil and Galgimesh is the same.
The two brother stories of Rama and Krishna is the same.
The two brother stories in the Navaho are the same and the story of Obatala descending on his golden chain (missing one link) and making mankind while drinking red wine is the same telling of The Ra story.
please note: these are my views, and opinions,, especially the meaning of the crowns and several other details; .....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/21/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 21, 2009, 5:17 PM

according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM

usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
--- ---
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .

in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world

mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28950|2009-05-23 09:29:34|odhiambo okecth|Nairobi has been invaded|
Nairobi has been invaded 22nd May 2009

I wish someone was a little truthful with the state of the Kenyan affairs.

We have just been given a down cast economic state of affairs. Kenya recorded a 1.7% growth last year. Most of this was in the construction sector. And this is what put me off. How can there be growth in the construction sector when there is an economic meltdown? Is this money genuine? Is this money that is powering the construction industry clean money?

In the US, the economic meltdown is being felt heavily on the housing industry and the US government is doing something to cushion the home owners from imminent loses. On the contrary, our government is recording growth in the construction industry at a time we all know there is a problem. And our government is doing nothing to help Kenyans who are being relegated to less affluent areas, courtesy of the growth in the construction sector.

The common denominator here is that it is people of Somali origins who are powering the growth Kenya is recording in the construction industry. It is also a known fact that people of Somali origins are the major players in the Indian Ocean and in Lake Victoria where piracy is the order of the day.

Eastleigh Estate has been invaded and most of our people are being evicted by the high costs of housing from there. In Gikomba Market, South B and C, and in Komarock, the same is happening. Most Kenyans are being evicted from the areas by the exorbitant rents now being charged. In cases where rent ought to be Kshs 7,000.00 for a two bed roomed house, people of Somali origins are coming in and offering the Landlords Kshs 12,000.00 per month and they pay rent one year in advance.

Could the ransoms the Somali pirates are demanding finding its way into our construction sector? Has the government investigated the source of the Somali wealth; wealth that makes them pay exorbitant rents one year in advance? Which is this lucrative business that is only exclusive to the Somali people? How come Kenyans who are working so hard cannot make such kind of money? Some of these things do not add up, and we need an explanation from our government in defense of Kenyans.

How many Kenyans can afford such rents? No wonder the Government is recording growth in the construction industry. I would have thought the Government would be taking the interest of Kenyans at heart and protecting us from this invasion.

Could it be true that the pirates have bought the Grogan area and hired our police to protect them against the mechanics?

With all due respect, could it be money from the pirates that is driving the growths recorded in the construction industry? Or, is it drug money? What is the government doing to protect indigenous Kenyans from this affront? Or do we have people in the Kenyan Government who are part of the problem?

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock Nairobi.

| 28951|2009-05-23 10:57:55|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|
this is a continuation of a conversation that has progessed from talking about solomon and now considering jacob and david.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 8:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.

>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.

>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28952|2009-05-23 11:03:34|Tafari khumbaka|Re: to:shutefnut, where's king solomon?|
here is some of the dialogue, seems some people got emails where most of the conversation was lost http://affiliate.kickapps.com/service/displayKickPlace.kickAction?u=2724871&as=35927
click above

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 8:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>
>
>

> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.

>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>

> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?
as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28953|2009-05-23 11:15:57|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|
yes u are absolutely correct, sol is sun and omon is Amun or moon.
Amen-Htp III was a patron and child of Amon and descendent of Ra-Aton.
The judean/huttu/Yis-Ra-El name solomon or sulymin was a title or mythe taken about the lives of the 18th dynasty King and Queens.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 8:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon:
or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------

> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> ----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .

>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?
as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28954|2009-05-23 11:33:06|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|
glad u found some worth in it.
please note i wrote from memory and got isaac and jacob wrong.....should be jacob and esau,.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 2:00 AM

Very good!!! this explains many things including reported lifes of NEMROD/ Semiramis Appollo/Venus; Osiris/ Isis.

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com, maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 11:24 AM

Light skinned nubian,?,,, adam/adom is usually rendered red by many theologians.
red is not necessarily adesignation of race among the ancients , in the stories and what is f
archaeological works/digs, red is a demarcation of spirituality across the whole planet whe
China or America etc... among all peoples red is a symbol of life coming from the earth,.
People in ancient times were intrigued with how they got red ocher from iron deposits and in ritual and even among many as a daily skin coloring.
Ra arose from the earth and his blood and tears and semen is what he made his people fro all people know they are his descendents from their red blood and many take red from the
as a way of showing what Ra came from; and is still in the earth and alive in his progency.
Adam from Atum is another Ra risen from the earth who is the first man of the Hebairu/he and his immediate progency are therefore in the minds of the hebrews the kings of the earth the first people of god/yvh elohim shvayh and own the placeadam arose from .

Red is a distinct mark of spirituality for ancient peoples .
Also note that Sedth/Set/Sut was red and Ausar/Wsir/Osiris was Black, themost holy places of Ancient Egypt where in Sedth/ the south(where we get the word south) and althought the royal line always came from Taseti (south land) the place ofred Sedth and its the Red crown of the Sud/seth/Ta- seti/Tazeti that came to the north and established the two lands and designed all the delta down to memphis as the red crown lands and giving the lands south of memphis to Ausar the white crown .
Heru became the keeper of both crowns he was given Sethi red crown and inheirted his fathers white crown.
Thered crown descended from Ra toSetdh symbolise's Ra's Blood and the white crown Ra's sperm given to Ausar.
Hence in my viewone of the reasons theKing of kings began to use Ra nomens along with the 4 othernames;, that is too say they got the act of Ra's making (mankind) politically- symbolically literally economically in daily practice, with the uniting of the two lands by Shekhem Ur Shekhem Meni-Aha in fact bringing the mythology too life by mirroring heaven.
The mythe of Jakub and Isaac is the retelling of the aforemention mythe of Ausar and Sedthe this would make Jacob/Yakub the red one and Isaac the black; and maybe they(scribes and habiru masters) wanted the two essences in their king david mythe(plagirised lie).

The two brother stories of enlil and Galgimesh is the same.
The two brother stories of Rama and Krishna is the same.
The two brother stories in the Navaho are the same and the story of Obatala descending on his golden chain (missing one link) and making mankind while drinking red wine is the same telling of The Ra story.
please note: these are my views, and opinions,, especially the meaning of the crowns and several other details; .....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/21/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 21, 2009, 5:17 PM

according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM

usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land

Dr. Charles Finch
---------- --------- -
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28955|2009-05-23 14:38:27|odhiambo okecth|Dr Shem Ochuodho; Thank you|
Dear Friends of KCDN,

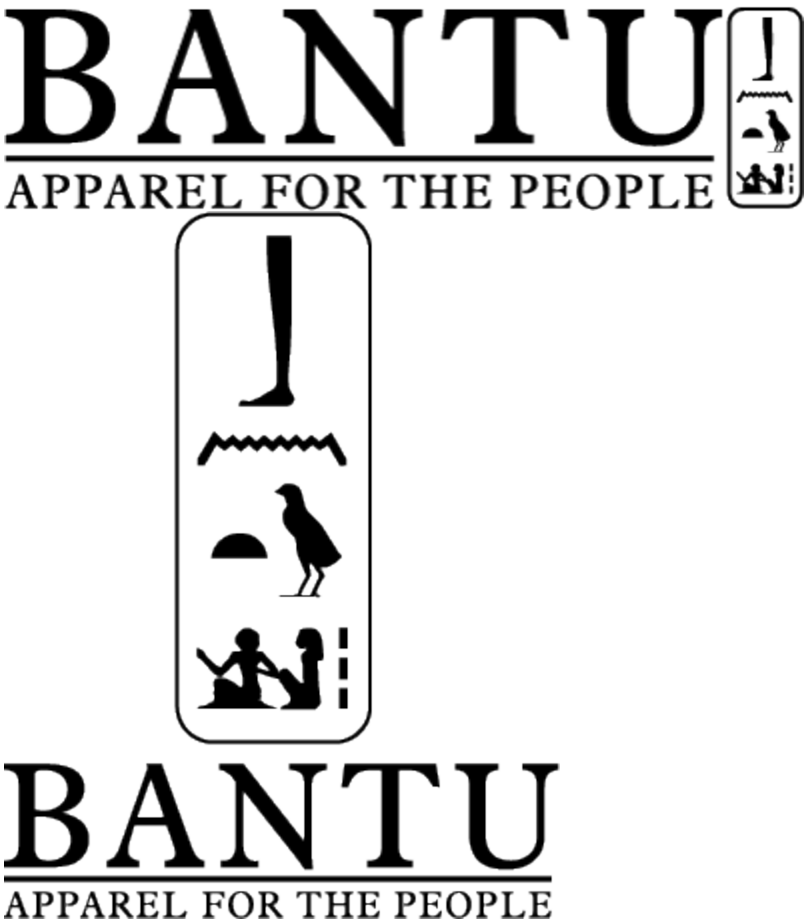
Dr Shem Ochuodho has just pledged his support of Kshs 3,000.00 towards the forth coming 2nd Edition of the KCDN Peace Run.

On behalf of the KCDN fraternity, I want to register our appreciation.

So far, these are the pledged support;
1] George Nyongesa; Kshs 15,000.00
2] Elijah Kombo; Kshs 2,800.00
3] Otieno Sungu;
4] Andrew Keros;
5] Development Through Media; Video Coverage
6] Dr Shem Ochuodho; Kshs 3,000.00
7] Our thanks and appreciation as the list grows.

We are looking forward to more support from friends who believe in what we are doing.

If you are seeing this for the first time, kindly visit us at our blogspot here;
http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com



Let us all join hands in preaching the virtues of peace, national healing and reconciliation. We are one people, we belong together.

And Kenya is Marwa.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
CEO KCDN Nairobi.

| 28956|2009-05-23 14:52:02|Asar Imhotep|Re: The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality|
Mbote brother Ferg
I appreciate the insight you have given. I purposely sent out a preversion of the article so I could get criticisms about the work. I am already expanding the article adding in the cosmological aspect and some more linguistic proofs in other niger-congo languages. I overlooked the fact to inform people on how to pronounce the term, so your feedback is much appreciated.
I am also adding the conceptual connections of a burning charcoal to ancestors and the human being. Very facinating stuff. I will be sure to add the term BAKAYE in the list.
Again, thanks for the feedback. Look forward to more criticisms.

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, Ferg wrote:

From: Ferg
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 7:55 AM

Asar
A well thought-out paper presenting various conceptualideas on the need for an identity. Exploring various terms including the need to findthe etymology of the name 'Africa' is welcoming. Also I liked the way you have woven the abstractions of the KAA into your analysis relatingthe past with thepresent.

However the word'BAKALA' could be mispronounced by the uninitiatedespecially when it is pronouncedquickly. It couldsound like 'BUCKLER'!! I wonder if the hyphenated word BA-KALA would be more in keeping with the pronunciation as this would emphasise the word KALA..... just a thought.
Also a form that you might want to consider would be BAKAYE, he who belongs to BAKA people or BAKALA. Also the form BAKAYA would refer to the home of the BAKA, as KAYA means home. The word KAYA, as always has a conceptualmeaning not manifestly known,in that charcoal is included in the home KA home, KA charcoal. YA means to continue in present state of earthly existence.
Somo

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Asar Imhotep
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Sent: Saturday, May 23, 2009 6:55 AM
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality
>
> I appreciate it.
> I am currently working on the expanded version for a small book. I am including n information and the cosmological piece. Right now I'm accepting criticism so I car before the release.
>
> Asar Imhotep
> http://www.asarimho tep.com
>
> BANTU
> APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

BANTU

APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 3:38 PM

Well documented and written, excellent, logical .
of course with so much to say many will find different points of view in the details, as i do in some details, BUT overall i agree thats there is a need for those who call themseleves African American to move to search for what most of us African American mean when we say I'm African American.
i would suggest we Afr.Am. have several subtopics to the term Afr.Am. like Afr.Am.bakala and so and so,,,,,, Afr.Am.Ausar- Auset , Afr.-Amer.euro, etc.
perhaps the move to a true name is a goal that must first have several objectives in the school education systemmosque, church and temple.
A person like Tavis Smiley or a Rapper well liked could make it into a fashion and from a fashion if it clicks in culture..... ..

i loved how u are relating so many African languages to Ta-Meri language.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, Asar Imhotep wrote:

From: Asar Imhotep
Subject: [Ta_Seti] The BAKALA of North America: the Suns of Vitality [1 Attachment]
To: FromtheNileandBeyon d@yahoogroups. com
Cc: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 1:36 AM

Greetings Phamily
In the spirit of the African American Cultural Development Project, I wanted to submit for public reviewa draft for a possible renaming of African-Americans. The title of the article is called The Bakala of North America: the Suns of Vitality. Please provide feedback if you can. The document is attached in an Adobe Acrobat document (pdf). I look forward to your feedback.
Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

BANTU
APPAREL FOR THE PEOPLE

| 28957|2009-05-23 22:27:07|jean philippe|Obenga praises Congolese to vote for thedictator Sassou N'Guesso|
Obenga praises Congolese to vote for the dictator Sassou N'Guesso

The article is in french but it points out the Obenga's controversy between Science and Politics.

http://www.lasemaineafricaine.com/pdf/2890.pdf
Regards

Jean-Philippe Fran篩s

| 28958|2009-05-24 07:26:19|Michael J Robinson|"The Tragedy Of Financial Exploitation In The Church" Tonight on Sun|

Maat Hotep Family,

Join Dr. Hagins and his guest, Mr. Jeffrey Horton on Sunday Night "Live" as they discuss how many people are experiencing financial ruin as a result of the financial exploitation of many religious leaders in today's economic climate.

Mr. Horton, and his wife Barbara, are the owners of Barb Horton & Associates Realtors

Spread the word...don't miss this show!

Sunday, May 24 at 8:00 p.m. EST (7:00 p.m. Central Time)

Log on to www.wblr.com for this dynamic discussion
Call in toll-free at 1-877-454-1900

To watch videos of Dr. Ray Hagins and others please visit www.Youtube.com/mjrob1914 .

Thanks,

Michael J. Robinson

President

African History Network

(313) 587-5005 (mobile)

(888) 737-5660 (office)

(866) 558-4469 (fax)

Mrobinson@AfricanHistoryNetwork.com

www.AfricanHistoryNetwork.com

"Right knowledge, corrects wrong behavior!!!"

| 28959|2009-05-24 07:26:50|Joseph Wright|Fw: PES for Total Success|

Attachments :

SunShine
Mar
In CODE Authoritative

jew

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, Joseph Wright wrote:

From: Joseph Wright
Subject: Fw: PES for Total Success
To: dcsteenxtreme@yahoo.com, "fred douglas" , "leon fangnigbe" , "gorillapromo" , "A Yahoo Group"
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 11:20 PM

jew

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, Joseph Wright wrote:

From: Joseph Wright
Subject: Fw: PES for Total Success
To: "Joseph Wright"
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 10:43 PM

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, Joseph Wright <proactivemarketing@sbcglobal.net> wrote:

> From: Joseph Wright <proactivemarketing@sbcglobal.net>
> Subject: PES for Total Success
> To: "JEW ADMIN ARTISTIC SG" <admin@artisticstudiosgallery.com>
> Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 10:40 PM
>
>
> The Info-agenda [e. > g.The Power To Name Is An Awesome Power!]
>
> Who > knew what and when?
> (It is not my intention or > purpose to be rude or offensive... some things must be > said.)

>
> Today, more so than any other time in the history of > civilization, knowledge and information is power; power to > be guarded and protected like any precious resource.
> Wehave entered a whole brand-new era of information > technology and capacity to communicate on a global scale.
> Some good examples that immediately come to mind that effect > each of us everyday is the job search, finding a job, > advancement on that job; insider trading, consumer prices, > corporate and industrial espionage; politics, intelligence > and counter intelligence, covert operations > Powernomics: literally the economics of power > relations in the universal battle to control and > direct/influence not only consumer spending, but also public > opinion, that helps establish and direct money and legal > policies. However, the biggest game in any municipality, > town, city,
> county, state, country or government is the politics > of Domination: The Local And Global Race To Control > Global Resources. For not > quite far apart from spies and spying, subliminal seduction, > propaganda, advertising and mind control; the new central > elements of power and wealth creation are propelling > us headlong into an era of info-politics like never > known before in human history. Two of the best-kept secrets > for centuries are (1) that knowledge and information are > directly proportional to power and wealth. (2) Access > to knowledge and information in a timely manner are the keys > to wealth creation and power. The practice, study, and > cultivation of the relationships between knowledge and > information; power and wealth creation and the maintenance > thereof, are as ancient as the sands of Nubia. But > exactly what is > power? Continued in > The Attachments
>
> Read the attachments: think and grow rich from the > sharing.
> The Power To Name Is An Awesome Power!
>
>
> jew

| 28960|2009-05-24 07:27:26|odhiambo okecth|Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded|
I would have wanted to respond to a known entity.

However, your response is misplaced and without fact. I know of no Asian engaging in massive construction in the areas I talked about.

Secondly, the Somali who are engaged in property development and buy-offs in the areas I talked about are people you cannot trace. Unlike the Asians who operate known businesses, I would like to be told the kind of businesses these people are doing.

Lastly, this in my country for which I must be proud of. I would not be proud of Kenya if money powered by pirates and drug pushers pushes me out of my choice area of residence.

I will not support the kind of ethnic tensions and killings that took place in South Africa. But I would also not accept pirates and drug addicts to evict me from Kenya.

A stitch in time would do.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, simba@shibli-kenya.com wrote:

From: simba@shibli-kenya.com
Subject: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ke@googlegroups.com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups.com, mwanyagetinge@yahoogroups.com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogroups.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@yahoogroups.com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchange@yahoogroups.com
Cc: newvisionkenya@egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogroups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@yahoogroups.com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroups.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, TheBlackList@yahoogroups.com, trueblackness@yahoogroups.com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogroups.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 6:17 PM

Nairobi
23 May 2009,

I think the view expressed by Odhiambi Oketch regarding Nairobi being invaded by people from Somalia is totally misplaced and is not supported by any empirical evidence. In the first place the rise in the property prices came as a result of the tremendous economic growth registered in the last 6 years under the wise leadership of President Kibaki. It was only after ODM joined the government did we start seeing a noise dive of the economy including a reduction in new property development. Just look at the media reports on loses in earnings at East African Portland and Bamburi.

Remember most of the new properties in the middle class settlement areas in Nairobi were and are being developed by Kenyan Asians many of them returning from places as far as the United Kingdom. Infact the impact of the Somali Refugees on property development can be considered negligible. Other than a few structures that have come up in Eastleigh I have not seen any other major investment in Kenya that can be attributed to the people of Somali decent.

My major concern here is that making wild unsubstantiated claims like what Odhiambo Oketch did could increase unnecessary ethnic tension and farment xenophobic feelings against a small minority group who are here to seek protection from persecution.

The linkage between the rise in the property prices and piracy is totally unfounded for several reasons. In the first place increase in property development in Kenya was registered long before we heard of piracy along the coastlines of the Indian Ocean. Secondly rise in cost of rental houses are due to other factors unrelated to Somali people. Just see other major settlements in Kenya like Nakuru or Kisumu where cost of house rent have also indicated a sharp increase in the last few years yet there are no many Somali refugees in those towns. Also, from the media reports, we gather that about US $ 100 million were raised by the pirates. This translates to roughly ksh 7.9 billion. Honestly is this money enough to cause major economic ripple in Kenya considering the fact that most of it might not even come to kenya if at all.

This xenophobic sentiments like that of Odhiambo Oketch, reminds me of what happened in South Africa some years back when the local people turned against other African migrants. Even Kenyans were victimised then. The motive behind such sentiments in South Africa were mainly driven by jealousy because of the perceived success by mainly Kenyan Somali migrants. That is why even minister Moses Wetangula had to intervene in the case of South Africa. Therefore let's refrain from such unfounded allegations.

Simba Simba

Sent from my BlackBerry

From: odhiambo okecth
Date: Sat, 23 May 2009 01:09:44 -0700 (PDT)
To: mulembe; mwananchi; ; ; Nation; Nation TV; ; Africare- NewPublications; News Desk; ; progressiveminds; Standard; Sunday Standard; ugandacom; VOU; ;
Subject: [YP_Ke] Nairobi has been invaded

Nairobi has been invaded 22nd May 2009

I wish someone was a little truthful with the state of the Kenyan affairs.

We have just been given a down cast economic state of affairs. Kenya recorded a 1.7% growth last year. Most of this was in the construction sector. And this is what put me off. How can there be growth in the construction sector when there is an economic meltdown? Is this money genuine? Is this money that is powering the construction industry clean money?

In the US, the economic meltdown is being felt heavily on the housing industry and the US government is doing something to cushion the home owners from imminent loses. On the contrary, our government is recording growth in the construction industry at a time we all know there is a problem. And our government is doing nothing to help Kenyans who are being relegated to less affluent areas, courtesy of the growth in the construction sector.

The common denominator here is that it is people of Somali origins who are powering the growth Kenya is recording in the construction industry. It is also a known fact that people of Somali origins are the major players in the Indian Ocean and in Lake Victoria where piracy is the order of the day.

Eastleigh Estate has been invaded and most of our people are being evicted by the high costs of housing from there. In Gikomba Market, South B and C, and in Komarock, the same is happening. Most Kenyans are being evicted from the areas by the exorbitant rents now being charged. In cases where rent ought to be Kshs 7,000.00 for a two bed roomed house, people of Somali origins are coming in and offering the Landlords Kshs 12,000.00 per month and they pay rent one year in advance.

Could the ransoms the Somali pirates are demanding finding its way into our construction sector? Has the government investigated the source of the Somali wealth; wealth that makes them pay exorbitant rents one year in advance? Which is this lucrative business that is only exclusive to the Somali people? How come Kenyans who are working so hard cannot make such kind of money? Some of these things do not add up, and we need an explanation from our government in defense of Kenyans.

How many Kenyans can afford such rents? No wonder the Government is recording growth in the construction industry. I would have thought the Government would be taking the interest of Kenyans at heart and protecting us from this invasion.

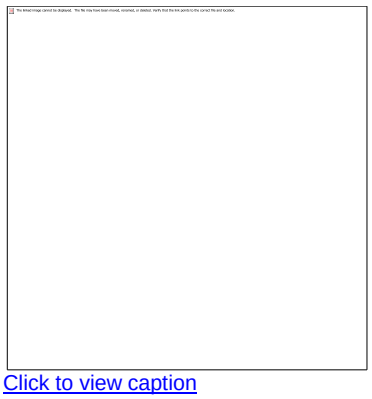
Could it be true that the pirates have bought the Grogan area and hired our police to protect them against the mechanics?

With all due respect, could it be money from the pirates that is driving the growths recorded in the construction industry? Or, is it drug money? What is the government doing to protect indigenous Kenyans from this affront? Or do we have people in the Kenyan Government who are part of the problem?

Odhiambo T Oketch,

Komarock Nairobi.

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
REACH OVER 9,200 MEMBERS DIRECTLY BY ADVERTISING ON THIS FORUM. CHARGES ARE Ksh. 500 PER ADVERT. CALL/MPESA ON +254721663208



You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "youngprofessionals_ke" group.
To post to this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ke@googlegroups.com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ke+unsubscribe@googlegroups.com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.co.ke/group/youngprofessionals_ke?hl=en
Visit the LYP website at http://ypkenya.org
Join the group on facebook at http://www.facebook.com/group.php?gid=57703506900
Follow us on twitter at http://twitter.com/lyp_ke
-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28961|2009-05-24 08:17:56|Paul Kekai Manansala|Recent discoveries in Egypt|

New finds span time

An incomplete Graeco-Roman statue of an athlete in Alexandria and an enormous collection of prehistoric artefacts in Fayoum are the most recent discoveries in Egypt, Nevine El-Aref reports

At the Shallalat Gardens next to the fortress of Mohamed Ali in Alexandria, a Greek archaeological mission has discovered what is thought may be a statue of Alexander the Great. The statue, of white marble, features an athletic man standing in an upright position. The right leg bent and the part of the left leg below the knee is missing. A 0.16m length of the right arm exists and it has a connection notch, while the left arm is completely missing. Inside the shoulder is a metallic connection. The phallus is broken but the testes are preserved.

Click to view caption

Clockwise from above: the marble statue; the shaft leading to tombs; workers remove the dust; a collection of smoking pipes, medicine tools, coins and arrows photos courtesy of SCA

Kalliopi Limneou-Popakosta, director of the mission, said that the face was in very good condition except for some slight damage to the nose. The head is of the "heroic" type, with the characteristic turn of the neck and an upward glance of the eyes. The face is handled in the soft Praxitelian manner. The statue has curly hair with a ribbon, and there are sideburns on the cheeks. The body is slightly turned to the right in a "contraposto" style, and once possibly leant on a base, traces of which can be seen under the right buttock.

"This is one of the most important discoveries in the Shallalat Gardens in 100 years," Zahi Hawass, secretary-general of the Supreme Council of Antiquities (SCA), told Al-Ahram Weekly. He added that the discovery would probably lead to a very significant result concerning this area in the core of Alexandria, which was the site of the throne, the garden area of the royal palace, and the old Alexandria library during the Graeco-Roman era. "Remains of Alexandria's old royal quarter have been also found," Hawass said.

Last year a team working with the Graeco Roman Museum in Alexandria unearthed the base of a statue of Ptolemy V carved by the royal guards to glorify him, as well as a number of statues featuring Bacchus, the wine god.

Ahmed Abdel-Fatah, an expert in the antiquities of the Graeco-Roman period, said that the features of the statue were similar to those of Alexander the Great, especially the hair and the nose.

In the area in front of Al-Karn Al-Zahabi (Golden Horn) Island, north of Qarun Lake, an Egyptian mission from the SCA has unearthed an enormous collection of prehistoric objects revealing the skills of the prehistoric people who lived in the area.

The collection is composed of hunting and medicine tools. Needles, necklaces, earrings and bracelets made of animal bones have been unearthed, along with a number of primitive stone dwellings and shelters.

Hawass said that early investigations on the objects discovered revealed that the site was not only used in prehistoric time but continued to be inhabited through the different spans of history up to and including the Islamic era. From ancient Egyptian times, he said, the mission had unearthed a limestone relief bearing the cartouche of the Scorpion king of dynasty zero and a coloured bracelet made of glass. From the Graeco- Roman period the mission found a collection of coins, while fragments of coloured and decorated plates stamped with the name of the Fatimid king Al-Zafer are from the Islamic period.

Khaled Saad, head of the mission and director of the prehistory administration department, said the mission had also found several kinds of needles, showing that there were several methods of weaving leather in prehistoric time. The mission also found a skeleton of a primitive whale similar to those found in Wadi Al-Hitan in Fayoum, as well as skeletons of sawfish, crocodiles, turtles and harks' teeth.

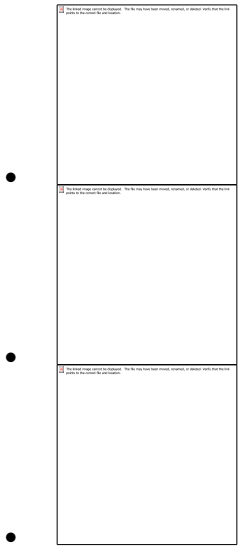
Jewellery made of semi-precious stones and bones have been also unearthed as well as arrows, knives and grindstones from the prehistoric era, dated about 7100 BC.

Twenty-five rock-hewn tombs have been located on the sides of a nearby hill, Saad says, as well as a great number of human bones. A seven-metre deep shaft has also been found on the hill. Inside it were two chambers filled with sand and contained a complete human skeleton.

Copyright Al-Ahram Weekly. All rights reserved

| 28962|2009-05-24 08:22:17|Paul Kekai Manansala|Nefertiti Debate (Spiegel Online)|

BERLIN'S NEFERTITI DEBATE



Calling the Queen's Authenticity into Question

By Christoph Seidler

For decades, people have marvelled at the bust of Nefertiti. Now, some scholars say it's a fake -- made to hold a necklace. Museum scientists are eager to prove these theories wrong, but the mysterious statue might not be ready to reveal her secrets yet.

Of course they copied her. You can see it clear as day. At the Altes Museum on Berlin's Museum Island, a brief film runs in a silent loop on a monitor. It shows laboratory workers handling a replica of the Nefertiti bust built to test a new portable base for it. The monitor is part of a current display at the museum, one which includes four work stations set up in a large, glass cubicle to show just how complex conserving great works of ancient art is.

PHOTO GALLERY: NEFERTITI -- REAL OR FAKE?

Click on a picture to launch the image gallery (4 Photos)

Museum visitors can look over the shoulders of specialists to see how the secrets of these old artifacts are revealed using infrared spectroscopy, X-ray fluorescence and microscopy. The Nefertiti bust itself is only a few steps away. The piece, which bears inventory tag number 21300, is one of the most famous pieces of art from ancient Egypt. And in recent weeks, its authenticity has been the subject of much debate.

A sign next to the lab workers reads "Questions Welcome." And Henri Stierlin, a Geneva-based author, certainly does have a few questions. Stierlin is interested in the Nefertiti copy, and he's not referring to the white model of the bust shown in the film flickering across the monitor. His suspicions run deeper.

INTERACTIVE MAP

SPIEGEL ONLINE

Archaeological Discoveries: Found in Egypt, Displayed Around the World

In a recently published book, Stierlin claims that Berlin's famous Nefertiti bust -- one of the prides of the city's world-class collection of museums -- is actually a fake. Stierlin claims that Ludwig Borchardt, the leader of the excavation that found Nefertiti, had the sculptor Gerhard Marcks make the bust in 1912 to serve as a display piece for a necklace that had recently been unearthed. "Until then, one could only see Nefertiti as she was depicted on bas reliefs," Stierlin told SPIEGEL ONLINE. "Borchardt wanted to see her in three dimensions."

Stierlin's theory sounds exciting -- and it has proven adept at generating headlines. He says that when Johann Georg, a Saxon duke, visited the tomb in the Egyptian city of Amarna, they were immediately taken by the beauty of the bust. Borchardt, rather than exposing the naivet頹f his royal guests, elected to keep the truth to himself.

Art historians have their doubts about this theory. "As to whether Nefertiti is a fake, I can't say for sure," says Ari Hartog, the curator of the Gerhard Marcks Haus, an art museum in Bremen devoted to the works of the famous 20th century German sculptor. Stierlin's theory has been lent credence by the fact that Borchardt's expedition included someone named Marcks. Hartog, though, says it was most likely the artist's brother. If the Nefertiti bust is indeed fake, says Hartog, "it's definitely not something made by Marcks."

You Can Prove A Fake, But Not An Original

Dietrich Wildung, the curator of the Berlin's Egyptian Museum -- and a long-time friend of Stierlin -- is even more emphatic in his dismissal of Stierlin's ideas. "We would not put an even remotely questionable object on display for 700,000 visitors to see every year," Wildung says.

Despite such doubts, Stierlin refuses to back down. "It's dishonest to display this object when you know it's not authentic," Stierlin insists.

One might think that the debate is superfluous -- that the matter could be settled simply by testing the bust's age. Unfortunately it's not so simple. And its further complicated by the fact that, the closer one considers the Nefertiti bust, the clearer it becomes that very little is known about it.

REPRINTS

Find out how you can reprint this SPIEGEL ONLINE article in your publication.

"You can prove a fake, but you can't prove originals. That's an epistemological problem," Stefan Simon told SPIEGEL ONLINE. Simon is a material scientist who directs the Rathgen Research Laboratory, which belongs to the association of national museums in Berlin. As a scientist, Simon's main allegiance is to the evidence. At the same time, though, his employers have a clear interest in disproving Stierlin's theory.

That, though, is a difficult prospect. Radiocarbon (C-14) dating measures the decay of radioactive carbon isotopes, necessitating samples of organic material. Nefertiti, though, is largely free of such material. A bit of wax was allegedly found in Nefertiti's right eye. When it was carbon-dated a few years back, scientists concluded that might be more than 3,300 years old.

Still, the wax sample's path from the bust's eye to the laboratory was long. It was obtained in 1920 by Friedrich Rathgen, the chemist who first directed the laboratory that now bears his name. For decades, Rathgen's sample lay in a small specimen bag in the museum before finally being dated, opening the door to doubt.

- 1
- | 2
- Next

- Part 1: Calling the Queen's Authenticity into Question
- Part 2: Debating the Evidence

| 28963|2009-05-24 10:06:21|michael mwenda|Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded|

I support the sentiments expressed by Simba Simba. The kind of mischaracterization expressed by Oketch about Somalis is misplaced and only goes to show the kind of intolerance that has gripped Kenya. Instead of seeking informed solutions to our problems, most of us seek refuge in simplistic, irrational claims to deflect attention from personal responsibility and to blame the other. As a Kenyan living abroad, I am always wary of the kind of blame-the-weak claims made by those who are looking to persecute the vulnerable minorities especially those of different cultures, ethnicities, or religions. In this case, it is even scandalous that someone who is claiming to be advancing the course of reconciliation and peace is perpetrating this kind of intolerance. I have followed Oketchs discussion on various topical issues in Kenya and to say the least I have found them disturbing. To seek refuge in patriotism is a simple defeatist attitude. After all, what are you patriotic about? True patriotism for Africans is the belief in the unity and equality of all Africans. This was the dream of the early pan-Africanists such as William Du Bois, Edward Blyden, Kwame Nkurumah, Sekou Toure and Julius. It is sad that this dream has been replaced by a funny, nation-centered patriotism, which defies the historical logic of state formation. It is hollow, in fact shameful to claim patriotism to the small neocolonial entities that are our nations, entities that were created by a few white men who were gathered in Berlin in 1884/85. When Oketch blames Somalis for the rise of property prices in Nairobi, he is deflecting attention from the real villains, himself and many other Kenyans who vote corrupt criminals into office. Instead of these criminals serving jail terms for their many transgressions, they are holding high offices and are responsible for formulating and executing policy. No wonder Kenya today is a nation in crisis. One of the areas that our so-called government has failed miserably is in urban planning. While the population of Nairobi has continued to grow at a tremendous rate over the recent past, the government has failed to come up with an effective policy on city planning and development. Nairobi has no infrastructure to support the kind of population growth taking place, most of which is fuelled by the ever-increasing rural-urban migrations. Without requisite infrastructure majority of Nairobis population is now crammed within a 15-mile radius of the citys CBD. It is no brainer therefore that property prices in a densely populated city will skyrocket. In addition, many Kenyans have settled all over the world. This Diaspora community in the recent past has been investing in real estate in Kenya. Property prices therefore have risen because people earning higher incomes abroad are out pricing those who live and work in Kenya. Somali pirates have little to do with the rising property prices in Nairobi. Blaming Somalis for the rising property prices is perpetuating poisonous propaganda by the western media that seeks to portray some people as bizarre and illogical. Michael

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

From: odhiambo okecth
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ke@googlegroups.com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups.com, mwanyagetinge@yahoogroups.com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogroups.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@yahoogroups.com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchange@yahoogroups.com
Cc: newvisionkenya@egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogroups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@yahoogroups.com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroups.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, TheBlackList@yahoogroups.com, trueblackness@yahoogroups.com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogroups.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 7:02 AM

I would have wanted to respond to a known entity.

However, your response is misplaced and without fact. I know of no Asian engaging in ma construction in the areas I talked about.

Secondly, the Somali who are engaged in property development and buy-offs in the areas talked about are people you cannot trace. Unlike the Asians who operate known businesse would like to be told the kind of businesses these people are doing.

Lastly, this in my country for which I must be proud of. I would not be proud of Kenya if money powered by pirates and drug pushers pushes me out of my choice area of residence.

I will not support the kind of ethnic tensions and killings that took place in South Africa. But I would also not accept pirates and drug addicts to evict me from Kenya.

A stitch in time would do.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, simba@shibli- kenya.com wrote:

From: simba@shibli- kenya.com
Subject: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups.. com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 6:17 PM

Nairobi
23 May 2009,

I think the view expressed by Odhiambi Oketch regarding Nairobi being invaded by people from Somalia is totally misplaced and is not supported by any empirical evidence. In the first place the rise in the property prices came as a result of the tremendous economic growth registered in the last 6 years under the wise leadership of President Kibaki. It was only after ODM joined the government did we start seeing a noise dive of the economy including a reduction in new property development. Just look at the media reports on loses in earnings at East African Portland and Bamburi.

Remember most of the new properties in the middle class settlement areas in Nairobi were and are being developed by Kenyan Asians many of them returning from places as far as the United Kingdom. Infact the impact of the Somali Refugees on property development can be considered negligible. Other than a few structures that have come up in Eastleigh I have not seen any other major investment in Kenya that can be attributed to the people of Somali decent.

My major concern here is that making wild unsubstantiated claims like what Odhiambo Oketch did could increase unnecessary ethnic tension and farment xenophobic feelings against a small minority group who are here to seek protection from persecution.

The linkage between the rise in the property prices and piracy is totally unfounded for several reasons. In the first place increase in property development in Kenya was registered long before we heard of piracy along the coastlines of the Indian Ocean. Secondly rise in cost of rental houses are due to other factors unrelated to Somali people. Just see other major settlements in Kenya like Nakuru or Kisumu where cost of house rent have also indicated a sharp increase in the last few years yet there are no many Somali refugees in those towns. Also, from the media reports, we gather that about US $ 100 million were raised by the pirates. This translates to roughly ksh 7.9 billion. Honestly is this money enough to cause major economic ripple in Kenya considering the fact that most of it might not even come to kenya if at all.

This xenophobic sentiments like that of Odhiambo Oketch, reminds me of what happened in South Africa some years back when the local people turned against other African migrants. Even Kenyans were victimised then. The motive behind such sentiments in South Africa were mainly driven by jealousy because of the perceived success by mainly Kenyan Somali migrants. That is why even minister Moses Wetangula had to intervene in the case of South Africa. Therefore let's refrain from such unfounded allegations.

Simba Simba

Sent from my BlackBerry

From: odhiambo okecth
Date: Sat, 23 May 2009 01:09:44 -0700 (PDT)
To: mulembe; mwananchi; ; ; Nation; Nation TV; ; Africare- NewPublications; News Desk; ; progressiveminds; Standard; Sunday Standard; ugandacom; VOU; ;
Subject: [YP_Ke] Nairobi has been invaded

Nairobi has been invaded 22nd May 2009

I wish someone was a little truthful with the state of the Kenyan affairs.

We have just been given a down cast economic state of affairs. Kenya recorded a 1.7% growth last year. Most of this was in the construction sector. And this is what put me off. How can there be growth in the construction sector when there is an economic meltdown? Is this money genuine? Is this money that is powering the construction industry clean money?

In the US, the economic meltdown is being felt heavily on the housing industry and the US government is doing something to cushion the home owners from imminent loses. On the contrary, our government is recording growth in the construction industry at a time we all know there is a problem. And our government is doing nothing to help Kenyans who are being relegated to less affluent areas, courtesy of the growth in the construction sector.

The common denominator here is that it is people of Somali origins who are powering the growth Kenya is recording in the construction industry. It is also a known fact that people of Somali origins are the major players in the Indian Ocean and in Lake Victoria where piracy is the order of the day.

Eastleigh Estate has been invaded and most of our people are being evicted by the high costs of housing from there. In Gikomba Market, South B and C, and in Komarock, the same is happening. Most Kenyans are being evicted from the areas by the exorbitant rents now being charged. In cases where rent ought to be Kshs 7,000.00 for a two bed roomed house, people of Somali origins are coming in and offering the Landlords Kshs 12,000.00 per month and they pay rent one year in advance.

Could the ransoms the Somali pirates are demanding finding its way into our construction sector? Has the government investigated the source of the Somali wealth; wealth that makes them pay exorbitant rents one year in advance? Which is this lucrative business that is only exclusive to the Somali people? How come Kenyans who are working so hard cannot make such kind of money? Some of these things do not add up, and we need an explanation from our government in defense of Kenyans.

How many Kenyans can afford such rents? No wonder the Government is recording growth in the construction industry. I would have thought the Government would be taking the interest of Kenyans at heart and protecting us from this invasion.

Could it be true that the pirates have bought the Grogan area and hired our police to protect them against the mechanics?

With all due respect, could it be money from the pirates that is driving the growths recorded in the construction industry? Or, is it drug money? What is the government doing to protect indigenous Kenyans from this affront? Or do we have people in the Kenyan Government who are part of the problem?

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--~--~------ ---~--~-- --~------ ------~-- -----~--~ ----~
REACH OVER 9,200 MEMBERS DIRECTLY BY ADVERTISING ON THIS FORUM. CHARGES ARE Ksh. 500 PER ADVERT. CALL/MPESA ON +254721663208
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "youngprofessionals _ke" group.
To post to this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke+unsubscribe@ googlegroups. com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups. google.co. ke/group/ youngprofessiona ls_ke?hl= en
Visit the LYP website at http://ypkenya.. org
Join the group on facebook at http://www.facebook .com/group. php?gid=57703506 900

Follow us on twitter at http://twitter. com/lyp_ke
-~---------- ~----~--- -~----~-- ----~----- ~------~- -~---

| 28964|2009-05-24 17:25:44|Ginger Daniels|Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded|
WOW. Great response. I found it enlightening and very forthcoming. It makes sense what you have said here... especially tying the problems of Africa back to the decisions of the western colonists to carve Africa up as their own. I have always thought that most of the issues we see plastered on our TV screens in the media could be traced back to what happened in 84/85 after they supposedly banned slavery. The raped the land of its people, naturally they had to go back and rape the land and make it impossible for any potential growth or rebound to take place. I am happy to know that many of the Kenyans around the world are now going back and purchasing land there. Perhaps some of our urban and city planners here in the US and abroad will make the effort to go there and help the uncultivated and underdeveloped lands become cultivated and developed.

I am curious to know, what is a Kenyan Asian?

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: kmwenda2002@yahoo.com
Date: Sun, 24 May 2009 10:04:53 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded

I support the sentiments expressed by Simba Simba. The kind of mischaracterization expressed by Oketch about Somalis is misplaced and only goes to show the kind of intolerance that has gripped Kenya. Instead of seeking informed solutions to our problems, most of us seek refuge in simplistic, irrational claims to deflect attention from personal responsibility and to blame the other. As a Kenyan living abroad, I am always wary of the kind of blame-the-weak claims made by those who are looking to persecute the vulnerable minorities especially those of different cultures, ethnicities, or religions. In this case, it is even scandalous that someone who is claiming to be advancing the course of reconciliation and peace is perpetrating this kind of intolerance. I have followed Oketchs discussion on various topical issues in Kenya and to say the least I have found them disturbing. To seek refuge in patriotism is a simple defeatist attitude. After all, what are you patriotic about? True patriotism for Africans is the belief in the unity and equality of all Africans. This was the dream of the early pan-Africanists such as William Du Bois, Edward Blyden, Kwame Nkurumah, Sekou Toure and Julius. It is sad that this dream has been replaced by a funny, nation-centered patriotism, which defies the historical logic of state formation. It is hollow, in fact shameful to claim patriotism to the small neocolonial entities that are our nations, entities that were created by a few white men who were gathered in Berlin in 1884/85. When Oketch blames Somalis for the rise of property prices in Nairobi, he is deflecting attention from the real villains, himself and many other Kenyans who vote corrupt criminals into office. Instead of these criminals serving jail terms for their many transgressions, they are holding high offices and are responsible for formulating and executing policy. No wonder Kenya today is a nation in crisis. One of the areas that our so-called government has failed miserably is in urban planning. While the population of Nairobi has continued to grow at a tremendous rate over the recent past, the government has failed to come up with an effective policy on city planning and development. Nairobi has no infrastructure to support the kind of population growth taking place, most of which is fuelled by the ever-increasing rural-urban migrations. Without requisite infrastructure majority of Nairobis population is now crammed within a 15-mile radius of the citys CBD. It is no brainer therefore that property prices in a densely populated city will skyrocket. In addition, many Kenyans have settled all over the world. This Diaspora community in the recent past has been investing in real estate in Kenya. Property prices therefore have risen because people earning higher incomes abroad are out pricing those who live and work in Kenya. Somali pirates have little to do with the rising property prices in Nairobi. Blaming Somalis for the rising property prices is perpetuating poisonous propaganda by the western media that seeks to portray some people as bizarre and illogical. Michael

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

From: odhiambo okecth
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups. com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 7:02 AM

I would have wanted to respond to a known entity.

However, your response is misplaced and without fact. I know of no Asian engaging in ma construction in the areas I talked about.

Secondly, the Somali who are engaged in property development and buy-offs in the areas talked about are people you cannot trace. Unlike the Asians who operate known businesse would like to be told the kind of businesses these people are doing.

Lastly, this in my country for which I must be proud of. I would not be proud of Kenya if powered by pirates and drug pushers pushes me out of my choice area of residence.

I will not support the kind of ethnic tensions and killings that took place in South Africa. But I would also not accept pirates and drug addicts to evict me from Kenya.

A stitch in time would do.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, simba@shibli- kenya.com wrote:

From: simba@shibli- kenya.com
Subject: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups. . com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 6:17 PM

Nairobi
23 May 2009,

I think the view expressed by Odhiambi Oketch regarding Nairobi being invaded by people from Somalia is totally misplaced and is not supported by any empirical evidence. In the first place the rise in the property prices came as a result of the tremendous economic growth registered in the last 6 years under the wise leadership of President Kibaki. It was only after ODM joined the government did we start seeing a noise dive of the economy including a reduction in new property development. Just look at the media reports on loses in earnings at East African Portland and Bamburi.

Remember most of the new properties in the middle class settlement areas in Nairobi were and are being developed by Kenyan Asians many of them returning from places as far as the United Kingdom. Infact the impact of the Somali Refugees on property development can be considered negligible. Other than a few structures that have come up in Eastleigh I have not seen any other major investment in Kenya that can be attributed to the people of Somali decent.

My major concern here is that making wild unsubstantiated claims like what Odhiambo Oketch did could increase unnecessary ethnic tension and farment xenophobic feelings against a small minority group who are here to seek protection from persecution.

The linkage between the rise in the property prices and piracy is totally unfounded for several reasons. In the first place increase in property development in Kenya was registered long before we heard of piracy along the coastlines of the Indian Ocean. Secondly rise in cost of rental houses are due to other factors unrelated to Somali people. Just see other major settlements in Kenya like Nakuru or Kisumu where cost of house rent have also indicated a sharp increase in the last few years yet there are no many Somali refugees in those towns. Also, from the media reports, we gather that about US $ 100 million were raised by the pirates. This translates to roughly ksh 7.9 billion. Honestly is this money enough to cause major economic ripple in Kenya considering the fact that most of it might not even come to kenya if at all.

This xenophobic sentiments like that of Odhiambo Oketch, reminds me of what happened in South Africa some years back when the local people turned against other African migrants. Even Kenyans were victimised then. The motive behind such sentiments in South Africa were mainly driven by jealousy because of the perceived success by mainly Kenyan Somali migrants. That is why even minister Moses Wetangula had to intervene in the case of South Africa. Therefore let's refrain from such unfounded allegations.

Simba Simba

Sent from my BlackBerry

From: odhiambo okecth
Date: Sat, 23 May 2009 01:09:44 -0700 (PDT)
To: mulembe; mwananchi; ; ; Nation; Nation TV; ; Africare- NewPublications; News Desk; ; progressiveminds; Standard; Sunday Standard; ugandacom; VOU; ;
Subject: [YP_Ke] Nairobi has been invaded
Nairobi has been invaded 22nd May 2009

I wish someone was a little truthful with the state of the Kenyan affairs.

We have just been given a down cast economic state of affairs. Kenya recorded a 1.7% growth last year. Most of this was in the construction sector. And this is what put me off. How can there be growth in the construction sector when there is an economic meltdown? Is this money genuine? Is this money that is powering the construction industry clean money?

In the US, the economic meltdown is being felt heavily on the housing industry and the US government is doing something to cushion the home owners from imminent loses. On the contrary, our government is recording growth in the construction industry at a time we all know there is a problem. And our government is doing nothing to help Kenyans who are being relegated to less affluent areas, courtesy of the growth in the construction sector.

The common denominator here is that it is people of Somali origins who are powering the growth Kenya is recording in the construction industry. It is also a known fact that people of Somali origins are the major players in the Indian Ocean and in Lake Victoria where piracy is the order of the day.

Eastleigh Estate has been invaded and most of our people are being evicted by the high costs of housing from there. In Gikomba Market, South B and C, and in Komarock, the same is happening. Most Kenyans are being evicted from the areas by the exorbitant rents now being charged. In cases where rent ought to be Kshs 7,000.00 for a two bed roomed house, people of Somali origins are coming in and offering the Landlords Kshs 12,000.00 per month and they pay rent one year in advance.

Could the ransoms the Somali pirates are demanding finding its way into our construction sector? Has the government investigated the source of the Somali wealth; wealth that makes them pay exorbitant rents one year in advance? Which is this lucrative business that is only exclusive to the Somali people? How come Kenyans who are working so hard cannot make such kind of money? Some of these things do not add up, and we need an explanation from our government in defense of Kenyans.

How many Kenyans can afford such rents? No wonder the Government is recording growth in the construction industry. I would have thought the Government would be taking the interest of Kenyans at heart and protecting us from this invasion.

Could it be true that the pirates have bought the Grogan area and hired our police to protect them against the mechanics?

With all due respect, could it be money from the pirates that is driving the growths recorded in the construction industry? Or, is it drug money? What is the government doing to protect indigenous Kenyans from this affront? Or do we have people in the Kenyan Government who are part of the problem?

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--~--~------ ---~--~-- --~------ ------~-- -----~--~ ----~
REACH OVER 9,200 MEMBERS DIRECTLY BY ADVERTISING ON THIS FORUM. CHARGES ARE Ksh. 500 PER ADVERT. CALL/MPESA ON +254721663208
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "youngprofessionals _ke" group.
To post to this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke+unsubscribe@ googlegroups. com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups. google.co. ke/group/ youngprofessiona ls_ke?hl= en
Visit the LYP website at http://ypkenya. . org
Join the group on facebook at http://www.facebook .com/group. php?gid=57703506 900
Follow us on twitter at http://twitter. com/lyp_ke
-~---------- ~----~--- -~----~-- ----~---- ~------~- -~---

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail. See how.
| 28965|2009-05-24 17:39:24|Tafari khumbaka|FW: worth forwarding|

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, isosceles wrote:

From: isosceles
Subject: FW: worth forwarding
To: "isosceles" isosceles@comcast.net

-----Original Message-----
From: dwill1946@bellsouth.net [mailto:dwill1946@bellsouth.net]

To: Barbara Blersch
Subject: Fw: worth forwarding

----- Original Message -----
Subject: Fwd: worth forwarding

I usually don't send out forwards but this is a good one. It's scary . . .

I wanted to share a website with you that is a good idea to visit. It is:
http://www.familywatchdog.us/ When you visit this site you can enter your address and a map will appear with your house as the small icon of a house and red, blue,green dots surrounding your entire neighborhood. When you click on these dots a picture of a person will appear with an address and the description of the crime he or she had committed. I was really shocked at how many of these people ere in my neighborhood. The best thing is that you can show your children pictures and see how close these people live to your home or school. This site was developed by John Walsh from Americas Most Wanted. Another tool to help us keep our kids safe.
Please pass on to anyone who has families.

Gina

Brings words and photos together (easily) with PhotoMail - it's free and works with Yahoo! Mail.

| 28966|2009-05-24 19:22:33|michael mwenda|Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded|

Daniels,

Kenyan Asians is the Indian(in this case people from Indian subcontinent not native Americas) community that hassettled in Kenya. East Africa had a long historical contact with India and the Near East through the Indian Ocean trade routes. This relationship however changed when Britain carved East Africa as its colonial possession and began constructing a railway line to facilitate the exploitation of resources from the region. Africans refused to offer their labor in railway construction forcing the British to bring in Indians as indentured laborers. Many of the Indian laborers remained in East Africa even after the completion of the railway line in 1902. The Indians who remained became the intermediate class of privilege after the whites in a racial hierarchical system that the British created in Kenya. Of course, Africans were at the base of this racial ladder.. With support from the British colonial government, Indians established themselves as a merchant class, a position that they have held up-to-date.

Regarding receiving assistance from the USA to help in urban planning, I am sorry to state that this would not be of much help. The western frameworks of development have only served to perpetuate underdevelopment in Africa. Through sloppy loan agreements and aid, America and other western nations have claimed to help Africa for many years now but this help has just served to advance the relations of subordination, dependency and underdevelopment. Africa would be better positioned to do away with western crumbs that are usually characterized as aid. By divorcing itself from western mental and material dependency, Africa can rediscover its true potential and rise again to greatness like our ancestors of Kemet, Kush, Meroe, Ghana, Zimbabwe etc. Michael

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

> From: Ginger Daniels
> Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
> To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com"
> Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 5:13 PM
>
> WOW. Great response. I found it enlightening and very forthcoming. It makes sense what you have said here... especially tying the problems of Africa back to the decisions of the western colonists to carve Africa up as their own. I have always thought that most of the issues we see plastered on our TV screens in the media could be traced back to what happened in 84/85 after they supposedly banned slavery. The raped the land of its people, naturally they had to go back and rape the land and make it impossible for any potential growth or rebound to take place. I am happy to know that many of the Kenyans around the world are now going back and purchasing land there. Perhaps some of our urban and city planners here in the US and abroad will make the effort to go there and help the uncultivated and underdeveloped lands become cultivated and developed.

I am curious to know, what is a Kenyan Asian?

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: kmwenda2002@ yahoo.com
Date: Sun, 24 May 2009 10:04:53 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded

I support the sentiments expressed by Simba Simba. The kind of mischaracterization exp by Oketch about Somalis is misplaced and only goes to show the kind of intolerance that gripped Kenya. Instead of seeking informed solutions to our problems, most of us seek r simplistic, irrational claims to deflect attention from personal responsibility and to blam other. As a Kenyan living abroad, I am always wary of the kind of blame-the-weak claims by those who are looking to persecute the vulnerable minorities especially those of diffe cultures, ethnicities, or religions. In this case, it is even scandalous that someone who is claiming to be advancing the course of reconciliation and peace is perpetrating this kind intolerance. I have followed Oketchs discussion on various topical issues in Kenya and to least I have found them disturbing. To seek refuge in patriotism is a simple defeatist atti After all, what are you patriotic about? True patriotism for Africans is the belief in the ur equality of all Africans. This was the dream of the early pan-Africanists such as William D Edward Blyden, Kwame Nkurumah, Sekou Toure and Julius. It is sad that this dream has replaced by a funny, nation-centered patriotism, which defies the historical logic of state formation. It is hollow, in fact shameful to claim patriotism to the small neocolonial enti are our nations, entities that were created by a few white men who were gathered in Be 1884/85. When Oketch blames Somalis for the rise of property prices in Nairobi, he is de attention from the real villains, himself and many other Kenyans who vote corrupt crimi into office. Instead of these criminals serving jail terms for their many transgressions, th holding high offices and are responsible for formulating and executing policy. No wonde today is a nation in crisis. One of the areas that our so-called government has failed mise in urban planning. While the population of Nairobi has continued to grow at a tremendo over the recent past, the government has failed to come up with an effective policy on c planning and development. Nairobi has no infrastructure to support the kind of populati growth taking place, most of which is fuelled by the ever-increasing rural-urban migratic Without requisite infrastructure majority of Nairobis population is now crammed within mile radius of the citys CBD. It is no brainer therefore that property prices in a densely populated city will skyrocket. In addition, many Kenyans have settled all over the world.
Diaspora community in the recent past has been investing in real estate in Kenya. Prope prices therefore have risen because people earning higher incomes abroad are out pricir those who live and work in Kenya. Somali pirates have little to do with the rising propert in Nairobi. Blaming Somalis for the rising property prices is perpetuating poisonous prop by the western media that seeks to portray some people as bizarre and illogical. Michae

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

From: odhiambo okecth
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups.. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups.. com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 7:02 AM

I would have wanted to respond to a known entity.

However, your response is misplaced and without fact. I know of no Asian engaging in ma construction in the areas I talked about.

Secondly, the Somali who are engaged in property development and buy-offs in the areas talked about are people you cannot trace. Unlike the Asians who operate known businesse would like to be told the kind of businesses these people are doing.

Lastly, this in my country for which I must be proud of. I would not be proud of Kenya if powered by pirates and drug pushers pushes me out of my choice area of residence.

I will not support the kind of ethnic tensions and killings that took place in South Africa. I would also not accept pirates and drug addicts to evict me from Kenya.

A stitch in time would do.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, simba@shibli- kenya.com wrote:

From: simba@shibli- kenya.com
Subject: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV' kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKen yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" ,

"VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups.. . com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 6:17 PM

Nairobi
23 May 2009,

I think the view expressed by Odhiambi Oketch regarding Nairobi being invaded by people from Somalia is totally misplaced and is not supported by any empirical evidence. In the first place the rise in the property prices came as a result of the tremendous economic growth registered in the last 6 years under the wise leadership of President Kibaki. It was only after ODM joined the government did we start seeing a noise dive of the economy including a reduction in new property development. Just look at the media reports on loses in earnings at East African Portland and Bamburi.

Remember most of the new properties in the middle class settlement areas in Nairobi were and are being developed by Kenyan Asians many of them returning from places as far as the United Kingdom. Infact the impact of the Somali Refugees on property development can be considered negligible. Other than a few structures that have come up in Eastleigh I have not seen any other major investment in Kenya that can be attributed to the people of Somali decent.

My major concern here is that making wild unsubstantiated claims like what Odhiambo Oketch did could increase unnecessary ethnic tension and farment xenophobic feelings against a small minority group who are here to seek protection from persecution.

The linkage between the rise in the property prices and piracy is totally unfounded for several reasons. In the first place increase in property development in Kenya was registered long before we heard of piracy along the coastlines of the Indian Ocean. Secondly rise in cost of rental houses are due to other factors unrelated to Somali people. Just see other major settlements in Kenya like Nakuru or Kisumu where cost of house rent have also indicated a sharp increase in the last few years yet there are no many Somali refugees in those towns. Also, from the media reports, we gather that about US $ 100 million were raised by the pirates. This translates to roughly ksh 7.9 billion. Honestly is this money enough to cause major economic ripple in Kenya considering the fact that most of it might not even come to kenya if at all.

This xenophobic sentiments like that of Odhiambo Oketch, reminds me of what happened in South Africa some years back when the local people turned against other African migrants. Even Kenyans were victimised then. The motive behind such sentiments in South Africa were mainly driven by jealousy because of the perceived success by mainly Kenyan Somali migrants. That is why even minister Moses Wetangula had to intervene in the case of South Africa. Therefore let's refrain from such unfounded allegations.

Simba Simba

Sent from my BlackBerry

From: odhiambo okecth
Date: Sat, 23 May 2009 01:09:44 -0700 (PDT)
To: mulembe; mwananchi; ; ; Nation; Nation TV; ; Africare- NewPublications; News Desk; ; progressiveminds; Standard; Sunday Standard; ugandacom; VOU; ;
Subject: [YP_Ke] Nairobi has been invaded

Nairobi has been invaded 22nd May 2009

I wish someone was a little truthful with the state of the Kenyan affairs.

We have just been given a down cast economic state of affairs. Kenya recorded a 1.7% growth last year. Most of this was in the construction sector. And this is what put me off. How can there be growth in the construction sector when there is an economic meltdown? Is this money genuine? Is this money that is powering the construction industry clean money?

In the US, the economic meltdown is being felt heavily on the housing industry and the US government is doing something to cushion the home owners from imminent loses. On the contrary, our government is recording growth in the construction industry at a time we all know there is a problem. And our government is doing nothing to help Kenyans who are being relegated to less affluent areas, courtesy of the growth in the construction sector.

The common denominator here is that it is people of Somali origins who are powering the growth Kenya is recording in the construction industry. It is also a known fact that people of Somali origins are the major players in the Indian Ocean and in Lake Victoria where piracy is the order of the day.

Eastleigh Estate has been invaded and most of our people are being evicted by the high costs of housing from there. In Gikomba Market, South B and C, and in Komarock, the same is happening. Most Kenyans are being evicted from the areas by the exorbitant rents now being charged. In cases where rent ought to be Kshs 7,000.00 for a two bed roomed house, people of Somali origins are coming in and offering the Landlords Kshs 12,000.00 per month and they pay rent one year in advance.

Could the ransoms the Somali pirates are demanding finding its way into our construction sector? Has the government investigated the source of the Somali wealth; wealth that makes them pay exorbitant rents one year in advance? Which is this lucrative business that is only exclusive to the Somali people? How come Kenyans who are working so hard cannot make such kind of money? Some of these things do not add up, and we need an explanation from our government in defense of Kenyans.

How many Kenyans can afford such rents? No wonder the Government is recording growth in the construction industry. I would have thought the Government would be taking the interest of Kenyans at heart and protecting us from this invasion.

> Could it be true that the pirates have bought the Grogan area and hired our police to protect them against the mechanics?
>
> With all due respect, could it be money from the pirates that is driving the growths recorded in the construction industry? Or, is it drug money? What is the government doing to protect indigenous Kenyans from this affront? Or do we have people in the Kenyan Government who are part of the problem?
>
> Odhiambo T Oketch,
> Komarock Nairobi.
>
> --~--~------ ---~--~-- --~------ ------~-- -----~--~ ----~
> REACH OVER 9,200 MEMBERS DIRECTLY BY ADVERTISING ON THIS FORUM. CHARGES ARE Ksh. 500 PER ADVERT. CALL/MPESA ON +254721663208
> You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "youngprofessionals _ke" group.
> To post to this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com
> To unsubscribe from this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke+unsubscribe@ googlegroups. com
> For more options, visit this group at http://groups. google.co. ke/group/ youngprofessiona ls_ke?hl= en
> Visit the LYP website at http://ypkenya.. . org
> Join the group on facebook at http://www.facebook .com/group. php?gid=57703506 900
> Follow us on twitter at http://twitter. com/lyp_ke
> -~---------- ~----~--- -~----~-- ----~---- ~------~- -~---

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail. See how.

| 28967|2009-05-25 06:45:00|odhiambo okecth|Re: Nairobi under Invasion|
Mary and Magak have gotten the gist of my argument.

After we have been bought out, what next for Kenya?

This is a serious problem. The Government has sold a big chunk of land in the Coast Province to the Qatais. Kenya Airports Authority has sold some chunk of land off Mombasa Road to some Arabs.

And on a daily basis, Kenya is being sold off. Where does this place the future of Kenya as an independent country.

It is not about hating other people. It is about Kenya and us.

Odhiambo T Oketch

--- On Mon, 5/25/09, Mary Wakenga wrote:

From: Mary Wakenga
Subject: Re: Nairobi under Invasion
To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
Date: Monday, May 25, 2009, 12:19 AM

Hello, Country.
It is good to do business as Enock Ombuns says, and we can all sell our land to Warias and make money, but be careful we may eventually get displaced out of our own country! Once they buy it they own the land and they have a right to kick you out or make you their slaves in the end. Money will not buy you that freedom!
Please the likes of Enock needs to go slow, think hard and deeply, don't sell you birth right because money is sweet!
Worried Kenyan lady.

Magak Mimba wrote:
> the buy-out of Nairobi and other big cities in Kenya, Uganda and > Tanzania by Warias is planned. for those thinking this is no big > deal, you are in for a rude shock. with all due respect to Enock, if > we go by his line of argument, then it is no problem selling out > Kenya's heritage to the highest bidder (after all it is a free market > economy).
>
> all said, if one analyzes keenly, it will not be late before the big > cities in East Africa are bought out by the dirty monies. i happened > to have had a talk with one bitter somali national who complained to > me bitterly about lack of committment by the East African countries in > finding a lasting solution to somali problem. (I did not buy his > argument because Kenya, for example has tried as a good neighbour to > see peace coming back to somali in vain regret). the fella then told > me that they (somalis in Kenya) have decided to first buy out kenyans, > control the economy of kenya and other east african countries before > dictating the political and economic direction of these countries. i > do not know on whose behalf this guy was talking and i do want to base > my judgement on this statement. however, those in Nairobi will > testify to the fact that there is a lot of money exchanging hands > between the somali nationals and kenyan businessmen (landlords, etc) > and especially in the real property sector. these guys buy kenyan > IDs, passports and anything buyable (if there is such word). a lot > can be blamed on corruption on the part of immigration officials, the > kenyan police, land, etc. if something is not done soon, there will be > nothing left for kenyans by kenyans. i know this might not go down > well with the economists but i belief the economy of kenya should be > in the hands of Kenyas. land being one of the factors of production > it is important for the government weed out corruption and to come up > with a clear policy that would safeguard the country's future. greed > can run down the country - the global financial crisis can be traced > back to greed. Eastleigh is gone, South C is gone, Hurgham is going, > Westlands is going, buildings and businesses in the CDB are going.

> smell the coffee!
>
> two weeks ago some colleagues traveled to north-eastern and were > shocked to learn that within few days, one of the refugee camps in the > area had registered over 5,000 somali nationals as refugees. one > wonders how many entered kenya unregistered only to become kenyans > after oiling the hands of corrupt police and immigration officials. we > need prayers for this nation.
>
> - Magak Mimba
>
>
>
> On Sun, May 24, 2009 at 6:57 PM, Enock Ombuna <ombunae@yahoo.com > <mailto:ombunae@yahoo.com>> wrote:
>
> I have no problem with Warias buying Nairobi, they are investors > just like any other, Our own politicians steal money and invest it > overseas. If the 9.2 typing error scandal could have succeeded I > can guess for you where that money could have been taken, I also > can confirm to you that the money could not have remained in a > Kenyan bank.
>
> If you own a house overprice it and sell it to a Waria, use the > money to buy another land build house, overprice it and sell it to > another Waria... you will be in business. Who does not need this > money anyway?!!! as long as the Somalis continue fighting we stand > to gain 'Hasira za mkizi furaha ya Kunguru'.
>
> At the end of the day we will have developed Nairobi and we all > stand to benefit. The Architects who are designing the houses, the > Engineers who are buldings them, na pia jamaa wa mjengo will get a > piece of the cake.

>
> I remain
> Enock Ombuna
> +254 725 226457
> /* */
>
>
> --- On Sun, 5/24/09, katex john /<katexjohn@yahoo.co.uk > <mailto:katexjohn@yahoo.co.uk>>/ wrote:
>
>
> From: katex john <katexjohn@yahoo.co.uk > <mailto:katexjohn@yahoo.co.uk>>
> Subject: Nairobi under Invasion - Could Kenya be the saviour > for the Global crisis?
> To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
> <mailto:bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com>
> Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 2:49 AM
>
>
> Looking at Owicho's contribution and noting what is happening > in Real Estate Kenya is experincing a sudden inflow of money > (we don't know where from). Other countries (US and Europe > seem to be suffering an ouflow or a deficit). So while the US > mortgage industry is going down the Kenyan real estate is peaking.
>
> Looking at the Mercy train (contribution towards famine), > MPESA operations, rate of buying cars and various other > incidences there is a lot of money flowing - money which the > Central Bank may not even be accounting for. Though most of > Kenyans live below the poverty line a number of Kenyans are > able to raise huge sums of money on short notice.
>
> I know it's a paradox and as per Oparanya the economic growth > index has plummeted but still there is an external injection > of lumpsums of money (money which has not been generated > internally) thus the balance of payment for Kenya should have > gone higher in the last 3 years (unless the money can also > leave the borders as fast as it enters)...
>
> Kenya started MPESA and it worked tremendously (it was a first > of its kind worldwide). The money circulating may take time to > be legitimised but could circumstances be throwing > opportunities on us to turn around the global crisis. Might it > happen that Kenya will not actually be affected by the > economic decline? Of how much impact is the Kenyan economy in > the World, is it at level of dots?

>
> What do the Strategists and Economists think?
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --- On Sat, 23/5/09, Peter Otieno /<ayuayah2006@yahoo.com > <mailto:ayuayah2006@yahoo.com>>/ wrote:
>
>
> From: Peter Otieno <ayuayah2006@yahoo.com > <mailto:ayuayah2006@yahoo.com>>
> Subject: Re: Nairobi is under Invasion
> To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
> <mailto:bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com>
> Date: Saturday, 23 May, 2009, 3:08 PM
>
> Migosi Owicho,
> The somalis have many sources of cash- piracy included.One > thing that has made them corupt is the state of the > affairs in Somali- No goverment hence anybody can do > anything without being questioned.
> I know of so many somalis who PRINT their currencies and > then run back to somali to change it into " GENUINE > DOLLARS " which they then bring back to kenya and change > for the kenyan currency.This is due to the fact that in > Somali- nobody thinks that the somali currency can be fake > (and even if they did- there is no goverment to seal the > loopholes).This has been going on for some time now and > if coupled with now the PIRATES CASH- we are in for a > looong looooooong rude shock by the WARIAS.They will soon > buy the whole of Nairobi if not the whole Kenya for they > have MBECA!!!!!!!
> The goverment of Kenya may not do much because the > printing is done both in eastleigh and somali land.
>

> Ayuaya Masira
> Shanghai China.
>
> --- On Sat, 5/23/09, Theus Owicho /<owichot@gmail.com > <mailto:owichot@gmail.com>>/ wrote:
>
>
> From: Theus Owicho <owichot@gmail.com > <mailto:owichot@gmail.com>>
> Subject: Nairobi is under Invasion
> To: bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com
> <mailto:bidiiafrika@googlegroups.com>
> Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 1:04 AM
>
> _*Nairobi has been invaded*_*
> *_*22*_^_*nd*_ _* May 2009*_
>
> I wish someone was a little truthful with the state of > the Kenyan affairs.
>
> We have just been given a down cast economic state of > affairs. Kenya recorded a 1.7% growth last year. Most > of this was in the construction sector. And this is > what put me off. How can there be growth in the > construction sector when there is an economic > meltdown? Is this money genuine? Is this money that is > powering the construction industry clean money?
>
> In the US, the economic meltdown is being felt heavily > on the housing industry and the US government is doing > something to cushion the home owners from imminent > loses. On the contrary, our government is recording > growth in the construction industry at a time we all > know there is a problem. And our government is doing > nothing to help Kenyans who are being relegated to > less affluent areas, courtesy of the growth in the > construction sector.
>
> The common denominator here is that it is people of > Somali origins who are powering the growth Kenya is > recording in the construction industry. It is also a > known fact that people of Somali origins are the major > players in the Indian Ocean and in Lake Victoria where > piracy is the order of the day.
>
> Eastleigh Estate has been invaded and most of our > people are being evicted by the high costs of housing > from there. In Gikomba Market, South B and C, and in > Komarock, the same is happening. Most Kenyans are > being evicted from the areas by the exorbitant rents > now being charged. In cases where rent ought to be > Kshs 7,000.00 for a two bed roomed house, people of > Somali origins are coming in and offering the > Landlords Kshs 12,000.00 per month and they pay rent

> one year in advance.
>
> Could the ransoms the Somali pirates are demanding > finding its way into our construction sector? Has the > government investigated the source of the Somali > wealth; wealth that makes them pay exorbitant rents > one year in advance? Which is this lucrative business > that is only exclusive to the Somali people? How come > Kenyans who are working so hard cannot make such kind > of money? Some of these things do not add up, and we > need an explanation from our government in defense of > Kenyans.
>
> How many Kenyans can afford such rents? No wonder the > Government is recording growth in the construction > industry. I would have thought the Government would be > taking the interest of Kenyans at heart and protecting > us from this invasion.
>
> Could it be true that the pirates have bought the > Grogan area and hired our police to protect them > against the mechanics?
>
> With all due respect, could it be money from the > pirates that is driving the growths recorded in the > construction industry? Or, is it drug money? What is > the government doing to protect indigenous Kenyans > from this affront? Or do we have people in the Kenyan > Government who are part of the problem?
>
> Odhiambo T Oketch,
> Komarock Nairobi.
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
> >

--~--~---------~--~----~------------~-------~--~----~
YOU ARE IN BIDII AFRIKA GROUP

To Advertise HERE, Send Ksh 1,000 to 0726 034 530 through Mpesa. No advert will be published without payment. Reach over 24,000 direct users / members.

TO UNSUBSCRIBE, SEND BLANK EMAIL TO: bidiiafrika-unsubscribe@googlegroups.com

Follow the Moderator on Tweeter: http://twitter.com/robertalai

JOIN WANABIDII ON FACEBOOK http://www.facebook.com/group.php?gid=27690329916

Find Forum RULES on http://groups.google.com/group/bidiiafrika/web/bidiiafrika-rules

FOR FREE FORUM: http://www.wananchiforums.com
FOR VACANCIES: http://www.myafricancareer.com/
http://groups.google.com/group/bidiiafrika

Content at reader's discretion. Bidiiafrika is not liable for any injury to an institution or person since this is an open forum. The Moderators reserves the right to reject or let through any message BidiiAfrika is an Open Forum of close to 24,000 members.

-~----------~----~----~----~------~----~------~--~---

| 28968|2009-05-25 06:45:30|odhiambo okecth|Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded|
Michael Mwenda,

If Kenya is sold out and we become squatters in our country, will we have any opportunity to preach Peace, National Healing and Reconciliation?

Am talking about facts; Kenya is being auctioned on a daily basis and Kenyans seem not to be bothered. They will wake up and find that they have no place to call home, and that is the time that we will all arm ourselves and go mad.

We can avoid it now by resolving the issues at hand before they become monstrous.

It is part of our national heritage to love our country and to defend our country from all sorts of aggression, including economic aggressions.

But it will not help us any bit by keeping our heads in the sand and pretending.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com"
Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 5:13 PM

WOW. Great response. I found it enlightening and very forthcoming. It makes sense what you have said here... especially tying the problems of Africa back to the decisions of the western colonists to carve Africa up as their own. I have always thought that most of the issues we see plastered on our TV screens in the media could be traced back to what happened in 84/85 after they supposedly banned slavery. The raped the land of its people, naturally they had to go back and rape the land and make it impossible for any potential growth or rebound to take place. I am happy to know that many of the Kenyans around the world are now going back and purchasing land there. Perhaps some of our urban and city planners here in the US and abroad will make the effort to go there and help the uncultivated and underdeveloped lands become cultivated and developed.

I am curious to know, what is a Kenyan Asian?

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: kmwenda2002@ yahoo.com
Date: Sun, 24 May 2009 10:04:53 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded

I support the sentiments expressed by Simba Simba. The kind of mischaracterization expressed by Oketch about Somalis is misplaced and only goes to show the kind of intolerance that has gripped Kenya. Instead of seeking informed solutions to our problems, most of us seek refuge ir simplistic, irrational claims to deflect attention from personal responsibility and to blame the other. As a Kenyan living abroad, I am always wary of the kind of blame-the-weak claims made by those who are looking to persecute the vulnerable minorities especially those of different cultures, ethnicities, or religions. In this case, it is even scandalous that someone who is claiming to be advancing the course of reconciliation and peace is perpetrating this kind of intolerance. I have followed Oketchs discussion on various topical issues in Kenya and to say the least I have found them disturbing. To seek refuge in patriotism is a simple defeatist attitude.

After all, what are you patriotic about? True patriotism for Africans is the belief in the unity and equality of all Africans. This was the dream of the early pan-Africanists such as William Du Bois, Edward Blyden, Kwame Nkurumah, Sekou Toure and Julius. It is sad that this dream has been replaced by a funny, nation-centered patriotism, which defies the historical logic of state formation. It is hollow, in fact shameful to claim patriotism to the small neocolonial entities that are our nations, entities that were created by a few white men who were gathered in Berlin in 1884/85. When Oketch blames Somalis for the rise of property prices in Nairobi, he is deflecting attention from the real villains, himself and many other Kenyans who vote corrupt criminals into office. Instead of these criminals serving jail terms for their many transgressions, they are holding high offices and are responsible for formulating and executing policy. No wonder Kenya today is a nation in crisis. One of the areas that our so-called government has failed miserably is in urban planning. While the population of Nairobi has continued to grow at a tremendous rate over the recent past, the government has failed to come up with an effective policy on city planning and development. Nairobi has no infrastructure to support the kind of population growth taking place, most of which is fuelled by the ever-increasing rural-urban migrations. Without requisite infrastructure majority of Nairobis population is now crammed within a 15-mile radius of the citys CBD. It is no brainer therefore that property prices in a densely populated city will skyrocket. In addition, many Kenyans have settled all over the world. This Diaspora community in the recent past has been investing in real estate in Kenya. Property prices therefore have risen because people earning higher incomes abroad are out pricing those who live and work in Kenya. Somali pirates have little to do with the rising property prices in Nairobi. Blaming Somalis for the rising property prices is perpetuating poisonous propaganda by the western media that seeks to portray some people as bizarre and illogical. Michael

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

> From: odhiambo okecth
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
> To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
> Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups. com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
> Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 7:02 AM
>
> I would have wanted to respond to a known entity.
>
> However, your response is misplaced and without fact. I know of no Asian engaging in ma construction in the areas I talked about.

Secondly, the Somali who are engaged in property development and buy-offs in the areas I talked about are people you cannot trace. Unlike the Asians who operate known businesses, I would like to be told the kind of businesses these people are doing.

Lastly, this in my country for which I must be proud of. I would not be proud of Kenya if money powered by pirates and drug pushers pushes me out of my choice area of residence.

I will not support the kind of ethnic tensions and killings that took place in South Africa. But I would also not accept pirates and drug addicts to evict me from Kenya.

A stitch in time would do.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, simba@shibli- kenya.com wrote:

From: simba@shibli- kenya.com
Subject: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups. . com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 6:17 PM

Nairobi
23 May 2009,

I think the view expressed by Odhiambi Oketch regarding Nairobi being invaded by people from Somalia is totally misplaced and is not supported by any empirical evidence. In the first place the rise in the property prices came as a result of the tremendous economic growth registered in the last 6 years under the wise leadership of President Kibaki. It was only after ODM joined the government did we start seeing a noise dive of the economy including a reduction in new property development. Just look at the media reports on loses in earnings at East African Portland and Bamburi.

Remember most of the new properties in the middle class settlement areas in Nairobi were and are being developed by Kenyan Asians many of them returning from places as far as the United Kingdom. Infact the impact of the Somali Refugees on property development can be considered negligible. Other than a few structures that have come up in Eastleigh I have not seen any other major investment in Kenya that can be attributed to the people of Somali decent.

My major concern here is that making wild unsubstantiated claims like what Odhiambo Oketch did could increase unnecessary ethnic tension and farment xenophobic feelings against a small minority group who are here to seek protection from persecution.

The linkage between the rise in the property prices and piracy is totally unfounded for several reasons. In the first place increase in property development in Kenya was registered long before we heard of piracy along the coastlines of the Indian Ocean. Secondly rise in cost of rental houses are due to other factors unrelated to Somali people. Just see other major settlements in Kenya like Nakuru or Kisumu where cost of house rent have also indicated a sharp increase in the last few years yet there are no many Somali refugees in those towns. Also, from the media reports, we gather that about US $ 100 million were raised by the pirates. This translates to roughly ksh 7.9 billion. Honestly is this money enough to cause major economic ripple in Kenya considering the fact that most of it might not even come to kenya if at all.

This xenophobic sentiments like that of Odhiambo Oketch, reminds me of what happened in South Africa some years back when the local people turned against other African migrants. Even Kenyans were victimised then. The motive behind such sentiments in South Africa were mainly driven by jealousy because of the perceived success by mainly Kenyan Somali migrants. That is why even minister Moses Wetangula had to intervene in the case of South Africa. Therefore let's refrain from such unfounded allegations.

Simba Simba

Sent from my BlackBerry

From: odhiambo okecth
Date: Sat, 23 May 2009 01:09:44 -0700 (PDT)
To: mulembe; mwananchi; ; ; Nation; Nation TV; ; Africare- NewPublications; News Desk; ; progressiveminds; Standard; Sunday Standard; ugandacom; VOU; ;
Subject: [YP_Ke] Nairobi has been invaded

Nairobi has been invaded 22nd May 2009

I wish someone was a little truthful with the state of the Kenyan affairs.

We have just been given a down cast economic state of affairs. Kenya recorded a 1.7% growth last year. Most of this was in the construction sector. And this is what put me off. How can there be growth in the construction sector when there is an economic meltdown? Is this money genuine? Is this money that is powering the construction industry clean money?

In the US, the economic meltdown is being felt heavily on the housing industry and the US government is doing something to cushion the home owners from imminent loses. On the contrary, our government is recording growth in the construction industry at a time we all know there is a problem. And our government is doing nothing to help Kenyans who are being relegated to less affluent areas, courtesy of the growth in the construction sector.

The common denominator here is that it is people of Somali origins who are powering the growth Kenya is recording in the construction industry. It is also a known fact that people of Somali origins are the major players in the Indian Ocean and in Lake Victoria where piracy is the order of the day.

Eastleigh Estate has been invaded and most of our people are being evicted by the high costs of housing from there. In Gikomba Market, South B and C, and in Komarock, the same is happening. Most Kenyans are being evicted from the areas by the exorbitant rents now being charged. In cases where rent ought to be Kshs 7,000.00 for a two bed roomed house, people of Somali origins are coming in and offering the Landlords Kshs 12,000.00 per month and they pay rent one year in advance.

Could the ransoms the Somali pirates are demanding finding its way into our construction sector? Has the government investigated the source of the Somali wealth; wealth that makes them pay exorbitant rents one year in advance? Which is this lucrative business that is only exclusive to the Somali people? How come Kenyans who are working so hard cannot make such kind of money? Some of these things do not add up, and we need an explanation from our government in defense of Kenyans.

How many Kenyans can afford such rents? No wonder the Government is recording growth in the construction industry. I would have thought the Government would be taking the interest of Kenyans at heart and protecting us from this invasion.

Could it be true that the pirates have bought the Grogan area and hired our police to protect them against the mechanics?

With all due respect, could it be money from the pirates that is driving the growths recorded in the construction industry? Or, is it drug money? What is the government doing to protect indigenous Kenyans from this affront? Or do we have people in the Kenyan Government who are part of the problem?

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--~--~------ ---~--~-- --~------ ------~-- -----~--~ ----~
REACH OVER 9,200 MEMBERS DIRECTLY BY ADVERTISING ON THIS FORUM.
CHARGES ARE Ksh. 500 PER ADVERT. CALL/MPESA ON +254721663208
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "youngprofessionals _ke" group.
To post to this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com

To unsubscribe from this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke+unsubscribe@ googlegroups. com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups. google.co. ke/group/ youngprofessiona ls_ke?hl= en
Visit the LYP website at http://ypkenya. . org
Join the group on facebook at http://www.facebook .com/group. php?gid=57703506 900
Follow us on twitter at http://twitter. com/lyp_ke
-~---------- ~----~--- -~----~-- ----~---- ~------~- -~---

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail. See how.

| 28969|2009-05-25 08:31:10|michael mwenda|Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded|
Oketch, Kenya, in fact the whole of Africa has been in the process of auction to foreigners for the last 500 years ago. While the African peasants realized the gravity of the situation long time ago and began to fight for their dignity, the unimaginative African bourgeoisie, which owes its position of privilege to the structures of colonial and neocolonial dependency, is discovering the obvious too late. Instead of fighting for true liberation, the African elite has perfected the colonial survival tactics of divide-and-rule by inciting tribal hatreds, ethnic cleansing and genocides. Its true Africa is undergoing another round of colonial domination and control, but this is happening with tacit encouragement and approval of our elites. Last weeks economist.com has highlighted the new phenomenon in the article to be found at: http://www.economist.com/world/international/displayStory.cfm

--- On Mon, 5/25/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

From: odhiambo okecth
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com, youngprofessionals_ke@googlegroups.com, "progressiveminds" , "siasa"
Cc: kmwenda2002@yahoo.com
Date: Monday, May 25, 2009, 2:37 AM

Michael Mwenda,

If Kenya is sold out and we become squatters in our country, will we have any opportunity preach Peace, National Healing and Reconciliation?

Am talking about facts; Kenya is being auctioned on a daily basis and Kenyans seem not t bothered. They will wake up and find that they have no place to call home, and that is the that we will all arm ourselves and go mad.

We can avoid it now by resolving the issues at hand before they become monstrous.

It is part of our national heritage to love our country and to defend our country from all sorts of aggression, including economic aggressions.

But it will not help us any bit by keeping our heads in the sand and pretending.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

From: Ginger Daniels
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroup s.com"
Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 5:13 PM

WOW. Great response. I found it enlightening and very forthcoming. It makes sense what you have said here... especially tying the problems of Africa back to the decisions of the western colonists to carve Africa up as their own. I have always thought that most of the issues we see plastered on our TV screens in the media could be traced back to what happened in 84/85 after they supposedly banned slavery. The raped the land of its people, naturally they had to go back and rape the land and make it impossible for any potential growth or rebound to take place. I am happy to know that many of the Kenyans around the world are now going back and purchasing land there. Perhaps some of our urban and city planners here in the US and abroad will make the effort to go there and help the uncultivated and underdeveloped lands become cultivated and developed.

I am curious to know, what is a Kenyan Asian?

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: kmwenda2002@ yahoo.com
Date: Sun, 24 May 2009 10:04:53 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded

I support the sentiments expressed by Simba Simba. The kind of mischaracterization expressed by Oketch about Somalis is misplaced and only goes to show the kind of intolerance that has gripped Kenya. Instead of seeking informed solutions to our problems, most of us seek refuge in simplistic, irrational claims to deflect attention from personal responsibility and to blame the other. As a Kenyan living abroad, I am always wary of the kind of blame-the-weak claims made by those who are looking to persecute the vulnerable minorities especially those of different cultures, ethnicities, or religions. In this case, it is even scandalous that someone who is claiming to be advancing the course of reconciliation and peace is perpetrating this kind of intolerance. I have followed Oketchs discussion on various topical issues in Kenya and to say the least I have found them disturbing. To seek refuge in patriotism is a simple defeatist attitude. After all, what are you patriotic about? True patriotism for Africans is the belief in the unity and equality of all Africans. This was the dream of the early pan-Africanists such as William Du Bois, Edward Blyden, Kwame Nkurumah, Sekou Toure and Julius. It is sad that this dream has been replaced by a funny, nation-centered patriotism, which defies the historical logic of state formation. It is hollow, in fact shameful to claim patriotism to the small neocolonial entities that are our nations, entities that were created by a few white men who were gathered in Berlin in 1884/85. When Oketch blames Somalis for the rise of property prices in Nairobi, he is deflecting attention from the real villains, himself and many other Kenyans who vote corrupt criminals into office. Instead of these criminals serving jail terms for their many transgressions, they are holding high offices and are responsible for formulating and executing policy. No wonder Kenya today is a nation in crisis. One of the areas that our so-called government has failed miserably is in urban planning. While the population of Nairobi has continued to grow at a tremendous rate over the recent past, the government has failed to come up with an effective policy on city planning and development. Nairobi has no infrastructure to support the kind of population growth taking place, most of which is fuelled by the ever-increasing rural-urban migrations. Without requisite infrastructure majority of Nairobis population is now crammed within a 15-mile radius of the citys CBD. It is no brainer therefore that property prices in a densely populated city will skyrocket. In addition, many Kenyans have settled all over the world. This Diaspora community in the recent past has been investing in real estate in Kenya. Property prices therefore have risen because people earning higher incomes abroad are out pricing those who live and work in Kenya. Somali pirates have little to do with the rising property prices in Nairobi. Blaming Somalis for the rising property prices is perpetuating poisonous propaganda by the western media that seeks to portray some people as bizarre and illogical. Michael

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

> From: odhiambo okecth
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
> To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups.. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
> Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups.. com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
> Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 7:02 AM

I would have wanted to respond to a known entity.

However, your response is misplaced and without fact. I know of no Asian engaging in massive construction in the areas I talked about.

Secondly, the Somali who are engaged in property development and buy-offs in the areas I talked about are people you cannot trace. Unlike the Asians who operate known businesses, I would like to be told the kind of businesses these people are doing.

Lastly, this in my country for which I must be proud of. I would not be proud of Kenya if money powered by pirates and drug pushers pushes me out of my choice area of residence.

I will not support the kind of ethnic tensions and killings that took place in South Africa. But I would also not accept pirates and drug addicts to evict me from Kenya.

A stitch in time would do.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, simba@shibli- kenya.com wrote:

From: simba@shibli- kenya.com
Subject: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups.. . com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 6:17 PM

Nairobi
23 May 2009,

I think the view expressed by Odhiambi Oketch regarding Nairobi being invaded by people from Somalia is totally misplaced and is not supported by any empirical evidence. In the first place the rise in the property prices came as a result of the tremendous economic growth registered in the last 6 years under the wise leadership of President Kibaki. It was only after ODM joined the government did we start seeing a noise dive of the economy including a reduction in new property development. Just look at the media reports on loses in earnings at East African Portland and Bamburi.

Remember most of the new properties in the middle class settlement areas in Nairobi were and are being developed by Kenyan Asians many of them returning from places as far as the United Kingdom. Infact the impact of the Somali Refugees on property development can be considered negligible. Other than a few structures that have come up in Eastleigh I have not seen any other major investment in Kenya that can be attributed to the people of Somali decent.

My major concern here is that making wild unsubstantiated claims like what Odhiambo Oketch did could increase unnecessary ethnic tension and farment xenophobic feelings against a small minority group who are here to seek protection from persecution.

The linkage between the rise in the property prices and piracy is totally unfounded for several reasons. In the first place increase in property development in Kenya was registered long before we heard of piracy along the coastlines of the Indian Ocean. Secondly rise in cost of rental houses are due to other factors unrelated to Somali people. Just see other major settlements in Kenya like Nakuru or Kisumu where cost of house rent have also indicated a sharp increase in the last few years yet there are no many Somali refugees in those towns. Also, from the media reports, we gather that about US $ 100 million were raised by the pirates. This translates to roughly ksh 7.9 billion. Honestly is this money enough to cause major economic ripple in Kenya considering the fact that most of it might not even come to kenya if at all.

This xenophobic sentiments like that of Odhiambo Oketch, reminds me of what happened in South Africa some years back when the local people turned against other African migrants. Even Kenyans were victimised then. The motive behind such sentiments in South Africa were mainly driven by jealousy because of the perceived success by mainly Kenyan Somali migrants. That is why even minister Moses Wetangula had to intervene in the case of South Africa. Therefore let's refrain from such unfounded allegations.

Simba Simba

Sent from my BlackBerry

From: odhiambo okecth
Date: Sat, 23 May 2009 01:09:44 -0700 (PDT)
To: mulembe; mwananchi; ; ; Nation; Nation TV; ; Africare- NewPublications; News Desk; ; progressiveminds; Standard; Sunday Standard; ugandacom; VOU; ;
Subject: [YP_Ke] Nairobi has been invaded

Nairobi has been invaded 22nd May 2009

I wish someone was a little truthful with the state of the Kenyan affairs.

We have just been given a down cast economic state of affairs. Kenya recorded a 1.7% growth last year. Most of this was in the construction sector. And this is what put me off. How can there be growth in the construction sector when there is an economic meltdown? Is this money genuine? Is this money that is powering the construction industry clean money?

In the US, the economic meltdown is being felt heavily on the housing industry and the US government is doing something to cushion the home owners from imminent loses. On the contrary, our government is recording growth in the construction industry at a time we all know there is a problem. And our government is doing nothing to help Kenyans who are being relegated to less affluent areas, courtesy of the growth in the construction sector.

The common denominator here is that it is people of Somali origins who are powering the growth Kenya is recording in the construction industry. It is also a known fact that people of Somali origins are the major players in the Indian Ocean and in Lake Victoria where piracy is the order of the day.

Eastleigh Estate has been invaded and most of our people are being evicted by the high costs of housing from there. In Gikomba Market, South B and C, and in Komarock, the same is happening. Most Kenyans are being evicted from the areas by the exorbitant rents now being charged. In cases where rent ought to be Kshs 7,000.00 for a two bed roomed house, people of Somali origins are coming in and offering the Landlords Kshs 12,000.00 per month and they pay rent one year in advance.

Could the ransoms the Somali pirates are demanding finding its way into our construction sector? Has the government investigated the source of the Somali wealth; wealth that makes them pay exorbitant rents one year in advance? Which is this lucrative business that is only exclusive to the Somali people? How come Kenyans who are working so hard cannot make such kind of money? Some of these things do not add up, and we need an explanation from our government in defense of Kenyans.

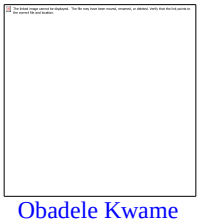
How many Kenyans can afford such rents? No wonder the Government is recording growth in the construction industry. I would have thought the Government would be taking the interest of Kenyans at heart and protecting us from this invasion.

Could it be true that the pirates have bought the Grogan area and hired our police to protect them against the mechanics?

With all due respect, could it be money from the pirates that is driving the growths recorded in the construction industry? Or, is it drug money? What is the government doing to protect indigenous Kenyans from this affront? Or do we have people in the Kenyan Government who are part of the problem?

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--~--~------ ---~--~-- --~------ ------~-- -----~--~ ----~



REACH OVER 9,200 MEMBERS DIRECTLY BY ADVERTISING ON THIS FORUM. CHARGES ARE Ksh. 500 PER ADVERT. CALL/MPESA ON +254721663208
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "youngprofessionals _ke" group.
To post to this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke+unsubscribe@ googlegroups. com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups. google.co. ke/group/ youngprofessiona ls_ke?hl= en
Visit the LYP website at http://ypkenya.. . org
Join the group on facebook at http://www.facebook .com/group. php?gid=57703506 900
Follow us on twitter at http://twitter. com/lyp_ke
-~---------- ~----~--- -~----~-- ----~---- ~------~- -~---

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail. See how.

| 28970|2009-05-26 04:24:19|Obadele Kwame Kambon|Come join me at Learn Akan Twi or Yoruba Online In One Month! Classe|

Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network

Listen. Learn. Liberate!

Obadele Kwame Kambon

Obadele Kwame Kambon has invited you to the event 'Learn Akan Twi or Yoruba Online In One Month! Classes begin week of May 25' on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network!

Become conversational in Twi or Yoruba in one month! Classes begin week of May 25th

Time: May 25, 2009 at 7pm to June 21, 2009 at 9pm
Location: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php
Organized By: Obadele Kwame Kambon

Event Description:
Learn Akan Twi or Yoruba Online In One Month! Classes begin week of May 25

http://www.abibitumikasa.com/classes.html
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html

What: You are invited to join one month (8 class) sessions of Introductory Twi or Yoruba or one month (4 class) sessions of Intermediate Twi or Yoruba.

Four Simple Steps to SUCCESSFUL registration for class:

Have you registered for the class:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/register.html

Have you submitted payment for the class:
http://www.abibitumikasa.com/payment.html

Have you registered and logged into the forums:

http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php

Have you clicked on member classroom (where the classes are held): http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

http://www.abibitumikasa.com/classes.html

Who: All Afrikan people who are serious about being Afrikan

When: Next class session begins the week of May 25, 2009 (Click here for schedule http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/calendar.php)

Monday AND Wednesday Intro Yoruba 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

Tuesday AND Thursday Intro Twi 7:00PM-9:00PM Eastern

AND

Sunday Intermediate Twi 1:00PM-3:00PM EST

Sunday Intermediate Yoruba 4:00PM-6:00PM EST

Where: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

How: To access the online member classroom, you must register for the Abibitumi Kasa site at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/register.php

You'll need to do this if you don't have an account already.

If you already have an account at the site, login at this link: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/login.php

From there click on the link to member classroom on any page at the site at class time or visit the link to the member classroom here directly at http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/chat/flashchat.php

Learn to hook up your audio and/or webcam for class and more at: http://www.abibitumikasa.com/forums/video-tutorials-how-abibitumi-kasa/

How Much: 195 USD for eight (8) class Introductory Class; 97.50 USD for four (4) class Intermediate Class; Contact us about cost of advanced individual tutorials http://www.abibitumikasa.com/contact.html

Why: Repatriation, Visit, Interacting with Family, and more. Let us know your reason for wanting to learn Afrikan languages via our Prospective Student Questionnaire http://www.abibitumikasa.com/nsemmisa.pdf

See more details and RSVP on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network:
http://abibitumikasa.ning.com/events/event/show?id=2053441%3AEvent%3A19644&xgi=4EOiHup

About Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network
Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Language and Liberation Institutes dewhitenize parts of the brain others can't reach.

370 members
535 photos
169 songs
73 videos

114 discussions
68 Events
53 blog posts

To control which emails you receive on Abibitumi Kasa Afrikan Languages and Liberation Network, click here

| 28971|2009-05-26 06:50:42|Alex van Deelen|Re: Nairobi under Invasion|
Re: Nairobi under Invasion
Posted by: "odhiambo okecth" komarockswatch@yahoo.com Mon May 25, 2009 6:45 am (PDT)

> Mary and Magak have gotten the gist of my argument.
> After we have been bought out, what next for Kenya?
> This is a serious problem. The Government has sold a > big chunk of land in the Coast Province to the Qatais.
> Kenya Airports Authority has sold some chunk of land > off Mombasa Road to some Arabs.
>
> And on a daily basis, Kenya is being sold off. Where > does this place the future of Kenya as an independent > country.
> It is not about hating other people. It is about Kenya > and us.
>
> Odhiambo T Oketch

Hi Odhiambo,

It is a toxic combination of colonial hangovers about foreigners developing the country, and the neoliberal dogma that 'government is the problem'.

The result is a class of politicians, who see their only role to facilitate the selling off of state assets for cents to the dollar, to any foreigner who comes along.

This ideology is pushed on developing countries by the IMF and World Bank, who have done the same thing in Russia, Chile, Zambia, Malawi, South Africa, etc.

In Africa, only Zimbabwe has stood up to them, and they then proceeded to destroy the national currency to create a negative example of what happens to you if you defy the IMF.

This is why Zimbabwe is so important, and why land reform has to be seen to be effective and successful. This is also why the BBC only reports anything and everything negative about Zimbabwe, no matter how thing the source.

These are the tools of neocolonialism:

- low selfesteem among the older leadership, induced by a colonial education
- preaching anti-government economics, which by default means western corporate economics
- keeping these countries poor, by keeping them from diversifying their economies away from exporting raw materials, mainly by ensuring they never have the money to do so
- not even allowing them to benefit from these exported raw materials through taxation
- killing any leader who opposes this economic model (Kwame Nkrumah, Patrice Lumumba, Laurent Kabila (murdered on the same day Lumumba was murdered - sending a message), and almost President Mugabe. First they tried to assassinate his character and fund the 'opposition' MDC.

The MDC is an interesting case to study. This is a party with no constituency in the country other than the heavy presence of white farmers/rhodesians among their ranks (David Coltart, Roy Bennett, David Joubert, etc.).

(Interestingly, David Coltart's website describes him as 'a human rights lawyer since his return to the country in 1983', but makes no mention of his service in the notorious British South Africa Police or BSAP during the racist Ian Smith's UDI. The BSAP by the way were big fans for waterboarding. His colleague Roy Bennett is a former Selous Scout.)
http://davidcoltart.com/

The MDC's economic ideology is exactly the same as that of the IMF, not suprisingly. They are all about the selling out of state assets to their corporate cronies.

It is very clear who is ready and willing to sell out Africa's raw materials for nothing, because they get support from the western media, no matter how corrupt the election that got them to power.

(Bingu wa Mutharika in Malawi, Rupiah Banda and before him Levy Mwanawasa and Frederick Chiluba in Zambia, or Mwai Kibaki in Kenya.

" Washington suppressed Kenyan exit poll to keep Kibaki in power"
http://gowans.wordpress.com/category/kenya/

" US Government Report Undermines Zimbabwe Opposition's Claim of Independence " http://gowans.wordpress.com/2008/10/04/us-government-report-undermines-zimbabwe-opposition%e2%80%99s-claim-of-independence/

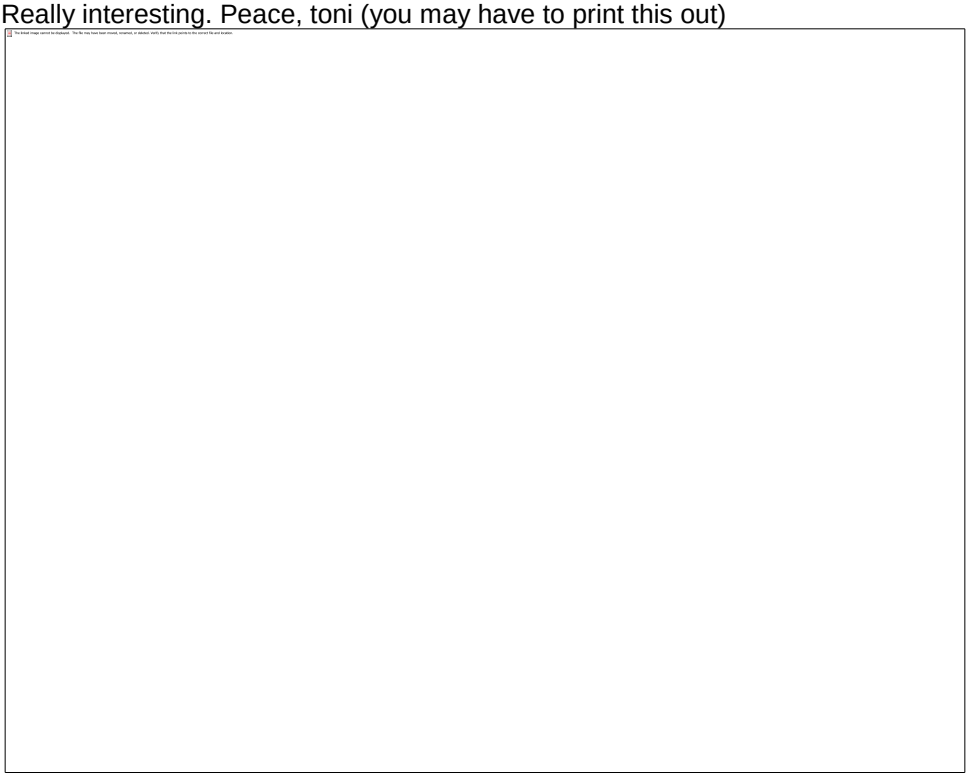
Alex
| 28972|2009-05-26 09:14:37|Tafari khumbaka|european zionist|
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zNpZX3d2BrI
click above



Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28973|2009-05-26 09:16:55|Tafari khumbaka|Fw: New video Lecture by Dr. Molefi Asante|

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Tue, 5/26/09, JavaJohari@aol.com wrote:
>
> From: JavaJohari@aol.com
> Subject: New video Lecture by Dr. Molefi Asante
> To: AUSAR65@aol.com, diaporadoll@hotmail.com, dkofie@yahoo.com, alandas@nsightmemphis.com, feferachelle227@yahoo.com
> Cc: Afrikannubian@aol.com, hlasaunders@bellsouth.net, sailizenzele@yahoo.com, neosoulville@gmail.com, Yo_Gary17@hotmail.com, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com, lisalardell8@yahoo.com, oojamaa@gmail.com, sadio.butterfly@Yahoo.com, adansteele@yahoo.com, vrainette@Yahoo.com, Tony.a.jones@hotmail.com, kmorrow78@hotmail.com, angela-morrow@comcast.net, phildwallace@hotmail.com
> Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 12:24 AM
>
> Greeting From Java, Juice & Jazz: next time you are in, view Dr. Molefi Asante's Video on Deciphering the > Heiroglyphs or the Medu Netcher, written originally as Mdw Ntr, meaning, words of god or mother nature.

Really interesting. Peace, toni (you may have to print this out)

We found the real 'Hotel California' and the 'Seinfeld' diner. What will you find?
Explore WhereItsAt.com.

| 28974|2009-05-26 09:19:41|cristofori whitakara|Re: where's king solomon?|
thanks you for your insight. your thoughts are greatly appreciated as it gives a more in depth science behind the description. I asked about him being light skinned nubian because from the description in the verses being discussed that is what it seemed to be to me.

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, tafari_sudra@yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com, maatcollective@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 2:24 PM

Light skinned nubian,?,,, adam/adom is usually rendered red by many theologians.
red is not necessarily adesignation of race among the ancients , in the stories and what is found in archaeological works/digs, red is a demarcation of spirituality across the whole planet wheter China or America etc... among all peoples red is a symbol of life coming from the earth,.
People in ancient times were intrigued with how they got red ocher from iron deposits and use it in ritual and even among many as a daily skin coloring.
Ra arose from the earth and his blood and tears and semen is what he made his people from, and all people know they are his descendents from their red blood and many take red from the earth as a way of showing what Ra came from; and is still in the earth and alive in his progency.

Adam from Atum is another Ra risen from the earth who is the first man of the Hebairu/hebrews and his immediate progency are therefore in the minds of the hebrews the kings of the earth the first people of god/yvh elohim shvayh and own the placeadam arose from .
Red is a distinct mark of spirituality for ancient peoples .
Also note that Sedth/Set/Sut was red and Ausar/Wsir/Osiris was Black, themost holy places of Ancient Egypt where in Sedth/ the south(where we get the word south) and althought the royal line always came from Taseti (south land) the place ofred Sedth and its the Red crown of the Sud/seth/Ta- seti/Tazeti that came to the north and established the two lands and designed all the delta down to memphis as the red crown lands and giving the lands south of memphis to Ausar the white crown .
Heru became the keeper of both crowns he was given Sethi red crown and inheirted his fathers white crown.
Thered crown descended from Ra toSetdh symbolise's Ra's Blood and the white crown Ra's sperm given to Ausar.
Hence in my viewone of the reasons theKing of kings began to use Ra nomens along with the 4 othernames;, that is too say they got the act of Ra's making (mankind) politically- symbolically literally economically in daily practice, with the uniting of the two lands by Shekhem Ur Shekhem Meni-Aha in fact bringing the mythology too life by mirroring heaven.
The mythe of Jakub and Isaac is the retelling of the aforemention mythe of Ausar and Sedthe this would make Jacob/Yakub the red one and Isaac the black; and maybe they(scribes and habiru masters) wanted the two essences in their king david mythe(plagirised lie).

The two brother stories of enlil and Galgimesh is the same.
The two brother stories of Rama and Krishna is the same.
The two brother stories in the Navaho are the same and the story of Obatala descending on his golden chain (missing one link) and making mankind while drinking red wine is the same telling of The Ra story.
please note: these are my views, and opinions,, especially the meaning of the crowns and several other details; .....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/21/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 21, 2009, 5:17 PM

according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM

usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---

all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
---------- --------- -
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.

of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481

king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28975|2009-05-26 09:26:44|cristofori whitakara|Re: where's king solomon?|
Could -omon/amon be the combination of Aum and Anu?

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 9:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.

>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>

>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?
as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28976|2009-05-26 09:27:08|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|
very observant, as there were light skinned nubians, many people of other lands were given to the priesthood as a tax payment or taken in battle, they could marry and interact in nubian/khamit life, so many children were born light skinned and it is also a natural quality of the african to have light skinned children no matter how dark the parents are occasionally.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 11:19 AM

thanks you for your insight. your thoughts are greatly appreciated as it gives a more in dep science behind the description. I asked about him being light skinned nubian because from description in the verses being discussed that is what it seemed to be to me.

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com, maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com

Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 2:24 PM

Light skinned nubian,?,,, adam/adom is usually rendered red by many theologians.
red is not necessarily adesignation of race among the ancients , in the stories and what is found in archaeological works/digs, red is a demarcation of spirituality across the whole planet wheter China or America etc... among all peoples red is a symbol of life coming from the earth,.
People in ancient times were intrigued with how they got red ocher from iron deposits and use it in ritual and even among many as a daily skin coloring.
Ra arose from the earth and his blood and tears and semen is what he made his people from, and all people know they are his descendents from their red blood and many take red from the earth as a way of showing what Ra came from; and is still in the earth and alive in his progency.
Adam from Atum is another Ra risen from the earth who is the first man of the Hebairu/hebrews and his immediate progency are therefore in the minds of the hebrews the kings of the earth the first people of god/yvh elohim shvayh and own the placeadam arose from .
Red is a distinct mark of spirituality for ancient peoples .
Also note that Sedth/Set/Sut was red and Ausar/Wsir/Osiris was Black, themost holy places of Ancient Egypt where in Sedth/ the south(where we get the word south) and althought the royal line always came from Taseti (south land) the place ofred Sedth and its the Red crown of the Sud/seth/Ta- seti/Tazeti that came to the north and established the two lands and designed all the delta down to memphis as the red crown lands and giving the lands south of memphis to Ausar the white crown .
Heru became the keeper of both crowns he was given Sethi red crown and inheirted his fathers white crown.
Thered crown descended from Ra toSetdh symbolise's Ra's Blood and the white crown Ra's sperm given to Ausar.
Hence in my viewone of the reasons theKing of kings began to use Ra nomens along with the 4 othernames;, that is too say they got the act of Ra's making (mankind) politically- symbolically literally economically in daily practice, with the uniting of the two lands by Shekhem Ur Shekhem Meni-Aha in fact bringing the mythology too life by mirroring heaven.
The mythe of Jakub and Isaac is the retelling of the aforemention mythe of Ausar and Sedthe this would make Jacob/Yakub the red one and Isaac the black; and maybe they(scribes and habiru masters) wanted the two essences in their king david mythe(plagirised lie).

The two brother stories of enlil and Galgimesh is the same.
The two brother stories of Rama and Krishna is the same.
The two brother stories in the Navaho are the same and the story of Obatala descending on his golden chain (missing one link) and making mankind while drinking red wine is the same telling of The Ra story.
please note: these are my views, and opinions,, especially the meaning of the crowns and several other details; .....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/21/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 21, 2009, 5:17 PM

according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM

usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
---
the metaphysical bible dictionary
---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.

this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28977|2009-05-26 09:33:32|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|
you should do some word searches and may could also use two good books orion mystery and The sumerians ,, also gerald massey does some reserch on the Anu of Sumer ,.
sounds like you are on the right track to me.

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 11:26 AM

Could -omon/amon be the combination of Aum and Anu?

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 9:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom refe to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase fineg also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey

> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...

> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)

> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28978|2009-05-26 09:37:18|cristofori whitakara|Re: where's king solomon?|
"or taken in battle" i remember this being discussed about sidhartha guatama(?) and him running away into india circa 500BCE after the persian invasion.

-- On Tue, 5/26/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 12:26 PM

very observant, as there were light skinned nubians, many people of other lands were giv
the priesthood as a tax payment or taken in battle, they could marry and interact in nubia life, so many children were born light skinned and it is also a natural quality of the africa have light skinned children no matter how dark the parents are occasionally.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 11:19 AM

thanks you for your insight. your thoughts are greatly appreciated as it gives a more in de science behind the description. I asked about him being light skinned nubian because fro description in the verses being discussed that is what it seemed to be to me.

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com, maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 2:24 PM

Light skinned nubian,?,,, adam/adom is usually rendered red by many theologians.
red is not necessarily adesignation of race among the ancients , in the stories and what is archaeological works/digs, red is a demarcation of spirituality across the whole planet wh
China or America etc... among all peoples red is a symbol of life coming from the earth,.
People in ancient times were intrigued with how they got red ocher from iron deposits an
in ritual and even among many as a daily skin coloring.
Ra arose from the earth and his blood and tears and semen is what he made his people fro
all people know they are his descendents from their red blood and many take red from the
as a way of showing what Ra came from; and is still in the earth and alive in his progency
Adam from Atum is another Ra risen from the earth who is the first man of the Hebairu/h and his immediate progency are therefore in the minds of the hebrews the kings of the ea first people of god/yvh elohim shvayh and own the placeadam arose from .
Red is a distinct mark of spirituality for ancient peoples .

Also note that Sedth/Set/Sut was red and Ausar/Wsir/Osiris was Black, themost holy places of Ancient Egypt where in Sedth/ the south(where we get the word south) and althought the royal line always came from Taseti (south land) the place ofred Sedth and its the Red crown of the Sud/seth/Ta- seti/Tazeti that came to the north and established the two lands and designed all the delta down to memphis as the red crown lands and giving the lands south of memphis to Ausar the white crown .
Heru became the keeper of both crowns he was given Sethi red crown and inheirted his fathers white crown.
Thered crown descended from Ra toSetdh symbolise's Ra's Blood and the white crown Ra's sperm given to Ausar.
Hence in my viewone of the reasons theKing of kings began to use Ra nomens along with the 4 othernames;, that is too say they got the act of Ra's making (mankind) politically- symbolically literally economically in daily practice, with the uniting of the two lands by Shekhem Ur Shekhem Meni-Aha in fact bringing the mythology too life by mirroring heaven.
The mythe of Jakub and Isaac is the retelling of the aforemention mythe of Ausar and Sedthe this would make Jacob/Yakub the red one and Isaac the black; and maybe they(scribes and habiru masters) wanted the two essences in their king david mythe(plagirised lie).

The two brother stories of enlil and Galgimesh is the same.
The two brother stories of Rama and Krishna is the same.
The two brother stories in the Navaho are the same and the story of Obatala descending on his golden chain (missing one link) and making mankind while drinking red wine is the same telling of The Ra story.
please note: these are my views, and opinions,, especially the meaning of the crowns and several other details; .....

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Thu, 5/21/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Thursday, May 21, 2009, 5:17 PM

according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?

--- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM

usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM

THANKS A LOT

Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?

--- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM

check out:
hebrew myth
by Gary Greenberg

Akhenaton
by Donald Redford
---
the life and times of Akhenaton
by.Arthur Weigall
---
all the books by Ahmed Osman
---
all books by Gerald Massey
---
echoes of the old dark land
Dr. Charles Finch
--- --- -
the metaphysical bible dictionary

---
the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,.
http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
my personal view is:
Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh-Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.

Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:

From: rehal orville
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM

I read that : /.../
David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."[(1)] There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "[(2)]
In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).[(3)] Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.

/.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

--- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM

http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219&d=243481
king solomon

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

| 28979|2009-05-26 12:39:48|cristofori whitakara|Re: where's king solomon?|

by robert bauval and samuel kramer, respectively?

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 12:32 PM

you should do some word searches and may could also use two good books orion mystery and The sumerians ,, also gerald massey does some reserch on the Anu of Sumer ,.
sounds like you are on the right track to me.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 11:26 AM

Could -omon/amon be the combination of Aum and Anu?

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 9:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:

>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -

> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.

> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes

for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28980|2009-05-26 12:55:11|asar_imhotep@yahoo.com|Mdw Ntr Resources I have compiled for this list|
Peace Family
I hope all is well. I am providing, for a limited time, for the list a good set of resources for the person who is serious about learning how to read Mdw Ntr as a writing script. I am providing a .zip file that contains many items you might enjoy. All of these items I am providing are Free of charge and do not infringe on any copyrights. I know as a beginner it was hard trying to find resources so that I could learn the grammar, the signs and the language. So to help the person who is starting out on their journey, I felt it necessary to compile these resources. Here is what's included in the zip file:

- 600 page Dictionarywith over 17000 words. A good way to use this dictionary is not to print it on paper but to leave it in your computer as a PDF file so that you have the full use of the SEARCH facilities of your PDF reader. With that you can look for words in the English definitions, or in the phonetic pronunciation guides. For the latter it helps to check the box for case-sensitive searching, since case is important in the MdC notation.
- Ebook on how to draw the Mdw Ntr glyphs. - Ancient Egyptian Calligraphy
- Gardiner Sign List Images
- Egyptian and Coptic fonts for your computer (windows and mac), includes a KEY to the gardiner fonts
- And the Jsesh windows software that allows you to code Mdw Ntr on your computer to create text. It is the latest version from the website. It comes with its own guide I'd advise you all to read.
- I also included 3 webpages with Egyptian names, nomes, and the Manuel de Codage for the Jsesh software.

You can find many sources and tutorials for the grammar which I did not include. The file is already 40MB. I have uploaded the files to themy website so it will only be up for a limited time. Don't want to exceed my download limit.
NOTE:
The file has been broken up into 5MB files (total 42MB). You will need a program that can unarchive all of the files in sequence. They are numbered file.001, file.002, etc. You need to open the first file and the software will do the rest. It will create one file, so it "re-members" the files together. There are 9 files total
You may not be able to click the filedirectly foryour software utilitymight notrecognize it. So what I suggest is that you open up the first file.001 file from the program itself. It will recognize it then. I recommend 7-zip because it's free. Here is the link to download unarchival software:
http://www.7-zip.org/download.html

1. Download zip software first
2. Open the 7-zip software
3. Find location on computer where you downloaded the files from Ta-Seti
4. Open the file with extension .001 FIRST
5. Extract to desired location
6. Enjoy

Here is the link (right click and save as):
http://www.asarimhotep.com/egypt/Egypt_Resources.zip.001
http://www.asarimhotep.com/egypt/Egypt_Resources.zip.002
http://www.asarimhotep.com/egypt/Egypt_Resources.zip.003
http://www.asarimhotep.com/egypt/Egypt_Resources.zip.004
http://www.asarimhotep.com/egypt/Egypt_Resources.zip.005
http://www.asarimhotep.com/egypt/Egypt_Resources.zip.006

http://www.asarimhotep.com/egypt/Egypt_Resources.zip.007
http://www.asarimhotep.com/egypt/Egypt_Resources.zip.008
http://www.asarimhotep.com/egypt/Egypt_Resources.zip.009

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

| 28981|2009-05-26 16:05:48|Tafari khumbaka|Re: where's king solomon?|
ooopp's sorry sirius mystery by temples ,, i take his spaceship stuff with a grain of salt and look at all that he's researched in a more factual manner.
yep, frazier ,. and remember the sumerians are the anu as are the 1st major city states of the tigris euphrates Ur , accad , nippur ,assur

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

> --- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> From: cristofori whitakara
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 2:38 PM
>
> by robert bauval and samuel kramer, respectively?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/26/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 12:32 PM
>
> you should do some word searches and may could also use two good books orion mystery

The sumerians ,, also gerald massey does some reserch on the Anu of Sumer ,.
sounds like you are on the right track to me.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 11:26 AM

Could -omon/amon be the combination of Aum and Anu?

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 9:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.

>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .

> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?

>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28982|2009-05-26 16:10:50|Tafari khumbaka|Re: Mdw Ntr Resources I have compiled for this list|
Tua-U!,. the laptop my person use's doesnt have but a small amt of memory but Tuau for the gift

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, asar_imhotep@yahoo.com wrote:

From: asar_imhotep@yahoo.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Mdw Ntr Resources I have compiled for this list
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 2:55 PM

Peace Family
I hope all is well. I am providing, for a limited time, for the list a good set of resources for person who is serious about learning how to read Mdw Ntr as a writing script. I am providing a .zip file that contains many items you might enjoy. All of these items I am providing are Free of charge and do not infringe on any copyrights. I know as a beginner it was hard trying to find resources so that I could learn the grammar, the signs and the language. So to help the person who is starting out on their journey, I felt it necessary to compile these resources. Here is what's included in the zip file:

- 600 page Dictionarywith over 17000 words. A good way to use this dictionary is not to print it on paper but to leave it in your computer as a PDF file so that you have the full use of the SEARCH facilities of your PDF reader. With that you can look for words in the English definitions, or in the phonetic pronunciation guides. For the latter it helps to check the box for case-sensitive searching, since case is important in the MdC notation.
- Ebook on how to draw the Mdw Ntr glyphs. - Ancient Egyptian Calligraphy
- Gardiner Sign List Images
- Egyptian and Coptic fonts for your computer (windows and mac), includes a KEY to the gardiner fonts
- And the Jsesh windows software that allows you to code Mdw Ntr on your computer to create text. It is the latest version from the website. It comes with its own guide I'd advise you all to read.
- I also included 3 webpages with Egyptian names, nomes, and the Manuel de Codage for the Jsesh software.

You can find many sources and tutorials for the grammar which I did not include. The file is already 40MB. I have uploaded the files to themy website so it will only be up for a limited time. Don't want to exceed my download limit.

NOTE:

The file has been broken up into 5MB files (total 42MB). You will need a program that can unarchive all of the files in sequence. They are numbered file.001, file.002, etc. You need to open the first file and the software will do the rest. It will create one file, so it "re-members" the files together. There are 9 files total

You may not be able to click the filedirectly foryour software utilitymight notrecognize it. So what I suggest is that you open up the first file.001 file from the program itself. It will recognize it then. I recommend 7-zip because it's free. Here is the link to download unarchival software:

http://www.7- zip.org/download .html

1. Download zip software first
2. Open the 7-zip software
3. Find location on computer where you downloaded the files from Ta-Seti
4. Open the file with extension .001 FIRST
5. Extract to desired location
6. Enjoy

Here is the link (right click and save as):

http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.001

http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.002

http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.003
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.004
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.005
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.006
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.007
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.008
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.009

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

| 28983|2009-05-26 19:17:02|Lamar Perryman|Re: where's king solomon?|
Greeting Scholars,
I would just like to say something here. I do not know how The Aramaic to Hebrew words Adam from Kadmon got translated into European Yiddish meaning Red.???
How Solomon (Sol Khamon; Sol Ankh Amon) skin complexion gets translated into Euro-Yiddish red, tan, ruddy light skin and his supposed locks get to be straight black hair like a raven.???
I do believe that there is a bit too much Euro-Jewish interpretations that have held the whole Israeli Business hostage to a select group of men who actually trace their roots to Europe or Caucasian Asia.
And Again, That is The One Single Thing about Historical Israel and The Fabricated Israel.
Try as one might, whether they be real historically or drawn from various Canaanite, Egyptian and Sumerianfigures, The actual presentation of these peoples are Black, African or African Asiatics.
Even when represented by racist or duped Caucasians, Arabs and Orientals the whole of Historical andMythological Israel is that of a Black/Africoid Nation and That is what keeps the mysteries, the hypes and the suppositions about The Israelites rolling along.
MLP.,
The Nationalists.

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 7:38 PM

by robert bauval and samuel kramer, respectively?

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 12:32 PM

you should do some word searches and may could also use two good books orion mystery and The sumerians ,, also gerald massey does some reserch on the Anu of Sumer ,.
sounds like you are on the right track to me.

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

From: cristofori whitakara
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 11:26 AM

Could -omon/amon be the combination of Aum and Anu?

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 9:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:

>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------

> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.

>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../

> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28984|2009-05-26 19:17:45|Lamar Perryman|Re: [africanclassicalhistory] Racist Arabism & fascist Islamism: Ant|

Greetings,

Sorry to do this Bro. Mahari but I will answer this one. I just happened to be online at the time.

Bro Mustapha. Take a good, good long look at history. Real history and not Fabricated Myths and Lies told by Caucasians, Arabs and even African collaborators. When Europeans entered Africa, The Coastal Nations first, One of the first things that they did and continue to do is to attack The Traditional African Spirituality Systems known as Vodun and The Shamanism. To demonize a people spiritually is to make it more effective physically.!!!

Now, my good brother Muslim, Arabs and Black African Islamic Muslims Did The Same Exact Thing for Purposes of Power .!!!

And you all still do the same things to this day. Just look at Nigeria, The Sharia Law and other parts of Western Africa. BOTH Arab Indian/African Slavelord Islam and Roman European Christianity are IMPERIAL SYSTEMS Culturally and Spiritually. You would be a Fool to look at your Own Political/Religious System called Islam and its requirements and Tell Me Otherwise Yourself. The Battle between you two Imperial, Totalitarian, All or Nothing Powers is what brought about the conditions and atmosphere Of The Tribal-Ethnic Wars that produced The Great Maafa, The West African Holocaust, The Transatlantic Slave Trade.!

You speak about Jews. Well I come out of The School of Judaism, Afro-Judaism that is or Afro-Asiatic Judaism as some call it. One thing about us and that School is that some Euro-Caucasian Yiddish or Islamic Religious Indoctrination and Fanaticism Is Not Tolerated Or Taught. In that school my brother one learns about Historical Israel, Out of Egypt and Sumeria if from anywhere at all, and not about Religious Mythological israel as taught by Euro-Caucasians and Islamic Arabs.

I mean the Social Sciences my brother which The Torah itself teaches about and talks about through and through and Not No Religion.!!!!!!!!!!

This is the Torah and its Sciences Properly Taught and Understood and Judaism as The Canaanite System and Atenism taught as a Civilization, Not a Religious belief or Myth-Filled THEOLOGY.!!!

The promblem with Indian and African Islamics is that You All Suffer from the Same Supremacy Myths and Fanaticisms that the Euro-Caucasians do and this has been just as evil and worse for Africans and Asians alike.!

I gave a little bit of my background to inform you that I am aware that being a Black person and Canaanite (Israeli, Jewish, Hebrew) is not well thought of by Black peoples in Scholarship or the Common Society as I know of. Neither byWhites or Arabs.

You see the historical Records of Africa and Asia, especially West Africa shows that Black Jews were nearly exterminated by Both The Roman Caucasians and The Arab/African Islamics. Pogroms were announced against us (Askia Muhammad for example, There are many others such as Roman Christian Spain after the fall of The Moors 1492). Other Tribes were incensed to war against us also.

What they did not know was that the Caucasians and Arab/African Islamics wanted us exterminated or enslaved and subdued because they knew that True Judaism is nothing more than The Tribal, Vodun, Ethnic, Animist system of Our Canaanite Ancestors and Identical and Similar to the Physics and Spiritual system of other Indigenous Peoples.

This Truth is another in the Arsenal of Reclamation. Now you might ask yourself why everything that Arabs do is associated with Islam and everything other Islamics do is associated with Arabism.???
You might start answering the questions yourself.!
Good Day My Brother.!
MLP,
MAFN, The Nationalists.
--- On Tue, 5/26/09, Muhammad Fatuhu Mustapha wrote:

From: Muhammad Fatuhu Mustapha
Subject: Re: [africanclassicalhistory] Racist Arabism & fascist Islamism: Anti-Copt
To: africanclassicalhistory@yahoogroups.co.uk
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 9:31 PM

Why whenever Arabs did something it will be related to Islam? Why do you think Islam got anything to do with what Atrabs are doing? How can you relate this with Qur□c injunctions?
I can only accept your criticism if you can answer the following questions for me.
First. In what way, what Bush administration did in Iraq is inrelation with Christianity. I think since America is predominantly Christians State, whatever America did or is doing is in relation with Bible.
Second. How can you explain the relationship between Turkey and Europeans Nation, in relation with Turkey's membership in EU? Is Turkey's membership blocked because it is Muslim country and EU is an appendage or at best a bastion of Biblical aphostacy?
From 18century to 20th century, Europeans came to Africa and slained millions of Africa. Since Europeans are Xtians I think you better start looking at colonialism from Biblical point of view. How many black Africans were killed during Apathied regime, which was a 100% xtians. Why nobody cared to relate this with xtianity?
What about Zionism and Israel atrocities in middle East? What is the relationship between this and Torah?
Arab affairs is their own affairs, not Islamic affairs. Please stop attacking Islam because you are jealous of its achievement.
Muhammad Fatuhu Mustapher
Nigeria.

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, Mahari Mengistu wrote:

> From: Mahari Mengistu
> Subject: [africanclassicalhi story] Racist Arabism & fascist Islamism: Anti-Copt
> To: africanclassicalhis tory@yahoogroups .co.uk
> Received: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 4:52 PM
>
> Racist Arabism & fascist Islamism: Anti-Copt
> By freedemocracy
> Racist Arabism & fascist Islamism: Anti-Copt
> The word Copt is an English word taken from the Arabic word Gibt or Gypt. The Arabs after their conquest of Egypt in 641 A.D. called the indigenous population of Egypt as Gypt from the Greek word Egyptos or Egypt. The Greek word Egyptos came from the ancient Egyptian words Ha-Ka-Ptah The word Copt or Coptic simply means Egyptian, however the Muslim population of Egypt calls themselves Arabs. In contemporary usage, the word Copt or Coptic refers to the Christian population of Egypt. The Arab's oppression led the Copts to several rebellions, [source], Coptic: an Afro-Asian language descended from ancient Egypt, and spoken by the Copts. [source]

During the rise of pan-Arab nationalism in the 1950s and 1960s, the economically prosperous Copts, who then represented 20 percent of the population but held more than 50 percent of the nations's wealth, saw their businesses and factories nationalized under the socialist government of Gamal Abdel Nasser. Many of them left as a result. [source] [source]

Cairo's poor Copts are known as "zabaleen", an Arabic name for garbage man. In Cairo there is an area with the same name where those Copts are living together with the garbage that has been collected. Copts reached this level of poverty due to the regime ruling the country in the past sixty years. [source]

From early writings, many medieval Arab writers, tended to include unsubstantiated and racist negative commentaries about the Copts. [source] A Copt i.e. a descendant of Egypt's now subjugated, ancient, pre-Arab Christian people [source]

In a statement by `copts-united' it decries: discrimination takes place through security harassment and media campaigns against Shiites, Copts and Bahais [source]

Critics argue that a Pan Arabist will always suppor Arab unity and "Islam" at the expense of non-Arab and non-Moslem peoples. one would direct and manipulate the Western taste for self criticism, and all that does is deflect the world's attention from Arab and Moslem atrocities committed against Christians, Kurds, Jews, Israelis, Coptic Christians, non-Arab Sudanese, etc. [source]

Though, current actively Anti Copt attacks stems more often from Islamism, especially by Islamic groups [source] [source] [source] [source], and persecution comes often even from Egypt's government. [source] [source] [source] [source] [source], Egyptian Reformist Thinker Tarek Heggy: `Egyptian Copts are Oppressed, Oppressed, Oppressed' [source]

Racial Arabization of Copt
From a Lecture Delivered by a Coptic Bishop In Hudson Institute, Washington (July, 2008) entitled: "The Experience of the Middle East's largest Christian community during a time of rising Islamization" , where he talked about how the Arab invasion of Egypt in 639 A.D. has altered the identity of Egypt through > Arabization and forced conversion to Islam, and the lasting impact on the Christian minority in Egypt. He said, "The Copts have been always focused on Egypt; it is our identity, it is our nation, it is our land, it is our language, it is our culture. But when some of the Egyptians converted to Islam, their focus changed away from looking to their own [language and culture]. They started to look at the Arabians, and Arabia became the main focus," adding that, "if you come to a Coptic person and tell him that he's an Arab, that's offensive., reemphasizing: We are not Arabs, we are Egyptians. Declaring: "I am very happy to be an Egyptian and I would not accept being an "Arab" because ethnically I am not." The Bishop went on to say, "that means shifting the identity of the nation, to belong to Arabism and to the widespread Arabic area and this is a big dilemma for the Copts who kept their Christianity, or, I rather say, that they kept their identity as Egyptians [who have] their own culture, that of old and real original Egypt trying to keep it, The process of Arabization and Islamization are still actively working till now upon Copts, The Bishop argued that the Egyptian culture has been taken from the Copts and attributed to the Arabs, that the process of Islamization is still on-going, and that the Christian child has "to study the history of the victorious Islamic invaders, which means that as a little kid you have to praise the Arabic troops that came to your country." [source], like Assyrians, Armenians & Jews, the Copts are of the very few middle eastern indigenous communities to be surviving the Arabs/Muslims' forcible assimilation of non-Arabs, Non-Muslims. [source]

> ===
> HTP,
> Mahari

 Yahoo! Canada Toolbar : Search from anywhere on the web and bookmark your favourite sites. Download it now!

| 28985|2009-05-26 19:17:54|Ginger Daniels|Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded|
Thank you for your response and for answering my question. Very informative, again.

As far as your response about receiving assistance from the USA / Western World... Perhaps I was not clear in what I was trying to say. I was talking about African Americans in the Urban planning field, as well as people of African descent from around the world. I am aware of the debt enslavement policies of the west, not only in Africa but many nations around the world. I was not talking about monetary assistance. I was speaking of planners with the knowledge and / or experience to come there and help solve some of the problems you are having. For example - it was said that there was a large population of people in / on a very small tract of land. This is an urban planning issue. This is what I am in school for right now. My mission, along with re-development in the inner cities here in the US, is to go to undeveloped lands in Africa and offer my assistance. Not as a representative of the US, but a member of the diaspora in an effort to stop talking and start doing.

Perhaps if I (or people like myself) cannot be of assistance to you, there are nations there that will accept my help and see that there are people of African descent around the world that are genuine and want to help, we just dont know how.

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: kmwenda2002@yahoo.com
Date: Sun, 24 May 2009 19:22:27 -0700
Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded

Daniels,

Kenyan Asians is the Indian(in this case people from Indian subcontinent not native Americas) community that hassettled in Kenya. East Africa had a long historical contact with India and the Near East through the Indian Ocean trade routes. This relationship however changed when Britain carved East Africa as its colonial possession and began constructing a railway line to facilitate the exploitation of resources from the region. Africans refused to offer their labor in railway construction forcing the British to bring in Indians as indentured laborers. Many of the Indian laborers remained in East Africa even after the completion of the railway line in 1902. The Indians who remained became the intermediate class of privilege after the whites in a racial hierarchical system that the British created in Kenya. Of course, Africans were at the base of this racial ladder.. With support from the British colonial government, Indians established themselves as a merchant class, a position that they have held up-to-date.

Regarding receiving assistance from the USA to help in urban planning, I am sorry to state that this would not be of much help. The western frameworks of development have only served to perpetuate underdevelopment in Africa. Through sloppy loan agreements and aid, America and other western nations have claimed to help Africa for many years now but this help has just served to advance the relations of subordination, dependency and underdevelopment. Africa would be better positioned to do away with western crumbs that are usually characterized as aid. By divorcing itself from western mental and material dependency, Africa can rediscover its true potential and rise again to greatness like our ancestors of Kemet, Kush, Meroe, Ghana, Zimbabwe etc. Michael

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, Ginger Daniels wrote:

> From: Ginger Daniels
> Subject: RE: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
> To: "Ta_Seti@yahoogroup s.com"
> Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 5:13 PM
>
> WOW. Great response. I found it enlightening and very forthcoming. It makes sense what you have said here... especially tying the problems of Africa back to the decisions of the western colonists to carve Africa up as their own. I have always thought that most of the issues we see plastered on our TV screens in the media could be traced back to what happened in 84/85 after they supposedly banned slavery. The raped the land of its people, naturally they had to go back and rape the land and make it impossible for any potential growth or rebound to take place. I am happy to know that many of the Kenyans around the world are now going back and purchasing land there. Perhaps some of our urban and city planners here in the US and abroad will make the effort to go there and help the uncultivated and underdeveloped lands become cultivated and developed.

I am curious to know, what is a Kenyan Asian?

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
From: kmwenda2002@ yahoo.com
Date: Sun, 24 May 2009 10:04:53 -0700
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded

I support the sentiments expressed by Simba Simba. The kind of mischaracterizati by Oketch about Somalis is misplaced and only goes to show the kind of intoleran gripped Kenya. Instead of seeking informed solutions to our problems, most of us simplistic, irrational claims to deflect attention from personal responsibility and t other. As a Kenyan living abroad, I am always wary of the kind of blame-the-weak by those who are looking to persecute the vulnerable minorities especially those cultures, ethnicities, or religions. In this case, it is even scandalous that someone claiming to be advancing the course of reconciliation and peace is perpetrating th intolerance. I have followed Oketchs discussion on various topical issues in Kenya least I have found them disturbing. To seek refuge in patriotism is a simple defeat After all, what are you patriotic about? True patriotism for Africans is the belief in equality of all Africans. This was the dream of the early pan-Africanists such as Wi Edward Blyden, Kwame Nkurumah, Sekou Toure and Julius. It is sad that this drea replaced by a funny, nation-centered patriotism, which defies the historical logic formation. It is hollow, in fact shameful to claim patriotism to the small neocoloni are our nations, entities that were created by a few white men who were gathere 1884/85. When Oketch blames Somalis for the rise of property prices in Nairobi, h attention from the real villains, himself and many other Kenyans who vote corrup into office. Instead of these criminals serving jail terms for their many transgressi holding high offices and are responsible for formulating and executing policy. No today is a nation in crisis. One of the areas that our so-called government has failed miserably is in urban planning. While the population of Nairobi has continued to grow at a tremendous rate over the recent past, the government has failed to come up with an effective policy on city planning and development. Nairobi has no infrastructure to support the kind of population growth taking place, most of which is fuelled by the ever-increasing rural-urban migrations. Without requisite infrastructure majority of Nairobis population is now crammed within a 15-mile radius of the citys CBD. It is no brainer therefore that property prices in a densely populated city will skyrocket. In addition, many Kenyans have settled all over the world. This Diaspora community in the recent past has been investing in real estate in Kenya. Property prices therefore have risen because people earning higher incomes abroad are out pricing those who live and work in Kenya. Somali pirates have little to do with the rising property prices in Nairobi. Blaming Somalis for the rising property prices is perpetuating poisonous propaganda by the western media that seeks to portray some people as bizarre and illogical. Michael

--- On Sun, 5/24/09, odhiambo okecth wrote:

> From: odhiambo okecth
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
> To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. . com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" , net-kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKenya@ yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" , "VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
> Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "siasa" , smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackList@ yahoogroups. . com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "VOA" , yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
> Date: Sunday, May 24, 2009, 7:02 AM
>
> I would have wanted to respond to a known entity.
>
> However, your response is misplaced and without fact. I know of no Asian engaging in ma construction in the areas I talked about.
>
> Secondly, the Somali who are engaged in property development and buy-offs in the areas talked about are people you cannot trace. Unlike the Asians who operate known businesse would like to be told the kind of businesses these people are doing.
>
> Lastly, this in my country for which I must be proud of. I would not be proud of Kenya if powered by pirates and drug pushers pushes me out of my choice area of residence.
>
> I will not support the kind of ethnic tensions and killings that took place in South Africa. I would also not accept pirates and drug addicts to evict me from Kenya.

A stitch in time would do.

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, simba@shibli- kenya.com wrote:

From: simba@shibli- kenya.com
Subject: [YP_Ke] Re: Nairobi has been invaded
To: youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com, "mulembe" , "mwananchi" , mwananchi@egroups. com, mwanyagetinge@ yahoogroups. com, "Nation" , "Nation TV" kenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "Africare- NewPublications" , "News Desk" , NewVisionKen yahoogroups. com, "progressiveminds" , "Standard" , "Sunday Standard" , "ugandacom" ,
"VOU" , youngkenyansforchan ge@yahoogroups. com
Cc: newvisionkenya@ egroups.com, next_kenya@yahoogro ups.com, "Abuja Nigeria" , Openyourthirdeye@ yahoogroups. com, "panafricanist" , "Publiceye" , "Royal Media" , "s smaitawi@yahoogroup s.com, "Alpha Sports" , Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, TheBlackLis yahoogroups. . . com, trueblackness@ yahoogroups. com, "citizens against violence" , "V yiffkenya@yahoogrou ps.com, "youthagenda"
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 6:17 PM

Nairobi
23 May 2009,

I think the view expressed by Odhiambi Oketch regarding Nairobi being invaded by peopl Somalia is totally misplaced and is not supported by any empirical evidence. In the first pl rise in the property prices came as a result of the tremendous economic growth registered last 6 years under the wise leadership of President Kibaki. It was only after ODM joined th government did we start seeing a noise dive of the economy including a reduction in new property development. Just look at the media reports on loses in earnings at East African Portland and Bamburi.

Remember most of the new properties in the middle class settlement areas in Nairobi were are being developed by Kenyan Asians many of them returning from places as far as the U Kingdom. Infact the impact of the Somali Refugees on property development can be consi negligible. Other than a few structures that have come up in Eastleigh I have not seen any major investment in Kenya that can be attributed to the people of Somali decent.

My major concern here is that making wild unsubstantiated claims like what Odhiambo O did could increase unnecessary ethnic tension and farment xenophobic feelings against a s minority group who are here to seek protection from persecution.

The linkage between the rise in the property prices and piracy is totally unfounded for sev reasons. In the first place increase in property development in Kenya was registered long b we heard of piracy along the coastlines of the Indian Ocean. Secondly rise in cost of rental houses are due to other factors unrelated to Somali people. Just see other major settlement

Kenya like Nakuru or Kisumu where cost of house rent have also indicated a sharp increas the last few years yet there are no many Somali refugees in those towns. Also, from the m reports, we gather that about US $ 100 million were raised by the pirates. This translates t roughly ksh 7.9 billion. Honestly is this money enough to cause major economic ripple in considering the fact that most of it might not even come to kenya if at all.

This xenophobic sentiments like that of Odhiambo Oketch, reminds me of what happened
South Africa some years back when the local people turned against other African migrants Kenyans were victimised then. The motive behind such sentiments in South Africa were n driven by jealousy because of the perceived success by mainly Kenyan Somali migrants. T why even minister Moses Wetangula had to intervene in the case of South Africa. Therefo refrain from such unfounded allegations.

Simba Simba

Sent from my BlackBerry

From: odhiambo okecth
Date: Sat, 23 May 2009 01:09:44 -0700 (PDT)
To: mulembe; mwananchi; ; ; Nation; Nation TV; ; Africare- NewPublications; News Des progressiveminds; Standard; Sunday Standard; ugandacom; VOU; ;
Subject: [YP_Ke] Nairobi has been invaded
Nairobi has been invaded 22nd May 2009

I wish someone was a little truthful with the state of the Kenyan affairs.

We have just been given a down cast economic state of affairs. Kenya recorded a 1.7% gr last year. Most of this was in the construction sector. And this is what put me off. How ca be growth in the construction sector when there is an economic meltdown? Is this money genuine? Is this money that is powering the construction industry clean money?

In the US, the economic meltdown is being felt heavily on the housing industry and the U government is doing something to cushion the home owners from imminent loses. On the contrary, our government is recording growth in the construction industry at a time we all there is a problem. And our government is doing nothing to help Kenyans who are being relegated to less affluent areas, courtesy of the growth in the construction sector.

The common denominator here is that it is people of Somali origins who are powering the growth Kenya is recording in the construction industry. It is also a known fact that people Somali origins are the major players in the Indian Ocean and in Lake Victoria where pirac order of the day.

Eastleigh Estate has been invaded and most of our people are being evicted by the high co housing from there. In Gikomba Market, South B and C, and in Komarock, the same is happening. Most Kenyans are being evicted from the areas by the exorbitant rents now bei charged. In cases where rent ought to be Kshs 7,000.00 for a two bed roomed house, peop

Somali origins are coming in and offering the Landlords Kshs 12,000.00 per month and th rent one year in advance.

Could the ransoms the Somali pirates are demanding finding its way into our construction sector? Has the government investigated the source of the Somali wealth; wealth that mak them pay exorbitant rents one year in advance? Which is this lucrative business that is onl exclusive to the Somali people? How come Kenyans who are working so hard cannot mak kind of money? Some of these things do not add up, and we need an explanation from our government in defense of Kenyans.

How many Kenyans can afford such rents? No wonder the Government is recording grow the construction industry. I would have thought the Government would be taking the inter Kenyans at heart and protecting us from this invasion.

Could it be true that the pirates have bought the Grogan area and hired our police to protec against the mechanics?

With all due respect, could it be money from the pirates that is driving the growths record the construction industry? Or, is it drug money? What is the government doing to protect indigenous Kenyans from this affront? Or do we have people in the Kenyan Government w are part of the problem?

Odhiambo T Oketch,
Komarock Nairobi.

--~--~------ ---~--~-- --~------ ------~-- -----~--~ ----~
REACH OVER 9,200 MEMBERS DIRECTLY BY ADVERTISING ON THIS FORUM.
CHARGES ARE Ksh. 500 PER ADVERT. CALL/MPESA ON +254721663208
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups
"youngprofessionals _ke" group.
To post to this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke@googlegroups. com
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to youngprofessionals_ ke+unsubscribe@ googlegroups. com
For more options, visit this group at http://groups. google.co. ke/group/ youngprofessiona ls_ke?hl= en
Visit the LYP website at http://ypkenya. . . org
Join the group on facebook at http://www.facebook .com/group. php?gid=57703506 900
Follow us on twitter at http://twitter. com/lyp_ke
-~---------- ~----~--- -~----~-- ----~---- ~------~- -~---

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail. See how.

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.
| 28986|2009-05-27 06:36:43|Tafari khumbaka|Fwd: Cobra Breath Workshop|

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, Afrikannubian@aol.com wrote:

From: Afrikannubian@aol.com
Subject: Fwd: Cobra Breath Workshop
To: tafari_sudra@yahoo.com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 8:18 PM

From: Afrikannubian
To: rjford@bellsouth.net
Sent: 5/23/2009 3:29:08 P.M. Pacific Standard Time
Subj: RE: Cobra Breath Workshop

LEARNING TO LIVE IN BLISS

June 12-14, 2009

Ipsalu Tantra Retreat Level 1

- Break through your Limitations. Uncover your Authentic Self.
- Open and surrender your self to infinite Love.
- Discover life to be spiritual and orgasmic simultaneously.
- Free and channel sexual energy to higher levels of awareness.
- Learn the Cobra Breath technique to safely activate unlimited energy.
- Ipsalu Kriya Tantra awakens sex to beauty & more.
- Learn to combine your spirituality with your sexuality.

It is joy beyond words. Most people leave the workshop immersed in bliss. You can live this way all the time by just removing the obstructions. In meditative space and flowing with primal energy, something Divine happens. You embody God. Sexual energy is a powerful tool for awakening True Self. Ipsalu Tantra gives you exquisite time-tested techniques for learning to live in bliss.

Antoinette &Richard Asimus

Founders ofTantra Heart, Level 4 Ipsalu Tantra Teachers, Senior Teaching Faculty of Tantrika International
June 12-14, 2009Friday 6pm thru Sunday 5:30pm
The HART Center, Memphis, Tennessee

 The Level 1 course is for singles and couples and all sexual orientations**
$250 per person/$225 per person for couples includes lunch Sat. and Sun., & a practiceCD
$100 deposit holds your place in the course (remainder due May 12)
Patrick Harris ~901-483-3255, afrikannubian@aol.com, Memphis area
Gabriella ~501-563-8089, gabriella@allaboutyoga.org, Little Rock area

Cancellation Policy: Registrations are non-refundable. Some parts may be transferable with some restrictions. Ask for more details.
www.allaboutyoga.org
gabriella@allaboutyoga.org

A strong credit score is 700 or above. See Yours in Just 2 Easy Steps!

A Good Credit Score is 700 or Above. See yours in just 2 easy steps!

| 28987|2009-05-27 07:24:53|Ferg|Re: nefertiti|
Could this be of interest?
shangri-la.0catch.com/ press/nefertiti.html

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Paul Kekai Manansala
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
> Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 5:31 PM
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: nefertiti
>
> For obvious reasons, we rarely see this and other legitimate portrayals of Nefertiti.

Regards,
Paul

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Ferg" wrote:
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ferg
> To: ferg@...
> Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 3:09 PM
> Subject: Emailing: E.GA.2303.1943(3)
>
>
> Queen Nefertiti, see attachment
>
> Somo
>

| 28988|2009-05-27 08:14:38|Peter Gray|Re: nefertiti|
Yes very interesting article, Ferg. While it does not conclusively prove the case,it certainly reveals the possibility, or likelihood, of fraud.

Peter

To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
From: egyptology@theunit.fsnet.co.uk
Date: Wed, 27 May 2009 15:24:33 +0100
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: nefertiti

Could this be of interest?
shangri-la.0catch. com/ press/nefertiti. html

----- Original Message -----
From: Paul Kekai Manansala
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 5:31 PM
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: nefertiti

For obvious reasons, we rarely see this and other legitimate portrayals of Nefertiti.

Regards,
Paul

--- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, "Ferg" wrote:
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ferg
> To: ferg@...
> Sent: Saturday, May 16, 2009 3:09 PM
> Subject: Emailing: E.GA.2303.1943(3)
>
>
> Queen Nefertiti, see attachment
>
> Somo
>

Hotmail has ever-growing storage! Dont worry about storage limits. Check it out.
| 28989|2009-05-27 13:16:50|Asar Imhotep|Re: Mdw Ntr Resources I have compiled for this list|
I think you will be fine. The greatest resource of all is the dictionary. It is not Budge's dictionary either. This is an up to date dictionary that will come in handy when you are looking for words to read a primary text. Although it is a large database (17,000 + words), the file itself is only 6MB which is not a lot. Pdf files do not use up a lot of memory, so again, I think you will be fine on your end.
Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimhotep.com

BANTU

MOCHA-Versity

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Mdw Ntr Resources I have compiled for this list
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 6:10 PM

Tua-U!,. the laptop my person use's doesnt have but a small amt of memory but Tuau for t

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, asar_imhotep@ yahoo.com wrote:

From: asar_imhotep@ yahoo.com
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Mdw Ntr Resources I have compiled for this list
To: ta_seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 2:55 PM

Peace Family
I hope all is well. I am providing, for a limited time, for the list a good set of resources for person who is serious about learning how to read Mdw Ntr as a writing script. I am provid
.zip file that contains many items you might enjoy. All of these items I am providing are F charge and do not infringe on any copyrights. I know as a beginner it was hard trying to fi resources so that I could learn the grammar, the signs and the language. So to help the pers who is starting out on their journey, I felt it necessary to compile these resources. Here is included in the zip file:

- 600 page Dictionarywith over 17000 words. A good way to use this dictionary is n print it on paper but to leave it in your computer as a PDF file so that you have the use of the SEARCH facilities of your PDF reader. With that you can look for word the English definitions, or in the phonetic pronunciation guides. For the latter it hel check the box for case-sensitive searching, since case is important in the MdC nota
- Ebook on how to draw the Mdw Ntr glyphs. - Ancient Egyptian Calligraphy
- Gardiner Sign List Images
- Egyptian and Coptic fonts for your computer (windows and mac), includes a KEY

gardiner fonts

- And the Jsesh windows software that allows you to code Mdw Ntr on your computer to create text. It is the latest version from the website. It comes with its own guide I'd advise you all to read.
- I also included 3 webpages with Egyptian names, nomes, and the Manuel de Codage for the Jsesh software.

You can find many sources and tutorials for the grammar which I did not include. The file is already 40MB. I have uploaded the files to themy website so it will only be up for a limited time. Don't want to exceed my download limit.

NOTE:

The file has been broken up into 5MB files (total 42MB). You will need a program that can unarchive all of the files in sequence. They are numbered file.001, file.002, etc. You need to open the first file and the software will do the rest. It will create one file, so it "re-members" the files together. There are 9 files total

You may not be able to click the filedirectly foryour software utilitymight notrecognize it. So what I suggest is that you open up the first file.001 file from the program itself. It will recognize it then. I recommend 7-zip because it's free. Here is the link to download unarchival software:

http://www.7- zip.org/download .html

1. Download zip software first
2. Open the 7-zip software
3. Find location on computer where you downloaded the files from Ta-Seti
4. Open the file with extension .001 FIRST
5. Extract to desired location
6. Enjoy

Here is the link (right click and save as):

http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.001
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.002
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.003
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.004
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.005
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.006
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.007
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.008
http://www.asarimho tep.com/egypt/ Egypt_Resources. zip.009

Ancestrally,

Asar Imhotep
http://www.asarimho tep.com

| 28990|2009-05-27 19:57:53|odhiambo okecth|Youth wa Koma, Youth wa Emba, Youth wa Nairobi|
Youth wa Koma, Youth wa Emba, Youth wa Nairobi,

On 13th June 2009, we will be hosting the 2nd Edition of the KCDN Peace Run at Montanat/Calvary Grounds. It will be flagged off by the DC Nairobi East District.

This is an Initiative of Komarocks Community Development Network [http://kcdnkomarockswatch.blogspot.com] and the Youth of Komarock have come in a big way. They are helping out with the logistical arrangements and they will be the main drivers on this day. Visit our blogspot to see more of what we have done.

Under the able leadership of Tony and Edu, I will just guide the process. All plans and execution will be in the able hands of you people; Kwani when do you want to lead?

I am also excited at the prospects of having the sound system powered by Homeboyz. We are still in discussions and I know the best will come out of it. We must also support Homeboyz because it is also an enterprise powered by the youth for the youth. I am exploring if the Homeboyz can also bring their banners into this as co-sponsors.

Let us mobilize big time for this day and show case the world that we believe in Peace, National Healing and Reconciliation. Our Theme will remain; Peace, National Healing and Reconciliation with a bias to the Kenyan Child.

Lastly, I must thank all the youth leaders who came to my office last Friday 22nd May. To all the 31 of you, it is your time. You represent a big force out there. We must all join hands and shape Kenya to what we want. We can afford to leave in Peace with all our neighbours. We can afford to champion National Healing and Reconciliation for a tribalism free Kenya.

Yes, we can.

It is our time, let us seize it. And forward this out to as many friends.

Blessings,

Odhiambo T Oketch,

CEO KCDN Nairobi.

Tel; 0735 529 126, 0724 365 557.

| 28991|2009-05-28 04:49:32|Tafari khumbaka|nabta playa|

Nabta Playa: The Oldest and Most Important Astronomic al Site in the World Vandalized

The Oldest and Most Important Astronomic al Site in the World Vandalized : Neo-Barbar ians at Nabta Playa, Egypt
About one hundred miles west of Aswan in the Sahara Desert lay an archaeolog ical site called Nabta Playa. Only ten to eleven feet in diameter, this megalithic calendar circle has a north/sout h line-of-si ght as well as a summer solstice sunrise alignment. According to former NASA physicist Thomas G. Brophy, Ph.D., three stones inside the circle mirror the pattern of Orions belt at the meridian for this season during the period 6400 to 4900 B.C. Three other interior stones represent the shoulders and head of the constellat ion for the astounding ly early date of 16,500 B.C.

Another set of megaliths south of the circle align to the vernal equinox heliacal rising in 6300 B.C. of six of key stars of Orion: Alnitak, Alnilam, Mintaka (the belt), Betelgeuse , Bellatrix (the shoulders) , and Meissa (the head). This vernal equinox heliacal rising happens only once per precession al cycle (25,920 years).

http://www .theorionz one.blogsp ot.com/

Other related links:

http://www .planetque st.org/lea rn/nabta.h tml

http://www .comp-arch aeology.or g/WendorfS AA98.html

- Flag
-
- By Urraqmen_Peshu
- Member
- 1 day ago
- 131 Posts

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

| 28992|2009-05-28 07:44:16|cristofori whitakara|Re: where's king solomon?|
how are these statements broken down?
10: My beloved is white and ruddy, the chiefest among ten thousand.
11: His head is as the most fine gold, his locks are bushy, and black as a raven.
12: His eyes are as the eyes of doves by the rivers of waters, washed with milk, and fitly set.
13: His cheeks are as a bed of spices, as sweet flowers: his lips like lilies, dropping sweet smelling myrrh.
14: His hands are as gold rings set with the beryl: his belly is as bright ivory overlaid with sapphires.
15: His legs are as pillars of marble, set upon sockets of fine gold: his countenance is as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars.
16: His mouth is most sweet: yea, he is altogether lovely. This is my beloved, and this is my friend, O daughters of Jerusalem.

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, Lamar Perryman wrote:

From: Lamar Perryman
Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 5:35 PM

Greeting Scholars,
I would just like to say something here. I do not know how The Aramaic to Hebrew words Adam from Kadmon got translated into European Yiddish meaning Red.???
How Solomon (Sol Khamon; Sol Ankh Amon) skin complexion gets translated into Euro-Yiddish red, tan, ruddy light skin and his supposed locks get to be straight black hair like a raven.???

I do believe that there is a bit too much Euro-Jewish interpretations that have held the whole Israeli Business hostage to a select group of men who actually trace their roots to Europe or Caucasian Asia.
And Again, That is The One Single Thing about Historical Israel and The Fabricated Israel.
Try as one might, whether they be real historically or drawn from various Canaanite, Egyptian and Sumerianfigures, The actual presentation of these peoples are Black, African or African Asiatics.
Even when represented by racist or duped Caucasians, Arabs and Orientals the whole of Historical andMythological Israel is that of a Black/Africoid Nation and That is what keeps the mysteries, the hypes and the suppositions about The Israelites rolling along.
MLP.,
The Nationalists.

--- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:

> From: cristofori whitakara
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 7:38 PM

> by robert bauval and samuel kramer, respectively?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/26/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 12:32 PM
>
> you should do some word searches and may could also use two good books orion mystery The sumerians ,, also gerald massey does some reserch on the Anu of Sumer ,.
> sounds like you are on the right track to me.
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Tue, 5/26/09, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> From: cristofori whitakara
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com

Date: Tuesday, May 26, 2009, 11:26 AM

Could -omon/amon be the combination of Aum and Anu?

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 9:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>

>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------
> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.

>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.
> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?

> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28993|2009-05-28 11:12:23|cristofori whitakara|Re: to:shutefnut, where's king solomon?|

i found this to be interesting that when i looked up the words to my question was amun/omon possibly the combination of the two wors Aum and Anu that i came across another word yamanu and this word seems to be the combination of Yam(sea) and Anu or the sea of anu? i then looked up the mdu ntchr for amun and it was rendered imn with the symbol above. so then i wondered about the wavy lines...does it symbolize water (yam) and couldn't figure out what the rectangular square above it was? i know the "flag" represent a neter, could that be Anu?

--- On Sat, 5/23/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:

From: Tafari khumbaka
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: to:shutefnut, where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups.com
Date: Saturday, May 23, 2009, 2:02 PM

Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka

--- On Fri, 5/22/09, shutefnut wrote:

From: shutefnut
Subject: [Ta_Seti] Re: where's king solomon?
To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
Date: Friday, May 22, 2009, 8:11 PM

-HOTEP!

Are we talking about Soloman, also translated Sol: meaning (Sun), and Omon: or (Amon)?

-- In Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com, cristofori whitakara wrote:
>
> according the a hebrew-english lexicon (crosswalk) the word was admoniy or adom referring to his light skin complexion i suppose this because in the following verses thephrase finegold is also used to refer to his complexion meaning to me that he had a yellowish red (light skin nubian) complexion? Another word used in those verses is Bushy. Acoording to the same lexicon the hebrew word taltal is used meaning he had wavy black(raven) hair?
>
> --- On Tue, 5/19/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Tuesday, May 19, 2009, 3:40 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> usually theologians say because the bible calls him ruddy..... they say the hebrew word can be translated reddish .
>
>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com

> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 11:19 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> THANKS A LOT
>
> Who can explain how jewish priests now say Jacob, David were likely to have red hair?
>
> --- On Mon, 5/18/09, tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com wrote:
>
>
> From: tafari_sudra@ yahoo.com
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Monday, May 18, 2009, 12:29 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> check out:
> hebrew myth
> by Gary Greenberg
> ------

> Akhenaton
> by Donald Redford
> ---------
> the life and times of Akhenaton
> by.Arthur Weigall
> -----------
> all the books by Ahmed Osman
> ----
> all books by Gerald Massey
> -------
> echoes of the old dark land
> Dr. Charles Finch
>
> ---------- --------- -
> the metaphysical bible dictionary
> ----------
>
> the site that wassent, does an excellent job of naming AmenHetepIII as the mythical solomon,. http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction? as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
>
>
>
> I personally take a lil bit from each writer aforementioned astoo surmise plausible plagirism of hebrew scribe and masters.
>
> my personal view is:
>
> Akhen-Aton and Amen_hetep III and the lives of most of the18Th dynasty Kingsmake up the mythicallife of solomon.
>
> the Great Queenmother/ Royal wifeofTut-Ankh- Amen is the mythical Queen of the Sheba(it's not Queen Sheba but queen of the sheba/Saba.) and her life is confused by the hebrew scribe who is also writing about Queenmother Het-Shep-Sedth of the 18th dynasty.
>
> Tehuti-mesh III is the mythical David of the hebrews.
>
> Akhen-Aton isthe mythical moses of the hebrews andthe life of joshua was taken from Ay andHor-em-Heb.
>
> Akhen-Aton's life is also the life of their moses and it is the 18th dynasty that the people called Shasu eventually become Israel come together as onepeople and began to create a myth for themselves seperating themselves from the peoples of the region as God's chosen to inheirate allthe lands of the people already there.
>
> Many of the psalms of the bible are taken word for word from the writings of Akhen-Aton.

> until the rise of the religion of Aton the name of God for the Shasu tribes(mercenaries of Tehuti-Mesh III) who lived in northeastern khamit was Yvh/EL/Bel/Yah/ Daud but with the rise of Aton and during thetime of Moses/Akhu-en- Aton God was then called Adon (in hbrw and khmit d and t are interchangable) .
>
> in the 18th dynasty there are 5 King of kings(pharoahs) who have the name Moses=msh/mesh.
>
> solomon's temple is the city of Akhet-Aton and the exodus is Akhu-En-Adonai/ Akhen-Aton run from anc. egypt leaving to save his life with lepers/followers of Aton/Adonai, ...
> he left in his stead his brother{or son} Smen-khara to rule as civil ruler and himself as spiritual leader (left hoping to return).
>
> Akhu-n-Adonai' s return was in the reign of sethi II who was a king in the old area of Avari and Zaru-Kha the entrance into Anc.E. from the east.
> this area was the city(Zaru-Kha) given to his mother by his father Amenhtp III, and one of his places of refuge,. At the rise of King Sethi I too the position ofKing of kings of the two lands AkuenAdonia returned and presented his rod of snakes that ate(poetic language) the scepters of (Pharoah) King of kings Setdhi I.
> Sethi I and co-ruler Ra-Mesh I are the Kings who drove the Isralite's(shasu) completely out of ancient khamit all the way to the far north with Ramesh II sealing the actwith the war of Armaggedon (Heru-magi-Adonai) at Ka-Desh much like a pass King of Kings Tehuti-Msh III in the same region.
>
> of course the the meshu=moses= moshe of the line of Msh 18 and 19 dynasty kings never got to see his promised place he promised to Israel a kingdom for them due to his Ra bloodline .
> I would "GUESS" the son of Adonai probaly died at Sera-bit-El khadim (sera-sara-zera) where the golden calf of The Goddess Het-Hert had a temple complex .
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>
> --- On Sun, 5/17/09, rehal orville wrote:
>
>
> From: rehal orville
> Subject: Re: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: Ta_Seti@yahoogroups .com
> Date: Sunday, May 17, 2009, 2:19 AM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
> I read that : /.../
> David and Solomon are portrayed in the Bible as two of the greatest kings of the ancient world. However, no trace of their empire has ever been found in Palestine. It is a period curiously missing from the archaeolog ical record of the region. Quoting from the book, Archaeolog y of the Land of the Bible, "The Bible is the only written source concerning the United Monarchy, and it is therefore the basis of any historical presentati on of the period."(1) There is such a complete void of external sources that the archaeolog ist, author and leading authority on the era, Donald Redford, writes in frustratio n that "such topics as the foreign policy of David and Solomon, Solomon's trade in horses or his marriage to Pharaoh's daughter must remain themes for midrash and fictional treatment. "(2)
> In contrast, archaeolog y has confirmed the reigns of all other great kings of the ancient world mentioned in the Bible, and some of the later, lesser kings of of Judah and Israel (namely, Omri, Ahab, Jehu, Pekah, Hosea, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Mannasseh, and Uzziah).(3) Conservati ve Biblical scholars believe that it is only a matter of time before concrete evidence of the reigns of David and Solomon is found as well. As will be discussed, concrete evidence for David and Solomon already exists, and comes from the very place one would least expect to find it.
>
>
> /.../ SO who were they, can you give their Egyptian names and the links to us?
>
>
> --- On Sat, 5/16/09, Tafari khumbaka wrote:
>
>
> From: Tafari khumbaka
> Subject: [Ta_Seti] where's king solomon?
> To: maatcollective@ yahoogroups. com
> Date: Saturday, May 16, 2009, 4:07 PM
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> http://affiliate. kickapps. com/service/ displayDiscussio nThreads. kickAction?as=35927&w=125219& d=243481
> king solomon

>
>
>
> Tafari-sudra, Khumbaka
>

| 28994|2009-05-28 12:56:00|Tafari khumbaka|congo, worst place on earth?|

Rape-Free Cellphones [All Things D]
Gizmodo Wed, 27 May 2009 16:24 PM PDT
There's a rare material used in cellphones that is mined in the Democratic Republic of Congo. The material, columbite tantalite, is mined by workers under inhumane conditions, including rape. Now,...

Eve Ensler Calls for Cruelty Free Cellphones
AllThingsD Online via Yahoo! Finance Wed, 27 May 2009 12:19 PM PDT
On May 13, 2009, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee held a hearing called Confronting Rape and Other Forms of Violence Against Women in Conflict Zones. Its purpose: to end the use of rape as a weapon of war in the Eastern Democratic Republic of Congo--a place where 1,100 women a month are raped, in

Tafari-sudra,Khumbaka

|